LEADERS PLAN NIGHT SESSION CONSIDER LEVY

House Chiefs Push Congress Toward Adjournment

PLAN TAKE UP TAX MEASURE

Furious Debate Is Promised Even Before Proposal Is Presented

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Driving toward adjournment of Congress by tomorrow night, House leaders planned an overtime session tonight to act, if possible, on the tax compromise.

Majority Leader O'Connor of New York said the report of the committee which worked out the compromise in an effort to end the House and Senate deadlock over the vital tax legislation might be ready by 6 p. m. (EST).

But even before the report was placed before either House it was clear there would be furious debate over it before Congress could adjourn.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) took the Senate floor to characterize the compromise as "a climax in the unsound, disruptive economics which have become a national curse."

Opponents said this and other opposition would produce at least 41 votes against the measure.

Experts meanwhile were working desperately to get the bill in shape for final consideration.

Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the House ways and means committee, said it was not yet certain whether the report would be ready tonight, but that it was being pushed the hope that the House could dispose of it tonight and have it ready for Senate action tomorrow.

Government Vessel Captures Trawler Believed Runaway

Crew of Ship Thought to Be Girl Placed Under Arrest After Two Hours of Fighting

Georgetown, British Guiana, June 19.—(AP)—The government S. S. Pomeroy forcibly captured today a vessel believed to be the runaway British trawler, Girl Pat.

The vessel taken had been harboring outside the three-mile limit for several days.

A conference called by Governor Sir Geoffrey in Northcote last night decided to ask London for instructions and it was understood the capture was in accordance with London's reply.

Police officials reported the craft answered descriptions of the Girl Pat whose crew ran away with her from Grimby, Eng., early in April, presumably on a search for pirate treasure.

The captured craft was without fuel but her crew fought off the government ship's efforts to capture her for two and a half hours. The crew was placed under arrest.

Dr. Meadows Returns Association Meeting

Dr. L. R. Meadows attended the meeting of the Public Relations committee of the North Carolina Education Association held in Chapel Hill this week.

Policies of the association for the coming year were agreed upon and plans made. State Supt. Clyde A. Irwin outlined his program for the year. The committee approved it and agreed to do all possible to carry it out. One of the objectives is to increase membership in the N. C. E. A. and to create more active interest in the work.

Enrollment Records Broken This Summer

The number of students in the College when registration was completed and classrooms closed to other students at the end of the first week, was 589. This is the highest number reached in any one summer term since the Summer School has been divided into two terms with separate registration for each. This year 112 more than were enrolled the first term last summer and by the time the enrollment for the second term is added the number will be far ahead of that for any other Summer School in the history of the college.

Listers were operated 24 hours a day in Meade county, Kansas, in a campaign to halt soil blowing.

Work Gets Underway For City's Highway Project

DR. McDONALD STATES PLANK

Gubernatorial Candidate Outlines His Farm Platform

Raleigh, June 19.—Resuming his speaking campaign for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, Dr. Ralph W. McDonald last night proposed to turn the "spotlight of truth" on Clyde R. Hoey and his supporters.

"Because of the malicious manner in which Mr. Hoey's workers went after votes," he said, "I regard it as a public duty for me to expose to the voters of North Carolina just what type of man this Mr. Hoey is and just who is behind him."

Concerning Hoey's backers, he said: "First, we find O. Max Gardner, Mr. Gardner is a lobbyist in Washington. According to reports of that (Senate) committee, Gardner received $100,000 from one client alone. . . . The former Governor, McDonald charged, is obligated to tobacco company officials and is the 'real power behind Clyde Hoey's candidacy.'"

"The present Governor is also backing Mr. Hoey," McDonald said. "Clyde Hoey himself has made it perfectly clear that if he is elected Governor there will be four more years of the Ehringhaus policies and the Ehringhaus personnel."

Both Governor Gardner and Governor Ehringhaus violated the Democratic platform, the former by allowing a tax to be put on land and the latter by proposing a sales tax, the anti-sales tax candidate declared. He called attention also to the refusal of Governor Ehringhaus to call a special session of the General Assembly to enact social security and tobacco compact legislation.

"Next," said McDonald, "we find every high-powered lobbyist for special interest in the whole State of North Carolina working night and day to make Clyde Hoey Governor." He repeated the charge of his campaign manager, W. L. Lumpkin, that Hoey was a lobbyist for the Duke Power Company in 1931.

Outlines Farm Program Quoting Sandy Graham, defeated candidate for Governor, as saying that Hoey's candidacy caused a special session of the Legislature to enact crop control legislation, McDonald outlined the following program of his own:

"If I am nominated on July 4, I shall immediately set to work upon a farm program for North Carolina. The first step will be a conference with leaders selected from the State Agricultural Extension Service and leading farmers from this and other tobacco producing States. In this conference, we will map out a plan of action to urge the closing of all auction warehouses in case tobacco prices are below parity when the tobacco season opens, and our plan will be to keep the markets closed until the farmers, the government and the tobacco buyers agree on policies, which will result in parity prices for the 1936 and subsequent crops. As a part of my farm program, I shall urge the Legislature in 1937 to pass sufficient and adequate laws to control the movement of and prevent the sale of 'scrap' (Continued on page three)

Atlantic Coast Line Depot Being Moved Out of Way

With work already having been started on moving the Atlantic Coast Line railroad passenger depot and the State Highway and Public Works Commission having received bids on part of the Dickinson avenue widening project, indications were the proposed highway proposal in the city would go ahead at a rapid pace in the rear future.

The depot is being moved from its present location in order to open Tenth street to traffic. The building will be joined on to the freight depot, leaving a clear intersection at Tenth street and Dr. Rinson avenue. Engineers estimate opening of Tenth street to the traffic would relieve congestion in the heart of the city.

The State Highway Commission yesterday received bids on 54 of a mile on Dickinson avenue. This does not include the entire stretch being considered in the project, nor does it include an underpass at the cotton mill. Contracts are expected to be let at a later date for the additional work. It was pointed out that the underpass proposal would have to be submitted to officials at Washington since the work is to be carried on with federal funds.

Cobb and Homewood of Chapel Hill submitted the low bid for the project on which bids were received yesterday. The bid called for $24,087.60 for the work. It has been estimated the entire project, including the underpass proposal would cost approximately $90,000 or $100,000.

The portion of the project for which bids were received yesterday is expected to be completed by the time the tobacco market opens up this year. It was impossible to estimate when the complete proposal would be completed.

French Cabinet In Agreement Cancel Italian Sanctions

Paris, June 19.—(AP)—The French cabinet agreed today to "accept" cancellation of sanctions against Italy dependent upon "any decision adopted by the League of Nations."

The cabinet action, it was reported, was taken as a result of Great Britain's decision support a recommendation to suspend existing economic and financial penalties against the fascist nation.

The ministers gave their private impression sanctions were ended as far as France was concerned.

Seeking Find Owner Pigeon Found Sundy's

Residents of the Red Oak community were here today in their search for information they hope will lead them to the owner of a white pigeon which fell dead at that section Sunday morning, apparently of exhaustion.

Red Oak citizens already have contacted the conservation and development department in Washington City.

Inscribed on a band on the pigeon's leg was: "Aug. 35 P. G. C. 430."

PHILADELPHIA EXTENDS HAND TO DEMOCRATS

City Flag-Draped for Convention to Be Held Next Week

LEADERS WORK ON FARM PLANK

Party Platform Expected to Call for Retention of Soil Program

Philadelphia, June 19.—(AP)—Flag-draped Philadelphia extended the hand of welcome to the advance guard of democrats today while speculation over the platform to be adopted by the party's national convention next week intensified.

Leaders of the new deal were cloistered in Washington dealing up suggested statements of policy on such controversial issues as farm aid, money and relief.

There was no authoritative indication as to the planks to be submitted on some of these issues, but word from the capitol said Secretary Wallace may seek to have the convention's resolutions committee approve a farm plank embracing four features:

The present AAA soil conservation program with subsidy payments to farmers.

The principal of crop production control within constitutional limits.

Some plan for commodity loans to farmers.

While the four principal features were expected to compromise the bulk of the administration's farm plank suggestions, it was indicated that aid to cooperative associations also would be suggested. The plank also is expected to urge continued research into industrial uses for farm products.

Local Postoffice Certifies Number Additional Bonds

Bonds Calling for $80,150 Sent to Raleigh for Checks to Be Returned to Local Ex-Service Men

Postoffice officials last night sent an additional 211 bonus bonds to Raleigh, where checks will be drawn and mailed to the ex-service men who received the bonds earlier in the week.

Up until yesterday bonds to the amount of $69,600 had been certified and forwarded to Raleigh. Those sent off last night brought the total handed so far in the local postoffice to $80,150.

Postoffice officials today had not tabulated the number of bonds received in this city, but estimated that at least $200,000 of the $600,000 due the some 1,000 veterans in Pitt county would be handled here.

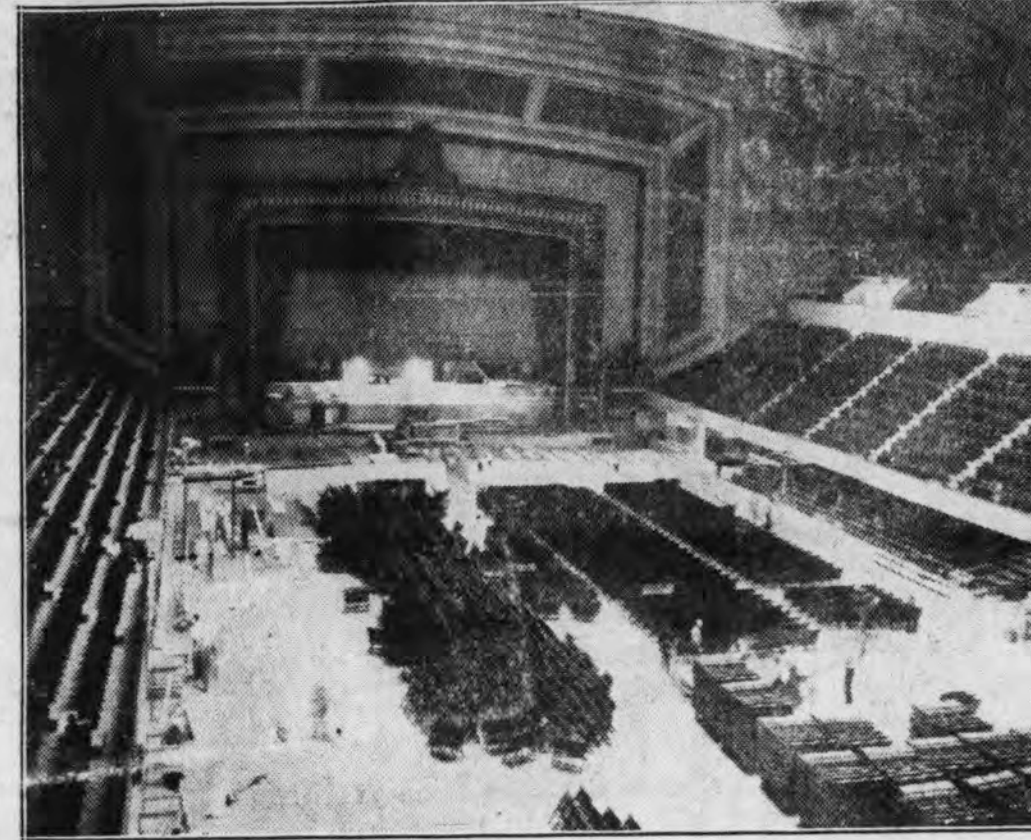

In addition to the ex-service men served by the local postoffice, a number of veterans in other sections of the county are bringing their bonds here to be certified and forwarded to Raleigh. T. T. Hollingsworth, postmaster, said the local office was glad to handle the bonds for anyone, but explained that it was unnecessary to bring the bonds here as they could be certified at any postoffice.

No checks have been received here yet, but Mr. Hollingsworth said he expected some to come in from Raleigh this week-end.

The bonds are certified at the postoffice and sent to Raleigh where checks are made out to the veterans and returned to them.

While a number of veterans are holding their bonds, it was explained that most of them are taking their bonus payments to the postoffice and having them certified and forwarded to Raleigh to be exchanged for checks.

ARTHUR GOOCH HANGED TODAY

Federal Lindbergh Kidnap Law Claims First Victim

McAlester, Okla., June 19.—(AP)—Arthur Gooch, 27, convicted kidnaper, was hanged at the state prison here today—the first person executed for kidnaping under the federal Lindbergh law.

A crowd estimated at more than 350 persons, including eight women, witnessed the execution.

A year and four days ago the kidnaper was sentenced to death for abducting two Paris, Texas, officers and bringing them into Oklahoma. One of the officers was injured during a scuffle, thus making the death penalty applicable.

The case was carried through all channels of appeal and twice reached the United States supreme court and Gooch was hopeful until late yesterday when President Roosevelt declined to intercede for the second time saying:

"Use of the executive power to modify the sentence imposed would be to render nugatory a law carefully considered by the congress and designed to meet a national need."

Edenton Resident Claimed By Chair For Slaying Wife

John Horne, Textile Worker, Told Warden Just Before Going to Death "It Is My Own Fault"

Raleigh, June 19.—(AP)—John Horne, 38-year-old textile worker of Edenton was executed by gas at state's prison today for the murder of his wife.

Horne entered the death chamber at 10:34 the machinery to generate the gas was started at 10:39 and at 10:49 1-2 he was pronounced dead.

Warden H. H. Honecutt told Horne as he held no malice toward anyone and "it is my own fault I am here" before he died.

Convicted of cutting his wife's throat, Horne never admitted recollection of the crime. He tried to kill himself after slaying his wife.

Nine Children Drown When Boat Overturns

Mamachias, Me., June 19.—(AP)—Nine children were reported drowned today in Lake Gardiner, a few miles from here, when a boat containing fifteen children attending a picnic overturned.

Doctors and firemen from Mamachias and East Mamachias rushed to the scene in an effort to revive the victims.

Early reports of the tragedy were incomplete.

BACKERS PUSH SUBSIDY BILL

Still Doubtful, However, Measure Will Be Enacted

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—Labor regulations for government contractors and an outright subsidy for the American merchant marine were shoved today into the current surging toward adjournment of congress by Saturday night.

Whether they would be swept to enactment by the time the weary lawmakers finish work on the vital tax bill and head for home remained in doubt.

The Walsh-Healey bill to make persons who sell goods to the government comply with hour and wage regulations was passed speedily by the house. Previously it had been approved in considerably different form by the senate. The big question was whether the difference between the two chambers could be reconciled without delay.

The senate passed the measure, intended to enlarge the American merchant marine through direct subsidy payment, and sent it to conference with the house. Whether the difference could be adjusted before adjournment of congress was in doubt.

The legislation would substitute direct payment for the present mail contract subsidy system.

Goldboro Residents Petition Commission

Cotton Futures Crash Twelve-Cent Mark

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures crashed over the 12-cent line today for the first time in eight months on rumors in trade quarters that the government producers pool had finished its liquidation.

Contracts closed with net gains of 20 cents to $1.15 a bale, with cotton deliverable to July ending at 12.13 cents a pound.

A week ago it was announced that the government still held 24,000 bales of July for delivery in the local market. This cotton has been coming out steadily and rapidly during the past week with an urgent demand from trade shorts.

GREAT BRITAIN SANCTIONISTS PLAN PROTEST

Object to Government's Decision To Back Suspension

LABOR LEADERS HEAD MOVEMENT

One Protestor Signifies Intention to Ask Vote of Criticism Against Government

London, June 19.—(AP)—Imbittered sanctionists sought today to loose a storm of public protest against the government's decision to back suspension of Italian sanctions.

Four labor leaders, who called the cabinet's recommendation "the great betrayal" of the League of Nations, led a movement for a nation-wide series of campaign meetings.

Their plan of opposition, pointing toward a parliamentary censure debate Tuesday, followed the same lines as the public storm created against the Hoare-Laval proposal to end the Italo-Ethiopian war.

At the head of the parade of protestors was Clement R. Attlee, house of commons labor leader, who has signified his intention to ask a vote of criticism against Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's government.

Labor party leaders took their cues from the fiery David Lloyd George, war time prime minister, who led the attack against Baldwin and his ministers yesterday, with the ringing pronouncement: "There they sit—the cowards," as he pointed scornfully at the ministerial benches.

A further deflection came with announcement from a group of sanctionists conservatives, ordinarily favoring the government's policies. They had not been converted by the speech of Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, who disclosed the cabinet decision on the sanctions question.

Local Farm Agent Asks All Farmers To Plant Legumes

Importance of Seeding Sufficient Acreage of Conserving Plants Pointed Out by R. R. Bennett

R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, today issued a statement pointing out to farmers the importance of seeding a sufficient acreage of soil conserving crops in order to qualify for payments under the federal agricultural program.

"Due to unfavorable seasons caused by dry weather," the statement said, "many of the farmers have lost some of their legume crops, especially where it was sown late in the spring. It also recalled that many legumes had not been planted due to the unusual weather. These crops are necessary in order to qualify for the soil conservation payments under the federal program, the county agent pointed out.

"We would like to stress to every farmer the importance of seeding before it is too late a sufficient acreage of conserving crops," the statement read.

"In this state we are allowed, for the year 1936, to use soybeans and cowpeas as conserving crops even though the hay is cut," it adds.

Mr. Bennett said the question frequently arises as to whether sorghum or sudan grass sown with peas or beans for hay is soil conserving. He said if beans or peas predominate the acreage will count as conserving, but if the sorghum or sudan grass predominates and is cut for hay the acreage will count as depleting.

Street Improvements Making Fast Start

H. L. Rivers, city engineer, said today the city's street improvement program was moving along even faster than had been expected at first.

The work practically has been completed in West Greenville, and the force has moved to College View. One small strip was left uncompleted on Third street, while the fill settles, it was explained.

The work is being done by J. W. Clark Construction Company.

Experiments at North Carolina State college showed livestock usually eat the cob as well as the grain when ear corn is soaked in salt water.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

CAUTION: Don't be fooled by Jim Farley's ballyhoo that the London-Knox ticket tickles the Rooseveltians. Several unpublicized incidents reflect the inside belief that the presidential contest may turn into a hors-and-bugzy race.

The Farley-likes onslaught on Nominee Landon so soon after the nomination hinted at the New Dealers' jitters. It tipped off smart observers that they are more afraid of "that nobody knows" than they care to admit. Their real purpose in leaping into headlines was to throw the Kansan on the defensive at the start. The reaction was so bad that White House advisers curtly informed PDR he ought to stop this disparagement of Mr. Landon. He will.

The President's quiet comment contrasted strangely with his spokesmen's violence. Mr. Roosevelt learned of the Landon nomination while speaking at Houston on the city's harbor developments. Reporters were told that he remarked: "That's fine." Later they were asked to "kill" that statement and report that the President simply (Continued on page four)

ALF M. LANDON: Picture Story of His Life

Heartbroken after his wife's death, Alf M. Landon turned over his oil operations to his father in August, 1918, and enlisted for war service. Because of his knowledge of petroleum gas, he was commissioned as a lieutenant in the chemical warfare division in Washington. Less than four months later the war ended.

Landon had won his spurs in politics in 1912 when he followed his father, a Kansas delegate to the Republican national convention in the Bull Moose revolt. After campaigning for Theodore Roosevelt, he was named precinct committeeman by the Progressives in 1914, serving until the party expired in 1916.

In 1922 Landon served six weeks as secretary to Gov. Henry J. Allen

(left). Two years later he supported William Allen White (right), newspaper editor, in an unsuccessful, independent campaign for governor. Except for the two occasions, 1912 and 1924, when he followed White in excursions across party lines, Landon has guided the rising trajectory of his career within the boundaries of Republicanism. In 1928 he was elected state chairman for governor.

CLAUD GATTY HEADS SCHOOL

Elected As New Superintendent of Raleigh System

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 18.—Claude F. Gaddy, for the past five years assistant executive secretary of the State School Commission, will be the new Superintendent of the Raleigh school system, if he accepts the offer which has been made to him by the Raleigh Township Board of Education.

The prevailing belief in most circles here is that Gaddy will accept the appointment, although it is known that for several months now the Southern Baptist Association has been trying to persuade Gaddy to accept the post as Director of Religious Education for the association. For several years Gaddy was superintendent of the school division of the Mills Home, the Southern Baptist orphanage in Thomasville. It is understood that Gaddy made such an excellent record there that the Southern Baptist Association has been trying to get him to take charge of its entire educational program ever since.

The selection of Gaddy as superintendent of the Raleigh schools is meeting with almost city-wide approval here today with parents,

For not only has Gaddy won the reputation of being one of the ablest school men and executives in the state as a result of the manner in which he has handled his duties with the State School Commission, but he has become one of the best known and best liked citizens of Raleigh as a result of his interest in civic, school and religious affairs. At the present time he is president of the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. and vice-president of the Rotary club.

Five years ago, when the State School Commission needed a man to take over the duties of assistant executive secretary and to have direct charge of the school transportation system in the state, a thorough survey of the state was made and Gaddy was selected for the post. He was at that time Superintendent of Schools in Union county, his home county. He had previously been principal of the Marshville high school in Union county.

Gaddy is 35 years old, a graduate of Wake Forest in the class of 1921, and also has an M. A. degree from the University of North Carolina. He has also done graduate work at Harvard. All those who know Gaddy are convinced he is eminently fitted to head the Raleigh school system and that will do an excellent job if he accepts the appointment. He was not an applicant for the post.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER
Washington—The power measuring stick idea, which started with TVA, has involved Pacific northwest senators in a merry battle over a bill to govern rates on the Bonneville project on the lower Columbia river.

Moreover, during ultimate compromise talk, the administration took a hand and attached a rider to establish a new power policy. Under this policy the federal power commission would take over wholesale rate regulation of not only Bonneville but of TVA, Grand Coulee, Fort Peck, Mont., Boulder Canyon Dam, Casper-Alcoeva, Wyo., and the St. Lawrence project, if ever it is undertaken.

The plan is to put it through this session, if disputes can be pacified. Senator Pope of Idaho is jilted against the four senators from Oregon and Washington, and each side feels it is favored by President Roosevelt.

The Tennessee Valley authority applies a blanket wholesale rate for its power to all communities within its scope, regardless of distance from the power sites.

Pope thought that would do nicely for Bonneville and appeared to envisage cheap electricity coursing over the Blue mountains 200 or 300 miles into the agricultural sections of the Snake river valley and to mine centers of North Idaho.

That it would not do so nicely for nearby Washington and Oregon markets such as Portland was the view of senators from those states. Sale of power is expected to pay part of the construction cost. The Washington-Oregon senators felt that any effort to give as low rates to Boise 300 or more miles away, as to Portland, 40 miles away, would push rates to Portland so high that private companies could undersell Bonneville.

Senator Pope advanced a bill to create a Columbia Valley authority patterned after TVA with authority to fix blanket rates just as TVA had.

A rival bill was introduced by the four senators from Washington and Oregon proposing that the army which is supervising building of Bonneville dam, should operate it upon completion, expected by July, with the federal power commission cooperating in rate matters.

Pope appeared contented with this plan, broadened as it was to give the power commission control over the wholesale rates for all projects. He asserted it was an administration agreement that the blanket style of rate evolved by TVA should be the pattern for the rest.

Such was not, however, the view of the four senators.

The Idahoans still objected to a proposal in the bill to divide 35 per cent of Bonneville's profits between Washington and Oregon, Idaho getting none.

Meantime Senator Norris of Nebraska, who has sheltered TVA against any ill winds, evidently had not been taken into the discussion, for he told reporters that he had not been advised of the new policy—he was pretty frank in stating he did not want it upsetting TVA's affairs.

FRIDAY

7:00 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club.

Staton-Reynolds.

The marriage of Miss Treva Reynolds and Van E. Staton, Jr., was solemnized in an impressive ceremony at the home of the bride in Clinton on Thursday afternoon at five o'clock.

The home en suite was attractively decorated in garden flowers. The room in which the vows were spoken was lovely. Floor baskets of white flowers and tall candelabras holding cathedral candles were placed against a background of long leaf pine.

Proceeding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. D. N. Royal of Salemburg, aunt of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly," and "Because." Mrs. Royal wore a gown of pink and blue chiffon, and a shoulderette of pink roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Joe Best of Clinton, gowned in blue chiffon with a shoulderette of pink roses, played the wedding music.

First to enter were the ushers, Kirby Royal, Jr., of Salemburg, cousin of the bride, and Joseph Staton of this city, brother of the bride-groom. Miss Mayde Reynolds, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was a combination of pink chiffon and triple crepe. She wore blue accessories and carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses and delphinium.

The flower girl, little Miss Ruth Eugenia Royal of High Point, cousin of the bride, wore a dainty frock of pink organza with a shepherdess hat trimmed with pink and blue forget-me-nots, and carried a nosegay of pink and blue flowers.

The bride entered and was given in marriage by her father. She wore a most becoming gown of delphinium blue triple crepe, with waist length coat. Her accessories were pink and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses, white gladioli, and white lilies.

The bride-groom was attended by his brother, William Patrick Staton as best man.

The Rev. C. N. Royal of High Point, uncle of the bride, spoke the words that made them man and wife. He was assisted by the Reverend T. H. King of Clinton, pastor of the bride.

For the wedding Mrs. H. T. Reynolds, mother of the bride, wore tea rose chiffon, and Mrs. V. E. Staton, mother of the bride-groom, wore figured chiffon. Their flowers were pink roses.

The bride, a very attractive and popular young woman, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Reynolds of Clinton. She graduated in the Clinton city schools and East Carolina Teachers College. For the past year she taught in the Sampson county schools.

Mr. Staton is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Staton of this city. He received his education in the Greenville city schools and the University of North Carolina where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He now holds a position with the Imperial Tobacco Company.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Staton left by automobile for Western North Carolina.

More Rural Power Lines Being Planned In State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, June 19.—A total of 2,609 miles of rural electric lines have either been built, are now under construction or have been authorized for construction in the very near future, according to new figures just compiled by the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority and made public today.

The estimated cost of these 2,609 miles of rural electric lines is approximately $2,256,691. Most of this mileage has been built either by existing power companies in the state or by cities owning municipal plants in order to extend their lines into rural sections. The Rural Electrification Administration in Washington has loaned money of $2,707,000 to loan money for only 205.5 miles of this total of 2,609 miles.

These new rural electric lines will eventually serve 13,333 rural customers on some 10,000 different farms, the new figures show. Of this number, 7,187 farm customers are now connected with power lines and getting service, while 2,707 additional customers are located on lines now under construction, with

Wooten Family Plans Hold Annual Reunion

The twelfth annual Wooten family reunion will be held in Raleigh June 25, on the grounds of the Methodist Orphanage. Hundreds of members of this family, which is scattered through North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, are expected to attend. The group is descended from Emsig Shadrach Wooten of Revolutionary fame.

The program will begin at 11:00 o'clock a. m. in the auditorium. Following some musical numbers, there will be an interesting genealogical program of the Wooten clan. Mrs. Joe Brown of Chadbourn, is the official genealogist for the organization and is compiling a book of the family's history.

The group will go in swimming

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL NEEDS YOUR SUPPORT

The summer Vacation Bible School will open in this city Monday morning and the appeal has gone out to our citizens to contribute the sum of $500 to defray the expenses of this summer program for the children. Our past experience shows us that these vacation schools to provide wholesome teaching and recreation for the children during the summer months is well worth while and certainly the venture deserves the support of our people. If you have not already made a contribution to the fund do so immediately. Your donation may be made to any of the members of the local Ministerial Association, to any official of any of the local churches or sent direct to this paper. All contributions will be acknowledged through the columns of this paper. Let's make up this fund at once in order that the work of the school might go on unhampered by the lack of finances.

THE FARMER'S BEST BET

In view of the tobacco farmers' experience with the present administration in its refusal to call a special session of the legislature to take action in behalf of crop control we do not see how the farmers of this section can support for governor any man who is closely allied with the present administration. It will be recalled that while the farmers were urging the calling of a special session of the legislature to consider their problems both Dr. McDonald and Lieutenant Governor Sandy Graham in speeches through out the state were likewise demanding the special session, Mr. Graham charging that Mr. Hoey to an extent was responsible for the action of Governor Ehringhaus in not calling the special session.

Dr. McDonald appealed for the special session not only to enact farm control compact legislation but also to enact legislation that would permit this state to share in the federal social security legislation.

In order that there might be no question as to his stand on the farming situation in this state, Dr. McDonald in a speech last night set forth the following farm program:

If I am nominated on July 4, I shall immediately set to work upon a farm program for North Carolina. The first step will be a conference with leaders selected from the State Agricultural Extension Service, and leading farmers from this and other tobacco producing States. In this conference, we will map out a plan of action to urge the closing of all auction warehouses in case tobacco prices are below parity when the tobacco season opens, and our plan will be to keep the markets closed until the farmers, the government and the tobacco buyers agree on policies which will result in parity prices for the 1936 and subsequent crops. As a part of my farm program, I shall urge the legislature in 1937 to pass sufficient and adequate laws to control the sale of "scrap" tobacco. This I regard as necessary in order that the tobacco market may not be glutted with "trash" tobacco.

I shall advocate State compact legislation in conjunction with tobacco states to control acreage planted and pounds sold in excess of quota to balance supply with demand by penalizing excess, with administration of the act by State Extension Service and farmer-selected committees in cooperation with United States Department of Agriculture.

I shall also advocate passage of law required by Federal government for states to participate in the Federal soil conservation and allotment act, by the 1937 legislature.

I shall advocate adequate appropriations for agricultural extension work and vocational agriculture. This I regard to be one of the most important factors in the life of the State.

I shall further advocate adequate road funds set aside for farm to market roads.

I shall work in conjunction with the Federal Government upon the National Farm Program and render every possible aid to the Interstate Commerce Act to protect tobacco allotments of non-croping states; adequate Federal appropriations for Soil Conservation Program; the protection of cotton price levels through sufficient commodity loans on cotton; a continuation of diversion payment on peanuts to maintain parity price level; poundage allotment for potato production with special price per pound on acreage allotment diverted; and the necessary provision under the Soil Conservation Act to give truck farmers the same protection as is accorded cotton, tobacco and peanut farmers.

In view of the fact that the group now turning Heaven and earth to elect Hoey and defeat McDonald is the same that has backed Ehringhaus in his refusal to aid the farmers, and in view of the further fact that Graham is now out of the gubernatorial race altogether, the farmers have but one candidate to whom to turn if they expect any help and that candidate is Ralph McDonald. Certainly his stand on the farm question is what the farmers want and he is their best bet for governor.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

POSSIBLE: Talking over 1936-style teacups, the Democrats concede Mr. Landon an "outside chance" against an administration backed by billions in relief expenditures and farm payments and entrenched through concentrated political greed for jobs. For them that's a startling concession.

Here's how the practical politics figure it: If Mr. Landon and his crowd show the same shrewdness from now until November that they did in rounding up delegates, they may spring several surprises. His complete contrast to FDR—the cornhusker against the crooner—may become a visible asset. He will have powerful newspaper backing, an unlimited expense account and realistic political brains—a combination the G. O. P. hasn't possessed for many years.

The "facing both ways" posture Mr. Farley mentions will help instead of hurt. The prairie governor is admittedly popular in agrarian regions. Yet the Easterners hate Roosevelt so fiercely that it was Messrs. Reed, Moses and Bingham who junked the gold plank for fear it might prove politically unpalatable. Give FDR a few bad breaks—falling farm prices, increasing unemployment and trouble in "collectivist Europe"—and "the man nobody knows" may perform a miracle in November.

REMOTE: You will hear plenty more about the famous and controversial gold plank—and soon. Despite Mr. Landon's dramatic convention telegram, his steersmen say he hasn't settled it satisfactorily. It scored the one figure they want to woo—Borah—who thinks privately that he was double crossed.

So don't be surprised if one of the first delegations to front-porch the Republican nominee is a group of distinguished economists. Advance news has it that they will elect themselves with Mr. Landon, supposedly to confer on economic issues which will headline his campaign speeches. But the next result will probably be that he will modify "clarify" will be the official term—his declaration for a currency resting on and convertible into gold.

It won't necessarily be a back-down or somersault Mr. Landon will probably announce what everybody recognizes—namely that Messrs. Baldwin, Blum, Hilder and Mussolini (or their successors) will have more to say about what the U. S. returns to the gold standard than he, as President, can. In short, it's a prospect so remote as not to disturb his dreams of the White House.

SURPRISE: Col. Frank Knox, as vice-presidential nominee, remains the question mark of a doubtful campaign. Impartial commentators can't decide whether he will pull a strong card in the Landon shell or splash water.

On his behalf there is the fact that his nomination precipitated a cloudburst of emotionally favorable eulogies by fellow-publishers. He has many moneyed friends who will dig deep for the party treasury. Like Mr. Landon, he has a Bull Moose heritage. His military record may offset the administration's bonus billions. He is no prima donna, and will not overthrow the presidential candidate, as Senator Vandenberg might have.

Against these assets is the poor primary race he made against Senator Borah in Illinois. Col. Knox came out a bad second in downstate regions—territory the G. O. P. must conquer in November. And every child knows that he was the Landonite's second vice-presidential choice. But so was Calvin Coolidge in 1920, and look what happened to him. The colonel may surprise both friend and foe.

READY: Now it can be told why the Democrats knew that Al M. Landon would be the Republican candidate even before the G. O. P. convention did.

When Emil Hurja, the Democrats' political magician and prognosticator, left for the Philippine junket last October, he instructed his aides to cable him the results of a poll on Republican presidential candidates. He had made the canvass so that his party would be forewarned. While dancing in Manila one evening, he was called to the phone and given the results. They proved conclusively that there was no chance to "stop Landon," and he so notified Washington. A few days later, on his western trip, FDR predicted that the Kansas Governor would be his opponent. He had seen the Hurja report.

That explains why Messrs. Farley and Michelson had an arsenal of ammunition long in advance of Mr. Landon's nomination.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN

WORKERS: Financial and industrial leaders are overlooking no bet in their drive to help the Republicans put Landon across.

A marvelous organization is being put together behind the scenes by non-political sources. Every possible aid to the cause is being mobilized. Movies will be utilized on a grand scale. Big time advertising and publicity men will place their talents at the disposal of the G. O. P. Radio facilities will be skillfully employed. The main idea is not to beat Roosevelt at his own game but to start a new type of game which he is not equipped to play.

Well posted sources say that the personnel of large corporations—notably in the oil and utility fields—will be encouraged to function as unofficial sales forces for Landon. The Republicans will thus benefit from the efforts of thousands of workers whose services will not cost them a cent.

SHOCK: New York G. O. P. backstagers reveal an inside convention development that left a couple of veteran party chiefs feeling as if they had been run over by a squadron of cavalry.

National committee men Charles D. Hilles of New York and Dave Reed of Pennsylvania had given up hope of stopping Landon before they went to Cleveland. But they did privately figure on bargaining with the Landonites about the platform and the retention of old guard influence in the new party setup. Therefore they wanted to keep their respective state delegations on the fence until they had finished their dickering. Neither Hilles nor Reed had any illusions about being an old-school boss whose word was law—but each thought his prestige as an elder statesman rated respect for his wishes from his own state delegates.

But once the New York and Pennsylvania contingents reached Cleveland and sampled the wine of Landon enthusiasm they refused to wait patiently on the side lines until their would-be leaders "delivered" them. The stampede came so quickly that Hilles and Reed had to scramble to get aboard the Landon ship in time to save their own faces. This disregard of time-honored political bargaining procedure is said to have been quite a shock to the old-timers.

MISTAKEN: The anti-New Deal high command is no longer worried about Borah. If he wants to sulk in his tent despite the numerous platform concessions made for his special benefit it's okay with him.

There are two factors behind this post-convention indifference to Battling Bill's temperamental quirks. Scouts in the agricultural areas where Borah showed up strongest in the primaries report to New York that his sour grapes attitude has alienated a large proportion of his former followers. They can't see that he has any adequate basis for his continued petulance.

The second factor is that the Farley-Michelson "prairie state" crack has stirred up a militant determination in the farm belt to show this "smart-aleck New Yorker" where he gets off. "Farley's attempt to belittle Landon have handed us more votes in states we need than a dozen Borahs could take away. Bill is mightily mistaken if he thinks he's serving us by acting like a bilious sphinx."

WRIRS: The battle for and against a bill in Congress to authorize construction of a railroad bridge across the Hudson River to enter New York at 57th Street has a reminiscent flavor to veterans of

MURDER TONIGHT
 BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Sergeant White and Detective Hylton just have begun the investigation of Arthur Burdett's murder. Burdett was a miser, as well as the Squire of Hope Enderton. He was a singularly unrepentant man and there are at least a half dozen residents of Hope Enderton who are rather glad that he has met his end—how many, exactly, nobody knows at the moment. Hylton likes White, and White is impressed with Hylton, although perhaps a trifle mystified as well.

Chapter Seven
 "NIGHT OF THE 18TH—"

"ON THE night of the eighteenth I was doing a round over Nye-ton way. I got back here about half past eight I should think, with nothing to report. After about an hour there was a knock at the door, like somebody in a hurry. When I opened it there was Mr. Lumsdale (here the sergeant consulted his note book more exactly) 'Come up to the Court quick,' he said, 'someone's done the old man in.'

"I put my helmet on and went along with him to Enderton Court and there I found the body of the dead man. I—"

"Half a minute, half a minute. Cut out the story for a bit and let's get some of the people straightened out. Who is the dead man?"

"Mr. Arthur Burdett sir he is, or was perhaps I should say."

"I found the body of the dead man."

"Maybe he still is. What about Arthur Burdett?"

"He was what you may call the squire of the village sir."

"Lived in style?"

"No. Lived in misery sir, with just one man servant to do everything for him, and more than half of the big house shut up."

"No money I suppose?"

"Plenty from all accounts, but Arthur Burdett was a miser."

"That's interesting. A real genuine miser?"

"Pretty genuine sir. He had his two dogs destroyed a few years back because he wouldn't go on paying the licenses; and he was always the last man in the village to pay his taxes though they aren't hardly summons him because he was a J. P., though he never sat on the bench."

"Was he popular?"

"Very much the reverse sir. Very few people had a good word for him. He never spent a penny more than he could help, didn't drink or smoke and never known to give anything away in his life."

"Why are we worrying about the death of this unsavory human?" the Inspector asked.

JAMES WHITE laughed. "Well, sir, I don't know about you," he answered. "I'm concerned in it because it's my duty and that's all."

Kingsley Hylton sighed. "A miser of the old school, loved by none, disliked by all, is murdered. Who did it? Is that the problem?"

"That's about it sir."

"Was Burdett married?"

"No."

"Nobody else in the house but this one man servant?"

"Andrew Lumsdale."

"What sort is Mr. Andrew Lumsdale?"

"Rum sort of chap sir. Very reserved. Difficult to get to the bottom of him. About forty I should say, and very powerful by the look of him. He's a foreigner in these parts, comes from Cheshire or some such place, and I don't think people here have taken too kindly to him."

"Um. Did Burdett have any relatives round about?"

tail wars.

The real issue behind the bill is that Baltimore and Ohio wants to get a foothold in the metropolis and the Pennsylvania Railroad—abetted by New York Central—is fighting to keep its competitor out. Years ago New York Central staged a similar—and eventually losing—struggle to freeze out the Pennsylvania. Also there was a time when the Interborough—Manhattan's first subway—hired experts to work up public opposition to "unnecessary transportation" and this prevented the B. M. T. from invading its territory.

There are other special interests involved in the bridge controversy.

The Hudson channel was dredged a few years ago to enable fairly large steamers to get up to Albany, and Albany cherishes ambitions to become a big-time port. The proposed bridge—if built at a normal height—would be so low that such steamers couldn't get under it, and that would end Albany's dream. Real estate speculators on both sides of the Hudson are strongly pro-bridge. Interested parties are pulling political wires all over the place. Nobody appears to care much whether the bridge is in the public interest, although the army engineers will have something to say about that.

How Cardui Helps Month After Month

Where there have been severe pains every month, from functional disturbances resulting from poor nourishment, Cardui has helped thousands of women to obtain relief. Their confidence in Cardui makes them eager to recommend it to other women needing such a medicine.

"I suffered a great deal with pain in my side and a weakness in my back," writes Mrs. Walter Page, of Evansville, Ind. "This made me so nervous I couldn't rest. Each month I would suffer all over and would have to go to bed. One of my neighbors told me how Cardui helped her, so I took it and it helped me. After taking eight bottles, I was much better. I surely can recommend Cardui for weakness and pain."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Greenies Whitewash Bugs, 3-0, To Keep Lead In League

BUGS GET 4 HITS OFF HOLLAND

Ayden Wins in Extra Innings Game; New Bern Beats Martins; Tarboro - Kinston Game Rained Out

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD

The Goldsboro Gold Bugs could not stand up under the strain inflicted by the Greenies at Third street stadium here yesterday afternoon, and went away blanked, by a 3-0 score.

Yesterday's win still kept the locals holding the lead in Coastal Plain league standings by half a game. The Ayden Aces and Snow Hill's entry's in the league almost played an unintentional doubleheader at Snow Hill. After staying up for sixteen innings, and to keep the game from being an all-night affair, Weldon Aydenite, swatted a homer over Snow Hill's left field fence, bringing about a score of 5-3 in behalf of the Aces.

Big Bill Holland, former East Carolina Teachers college hurler, went to town on the mound for the Greenies yesterday, allowing only four scattered hits, while Wilson, Goldsboro hurler in yesterday's tilt permitted the Greenies to obtain a total of 10 hits.

Hitchcock, short stop for the locals started the ball spinning in inning two by hitting for the circuit.

Something turned up in the sixth frame which looked to be another run for the Greenies, when Ambler doubled and stole third on Boozers fly to right field.

It was the seventh frame that caused the remaining runs scored by the locals. Tatum singled, and went to second on a single by Holland. Bo Parley, third sacker and manager of the local outfit, tried his stuff at bat and singled. Holland and Tatum came on in to the home stretch on an error by Vick bringing her score to a 3-0 stand.

Morris with a double and single and Ellis and Wilson with a single each, lead with the stick for the visitors, while Hitchcock with a homer and single, Tatum with two singles, Sanford with two singles, and Ambers double featured for the locals.

This afternoon the Greenies are paying the Bugs a visit at Goldsboro, and tomorrow afternoon at Third Street stadium they will again meet the Tarboro Bunnies.

Fights between ball players on the field furnish a tonic for the average fan.

That is the conclusion Thomas Jefferson Hickey, retired president of the American Association has reached after 40 years of experience and observation.

In the 15 years that Hickey was president of the American Association, he never fined or suspended a player for fighting one another.

"Of course, fighting with an umpire is something else," Hickey explains. "You have to give protection to umpires to uphold their authority. My instructions to umpires would be to keep out of the fights between players. That was for their own good, because in a mix-up some disgruntled player might take advantage of the opportunity to pay off an old grudge and take a sock at the official, claiming the blow struck was accidental like when Joe Tinker was managing the Columbus club. You're raising my eye and I said, 'You're raising my club.' You're taking all the fight out of 'em.' So I told the umpires to keep away from the players' fights and not to put the athletes out of the game for fighting among themselves.

"Of course, I did not tell the newspapers at the time, as official head of the league, that we were encouraging fighting, but that was exactly what we were doing. We learned that the public liked it."

The 75-year-old Hickey, who organized the American Association back in the early nineties, says that baseball has been ironed-out, ground and smoothed down so much that it is becoming too lady-like.

"Why the players aren't even allowed to talk to each other any more. Isn't that carrying it a bit too far?"

Hickey, retired on a pension and serving as chairman of the board of directors of the association, is immensely fond of baseball. He spends most every afternoon at Wrigley field, watching the National League champion Cubs battle their way through the present pennant race.

"The other day, when the Cubs and Reds mixed with their fists," Hickey observes, "I noticed the excitement on the faces of the people sitting in the boxes around me. They were high class people, nicely dressed and well-groomed. But they enjoyed the excitement of the players battling out there. So did I."

It seems that Gerald Walker's penchant for doing his own thinking on the base paths, an act which often brings the wrath of Mickey Cochrane and the Tiger coaches down on his head, is not a newly acquired habit. Gerald has always been a free-thinker—an individualist, as it were, in regard to his conduct in the sports arena.

On more than one occasion when he was playing football for the University of Mississippi, he injected a bit of extra excitement into the proceedings by displaying his list accomplishments.

Once, when Ole Miss was waging a torrid football battle with Louisiana State University, Walker's antics cost his team a well-deserved victory.

He was bent on settling some sort of feud, imaginary or real, that he felt against the U. S. U. safety man. Walker was carrying the ball and although he reached the goal standing up he deliberately charged into the Louisiana player. He knocked his opponent down, all right, but in doing so the ball popped out of his arms. Another Louisiana player scooped up the ball and ran the length of the gridiron for the only score of the contest.

New York Cotton

New York, June 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, five points advance; one decline on trade buying of July and liquidation of new crop positions which partly offset higher Liverpool cables. October sold up to 11 1/8 on the early demand and was ruling around 11 3/4 at the end of the first hour when active months were about one to five points net higher. The market at midday was steady and within a few points of the best at new net advances of 4 to 14 points. Futures closed steady, four to 23 higher, spot steady, middling 12.23.

New York, June 19.—(AP)—It was a "hit or miss" stock market today with the misses being in the majority. Early selling of the steel leaders put a crimp in trading sentiment. Support appeared later for selected issues and a number of these were up fractions to a point or so around the fourth hour. The late tone was irregular. Sales approximated 800,000 shares.

Positions Found For Chemical Graduates

Raleigh, June 19.—Graduates in chemical engineering at N. C. State College are another group of students who do not have to worry about finding employment after receiving their degrees. Announcement was made at the college today that the 38 members of this year's senior class in chemical engineering already were at work in the chemical field. Twelve of the graduates have been employed by North Carolina firms. Eleven have gone into Virginia. Other states represented are Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, and Louisiana. Kansas supplies more volcanic ash, used for abrasives, scouring powder and soaps, than any other state—and never had a volcano.

EDWINA BOOTH RECOVERS

Bed-ridden for years by a mysterious tropical ailment that baffled doctors of two continents, Edwina Booth, former movie star, has recovered at last. She is shown in New York with her physician, Dr. Edward Spencer Cowies. She contracted the disease while filming "Trader Horn" in Africa. (Associated Press Photo)

"All scales do not need adjusting," he said. "This work is a matter of routine and minor adjustments are often made to insure continued accuracy."

PILL TO COMBAT FAMINE PRESCRIBED FOR CHINA

Lanchow, China, (AP)—Future famines in China may be effectively overcome if a "starvation specific" invented by Dr. Ma Yen-Shu, a Cantonese physician, proves successful. Dr. Ma's prescription, it is said, consists of pills containing highly concentrated sesame, beans and certain medicinal ingredients. The taking of these "starvation" pills, Dr. Ma says, will enable a person to live for weeks without ordinary food. He has submitted his formula to the Kansu province famine commission for consideration as a measure of relief to western Kansu.
