CLAIM REVOLT OF GARRISON'S REFUGEE CITY

Unconfirmed Report Issued by Fascist Forces

30 AMERICANS ALREADY IN CITY

France Reported Be Considering Lending Armed Assistance To Madrid Govt.

By Associated Press. 2,000 loyal troops marching on the northeastern Spanish rebel stronghold of Zaragoza were ambushed and slain not far from their goal, remnants of the column reported today.

(By Associated Press) Fascist instructors announced the revolt of the government garrison at Valencia, Mediterranean Spanish seaport, today, even as more American fled Madrid toward that city to escape from revolt-lone Spain.

Thirty Americans already are in Valencia, nine entrained at the capital city today for the seaport and 75 more refugees were scheduled to leave for the point tonight.

The report of the revolt in Valencia, was issued from the insurgent radio station in Seville. It was not confirmed.

A battle of both ground troops and airplane for possession of the strategic city of Zaragoza, in the rebel area of northeast Spain, was waged by the loyalist government as reports circulated in Paris that France might aid in crushing Spain's 13-day revolt.

In the Guadarrama mountain, the passes of which are gateways to Madrid, the government announced leftist forces were hurling fascist insurgents back.

French senators said Premier Leon Blum had told the foreign affairs committee France might be forced to aid the Madrid leftist regime with arms to "prevent being surrounded by dictatorships."

To bolster its defense forces, the government confiscated its merchant marine. As the British government began an urgent investigation to determine whether British and American banks and factories had been confiscated in Spain, the Ford motor company said it had received a report its factory at Barcelona had been occupied for an unknown purpose.

State Department Not Been Informed Mexican Incident

Appears Unlikely Any Formal Inquiry Will Be Held in Hold-up of Senator Robert Reynolds

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—The state department had not been informed officially today of the highway hold-up in Mexico yesterday of Senator Reynolds (D. N. C.) and it appeared unlikely any formal inquiry into the incident would be made.

Although declining to comment on a case considered exclusively one for the Mexican authorities, an official privately indicated the action taken by the foreign office in promising punitive measures ordered by the Mexican army leaders were satisfactory to everyone here.

Senator Reynolds and his daughter were among several Americans held up along the Pan-American highway, near Tasco, Hidalgo state, and robbed of nearly all their money.

Traffic signposts, at Graz, Austria, emblazoned with the Austrian colors, red and white, and the Heimwehr insignia are the latest political advertising venture here.

Booster Meeting Friday To Attract Large Crowd

Civic and Business Organizations Sponsor Movement

A good portion of Greenville's citizenry is expected to take part in the "booster" meeting to be held at Respass barbecue palace tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

Both the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs have called off regular meetings and members of the organizations attending the "booster" meeting will be given attendance credit by their respective clubs.

Business houses and professional men in the city are cooperating in the movement, planned to arouse interest in the local tobacco market and the city as a whole. A number of the largest stores and manufacturing plants in the city already have made reservations for their entire force. It is reported the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs will attend 100 per cent. The Chamber of Commerce, Merchants association and the Tobacco Board of Trade also will be well represented.

Ralph Deal has been designated as toastmaster and today announced the entire program of the session. Congressman Lindsay C. Warren will head the list of speakers. Others scheduled for short talks include James Ficklen, representing the Tobacco Board of Trade; J. C. Gallo-way, Kiwanis club; J. H. Waldrop, Rotary club; J. H. Blount, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants association; and K. W. Cobb, sales supervisor of the tobacco market.

Members of the committee have been busy this week in trying to secure a large attendance. It was pointed out that the general public not only is invited, but urged to attend. Any person not having a ticket may secure one from R. L. Powell of the Chamber of Commerce, D. C. Moore of the Kiwanis club or Gerald Mitchell of the Rotary club. Tickets also may be secured at the door tomorrow night.

Kenneth Earl Mills Is Claimed By Death

Last rites for Kenneth Earl Mills, one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mills of near Back Jack, were held from the home this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial was in the family cemetery.

The little boy died in the Kingston hospital yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock. He had been ill three weeks. Besides his parents he is survived by three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mills and Jarvis Mills.

HUTSON TALKS RALEIGH MEET

Says Tobacco Prices To Be Lower Than If AAA in Effect

Raleigh, July 30.—(AP)—J. B. Hutson, soil conservation program director for the Eastern Central region, predicted to North Carolina tobacco growers today they would get a price this year "about half-way between what you could get without any program and what you have gotten under the strict AAA and Kerr-Smith act regulations."

Hutson was head of the tobacco special session meeting in conjunction with farm and home week and were to elect an advisory group to work on future plans to protect their interests.

Hutson said his information indicated the stock of tobacco held by manufacturing companies was "not quite as much as at this season in previous years." He estimated the stocks on hand would provide a supply for 34 months.

Reach Agreement On Anglo-Russian Pact

London, July 30.—(AP)—An Anglo-Russian naval agreement "on all points" was announced in White Hall today.

No date was set for signing the treaty, but it was stated to be completely drafted. All that now remains to be done, officials said, is to inform other powers which are parties to the Washington naval treaty, including France, the United States and Japan and other governments with which Great Britain is now negotiating by later treaties.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER THEME: A Cabinet member high in President Roosevelt's confidence has furnished a tip on the indirect attack the Democrats will make against Alf Landon.

The Cabinet member, who is noted for his stinging style, is prompted to propose this strategy by William Allen White's biography of the G. O. P. in a national weekly. Writing to a friend, the Cabinet member said in effect: "The article circulates Mr. Landon as a likable, friendly, successful business man, but no more than that. . . . You could cross out the name of Landon, insert the name of any man in 10,000 towns and cities, and the article would apply to him. Perhaps we need that type of man as President these days, but I don't think so."

Not all New Dealers favor this sort of strategy. The more canny realize that average men far outnumber the geniuses among the voters. Nevertheless, Democratic speakers will covertly ring the changes on this theme in the campaign.

BUREAU WARNS RESIDENTS IN STORM'S PATH

Center of Disturbance Moves Toward Fla. Coast

HOIST WARNINGS OVER WIDE AREA

Storm Expected To Lose Its Intensity As It Moves Inland; Expect Big Rains

Jacksonville, July 30.—(AP)—The weather bureau predicted in its 10 a. m. advisory bulletin that a tropical storm moving across the Gulf of Mexico would strike the north-west Florida coast during the middle or latter part of the day, with winds of probable hurricane intensity.

The center of the disturbance at 8 a. m. was reported about 80 miles south of Apalachicola. The storm then was moving at a speed of from 12 to 15 miles an hour.

Persons in low places were cautioned against rising tides which already were advancing this morning.

West Florida communities batted down to withstand the blow. Hurricane warnings flew over a wide area as the weather bureau extended them from Cedar Key to Pensacola.

Southern Georgia was told to expect rain and possible gales when the disturbed mass of air goes inland.

Grady Norton, meteorologist in the weather bureau's storm warning service, said the disturbance will lose its force rapidly as it passes over land.

He saw a possibility that the drought, still present in some parts of northern Georgia and North and South Carolina might be ended when the dying storm swings over these sections.

Greenville Man Held Following Accident

Bert Paschall, Greenville mechanic, is facing a charge of careless and reckless driving as a result of a wreck last night about five miles from the city on the Bethel highway.

Corporal L. L. Jackson, who investigated the accident, said Paschall was driving toward Bethel and struck the rear of an automobile driven by Leon Tillery, negro, traveling in the same direction. The officer said the negro slowed down and Paschall drove his car into the rear of the other vehicle.

Bernice Denton, a rear seat occupant of the Paschall car, was injured when thrown against the front seat. It took several stitches to sew up the wound to the injured man's mouth.

The negro was freed following an investigation, but Paschall was ordered held for trial.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Mary E. Jenkins

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Jenkins, 79, who died yesterday afternoon at the home of her son J. E. Jenkins of near Parmalee, were conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Primitive Baptist church of Robersonville. Rev. B. S. Cowan, the pastor, had charge of the services. Burial followed in the Robersonville cemetery.

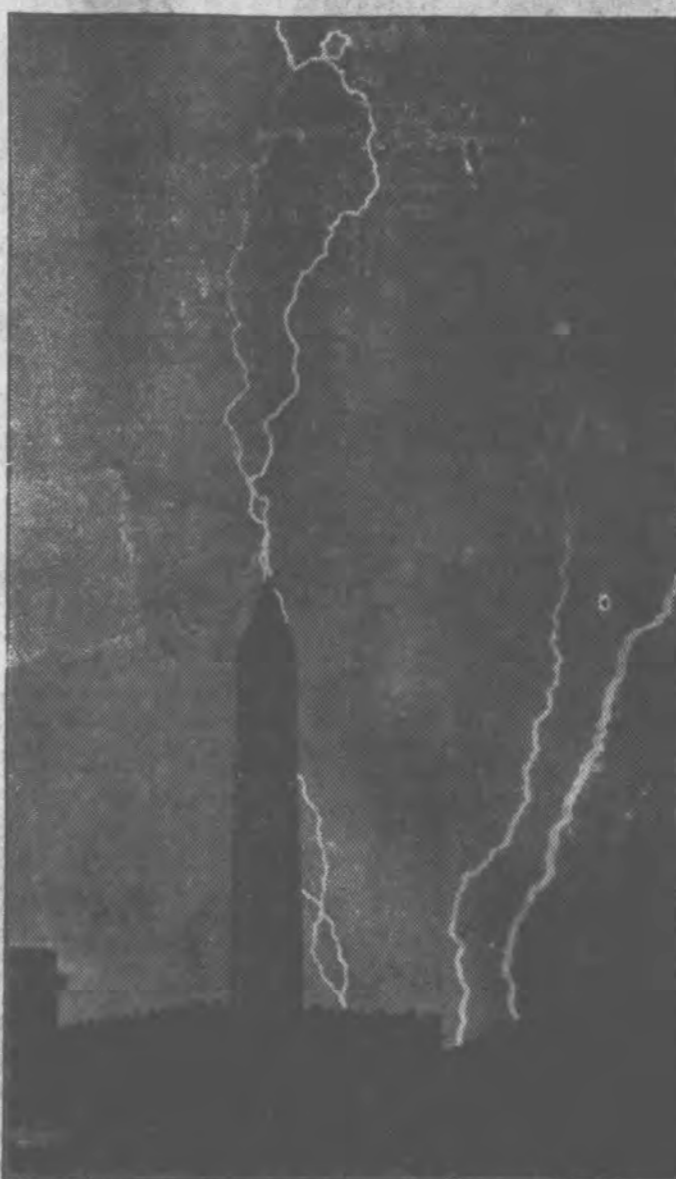

Mrs. Jenkins spent her entire life in the community in which she died. She is survived by three sons, Thomas H. Nelson of Wilmington and W. A. Nelson of Petersburg, Va., by a former marriage, and J. E. Jenkins, with whom she lived; and two daughters, Mrs. H. D. Coburn of Blackstone, Va., and Mrs. N. D. Matthews of Parmalee.

Hail And Wind Storm Hits Sections Of Pitt County

Damage to Crops Not As Serious As on Other Occasions

An electrical rain and wind storm throughout sections of Pitt county last night brought down-pours of rain and a drop in temperatures, but damage from the hail was not as heavy as was the case on two previous occasions this summer when hail pelted tobacco and other crops.

The hail was worst in the Bethel community, which already has suffered on two occasions this summer. Some farms were hit for the second or third time, but loss from last night's storm was only light in comparison with other hail.

A drop in temperatures was left in the wake of storm which brought cut blankets and heavier clothing. Relief from the hot weather of the past several days was welcomed. The mercury for a week or so having hovered near the century mark.

The mercury at Greenville's official weather station was standing at 62 degrees this morning, as compared with 78 yesterday morning at the same time. Temperatures in other sections of the county were about in line with those here.

A total of 99 of an inch of rain fell here during the night, and other sections of the county reported "the heaviest rainfall in some time."

The Bethel community suffered the brunt of the hail storm. Farmers north of that place were worst hit, according to reports reaching the city today.

Among the farms hit were those of L. J. Whitehurst, L. L. Cherry, Johnnie Nelson, N. G. Beppard, W. R. Bullock, Joe Barnhill, P. E. Whitehurst and F. C. Martin.

The hail cut a strip about a mile wide, but the effects were not as destructive as were suffered from other hail storms recently. Farmers in the vicinity said they "in hot pay any attention to hail, but hail is unusually heavy."

Statements from persons who stayed at the Battery Park hotel the night of the murder have been obtained in various cities.

The sheriff continued to detain Daniel Gaddy, the hotel night-watchman.

At Raleigh Professor W. L. Clevenger, the slain girl's uncle, said he would not be surprised to learn at any moment of an arrest. Clevenger added he had a definite idea about the murderer and said: "He is a person whose name so far has not been mentioned in the case."

He said he thought the murderer was an "inside job" committed by someone familiar with the hotel.

STRONG WINDS CAUSE DAMAGE IN ALBEMARLE

Heavy Rains Accompany Gales in Sections of State

TORNADO LEVELS SCHOOL BUILDING

Rise in Rivers Expected, But Forecaster is Unable to Predict Levels

Raleigh, July 30.—(AP)—Cooling and heavy rains accompanied by damaging winds in some sections visited most of North Carolina today.

Elizabeth, Edenton and the Albemarle section in the northeastern part of the state were cut off from communication most of the night and until mid morning by several winds and electrical storms.

A tornado struck the Pailin section of lower Weaverville, near Elizabeth City last night destroying a negro school house tearing down a garage and cutting a 100-foot path through a mile of pine forest.

Salisbury in the Piedmont section reported widespread minor damage from heavy winds last night which blew a number of power lines and trees and broke some windows.

Raleigh and Wake county had wind and hail last night. The county farm agent's office said in some instances crops in two townships were completely destroyed by hail which swept an area about one-half mile by four miles long.

The weather was "decidedly cooler," Le. A. Denson, in charge of the weather bureau here said, after a hot spell which Wilmington had its hottest weather in 57 years.

The heavy rains reported generally from the Virginia line across the Piedmont and central Coastal plains sections probably will cause rivers to rise considerably. Denson said, but no levels could be forecast until more information is received.

Strong Lint Mart Seen For Year By Departm't Report

Rising Prices, Small Supply on Hand, Reduction in Government Stock Reasons Given

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—A strong market position for cotton was indicated today by an agriculture department's report on world cotton reports.

Rising prices during June and early July were attributed to the high level of world consumption of American cotton compared with last year, the small supply in private hands, reduction in stock of government financed cotton and a belief that the coming crop would show only a moderate increase over last year's.

The bureau of agricultural economics said the highest daily price for cotton this season was 13.67 cents—July 10 with an average of 13.06 for the week ending July 18.

The condition of the domestic cotton textile industry was reported improved during the last two months with mill consumption in June at 54,000 bales compared to 38,000 bales in June last year.

Number of Rotarians Attend District Meet

Yesterday's program of the Wednesday district Rotary meeting, held Tuesday and Wednesday at Atlantic Beach, was attended by a number of Greenville Rotarians, some accompanied by their wives.

Mrs. Jasper Boyd, 26, Dies In Washington

Funeral services for Mrs. Jasper Boyd, 26, who died in a Washington hospital at 10:10 p. m. yesterday, will be conducted from the graveside at the family cemetery on the Calico Hill road in Beaufort county tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Boyd is survived by her husband, three children, Lizzie Mae Mavis B. and Dorothy Virginia Boyd; her father, W. D. Lewis of Grimesland R. F. D.; three sisters Mrs. Johnnie Fomes of Chocowinity; Mrs. J. J. Boyd of Grimesland and Mrs. A. Payad of Greensboro; and four brothers, West Lewis of Pinetown, Harvey Lewis of New Bern, C. O. Lewis of Vanceboro and Herbert Lewis of Grimesland.

GREENIES WIN FROM BUGS IN 9TH; SCORE 3-2

Locals Score Three Runs in Final Frame to Take Game; Ayden Loses to Snow Hill; Martins Best Bears; Kinston Decisions Tarboro

Extra! Greenies break jinx! Win from Goldsboro 3-2!

The locals, who have had hard luck on their trail for the past two weeks, speed out the Goldsboro Gold Bugs 3-2 yesterday at that place. The locals scored all of their runs in the ninth inning.

Ty Wagner, in the role of a pinch hitter, started the old ball rolling in the ninth, by working the Bugs' pitcher for a free pass. May then hit to Snow, who was wide on the throw to second. Young Booser then tripled to score Wagner and May. Booser scored the winning run on a passed ball.

Morris' double drove in Bradford in the second inning for Goldsboro's first tally. The other run, in the sixth, resulted from Williams' triple and Bradford's single.

Brown, Greene's right fielder, hit safely three times for four trips, and so did Bradford of the Bugs.

Reynolds May, Greene's hurler, fanned eight, while Culler, the losing pitcher, fanned nine.

The Bugs outbit the Greenies 8-7. The locals made 2 errors and the Bugs miscued 4 times.

Snow Hill took the Ayden Aces for a ride yesterday, 8-3, causing the Greenies to obtain a fairly slight grip on the second run.

The Williamson Martins whipped Doc Smith's New Bern Bears to the tune of 6 to 3 to keep that tight hold on first place in the loop's standings. Kinston noed out Tarboro 9-3 at that place yesterday to set the Sunnies down in sixth place for a couple of days, anyway.

The locals are scheduled to meet Tarboro here this afternoon at Third Street Stadium, weather permitting. Here's hoping the locals have really chased that old six away for good.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Greenville . . . 000 000 003-3 7 2 Goldsboro . . . 101 001 000-2 8 4 May and Lethen; Culler and Williams.

RARE ROOKIE

By PAP

HE HAS A TENDENCY TO GO AFTER BAD PITCHES - HIS FAT AVERAGE WOULD INDICATE HE CAN HIT ANYTHING

ROY WEATHERLY - CLEVELAND'S 20-YEAR-OLD RECRUIT FROM NEW ORLEANS IS THE SENSATION OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

BATTING OFTEN AGAINST LEFT-HANDERS, AS HE HAD TO DO IN THE SOUTHERN ASS'N, CURED HIS WEAKNESS AGAINST SOUTH-PAWS

SPORT SLANTS

by PAP

If Roy Weatherly, Cleveland's sensational rookie outfielder, hopes to continue hitting at the pace he set the first two weeks with the Indians he will have to overcome a tendency to go after bad balls. Still, if a batter can pound the ball at a .370 average, what matter if he does reach for a few stray ones?

Weatherly defends himself against the charge that he is over-anxious at the plate. True, he does go after a ball that is a bit wide now and then but that is only because he learned from bitter experience that the umpires in the Southern association are prone to give the pitchers the benefit of any doubt, and unless a batter swings at anything close he is likely to be called out.

Now convinced that umpiring in the American league is far superior to the minor league grade, he is not afraid to look 'em over. The fact that last season, with New Orleans, he walked only 13 times Roy thinks is sufficient evidence to show that it is a case of swing or sit down.

The "Texas Terror"

Weatherly came to Cleveland with only two years of professional experience. He was born in Warren, Tex., twenty years ago and learned his baseball on Warren sandlots. He was an all-around player in those days, taking a fling at outfielding, infielding and going behind the plate. He made his bow in professional ranks in 1934 when he got a job in the Evangeline league. Last year he was with New Orleans, where he set the Southern association on fire.

He broke an arm last May. Two days after he returned to the lineup Cleveland picked him up. And in the short time he has been in the bigtime Weatherly has shown enough to stamp him as a potential star.

One of the impressive things about the youngster is his willingness to listen to advice and to study ways and means of overcoming his faults. Left-handers bothered him when he first played in the Southern association. He readily admits that. But he didn't let it worry him. He simply figured that he would work out a way of hitting the southpaws as well as the right-handers if given the opportunity to face them regularly.

The Southern association is an ideal spot to get plenty of work against wrong-siders, for almost every team in the circuit has at least two left-handed pitchers. Before his first year of service was over Weatherly stood up a 1 to 1 record, his cut against the southpaws' offerings with as much confidence as when

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

IRISH CENSORSHIP EXTENDS BLACKLIST OF UNFIT BOOKS
Dublin (AP)—A total of 720 books have been banned as unfit for the Irish to read, according to a list just issued by the Free State's censorship board.

Hundreds of modern writers are on the list, including Ernest Hemingway, George Bernard Shaw, Sinclair Lewis and Vicki Baum. Some Irish authors are banned as well.

Number one on the black list is Maurice Debroka, well-known French writer, nine of whose books are prohibited as offensive to morals. Close behind is Marie Stopes, noted British birth-control propagandist, with eight banned, followed by Collette, writer of French romances, with six, Richard Arlington, five, and Aldous Huxley, four.

Others noted names on the list are H. G. Wells, D. H. Lawrence, Somerset Maugham, Bertrand Russell, Louis Golding, Eric Linklater, Gilbert Frankau and Storm Jameson. Irish authors are represented by Sean O'Casey, Liam O'Flaherty, Sean O'Faolain and Con O'Leary.

The chairman of the board which is kept busy coping with the avalanche of new books is the Very Rev. Canon Boylan of Mynnooth.

POT BELLIES BANNED FOR GERMAN POLICE
Berlin (AP)—Commenting on the introduction of new uniforms for German police, the Angrif organ of the minister for propaganda and public enlightenment, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, said that police authorities henceforth will not tolerate belly in the new police uniforms.

"New uniforms have been introduced," the paper stated, "and what is equally important we will see it that in the future only such men who are bodily fit to wear uniforms, are put into these."

Local Team Prepares For Swimming Meet

Last night the Greenville swimming team worked out for the last time before the meet with Tarboro in the Tarboro tank Friday at eight p. m. The local fish were in good form and bettered their former times in almost every event.

According to scouts from the Tarboro team, Greenville will be the underdogs. The Tarboro team has been organized for several years and has made a good showing this season.

The Greenville team has been working out for about two weeks. Several good swimmers have shown up, and there may be a few surprises for the large crowd of spectators which usually turns out for the Tarboro meets.

Herbert Brown, Tom Dennis, John Lautares, Alva Page, George Sakas, Ralph Sloe, Ray Smith, Bill Tolson, Joe Williams and Phillip Winslow will make the trip for Greenville.

AUSTRALIAN SHOOTING UNCLE HE MISTOOK FOR WILD PIG

Port Moresby, Australia (AP)—Paulo Umio snored like a pig, and it cost him his life.

Out hunting at night with his nephew, Tugugania, another native, and four other men, he left the rest of the party, sat down near a net stretched to snare a wild pig and fell asleep.

Tugugania, hearing a noise which he thought could be made only by a pig, lunged a spear. It pierced Umio's chest.

A court trying Tugugania for murder accepted this explanation and released him.

UGLINESS NO GROUNDS FOR CHINESE DIVORCE

Shanghai, China (AP)—Six Chinese judges here have just ruled that a man has no right to sell or divorce his wife merely because she is ugly.

A Chinese merchant, tired of his wife whom he considered ugly, sold her to a farmer at Yangchow. But the wife, disliking her new husband, succeeded in escaping from him. She traced her first husband and had him arrested for desertion.

Now he must either remarry her or provide for her support. The case is complicated by the fact that the first husband already has taken a second wife.

Find New Fishing Grounds

Hull, England (AP)—New fishing grounds off the Greenland coast which may have far-reaching effects on the supply of fish have been discovered by trawlers returning to this city and Grimsby. It is reported here. Vessels have been arriving in port with cargoes of halibut cod and sprats caught in Greenland waters. A sea fishing act some time ago closed the Bear Island and White sea grounds to fishermen.

Pet Clinic Combines Pound With Hospital

Chicago, (AP)—In a new $75,000 building here the Anti-Cruelty society has opened an animal clinic and pet exchange which combines features of an up-to-date hospital and prison.

Built through a bequest of the late Horace and Marion McConnell, the three-story steel and concrete structure provides accommodations for a first aid and outpatient dispensary, cages for confinement cases, indoor and outdoor exercise yards, kitchens and baths.

There also is an execution chamber for painless dispatch of the hopelessly ill, undesirable and anti-social.

From the outside the building looks like a bank, except that its gleaming Indiana limestone front depicts animal life in sculpturing by Mrs. George Woodruff, Chicago artist.

Inside, the office hums with activity; telephones ring incessantly.

Will the society send someone for a sick dog found lying on the sidewalk? Can one have a dog if he calls for it? The Smiths are moving and don't want to leave their cat stranded; will the society help find it a new home?

Before the receiving counter stand men, women and children carrying or leading dogs, cats, white rats, parrots, turtles, roosters, woodchucks, even sea gulls, woodpeckers or pigeons, there for veterinary treatment or to be got rid of.

The clinic is rushed eight hours a day. Dr. Herman J. Streibert, veterinarian, reports he handles an average of 35 to 40 cases a day—dogs with distemper, dogs with fish hooks caught in their mouths, dogs that have swallowed pins. He gives first aid and diagnoses and prescribes for more stubborn ills.

While inmates of McConnell Memorial clinic, animals enjoy special cooked food, comfortable sleeping quarters, tub baths and plenty of visitors. Many persons stop in to watch operations or in search of pets for adoption.

The dogs, particularly, react almost humanly to the almost-human accommodations. They leap and bark for joy during exercise periods, scramble impatiently at meal times—and tremble with fright when placed on the operating table.

Yugoslavs Profit From Snakes

Belgrade (AP)—The poisonous snakes that for years caused deaths and cattle losses among farmers in the dry Herzegovina region are now a source of revenue. Several foreign serum plants pay 35 to 60 cents for live serpent, and it is estimated more than 7,000 snakes will be caught this year.

Portuguese Students to Camp

Libson (AP)—Students and graduates of the higher Portuguese colleges and universities have been summoned to undergo eight weeks compulsory military training beginning August 3, according to an official communique published in the press here. This is Premier Salazar's first act as minister of war a post he recently took over.

Churches of Kilkenny, Ireland, have been put to various uses. The cathedral has been a stable, the Franciscan friary a tennis court, the Black abbey a court house.

DECLARES TAX IS NECESSARY

Writer Says Grissom Could Not Eliminate Sales Levy

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, July 30.—Gilliam Grissom, the Republican candidate for Governor of North Carolina, is declaring that if he is elected, Governor he can operate the state government so much more economically than have past Democratic Governors—although no Governor actually "operates" the state government—that the sales tax can be abolished without recourse to any other revenue.

There are three fallacies in this statement, however. One is that the legislature and not the Governor determines the expenditures of the state, through the appropriations bill, which the Governor has no power to veto, even if he does disapprove of it. The second is that the 1937 general assembly will be overwhelmingly Democratic, even if Grissom should be elected Governor, so that he would have no influence with the legislature and thus be utterly powerless to put any of his program into effect. The third is that Mr. Grissom has not yet specified as to just what expenditures he would eliminate through his economy program.

But admitting, for the sake of argument, that Grissom as Governor could both control the general assembly and hence curb appropriations and expenditures, just where would he begin to economize and curb state spending? How would he go about reducing state expenditures $11,000,000 a year, which he would have to do if he reduced the state budget enough to get along without the sales tax?

Would Mr. Grissom abolish his own salary as Governor and get a private secretary who would work without salary, and several patriotic Republican stenographers who would also work without any salary? If he should do this, he would not reduce the bill of the taxpayer one cent, since the Governor's office, including the Governor's salary, the salary of his private secretary and of all employees in the office, is now paid entirely by non-tax revenue. This means that not one cent of tax money goes to pay the Governor or any one in his office.

Or perhaps Mr. Grissom, if he became Governor, would advocate the abolition of all the state departments here, or a heavy reduction in the salaries paid state employees. Yet the cost of maintaining all of the state administrative departments, including the salaries of department and division heads and of all their employees, requires only 45 per cent of the total general fund revenue of the state, while salaries represent only about 2.5 per cent. So if Mr. Grissom should get the next legislature to decree that all department heads and employees in all state administrative departments must work without pay, he would succeed in reducing the present state budget only about 2.5 per cent and would eliminate only about $787,500 from a total general fund budget of $31,500,000.

Instead of closing all the state departments, however, Mr. Grissom might decide to keep all of them as they now are—there will be many more Republicans wanting jobs than there are Democrats now holding them—and to close all of the state educational institutions. By closing up the University of North Carolina, all of the state teachers colleges for both white and colored, he would be able to reduce the total state expenditures, as based on the state budget for the year ending June 30, 1935, by a total of 4.6 per cent. But since about 65 many Republicans and Democrats have attended the University at Chapel Hill or the State College unit or some of the other state institutions, indications are that he would meet with a great deal of opposition.

Or Mr. Grissom might start his economy program with the public schools, which last year received 63.2 per cent of all the state revenue collected, or a total of $20,031,000. By cutting the appropriation for the public schools in half, he could save all but $1,000,000 of the amount needed to get along without the sales tax. He then might be able to save this other $1,000,000 by shaving down the appropriations for the University, for the various state departments and institutions. The school forces, however, maintain that the past several administrations have almost ruined the schools by not giving them enough money. Some recall that Dr. Ralph W. McDonald charged the 1933 legislature ruined the schools and sacrificed the teachers by reducing the school appropriation in order to reduce taxes. It is now known that the school forces are going to make a drive for an appropriation of at least $25,000,000 a year in the coming legislature.

So if Mr. Grissom should by any chance get an opportunity to put his economy program into effect, the belief is he would have hard sledding.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — In Los Angeles, a city of magnificent if trying distances, the used car market is good but the demand for outdoor equipments of the movie stars is not exactly what it might be.

One dealer, who has a lot on Hollywood boulevard and various assortment of automobiles thereon, once had the idea that out-of-towners would purchase the vehicles once driven by the film great. He thought they would snatch them away, overwhelmed by their sentimental significance.

But he found, as a rule, that visiting tourists would gladly sit at the wheel of a once grandiose car steeped in Hollywood tradition. They would sit there and chuckle, perhaps, at the thought of stepping on the same accelerator once pressed by the shoes of Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, or Claudette Colbert. But that would be all. They wouldn't buy.

The best purchasers of the big foreign models and oversized American makes, he finds, are Japanese gardeners, or Italians, more impressed by the roominess they provide for large families than by names of previous owners.

Cabin Too Sturdy

Ralph Angel is the "big push" (foreman) over the "wood butchers" (carpenters) of the Goldwyn studio. Around the sound stages they tell of a log cabin Angel and his men built for "Come and Get It" on location 135 miles north of Lewiston, Idaho.

The cabin was to be pushed off a sand bar, supposedly to be washed down the river and battered to pieces in the rapids. It was pushed off but refused to fall apart. At last reports it had landed, despite the massing of the tide, intact near Lewiston.

That meant solid construction. And for that matter the sets of Hollywood, filmy though they may appear are fairly substantial. In the earthquake of March 10, 1933, there was no collapsing of false fronts or indoor sets. In some cases their very firmness prevented collapse. In many instances, however, steel program than the Democrats. For radio director the G. O. P. has chosen Hill Blackett, who heads an agency that leads the field in handling aerial advertising. Two men formerly connected with national chains are associated with him. The Landonites will spend $1,000,000 for radio time as against $300,000 in 1932. At a recent luncheon to 100 radio station owners and managers Mr. Blackett promised that many reforms advocated by them would be inaugurated in the event of a Republican victory.

Governor Landon underwrote Mr. Blackett's pledges in a letter to Broadcasting Magazine. He promised to supply the Federal Communications Commission with a permanent regulatory body — "a Supreme Court for radio." He also indicated that he would grant licenses for three years instead of six months, thereby ending the feeling of insecurity which bothers broadcasters.

KEY: New Deal financiers are generally disappointed at the veterans' showings in turning their bonus bonds into cash. Only $1,000,000,000 of $1,000,000,000 worth of securities have been liquidated since the bonds were issued on June 15.

When the measure was under discussion on Capitol Hill administration opponents argued that the money would be wastefully spent. Upon passage they sermonized on the need for saving the bonds to maturity in 1945 so as to accumulate annual interest of 3 per cent. But privately they were counting on the flow of these funds into consumer channels to stimulate trade and industry, offsetting the seasonal summer lag. Official orders emphasized the importance of haste in distributing the bonds.

Official Washington still hopes that the veterans will cut loose and that July figures will show signs of more generous spending. In fact, the fear that this $2,000,000,000 would soon back up on the banks was a key factor in the Federal Reserve decision to stiffen reserve requirements.

TRADER: Secretary Wallace presents a plausible explanation for the epidemic of letters depicting CCC camps as a haven for political appointees.

When the CCC was organized early in 1933, Mr. Wallace issued a secret order placing all administrative and technical jobs under Civil Service. He kept it confidential he explains, because he did not want to antagonize the politicians. He placated them by notifying Jim Farley's liaison man in the department — Julian Priant — that he could have the filling of 100 non-technical positions — foremen, crew bosses, etc. Messrs. Farley and Priant gradually enlarged the number of non-political jobs, but they never invaded the administrative or technical fields.

Though only a "farm boy," and supposed to be politically guileless, Mr. Wallace maintains, with a blue-eyed twinkle, that he made a "fine trade." In other words, he saved the animal by giving the tail to the politicians.

SUCKERS: SEC scouts report that returning prosperity has boomed the market for fake and fantastic stocks. The more money the credulous have, the sooner do they part with it.

In Florida 70,000 people bought $1,200,000 worth of stock in a cultivated oyster farm. The promoters leased 500 acres of supposed beds for $500, and that was their whole investment. The only oysters they fingered were on the half-shell! In Chicago eight men were recently convicted for selling millions worth of stock to "heirs" to Sir Francis Drake's $37,000,000 estate. They broadcast that the head of the firm was "invoked in government business"; they didn't explain that he is an inmate of Leavenworth prison — where he was sent for perpetrating the same swindle in Iowa a few years ago.

Some SEC-ers wonder if it's worthwhile to pass laws and set up regulatory agencies to protect people from themselves.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

...left Meredith, Ga., which is her home town, and goes to teach in the Ashboro, Ga., high school. It was a wrench to part from her family, but not to part from Meredith. Now she has spent one day in Ashboro, and made one friend: Mary Ellen Sanda. Carol believes that a year of teaching may be possible, but she does not intend that it shall interfere with a career in other and bigger centers. The career is pretty vague in Carol's mind, however.

Chapter Six ANOTHER DAY

CAROL waked next morning to a knock at her door. Someone. Mrs. O'Connor said through the door in a thin, pleased voice, wanted her on the telephone. She slipped on a robe and went to answer the call.

"Carol?" "Yes." "This is Ben Tyler. Why in the devil don't you let somebody know where you are? I been phoning everywhere."

She gave an instant to remembering about Ben Tyler. The town bachelor, short and plump and incurably romantic—so long as the recipient of his attentions was very new. She was warmly grateful for his interest because it re-established her as a woman instead of a teacher. "Darling, I hadn't had time." That

Ellen was in the living-room with her hat on, experimenting with the radio.

"What church do you go to?" she asked.

Carol shrugged. "I was born an Episcopalian. What about you?" "Presbyterian." "Then we'll go there. It's closest." The rear half of the church was well filled; the front half empty except for a very old lady with an ascot. The minister was an earnest young man with a mind as orderly and conventional as his appearance. Aided by his notes he preached a neat and orderly sermon, punctuating with the vigor of a fat robin on a worm. At the last he tied all the ends of his discourse into a neat and ornamental bow of rhetoric and tossed it to the congregation.

The sermon was over, and the minister was pronouncing beautiful, singing words: "And now may the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ rest and abide upon you all, and upon all God's people everywhere. . ."

Mr. Hudson was at the door, beaming upon the world. The minister, whose name was Mr. Williams, was beside him, waiting to extend the right hand of fellowship. He was delighted, he said, to welcome Carol and Ellen into his

"What church do you go to?" asked Ellen.

was the sort of thing Ben liked. "I only lit yesterday afternoon, and last night I was received into the fold. How are you?"

"Never felt better and had less. When'll I see you?"

"I don't know. When?"

"Well—have you had any breakfast? If not, you've missed it."

Her watch said half past nine.

"Oh, Lord, so I have!"

"Get your clothes on then, and I'll take you to the Acropolis Cafe. A poor thing, but our own—and only. Ten o'clock?"

"Right."

Ben Tyler was almost unchanged in four years. A little more stomach and a little less hair, but otherwise the same. He squeezed her hand and beamed at her.

"Younger and better looking than ever."

She scowled. "When a gal gets to the age where you feel impelled to comment on her youthfulness, don't do it. Ben, it's grand to see you."

It was, Ben seemed to bring with him the odor of gay days when she was a Visiting Girl. He put her in his venerable roadster and clattered away.

"The old gang held a jubilee when we heard you were coming."

"How are they all?"

"Oh, jogging along."

They went in the Acropolis Cafe and sat at a marble-topped table. Carol ordered breakfast and Ben decided to have another cup of coffee. Then she said:

"Something tells me that jubilees will be out of my orbit. I've got the young manhood and womanhood of America looking to me."

He grinned. "They could show you things, honey. Besides, teaching's not that bad; all you have to do is use moderation and keep your mouth shut."

"That was a relief."

"You cheer me up. I've always made a practice of those, even when I didn't have to."

He dropped her at home a few minutes before eleven. "I love you, and all that, but I won't go to church with you. Wanna play golf this afternoon?"

She did, desperately. "Isn't it verboten?"

"I don't know. Try it once and see. About two-thirty?"

New York By JAMES McMULLIN DAMPER: One of the key Landon men from the Midwest puts forward the suggestion that it may be a long time before we have any more second term Presidents in the United States. Coming from a source so close to the candidate, New Yorkers who know about it are moved to wonder whether Landon himself shares this view.

Quite a few leaders of financial opinion have long felt that it would improve the standard of our government if the President were not eligible for reelection. They feel that the Chief Executive could then devote himself wholeheartedly to his job without being hampered by political considerations. Some of them go so far as to suggest that it would be most constructive if Landon were to announce that he is not interested in reelection, but only in four years of efficient administration.

However, keen observers doubt that such a statement would be politically helpful even if the Government were disposed to make it. They remark that it might dampen the ardor of G. O. P. party workers if they foresaw a comparable shortening of their own careers in public office.

HOLDOUT: New York learns that Senate Progressives are deferring the demonstration of support for FDR they have been planning because of a lack of unity in their ranks.

Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin and George Norris of Nebraska are ready to play, of course. So is Hiram Johnson, of California and — with mild reservations — Farm Laborer Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota. The latter's colleague — Elmer Benson — is holding back a bit, but he won't be a serious obstacle. Lynn Frazier and Gerald Nye of North Dakota—Bill Lemke's state—are not committed as yet, but the betting is 5 to 1 that they will climb aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon long before November.

The real holdout is Democrat Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. He privately has never been very fond of Mr. Roosevelt even though he sponsored the administration's famous Wheeler-Rayburn bill in the Senate. He is resisting suggestions that he line up for FDR with his leftist senatorial associates—says he wants more time to study the situation. The other Progressives don't like to move without him as long as there is any hope of winning him over.

A FAILING sun made long, thin shadows on the eighteenth fairway. Carol sat and watched the shadows, and swung her legs in the clear green water of the swimming pool.

"This pool is a gift straight from heaven. You didn't have it four years ago; how'd you acquire it in a depression?"

Ben was lying on his stomach, absorbing the last rays of the sun. He grimaced. "It was built right after you left, when they still called the late unpleasantness a Temporary Flurry. The only reason we've still got it is because it's practically impossible to repossess a swimming pool."

"Thank goodness for that." She stretched and got up reluctantly. "Much as I hate it, I'll have to go. We eat supper at six o'clock."

"Oh, that's all right. We'll get a sandwich out here. Sit down and relax and I'll get you a Tom Collins in a little while."

There is reason to believe that Wheeler realizes he occupies a key position, and it is sound political tradition that he should play on it for his own advantage.

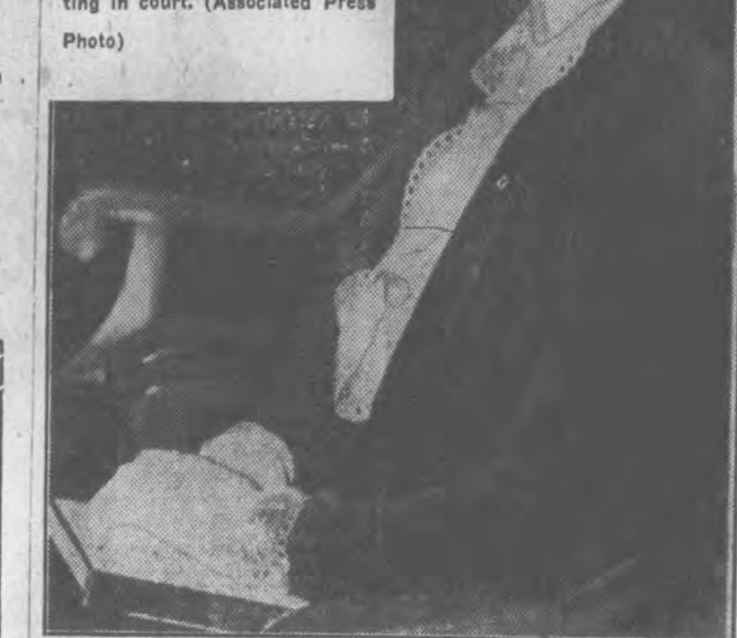

TRICKS: One of the problems that has caused Tammany leaders to furore their brows is how to kick Roosevelt — and Lehman — in the teeth without aying themselves open to the grave charge of party irregularity. Primary contests now brewing in New York indicate that they have found an acceptable solution. There's nothing irregular about a primary fight — far from it. At the same time a good hot battle of this type conduces to shattering party harmony at the election itself — which is what Tammany leaders desire.

The "regular" Democratic candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen in New York City is Sheriff William F. Brunner. Brunner is a Farley choice. He has been officially endorsed by James J. Doolittle — Tiger boss — but there are indications that Mr. Doolittle's tongue was in his cheek. Brunner was a McKee-Recovery Party man in the three cornered mayoralty scrap of 1933. Ex-Mayor John O'Brien's friends — Tammany regulars — have never forgiven him for that and now they are out to get him. They will probably promote ex-Comptroller Frank J. Priat, who has a tremendous following among civil service employees. It is perfectly possible that Priat will beat Brunner — which would be a hard wallop at Jim Farley's prestige and at party unity.

In the second contest Tammany has put Governor Lehman on the spot by snubbing his appointee Jonah Goldstein for the Court of General Sessions and cannily naming Assemblyman Saul Streit — who

Long Legislature Likely Despite Wishes Of Hoey

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE.
Raleigh, July 29.—Governor-nominate Clyde R. Hoey is understood to be very anxious to have a short session of the 1937 general assembly. But whether he attains his wish is regarded as being very uncertain, since most observers of recent legislatures are convinced that the days of short sessions are just about gone forever.

When all the general assembly had to do was adopt an appropriations and revenue bill calling for expenditures of only $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 a year for the operation of the state departments and institutions, it was entirely possible for it to do all this within 60 days with the greatest of ease. But since the state has taken over the complete maintenance of the public schools, as it did in 1933, the legislature is now faced with the job of providing between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 a year for the public schools alone and with providing revenue for a state general fund budget of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year.

There are several reasons why Mr. Hoey is understood to be very anxious to have a short session of the general assembly this winter it is agreed. One is understood to be the conviction that a short session would tend to unite the various factions in the party and tend to convince the public generally that all the pre-campaign rifts have been healed and that all is unity and harmony again. There is no doubt that if Mr. Hoey should be able to command a good working majority in both houses and hence be able to ramrod his program through in short order, that it would greatly strengthen him with the public and with the party.

This would also serve to get his administration off to a good start and assure him of a fairly peaceful two years for the first half of his administration. For if Mr. Hoey could show the state at the outset that he had control of the legislature and that it was in sympathy with his program, this would give him unusual prestige with all factions, even if the McDonnaldites should continue to complain about "the machine." It is agreed. A short session would also serve to make Mr. Hoey more solid than ever with the business interest of the state, since it is no secret that business generally becomes jittery during every session of the general assembly, since it never knows what the assembly is going to do with regard to taxes.

But in spite of the desire for a short session of the legislature on the part of Mr. Hoey and many others, present indications are that the 1937 session will last at least four months, if not even longer, and that Mr. Hoey cannot expect to have any smoother sailing than have any of his predecessors in recent years.

The factor that has served to bring about long legislative sessions in the past more than anything else has been the hunt for additional revenue with which to meet steadily increasing state appropriations. This was what kept the 1931 session here for so long, was what finally led to the adoption of the sales tax in 1933 and again in 1935, after the legislature had spent months trying to find other revenue with which to meet the growing budget.

It is now generally conceded that the 1937 general assembly will have to find approximately $12,000,000 more revenue than the 1936 general assembly found in order to carry out the program which Mr. Hoey advocated in his campaign. This means that the finance committee and later the general assembly as a whole, will have to go over every possible source of new revenue with a fine tooth comb, that a good many tax schedules will have to be increased and a number of new taxes added, in addition to the retention of the sales tax. For Mr. Hoey is committed to the retention of the sales tax, although he is also committed to the restoration of the sales tax exemptions, so that it will not apply to basic foods and meals.

This does not mean that an effort will not be made again to repeal the sales tax, however. For while Dr. Ralph W. McDonald will not be a member of legislature in 1937, his campaign manager, Willie Lee Lumpkin will be back for his fifth time as a member of the house and is expected again to be the leader of the anti-sales tax forces. Many observers maintain that Lumpkin is really smarter, more experienced and more tactful in legislative matters than is McDonald and that he will be able to do more without McDonald in the 1937 session than he was able to do with him in 1935. Liquor and social security are also expected to cause as much trouble as the sales tax in 1937. So few are any prospects for a short session.

SELECT DATES FOR JAMBOREE

Boy Scouts to Hold Big Event in Washington in 1937

Word has been received here that the Boy Scout Jamboree for 1937 will be held in Washington, the Nation's capital from June 30 to July 9 next year.

The news is of especial interest to Scouts in this section. There were 66 boys registered from this district in the Jamboree scheduled for last summer but which had to be called off on account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis.

Congress has passed a bill to turn over to Scouts the use of the same site for next year's Jamboree as would have been used had the 1935 event been held.

"The daily inquiries at the Home Office from Scouts indicate that much planning is under way," says the July number of "Scouting" in an article about the 1937 Jamboree. "The vitality of troops and the initiative and enthusiasm of the troop leaders produced a marvelous enrollment for 1935. The creative imagination, the efficient planning of troops in developing support for their representatives went beyond all expectations. Whereas most troops had planned for 1935 only one representative, for the 1937 Jamboree troops will not be limited to one representative from each troop, but an opportunity should be given to all qualified scouts in each troop to make application."

The article goes on to tell of some of the preparations that have already been made. The Canal Zone Council has made reservation for a full provisional troop of 33 scouts and 3 leaders.

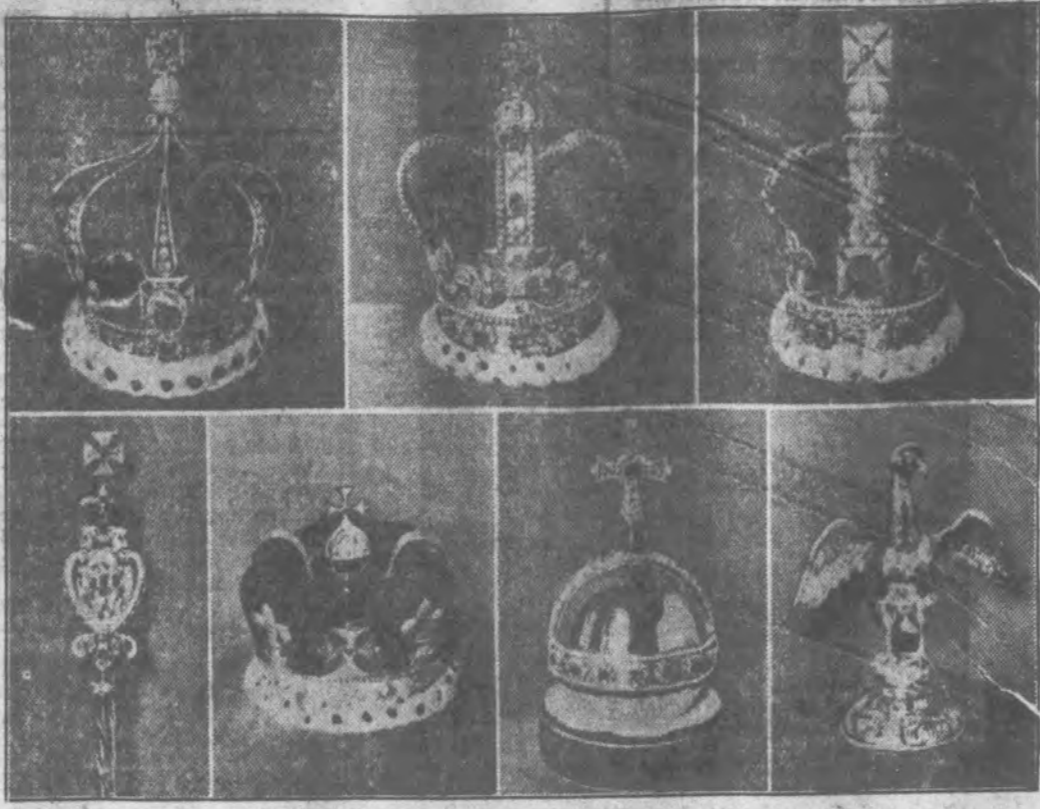

The Philippines have asked for a reservation of 3 full provisional troops.

Troop 37 of Toledo, Ohio, have their plans under way to attend as a troop.

Request has come from Anchorage, Alaska, for reservation for 2 full patrols and leaders.

They'll be there from all over the United States and its possessions.

Found Be Cheaper Employ Mechanics For School Buses

Highway Department Repair Shop Seld to Be Too Expensive For Repairing Trucks

Raleigh, July 29.—The State School Commission has found that it can maintain and repair school buses more cheaply by employing its own school bus mechanics than by having buses maintained and repaired by mechanics in the State Highway and Public Works Commission garages in various parts of the state, it was learned here today. As a result, the school commission is now doing all of its own school bus repair work with its own mechanics in the various county garages with the exception of three small counties which are still using the highway department garages. At one time the highway department was doing most of the school bus repair and maintenance work in more than 15 counties.

"The work which the highway department mechanics did was all right and the school buses were well maintained, but the cost to the school commission was too great," a spokesman for the commission said today. "We just could not afford to pay the highway for this work as compared with what we could do it for with our own mechanics. The highway department has always had plenty of money and has not had to watch the nickels and dimes as the schools have had to. As a result, we are saving money by discontinuing our former cooperative agreements with the highway department in some 15 counties where it formerly did the school bus work and where we are now doing this work ourselves."

The mechanics employed by the school commission are trained to be as economical as possible and to be as saving as possible of the state's money, it was pointed out. They also understand that if a bus breaks down it must be put back on commission as soon as possible, even if the mechanics have to work at night some times to get the bus rolling again.

BRAIN WORKERS' FIGHT FORCED RETIREMENT BILL

Paris (AP)—Physicians and medical students are in arms over a bill in Parliament to force "brain workers" to retire at 65.

The bill would apply to all government employees, professional men and those employed in commerce and industry.

The students took the lead in protesting the bill, which they dubbed a "satanic project." They asked other "brain workers" to join them in demanding it be quashed immediately.

"The medical students' association notes with bitterness that politicians do not figure in the bill," they said.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Any non-Mississippian could be pardoned for wondering why the name of Senator Pat Harrison of that state so often is mentioned in speculation as to President Roosevelt's selection of a comptroller general.

The genial Mississippian has been coming back to the house or senate for 26 years, without serious election trouble. Why, then, should Harrison, with a virtually perfect New Deal record in the senate, be rated as a possible "lame duck" candidate for comptroller?

The truth is Harrison faces the toughest re-election battle he ever has fought. He is one New Dealer who will not be available for much campaign duty outside his own state this year, at least not until after the primary.

Bilbo Vows Vengeance

Harrison is battling an alignment of three men who once were political enemies. They have buried their differences in an effort to defeat him in the August 25 primary.

His chief opponent is former Governor Sennett (Mike) Conner, who claims he balanced the state's budget with the sales tax. Now he seeks the Harrison togs. State Senator Frank Harper also seeks the nomination.

Backing Conner are Harrison's senatorial colleagues, Theodore G. Bilbo, and Paul Johnson, former congressman and runner-up to Governor Hugh White in the last gubernatorial campaign.

Bilbo has sworn he will have Harrison's political scalp for the latter's support of the confirmation by the senate of the appointment of Judge Edwin Holmes to the circuit court of appeals bench. Bilbo fought confirmation in retaliation for what he termed an injustice he received from Judge Holmes when the latter was presiding in the federal district court in Mississippi.

Harrison Smells Fight

The junior senator has opened headquarters in Jackson and has mapped out a speaking campaign in which he will stump the state for Conner.

Johnson, too, planned to take the stump for Conner, whom he opposed when Conner ran for governor. Bilbo backed Governor White in the last campaign against Johnson. Governor White has thrown his support to Senator Harrison.

The merry hodge-podge created by the new alignments of old enemies is expected to produce one of the bitterest campaigns in years.

After congress adjourned, Harrison delayed his return to Mississippi only long enough to attend the national Democratic convention; then he hurried back to the home state to plunge into a vigorous stump defense of his down-the-line record for Roosevelt.

MOSAICS FOUND IN OSTIA SHOW ROMANS AS HUNTERS

Rome, (AP)—Ruins just uncovered at Ostia, port of ancient Rome, have moved back two centuries the date for Roman ceiling mosaics hitherto believed to belong to the Byzantine period, or fourth century.

These mosaics, together with paintings and statuary, reveal several hitherto little known facts of the period, namely that first century Romans were diverted by gales from the Nile valley and that Romans of that period hunted bear and wild boar as well as lions and gazelles.

An interesting sculptural find was a five-foot marble statue of Hygieia, goddess of health.

Murals in a bathing palace show marine and hunting scenes and a man with an ox.

RECORDS KEPT ON MOTORISTS Highway Safety Division Checks on all Violators

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, July 30.—A record of every arrest made by highway patrolmen is sent to the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue, as are records of all convictions for all traffic law violations in all the courts of the state, whether the public knows it or not. Thus the highway safety division has a record of every driver in the state arrested by a highway patrolman and likewise a record of every conviction for a traffic violation, no matter how trivial. The highway safety division is now setting up files on the basis of all these arrest and conviction reports and making these records a part of the record of every licensed driver. Director Arthur Fulk of the division said today. Several weeks will probably be required to complete these files, but when they have been set up, it will be possible to look up the license of any driver and immediately learn whether or not that driver has ever been arrested by a highway patrolman or convicted of any traffic violation, even though the conviction is for an offense less serious than reckless driving or driving while drunk. For months now the division has been keeping separate files on all those convicted of drunken driving or of reckless driving, since licenses are immediately revocable upon one conviction for drunken driving and on two convictions for reckless driving. The drivers license law, however, gives the highway safety division the authority to suspend the driving permits of any driver judged to be habitual violators of the traffic laws. Thus, when these files have been set up and they show that some drivers have been arrested and convicted numerous times for minor traffic law violations, the division can and probably will suspend their licenses on the grounds that they are habitual violators of the traffic laws, Fulk pointed out.

New York Cotton

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, two lower to one higher, with greater Liverpool cables offset by hedge selling and liquidation. There were moderate rallies with the market ruling six to seven points net higher at the end of the first half hour. At midday December was ruling around 12.06 and March 12.07 with

MAROONED IN WAR-TORN SPAIN

In this connection, the Associate Regional Director for this state, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, mentioned to his North Carolina audience the reforestation project around White Lake, in Bladen County, and the more ambitious project on Crabtree Creek, near Raleigh. The latter was described as a combined park and game sanctuary with park facilities available to the near half million people in the Raleigh-Durham sections of the state. "Restoration of these areas," Gray said, "is not only to protect them from further destruction but to prevent the destruction of other resources that inevitably follows. Once good land has been sapped to the point where it is no longer profitable to farm and further efforts to eke out an existence on it would mean the depletion, rather than building up, of timber, water shed and wild life resources." Incidentally, Gray explained that the Reforestation program looks to the conversion of these areas into the type of parks and lakes that will make vacationing in pleasant spots inexpensive for large numbers of both farm and urban dwellers unable to go long distances for outings. Today's program subject was "Soils — the Basis of Agriculture." Gray was preceded by H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who discussed the soil conservation service, and followed by J. B. Hutson, East Central Director of the AAA, whose subject was "Crop Adjustment and Control through the Soil Conservation program."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Stocks nibbled at recovery in today's market. Steels and motors cancelled part of their Wednesday losses and buyers appeared for the alcohol, aviation and amusement issues. The news generally was far from depressing market, but profit-takers were still to be found in most departments. The majority of the gains consequently was limited to fractions. The late tone was firm. Transactions approximated 1,500,000 shares.

week or the first of next week, Charles C. Brown, in charge of bus transportation for the School Commission said today. Last year we were not able to deliver most of the new buses until after the school had opened for the fall term. But this year we are hoping to have all of the 400 new buses delivered to the various counties before the new term opens. The remaining 262 new school buses out of the 400 new ones purchased this summer by the School Commission will be sent out to the other counties before their schools open, Brown said. The schools in these other counties will not open until the last of August or first of September. The 132 new buses now being delivered are being distributed to the counties as follows: Durham, 4; Vance, 2; Franklin, 5; Warren, 6; Wake, 12; Granville, 4; Catwaba, 5; Cabarrus, 4; Guilford, 9; Forsyth, 5; Rowan, 3; Davidson, 6; Randolph, 4; Stanly, 4; Union, 7; Anson, 4; Henderson, 4; Yancey, 2; Rutherford, 6; Cleveland, 5; Person, 3; Caswell, 4; Alamance, 4; Orange, 2; Chatham, 4; Lee, 2; Harnett, 5; Moore, 5; and Rockingham, 4. The buses are being distributed from the body plants in Wilson, High Point and Conover. In a corner of Holyrood palace grounds, Edinburgh, is a small tower called "the queen's bath," where Mary Queen of Scots is said to have bathed in white wine.
