CIRCUIT COURT DENIES BOARD RIGHT TO ACT

Declares It Has No Authority in Interstate Business

ACTION BROUGHT BY DETROIT FIRM

Petition Asking Enforcement of Labor Relations Board Is Denied

Cincinnati, June 30.—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals held today that the national labor relations board lacks authority to issue orders affecting companies whose business "does not directly affect any phase of any interstate commerce."

It dismissed a petition of the board asking enforcement of an order it issued to the Fruehaus trailer company of Detroit and directed that the order be set aside.

The Fruehaus company attacked the constitutionality of the national labor relations act in appealing from the order of the board.

Authority for the national labor relations act, the court said "is claimed under the commerce clause of the constitution. Since the order is directed to the control and regulation of the relations between the trailer company and its employees in respect to their activities in the manufacture and production of trailers and does not directly affect any phase of interstate commerce in which the trailer company may be engaged x x x the congress has no authority or power to regulate or control such relations between the trailer company and its employees, the national labor relations board was without authority to issue the order."

Lehman To Run Again In Office

HERBERT H. LEHMAN

Albany, N. Y., June 30.—(AP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman announced today he would yield to party pressure and run for a third term.

The chief executive of President Roosevelt's home state called newspapermen to his office and gave them a 200-word statement declaring he could "no longer resist the pleas of the party, both in the state and nation."

The governor's decision came with surprising suddenness and within a few days after the Democratic convention in Chicago.

RENEW EFFORT SOLVE MURDER

Expert Called Into Death of Night Club Entertainer

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—A handwriting expert was placed on the trail of the slayer of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle today as investigators renewed their interrogation of an admirer of the pretty night club entertainer.

Herbert J. Walter was called into the case to study a bizarre message scrawled in lipstick on a mirror in the victim's hotel room. It read: "Black legion game"—interpreted to mean "black legion game."

Chief of detectives J. L. Sullivan—terming it one of a number of "intentionally misleading clues" left by the man who crushed Mrs. Castle's skull with a paving brick early yesterday as she lay in bed beside her 7-year-old son—asked Walter to compare the notes with handwriting of persons questioned in the case.

Sibney Scaps, 32, master of ceremonies at a north side cafe, who listed himself as a "good friend of the brunette hostess, was held for a new quiz, after he had submitted to a lie detector test. Capt. William O'Brien said Scaps was "shaky" on all his answers about his activities Sunday night.

It was the official theory that the slayer had covered his face with black grease paint and affected a negro dialect to frustrate identification by the woman's young son who watched the grotesque crime.

ESTIMATES OF TAX RECEIPTS ARE EXCEEDED

Brighter Picture For Nation's Finances Than Expected

STATEMENT DUE ON WEDNESDAY

Secret'y Morgenthau to Release Official Figures in His 'Annual Message'

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—A brighter picture of the state of the nation's finances than had been drawn in official estimates appeared in prospect today as the treasury tallied its books for the fiscal year ending at midnight.

Secretary Morgenthau will give the official statement tomorrow night on a nation wide radio hook-up in what he characterizes as his "annual" speech, but in the meantime some indication of the final figures may be gained from the treasury's daily statement of condition, latest of which is through the close of business, June 26.

It appears definite that budgetary estimates of receipts will be more than fulfilled, excluding the invalidated processing taxes and that Secretary Morgenthau's amended forecast of a deficit of $5,966,600,000 on June 30 would not materialize.

President Roosevelt's revised budget last September called for receipts of $4,460,000,000 during the fiscal year including $529,000,000 of processing taxes, which in the meantime have been ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme court. Through June 26, and despite receipts only $67,000,000 in processing taxes the government's total income has been $5,080,000,000.

Expenditures through June 26 amounted to $4,793,000,000, the largest in any peace-time year, but the deficit was only $4,712,757,000, which is $1,253,843,000 short of Morgenthau's latest estimates with only four days to run.

The gross public debt on June 26 amounted to $33,950,000,000 with a total of $2,930,000,000 remaining in the general fund of the treasury to meet this indebtedness.

PITT FARMERS FAVOR SYSTEM

Vote for Government Supervised Tobacco Grading

Pitt county farmers, or at least those eligible to participate in a referendum being conducted in the flue cured section, are enthusiastically in favor of tobacco grading system supervised by the Federal government.

With reports in from all of the township meetings with the exception of Chocod, at which place the meeting was held today, approximately 90 per cent of farmers allowed to participate in the voting favored the proposal.

Only farmers who sold tobacco on the Farmville, Smithfield or Goldsboro market last year are eligible to participate in the ballot.

The poll was taken at meetings which have been underway in the county for the past week or so. Farmers who did not attend the meetings and who are eligible to vote, were asked to do so by mail.

The International Revenue department at Greensboro makes a check on farmers to see that only those eligible to vote cast ballots and also to see that no farmer votes more than one time, by person and by mail.

If the farmers favor government supervised grading, the system will be installed at the Farmville, Smithfield and Goldsboro markets this year. The system probably will be extended to other markets next year, provided, however, upon the approval of farmers selling tobacco on the various markets.

The recent meetings were called for two purposes. First to get the sentiment of farmers on the grading system, and second to select committeemen to supervise the soil conservation program in the field.

R. M. Winn of Washington is in this vicinity in connection with the referendums being conducted in the flue cured tobacco section. His only comment this morning was that the farmers seem to be enthusiastically endorsing the proposed system.

News Behind The News

DEFENSE: Political observers are wondering just how expert the New Deal high command will be as President Roosevelt takes the role of defender of the administration. In 1932 he led the attack on the "ins." Now he must defend himself against the "outs." A complete reversal of 1932 strategy is necessary.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, stammering into the radio after Senator Barkley's keynote speech said: "It's splendid. It's an offense and not a defense."

Enough has developed to show that Roosevelt sticks to the military axiom, "A quick attack is the best defense." He and his supporters will do all in their power to put the G. O. P. on the defensive.

LAUNCH PROBE INTO ACTS OF NIGHT RIDERS

G-Men May Be Called to Aid in Ferreting Out Members

VICTIMS AFRAID TO RELATE FACTS

Solicitor Says, However, Identity of A Number of Outlaws Is Known

Williamston, June 30.—(AP)—The G-men, nemesis of the big time gangster, may take a hand in ferreting out the members of a band of women-flogging night riders who have terrorized a small Columbus county community in recent months.

Solicitor J. J. Burney is now investigating the doings of the band, which have just come to light, and federal district attorney J. O. Carr said today he was watching the evidence closely to determine if any of the victims were taken across the state line.

Clarendon, the village near where the night riders spread terror, is only a few miles from the South Carolina line. Carr said if there is a suggestion any victim was taken across the line the federal bureau of investigation would be asked to take a hand.

Solicitor Burney said that although the victims' fear of reprisals was hindering the investigation, the identity of several of the terrorists was known and that he would "fight to the bitter end" to break up the band and bring its members to trail.

Two Fountain Men Given Road Terms On Assault Count

Both Appeal, However, And Bond For Appearance In Next Term Superior Court Set At $500

Dick Smith and Wright Webb, both of near Fountain, were convicted of assault on a female and each was given a 12-months' road sentence in County court today.

The two defendants appealed and bond was set at $500 each.

The two young men were convicted of an assault upon Miss Blanch Galloway, also of the Fountain community.

The trial consumed much of the morning session of court.

The prosecuting witness remained on the stand at length this morning and underwent a stiff examination at the hands of defense counsel. The defendants were represented by Gaylord and Hannah and J. B. James was employed as private prosecution and conducted the case for the State.

W. R. Drake, charged with driving while drunk, was acquitted. The case charging Frank Taylor with assault with a deadly weapon was transferred to Superior court, the defendant having requested a jury trial.

A number of cases scheduled for trial this week were postponed and will not be heard until next Tuesday or later.

Pitt Boy Is Injured When Hit By Vehicle

Mervin Moore, 14-year-old boy who lives on the Falkland road about five miles from Greenville suffered cuts about the head and bruises on the left arm yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by E. H. Browne, traveling salesman who gave his address as the Proctor hotel.

As a result of the wreck, which occurred near the boy's home, Mr. Browne is facing a charge of reckless driving. The case was continued until next week's term of county court.

The lad was not seriously injured.

Tar Heel Projects To Get $3,220,000

HAILE SELASSIE FACES JEERING

Emperor of Ethiopia Faces Down Hostile Demonstration

Geneva, June 30.—(AP)—Little Haile Selassie of Ethiopia faced down a hostile demonstration by spectators in the League of Nations assembly today to declare he had been fighting the cause of small countries faced by powerful invaders.

His first words were drowned by an uproar that threw the assemblage statesmen into confusion.

Police went into action in the galleries and arrested a number of alleged fascists charged with cat-calling demonstrations.

The emperor devoted much of his speech to a recapitulation of the developments leading to the Italian conquest of Ethiopia. Then he said: "I did not wish the war that was imposed upon me. In this struggle I have been fighting the cause of all small countries against the greed of a powerful invader."

Petition Withdrawn Against A. & N. C.

Raleigh, June 30.—(AP)—The utilities commission announced today it had cancelled hearings set for July 14 on the petitions of the Norfolk Southern railroad to set up joint line rates with the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad which would change the status of the state-owned line to an independent if granted.

C. H. Noah, assistant director of railroad transportation for the commission said the Norfolk Southern withdrew its petitions.

PIN MACHINES HELD INVALID BY HIGH COURT

Conviction of Cumberland Operator Is Upheld by Group

SUPREME COURT DECIDES ISSUE

Justices Divide Three to Two on Case Involving Operation of Marble Machines

Raleigh, June 30.—(AP)—The North Carolina Supreme Court today upheld the conviction in Cumberland county of James Humphries for "possession of a slot machine" or "marble game" which was prohibited under two laws passed by the 1935 general assembly.

The court split three to two on the case.

The court handed down 12 opinions and adjourned its spring term sine die. Only one case was carried over undecided and the docket was nearer clearer than at any time in years.

William Abraham Hoogin, convicted in Forsyth county in January of the murder of Herbert Searcy lost his appeal from a death sentence.

Ollie Parrish and Dr. C. G. Stewart, negro physician of Greensboro, gained a new trial in Guilford county on charges growing out of the death of Ethel Smith after an alleged illegal abortion.

Associate Justice William A. Devin wrote the major opinion in the slot machine case with Chief Justice W. F. Stacy writing a vigorous dissent in which Associate Justice George Connor joined.

Noting the two laws passed by the 1935 legislature relating to slot machines were "grammatical" the majority opinion held the court should make its interpretation to determine the intent of the language and should correct the language if their true meaning is obvious and real meaning is apparent on the face of the whole enactment.

Chief Justice Stacy, however, contended it "appeared clear the general assembly meant to recede from absolute prohibition" by passing a second act.

Tobacco Payments From Government Arrive In County

Checks For 50 Pitt Farmers Received at Offices County Agent; Corn-Hogs Payments Here

Tobacco adjustment payment checks representing $7,000 were received at the offices of the county agent today for distribution to 50 Pitt farmers.

The checks averaged $140 each, but R. R. Bennett, farm agent pointed out that several of the payments amounted to $500 or more. The checks represent the last payment under the old AAA program.

The payments received this morning, however, do not constitute the final batch due in the county and Mr. Bennett urged that farmers who are not advised by mail to do so not to come to his offices for checks as they have not been received. All farmers for whom payments were received today have been or will be notified to call for them.

In addition to the tobacco payments, a number of corn-hog payments were received this morning. The checks, 10 in number, totalled $700, for an average of $70 for each payment. It was pointed out that this county did not participate to such a great extent in the corn-hog program.

Mr. Bennett said the corn-hog payments probably were the last to be received in the county for the 1935 program, but added these might be a few scattered checks to come where the contracts were held up for some detailed adjustment.

The young boy died yesterday afternoon. He is survived by his parents and the following sisters and brothers: Corlie Marie, Vernon, Eula Mae, Moses, Clifton, and George Floyd Gurganus.

Harris' favorable trial was about $25,000,000 a year.

Both Hoey And McDonald Take To Piedmont Areas

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL.
Raleigh, June 29.—The Piedmont will be the battleground for votes between Clyde R. Hoey and Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in this final week of the campaign, as these two candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the second primary Saturday attempt to "get the votes where the votes are."

The Hoey managers are confident that the western counties, which went almost solidly for Hoey in the first primary on June 6, are now "safe for Democracy" and that the county managers can be depended upon to get the vote out Saturday. The McDonald managers are equally confident that the eastern counties in which he was strongest three weeks ago, are more than ever pro-McDonald now after ten days of intensive campaigning in them, so that he can spend a part of this last week in other sections.

Accordingly, both Hoey and McDonald will concentrate their final week of campaigning in the more thickly populated Piedmont counties where there are more votes in single precincts than in some of the smaller eastern and western counties and where it is agreed that sentiment has not already crystallized to the extent it has in the east and the west. If Hoey can get a majority of the Piedmont vote, it is generally conceded that with the vote he is sure to get in the west, he will win the nomination by a large majority. But if McDonald can get a majority in even half of the Piedmont counties and gets anything like the vote in the east which he is claiming, he may be able to make it very uncomfortable for Mr. Hoey.

Farley Prods Democrats For Presidential Contest

By RAY TUCKER.
Philadelphia, June 29.—Although he did not broadcast his fears for headlines, national chairman James A. Farley solemnized the national convention with a private warning of state, city and county leaders that the Roosevelt-Landon presidential contest looks like a "horse race."

Openly the Democrats profess no fear of the outcome in November. Privately they concede that they are not so sure of victory as they were a few weeks ago.

Unpublished but bitter internal rows have developed into fullest fighting flower here. Mr. Farley discovered that his party is not so united as he thought it was. The so-called old guard faction in the party is sore at the neglect which has been shown it in many states.

The resolution was a shock even to highest party chieftains who thought they had been in touch with a partisan thought. They learned that fences throughout the Middle West — where the candidacy of Rep. Lemke will prove most powerful — have broken down in the last four years. Beneath optimistic claims of triumph brooding suspicions that 1936 will be a different story from 1932.

Some time ago President Roosevelt told friends that he expected to win 325 electoral votes. Now the inside figure is 297, the decrease resulting entirely from the Democrats' dread that disaffection in the West and East may cost them many states which they had counted in their column. The new figure is only 31 more than the number necessary for election, and the turnover of a few states could easily upset these calculations.

State To Get $12,000,000 In WPA Funds Next Year

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 27.—North Carolina will get an allotment of approximately $12,000,000 for the continuation of the Works Progress Administration program in North Carolina for the new 12 months period beginning July 1, 1936 to June 30, 1937. George W. Coan, Jr., state WPA Administrator, said here today.

morning and in Greensboro at night. Thursday morning he will speak in Thomasville, in Salisbury that night. Friday noon he will speak in Kannapolis in Cabarrus county and close his campaign that night with a speech in Winston-Salem, his home town. He may make one radio speech during the week "if he can get enough money to pay for the time," his headquarters said here today.

Although Mr. Hoey's speaking program is not yet definitely completed, his headquarters said all of his speeches this week would be in the Piedmont counties and that he would make two state-wide radio speeches.

Thus it was clear to most observers here today that the Hoey managers have definitely abandoned all plans to do anything more in the east, where most of the counties are now definitely conceded to McDonald, but that they are going to make a determined drive to put most of the Piedmont counties into the Hoey column, including those which went for Graham or McDonald on June 6. A good many of the Hoey workers privately admit that Mr. Hoey made few if any new votes in the east as the result of his speeches there last week and that about all they hope for in the east is to hold what they had and get an even break with McDonald on the Graham vote. Most observers are also convinced that while most of the leaders who were formerly for Graham have come over to Hoey, not more than 50 per cent of those who voted for Graham in the east will vote for Hoey next Saturday and that the other 50 per cent will either vote for McDonald or stay home and not vote at all.

The Hoey managers are convinced, however, that while McDonald may be able to swell his original vote in a few counties as a result of getting some of the Graham vote, in many others he will not get as many votes as he did in the first primary.

NEW OFFICERS TAKE CONTROL Annual Administration Changes Made in Rotary Club

By WYATT BROWN.
The Rotary Club sponsored Orthopedic Clinic is to be opened for service to this and neighboring communities on Friday of this week at ten a. m. with Dr. Hugh Thompson attending surgeon from Raleigh. Dr. N. Thomas Ennis announced last night to the Rotary Club. Also at the meeting last night the old administration was clapped out and the new clapped in.

J. Claude Gaskins, veteran secretary of the Greenville Rotary Club who has distinguished that office for quite a few years by his untiring effort and indomitable manner, retired last night from his honored position. In the County Claude Gaskins is practically an institution and to the Rotary Club he was the Poobah and many administrations — arranging the feeding of any number of unexpected guests without a moment's notice, is one of his lesser talents for they were varied talents he shared with the Club.

In passing out of office Bill Lee, who has done a fine job as president of the club for the past year, had the chairman of his various committees review the year and offer suggestions to the incoming administration. The committees reporting were: Herbert ReBarker, Aims and Objects; Kinchut Cobb, Club Service; Herbert Waldrop, Vocational Service; Fordy Harding, International Service; Wyatt Brown, Community Service; Gu Fleschmann, Program; Hayward Dall, Country Acquaintance. Following which retiring president Bill Lee made the final speech and presented the gavel to J. B. Kittrell who is incoming president for the year beginning next week.

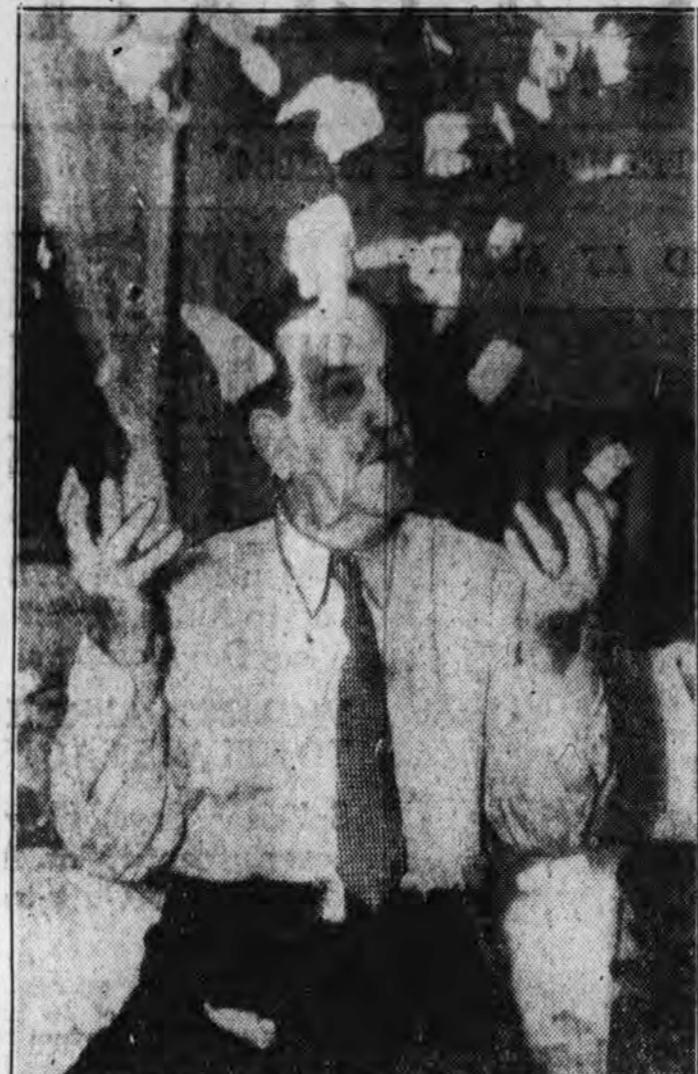

Next J. B. Kittrell presented the new board of directors for the coming year: Karl Pace, Wesley Harvey, Yo Walker, Phil Goodson, Bill Lee, and Gerald Mitchell. Secretary, "J. B." made a brief congratulatory speech, auguring a very promising year.

Guests of the club were Carl Studdard, Washington; Dr. Anderson, Rocky Mount. The attendance prize given by John Aman was won by Karl Pace. A souvenir booklet was given to each club member as a gift from the Philadelphia Rotary club and the Fifteenth District of Rotary International who last week were hosts to the International Rotary Convention of 1936. Bill Lee, retiring president presided over last night's meeting.

Hollywood—(AP)—Visitors to a movie set probably think that all an assistant director does is to sing out "Quiet!"

Monday afternoon. All our plans had to be called off and a new call issued when Beal reached town. But that was just an incident in the life of an assistant director.

Hollywood — There is nothing quite like a stretch of idleness to dash the spirits of most of your movie players. They may beg and cry for a vacation, storm at their bosses that they are not machines to work month in and month out without rest and even walk out in rebellion when the tenth picture in as many months is handed them.

Free-lance players who have to work to draw pay are generally more leery of vacation time than contract people who eat working or not. But even these, when held under contract and not used, find their smiles a bit forced, their gaiety crumbling and their confidence insidiously weakening.

They probably don't admit it even to themselves, but they wonder what's wrong. Of course they realize that it's just as the bosses say: They are being saved for the right vehicle. And yet...?

So they wait, in the unhappy role of movie stars without roles.

EQUIP YOUR CAR WITH Firestone
GUM-DIPPED TIRES
for Greater Safety!

THERE is a reason why Louis Meyer won the 500-mile Indianapolis race this year—and why he is the only man ever to win this gruelling race three times. He always used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, and never experienced tire trouble of any kind.

Louis Meyer knows tire construction. He also knows that to drive for 500 consecutive miles over this hot brick track, negotiating the dangerous curves 800 times at the record-breaking average speed of 109 miles an hour, requires tires of super strength and greatest blowout protection, as a blowout on any one of the dangerous curves would likely mean instant death. By the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process every cord in the tires on Louis Meyer's car was soaked and coated with liquid rubber, thereby preventing internal friction and heat. This is the secret of the extra strength and reserve safety built into Firestone Tires.

When you make your holiday trip, you of course will not drive at 109 miles per hour, but at today's higher speeds you do need tires that will give you greatest blowout protection and will stop your car up to 25% quicker.

Take no chances! Let us equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, the safest tires built. It costs so little to protect lives worth so much!

As a surprise to Miss Andrews little Miss Barbara Sheppard White dressed as a maid, entered with a novelty bucket holding a shower of useful kitchen utensils. Miss Andrews graciously accepted the gifts.

Vick-Gallup.
Fayetteville, N. C., June 28.—The wedding of Mrs. Mary Lee Gallup, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lee Gallup and the late Durant Tillet Gallup of Fayetteville, and George Davis Vick, Jr., of Selma and New Bern formerly of Raleigh, was solemnized last evening at 9 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Fayetteville, Dr. Joel S. Snyder, the pastor of the church, was the officiating minister.
The church was effectively decorated, the altar being banked with palms, ferns and other greenery. Ivy was used against a background of white, with vases of gladioli and Queen Ann's lace.
Prior to the ceremony, a lovely program of wedding music was presented by Miss Edith Hall, the church organist; Miss Katherine Monaghan, violinist; Mrs. Roy B. Case, vocalist; and members of the church choir.

The choir entered by the left aisle, singing "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." Miss Hall's selections included the "Venetian Love Song," "Call Me Thine Own," and "To A Wild Rose," the last-named composition being played softly while the vows were being spoken. Miss Monaghan played "O Thou Sublime, Sweet Evening Star" and Mrs. Case sang "I Love You Truly."

The bridal chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" was sung by the choir as the processional, and Mendelssohn's wedding march, as the recessional. "The Seven-Fold Amen," by Spenser, was sung by the choir immediately after the ceremony.
The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Durant Tillet Gallup. The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Edward Hoge Vick of Selma and Chapel Hill. Mrs. Burmah Dixon Moore of Mount Holly, sister of the bride, was came of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Foy Allen of Raleigh, Mrs. C. H. Edwards of Greenville, Mrs. Arne Spivey of Selma, Mrs. Kenneth Gallup of Fayetteville, Mrs. Malcolm B. Seavell of Raleigh, and Mrs. Marvin D. Sugg of Greenville.
Groomsman were Hayden Digger of Raleigh, Emmette Willis of Raleigh, Charles G. Rose, Jr., of Fayetteville, Claude Farrell of Elkin, Malcolm B. Seavell of Raleigh and Kenneth Raynor Gallup of Fayetteville.

The dresses worn by the bridesmaids and maid of honor were of mousseline de soie, fashioned over a darker shade of taffeta. The high bodices were finished with cow necklines at the front. The necklines in back were fastened with two tiny buttons and the gowns were slit to the waistline. The skirts, fitted to the knees, they flared to the floor, ending in small trains in back. The crushed girdles matched the darker slips and were finished in a large bow, the ends of which reached to a point just below the top ruffle of the skirts.

Miss Allen and Mrs. Edwards wore gowns of apple blossom pink; Miss Spivey and Mrs. Gallup, daffodil yellow; Mrs. Sugg and Mrs. Seavell, ice mint green; and Mrs. Moore the dame of honor, was gowned in blue bonnet blue. All of the attendants carried arm bouquets of mixed summer flowers, tied with matching tulle.
The bride wore a handsome gown of ivory satin, fashioned along princess lines, with a high draped neckline. The long sleeves were full in the wrists, where they were gathered in with a narrow cuff. Graceful folds characterized the skirt which ended in a long train. Her full-length veil of ivory illusion was worn cap-fashion with a pleated band, caught at the back with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.
Mrs. Mary Lee Gallup, mother of the bride, wore a dress of silver-blue chiffon, with a shoulde corsege of Tallasman roses and sweet peas.
Mrs. Vick, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of duty pink lace and a corsage of Tallasman roses.

Birth Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jackson announce the birth of a daughter Dorothy Ann, June 24, 1936, at Pitt General Hospital. Mrs. Jackson was formerly Miss Ann Small of this city.

mother of the bridegroom, was becomingly gowned in black lace, fashioned over lavender, and she wore a shoulde corsege of sweet peas.
Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for the bridal party, intimate friends of the families and out-of-town guests.

To Manage Local Branch.
E. L. Saywell recently arrived in Greenville to begin his duties as manager of the Firestone Tire and Service store on East Fifth street. Mr. Saywell has had considerable experience in Richmond and Petersburg, Va.
He succeeded J. M. King, Jr., as manager of the local branch.

Clever Performance.
The program of dramatic dance and song numbers, clever impersonations and modern ventriloquist stunts with marionettes to be presented by Lucille Elmore and her two assistants at the college Thursday night, promises to be a very delightful entertainment. The two assistants are musicians as versatile as "the diminutive comedienne" herself.
This is the third entertainment in the summer school program. The one for next week will be the Confer-Miller Players who will present two plays, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

Birth Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smith announce the birth of a daughter, Virginia Lee, June 24, 1936, at Pitt General Hospital.

Art Department.
In the art department of the college today demonstrations are being given of finger painting that was originated by Miss Ruth Faison Shaw, a North Carolinian who has made a national reputation in primary education and art. She discovered this form of expression first for children and then found that it was being adopted by adults and now she seems to be writing a new chapter in the history of art. Her work has spread not only throughout America but through England and into other countries. Her studio is in New York City.

Special materials, both paints and paper, and a special technique are required. The demonstrations at the school today is for the purpose of instructing the teachers in the technique and acquainting them with the materials. These are being given by Mrs. E. S. Kirby, She and F. J. Webb, Jr., who is also here today, are representatives of the southeastern section for the Binney & Smith Co., of New York, the firm that handles the materials. Greensboro is headquarters for this section of the South.
Miss Kate Lewis, art teacher in the college, has had direct connection in New York with Miss Shaw and her work and has been greatly interested in introducing it to her classes as one of the forms of art and crafts to be used in the grades.
While teachers have used it with great success in primary and grammar grades, adults have taken it up until it is fast becoming one of the art hobbies.

State Highway Force Sees Fewer Deaths

Raleigh, June 30.— Captain Charles D. Farmer of the State Highway Patrol is keeping his fingers crossed today and rapping on wood from time to time, in the hope that midnight tonight will arrive without another fatal automobile accident. He had the jitters over the week end for fear there would be a flock of accidents, but only one fatal crash was reported in spite of the heavy week-end travel. If no accidents occur today and tonight, a sharp reduction in the number of accidents will be shown during June, Capt. Farmer is confident, especially when compared with the 92 fatal accidents and some 450 other accidents in May. It will probably be two weeks yet before the exact figures are available, but Capt. Farmer is hoping that the number of fatal accidents will not exceed 70 for June.
The fact that there are at least 150,000 more automobiles registered and in operation in the state now than a year ago also that thousands of cars are now coming into North Carolina from other states bringing vacationists to the seashore and the mountain resorts, is making the problem of keeping accidents down more difficult. Therefore, Capt. Farmer pointed out, orders have been issued to highway patrolmen to be more strict than ever in the enforcement of the traffic laws, however, and to increase their vigilance for careless and reckless drivers.

SKIRLING BAGPIPES HUSHED BY ENGLISH MAGISTRATE
Greensby, Eng.—(AP)— Modified court sanctions keep Frederick Allan Eskdale Allan's windy bagpipes off the Cheshire county "air" three days of each week.
Allan holly denied this, saying there was nothing but pure melody in the skill of his pipes. He offered to prove it in court, but the magistrates passed up this test. They decided that on Monday's, Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays for periods of not more than 20 minutes at a time between 6:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m., Allan might blow the organ out of his wind bag if he so desired. Otherwise he must brood in silence.

Neighbors' efforts to confine Allan's playing to a single room in his house were denied. He can play all over the house, if he wants to.

Peace Officers Plan Go To Traffic School

Raleigh, June 30.—About 25 police officers from various cities and towns in the state are going to attend the special training school for traffic officers to be held at the University of Alabama July 29 and 31 in Tuscaloosa. It was announced here today by Ben R. Stroup of the National Safety Council, who was at the quarterly meeting of the Carolina Peace Officers Association in Kinston last week.

The peace officers are showing more and more interest in traffic law enforcement with the result that they should help greatly in reducing accidents, Stroup said.
There were 7,000 cases of small-pox but less than 40 deaths from the disease in the United States in 1935.

TYPICAL HOEY CAMPAIGN ATTITUDE

According to newspaper reports of Clyde R. Hoey's recent address at Thomasville the gubernatorial candidate declared, "I take it for granted that most every state officer and anybody else with any sense will vote for me in the next primary."

That statement is certainly typical of the campaign that Mr. Hoey and his "ring" supporters are carrying to the people of North Carolina at this time in their efforts to nominate him as the Democratic candidate for governor.

On every hand you will find the politicians, from the biggest ones in the state to the smallest ward-heeler, giving their support to Mr. Hoey's candidacy and at the same time displaying an arrogant attitude toward anyone who does not see eye to eye with them.

There are more than three quarters of a million Democratic voters in North Carolina. In the first primary a little more than 190,000 of them voted for Mr. Hoey, nearly as many voted for McDonald, around 125,000 voted for Sandy Graham and around 300,000 did not vote at all.

Now under Mr. Hoey's statement there are more than half a million senseless Democrats in North Carolina and he feels these senseless Democrats should step aside and let him and his all-wise and all-powerful "machine," made up of ring politicians and backed by powerful corporations, take charge of the state's affairs and run this government for the benefit of this minority while those half million or more senseless Democrats suffer the consequences.

It is our opinion that the really sensible people of our state resent such a statement on the part of a gubernatorial candidate.

MURDER TONIGHT BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SPONSOR: Inspector Hylton has found at least two persons, Captain Reeves and Dale Shipley, who have had trouble with old Arthur Burdett since that dogmatic scientist just has been murdered, the Inspector is interested. And now Burdett's solicitor returns from France hours of the murder, and arrives at the police cottage in "Hope Frederick with a copy of Arthur Burdett's latest will—plus a good deal of excitement."

Chapter 16 NEW SCENT

"I WANT it to be clearly understood," he said almost severely, "that I am doing this on your orders and authority as a police officer and that no initiative rests with me in the matter whatsoever. Do you agree?"

"Dear Mr. Hanley," Hylton laughed, "a policeman's life is practically one long round of irregularities. I'll take full responsibility for looking at the will—so go ahead."

"Very well." The mere familiar feel of a legal document seemed to give little Hanley more confidence and clearing his throat he read aloud:

"This is the last will and testament of me, Arthur Clayton Caldwell Burdett of Enderton Court Hope Enderton in the County of Sussex made this twelfth day of January in the year of Our Lord

"I insisted on that clause being included."

nineteen hundred and thirty-six, I hereby specifically revoke the will and testament made by me on the twenty-second day of February, 1922. I appoint my solicitor Quinton Eustache Hanley of the firm of Hanley & Payne, Morechester, to be my executor and I direct that all my debts and funeral expenses shall be paid as soon as reasonably possible after my decease."

"I insisted on that clause being included," Mr. Hanley said almost fiercely.

"So far it's all cackle," Hylton said, "when do we come to the 'esses'?"

"The gist or vital essence of the matter," Quinton Hanley said reproversily, "now follows. The wording, you will please understand, is exactly as Mr. Burdett wished it himself:

"In my previous Will I left all my property and possessions whatsoever to my half nephew Dale Shipley, but owing to that young man's insufferable rudeness, his bad temper and even threats used towards me this day, I have decided that I shall not benefit by my death to the extent of one penny. All my property and possessions whatsoever therefore I hereby give and bequeath to Andrew Lumsdale, my manservant, at present in my employ, who at least is reasonably honest and keeps a civil tongue in his head."

"And that," said Quinton Hanley, as he folded the document carefully and put it back in its long envelope, "is all."

Very little conversation was heard for the next eighty minutes. Then James White leaned back and said, "I think you'll find that's mate, Inspector."

Secretly, Hylton was just a shade chagrined; he rather prided himself on his chess and it was some time since he had been bested in a game.

"Oh, just a bit of luck," James White said modestly, but it was humanly impossible to keep a hint of pleasure out of his voice.

"Luck for the Law, eh?" Hylton ruminated. "Well, I dare say we shall need it all before we're finished with this case."

tract the radical vote.

DESPITE Another element in the situation which many politicians believe will put the New Deal on the defensive is the attempt of its spokesmen to convince the people that Congress, and not the Supreme Court, was the better judge of constitutional law when it passed the NRA AAA Guffey act, and other legislation.

The G. O. P. is thus presented, free of charge, with a dangerous weapon, a non-partisan observer sees it. Its speakers instantly seize the opportunity to charge that one of the New Deal objectives is to in the New Deal armory, as impartial observers see it, is the distribution of billions for relief and pump-priming. No matter whether mistakes are made or not, no matter whether some of the money is wasted and too much of it paid to political jobholders, millions of voters are directly or indirectly receiving benefit from this spending.

It seems to be agreed that when Senator Robinson declared that relief money would stop if the New Deal should be beaten he struck a tender and responsive chord in the body politic. Nobody on the G. O. P. side has been heard to say that the G. O. P. would outdo the New Deal in relief spending. Criticism of "big spending" can be twisted into opposition to "adequate relief."

Another twist, and the G. O. P. can be charged with willingness to starve the victims of the depression.

VOLUME: There will be little delay in starting a whirlwind campaign. Thousands of spellbinders are at command, but really big guns of national caliber are very few. Candidates Roosevelt and Landon must be heard too often—and yet nobody can speak for them as well as they can speak for themselves, or be heard as far.

It's commonly supposed that radio will be the principal means of reaching voters, but it will be secondary so far as the candidates are concerned. Public statements issued by Roosevelt or Landon can be fairly frequent without boring the people, while too many radio speeches might do harm. Voters call for the arguments over what somebody said. Important utterances over radio are always in dispute unless followed by the exact text in print.

The printed matter planned by national committees will far exceed in quantity—never mind quality—anything ever before turned out.

IMPORTANT: Don't forget that new legislation is to be tried out on voters during the campaign—particularly the Walsh-Hesley act applying the NRA to concerns doing business with the government—which directly or indirectly includes a majority of concerns worthwhile.

It's conceivable that this law will stir up a furor in the business world. It certainly will if threatened strikes based upon new labor demands should materialize.

The strong-arm methods used by President Green of the A. P. L. to put this bill through is proof enough of the importance he attached to it.

New York CONVINCER: The New York Landon organization is all set to step on the gas. National G. O. P. Chairman John Hamilton did a smooth job of oiling the cox with friction threatened to develop.

Some of the key New York party chiefs feared he would apply For-Landon - Before - Cleveland standards as a test of fitness for campaign leadership—in which case they might have been shoved out in the cold. He did nothing of the sort. Instead he patted the boys who have been in charge of the state G. O. P. on the back and asked them to carry on. The real bosses will be Clarence King and his state executive committee, who have reached an understanding with Hamilton on all points.

New York G. O. P.-ers were at first inclined to resent having Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts brought in to run the eastern telling.

LONDON YOUNG 'FARMSTEADS' IN COMPARISON TO BE SET UP

Borah and Hoover Were at Peak When Nominee a "Kid"

By PRESTON GROVER Washington—The far separation of the new lives that have come into the Republican party with the advent of Landon is emphasized as much as anything perhaps by a comparison with the "old figures."

While a bare dozen years is a veritable tick-tock to the revolving hand of history, yet in the life of a political figure it is a long time.

The Cleveland convention may have seen the beginning of the final chapters of the political biographies of two ranking American figures—Borah and Hoover.

Dovetailing with that history, but continuing on into what may prove an utterly new era (those words have been used in other places) are the beginning chapters of new political careers—short or long though they may prove to be.

Specifically, these dates help mark the change: When Governor Landon, the new leader of Republicanism, stepped off the campus of the University of Kansas, a graduate, in 1908—

Herbert Hoover was in Asia, Australia, England, Africa, an engineer of mounting international fame.

William E. Borah was beginning his meteoric rise in the Senate after a profitable career in law.

When Landon, as a young man of 24, gave his youthful enthusiasm to the Theodore Roosevelt bolt in 1912—

Hoover's eminence as an engineer and promoter had reached new levels.

Borah, his national legislative reputation already established, directed Roosevelt's pre-convention campaign but refused to bolt.

In 1914, when Landon started out in the oil business—

Hoover, a well known American living in London, headed the relief committee to get Americans out of the war zone.

Borah, striding into the field of foreign affairs, criticized President Wilson's Mexican policy.

Skipping 14 years to 1928, we find that when Landon was Kansas Republican chairman—

Hoover was elected President. Borah, already No. 1 international spokesman in the United States was the spearhead of Hoover's campaign.

Comes 1836: Hoover relinquishes his place as head of the party, and Landon steps into the shoes of the former President wore eight years before. Borah, the news reporters say, is "stunned" by the impact of Landon's gold amendment to the platform.

And Henry P. Fletcher, retiring national chairman? A little story tells it:

In the closing moments of the final session at Cleveland, a reporter rushed upon the stand to ask Fletcher about certain headquarters affairs:

"Don't ask me," said Fletcher "I'm through."

Ruffed grouse, all but extinct in the North Carolina mountains a few years ago, have become plentiful there as a consequence of that state's rigid laws for their protection.

'FARMSTEADS' TO BE SET UP

Large Tract of Land Purchased in Robeson County

RALEIGH, June 29—Announcement was made here today that final approval has been given by officials in Washington to the purchase by the Resettlement Administration of 10,000 acres of farm land on both sides of the Lumber River in Robeson county.

Homer H. B. Mask, regional director, who made the announcement, said the tracts would be divided into one and two horse farmsteads.

While primarily an Indian project, Mask explained, a section of the area will be set aside for white family. The nearest town to the land is Pembroke, a railroad junction between Wilmington and Hamlet, which has been for many years the center of the Croatan settlement in Eastern Carolina.

"This is not to be the village type of project," Mask said, "but each farmstead will be an individual unit. The 10,000 acres will be divided into 100 one horse and 100 two horse farmsteads. The 100 one horse farms will consist of 35 acres, 25 in crops and 10 in woodland and the two horse farms will embrace 65 acres, 45 in crops and 20 in woodlands.

Estimated cost of the land, farm equipment, 200 houses, community facilities and other construction is more than a million dollars, the regional official estimated. A committee of research and extension workers of North Carolina State College of Agriculture, according to James M. Gray, Associate regional director and former chief of the State Extension Service, has approved the project both for social and economic soundness.

Houses of 4, 5 and 6 rooms, of frame construction, will be built on the Pembroke Island. In addition, work stock, a cow, chickens and hogs will be furnished for the farm steader who will operate under a well-rounded farm management plan which will enable him to pay for the farm and equipment over a long period of years. The average amortization cost, due to the very low interest rate, Gray estimated, will be between $250 and $300.

This farm land is in one of the best tobacco growing sections of what is known as the South Carolina belt and is close to the thriving auction markets of Lumberton and Fairmont.

Appraisers, surveyors and engineers have been at work for some time under the direction of A. J. Mauney, land acquisition representative. Pending selection of a community manager, applications for these farmsteads may be addressed to the Regional Family Selection Supervisor, Resettlement Administration, Raleigh.

BUTLER SEEKS TO HEAD CLUB

Morganton Democrat Announces Candidacy for President

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, June 30—Neither the spirited campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor nor the hot weather is dampening the ardor of the various candidates for the presidency of the State Young Democratic Clubs as a sixth candidate for president formally announced today. He is J. Ed Butler of Morganton, former state treasurer of the North Carolina Young Democrats and for two years chairman of the tenth district organization. The annual state convention of Young Democrats will be held in Greensboro July 17 and 18.

Until this time it has been a sort of tradition that the vice president of the Young Democrats would succeed to the presidency each year. So it had been expected that Jim Abernethy of Lincolnville would be elected president this year to succeed Mrs. Bessie Phoenix of Raleigh. But when Jim was elected a member of the 1937 general assembly from Lincoln county, he announced he would not be a candidate for president of the Young Democrats. Then the scramble for the office started.

Butler is believed to be the first of the six candidates to issue a formal announcement of his candidacy, however, and those who know him are confident he will give the other five a real contest. He was one of the founders of Burke county Young Democrats Club and is known as an able organizer. He is a member of the law firm of Ervin and Butler in Morganton.

A vigorous campaign for the presidency of the Young Democrats is expected to be put up by Hayward Robbins of Charlotte, young attorney there also by George Hunsley of Thomasville, president of the Davidson County Young Democrats for two terms and also chairman of the Eighth District organization. Supporters of Harris, Joyner and Hudgins also predict that they are going to have plenty of followers in the convention.

CAPABLE CUB

—By PAP

SPORT SLANTS

by PAP

If the owners of the Boston National league baseball club thought they could disguise the team by simply changing its name from the Braves to the Bees they were mistaken. As far as Tex Carleton, the Chicago Cubs hurler, is concerned, the Bees are still his "cousins."

It's all the same to Tex. This year he has faced the Bees four times and has rung up three victories. It's a habit with Carleton. Even when he was a St. Louis Cardinal he was known to the Boston team.

In the 26 times Tex has faced the Bees from Boston he has emerged victorious on 19 occasions. When you stop to consider that Carleton's lifetime National league record is slightly above 500 it makes his showing against Boston all the more interesting.

Hal Schumacher holds the same sort of a spell over the Cincinnati Reds. Or, at least he did until the current season got underway. Hal beat the Reds something like 15 times in 17 tries. The same, Reds have always been a heady foe to Ben Cantwell. They have outscored him 21-10-9.

Dixie Dean has fastroned on Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Cincinnati. The Chicago Cubs manage to keep things pretty even in the won and lost columns as far as the Great Dix is concerned. If anything, the Cubs hold a slight edge over Dixie to date. Carl Hubbell likes Boston and Cincinnati when he needs a few wins to fatten his average. The Cardinals are a stumbling block in Carl's path.

Curtis Davis usually looks good against the New York Giants. Perhaps that had some influence on the Cubs when they had a chance to add the former Philly moulder to their staff. St. Johnson, of the Reds, on the other hand, has never shown to advantage against the New Yorkers. In 11 games Johnson could score only a single victory. Ed Brandt's toughest assignment has been trying to beat the Chicago Cubs. Paul Dean, Bill Lee, Freddie Fitzsimmons and Tex Carleton seem to do all right against Brooklyn. At the start of the present campaign, Paul was credited with six victories and charged with no defeats against the Dodgers.

Cy Blanton picked on the St. Louis Cardinals and scored four victories against the Gashouse Gang last year as a freshman. Blanton at last seems to have found a measure of the pitching skill that made him a standout in 1935. The Pittsburgh sophomore, after having been shelled from the mound in his first seven games, came back to score a pair of victories.

Blanton was a sensation last year. At this stage of the race Cy had a record of seven or eight victories with nary a defeat charged against him. He had everything a winning hurler needed last season, and led the league in the earned run averages. His figure was 2.59 a 9-inning game.

On the strength of his brilliant 1935 showing, Pie Traynor expected big things of Cy. When Blanton failed to win, Traynor nursed him back to form by giving him plenty of work in the bullpen and sending him out to do an occasional relief job.

If the Brooklyn Dodgers continue at their present pace they are likely to find themselves holders of a brand new National league record. It would not exactly reflect any great amount of credit on them, but unless the Dodgers take a breather, the modern record for the greatest number of defeats in one season will be theirs. Last year the Boston club touched an all-time low when it suffered 115 defeats. The former figure, 109, was set by the Phillies in 1928.

The poor showing of Casey Stengel's cohorts has had a damaging effect on attendance figures. Since the Flock returned home from a Western swing few fans have passed through the turnstiles. Judging by the greening around the team when it faced Pittsburgh at Ebbets Field, the fans who came stayed only to hoot and boo the Dodgers.

There is plenty of indication that the United States Olympic track and field squad will be made up of a startling mixture of transplanted Irish, English, Swedish, German and other athletes, so it was fitting that the first to be named to the team should have been a native American—a full-blooded Indian, Elison (Tarzan) Brown, the Narragansett redskin, earned the right to represent the United States in the feature event of the program—the marathon—when he ran a flock of pale-face runners, ragged and won a Boston race in April. Brown's trek of more than 26 miles covered the very territory through which his ancestors tracked deer and other game.

The presence of a full-blooded Indian on the American squad is certain to call to mind the fact that a few years ago we sent another native American to compete in the Olympics. Jim Thorpe was the fellow. He did very well, too. Back in 1912 Thorpe, a thoroughbred Sac and Fox Indian, out-ran-

Incidental expenses on the trip to Stockholm—but money, nevertheless.

All his Olympic prizes were packed and shipped back to Sweden. What eventually became of them no one knows. They stripped Thorpe of his trophies but they couldn't erase the picture of his all-conquering efforts on the cinder paths. To all who saw him, including King Gustav, the Indian remained the outstanding athlete of the 1912 Olympics.

In the years that have followed, every all-around performer of merit has been compared with the great Sac and Fox. But there was only one Jim Thorpe—just as there has been only one Babe Ruth, one Bobby Jones, one Bill Tilden and one Johnny Weissmuller.

Elison Brown stands a fair chance of winning the Olympic classic—at least his chances are every bit as good as those of any of the men who will face the starter in Berlin. America has not won the Olympic marathon since little Johnny Hayes grabbed the laurel wreath at London in 1908 after the much-discussed finish in which the Italian runner, Dorando, was helped over the line ahead of the field.

'BUGOLOGIST' GETS QUERIES

Telephone Calls and Letters Flood State Entomologist

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 28.—Numerous telephone calls and some letters are received by Dr. R. W. Leiby, State Entomologist in the State Department of Agriculture, better known as the "State Bugologist," gets many telephone calls from housewives here and elsewhere, asking him what to do to exterminate bed bugs, ants, roaches, water bugs and other household insects, he admitted today. But only a very few of those who call for information as to how to exterminate these pests are willing to give their names.

"These calls which we get from housewives, especially the ones in which they want to know how to get rid of bed bugs, are among the most amusing we get," Dr. Leiby said. "The other day a woman called and asked what to do to get rid of these insects and we told her the directions evidently sounded too simple. For a short while later the telephone rang again and another woman called and asked the same questions, and we gave her the same directions we did the first one. We are convinced that the first woman who called was so skeptical of the directions we gave that she asked a friend to call and see if we would tell her the same thing. Neither would she give her name."

Although the principal business of the division of entomology of the State Department of Agriculture is to combat agricultural insects which destroy crops, trees, orchards and fruits, the division is available at all times to give any information to anyone concerning insects of any sort. Dr. Leiby pointed out the division for years has been working with nurserymen towards the elimination of insects that damage flowers, shrubbery and trees. Dr. Leiby is an enthusiastic amateur gardener and enjoys helping other gardeners whenever they have insect problems. He answers hundreds of letters and telephone calls from gardeners seeking information as to how to control insects and worms that do damage to their gardens.

"Why I Switched to Dodge"

by GEORGE DEWITT SHEETS, Cranford, N. J.

I traded in my small car to get a big Dodge "Beauty Winner." It was one of the best moves I ever made.

Why? Because, in the long run, I figure this big Dodge is actually going to cost me less than the small car I had.

For example, I'm getting 31 miles per gallon of gasoline—and I haven't added any oil between changes. And Dodge is so easy to buy! One can get a Dodge for not much more than $25 per month! It's easy to see why more people buy Dodge cars than any other make, with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars!

MANY SEEKING BE PRESIDENT

Rush of Candidates for 1940 Amounts to Stampede

By RAY TUCKER
Philadelphia, June 30.—Although Democrats at the Philadelphia convention adjourned with the belief that Franklin D. Roosevelt is safe in the White House for four more years, the rush of candidates to step into his shoes in 1940 amounted to a stampede.

It aroused smart suspicions among FDR's most intimate friends who have a sneaking hunch that he may be loath to quit the White House four years hence provided he is reelected.

1940 aspirants bobbed up almost overnight. You could discern the immortal political gleam in their eyes if you looked closely enough. You could discover the fire of ambition in their breasts from watching them pirouette through hotel lobbies and listening to their speeches on and off the platform. Despite the President's apparently dictatorial control of the party, there are many Brutuses hanging around.

Though FDR has not groomed any successor, they have not waited for his political blessing. In fact, the chief feature about the under-over contest is that the eight or ten rivals are running under their own steam rather than Roosevelt's.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky is admittedly in the lead at the moment, although he is in his late fifties and hails from a state which has scant geographical claim to political precedence. But his keynote speech made a deep impression on the delegates and the president-makers. The fact that the Kentuckian who entertains Washington drawing rooms with his singing of "Wagon Wheels" was the keynoter in 1932 and this year—and by the grace of Mr. Roosevelt himself—suggests that somebody is building him up.

But there are other candidates in the bushes, including some who are modest and some who are blatant. In the former group may be listed such men as Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Senator Bennett Clark and Senator Eurt Wheeler of Montana.

The names of this trio are on the tongues of everybody who is wondering what—and who—will come after Roosevelt. With the possible exception of Mr. Wallace, the desire to wear Roosevelt's mantle is as strong among these men as a girl's yen for a new suit on Easter Sunday.

But the second-flight list of 1940 presidential aspirants is not so retiring. Such figures as Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, Governor McNutt of Indiana, Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania and R. F. C. Chief Jesse Jones of Texas cannot conceal their ambition to become the Democratic party's nominee four years from now. They do not broadcast it publicly, of course, but anybody with the slightest understanding of politicians senses that their hats are in tomorrow's ring.

Each has his qualifications. Mr. Earle, like Senator Barkley, made a fine impression on the delegates with his ultra-liberal speech. As an erstwhile wealthy playboy who rides around the state in a $16,000 limousine, he trails in the Rooseveltian tradition.

Governor McNutt is said to have given his state an efficient, though slightly political administration. He looks like a President and he has the backing of the American Legion.

Mr. Jones has often been mentioned as a possibility, and he didn't underestimate his accomplishments when he addressed the convention.

If Senator Guffey's machine carries Pennsylvania for Roosevelt next fall, he will have a peculiar claim to preferment. "Joe" has put on an excellent show here and if he caps it by smashing this G. O. P. Gibraltar, he'll be the man to lock horns with Earle four years from now.

The chief significance of this rivalry as developed behind the scenes here is that the Democrats are at last looking ahead. In the past they have been content to sacrifice themselves solely for FDR's benefit. Now, despite his renomination, they're feathering their own nests. That's politics.

SHORT WEIGHT CAUSE ARREST

Weights, Measures, Division Secure Number of Convictions

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 30.—A sausage manufacturer who mixed cracked ice with his sausage in order to "weight" it and who accordingly sold cracked ice for sausage, was arrested, tried and convicted here when brought into court by the weights and measure division of the State Department of Agriculture. C. D. Baucum, director of the division said today.

Another sausage maker was also arrested and fined for mixing potato meal with his sausage in order to "pad the weight, while the managers of two chain stores were arrested and fined for using scales which gave short weight to their customers, Baucum reported.

The sausage manufacturer who mixed cracked ice with his sausage in order to save meat and who thus sold several ounces of ice with every pound of sausage, was one of the cleverest cheaters we have found in some time," Baucum said. "For the sausage and the ice kept all right as long as they were kept in refrigerators and refrigerated show cases and pound packages weighed a pound when purchased. But by the time the housewives who bought this sausage got it home, the ice had melted into water and they found they had less than a pound of soggy sausage. However, since we took this man into court and convicted him of giving short weight, we believe he will be more careful in the future."

A second sausage manufacturer here, also arrested and convicted, mixed potato meal and corn meal with his sausage in order to make it weigh more, Baucum said.

The chemists in the food and oil division of the Department of Agriculture helped the weights and measures division by analyzing the sausage in order to determine how it had been "weighted" and adulterated, Baucum said.

The weights and measure division is also busy checking gasoline pumps in Raleigh and vicinity and out of the first 60 tested found 27 which were faulty and giving short measure. These 27 were condemned.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Specialties tipped the stock market scales for substantial gains today but many of the leaders failed to make weight on the upside.

Increased dividends and earnings spurred a number of classes. Several utility preferred came to the fore as better gains revived hopes of adjusted back payments or resumption of stockholders. Dealings were quiet near the fourth hour.

The late tone was somewhat irregular. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

STOCKS TAKE ON TINT TO MATCH ACCESSORIES

London, (AP)—To the list of accessories that fashion is matching with colored gloves, Molyneux adds tinted stockings.

Violet stockings, for instance, tone with violet doekin gloves, a violet suede belt, and a boutonniere of violets to accent a gray or black ensemble. These "sets of accessories" can be purchased to "enliven a costume or evening gown."

Colors favored by this designer are: royal purple, cyclamen mauve, two rose shades—a plum red and dusty pink—orange-burns and sulphur yellow.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDS GIVE BEACH DESIGN

Paris, (AP)—New Pareus—South Sea Island costumes—designed by Heim to add fresh luster to this year's beach parades were lately shown at a private gathering in Paris. Old-fashioned bathing suits of the 1890 vintage also were displayed. Their long skirts, longer pantaloons, high necks, enveloping sleeves and elaborate trimmings brought down the house.

BAER KAYOS DEMPSEY! BUT IT ISN'T MAXIE

Jack Dempsey, the Old Mauler, took one on the chin at Warm Springs, Ga., where he refereed a wrestling match for the entertainment of patients at the Warm Springs Foundation. The "knockout" punch was tossed by Bobby Baer of Branford, Fla. (no relation to Max) while Robert Fiege of Indianapolis looked on. (Associated Press Photo)

Pontiac Is The Car

Many excerpts from every State in the Union are coming in daily to the Pontiac factory—

Pontiac's Success—No Owner Like a Satisfied Owner

Expressions As Below

Have driven and owned cars costing $2,000.00 and have not as yet had as much pleasure as I get from the Pontiac I have now. Riding comfort and performance is 100 per cent perfect. Gasoline consumption 25 per cent less than my last car.

—Name on request—Pa.

Have purchased three Pontiacs within the last 12 months and am delighted with all three of them. I think Pontiac is the best car on the road, regardless of price.

—Name on request—N. C.

My Pontiac is a thrill to drive, outstanding in its gas and oil economy, a sensation in riding comfort. A friend induced me to change to Pontiac from cars in the higher priced field. He did me a favor.

—Name on request—Michigan.

Watch this space daily for Pontiac news—Pontiac trade-ins are the most desirable used cars, and move out of our department very quick. We have some attractive offers in clean, late model used cars—priced reasonable. Terms easy.
