FRESH ATTACK MADE AGAINST SEA COAST CITY

San Sebastain Trembles Under Renewed Cannonading

LEFTIST HOLDING MOUNTAIN PASS

Fascist Commanders Predict Fall of Madrid with Completion of Military Move

(By Associated Press) The seacoast city of San Sebastain trembled under renewed cannonading today and a Spanish government submarine was reported sunk by a rebel airplane as fresh drives for control in Spain's civil war was launched by fascists and loyalists.

To speed its work of crushing the revolution, the government initiated a purge of its enemies from within.

State departments and the army were swept of anyone suspected of friendliness to the fascist cause.

To wipe out teachings which leftists considered reactionary and inimical to their cause, the government ordered the confiscation of all remaining Catholic schools, colleges and universities.

As liberal militia marched on fascist dominated areas the government claimed the revolution had collapsed. Yet fascist commanders predicted the fall of Madrid with completion of a military maneuver intended to drive a wedge between the strategic and leftist held cities of Barcelona and Madrid.

Two light house officials at Gibraltar reported they witnessed the sinking of the government submarine G-3 by a rebel plane.

Leftist still dominated the Quadrangula mountains, the gateway to Madrid. But loyalists began to admit the fight would last longer than they had anticipated when the rebellion began.

Washington, July 29.—(AP)—The State Department disclosed today that the diplomatic officials on Spain that evacuation of Americans from Madrid would be delayed further.

The Department was told that guarantees sought by the diplomatic corps at the Spanish capital for departing foreigners had not been obtained.

Americans and others in the capital are seeking to reach Alicante to board the United States cruiser Quincy.

Madrid was reported quiet at 1:00 P. M. (Spanish time) today.

A planned evacuation on receipts of Spanish government assurances of safe conduct for the refugee train now has been put off until Friday at the earliest, the Department was informed. If and when the evacuation is arranged, the special train will proceed either to Valencia or Alicante on the Eastern Spanish coast.

Farm Organization Lends Its Efforts Light Rural Homes

Farm Bureau Appoints Committee Work With Organization Seeking Erect Power Lines

The Pitt County Farm Bureau will take an active part in trying to secure Federal loans through the Rural Electrification authority to erect rural power lines throughout the county.

A spokesman for the Bureau said today "we do not want to leave our county in the dark, while all our neighbors are providing lights for their farm homes."

At a meeting of the county organization a committee composed of Mack G. Smith, Oscar Speight and A. L. Woodard was named to land its efforts in trying to secure money to erect the lines.

Efforts will be made to have electricity in every farm home in the county, it was stated.

A campaign will be carried on to secure the necessary data where funds can be secured. It was stated that other counties in Eastern North Carolina are planning to build the rural lines.

An organization has been formed to provide the farms with electricity, the power to be purchased from the City plant, but so far little headway has been made toward securing a loan and the Bureau will cooperate with the organization in its efforts.

U.S. CITIZENS LEAVE MADRID

To Desert Capital Despite New Protection Guarantees

Washington, July 29.—(AP)—Stranded Americans given new guarantees of protection by the rebel threatened government of Spain, laid final plans today for their escape from inland Madrid to an American cruiser waiting at the Alicante seaport.

Some 146 Americans the largest group still reported on Spanish soil, planned to board trains tomorrow for the flight from the capital city, local point of revolutionary strife, according to advices received by the navy department.

The navy's heavy cruiser Quincy, sailed today at Alicante for the arrival of those Americans fleeing from Madrid tomorrow.

Committee Named Represent County At State Meeting

J. E. Winslow, Roy T. Cox and W. H. Dall, Jr., Official Delegates to Farm Bureau Session

J. E. Winslow, Roy T. Cox and W. H. Dall, Jr., will represent Pitt County at the "Tobacco Day" meet at N. C. State College tomorrow. The meeting was called for the expressed purpose of setting up a permanent State Farm Bureau Federation to replace the temporary organization which has been in effect for several months.

In addition to the official delegates, a large number of farmers from this county are expected to attend the sessions, which will be addressed by J. B. Hutson, of the Soil Conservation set-up, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. E. F. Arnold, executive secretary of the state organization, whose headquarters are located here, spent yesterday in Raleigh making plans for the meeting. He said today he would return to the Capital city late this afternoon to make further arrangements for the meeting to be held in the Frank Thompson gymnasium at N. C. State college.

Another feature of the one-day session will be the naming of a new Tobacco Advisory committee to replace the old set-up. Each tobacco-growing county is allowed three delegates, and while the Farm Bureau is sponsoring the meeting, all leaf producing counties are scheduled to participate in the selection of the committee.

Mr. Arnold has said he did not believe Farm Bureau headquarters would be moved from this city at the present time.

Olympic Reverses for Jews Berlin (AP)—A damper has been put on anti-Jewish agitation in and around Berlin during the Olympic games, but elsewhere signs still warn Jews to keep out of towns and stores and Nazis say their anti-Jewish beliefs have not waned. The Berlin signs were removed in order not to offend foreigners during the games.

Spouse Says Mary Astor Guilty Immoral Conduct

Questions About Immorality and Story of Bathroom Brawl Heard at Los Angeles Hearing on Custody of Child

Los Angeles, July 29.—(AP)—Broken wide open by questions about immorality and the story of a bathroom brawl, the battle of red-haired Mary Astor, screen beauty, to regain custody of her baby girl raged furiously today.

She is attempting to break the court order giving her divorced husband, Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, guardianship of four-year-old Marylyn Thorpe.

To prevent certain portions of the evidence from going into the record opposing lawyers met in an eleventh hour conference last night. It failed.

"I hope to protect Mary," Dr. Thorpe said before the night session opened. "I'm sorry for what's going to come out."

The result was that the first hour testimony left a packed office studded with motion picture people gorged-eyed and gasping.

Dr. Thorpe was the first witness. Within five minutes he retorted sharply—to a question of why he had allowed Marylyn to remain with Miss Astor after the divorce—"because I thought I had hoped she would be a good influence on her mother."

In her complaint Miss Astor charged she was coerced into giving Dr. Thorpe an uncontested divorce when he threatened to "scandalize" her publicly. His answer was that she was guilty of "gross immoral conduct."

Momentarily tripped by the quick retort, the attorney, R. L. Rich Woolley, then began digging into the story of Dr. Thorpe's relations with other women in the months after the divorce last year.

He asked about temporary nurses the father said he employed for the baby when her regular nurse was having her day out and wanted to know if on frequent occasions they didn't stay in the house overnight.

"Never," said Dr. Thorpe, "they never did."

BUREAU WARNS OF HURRICANE

Tropical Storm On Gulf of Mexico Increases Intensity

Miami, July 29.—(AP)—The weather bureau said at 11:30 a. m. today a tropical storm on the Gulf of Mexico off Florida's lower west coast now apparently has attained hurricane intensity over a small area.

The bureau warned persons in low places against high tides and predicted strong gales, possible reaching hurricane force on the Florida west coast late today.

The tropical storm cut across extreme south Florida during the night without causing any serious damage.

Storm warnings were up from Port Pierce on the Atlantic side around the tip of the peninsula to a point just south of Carrabelle on the northwest Gulf coast.

The Miami report area took precautions against high winds last night, but found the preparations wasted.

The wind spreading a maximum velocity of some 60 miles an hour—never hurricane force—blew inland far south of the heavily populated areas.

Audit Being Made Of City Financial Books

The semi-annual financial audit of the City's books is underway here, with C. H. Bass, a member of the firm of George G. Scott and company of Charlotte, doing the work.

He said, however, that the city would probably start advertising unpaid 1935 taxes, as provided by statute, at an early date.

Seventy-six per cent of the entire levy of more than $76,000 already has been collected.

Sixteen Feared Drowned In Lake Michigan Waters

Motor-Powered Ship Capsizes on Chicago South Side

Chicago, July 29.—(AP)—Sixteen men were feared drowned early today when the motor powerboat "Material Service" capsized in the rough waters of Lake Michigan, four miles off Chicago's South side.

Seven members of the crew were rescued, but Captain C. D. Brown and 15 others were listed as missing by the coast guard.

First-Mate John M. Johnson, one of the seven who was saved, after they had chined for more than a half an hour to a piece of wreckage gave the first account of the tragedy.

He said the vessel listed suddenly as it neared through a heavy sea some time between 2 and 3 a. m. (EST). It lurched to an even keel, Johnson related then sank swiftly.

A. E. Pierce, keeper of the Calumet harbor lighthouse station, two miles off 86th street, saw the "Material Service" go down. He notified the coast guard and put out in a small boat with his assistant.

They picked up two of the survivors. A South Chicago coast guard craft rescued three others. A Benham towing company boat lifted the remaining two from the lake.

Other coast guard boats were rushed to the scene to comb the waters for Captain Brown and the 15 missing members of his crew.

City Swimming Pool Paying Its Expenses

The municipal swimming pool, often referred to as the city's "white elephant," is paying its operating expenses this year and will have enough left over to pay the interest on the money borrowed to erect the pool, City Clerk J. O. Duval said today.

It takes about $400 a month to operate the pool. Collections are running about $500 a month, it was stated, leaving enough over to meet the interest on the bonds.

The pool was erected as a CWA project, with the federal government providing about $14,000 and the city about $12,000.

Last summer the receipts were not enough to pay the cost of maintenance, but that was because children were not allowed to go in on account of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Both City and County Courts Are In Recess

No city court was held today, the mayor being out of the city and only a few minor cases being docketed.

Neither was any County court held this week, a recess having been taken until Tuesday, August 11, because of the fact farmers are busy putting in tobacco and numerous officers are leaving the county on vacations.

City court will be held Saturday, however.

ROAD REFUNDS FOR COUNTIES TO BE STUDIED

Carl L. Bailey Named Chairman of Adjustment Group

PLAN HEARINGS IN NEAR FUTURE

Consider Greenville For One of Three Places for Hearing County Claims

Raleigh, July 29.—(AP)—The county road debt adjustment commission today named Carl L. Bailey of Roper, a member of the 1935 state senate, as its chairman and prepared to hold hearings at which each county claiming it is due any highway refunds, from transactions which took place a dozen or so years ago, may present claims.

Forty-four counties, including Pitt, filed claims which now aggregate $8,451,160.30.

Charles Ross, general counsel for the highway and public works commission, suggested that each of the 100 boards of county commissioners in the state be asked by the group to signify officially in writing whether or not it has any such claim.

Guy Elliott, chairman of the legislative committee of the Southern Carolina Chamber of Commerce said his organization had been delegated to represent nineteen of the counties claiming money. He said the committee thought not more than two claims could be presented in a day usually which would mean some twenty days of hearings.

He suggested three places be designated for the hearing, Asheville, Staunton and Kinston with the first sitting to be in Asheville in about three weeks to 30 days.

Chairman Elliott told him the commission, though perhaps Asheville, Raleigh and Greenville would be better location but had not decided the matter.

Better Morale At State Prison Due Better Treatment

Prisoner No. 072111, Who Has Been in Prison for Eight Years, Writes of Conditions

Raleigh, July 29.—Two factors which have had more to do with bringing about a better morale among the prisoners in the Central Prison here, as well as throughout the entire prison system, are better food and the fact that prisoners no longer have any difficulty in getting an opportunity to talk to prison officials and are treated with consideration, Prisoner No. 072111, who has been in Central Prison here for eight years, told Chairman Capt. M. Waynick in a letter he wrote him recently.

"Because of the changes which have been taking place in the handling of prisoners, which I have been informed are a part of a definite program instituted at your suggestion, I am writing that you may know of the appreciation of myself and others," this prisoner said.

"Having been in prison eight years, I feel I have been thrown in contact with enough of the prisoners to know the reaction of many of them.

"Mr. Oscar T. Pitts, our executive director, has won the respect of all who have come in contact with him. He is never too busy to listen to a prisoner and whatever he promises is done and done promptly. He has shown by his actions that he intends to give every man here a square deal. The Assistant Warden, Mr. J. W. Bryan, has the same attitude of being willing to talk with the men during their working and leisure hours. He has helped many of them by getting statements of time served, which are invaluable to a prisoner.

"Regardless of what may be done for a man when he is hungry he is never satisfied. The Steward, Mr. A. E. Cole, by steadily improving our food, has laid a splendid foundation for Mr. Pitts and Mr. Bryan to work upon. Men who have been here much shorter periods than myself can remember the large number of fights which formerly occurred here. Today a fight is a rarity. That the morale is better than it has ever been is a known fact and I feel that the food has been the foundation on which this improvement has been built. Most of the prisoners deeply appreciate all these things and are trying to show their appreciation through better conduct."

Paris, July 29.—(AP)—Italy has accepted in principle, informed sources said today, an invitation to a five-power Locarno conference.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

ways existed but it has bloomed under the New Deal.

What happened was this: Each agency charged with the expenditure of vast sums—PWA, WPA, AAA—felt the need of having its own investigating staff. At first they labored in a legitimate field. But gradually they were assigned to shadow suspected employees, contractors dealing with the government, hostile critics, even rival officials.

Most disturbing aspect is that this spy mania grows and broadens unless exposed and nipped. It's this phase which worries sensible New Dealers.

TRIO: Three professional diplomats are running a hot foot race for the important post of Under Secretary of State. Filling the vacancy furnishes FFR a tough problem, because the Under Secretary has closest contacts with delicate foreign questions.

The three hopefuls are Norman H. Davis, our retiring ambassador; William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Moscow; and Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State, and South American expert, Secretary Hall, who usually gets what he wants, seems to favor his fellow-Tennessean—Mr. Davis. The latter leads on the score of experience, but "liberals" snort because of his connection with New York financial interests. (He was on J. P. Morgan's cut-in list as revealed before a Senate committee.)

Mr. Bullitt is FFR's close friend and international idealist back him, but the Old Guard at the State Department brand him as "too impulsive." They want no diplomatic Don Quixote to tilt with Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, Baldwin. Though Mr. Davis leads, Mr. Welles says slip in as the easiest way out for Mr. Roosevelt. He's not "impulsive" like Bullitt and he knows J. P. Morgan only by reputation.

STEADFAST: The handlers of this country's first experiment in social security have had to lock horns with the politicians. Some state bosses yearn to transform this agency for aiding the needy and send into a partisan machine.

Pennsylvania, for instance, submitted an administrative setup which shocked the experts at Washington. The supervisors sponsored by the Guffey-Earle organization had no training or experience for the work. When the Board turned thumbs down on the administrative personnel, the Guffey family appealed to the White House, but again they were rebuffed. A second batch of state overseers has been approved tentatively.

Some other states have sent in names equally bad. But the Board, headed by ex-G. O. P. Governor Winant of New Hampshire, hasn't trickled to the politicians. And so far the President has backed them against those who are more interested in political than social security.

BENEFITS: AAA-ers have set August 1 as a deadline which will decide whether the drought will destroy FFR's political crops.

They figure that if it rains before that date, farmers will salvage sufficient crops to reap high prices and a fair income. Corn was sagging to 35 and 40 cents before the dry spell, but price expectations now hit 48 cents. No rain may mean few Democratic votes in the drought area. There's another danger: So far consumers have felt no serious pinch because foodstuffs now in market consist of pre-drought shipments that a perpendicular climb in the cost of living—and there seems no escape—may alienate urban dwellers.

A third factor—as AAA-ers see it—is the manner in which Rooseveltian recovery relieve the sufferer. If they break the job, Ag Lan-

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: To her family's horror, Carol Torrance has left Meredith, Ga. But she has taken a job teaching history and French in the Ashboro, Ga., high school as a first step toward an indefinitely postponed career—and perhaps partly to get away from Don Richards. Now she has found, at the preliminary teachers' meeting in Ashboro, a girl who seems to be likely to make a good companion. The meeting just has ended.

Chapter Five BOARDING HOUSE

THE meeting was over. Carol glanced towards the dark girl and smiled again, and they met in the doorway.

"Are you walking?" Carol asked. Mary Ellen Sands nodded. "Are you?"

"Yes. Should we stay and get met again, do you suppose?" "I don't see why. It's about dinner time and I'm hungry."

She would be. They went down the steps and turned towards town. Mary Ellen said:

"You're Caroline Torrance, aren't you?"

"I was. It's been Carol for a long time now. Which are you: Mary or Ellen?"

"Both."

Carol laughed. "Don't think I'm going to call you all that. Which had you rather?"

"Ellen, I guess."

"Ellen it is, then. Thank goodness for somebody that knows how to walk."

Ellen grinned. "It's my business. Good thing, too; we'll probably have a lot of it to do in these nine months. Is this your first year of teaching?"

"My second. The first was four years ago: I was drafted into this at the eleventh hour. Are you new at it?"

Ellen Sands grimaced. "Yes: I just graduated in June. I'm scared to death."

"You needn't be. Bluff it out." The pavement was hot beneath their feet and an occasional tree laced the sidewalk with shadows. The grass smelled hot and dusty, like the golf course at home. Nostalgia swept Carol again, washing away her confidence. She said quickly:

"Tell me about you. Where you went to school, and all that."

"G. W. C. One sister—younger—a mother, and a father who's in the drug business and too generous for his own good."

Carol matched her information and then said: "Do you know where you're going to live?"

"I haven't the faintest. I just came this morning. Do you?"

"No, but I've got a list of prospects. After lunch we might go on a hunt..."

THE search was not encouraging. The first house on Carol's list was filled; the second frowned on them as they went up the walk.

It was a beautiful shell of a house, with boxwood bordering the walk, and paint flaking from the Doric columns.

"It looks sort of bleak," Ellen whispered. Carol shrugged. "Twelve foot ceilings and black walnut Empire furniture and a two foot grate in each room. I know its kind by heart."

She was right. The house and its owner gave off the sick, sweet odor of decaying gentility. They made a quick escape.

Carol looked thoughtful. "What do you say to hunting a place that's commoner and has steam heat?" "Suits me, if you think our social position can stand it."

In the end they found a house on the street leading to the high school, a nondescript house that lived for the present and cast no longing glances over its shoulder. The landlady was youngish and friendly and intentionally blonde. She had two vacant rooms, she said; a large one at twenty dollars a month and a smaller one of fifteen. They inspected the rooms, both as nondescript as the house but light and with apparently adequate heating, and engaged them at once.

The living-room, Carol noticed in passing, was discouraging: gilded cat-tails in a pottery jar, a chromo of Notre Dame de Paris with mother-of-pearl windows, an ugly cabinet radio blaring unheeded jazz. All it needs, she thought, is Venus with a clock in her stomach...

... But after all, it wasn't her living-room, and she wouldn't be using it.

Mrs. O'Connor followed them to the porch, where a little girl of eight or nine sat on the steps sorting autographed photographs of movie stars.

"This is my little girl, Rosavel," she said. "Rosavel, this is Miss Torrance and Miss Sands."

Rosavel muttered, "Hee," without interrupting her rapt contemplation of Clark Gable's quizzically uplifted eyebrow.

CONTRAST: Republican activities in the East have entered a more confident phase since Governor Landon's acceptance speech. Many New Yorkers who have privately been skeptical of the Kansan's ability to sell himself to the voters were greatly encouraged by the way he registered on the air.

A marked improvement in his radio technique was noted as against a few months ago. The absence of theatricals in his address, its temperate tone, the impression he conveyed of being an average citizen were rated all the good. Observers who feared he would flounder when confronted by his first severe microphone test are now convinced that he will get across to the man in the street with increasing effectiveness from now on.

One astute analyst puts it: "He sounded above everything else like an honest man who means what he says. If he keeps on registering that way it will help us to dramatize and emphasize the contrast of his personality with that of his mellow-voiced opponent—whom we shall feature as a shrewd politician with no more stability than a weathervane. Such impressions carry a long way."

OBJECTIVES: U. S. Steel's move in establishing a basic 48 hour week for its workers with time and a half pay for overtime had a triple objective.

1. To break officially the 40 hour week shackles imposed by NRA in such a way as to avoid a bad reaction from labor. The steel work week currently averages around forty hours, so the change will make little immediate difference to the workers. At the same time the French civil conflict along these lines would make the bloody Spanish affair look like a Sunday School picnic.

2. To prepare to handle a further expansion of operations as economically as possible. Steel men confidently anticipate a large increase in demand from railroads and building contractors in 1937—perhaps enough to push production up to 80 or 90 per cent of capacity.

3. To demonstrate the efficacy of existing employe representation plans as a medium for collective bargaining. The new arrangement was negotiated with company union representatives. It is expected to please the majority of workers and to serve as evidence that they do not need to affiliate with "outside" unions in order to promote their own interests.

FINANCIAL sources fear that the insurrection will lead to developments damaging to world stability no matter how it turns out.

1. If the left wing government wins, there is a good chance it will soon be supplanted by outright sovietism. The economic repercussions of wholesale destruction will leave the poorer classes more miserable and desperate than ever.

2. If the right wingers win, French Fascists are likely to take it as a sign that the time is ripe for them to cut loose similarly. A French civil conflict along these lines would make the bloody Spanish affair look like a Sunday School picnic.

3. If the Spanish struggle is prolonged indecisively it may lead to grave international complications. Leon Blum's leftist French government indicates that it will support the Spanish left wing government in every way it can. On the other side, Italian Fascists were significantly present at the funeral of the rightist leader Sanjurjo. If Blum moves overtly, Mussolini will counter—and that might be the makings of a world war.

None of these developments would affect the United States directly. But any of them might bring grave repercussions over here as the ripples of strife spread in Europe and upset world peace and world trade relations.

The search was not encouraging

Carol looked up from the letter she was writing to Milly. "What...? Oh."

The room did look better. She had replaced the thin, mossy rug with hooked ones from her own room, and covered the bed with a wool coverlet of faded rose. The "Stag At Eve" and "The Melon Eaters" had bowed to German lithographs, and a dozen books stood on the table in the mellow glow of a lamp.

"I couldn't have stood it the other way," she admitted. "If only I could do something about the Great Lakes on the ceiling..."

Ellen sat down. "You certainly are good-looking," Ellen said impulsively.

She looked impersonally at herself and supposed she was. Her eyes were smoky blue and wide-spaced, with thick lashes and straight dark brows that weren't quite in line, and her mouth was wide and well-cut. The nose wasn't much, but the general effect was good. Her hair was light brown, and because it had a slight wave and was cut very short she never bothered with permanents.

She said honestly: "I guess so. I'd swap it any time for your seat for living."

Ellen grimaced. "That's what you think. I stay in hot water all the time because of it. I act first and then think, and half the time I can't tell what I'm going to say until I hear it, and then I'm more surprised than anybody else!"

Carol laughed. "I wish I was like that." She ran a comb carelessly through her hair. "Let's go. I've got a lunch you'd better not be late to meals at our establishment."

TROPHY: Settlement of the Radio Corporation of America strike was essentially a compromise. Both sides gave ground for the sake of peace. Yet the way the matter worked out greatly strengthened John Lewis' hand for organized labor's impending civil war.

The strikers belonged to a union which had been refused recognition by the American Federation of Labor. Its members had balked at a Federation order to disband their own organization and sign up with the electrical workers' union. They were bolstered in their disobedience by John Lewis' support. President Bill Green of the A. F. L. was so incensed by this defiance that he went to the length of notifying David Sarnoff—head of RCA—that the walkout was not sanctioned by the Federation.

Lewis took up the cudgels on the disavowed union's behalf and personally acted as its chief representative in negotiations with the company. The settlement granted enough of the union's demands to Attractions At College.

Though it was announced at College chapel Tuesday that there would be a program of dramatic impersonations in the auditorium on Friday night and that the public was invited to hear the artist as guests of the College, Dr. Meadows has since been notified that the entertainer, Miss Nan Lagerstedt, will be prevented by illness from appearing on that night.

However, on Monday night, Peetrie's White Hussars will present a musical program that promises to be very popular. Their evening of music was one of the best-liked numbers of the whole series of the summer session last year.

Another attraction of the near future is Wallace, the magician, who will appear on the entertainment program on the night of August 11th.

East Carolina Teachers College invites those who are interested in entertainment of musical nature or the wonders of "magic" to attend these programs as guests of the College.

BUDAPEST POLICE NAB "FISHERMAN"

Budapest (AP)—Police here make a distinction between "fishing" and "angling." Ferenc Mikola was arrested for the latter activity, which is conducted when hot summer weather forces apartment dwellers to look their windows open.

He carried complete fishing tackle and a bag containing shirts, ties, watches and three purses, which police say he got by climbing trees and "angling" through windows.

Sailors say port wine, which takes its name from Porto, Portugal; gave the name "port" to the left side of ships because early red lanterns had the tawny color of port.

WE have painted you a "Scottie Car" simply to demonstrate the increased mileage of this new 1936 Ford V-8.

It is not a "special" Ford car. It is a regular 1936 stock model Ford V-8 with distinctive exterior decoration and a glass gallon jug connected with a Zenith tester. No adjustments have been made to make it perform differently from any new stock car. The jug is added so that you can see a measured amount of gasoline used with your own eyes, instead of having it come from the tank at the rear.

The Goldboro Gold Bugs literally ate the Greenies up here yesterday at Third Street Stadium, by soundly trouncing the locals by a score of 8-3.

Everything went along fine for the first three innings—and then the storm broke. Caldwell tripped Bradford doubled, scoring Caldwell. Baker homered, Morris singled and Lynn doubled to complete the scoring in the fourth frame. The Bugs added three in the sixth on Baker's triple, an error, and a free pass to Morris and Lynn's homer.

The visitors made four runs and six hits off Paul Billest, starting Greenville hurler, who was yanked in the fourth with none out.

The Greenies scored one run in the second and two in the eighth. In the eighth inning, Parker doubled, Brown tripled, and Latham hit a fly to deep center, scoring Brown on the sacrifice.

Bedient went the route for the visitors, pitching six-hit ball. He issued five free passes.

Caldwell with a triple, a double, and two singles was the star hitter for the Bugs. He was closely trailed by Baker who had a homer, a triple and a single, to his credit.

Ayden whipped Snow Hill yesterday, 4-2, to tie the locals for the second rung in this loop. The New Bern Bears pulled a surprise on everybody by noosing out the Williamston Martins by a score of 3-2 in ten innings. Tarboro continued her usual tactics, winning by a score of 14-6 from the Kinston Eagles.

LEGION GAMES AT HIGH POINT

Lack of Local Support Forces Officials To Accept Offer

Greenville and High Point will play off the semi-final in the state American Legion Junior baseball elimination contest this week, all of the games to be played in High Point.

Officials of the club said this morning lack of local support forced them to agree to play the games in the opponent's back yard. It was reliably stated that only about five dollars was realized from each game played in this city.

H. B. Smith, highway patrolman and baseball enthusiast, returned today from a vacation at Gastonia and declared that he saw his home town team play four games and said at least 4,000 fans witnessed each one. Gastonia and Charlotte are fighting it out for the Western championship. The winner of the five game series will meet the winner of the High Point-Greenville three-game series for the state championship.

The locals will meet High Point tomorrow afternoon and again on Friday morning. If a third game is necessary, it will be played either Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

In winning the division championship, the Greenville boys have defeated many strong teams, but have been unable to secure any appreciable backing from the local fans.

While in High Point the Greenville youths will be taken care of at High Point college, all expenses to be defrayed by the home team. The necessity of playing on foreign grounds probably will place the local boys under a handicap, but they have been keeping in fine shape and promise to offer the Guilford county youths a fight to the finish brand of ball.

tell me...why are they Milder...why do they TASTE BETTER

Well, first off, all cigarettes are not alike...not by a long shot. Now Chesterfields...they are milder because they are made of mild, ripe tobaccos...both home-grown and Turkish. They age these tobaccos for two years to take out all harshness. These tobaccos are not only blended but cross-blended...this brings out the better taste of each tobacco. It welds the different flavors into one better flavor. It helps to make Chesterfields taste better. When you smoke a Chesterfield you realize they're not like others...They Satisfy.
