TAX REVENUES IN THIS STATE HIT NEW HIGHS

Increase Is Shown In Various Divisions of General Fund

YEAR DESCRIBED SATISFACTORY

Figures Released To- day by Commission- er Maxwell Show Gain in Road Fund

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—The state of North Carolina collected $55,850,909.41 in tax revenues during the fiscal year which closed yesterday, a new high record.

A. J. Maxwell, state revenue commissioner, revealed the figures today showing general fund receipts of $27,743,757.78, a gain of $4,017,958.97, or 14.14 per cent above 1935-36, and highway fund income of $27,971,151.63, a gain of $1,015,951.17, or 3.75 per cent over the preceding year.

1935-36 state tax revenues totaled $51,832,753.07, making those of the year which ended yesterday a new high record by 11.30 per cent.

Maxwell said "from the standpoint of revenue collection we are claiming a very satisfactory year." He noted the general fund receipts exceeded estimates by $45,957, one and half per cent.

In the highway fund, he said collections were "especially gratifying" as more than half of the estimated reduction in receipts from automobile license plates, due to reduced rates, was made up by increased registration. Gross gasoline taxes increased $1,508,536, he noted.

Each division of general fund revenues showed an increase. 1935-36 over 1934-35, the three per cent sales tax yielded $10,194,071.07, compared with $7,957,664.36, due to its extension to cover essential food items not taxed in 1934-35. Income tax receipts were $17,758,141.55, compared with $14,110,044.44, and franchise taxes brought in $2,261,233.63, compared with $1,957,282.14.

Moore Appeals To High Court From Judgment Of Fine

Local News Stand Operator Convicted of Operating Vending Machine and Fined $50 and Costs

Larry Moore, operator of a local news stand, was convicted in County court yesterday afternoon of operating a slot machine and fined $50, the costs of court, to be deducted. The defendant noted an appeal to Superior court.

Although the defendant charged Mr. Moore with the operation of a "slot machine" it was pointed out that the device was not the "mechanical" hand-cranked type, but a marble machine with a revolving drum cigarette vending machine. Cigarettes were given as a reward for winning instead of money, as in the case in some of the marble machines.

Judgment was suspended in the case charging Lehman Moyer with larceny.

Rolan King was acquitted of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, but John Grimes was convicted on the same count. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the cost.

W. R. Drake was freed of a charge of driving while drunk.

John Grimes was found not guilty of carrying concealed weapons.

Wash Bynum entered a plea of guilty to assault with a deadly weapon. Judgment was suspended upon provision he pay $15 for the use of Dr. D. S. Morrill and $10 for the use of Charlie Harris. Failure to pay these amounts would invoke a six months' road sentence.

Willie Williams Parker, alias Boots, was fined $25, costs to be deducted, upon conviction of driving his automobile onto the main highway without stopping. His driving licenses were revoked for 90 days.

In reporting last week's County court proceedings, The Reflector inadvertently stated that Fred Herbert Sutton, convicted of driving drunk, was fined $25 and costs and had his license revoked. The fine was for $50 and should have read for this amount.

City's Dollar Tax Rate Expected To Be Continued

Retires

Hope to Retain Same Levy Despite Num- ber of Projects

Despite the fact that a number of unexpected projects involving large expenditures were undertaken during the past fiscal year which ended yesterday, the city operated within its budget, it was shown last night at a special charter meeting of the Board of Aldermen to review the past year's finances.

It was also agreed, unofficially, that the city's $1.00 tax rate would not be boosted for the current year. The budget has not been completed as yet, but will be offered at the regular monthly meeting of the Board Thursday night. J. O. Duval, clerk, said that he saw no reason why the budget would have to be increased, but added that he did not see how it could be reduced.

Mayor M. K. Blunt declared at last night's meeting that he felt "we have done remarkably to have undertaken several projects and continue to keep within the one dollar rate." He called attention to the armory, stop lights and an increase in the debt service.

"I am very much in favor of staying within the dollar rate," he said and asked the various department heads to "pull closely as we can."

The one dollar rate is divided as follows: General fund .15; City debt service .35; School debt service .35; and School maintenance .15. (Continued on page three)

Latin-American Nations Threaten Desert League

EDEN AGAINST RECOGNITION

Declares, However, That Italian Sanc- tions Failed

Geneva, July 1.—(AP)—Anthony Eden of Great Britain, told the League of Nations assembly today it should not in any way recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

He declared, however, that sanctions had failed and that "only military action could succeed" in changing the present situation.

Eden pledged to Premier Leon Blum of France, the full cooperation of Great Britain "in rebuilding and authorizing League."

The League, he said, should not be abandoned because it had failed once.

"In present world conditions this could not be considered a possibility," the British foreign secretary added.

He recommended the continuation after the assembly has taken action to suppress sanctions of mutual assistance pacts in the Mediterranean sea.

Eden spoke while Geneva heard warnings of wholesale resignations of smaller powers from the League and after the assembly had listened.

Large Delegation Of Pitt Citizens Sought For Meets

County Farm Home Agents Seek Arouse Interest in Farmers' and Farm Women's State Sessions

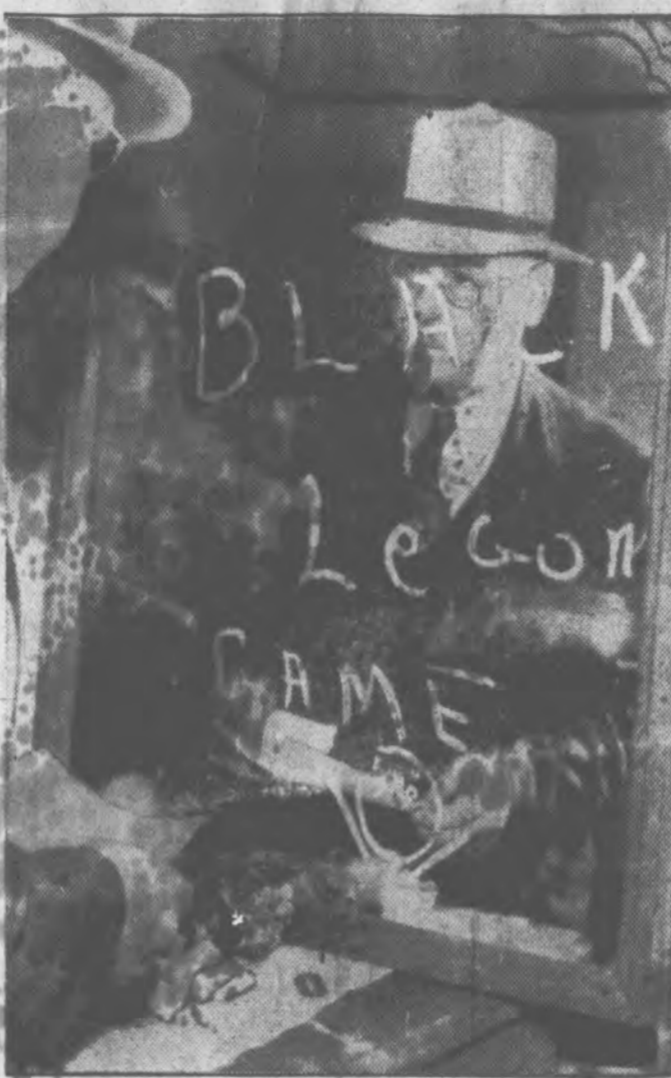

The county Farm and Home agents today were making preparations to have good representative of Pitt farmers and farm women at the annual Farmers' and Farm Women's convention to be held in Raleigh July 27-31, inclusive.

The program this year will be one of general and special interest to farmers and farm women from all sections of the state, but especially to those in this section. The regular short courses, which have been the custom in the past, will be dispensed with in favor of broader fields covering the various phases of the agricultural program.

R. R. Bennett, farm agent, said he already was seeking to arouse the interest of farmers in the meetings. Miss Ethel Nice, home agent, said she hoped to have a good representative of Pitt farm women at the sessions, but was unable to estimate at present how many would be in attendance.

It was pointed out that the college dormitories will be available for those attending without cost. Should the attendance be so large the dormitories will not provide enough rooms, arrangements have been made with nearby Mer-dith college whereby rooms may be rented at a nominal fee.

BOTH PARTIES FLOODS FATAL OFFER CLAIMS MANY PERSONS

Divergent Views Ex- pressed on Lehman Statement

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Divergent views were expressed today on the results of November's balloting sprang today from Governor Herbert H. Lehman's decision to heed President Roosevelt's urging and seek reelection in New York state.

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican chairman, declared President Roosevelt would be defeated "no matter whom they get to run for governor in Republican states."

Earlier Democratic Chairman James A. Farley had said that the Roosevelt-Lehman ticket would carry New York state by "greater margins this year than they did in 1932."

With the Lehman decision made after some weeks of speculation, the question today centered on the question whether Chairman Farley is planning to resign soon as postmaster general.

No answer to the question would be forthcoming, it appeared, until tomorrow, at the earliest.

As party leaders laid the ground works for the heated campaign just ahead, a remark which Farley made at the recent Democratic national convention at Philadelphia drew an indignant statement from the American Liberty League.

Accusing Farley of "false and defamatory language," the league quoted him as saying: "Behind the Republican ticket is the crew of the in Font liberty league and the allies which have so far financed every undercover agency that has disgraced American politics, with their appeal to race prejudice, religious intolerance and personalities gross that they had to be repudiated by the Republican organization."

Challenging Farley to produce "concrete evidence" to back his charges, the league said it would not partisan organ, that it served the interests of no individual or group and that it would continue to condemn members of the American constitutional system or to destroy or undermine upon the rights of the people as guaranteed in the constitution.

Big Vote Expected In Second Primary

Raleigh, July 1.—One of the largest votes ever cast in a run-off primary, between Dr. Ralph W. McDonald and Clyde R. Hoey for the Democratic nomination for Governor, between W. P. Horton and Paul D. Grady for Lieutenant Governor, and between Thad Kure and Stacey Wade for Secretary of State. Many observers here now believe that 400,000 votes will be cast in this primary although two weeks ago most estimates were that the total vote in the run-off would not exceed 350,000.

One reason for the belief that the vote Saturday will amount to as much as 400,000 is that both the Hoey and McDonald forces are going to leave no stone unturned to get out the vote. Campaign Manager Hubert Olive of the Hoey forces, stated today that the Hoey workers "have not been talking into overconfidence by the lead over McDonald on June 5, but instead have been thoroughly aroused by Dr. McDonald's campaign."

The hand of Franklin Roosevelt is visible all through the platform. Delegates who served on the platform committee, back in Washington, said that there was genuine disagreement and honest compromise on many planks—but the general opinion is that what Senator Wagner carried in his pocket from the White House emerged victorious at Philadelphia.

By what it implies, in its slogan of bold future developments if the champion is kept in power, the platform is regarded by national observers as a crossroads sign pointing to an "entirely new system of life in America."

Unit Of National Guard Departs For Encampment

Group Considered To Be Among Best in North Carolina

Commander

J. H. Waldrop (above), captain of the local unit of the National Guard of North Carolina, had charge of the group, composed of 65 men and six officers, as it departed from Greenville this morning for its annual encampment at Fort Bragg. (Photo by Manning.)

The local unit of the North Carolina National Guard, Battery "A", 113th field artillery, gathered at the local armory this morning at 4:00 o'clock dressed in new uniforms issued them some time ago, and after having breakfast, left at 5 o'clock via up-to-date motor trucks purchased recently by the battery, for Fort Bragg, where they will undergo a two-weeks' encampment.

The local unit will compete with other divisions of the National Guardsmen of the state in athletic and other activities. During previous annual encampments at Fort Bragg, the local unit has obtained many honors, and expect to repeat this year.

The local unit is composed of six officers and 65 men, with J. H. Waldrop the commanding officer, under whose command they traveled when they motored from the city early today.

While at Fort Bragg, the local unit will receive another new truck larger than those obtained in a recent purchase, and it will be used to transport the large artillery which the battery owns.

The unit will return here July 15th, which gives them a two-weeks' leave.

More Changes Announced In McDonald's Schedule

Gubernatorial Aspir- ants Press Campaign During Final Lap

Raleigh, July 1.—(AP)—Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem announced more changes in his final speaking schedule today as he attempted to get in, as many talks as possible before the Democratic gubernatorial campaign winds up Friday night.

Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, who led McDonald in the first primary on June 6, said his schedule would, with talks at Wilmington tonight, over radio from Raleigh at 7 o'clock tomorrow night, and at Greensboro Friday night ending his fight.

McDonald shifted to visit Salisbury early tonight and Kannapolis late tonight. He was trying to work in a talk at High Point late tomorrow afternoon before night speeches at Greensboro and Thomasville.

Other shifts back to original plans calls for McDonald to close his speaking at home at Winston-Salem Friday night.

Hoey headquarters announced Dr. J. J. Joyner of LaGrange would make a radio talk for Hoey tomorrow at 12:30 from Raleigh, with Mrs. T. W. Bickett widow of a former governor, R. N. Simms of Raleigh, and Hubert E. Olive, Hoey's state manager, making radio talks for him from Raleigh, starting at 10 o'clock Friday night.

With the balloting only three days off the opposing gubernatorial candidates contended their optimistic claims of victory.

Hoey's manager, Olive, predicted his candidate would win "by the biggest majority ever given" in a Democratic primary, while McDonald forecast his nomination by the "free Democrats of the rank and file" will decree "a change in the policies and personnel of the state government."

Dr. McDonald will talk over the radio at Greensboro tomorrow night at 10 o'clock.

No Daily Reflector On Saturday, July 4

The Daily Reflector, City and County offices, the banks, the postoffice and a number of individual firms will be closed Saturday, July Fourth, in observance of Independence Day, but the merchants of the city, in general, will operate as usual.

The merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce voted several weeks ago to keep the stores open as usual. After considering closing on Monday, the merchants decided against this idea and no holiday will be provided employees of stores abiding by the decision.

The Board of Aldermen decided last night to close City offices on the holiday, and the County Commissioners also have announced no county offices will be open on the Fourth.

No paper will be published on Saturday in the Reflector, the management having decided to observe the usual custom of giving its employees a holiday on Independence Day.

Figures obtained from the office of the Register of Deeds, J. C. Gaskins here today, indicated that Dan Cupid sent 26 white and 16 colored couples to the matrimonial altar during the month of June.

From January through June, 1935, there were 12 or 14 more licenses issued during the period of that year, than was issued during the same period of this year.

PAPER QUOTES GANG MEMBER ON ACTIVITIES

Wilmington Star- News Reports It Ob- tained Statement

LEADERS NAMED IN "CONFESSION"

Solicitor Says He Ex- pects to Have Suffi- cient Evidence To Present Grand Jury

Wilmington, July 1.—(AP)—The Star-News said today it had obtained a confession from a self-styled member of the night riding Columbus county terrorist gang of men and women floggers and that he named 11 members of the mob.

The paper said the man made his statement before a Star-News representative and the man's attorney, pleading at the same time that his name be kept secret since his revelation put him under "peril of death."

The Star-News quoted the man as saying the "so-called night riders had flogged various men and women of the Columbus section because they were 'undesirable.'"

Earlier the paper said it obtained a signed and sworn statement from the man naming a preacher, a merchant and three women as leaders of the gang.

The names were given to Solicitor J. J. Barney who immediately said he would go into Columbus county this week to conduct an investigation. Barney said no special grand jury session would be called at this time since the evidence in hand was too slim to warrant immediate action.

Barney said he expected to have sufficient information by the next grand jury session, in August, to warrant taking the matter before the body.

The Star-News said the "confessor" said that at the time he joined the order he was told he would be killed if he divulged any of the secrets.

This man was quoted as saying the night riders call themselves "the vigilantes" and operated with a slogan to "change or kill." He was quoted as saying they set out to rid the Beaver Dam community of all persons they considered "undesirable."

He was quoted as saying persons singled out for attention by the "vigilantes" were first sent letters advising them to leave the community.

Eleven men participated in the first whipping, the statement said. Two men and two women were named as the victims. They were said to have been "on a party at the time."

Systemized Program For Summer
Recreation Being Worked Out
Through Aid WPA Appropriation

Taking a plea to the Board of Aldermen for an appropriation for paying a supervisor of the city's recreational project, Mrs. J. C. Purser and R. V. Keenan tonight continued their efforts to secure adequate program for the summer.

The city was asked to provide a supervisor for six weeks, to be paid by the Works Progress Administration and temporary equipment, according to plans, will be purchased with funds derived from public subscription.

Mrs. Purser said she hoped at least $500 would be raised for the purpose of buying equipment. More than $50 has been reported raised thus far.

The program for the entire county will involve an expenditure on the part of WPA of approximately $5,000. Mrs. Purser estimated about two-thirds of this amount would be spent in Greenville. She said other towns in the county were making contributions to the program.

The recreational project will not interfere with the Daily Vacation Bible school as it will not be put into full effect until after the study is completed. At present it is planned to operate the systemized play centers from the time the school is over until school opens. Mrs. Purser pointed out, however, it was the ultimate aim to make the program a year-around affair.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ira Bennett
CROSSROADS: G. O. P. pundits have been saying the Democratic platform, being to find weak joints and splintered planks that might give them an opportunity to knock it to flinders. They find it an extraordinary piece of workmanship, contrived by a cunning brain. If it isn't "horse-high, bull-proof and hog-tight" it is at least stands firm against first assaults.

ALF M. LANDON: Picture Story of His Life

At 45, Alf M. Landon first sought public office. The spotlight turned upon a stocky man who, his daughter said, "wears those hats until the Salvation Army won't take them." He chose soft flannel shirts when convention did not demand white. He smoked a pipe.

Back in Tongahoxie, Kas., a filling station attendant cherishes today the memory of an incident illustrating Landon's campaign technique, demonstrated in the fall of '32. "I'm Alf Landon, running for governor," the candidate announced, pulling up at the station. "Got a cigarette?"

The attendant got out his pack, the two had a smoke together, and Landon gained another ardent supporter.

His companion on many a campaign junket was Peggy Anne, then 15, Landon's oldest daughter, by his first wife. Her mother had died the year after she was born. As a widow, Landon had taken the slim, brown-eyed girl into the oil fields with him; she was as much at home in the saddle as he. Her new mother, at 32, looked more like

Topoka, it numbered four—Nancy Josephine had been born July 29, 1932, the same week her father won the nomination. He was sworn in to office in January, 1933, to tackle the problems that everywhere faced states in the depression.

ARMY SHAKEUP PARTY AVOIDS DUE IN FRANCE

PARTY AVOIDS CIRCUS IDEAS

War Machine Expected to Be Made Over By New Premier

Democratic Convention Entitled to One Blue Ribbon

By CHARLES FOLTZ, (Associated Press Foreign Staff)

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Paris, June 30.—(AP)—France's war machine is in for a complete overhauling under Leon Blum's leftist government.

The Philadelphia convention is entitled to one blue ribbon, at least, no other convention ever tried so hard to escape the atmosphere of anti-climax which surrounds unanimous or near-unanimous renominations.

The socialist premier has promised to make the nation's air, land and sea forces conform with socialist doctrines, a program that is sure to meet opposition from nationalists.

Politicians have been wondering for years what to do about this. Possibly the Democrats have found the answer.

Blum's foreign policy calls for "progressive disarmament" within the League of Nations, but until such disarmament is begun, stocks Edward Daladier, former premier and twice minister of war, has the job of coordinating the three military services.

Twice in recent years, under two entirely different sets of circumstances, the Republicans have struggled with the problem in vain.

The military program of the people's front, which Blum has promised to carry out, consists of three main proposals.

The party convention was almost as dull in 1924, when Coolidge was nominated with every prospect of returning to the White House, as it was in 1932, when Hoover was presented with a renomination which appeared almost worthless.

A bill covering the first of these, nationalization of armament industries, has already been presented to parliament.

On each occasion there was an effort to get up a degree of excitement over second place on the ticket, but the delegates did not appear really interested in that. They went through the whole performance without straining a vocal cord or winking a collar.

The second calls for "democratization of the army," a phrase which army men believe will result in investigations of nationalist propaganda in the rank and file.

The psychological intent of it all was not, however, entirely negative. It purposed to go beyond a mere erasing of anticlimax, and accomplish an affirmative result.

The third proposal is the reduction of the period of military service from two years to one.

The idea was, clearly, to make the occasion one of rejoicing, to give it a Mardi Gras top-dressing suggestive of triumph and exaltation. It was designed to be the greatest, grandest party rally ever held, at which a Democratic bandwagon was to be started rolling toward November.

Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin put the two-year service into effect with a decree and his successor, Pierre Laval, put it into a law.

In 1936 the Democrats early foresaw that they would be under an even greater handicap than in usual circumstances under the circumstances, because someone makes a renominating their convention came second. Alf-

It provided for two years of service from all the "war baby" classes in which the number of conscripts dropped as the French birth rate fell from 1914 to 1918.

Both socialists and communists fought the bill and the people's front, or union of left wing parties, went into the elections demanding the lowering of the service to one year.

Army men believe nation-wide tears of war will prevent Blum's government from reducing France's armies, but the bitterness of the "one year" campaign threatens to repeal and force the premier to carry out his promises.

ter the suspense of the Republican meeting at Cleveland, where a half dozen factions were expected to look spears, who would care about the routine parading at Philadelphia?

Ventriloquists at College.
The "petite comedienne," Lucille Elmore, the star of the revue to be given on the stage of Austin Auditorium of the College tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock, is a versatile entertainer who stepped out from Broadway musical comedy and Hollywood screen shows into her own company in which she could use her varied talents.

She is considered one of the best women ventriloquists on the stage today. She uses this power in a modernized way, lightening changes from one impersonation to another seem very real.

She sometimes uses puppets and carries on an animated conversation with these in three distinct voices.

She and the other two members of her company give a succession of scenes, songs, dances, and impersonations that form a delightful program hard to classify under any name except "revue."

HEALTH OFFICERS END FOOD POISONING PROBE

Greensboro, July 1.—(AP)—Food poisoning caused by sandwiches distributed from Gastonia during the week ending June 12 effected at least 287 persons in counties scattered from Greensboro westward as far as Kings Mountain.

Dr. J. C. Knox, of the State Health Department stated yesterday in completing his investigation of the situation.

Dr. Knox, accompanied by Dr. G. R. Morris, also of the State Health Department, just completing a two weeks' investigation of conditions developing over the poisoning, stopped in Greensboro Tuesday morning for a conference with Dr. C. C. Hudson, city health officer, en route back to Raleigh.

Multiplication of bacteria in sandwiches that were made one day and distributed to various points throughout the State the next morning caused the poisoning of at least 287 persons, which number received treatment either through their private physicians or health officers of their respective counties and cities, according to Dr. Knox.

KINSTON MAN CHARGED WITH ATTACK ON GIRL

Kinston, July 1.—Police yesterday said Rudolph Lee, 25, held at Wilmington on a criminal assault charge, was arrested in a house in East Kinston on a warrant from Onslow county. The original warrant read attempted criminal assault, they said.

Lee is accused of attacking a 16-year-old Richlands girl whose name was not divulged. He told officers, who took him in custody, that he went riding with a girl there Sunday but denied he attacked her. He was taken to the Onslow jail at Jacksonville, but feeling was so high at Richlands that authorities decided to take him out of the county.

Lee has been employed by a building contractor here.

MEXICO'S ROAD BUILDERS CONQUER HEIGHTS IN LINKING CAPITAL CITY TO TEXAS BORDER

A trunk highway, running 700 miles from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City, is to be formally opened by officials of the two countries on July 1. It took nine years to conquer the mountainous region which shows an automobile (left center) on a steeply rising grade through the hills near the Mexican capital.

By J. P. McKNIGHT
Mexico City, June 25.—(AP)—Though the new Mexico City-Laredo highway has yet to be inaugurated, Mexico's determined road-builders already are turning their eyes northwest to Nogales and southeast to Suchiate.

A trunk highway to connect the capital with the states of Sonora and Chiapas and provide another major link in the proposed Pan-American highway down through the Americas, is next on the program of the department of communications and public works.

That spectacular piece of engineering—the $1,000,000, 760-mile Mexico City-Laredo highway which climbs 8,635 feet into the fog-shrouded peaks of the Sierra Madre—will be formally dedicated July 1.

President Lázaro Cárdenas, high government officials and members of the diplomatic corps are expected to drive over the highway to Nuevo Laredo, there probably to meet United States officials.

Third of Route Ready
After that the communications and public works department which spent about $3,150,000 on 1,215 miles of Mexican roads in 1935, expects to get busy on the second trunk highway.

Completion of the Laredo highway means that nearly a third of the proposed 12,000-mile Pan-American route, from Canada to Argentina, is ready for automobile travel in all weather.

Canadian and American sections of the route, totaling some 2,750 miles, have been open for some time. Mexico has done about 920 miles of her stint of 1,625. Hence motorists today can follow modern roads southward from Canada for 3,670 miles.

Many engineering lessons were learned in the nine years it took to build the Laredo unit. Bucking almost straight up-and-down grades, bridging deep gorges, fighting sliding rock and conquering all the other obstacles Mexico's heaving mountains presented, Luis Cuyvas, 30-year-old chief of the department's section of roads and highways, sometimes had to resort to odd methods to get the job done.

made feant votes for the Democrats elsewhere. Will the defection of Lemke and his cohorts impel the less-radical western Republicans to rally more definitely behind Landon? Will Smith's pronouncement have a nuisance value for Roosevelt?

It is too soon to answer these questions, and whatever the political managers may say for publication, they are making no attempt in their own minds to formulate a final judgment now. Much remains to be disclosed.

The strange twist of current political groupings, and the impossibility of measuring voting strength by the old standards, was aptly illustrated by one incident at Philadelphia.

On the same day, two Pennsylvania welcoming addresses were delivered to the convention.

One was spoken by a Democratic governor of a Republican state, who until recently had been a Republican and whose warbearers constituted a famous Republican family for many years back.

The other came from a Republican mayor who had been a Democrat and who had been elected to his office on the Republican ticket while still enrolled as a Democrat.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington — The finals days of congress witnessed Democratic leadership plugging up two holes in performance of 1932 platform promises just before drawing up another set designed for the next four years.

In the desperate, but futile effort to adjourn before the Republican convention, the commodity exchange regulation bill was passed. It was to carry out a plank promising "regulation to the full extent of the federal power of . . . Exchanges trading in securities and commodities."

The bill settled its main weight upon the Chicago grain exchange where a federal board would be empowered to limit individual trading and to impose other regulations intended to protect the outside public.

Next came the Robinson-Patman "chain store" bill designed to prevent discrimination in favor of large purchasers to the disadvantage of small "independent" stores. It went to the White House just before adjournment.

The plank that bill fulfilled had pledged the party to "strict and impartial" enforcement of the anti-trust laws to prevent monopoly and unfair trade practices, and revision thereof for the better protection of labor and the small packer and distributor.

Some other planks in the Democratic platform already are marked out for campaign debate as to whether they were fulfilled.

Planks one, two and three of that platform say:

"We advocate:
An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures.

"Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced . . .

"A sound currency to be preserved at all hazards. . .

ed to the Board. The Board met at noon today to swear in three members, Joseph M. Taft and Dr. M. B. Massey, who were reelected for another term, and J. A. Watson, who succeeds Mrs. J. L. Hassell. Mrs. Hassell did not offer for reelection. The ceremonies today were only brief, consisting of routine procedure.

In addition to reviewing the past year's financial situation, the Board considered a few other business matters. Three projects were added to the street improvement program. They were Harding, from Fourth to Fifth; Johnston, from Rotary to Harding; and Fourth from Rotary to Easton. A number of other petitions for paving were presented, but final action was not taken immediately so a check can be made on how the $75,000 provided for the program is holding out. Henry L. Rivers, city engineer, is expected to report Thursday night on how much of the money will be utilized in work already approved by the Board.

The Aldermen voted to observe a holiday on Saturday, July Fourth. In reaching the decision the Board took into consideration the fact the run-off primary will come on Saturday and since the City Hall is one of the voting places work will be hindered to a great extent anyway.

GREENIES TAKE ANOTHER GAME TO BOOST LEAD

Trounce Snow Hill 7-6 Here; Tarboro Beats Bears; Eagles Whip Martins and Buga Nose Out Aces

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD The league-leading Greenies continued their trouncing ways yesterday afternoon at Third street stadium here under the scorching rays of the sun while the thermometer soared to a hundred in the shade.

Bolden, Snow Hill outfielder put on a show all by himself in yesterday's game. After two or three heated arguments with Umpire Rinehart, which resulted in his being fined, Bolden grabbed a bat and proceeded to climb into the Negro grandstand. This disturbance was quickly controlled, however, due to the presence of two local officers. In this writer's opinion it was as much the Snow Hill players' fault as the umpire's.

After a short talk from Gus Forbes, the darkness quieted down and the game went along in elegant style. Bill Holland was started on the mound for the locals but his pitching arm wasn't in the best of condition, so he only went for practically three innings, when he was relieved by Matson, who pitched the rest of the game and allowed the visitors only three hits.

In the first frame the Greenies managed to obtain three runs. They were brought about by Boley Parley's triple; Ambler's single and Brown's and Parker's singles.

In the third inning Ace Parker, local left fielder, scored a run with his masterful playing. He did this by a single, a steal, a double, a trot to third on an outfield fly, and on into home by a steal.

The winning run for the locals was scored in the ninth when Parker singled and score man Wagner's sliding single into left field, which was error'd by a Snow Hillan.

The visitors tied the score in the ninth, when Mullineux, a pinch hitter hit for the circuit over right field fence.

Parker with three hits for five trips to the plate and Boomer with a pair of three baggers lead the locals with the willow. Brown was a "follow-upper" with two hits for four times at bat.

The only hits Snow Hill received previous to the ninth were singles by Bolden and Ingram.

The next home game will be played at Third Street stadium tomorrow afternoon, at which time the Greenies engage the New Bern Bears.
