Governor Landon Alone In Republican Contest To Head Party's Ticket

Rivals of Kansas Governor Withdraw Names from Race

EXPECT VOTING BE HELD TONIGHT

Name of Col. Frank Knox on All Tongues for Vice Presidential Nomination

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 11.—(AP)—With the nomination of Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the presidency conceded on all sides the Republican convention struggled into late hours today to compose its platform differences to name a ticket and get back home.

Both Col. Frank Knox of Illinois and Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan were mentioned as most likely for the vice presidential nomination, but Vandenberg has said repeatedly he would not accept. He urged Knox.

They and all the other erstwhile rivals of "the sunflower candidate" decided not even to have their names presented for president.

Senator William E. Borah, who has been a big figure in the convention, still would not say whether he would compete for the ticket.

He seemed satisfied with the platform draft as it stood before the debate—but said "the candidate is the platform."

The fifth session had to be recessed until mid afternoon before the long awaited platform was ready.

The policy committee finally left any direct mention of the gold standard and made no recommendation for a constitutional amendment for state minimum wage legislation.

Governor Landon's views had been followed to the last minute, but they were overridden on the amendment suggestion.

Borah won out for a declaration against joining the League of Nations or the World Court and a pledge to attack the monopoly problem.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 11.—(AP)—The Republican convention edged toward a Landon-Knox ticket for the campaign to unseat the New Deal.

One after another of the rivals of Governor Alf M. Landon withdrew their names, leaving the Kansas alone in the field.

Senator Borah of Idaho, released the 21 Wisconsin delegates pledged to him and his 10 from Oregon, Senators Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Lester Dickinson of Iowa already had given up.

The name of Colonel Frank Knox of Illinois was on all tongues for the vice-presidential nomination.

Charles G. Dawes, an Illinois delegate, said that Colonel Knox had released his votes to allow them to swing over to Landon.

While the tide swept on the fifth session of the convention itself beat time, waiting for the platform committee to report. Hopes were to begin the floor debate by early afternoon and possibly name the presidential ticket tonight.

The last big unstructured delegation, California's, met during the excitement and although no poll was taken at least 40 of the 44 were listed for Landon.

Laboring without sleep, the resolutions committee had progressed far in the drafting of a tentative platform which made a special bow in the direction of Senator Borah.

There was no official announcement about the platform's contents, but reports from high sources said that the monetary planks called for a sound currency but without referring to the gold standard denounced by Borah.

Another plank would take an anti-monopoly stand considered emphatic enough to win approval of Borah.

Whether the platform would contain a proposal for a constitutional amendment to permit states to pass minimum wage laws was in a state of much uncertainty.

FIRST BALLOT VICTORY SEEN FOR LANDON

Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas (above) will, in all probability, be selected the Republican standard bearer for the presidential campaign when delegates to the national convention begin balloting on the national ticket, expected tonight. One by one rivals of the Kansas governor withdrew their names from the list of candidates for Republican presidential nominee, leaving Landon the only candidate in the field. MEEKINS FAVOR LANDON

Tar Heel Delegates to Cast Their Votes For Kansan

Cleveland, June 11.—(AP)—Federal Judge I. M. Meekins of Elizabeth City today was removed from the list of "favorite son" candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

Thomas Dixon, North Carolina author, who was to nominate the jurist, said he would not offer Meekins' name because of the imminence of Governor Alf M. Landon's nomination on the first ballot.

"I think the nomination of Governor Landon should be made by acclamation," Dixon said. "I will not put Judge Meekins' name in nomination."

Although the North Carolina delegation has been almost solidly behind Landon from the start of the convention, eight delegates were pledged to cast a first ballot complimentary vote for Judge Meekins.

How-ever, Judge Meekins had given instruction to release them if the first ballot nomination of another candidate was imminent.

Drought Suffering Southern Sections Are Encouraged

Promise of General Rains Revive Hopes of Areas Where Long Drought Broken by Bad Storms

Memphis, Tenn., June 11.—(AP)—A measure of hope returned to southern farmers today with the promise of general rains on sun-withered crops, already damaged to the extent of $135,000,000.

The severe drought was broken in the mid-south yesterday when a wind and electrical storm swept dust, hail and rain over east Arkansas, Tennessee, northern Mississippi and northern Alabama.

Two deaths were attributed directly and two indirectly to the storm that caused hundreds of dollars of property damage.

Houses were unroofed, trees blown down and electrical and communication facilities disrupted by the storm over a wide area, but few injuries were reported.

U. S. PRINTS TONS OF PAPER TO PAY SOLDIERS' BONUS

Washington (AP)—Preparations to pay $500,000,000 World war veterans bonus bonds totaling $1,224,000,000 beginning June 15 presented the federal bureau of engraving and printing with a stupendous job.

One hundred and twenty-five tons of paper were required for printing.

The same process used in the printing of currency was employed. The bonds are printed in black on white paper with a greenish tint and are featured by an engraving of Andrew Jackson.

Printing was the greatest job for the federal bureau of engraving and printing has had in its history.

The first bond was printed on February 26, 1936, by Robert V. Montgomery, a veteran, employed at the bureau.

A total of 25 presses, working at full speed beginning February 26, were needed to have the bonds ready for delivery.

Folger Slated Be Named National Committeeman

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, June 11.—(A. D. (Lon) Folger of Surry county, who was state campaign manager for Sandy Graham in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor, is now regarded as the most likely choice for National Democratic Committeeman from North Carolina to succeed C. LeRoy Shuping of Greensboro, who is not expected to be re-elected to that post after the state's 52 delegates to the Democratic National Convention are selected here tomorrow by the delegates to the State Democratic Convention in the district caucuses preceding the main convention.

Reports also indicate that Miss Beatrice Cobb of Morganton, Burke county, will be re-elected National Committeewoman without opposition, unless some last-minute opposition develops that is not now anticipated. The fact that Miss Cobb had not served a complete term having been elected by the State Democratic Executive Committee to fill out the unexpired term of Mrs. T. Palmer Jarman and the fact that Miss Cobb has been a satisfactory to all factions in the party indicate that she will be re-elected without any difficulty.

Despite the fact that J. M. Broughton of Raleigh, Angus Dhu McLean of Raleigh, but formerly of Washington, N. C. and Washington, D. C. where until recently he was Solicitor General of the United States and Jonathan Daniels' son of Josephus Daniels, the present ambassador to Mexico, are all regarded as receptive candidates for National Committeeman, the prevailing belief in the better informed circles is that Folger will be elected without opposition.

Farmers Lay Plans For Tobacco Day On July 30

MAP SCHEDULE EDW. A. O'NEAL

Hutson and McNeal to Address Meeting Next Month

Approximately 1,200 farmers, mostly members of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, gathered here yesterday for a picnic rally and laid plans for a mass meeting in Raleigh July 30, at which time Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and J. B. Hutson, administration agricultural expert, are scheduled for addresses.

At a business session preceding the general meeting it was decided to call county meetings to name three delegates to attend the Raleigh session to elect from their number a new State Tobacco Advisory committee.

The Advisory committee will work with the administration on a farm program which contemplates taking over the Soil Conservation program and compact legislation. The committee at present is headed by Claude T. Hall of Wooddale. While no major changes are contemplated, the announced aim is to give the committee the full backing of farmers in the state. E. P. Arnold, Bureau secretary, said the action was taken in answer to criticism by Governor Ehringhaus that the board was self-appointed.

At the various county mass meetings the Farm Bureau will put on active campaigns to increase its membership. While the meetings are being sponsored by the Farm Bureau, it was emphasized they were for all farmers, as will be the meeting in Raleigh the last of July.

Mr. Arnold said July 30 would be known as "Tobacco Day" and efforts would be made for the meeting to be an even bigger success than the mass meeting held here in the Spring.

It also was announced that a permanent North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation would be set up.

BUTCHERS IN PARIS STRIKE

Capital Faces Meat Shortage As Result of Walkouts

Paris, June 11.—(AP)—Strike threats from wholesale butchers gave labor-vexed Paris the prospect of a meat shortage today.

Hardly had a widespread cafe and restaurant strike ended in a workers' victory when the wholesale butcher shop union announced its own would stop work tomorrow unless their demands were met. All retail shops employing more than six men already were closed by the strike epidemic.

Gun play in Versailles added to the strike-tension. Electric current in Dunkirk was shut off by a general strike in the city and on the waterfront. Suspension of gas and water services was feared.

Leon Blum, the new Socialist premier, got an icy reception on his first visit to the Conservative Senate.

Hundreds of striking workers marched in mass formation past the Chamber of Deputies waving red flags.

The leftist cabinet decided to ask for immediate power to free political prisoners pending discussion of an amnesty.

L. S. Spence of the Greenville Floral Company, yesterday brought to this office a large number of full-grown, ripe tomatoes which were grown on his farm near Greenville.

The tomatoes were the first to be seen here this year. Mr. Spence said he had 500 plants on his farm and that all of them were bearing.

BLACK LEGION ACTS LEAD TO MOTOR PLANTS

Trail of Terrorism Is Traced Into Three Large Companies

MEMBERS LINKED TO LABOR SPIES

Automobile Inspector Charged with Being Night Rider Found Carrying Card

Detroit, June 11.—(AP)—The trail of Black Legion terrorism led into three large Detroit automotive plants today.

Frank Rice, an investigator for the Packard Motor car company plant, and four men in two other automotive factories were among five men held as members of a Black Legion "intelligence squad" accused of burning the home of a suspected communist.

Matthew Smith, general secretary of the mechanics educational society, a union of tool makers, said that Rice was discovered in a closed meeting of the society two years ago.

"We searched him," Smith said, "and he had membership cards in the M. E. S. A. society, the American Federation of Labor and the communist party. He finally admitted he was a member of some kind of an anti-communistic citizens committee.

Smith's disclosure recalled a recent assertion by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the night riders, worked closely with "labor spies."

Compensation For Two Selma Widows Allowed By Board

State Industrial Commission Grants Compensation to Families of Fertilizer Plant Victims

Raleigh, June 11.—(AP)—The state industrial commission announced today awards of $7 weekly for 350 weeks as death compensation benefits to the widows of Lem Perry of Charleston, S. C., and Charlie Durham of Selma, negroes, who died last month upon inhaling acid fumes at a Selma fertilizer plant.

L. G. Missell of Charleston, foreman of the group of eight men affected by the fumes was awarded $18 weekly for the duration of temporary disability. Four surviving negro were awarded $7 weekly each for periods of temporary disability.

Awards for the death of Alfred Cooper and Junius Austin were withheld temporarily.

Only Slight Injuries In Automobile Wreck

Charlie Simmons of Crisp and Jesse Daniel, Greenville negro, were arrested by Corporal L. L. Jackson last night following a wreck three miles West of Falkland about 8:30 o'clock.

The two are being held on charges of reckless driving.

Corporal Jackson said his investigation showed that Simmons was parked on the left side of the highway and that Daniels, driving recklessly, ran into the car. Daniels suffered lacerations of the arm and bruises, while Jordan Wilson Negro, owner of the car driven by Daniels, suffered minor injuries. Simmons was not injured at all.

McDonald Camp Sure Of East In Second Primary

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, June 11.—The managers and workers for Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in his headquarters here confident he can defeat Clyde R. Hoy in a second primary, several of them indicated here today, although some of them indicated that the outcome of a second primary was "merely a gamble."

"We feel that Dr. McDonald is in a very strong position and will be nominated by a decisive margin in a second primary," one of his campaign staff members said today.

"We have been getting letters and telegrams by the hundreds from former supporters of Sandy Graham that they were now for McDonald and would vote for him in a second primary. We also feel that in many ways it is a good thing that McDonald ran second rather than first, since now those managers and workers who were overconfident before the first primary and so sure he would run ahead that they lay down on the job, will get busy and really do some work. We are not at all discouraged, but only more determined than ever to see to it that McDonald will be nominated."

There has been a steady stream of McDonald supporters to and from his headquarters for several days, including R. V. R. Lawrence, president of the State Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders. Many county and district managers have also come into headquarters for personal conferences with Campaign Managers W. L. Lumpkin and I. T. Valentine.

Many of those in McDonald headquarters here are still scratching their heads and wondering what happened in the dozen or more

Sales Tax Issue Looms As Big Factor In State Democratic Convention

TRIBUTE PAID TO PIONEERS

President Roosevelt Speaks to Crowd at Houston

Houston, Texas, June 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt paid tribute to pioneers on the battlefields of San Jacinto today, asserting "liberty-loving people will always do battle for principles they believe to be right."

He spoke at the site where Sam Houston defeated Santa Anna. "Men who fought here for principles they loved more dearly than their own lives," Roosevelt said "Civilization has not made it unnecessary for men to die in battle to sustain principles. It is however, my hope that in this generation the United States by its wonderful example can maintain and help to maintain principles by means of peace rather than means of war."

"The patriot whose memories are honored today that fired the colonies in 1776. . . .

"It is easy therefore to share with you the pride which you take in San Jacinto—to share with you the fine thought of dedicating this field as one of the historical shrines of America."

Aboard Roosevelt train en route to Dallas, Tex., June 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt rode into Texas today pledged to continuation of his efforts to solve economic and social problems under the "broad purposes" of the constitution.

The chief executive gave this message to the nation last night in Arkansas just before resuming a 4,000 miles western tour that called for brief addresses today in Houston, San Antonio and Austin.

Tomorrow morning at Dallas at the celebration of Texas' Centennial of Independence from Mexico the chief executive will deliver the second set speech of his trip.

Addressing an open air Arkansas Centennial through at Little Rock late yesterday, the president declared the constitution of the government extends beyond state lines and added:

"Under its broad purposes we can and intend to march forward, believing as the overwhelming majority of Americans believe, that it is intended to meet and fit the amazing physical economic and social requirements that confront us in this generation."

Sumrell Requests A Second Primary For Commissioner

Announces He Will Engage Frank Kirkpatrick in Run-off For Fifth District Board Member

Dr. G. H. Sumrell, second high man for county commissioner from the fifth district in Saturday's primary, announced today he would call a second primary against Frank M. Kilpatrick, high man for the post.

S. I. Dudley, who trailed Walter Cherry for membership on the board from the First district, declared yesterday he would enter a second contest.

Only one other candidate in last Saturday's primary is glibble to demand a run-off. W. Luke Mills ran second to Grover Smith in the race for constable for Choctaw township. While he has not made any definite public announcement, it is understood that Mr. Mills will not request a run-off for the post.

Unless the candidate decides to run, Pitt county voters will go to the polls Saturday, July 4, to cast their ballot in only two county contests.

Headquarters of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, who was eased out of first position in the gubernatorial race by Clyde R. Hoy by less than 5,000 ballots, have said the erstwhile college professor will call a second primary. A run-off was likely for the lieutenant governorship between Paul Grady and H. P. Horton, two high men in the contest. Indications from Raleigh were that these would be the only two state contests in the second primary.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER
Cleveland, June 10.—Republican revolutionists are not so concerned over building a platform as they are in framing a political coffin for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Political carpenters like William Allen White, ex-Senator Henry J. Allen and Gaspar Bacon of Massachusetts hammer each nail with gleeful machiavellian wit.

The tentative platform, of course, spouts the traditional political lingo. It sets forth the high and noble policies which a Republican administration will pursue if entrusted with the "destiny of this great nation in these momentous days."

Leaders Choose Nominees, Delegates Make Whoopee

Actual Convention Business Carried on by Chieftains

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Time changes all things—except national political conventions. The 1936 model is as unexplainable, as unbelievable, as full of noise and lovely fictions as was its predecessor a generation ago.

Those who try to follow convention proceedings from a distance never will know what a sense of unreality hovers over them. Words cannot describe, nor can the ether waves convey, the weird and wholly irrational spirit of the occasion.

The Republicans have met at Cleveland, marching and cheering. Sooth the Democrats will meet at Philadelphia, cheering and marching. All to what purpose?

Presumably, to perform as solemn and sacred a duty as ever falls to the lot of American citizens—to choose party nominees and lay down pledges of policy for the highest offices in the land. Actually, to carry out, with as little solemnity and as much ballyhoo and hysteria as possible, the decisions the respective leaders have made for them.

The platforms are written by a few men. The nominees either are selected beforehand, or chosen finally at conferences small enough to be held in hotel bedrooms. Ninety-five per cent of the delegates who have come great distances for the event might as well have stayed at home.

Except, of course, that they do have a wonderful time—measured by the special standards of enjoyment which apply at national conventions, and nowhere else.

They listen enraptured to blaring bands which, under ordinary circumstances, they would not cross the street to hear. They howl themselves hoarse at oratorical bromides too feeble to stir a town meeting.

They rush hither and yon on errands which sound screwy, and usually result in nothing. They whisper meaningless gossip as they stand propped against one another in teeming hotel lobbies at those small hours of the night when, at home, they never would dream of being out of bed.

Of course all of this can be explained on the theory that each great party is entitled, once in every four years, to forget its manners and its inhibitions, and go night-club in a big way. Only it does seem a strange moment to choose, in view of the responsibilities of a national convention, for making whoopee.

And another strang thing about it is that, by and large, most of these adventures turn out very well. More often than not, capable men are nominated, and commendable platforms are adopted. That is because the real work has been done in advance, or else in quiet seclusion somewhere nearby after the riot started.

This general system of convention procedure, adhered to year after year by Republicans and Democrats uniformly, does have the virtue of making things a little easier for the newspaper reporters.

After attending a few of the quadrennial parties, any good newspaperman knows most of the story by heart. He could have written the above about Cleveland or Philadelphia, about 1936 or 1916 or 1906, and had it ready beforehand. He would be familiar with the atmosphere, and the decorations, and the trend of events from day to day if he met them in the dark.

So far as the Cleveland convention is concerned, it also has followed the well-established Republican precedent of developing differences between the old guard and the liberals. How serious this schism will turn out to be in the campaign no one ever knows, and no one knows now.

Likewise, Cleveland has reproduced that time-honored bit of Republican drama centering around differences over the farm relief plank and a few other parts of the platform. This is according to Hoyle, and a Republican convention hardly would be complete without it.

Finally, as is customary with both parties, it will remain for the pres-

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Part of the platform upon which Democrats rely is building up steadily—in the statistical reports showing improvement in industry and business.

Republicans and anti-New Deal industrialists already have attempted to undermine the Democrats' claim to credit, however, by asserting the improvement is the natural rebound of business using its own resources to get out of the depression, not the result of administration recovery efforts.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation, stated this position at the recent meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, when he said that while trade was improving it was impeded by fear of federal restraint.

"The attempts to translate emergency measures into a permanent condition of bureaucratic domination and control by government," he said, "have properly alarmed our people. . . People have come to realize that unless this condition is corrected, a real and lasting prosperity is not obtainable."

Democrats scoff at such arguments and merely continue to let newspaper headlines write that part of the "platform." Samples:

Retail sales for the last week of May moved 10 to 16 per cent ahead of the same week a year ago.

Automobile output was estimated at 109,821 units compared with 65,675 in the corresponding week of 1935.

Net operating income of a representative group of large railroads for April was 16.8 per cent above April a year ago.

A bit of trade news that should be particularly pleasing to builders of the Democratic platform is a summary showing the demand for beyond seasonal expectations for summer home furnishings. These include porch and garden equipment, fancy window shades and user rugs. That sort of spending represents pleasure money.

Perhaps even more satisfying to Democrats' platform builders, as evidence of long range industrial improvement, is a report of rising rents over the nation. An index of wide circulation records a rental increase of more than 20 per cent since a post-depression rise was first noticeable early in 1934.

To market analysts, steadily increasing rent represents a stimulus to building. It means to them that when rents reach a point where the home owner, store owner or factory operator can build for the same outlay as his rent, naturally he will build.

Stimulating construction has been one of the greatest difficulties faced by President Roosevelt in his efforts to speed up the durable goods industries.

Before the campaign is well along moreover, the buying wave expected to follow payment of the soldiers' bonus June 15 will have been further reflected in trade indices.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic keynoter, frequently has practiced the "hymn of profits" in the senate, and it is not likely he will miss a chance to weave it into his address at Philadelphia.

Senator Borah's charge of misuse of national committee funds in the Ohio campaign raised some interesting possibilities but brought no expressions of fear of trembling from those at whom it seemed to be aimed.

It recalled to Republicans whose memory went back to 1920 that a somewhat similar gesture by Borah was one of the brakes that stopped General Leonard Wood and Frank Lowden in their drive for the nomination.

General Wood was leading the pre-convention campaign when Borah brought about a senate investigation of campaign expenditures. Various sources indicated supporters of General Wood had spent upwards of a million dollars while about half that much was listed in the Lowden disbursement column.

It evidently rankled in the minds of the delegates for neither candidate was able at the convention to gather many more votes than he had had on arriving. Warren G. Harding finally was nominated.

Regardless of the effect of the activities of Mr. Borah and his associates on the heading progress of Governor Landon of Kansas, the Landon legion long ago feared Borah support was lost.

Walter F. Broyn, former postmaster general, mentioned by Borah in his statement about the "misused" $20,000, has been a target before of the Idahoan's darts. In 1932 Borah declared Broyn and Ogden L. Mills, then secretary of the treasury, friends of the supposedly non-committal liquor plank, were "uncompromisingly for repeal." Both denied it.

The best information in Washington indicates Senator Norris will run for re-election in Nebraska—and, of course, that if he runs he will be re-elected.

He will have to campaign as an independent—he forsook the Republican nomination—but that is no handicap under the Nebraska style of ballot which lists Democrats, Republicans and Independents all together.

There is no system for voting "straight tickets" by merely putting a cross in a ring at the head of the party column. Voters wishing to vote "straight tickets" must go down the list and pick out the ones marked "Republican," "Democratic," "Independent," or otherwise. That style of ballot was adopted by the Nebraska legislature in 1935.

Its advocates say it has the advantage of preventing one strong candidate on a ticket from coasting a flock of weaklings into office.

Helen Morgan in 'Show Boat.' The two songs generally identified with Helen Morgan, "Bill," and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," are again sung by her in the Universal production of "Show Boat," which comes to the Pitt Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Miss Morgan plays the role of Julie in "Show Boat," the same role that brought her fame when the Edna Ferber story was presented on the New York stage. Other members of the featured cast, in addition to the star, Irene Dunne, are Allan Jones, Charles Winninger, Helen Westley, Paul Robeson and Sunnie O'Dea. James Whale directed.

CRAZY BARN DANCERS TO PAY GREENVILLE A VISIT. On Saturday night, June 13th, in the High School auditorium here, the Saturday night show of the Crazy Water Crystal company called their Crazy Barn Dance will be broadcast.

These entertainers are coming to Greenville as the guests of the local Post American Legion and the local tribe of Red Men. The program beginning at 8:30 will be relayed to Raleigh and broadcast from WPTF. In addition to the show, Mayor M. K. Blount will deliver a short address.

This event is being put on to give Greenville state-wide publicity and it is expected that the people will give their endorsement and support to it.

The entire cast of the show includes around twenty-five people and no doubt they will have splendid attendance. Division of this show bids fair to being even more so.

Efforts are underway to get a place on the broadcast for some local talent. It was stated.

Tucker-McLawn. Mrs. Charles McLawn announces the marriage of her daughter Myrtle to Mr. Leon Warren Tucker on Tuesday, June the ninth Nineteen hundred and thirty-six Winterville, North Carolina At Home after June twenty-fifth Greenville, North Carolina

Winterville, N. C., June 11. — A wedding ceremony marked by dignity and simplicity and witnessed only by members of the immediate families was that of Miss Myrtle McLawn, daughter of Mrs. Charles McLawn and the late Charles McLawn of Winterville, to Leon W. Tucker of Greenville. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother at ten o'clock Tuesday morning. Rev. E. H. Canady, the bride's pastor, officiated, using the ring ceremony. He was assisted by Rev. R. F. Pittman.

The vows were spoken in the living room before an improvised altar of palms and ferns flanked with tall baskets of pink gladioli. Preceding the ceremony a musical program was rendered consisting of Schumann's "Traumerlei," played by Mrs. R. F. Pittman; of Ayden; Stult's "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," sung by Miss Mary Ida McLawn, sister of the bride, and Cadman's "At Dawning," by Rev. R. F. Pittman, with Mrs. Pittman accompanying the selections. Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used as processional and recessional, and "To A Wild Rose," by MacDowell, was used during the ceremony.

The bride was becomingly attired in a Molyneux model of navy blue shadow sheer crepe, fashioned on Princess lines with a tunic coat trimmed with blue fox. Her vogue hat of blue sheer braid trimmed with ribbon and veiling, matched the shoes and bag. She wore gloves of gold doekin, blending with the lovely corsage of Talsman roses and valley lilies that were worn across the front of the bride's ensemble.

Following a wedding trip through the Shenandoah Valley and other points of interest, Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will be at home in Greenville.

Mrs. Tucker received her education at Meredith College and the Southern Conservatory of Music at Durham, from which she graduated in piano. Mr. Tucker is a well-known and prominent business man of Pitt county, where he has extensive farming interests.

Twenty-Three Cents Off. McAllen, Tex. Many Old Graduates At Summer Session

President Meadows at the first assembly hour of the Summer School this morning in his welcome to the students announced that the enrollment had gone beyond five hundred. Among these he found so many old graduates, both from the four-year and two-year courses, as well as other students who have not yet achieved degrees or diplomas that instead of making a speech of welcome he felt tempted to go back to the "good old days," but instead he called upon them to join with the faculty and officers in making the new-comers feel at home here also. Most of the new students are from other colleges, some of them holding A. B. degrees. He extended to the students the invitation from the staff to call on them whenever they need anything, as the members of the faculty and officers are here "to serve," following the school motto.

Dr. Meadows announced the series of social affairs and entertainments that will add greatly to campus life during the summer. The first of these will come this evening at 6:45, a "Get-Acquainted" social. Among the attractions he announced are moving picture shows every Saturday night, barbecues, swimming parties, and public entertainments every week. Other events will be announced from time to time.

Miss Eugenia Thomas, director of Public School Music, will organize a summer school chorus. When she called for hands of those interested in joining it, the majority of those present responded. The chorus will be organized at the assembly hour tomorrow morning.

Miss Sallie Joyner Davis called attention to the rooms in Austin Building set aside for study.

up at the Raleigh meeting to replace the temporary organization now in effect.

W. R. Ogg, executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, delivered the chief address at yesterday's meeting, declaring "we must re-establish the voice of agriculture in the councils of state and nation."

The rally was held in the form of a picnic at the Third Street School grounds. At the morning session, presided over by G. E. Revathan, vice-president of the Pitt Farm Bureau, Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker spoke on "Pitt County Farm Women's Program." Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, made a short talk, and Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon made an address.

J. E. Winslow, chairman of the State Farm Bureau, presided over the afternoon meeting at which Dean I. O. Schaub discussed "North Carolina's Present and Future Farm Program" and Junius Grimes of Washington spoke on "Tobacco Control Legislation." Short talks of others from all parts of the United States and Canada, will receive their first information as to Philco's sales and advertising plans for the coming year.

were also made by Congressman John H. Kerr, Congressman Graham Barden and E. P. Arnold.

In his keynote address, Ogg told his hearers that "we must preserve and strengthen the Agriculture Adjustment Act to maintain a fair balance between agriculture and industry; we need to reduce the terrific cost of distribution; we need to establish a commodity dollar which will serve as a fair medium of exchange and benefit all people instead of the money changers."

Ogg also called for new transportation policies "which will protect the public interest instead of promoting monopoly interests" and asserted that "we need to cut out the Monte Carlos in the marketing of grain and cotton and other basic commodities so that supply and demand will determine price levels."

He told his hearers that the Farm Bureau offers farmers the ideal instrument to unify the forces of agriculture and guide public policies in State and nation. "The program farmers are now enjoying the benefits of today, is the result of the 15-year struggle led by the Farm Bureau. The Bureau offers its facilities to the farmers of America to unify them and enable them to regain their rightful place in our national life.

"We invite the support of every farmer. The time is urgent. The enemy is organizing for battle. We must not fail. The welfare of agriculture for generations to come is at stake. Let us mobilize every farmer under the banner of the Farm Bureau to fight with united strength for the preservation of economic justice to agriculture."

The immediate legislative aims adopted at the meeting were to make plans for handling the market situation in case tobacco prices fall and to secure adequate legislation to control the movement of scrap tobacco.

The future legislative program, as outlined at the meeting, is to secure state statutes to take over the national conservation program in 1937. The Bureau also will continue in its efforts to secure compact legislation in this state in order to cooperate with other tobacco-growing states in controlling tobacco production.

The national program of the Bureau was announced as aiming at securing appropriations to conduct the soil conservation program and of secure inter-state legislation protecting compact in the various states in the movement of interstate shipments of tobacco, and permitting the secretary of agriculture to make state allotments.

BOY IN HIDING

"I TOLD Pipolo everything," Hope went on, "and asked him to take Roddie and me to Finland with him. I told him about Torrobin, and how Roddie wasn't to blame, and how he had kept straight as long as I was near him—sober, too. And he knew how Roddie and I could ride. I said we would bring Bowie, too; that Bowie was being boarded at a stable in Jersey, and he would go over and get him."

They hope that their platform acceptance of some of his ideas will lead him into more generous, more abundant, more liberal promises, and pledges. It is their secret aim to necessitate a Rooseveltian marriage with new doctrines which they can brand as "radical," "communist" and "anti-American."

ing talks. But this year most of the trouble makers are in the Roosevelt camp. They didn't spend carfare to attend the Cleveland convention. They're in such a state of mind—Messrs. Norris, Johnson, La Follette, Couzens, et al—that they may not spend three cents to read newspaper accounts of what we're doing and writing here.

Strangely enough, the G. O. P. s adopting rules and regulations far more liberal than it ever wrote when the most eloquent Progressives thronged the resolutions committee's chamber. The forward move is due, partly, to pressure exerted by the not notable Progressive on the scene—William Edgar Borah—but mostly because the new party leaders—the boys and girls—sense that they must respond to changing times and tempo.

Should he desert to FDR. Republicans whisperers will pass out word that they tried to meet him halfway, but he refused to be dated up. Already the hotel corridors echo with the undercover report that he is framing the planks on monopolies and foreign policy. If he backs out later, he'll be indicted as an ungrateful renegade—again!

about their ability to put over the livest and most skillful G. O. P. campaign in years.

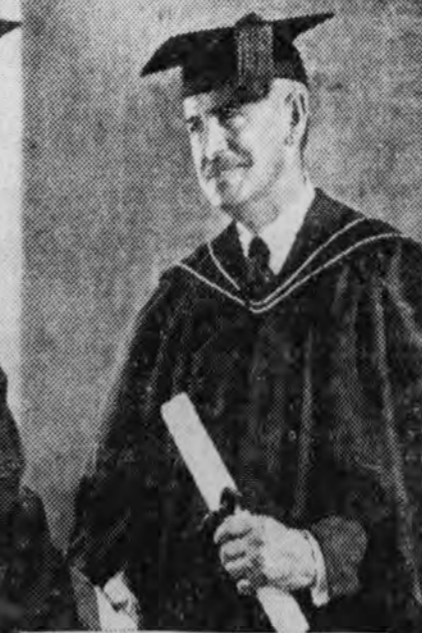

DEFEATISM: New York sharps learn that some of Senator Vandenberg's closest advisers regard him not to accept the vice presidential nomination if offered. They privately can see no chance of beating Roosevelt and they fear it would damage the Senator's future presidential aspirations to be identified with defeat.

Entirely off the record, quite a few Republicans of importance feel it would be best not to win this year even if they could. They figure a lot of economic grief is due in the next four years which will ruin 1940 prospects for the party in power. They take the long view that this year should be devoted to perfecting the party organization for a real bid four years hence.

LEEWAY: Financial insiders get word that the Federal Reserve Board is again thinking seriously of using its new power to raise the reserve requirements for member banks in order to cut down the volume of excess reserves.

This is supposed to be a weapon against inflation, and inflation certainly isn't imminent. But the point is that European uncertainties have driven a lot of "fugitive" gold to this country which is automatically added to our monetary base for credit expansion. Since this metal may leave us as suddenly as it arrived if conditions change abroad, it would be highly dangerous to allow it to be used as a credit base.

GREENIES WIN NO. 5 FROM MARTINS; SCORE 8-4

THREE HOMERS FEATURE GAME

Wagner, Farley and Brown Hit Homers For Greenville

The Greenies continued their climb to the top in standings of the Coastal Plain League at the Third Street stadium here yesterday afternoon by topping the Martins from Williamston 8-4.

This was the fifth consecutive victory and the second successive win over the Williamston bunch for the locals.

Reynolds May, former Duke University hurler did the work on the mound for the Greenies, allowing the Martins only nine scattered hits. May also exhibited his technique in getting out of close plays which the game brought about. In the seventh inning Gardner hit a fly ball which Brown misjudged and went for two bases. Gaylord and Corbett singled and a base on balls went to Armstrong with the sacks loaded. May caused Walters to fly out at first base and Black rook to the pitcher for the third out.

Black's triple and Ferrell's single in the opening frame caused two of Williamston's runs after two walks, an infield out, and an error by the locals. The Martins also got another run in the seventh inning when Gardner doubled and Gaylord singled.

The Greenies likewise started the fireworks in the first inning. Ace Parker came to the platter and was walked by Gardner, the Martin twirler, after which time Ty Wagner stepped up to the plate and produced a circuit drive which added two runs to the Greenville score. Parker and Wagner were also implicated in bringing about two runs in the sixth inning. Parker got on base by a single, Wagner by a misplayed choice and then Billy Hitchcock doubled to bring in the two runners.

In the seventh inning the locals and Martins were standing neck and neck. Skipper Farley reminded this, however, and sent a homer out into a neighboring field which was minus a ball player and scored two more runs for the locals, with one man being on base. The first two baggers secured by Farley in the game would have probably been a homer if it had been to the right the least bit.

In the eighth inning Hitchcock got a single and a homer by Brown over the right field fence which was considered the longest hit ever seen on the local diamond, caused two more runs, thus ending the march of progress made by the locals. Farley and Hitchcock lead with the stick for the locals while Gaylord, Corbett, and Gardner lead for the Martins.

The local club hit the old pill considerably hard, and had they played on any other park, there would have been a total of about seven more home runs.

This afternoon the Greenies are facing the Snow Hill nine who are rated second in Coastal Plain League standing. Tomorrow afternoon, the Snow Hill bunch pay the Greenies a visit at the Third Street stadium here.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER
Cleveland—The Republican national convention early presented evidence that what this country needs is a new and more emphatic phrasing for the statement "I do not choose to run."

When the late President Coolidge employed that wording he left the country—and particularly its politicians—agitated and perplexed for months over his intentions. To band-wagon-minded political figures such doubt constitutes third degree cruelty.

Even now there is dispute among

Folks say that Our Family's Whiskey rings the peg every time

Our Dad had distilled over a million barrels of whiskey before we offered you folks our own Family's Recipe. Dad used to say: "Wonder if other folks wouldn't like to try this same whiskey we distillers drink ourselves?" That's how we come to put up The Wilken Family Whiskey. Counting in Granddad Wilken's lifetime of whiskey making, there's more than 100 years of distilling experience behind it.

New York Cotton

COTTON New York, June 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, one higher to two lower under liquidation and Liverpool selling owing to further showers in the eastern cotton belt.
 All active new crop positions were in new high ground for the movement during the first hour notwithstanding the further reports from the eastern belt.
 The buying sent all new crop levels up to or above the 11-cent level with October selling at 11.05 and March at 11.00 or 9 to 10 points net higher.
 Futures closed barely steady, five to 24 higher, spot steady, middling 11.70.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 11.—(AP)—Stock market favors were given grudgingly to a few selected issues today while most of the so-called leaders remained in the wall-flower class.
 Farm implement shares stepped into the limelight with J. I. Case up three points near the fourth hour and Deere and International Harvester pushing forward a point or more each.
 General Motors, Liggett and Myers B. and American Telephone advanced a point or so. Radio was active at a slight improvement. The majority of rails, steels and utilities were narrow. The alcohol pointed lower.
 The late tone was moderately firm. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

TO CONSTRUCT NEW PARKWAY

Work on Link at Buck Creek Gap To Start Soon

Reflector Bureau, S. F. Walter Hotel, Raleigh, June 11.—Actual construction work on the first section of the Blue Ridge Parkway west of Grandfather Mountain, beginning at Buck Creek Gap and extending down to Oteen, should be started within the next week or so, Charles Ross, attorney for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, said here today. The last legal barriers to the construction of this section of the parkway were removed Monday and Tuesday of this week when the deeds for the right-of-way were recorded in Yancey and McDowell counties and sent to the National Park Service in Washington.

Bids were opened and the contract let on this sector some weeks ago, but actual construction work was held up pending the recording of the deeds to the right-of-way. Ross said. "But now that this last barrier has been removed, the National Park Service has informed me that instructions will be sent to the contractor to start work at once. So he dirt should start to move on the first four or five miles of this sector within the next week or so."

The news that the contractor has been instructed to proceed at once on this particular sector of the parkway should prove especially pleasing to everyone in the state and especially in the Asheville area, since it is a definite indication that the National Park Service is going to proceed with the building of the parkway entirely in North Carolina and that there is a possibility of any further consideration of routing part of the parkway through Tennessee. Ross pointed out. As originally planned, the route would have come down into North Carolina only as far as Grandfather Mountain and then turned off into Tennessee. But Secretary Ickes overruled this plan two years ago and the all-North Carolina route adopted. Now that construction is actually starting west of Grandfather Mountain, the possibility of any change in the present route is regarded as very remote.

SPORT SLANTS

Like the little boy who whistles in the dark to bolster his morale at trying times, many top-notch athletes chatter to themselves in the thick of competition. Follow the field in any big golf tournament—like the National open—and you will notice that half the club swingers prod themselves along with verbal lashings.

Paul Runyan's approach putt stops short of the pin. "Hit it, you coward, hit it!" Or, when a putt fails to drop by the smallest of margins, Paul pipes up with, "Howdy do." Henry Picard talks to the ball in flight and in the most approved golf fashion applies the old body-english in an effort to control a fast breaking hook or slice.

Don't let the sight of a flock of golfers talking to themselves alarm you. They are perfectly harmless unless you try to edge in on their monologues. If they have the idea that the running fire of conversation helps their game, they very likely do better when talking to themselves. It's all mental.

On the tennis courts Betsy Grant never stops talking. He never lets up on Betsy for a single moment. "Migosh, Betsy!" "Let's go now, Betsy!" And sometimes even stronger expletives pour forth from his lips in the heat of battle, much to the amusement of the spectators. Marcel Rainville, the Canadian tennis star, coaches himself through a match. Sometimes in French, sometimes in English, and then again in a broken combination of both he encourages himself with something like this:

"Come on, babe, you win for Marcel!" He will follow a successful volley with, "You are doing fine, Marcel—keep up the good work and you will win."

A few years ago New York University had a fair little distance runner. He was performing in his specialty on his home field and before his friends. But things were not going as well as they might have. Perhaps the competition was a little more than he could handle. At any rate, as he swept past the stands thirty yards behind the speeding leaders, it was quite evident that he was making a valiant effort to spur himself to greater effort.

"Get going, you yellow goondo, and go after those guys," he fairly shouted at himself. A classmate in the stands came back with a bit of sage advice when he called to the passing athlete. "If you would stop talking long enough to catch your breath you might be able to stay up with the leaders."

Conversation has a very definite place in the baseball scheme of things. If a player is not shouting words of encouragement to his fellow players the chances are that he is talking to himself. It's a great way of keeping a fellow on his toes. Old Dizzy Dean has plenty to say, on and off the diamond. Dean pops off with every pitch. And generally, it is by way of complimenting Old Diz and telling him what a grand pitcher Dizzy Dean really is.
