MANY PERSONS FALL VICTIMS TEXAS FLOODS

At Least 21 Dead, 14 Missing, Heavy Property Damage

FARMING AREAS ARE WORST HIT

Broad Acres of Cotton and Corn in Path of Rolling Waters Destroyed

San Antonio, Tex. July 2.—(AP)—A devastating flood rolling seaward from southwest Texas today left at least 21 persons dead, 14 missing and property damages estimated at $1,000,000.

A circular area between San Antonio and Austin, 80 miles apart, was suddenly engulfed by torrential rains for two days, but fears of further outbreaks of the water diminished.

Farming communities bore the brunt of the desolation as small, ordinarily placid rivulets became sprawling currents. Largest streams in the affected areas rose toward their bank tops. Tiny Plum creek, normally six feet wide, claimed the greatest toll for a single stream—more than a dozen persons. Some of them were swept into the water as they clung to flimsy homes.

Broad acres of cotton and corn at maturity or near it were laid to waste and hundreds of cattle drowned. County Judge Willis W. Ellison of Gonzales county said the damage would run easily to $1,000,000.

Candidates In First Primary Fail To Report Expenditures

Twelve of 25 Office Seekers Remain to Report Their Expenditures and Contributions

Only 13 of the 25 candidates who were entered in the June 6 Democratic primary have filed their account of expenditures and receipts, as provided by law, a check at the offices of J. F. Harrington, Clerk of Court, showed today.

Six candidates have filed their sworn statements with the Clerk of Court within the past few days, but there still remains 12 who have not filed.

Charles O. Laughinghouse, Jr., reported expenditures of $146.80 and contributions of $50. The candidate unsuccessfully sought the treasurer's office.

J. Knott Proctor, who was defeated for sheriff, spent $441.40 in this unsuccessful race. Receipts, were reported at $75.

John S. Moore, named to one of the county's seats in the State House of Representatives, spent $140.40 and received no contributions.

Jack Spain, who lost in the race for County Judge, spent $172.82 and received no expenditures.

A. A. Ellwanger, successful for re-nomination as coroner, reported expenditures of $465.00 and no receipts.

W. Clarence Taylor, who opposed Homer Ellwanger, reported that he spent $32 in the campaign. Neither of the candidates for coroner reported any receipts.

The itemized statements of the candidates showed that most of their expenditures were for newspaper advertising, cards and automobile expenses.

FIVE DIE IN BUS CRASH ON NATURAL BRIDGE

Five persons were killed and 24 were injured when a heavy passenger bus skidded and turned over on the famous Natural Bridge of Virginia. A big road sign saved it from plunging to the bottom of the gorge 215 feet below. This picture of the wreckage was made by a camper whose tent was pitched nearby. (Associated Press Photo)

ACTION TAKEN TO STEM DROUGHT

Water Conservation Projects Pushed by Agency

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—Water conservation projects to stem the inroads of drought were pushed today while farmers considered the possibility that climatic changes might transform the United States into a dry nation.

Water administrators in Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming and the Dakotas—the states most adversely affected by the drought that blanketed the principal agricultural sections of the nation—planned construction of dams to check run-offs, conserve moisture and raise the water table.

The works progress organization's chief, Harry Hopkins, disclosed that more than half the works relief outlined for those states would be devoted to conservation undertakings. Employment of more than 25,000 distress farmers was ordered.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace pointed to the possible loss of fertility. Starting a personal inspection trip through the sun-seared prairies of the mid-west at suburban Evanston yesterday he cited the protracted dry spells of 1934 and 1935 and the "freakish" weather of the past seven years as threatening indications of a shift in climate.

City Paving Program Runs Ahead Schedule

The City's street improvement program was temporarily halted today by heavy rains of last night, but Henry L. Rivers, city engineer, said today the project was far ahead of expectations.

Paving is being laid at present on East Third street, practically all work having been completed in West Greenville.

Engineer Rivers pointed out the paving of East Third street would be a great help to the traffic situation in that the street would be used by many motorists now relying solely on East Fifth street.

Decreased Tobacco Crop Points To Better Prices

Reflector Bureau, By J. C. HASKERVILLE.

Raleigh, July 2.—The decrease in tobacco acreage due to the drought and the consequent reduction in the size of the crop this year, indicates that North Carolina tobacco farmers should get from 22 to 26 cents per pound for their tobacco this fall, according to estimates made here today by experienced tobacco men. This means that the state's tobacco farmers have a good chance to receive just as much, if not more for their smaller crop this year than they received for last year's crop.

The 1935-36 tobacco acreage was 618,000 acres with a production of 577,000,000 pounds of tobacco, of which 572,000,000 pounds were flue-cured cigarette tobacco. This crop brought an average of 20.34 cents per pound for the entire 1935 selling season, according to figures obtained today from the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service of the State Department of Agriculture.

Rescuers Reach Entombed Man

Shamokin, Penn., July 2.—(AP)—Rescuers brought Enoch Kuklinski, Jr., to the surface today after almost 22 hours' entombment in a 30-foot deep coal hole. Physicians said he suffered no serious injuries.

The only apparent effects of Kuklinski's long imprisonment in the small, dark, damp, independent mine was shock, hunger and thirst. Physicians said they expected him to recover quickly unless pneumonia developed.

The rock, coal and timber when the mine was struck yesterday panned him to a pile of crushed coal on the mine floor. This cushioned the weight, but held him fast.

WOMAN IS SHOT IN HOTEL ROOM

Killing Occurs Near Scene of Castle Slaying

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—A well-dressed woman entered the apartment of Miss Annelle Blake, 35, in a near northside hotel today and after a brief conversation, drew a pistol and shot Miss Blake fatally below the heart. It was reported to the Chicago avenue police.

Miss Blake died before aid could reach her.

Harold Knox, the hotel manager said the slayer had made inquiries about an apartment.

After being shot, Miss Blake was able to call the switchboard operator and cry, "Help I've been shot."

Knox and others rushed to her room and the intruder was seen running down the stairway to the lobby. She entered a car waiting at the curb and was driven away.

The apartment hotel was about a mile west or northwest of the hotel where Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, 24, night club entertainer, was beaten to death Monday morning.

The drought which prevailed throughout the tobacco growing counties until the past two or three weeks caused the abandonment of many acres of tobacco or resulted in many acres never being planted. It is generally agreed. It is also agreed that many acres of tobacco which were planted will not produce more than half a normal crop while many will not produce any. Many farmers replanted their tobacco as many as five weeks and had to water it for weeks to keep it alive, officials of the Department of Agriculture report. In some areas where there is still a deficiency of rain, tobacco farmers are still having to water their tobacco to keep it from burning up in the fields.

As the result of the recent rains the present tobacco crop is looking much better, though both growth and condition are irregular, those in the crop reporting service here agree. They believe, however, that with normal weather from now on the yield per acre should amount to at least as much as the ten year average. (Continued on page six)

PITT FARMERS NAME LEADERS

Committees Set Up to Supervise Soil Conservation Plan

At recent meetings held in the various townships in the county, committees were named to supervise activities of the Soil Conservation program and serve as intermediaries for the farmers and the County Agent's office and officials of the federal set-up.

R. R. Bennett, agent, acted as chairman of the various meetings, and spoke briefly as to eligibility, qualifications and duties of the committee members.

Candidates then were nominated from the floor and those qualified to vote cast their ballots secretly. Committees from the various townships follow:

ELIMINATION OF SANCTIONS IS ADVOCATED

Netherlands Minister Offers Proposal to League

STIR IS CREATED BY SUGGESTIONS

July 10 Mentioned as Date on Which Sanctions Against Italy Will Be Removed

Geneva, July 2.—(AP)—The Netherlands foreign minister, D. A. O. Drees, made an open bid before the League of Nations assembly today for adherence of the United States and other Geneva absentees.

He advocated the elimination of all sanctions from the league peace machinery and suggested transformation of the covenant into an agreement of a purely consultative type.

His proposal, which created a stir in the assembly chamber, supplemented the idea the only league sanction which should be maintained was that of automatic expelling any aggressor state.

Stanley M. Bruce of Australia, the first of 15 listed speakers, asserted effective sanctions against Italy would need military action to which no one wants to resort.

Assembly circles mentioned July 10 as the date on which the lifting of sanctions would be effected.

It was conceded generally the net result of the sanctions crusade launched almost nine months ago to rescue Ethiopia from fascist aggression would be:

1. The war penalties will disappear.

2. Italy will remain in fascist-asserted control of the East African kingdom.

3. The league will refuse to recognize Italy's annexation of Ethiopia.

First Hand Story Of Big Windstorm Related In Letter

Miss Maria D. Graham, College School Teacher, Gives Account of Storm Which Hit Warrenton

Miss Maria D. Graham, a history teacher at E. C. T. C. was in the midst of the severe windstorm which struck Warrenton Sunday afternoon and has written a first hand account of the "little tornado."

Miss Graham is spending her vacation in Warrenton with her 92-year-old mother. Her account of the storm follows:

"Not a building on the place escaped injury. One side of a tin roof to apartment house was blown off and two chimneys were taken with it, demolishing the room of the front porch. The three apartments were all flooded.

The roof of the main building sustained only slight injury but screens and window panes were broken. The roof of the old study hall was lifted and rolled up on the yard fence. Two chimneys were blown from old boys' dormitory in the rear. The roof of the wood house collapsed. The $1,000 barn for stock is a total loss, and the big shed for storage of cotton and machinery was blown off of line.

A tree fell on the chicken house. Many trees were snapped off, but none uprooted. The beautiful garden is a wreck, and all the cotton on the farm was destroyed. The loss amounts to $3500 without any storm insurance to cover it."

TO DETERMINE FARLEY DUTIES

Postmaster General is Summoned to White House Parley

Washington, July 2.—(AP)—New Deal tactics in the campaign wars were up for discussion today as President Roosevelt summoned National Chairman James A. Farley to an important conference at the White House.

The conference was invested with additional importance because it was expected to determine Farley's future status in the New Deal's high command. Recurrent reports led many in the capital to believe that Farley might soon announce that he was stepping out as a postmaster general—either permanently or temporarily—to concentrate on his duties as Democratic chairman.

Describing the recent Democratic convention as marked by "mumbo jumbo," Republican chairman John D. M. Hamilton told the Ohio Republican convention last night that the platform adopted at Philadelphia was intended "chiefly to hypnotize the voters."

On the other hand, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a letter to an Iowa farmer hammered the Republican farm plank as contradictory. It made, he said, "conflicting commitments to eastern capital and western agriculture."

"By its reference to the 'restrictive and coercive AAA' it denounces the principal of production adjustment," he said. "The monopolistic industrial groups which are back of the American Liberty League are eager that it should, despite the fact that they have exercised and still do exercise rigid control over their own production."

As the disturbance spread federal troops were called and disarmed the police and established guard posts through the city.

Giant Hindenburg Establishes Mark In Fourth Flight

Lakehurst, N. J., July 2.—(AP)—The German dirigible, Hindenburg, grounded at 4:30 a. m. (EST) today, completing its fourth commercial flight from Germany in record breaking time.

The big ship made the run from her home port, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, to Lakehurst in 52 hours and 51 minutes, cutting eight hours, 34 minutes from her previous record, Lieut. George Watson of the naval air station announced.

City Firemen Called To Operate Gas Jet

The Greenville Fire Chief, George Gardner, was called by telephone this morning to quench the flames caused by an open gas jet on a stove at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cook on 914 Evans street. Gardner said the blaze did very little damage.

New Construction Shows Increase In First Half

By RADER WINGET (Associated Press Financial Writer) New York, July 2.—(AP)—The unprecedented peace-time drive to public and private construction during the first half of 1936 produced the greatest acceleration of building since the depression halted the forward strides of that gigantic industry.

Residential building, upon which government and civic organization have exerted the most pressure, responded by rising to the best level since the end of 1931, as measured by The Associated Press index.

Percentage-wise, the showing is phenomenal. The estimated volume for the first six months of 1936 is half again as great as for the first six months of 1935 and nearly double the initial part of the 1932 depression "low point."

In dollars, however, the building of private homes so far this year totaled about $320,000,000, compared with more than a billion dollars for the corresponding period of 1929. Nevertheless there is a distinct

THIRTEEN KILLED BY POLICE IN BUS STRIKE DEMONSTRATIONS

Merida, Yucatan, July 2.—(AP)—Federal troops took control of Merida today after police guarding the palace of Governor Ferrando Lopez Cardenas killed 13 striking bus drivers during a labor demonstration.

Fifty-one other strikers were wounded in the rain of machine-gun bullets poured into the crowd outside the palace.

Cardenas, blamed by labor leaders for the demonstration, resigned the governorship and the legislature named Florencio Valencia acting chief executive.

The demonstration started yesterday with a mass meeting after the striking bus drivers together with some taxicab drivers blocked traffic in downtown Merida.

They marched to the palace in protest against non-enforcement of labor contracts which were drawn up in May with the assistance of the government. Then police opened fire with machine guns aimed at the strikers.

As the disturbance spread federal troops were called and disarmed the police and established guard posts through the city.

TOBACCO ASSOCIATION MEETS AT HOT SPRINGS

Hot Springs, Va., July 2.—(AP)—Approximately 250 members of the tobacco association of the United States, began organization of committee and formulation of the program today for the association's 38th annual convention.

W. T. Clark of Wilson, N. C., president of the association will deliver his annual address at the first general session tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Market opening dates and nomination will be considered during the day and announced at the banquet tomorrow night.

REFLECTOR TO SECURE 2ND PRIMARY RETURNS

While no Daily Reflector will be issued Saturday and no primary extra is contemplated, members of the staff will be on the job Saturday night receiving returns from the county and will be advised at frequent intervals by the Associated Press on how the gubernatorial race is running over the state.

This information will be placed in front of The Reflector.

There are only two run-off races on schedule for Pitt county, these being for county commissioner from the First and Fifth districts. While the gubernatorial race is attracting chief attention on the state ticket, there are a number of other contests to be decided.

Since no Saturday paper will be printed, all notices which usually appear in this issue, such as church and civic organization, are requested to get their week-end notices in for publication tomorrow.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By IRA BENNETT PUBLICITY: It's odd how a national lawmaker's prestige shrinks when he is deprived of the soundings board of Congress. Men who command wide attention in the Senate and House seem to dwindle when they circle around on the stump.

Only a few men have power to hold the nation's attention. One of these is Senator Borah, and another is Senator Norris. Both are so independent—not to say of eccentric orbit—that nobody knows what they will say next. Their admirers deliciously shiver as they await the unexpected.

SNOW HILL WINS BY SCORE 12-2 FROM LOCALS

Tarboro, Goldsboro, and Williamston are Victorious in Yesterday's Games; New Bern Here Today

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD

The masterful tossing of Hampton, Snow Hill twirler helped the Snow Hillians to obtain a 12-2 win yesterday afternoon at that place. Ayden's win and the loss by the Williamston Martins caused the two teams to be tied for second place in Coastal Plain standings.

Weldon and May did the hurling for the locals, and let the Snow Hill crowd by with a total of 18 hits. Only 7 hits were secured off the Snow Hill pitcher, Hampton.

The only runs made by the locals were brought about in the sixth inning when Boozer singled, May singled, and Farley hit a long double to left field.

The game was characterized by base hits and double plays. The Greenies made three double plays and Snow Hill had four to their credit.

Boozer with three hit for three official turfs at bat and Farley with a double and single for four trips to the platter, lead with the stick for the Greenies.

Bugs with a double and two singles; Hampton with two for three and Robinson with a double, homer and single led with the stick for the Snow Hillians.

This afternoon the locals will carry on with the New Bern Bears at Third street stadium here—if it doesn't rain.

Lucille Elmore Revue.
The hour of the entertainment at the college tonight of the Lucille Elmore Revue is 8:15 o'clock and the place is the Austin Auditorium. While this is the first time this company has had an engagement here, a great deal of interest has been aroused by the advance notices and the reputation of the company.

It seems an ideal combination of features for a summer entertainment.

The "vest pocket comedienne," Lucille Elmore, seems to be a big draw all by herself with her dances, impromptu songs, and ventriloquist stunts but she evidently is not the whole show as she has as her assistants two talented, versatile musicians who have good voices and play various instruments. Her other partners, the wice-cracking Sambo and Susie, with whom she carries on conversations, must not seem like mere puppets in her hands.

Miss Elmore is a cousin of the great comedian, Fred Stone, and made her Broadway appearance in his play "Stepping Stones." She has had Hollywood experience, but enjoys having her own company and putting on her own show in her own way.

The Three Springs.
A cantata "The Three Springs" will be presented by a chorus of about fifty voices under the direction of Miss Eugenia Thomas, on the evening of July 13, near the close of the first term of the summer school at East Carolina Teachers College.

The chorus was organized at the beginning of the term, has been practicing regularly for some days, and has begun rehearsals for the performance. This will be the climax of the term's work in chorus singing.

The music of the cantata, which by Paul Bliss, is tuneful and lyrical and the theme symbolical. Three dancers, representing the three springs, the red, the white, and the gold, interpret the music as the chorus sings it. The bubbling at the sources, the rippling in the brook, and the final dashing and roaring when the running water joins the ocean, are all brought out.

The members of the chorus seem to be enjoying the rehearsals greatly and have been most enthusiastic from the very beginning, and the results will be excellent musical entertainment which will round out the program for the first term and to which the public is invited, free of charge.

The touring party of 65 people in three big buses, one car, and a baggage truck, arrived in Greenville early last night after having their 22 days of travel through the eastern part of the United States, New England, southern Canada, Niagara Falls region, and a return trip through the valley of Virginia.

Most of these, combining college courses with recreation, are working they began regular class work in class rooms. For three days, under the direction of the instructors of the travel-study tour, they will sum up the work done during the trip and take examinations. J. B. Cummings has charge of work in History, V. M. Mulholland has the English classes, and T. Conn Bryan the classes in History. The members of the party spent two days on the campus preparing for the tour.

Tonight at six o'clock, a dinner will be given in the dining room to the touring party. The members of the faculty and the administrative staff will be the other guests.

All of those who went on the trip report a glorious trip with everything going off according to scheduled plans and everything seeming to work together for their enjoyment. Paul T. Ricks was the conductor of the tour and the business manager. J. B. Cummings was chairman of the committee of instruction, with V. M. Mulholland and T. Conn Bryan as the other members of the committee. Mrs. J. B. Cummings was hostess.

In many respects this is by far the most successful of the travel-study tours given by the college. Plans are being made for other tours to follow in quick succession.

The wedding of Miss A. L. Braxton of Greenville, and Wilbur Leroy Worthington of Winterville was solemnized this morning at eight o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend J. C. Moye of Snow Hill.

The bride and bridegroom entered the room together. The bride wore a becoming two-piece ensemble of navy blue crepe, trimmed with pink pique. Her accessories were navy and pink.

Mrs. Worthington is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Braxton of Greenville. She received her education at East Carolina Teachers College. For the past four years she has been a member of the Aurelian Springs school faculty in Halifax county.

Mr. Worthington is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Worthington of Winterville. He received his education at State College, Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Worthington will make their home near Ayden, where Mr. Worthington is engaged in farming.

FISH REFUGES N. C. SHIPPERS CLOSE SAT'DAY SAVE $300,000

Last Trout Fishing in Protected Streams This Week

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 2.—The last opportunity trout fishing enthusiasts will have this season to fish for trout in the protected streams within the three state game and fish refuges will be Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4, John D. Chalk, state inland game and fish commissioner, announced today.

The trout streams in these refuges are opened two days a month during the fishing season and hundreds of sportsmen flock into these areas to fish in the well-stocked trout streams and gladly pay $1 a day each for the fishing permits they must have in addition to their state fishing licenses for the privilege of fishing in these streams. They are allowed a bag limit of 20 trout per day and most of them are able to catch their limit within a short time.

On the Daniel Boone Game Refuge, which includes part of Grandfather Mountain, there are approximately 100 miles of streams which will be opened to the public Friday and Saturday, while in the Mt. Mitchell refuge near Busick, 72 miles from Marion, some 60 miles of streams will be open, as will some 45 miles of trout streams in the Wayah Bald refuge in Macon county. More than 20 miles of additional streams have been added to the Mt. Mitchell refuge in the last few days, known as the Curtis Creek section. These streams were stocked with 10,000 trout this spring and are regarded as some of the best trout fishing waters in the entire Mt. Mitchell area.

Almost 150 trout fishermen came to the Mt. Mitchell refuge for the two days it was opened for fishing in June. Chief Warden C. N. Mease reported, while just as many if not more visited the other refuges. An even larger number is expected this week-end, since it is the last opportunity anglers will have to fish in the refuges until next spring. Most of them bring their own tents and trailers and camp on the many public many grounds which are provided by the state within the refuges.

Annual Saving To Be Realized as Result of Ruling

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 1.—Merchants and wholesalers in North Carolina who pay the freight on goods they buy and sell will save approximately $300,000 a year as a result of the order issued by the State Utilities Commission today in which it refused the request of the steam railroads operating in the state to extend the emergency rates which have been in effect up until midnight last night. The railroads had asked that the State Utilities Commission extend the emergency charges until December 31, 1936, on inter-state freight business, as the Interstate Commerce Commission has agreed to do on inter-state business.

These emergency charges have been in effect on certain commodities, especially coal, sand, gravel, crushed stone and other heavy goods, since 1934 and were permitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a sort of "shot in the arm" to help the railroads carry on their business. The railroads had asked that the State Utilities Commission extend the emergency charges until December 31, 1936, on inter-state freight business, as the Interstate Commerce Commission has agreed to do on inter-state business.

The meaning of the new order just announced by the State Utilities Commission is that the railroads operating within the state may no longer charge the emergency rates but must go back to the regular rates, effective today, insofar as business within the state is concerned. They will be permitted to continue the emergency rates on inter-state business until December 31, as a result of the order issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission on June 9, 1936. The extension of the emergency rates by the ICC was bitterly opposed by the North Carolina Utilities Commission and all other state rate regulatory commissions on the grounds that the higher rates were not justified.

WHO IS THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY?

With all Mr. Hoey's harping about McDonald attacking the Democratic party and with Hoey followers taking up the cry, it leads us to ask, "Who or what is this Democratic party that Dr. McDonald has 'slandered'?" If Mr. Hoey and his followers believe that the Democratic party is that minority of voters of this state who compose the political ring and endeavor to control the affairs of this state for the benefit of the privileged few, then Dr. McDonald is certainly guilty of an attack upon the party. But Dr. McDonald, like a lot of the rest of us, does not consider the ring as being the whole Democratic party in this state and his fight against this ring has been a battle in behalf of those half a million voters, registered under the banner of the Democratic party, that the ring is now endeavoring to vote as so many sheep for the machine picked candidate, Clyde R. Hoey.

Despite the powerful control of the machine over certain voters the Hoey forces are now in desperate straits and they are endeavoring to defeat McDonald by waging a campaign of fear, telling our people that the election of McDonald to the governorship will be equivalent to placing a Huey Long or a Talmadge in the governor's chair. Such a campaign is just pure political propaganda put out to fool our people into supporting the political machine in North Carolina for another four years term. However, we do not believe our people are going to be fooled by all this talk, for we believe that they are intelligent enough to think for themselves despite Mr. Hoey's statements that those with "any sense" would vote for him and that "the cream" of the people of North Carolina were on his side.

In the first primary there were over 300,000 Democrats in North Carolina who did not vote for Mr. Hoey and whether or not they belong to the "cream" of the voters or whether or not they have "any sense" we believe they are capable of doing their own thinking and will not be puppets in the hands of the ring politicians when it comes to casting their ballots next Saturday.

In his campaign Dr. McDonald has made clear-cut statements as to where he stands on the various issues confronting the state. He is for a system of taxation that will get the bulk of the revenues from the sources most able to pay and relieve the poor of the present unjust portion of the taxes they are paying. He is for better conditions for agriculture in this state in order that the industry might be placed upon a parity with other lines. He is for the selection of officers by the people instead of having them appointed by a hand-picked governor. He is for social security legislation including old age pensions. He is for maximum hours and minimum wage schedules for industrial workers. He opposes any increase in land taxes for local purposes and opposes any land tax for state purposes whatever. In other words Dr. McDonald stands for those things that will bring greatest benefit to the vast masses of citizens of North Carolina and is for turning the reins of government back to the people of our state in keeping with the true meaning of democracy. Dr. McDonald has not attacked the Democratic party in this state but on the other hand has attacked those forces that are seeking to control the Democratic party for the benefit of the rich and at the expense of the poor. A vote next Saturday for Ralph McDonald will be a vote to return the government of this state to the people of the state.

TO THE EDITOR:

Nations are born and grow up from ideas, from the idea of Danish unity and co-operation. With this slogan, "Organize, Standardize and Advertise," near the middle of the 19th century the ancestors of the present Yeomanry of Denmark were peasants, owning no land, illiterate, without a vote or voice in the government. Only about 5 per cent could read and write. Today the lightest whips of the farmers' voices sounds like thunder in Denmark. Danish farmers are now in the majority, they elect men to office in sympathy with the toilers who produce, manufacture and market their wares co-operatively, they know the distribution game 100 per cent from A to Z. The broker does not get the bulk of the consumer's dollars, the farmers get it because the farmers beat them at their own game hand-down. There are no farm tenants in Denmark, or too few to count, less than 5 per cent in fact, and there are no illiterates except the feeble minded, only two in a thousand of population against 140 per thousand in North Carolina, any Dane of character can own a home or a farm in Denmark.

The government sets aside annually $5,000,000 to help tenant and farm laborers into full ownership of homes a d farms. In its report on the increase in tenancy among American farmers, a House agriculture sub-committee declares that "less than 2,000,000 farmers remain of the nation's once proud group of independent, home-owning farmers. Denmark means to have no tenants at all if humanly possible. With education as free as air, any Danish child can have any kind of education it wants. What the drowsy aristocratic city dwellers and placid big real estate owners could not see in 200 years, the newly freed peasant farmers come to see in less than fifty years, they changed conditions by using mother-wit, common sense and the elective franchise intelligently.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Although Lumsdale may not know it, he is to inherit $5,000 from his murdered master, the miser Arthur Burdett. Inspector Hylton feels that Lumsdale's alibi, on the day of the murder, is almost too good, but except for one comparatively unimportant detail, he cannot shake it. Now Lumsdale has volunteered to show him and Sergeant White that the mate to the club which did the murder is hanging in its rightful place, and not where it was hanging when Hylton and White inspected the room.

Chapter 18 NEW PUZZLE

"THOSE two clubs always did hang from that nail," Lumsdale went on. "There used to be a plate on this bottom one, but it got broken a bit ago."

"How?" asked Hylton.

"Well, if you must know, the old fool threw it at me."

Hylton was too much interested in the queer business of the clubs to enjoy this much.

"Were the two clubs on that top nail on Monday?" he asked.

"Ah'm certain they were."

"Why didn't you tell us about this before?"

"Ah never realized it till this morning. There's folks as wouldn't think it likely, Mister, but in a rum sort of way Ah reckon I was fond of the poor old man. I never gave a thought to that other club being on its wrong nail, but this morning I suppose I was more normal like and all of a sudden I thought to meself 'Why don't I, Lumsdale, but that club's on wrong nail, and I got a chair and put it up in its place.'"

All Hylton said then was, "If you've got any other bits of odd information tucked away you better give 'em to us, Lumsdale."

"Ay."

"Come on, Sergeant, we must be getting along." At the doorway the Inspector turned suddenly on Lumsdale, and said casually,

"Let's see, how much is it you get under Mr. Burdett's will—the whole lot?"

Lumsdale shook his head. "The lawyer 'll tell me that, Mister."

Kingsley Hylton looked at the stubborn Northcountryman for a moment and abruptly turned away. He was beginning to take an acute dislike to Mr. Andrew Lumsdale. When they had left the Court about a quarter of a mile behind Hylton stopped in the road to light one of his thin black cigars. Then he said abruptly, "Do you realize, White, how extraordinary that business of the clubs is?"

"Well, it does seem a bit rum sir."

"Rum? In a way it is one of the rummiest things I've ever come across. Just think for a minute: our hypothesis is that someone, almost certainly known to Burdett, comes to the door and is admitted. Now, think, a quarrel: in the middle of it, the stranger says 'excuse me one moment whilst I put this chair against the wall and get down something to hit you with.' It's hardly likely is it?"

"Praps Mr. Burdett went out of the room for a minute."

"And left someone behind with the safe open? Not likely. And anyway, supposing he did, why on earth did the man (if it was a man) get down two clubs to do a murder with?"

"We've only Lumsdale's word for where the clubs usually are sir."

"No we haven't. When I got up on the chair to see how high that nail is I distinctly saw a slight discoloration of the paper—you know the unfaded bits behind pictures."

"Well, I can't say that I do understand it sir."

"No more can I. In the middle of a quarrel I stand up on a chair to reach a weapon. That's odd enough, but it is just understandable."

"Having killed a man, I then go to the trouble of standing on the chair again, getting down a second club which is no earthly use to me and deliberately hanging it in its wrong place. That doesn't make sense, White, to me."

THE Inspector hired a motor car from the Hoeps and was back in Morechester by tea-time. He went straight to the Post Office where he was delighted to find that all the assistants were girls. In one respect women are supremely useful to a detective, almost unconsciously a woman takes notice of a face and remembers it.

In turn all five were brought into the Postmaster's office and there confronted by the Inspector's most charming smile and a photograph. Four failed to respond, and Hylton was beginning to lose faith in women, when Enquiries and General Delivery revived it handsomely by reacting immediately to the photograph. She recognized the man at once. Mr. Langley.

"Mr. Who?"

"Langley: I think he must be a traveling salesman or something coming through Morechester every four weeks or so, anyway he calls pretty regularly for letters."

"The devil he does? What sort of letters?"

"Well, they aren't letters really, they're more like little packages."

"Where from?"

Miss Enquiries rather over-virtuously stated that she never bothered to look where things came from.

"And did Mr. Langley come in on Monday?"

"Monday? Let me think. Well, I know he's been in once this week because there was something for him in the box. It was either Monday or Tuesday, I'm not sure which."

"Thank you, Miss—"

"Pearson" (repressively).

"Miss Pearson" (apologetically).

The Inspector left the Post Office in a growing excitement of mind. He felt certain that Andrew Lumsdale had not forgotten his visit to the Post Office, but for some reason or other had not wanted it known. He went back by car to Erderton and getting out at the Hoops knocked into the Square to buy some matches in John Fenton's Stores. The door was half open so that his entry was unheralded by the tell-tale ping of the old fashioned bell, and he had hardly entered the shop before he heard voices coming from the passage at the rear. Mr. and Mrs. Fenton had company evidently.

He heard general "good byes" being said and then, as an evident afterthought, a distinctly clerical voice said "I was sorry not to see you at the women's service on Monday, Mrs. Fenton. I hope nothing was the matter."

"No, Rector, I just couldn't manage to get along for once that was all."

The customary superfluous good-byes were repeated ad nauseam and the street door shut behind the visitor, then a somewhat perturbed man's voice said "I don't understand about Monday evening, Mary, you told me you had been to church as usual."

"John, I—"

Someone else had come in and shut the door sharply; Kingsley Hylton turned a reproachful eye on the innocent intruder and Mary Fenton, a well made woman, now past middle age and growing a trifle on the matronly side of buxomness, came out of the back regions.

"Yes sir?"

Hylton bought his box of matches and went out reflectively.

OUTSIDE he almost ran into the Rev. Steeble who unexpectedly stopped him and said, in a voice that the Inspector recognized,

"You are Mr. Hylton, I believe."

"That's right."

"My name is Steeble, I am the Vicar of this parish."

"How d'you do, Mr. Steeble?"

"Mr. Hylton, a deed of violence has been committed, apparently a crime, and it is your duty to enquire into it. I hope no man understands the meaning of duty better than I do, but, somehow, Mr. Hylton I hardly think you will be successful in your enquiries."

Kingsley Hylton was a little taken back by this greeting.

"You don't, Mr. Steeble," he asked, "why?"

The Rev. Steeble's pale blue eyes blazed up into a fanatical fury and his whole fine face became alight with a sort of holy anger; his voice was strained as he answered.

"Because of a fact which Scotland Yard for all its cleverness is apt to forget Mr. Hylton—because God will guard his own," his wild eyes stared straight into the astonished ones of the Inspector for a full half minute and then, suddenly sinking his head on to his chest, he turned and walked rapidly away.

Kingsley Hylton went slowly back to the Hoops. "What you've got to remember, K. H.," he admonished himself under his breath, "is that logic doesn't count with human beings—they're all mad, including yourself."

Dale Shipley was in the saloon of the Hoops drinking a moody pint of beer; but the young man was less dejected than he might well have been. Lawson's visit to Fieldes Cottage turned out to be innocuous; the lodgekeeper had come merely to tell Dale that there was a likely looking mare for sale over at Ruckley, and thoughts of horse and hounds were running through the young man's head now.

Hylton gets an invitation, tomorrow, he has a mind to accept.

Farley to mop up all the 48 states and insular possessions — it's a strong combination. Morgenthau keeps still and works. Swanson is only convenient, and Dern speaks indifferently well.

Farley's hints of retirement from the Post Office Department pretty soon forecast the earnestness of his specialization.

FAVORS: Another setback to railroad labor by Federal Judge Bailey of the District of Columbia who holds the 1935 acts invalid. After the Supreme Court knocked out the railroad pension act Congress passed two laws, one to tax railroads, and put the proceeds in the Treasury for the use of the Railroad Retirement Board created by another act. The theory was that the courts would okay the tax act as being "for public purposes," and that the money could then be drawn out exclusively for railroad pensions.

But Judge Bailey held the two laws to be merely a subterfuge to get around the single act that had been invalidated. The net effect, he said, would be to take money from one set of citizen to benefit another set. He couldn't see why railroads should be taxed and nobody else taxed, if the revenue was intended for government expenses.

The tendency of lower courts to stiffen their decision on New Deal laws piles up trouble for Congress in trying to favor labor or any other class.

EFFECTS: Two or three more decisions from lower courts are impending. One court has already held the Wagner labor disputes act invalid. If Attorney General Cummings goes ahead with suits brought by utility concerns, a ruling on the utility holding act may come down during the campaign. The Securities Exchange law is under fire from various angles.

Although the Supreme Court is not expected to render judgments before election, it may do so on some minor laws.

Lower courts have taken their cue from Supreme Court decisions. Hence the chances of these lower court decisions being sustained in final review are very great. The effect of federal decisions during the campaign may have political importance.

Democratic conservatives intended that platform to shackle Roosevelt if he did win and keep him from wandering down "radical" paths. The fact that he refused to stay shackled is one of the main reasons for their current bitterness.

The 1936 declaration, by contrast, is Roosevelt's to the last comma. He firmly believes that it will be practically within the realm of his powers to make it effective. Rarely has any candidate for the presidency stood on a platform so exactly in line with his wishes.

ELATED: Informed New Yorkers has anticipated some sort of Al Smith demonstration to be staged in the Philadelphia galleries, but were surprised — and mostly disappointed — at the reaction to the banner — waving. Naturally they hadn't expected the delegates to be enthusiastic, but they did hope a substantial proportion of the onlookers would respond to mention of the former Democratic hero. Instead practically everyone appeared to be delighted when the disturbers were heaved out on their ears.

New York observers who talked to many Democrats at Philadelphia — both delegates and visitors — found a large majority of them pleased with the elimination of the older party leaders. The prevailing sentiment was that men like Smith, Reed, John Davis, Raskob and so on had always been identified with defeat, so it was better for the party to be rid of them. Only winners are wanted. Enough old timers are left, Barkley, Robinson, Gerard and others to avoid any impression of a wholesale defection. Moreover the younger party element is plain elated because the more veterans sulk in their tents the more room there is for them to get ahead.

LABOR: There is serious talk in New York labor circles of launching CONTRAST: Most New York political experts rate the Democratic platform superior to the Republican in vigor, in consistency and especially in its emphasis on "we have done." What "we will do" is more or less incidental.

They also point to one vital difference between this platform and the one the Democrats adopted four years ago. The 1932 document was tailored primarily by men who didn't wish Roosevelt any hard luck but wouldn't have minded if he had broken his neck. He had to take what was given him not being at that time in a position to dictate.

LEGION GROUP MAKES SET-UP

Junior Baseball Team to Meet in State Competition

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD

Arthur B. Corey of this city met with the American Legion athletic officials in a conference at Raleigh last night to arrange plans for games of the Legions' Junior baseball teams in a State competition which are to be played some time in the near future. The first game will be played on Monday, July 6th, at which time the Asheboro and Pittsboro teams meet in a clash.

There are three different divisions which go to make up the American Legion groups. These being the Eastern, Central and Western divisions.

Four teams in the Eastern group competing in State competition are Greenville, Beaufort, Wilson and Manteo. These teams were selected to run off the first pairings. The local team will battle the Beaufort group, and the Wilson nine will play with the Manteo group.

Those in the Central division are Sanford, Hamlet, Pittsboro and Asheboro. Although the 14 teams for the Western division have been selected, no definite schedule has been arranged for them. However, a meeting is being held in Charlotte tonight to get plans for the Western division of boys in tip-top shape.

Corey is Athletic officer of the Eastern division, and dates as to when the games will be played will be announced later.

YOUTH STOPS CAR QUICKLY BUT AGE HOLDS ROAD BEST

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—Youth's foot is quick on the brake in an emergency, but the older is better at keeping the automobile on the straight and narrow, tests given autoists by the Richmond department of public safety indicate. The tests showed:

Automobile drivers over 25 are more proficient at keeping automobiles on the highway and at judging speed.

Autoists under 25, at a signal brought their machines to a standstill more promptly and were less affected by the sun's glare.

1936 LINT CROP SEEMS SPOTTY

Conditions Very Bad in Southern Piedmont Section

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hoell,

Raleigh, July 2.—The outlook for anything like a normal cotton crop in the Southern Piedmont and western counties is very poor at the present time, while indications are for almost no cotton crop at all in several counties, Frank Parker of the state-federal crop reporting service of the State Department of Agriculture said today. In the eastern counties, cotton is doing very well now since the rains of the last two weeks, with the result that a fair crop is in prospect throughout most of the eastern section, although there has been so much rain in some sections that grass and weeds are causing a lot of trouble.

"The entire western part of the state, including the western edge of the Piedmont section, is suffering greatly from lack of rain and all crops are in poor condition," Parker said. "In many counties the farmers are really in distress because of the drought. This is especially true in Cleveland, Mecklenburg, Gaston and Union counties where the cotton is just now beginning to come up following a light rain there last week. This cotton is coming up so late that it is impossible to tell whether it will make a crop or not. And unless more rain comes very soon, it will burn up in the fields. The corn, hay and small grain crops have also been very seriously curtailed by the dry weather. I would say that throughout the western Piedmont and most of the mountain counties, distressing crop conditions exist because of the lack of rain."

New York Cotton

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Selective buying spread throughout the stock market today but a break in farm implement issues tended to cloud the generally bright picture. While favored equities were given a lift of fractions to two or more points on optimistic business and industrial news the machinery group and rails fell sharply as drought losses threatened agricultural income prospects. Trading was quiet near the fourth hour. The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Durham Utilities Co. Announces Reduction

Raleigh, July 2.—(AP)—The Utilities Commission announced today a reduction in rates of the Durham Telephone Company to effect an annual saving of $25,623 to subscribers. The new rates become effective August 1. Negotiations for the reduction have been underway for months. It was the third in the state with in the past year as the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Company, both recently reduced rates. Stanley Winborne, utilities commissioner, estimated the total annual savings to telephone subscribers of the three companies at $205,833.

SMITH'S POWER HAUNTS PARTY

Prominent Names are Linked Against F. D. Roosevelt

By PRESTON GROVER

Philadelphia, July 2.—Just how many votes can Al Smith and his four fellow dissenters pull away from President Roosevelt?

That question presents a problem especially interesting to those who remember the almost fanatical support Mr. Smith had in certain quarters in 1928 when he was defeated by Herbert Hoover.

Not in recent history—If ever there was an exact parallel—have five names long so prominent in a party's history been publicly massed against the party's candidate for the presidency.

Colby, Ely, Cohan, Reed, and Smith—these are names which in years past have represented influence in the party.

Their blunt invitation for a convention-wide bolt hadn't a chance from the beginning of depriving Roosevelt of the nomination. Undoubtedly the insurgent five knew that.

But what effect will it have in the campaign? Does it end the efforts the five Democrats will make to defeat Mr. Roosevelt, or will they strike again?

The effect the statement may have upon the country at large perhaps cannot be measured accurately by its effect upon an enthusiastic convention whose work was cut out for it in advance.

Before the Republican convention there was an active movement for a coalition ticket, with a prominent Democrat to team with a Republican presidential nominee.

There were those who wondered whether this seeming coalition of sentiment expressed by Smith and his associates would have, to a degree, the same effect as an actual coalition ticket.

Only November will supply an answer.

Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia, who openly oppose many Rooseveltian policies, set what may be a pattern for other public reaction to such proposals by asserting they had not bolted in the past and likely would not bolt in the future.

Orthopedic Clinic Will Get Underway In City Tomorrow

First in Series of Examination of Cripples to Be Held at Pitt County Health Dept. Offices

The first of orthopedic clinics for cripples in Pitt and surrounding counties will be held at the Pitt County court house tomorrow.

The clinics will be held the first Friday in each month for those under 21 years of age who reside in 10 or 12 Eastern North Carolina counties. However, those requiring additional attention living in this county will be the only ones to receive extra treatment.

The services of Dr. Hugh A. Thomson has been secured by the federal government and traveling expenses of the specialist were defrayed by the local Rotary club. Dr. Thomson will conduct the examinations, which are provided for by the Social Security funds, the children's division of the Department of Labor, the President's bail committee and the Rotary club and the county health office.

Part of the money from the President's balls will be utilized for supplies used by the clinic, and other work which will take place in the future.

Those attending the clinic are supposed to pay for their own treatment, but Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt health officer said that some plan would be arranged to take care of those who were unable to pay for the services.

One Person Is Killed In Louisiana Tornado

Archibald, La., July 2.—(AP)—A tornado struck here and at Mangham early today killing one person and injuring five, three seriously.

ELIMINATION OF SANCTIONS IS ADVOCATED

(Continued from Page One) Geneva, July 2.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie asked the League of Nations assembly tonight to approve a loan of $50,000,000 to finance Ethiopia's defense of her integrity.

The league also presented to the assembly the draft of a resolution under which it would pledge itself to refrain from recognizing territory annexation achieved by force of arms.

Selassie was before the statement for the second time to plead, for the seemingly lost cause of his African kingdom now declared a part of the African empire of the Italian empire by Premier Benito Mussolini.

DECREASED TOBACCO CROP POINTS TO BETTER PRICE

average of approximately 700 pounds per acre, but that it will be far short of the 1935 yield of 935 pounds per acre, the heaviest yield ever recorded in North Carolina.

If there is a decrease of as much as 20,000 acres in the acreage planted to tobacco as compared with last year when 618,000 acres were planted, the total acreage this year would amount to 590,000, thought by many a good estimate of this year's plantings. If these 590,000 acres yielded an average of 700 pounds to the acre, as is thought likely, the 1936 tobacco crop should amount to 414,000,000 pounds as compared with the 1935 crop of 577,000,000, a decrease of 161,000,000 pounds.

Yet if the average price for this year's crop should amount to as much as 26 cents a pound, as many think likely, the farmers would receive a total of $107,840,000 for this year's tobacco crop as compared with the $115,400,000 they received last fall for their 577,000,000 pounds crop, for which they received an average of only 20 cents a pound.

It is agreed, of course, that those farmers which make a specialty of producing the higher grades of tobacco and who this year are able to show good and uniform quality, will be able to get from 50 cents to 75 cents a pound for their tobacco and in some cases probably more.

There is no doubt that the tobacco crop this year would have been larger than last year if all the farmers had planted all the tobacco they planned to and especially if the weather had been favorable and the growth normal. However, it is now generally agreed that the crop will be at least 150,000,000 pounds less than the 1935 crop and that the average price paid this fall will increase accordingly. This in turn will mean that the tobacco farmers will receive just as much for their tobacco this year as last year, because of the smaller crop.
