OFFICIAL VISIT IS PAID CANADA BY ROOSEVELT

Cites Importance of Give-and-Take Feeling by Nations

POINTS TO YEARS GOOD FRIENDSHIP

First American President to Pay Official Visit to Neighbor's Governor General

Quebec, July 31.—(AP)—President Roosevelt responding to a tremendous ovation in this historic French-Canadian city, today asserted that "frank dealing cooperation and a spirit of give and take between nations is more important than ever before" in solving grave world problems.

Pointing to the long years of peace and friendship between Canada and the United States as an "example" for other nations, Mr. Roosevelt also referred to the Canadian-American reciprocal trade agreement as "tangible evidence of the desire of the people of the two countries to practice what they preach when they speak of the good neighbor."

The first American president to pay an official visit to Canada's governor general, Mr. Roosevelt, arrived this forenoon for a long promised good will call.

He was welcomed in an address by Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general, McKenzie King, the prime minister, and other officials.

"It is my prayer," said Lord Tweedsmuir "that not by an alliance but through thinking the same thoughts and pursuing the same purpose the republic of the United States and British Commonwealth may help to realize the same liberties of mankind."

Mr. Roosevelt and Canada's governing heads talked over in private mutual problems affecting the two English speaking nations.

Winslow Selected Permanent Head State Farm Bureau

Local Man Named President of Permanent Organization Set Up At State Meeting Thursday

J. E. Winslow of this city was named president of the permanent organization of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation at a meeting in Raleigh yesterday of representatives from 57 county organizations.

Immediately after his election, President Winslow announced that the executive committee, composed of representatives from each of four districts, will meet about August 10 and make plans for an intensive membership drive.

E. F. Arnold, executive secretary, has been busy in the past several weeks securing new members and organizing county Bureaus in various sections of the state. He is being assisted by two field men provided by the national organization.

For the present state headquarters of the organization will remain in Greenville.

Edward A. O'Neill, militant president of the national organization, spoke briefly to the delegates imploring them to help in raising the income of the North Carolina farmer.

Farmers north of the Mason-Dixon line are willing and anxious to cooperate with you in bringing about better conditions," he declared, "if you will only give them a chance."

Few Weeks Required Finish New Paving

H. L. Rivers, city engineer, said today the Greenville street improvement program was rapidly nearing completion when it had to be halted on account of rainy weather.

Only one more block of paving remains to be completed under the original plans. One block of Johnson street is to be paved now and several curbs and gutters included in the project have not been fixed yet.

Gov. Knox Plans Tour Of Nation

FRANK KNOX

Chicago, July 31.—(AP)—Stressing "preservation of free enterprise" as the basic issue of the campaign, Col. Frank Knox, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, today pointed for a platform tour across the nation.

He formally accepted his party's commission as running mate to Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas last night before a crowd that filled the 24,000 seats at the Chicago stadium.

"The people," he declared, "must choose between regimentation of the economic life of 130,000,000 people by politically appointed federal bureaucrats and the continuance of free enterprise under a government of constitutional powers."

The New Deal, he said, embarked on a series of hysterical experiments; "initiated a campaign of abuse and vilification of business men." Inaugurated a policy of credit-adultation and currency experiment that demoralized foreign trade and frightened domestic investors; "handicrafting" commerce by "reckless" reform measures and "built mounting deficits."

"It set up a system of regimentation in industry that reduced production and prevented reemployment," the Chicago publisher asserted. "It installed a regimentation of agriculture that destroyed food, reduced foreign markets and increased the cost of living."

Rivers Over State Near Flood Stages Due Heavy Rainfall

News Already Out of Its Banks; Tar and Others in East Probably Go Into Flood Shortly

Raleigh, July 31.—(AP)—Unusually heavy rains in the last 48 hours over most of North Carolina today sent the Neuse river into flood stage at Smithfield and other eastern streams rose rapidly.

Lee A. Denson, in charge of the local weather bureau said warnings as to probably flood levels in the Neuse, Cape Fear, Tar and Roanoke rivers would be made later with the possibility the Roanoke might not leave its banks.

The Neuse was at 14.2 feet at Smithfield with bank level being 14 feet.

The heavy rains blanketed the state from Asheville where 2.16 inches in 48 hours eastward to the Wilson area.

Charlotte topped all reporting stations in rainfall with 6.74 inches in 48 hours, a deluge which set a new record for a 24 hour period at 5.58 inches.

Rainfall of from 2.1-2 to 4.1-2 or more inches was reported at Fayetteville, Elizabethtown, Graham, Randleman, Smithfield, Goldsboro, Kenly, Greenville, Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Lenoir, Nashville, Weldon, Williamston, Durham, Greensboro, Raleigh and other places.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

SOFTLY: Cordell Hull's stubborn streak of caution irritates two fellow Cabinet members — Admiral Standley, Acting Secretary of the Navy, and Secretary Roper. He cracks a sharp whip over their pet naval and commercial policies.

Mr. Hull hesitated at the outset of the Spanish rebellion to dispatch ships to evacuate American citizens from beleaguered ports. He hung back because he didn't want to ship across the Atlantic in a last-minute dash, thereby affronting rival factions by showing undue alarm. He failed to consult Standley until the last minute. Then he discovered that several warships were looting in European waters and could be ordered to the scene without dabling in melodramas.

The Secretary of State has also looked the other way when the navy intimated that he lodge a protest with Tokio over Japanese espionage in the United States. He holds that an exhibition of excessive emotion over one conviction and one arrest would disturb more important international relationships.

EAST FLORIDA CUT OFF FROM REST OF STATE

Communication Facilities Fail with Passage of Storm

LAST REPORTS TOLD OF WINDS

Official Weather Bureau Advises Hurricane Will Diminish As It Pastes Land

Pensacola, Fla., July 31.—(AP)—Communication facilities east of Pensacola failed today with passage of a tropical hurricane across the coastline near New Valparaiso, about 45 miles from here on the Gulf shore.

Last reports direct from New Valparaiso told of wind velocities between 65 and 75 miles an hour, torrential rain, unusual high tides and a rapidly falling barometer.

Later a weather bureau report said the wind reached a maximum velocity of 90 to 100 miles an hour in that town about 8 a. m.

The wind blew more than 50 miles an hour here at times this morning. There were no reports of casualties or serious property damage.

Panama City, east of New Valparaiso on the Gulf coast, reported conditions similar to those here. To a lesser degree this was considered true of the entire northwest Florida coast line as far east as Apalachicola.

The weather bureau said the hurricane winds would diminish as the storm passed over land in a northwestern direction. The path of the disturbance lay through sparsely settled rural communities. Small towns some miles from the coast were expected to receive a severe blow.

Christian Minister Preaches This Week

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, will deliver the sermon at the Union services to be held in the Pitt theater Sunday night at 8 o'clock, with the various churches in the city participating.

The weekly joint services were moved from the City park to the theater because of the uncertain weather being experienced this summer.

The Christian church will have charge of the entire program this week. On Sunday, August 9, Rev. Worth Wicker, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will deliver the sermon. His church will have charge of the program then.

Need About 10 Hours To Fix Evans Street

Although it will take only about eight or ten hours to complete laying the two inches of asphalt on Evans street, the contractor is being held up because of rainy weather.

H. L. Rivers, city engineer, said this morning the work could be completed in one more day and the street opened to public shortly afterwards, but added the project could not be completed as long as the rainy spell continues.

It was originally planned to complete the work Wednesday and Thursday since Wednesday was a half holiday and the main thoroughfare would not retard business such a long time. He added that if the work had been planned for Tuesday and Wednesday it would have been completed now.

Pitt Ready File Claims With Road Commission

Counties Must Present Briefs With Road Debt Group

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. By J. C. BASKEVILL

Raleigh, July 31.—All counties which think they have claims against the State Highway and Public Works Commission for roads which they built and later turned over to the state or which were taken over when the state took over the county roads, must file these claims together with briefs supporting them with the new County Road Debts Commission on or before August 25. It was announced here today by State Senator Carl L. Bailey, chairman of the commission.

A letter is being sent out to the chairman of all boards of county commissioners, together with a copy of the resolution adopted by the commission in its first meeting here, advising them that it will consider only those claims which are filed with it between now and August 25. The commission will meet in Raleigh August 29th to start consideration of these claims and determine its future course of procedure, Chairman Bailey said.

After the claims with accompanying briefs have been received, the commission will grant each county that wants to be heard an opportunity to appear before it and present oral arguments. Chairman Bailey said. But the commission has not yet decided whether all of these hearings will be held in Raleigh or whether it will sit in various sections of the state, with some hearings in the east, some in Raleigh and some in the western part of the state. It is believed likely that the commission will eventually decide to hold hearings in different sections, however.

The primary duty of this commission is to sit as a jury to determine the validity of the claims of those counties which maintain that the state should pay them the balance still due on roads which they built as "counties," from funds secured by issuing county bonds now that all county roads have been taken over by the state. There are some 44 counties which maintain that the state should reimburse them to the amount of about $8,500,000 for highways which they built with county funds before the state took over all the county highways. Of these there are 19 counties which are especially interested in establishing the validity of their claims, with Lenoir county at the head of the list. For Lenoir county would be relieved of more than $1,000,000 of county road indebtedness if this new commission should find that these claims are valid and if the 1937 general assembly should enact the legislation required to transfer this county road indebtedness to the state.

Bills introduced in the 1935 general assembly to refund this $8,500,000 to the 44 counties which at that time presented claims, but the house and senate committees on roads never let the bills get out of the committees. Instead, they

Pitt Claims It is Due $1,564,358.88 from The State

J. H. Coward, county auditor, said today Pitt was mapping its course in the fight to secure refunds from the State Highway and Public Works commission for expenditures made by the county on roads which were later turned over to the state system.

Forces here began planning their campaign strategy even before the Road Debt commission named its chairman. Mr. Coward also compiled data during the last legislature when a bill was being considered in committee for repaying the counties from highway funds for roads constructed by the local units and turned over to the state system.

The Road Debt commission will begin holding hearings on or before August 25. Under tentative plans the body will meet in three points in the state and Greenville is being considered as the most convenient for counties in the East. The first hearing probably will be held in the West, possibly at Asheville.

The county contends the state owes it a total of $1,564,358.88 for roads it constructed under the 1921 road act which provided that counties could erect roads in anticipation of the state road construction program with the expectation of eventually being reimbursed.

Below is an analysis of expenditures made by the county on which it will base its claim:

All of the above roads were constructed and immediately turned over to the state with the exception of the 4.4 miles of hard-surface from Ayden to Greene county, which was later taken over by the state system.

'SECRET CLUE' HOTEL MURDER IS DISCLOSED

Hairs Found in Girl's Room Fail to Match Those of Man Held

GADDY REMAINS ASHEVILLE JAIL

Strands Said Be Important in Event Suspect is Taken in Co-Ed's Death

Asheville, July 31.—(AP)—Chief of police W. J. Everett announced today the "secret clue" in the Helen Clevenger slaying sent to the federal bureau of investigation in Washington for analysis was "several hairs from a man's head found on a towel" in the girl's hotel room bath, but they did not match hair of D. H. Gaddy, hotel night watchman held for questioning.

Everett said, however, that the strands still were important "in the event we take in a suspect," in the brutal murder of the 18-year-old girl, New York University student.

Detective Captain Fred Jones had said the clue either would "crack the case or won't amount to a hill of beans."

Everett said the hair was from the head of a white man. It was not compared, he said, with the hair of anyone except the watchman.

Asked if the comparison with Gaddy's hair indicated the watchman had been considered a possible suspect, the officer replied:

"Every person who was any place near that hotel room on the night of the murder is a suspect."

Deputy Is Killed In Making Arrest Graham White Man

Officer Dies of Wounds Received When He Goes Arrest Man for Shooting His Wife

Graham, N. C., July 31.—(AP)—Deputy sheriff Lawrence G. Gowers died this afternoon from the effects of shotgun wounds he received when he went to arrest Robert S. Campbell, middle-aged white man, who shot and critically wounded his wife just after noon today.

Deputy Gowers was greeted with a full charge of shots in his face and neck when he entered the house to arrest Campbell.

Campbell fled the scene taking his shotgun with him but was quickly caught by a sheriff's posse and spirited away to an unnamed jail.

Heavy Rainfall Here For 24-Hour Period

Rain which fell here in 24 hours totaled 2.35 inches, it was reported by B. T. Clark, weather bureau official here, today, making a total of 8.21 inches for the month.

It was pointed out that five inches is considered a wet month, indicating that July experienced more rainfall than any month in some time past.

The 2.35 inches which fell in the 24 hours prior to 8 o'clock this morning was the heaviest for any similar time in several months, it was pointed out.

Data On 1,000 Prisoners On File In Parole Office

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 31.—More than 1,000 prisoners convicted of felonies and sentenced to the state prison system have been interviewed by representatives of the Commissioner of Parole and detailed files containing the picture of each prisoner, his complete record before entering prison and family background, likewise his own version of his crime and why he was sent to prison, have been set up, Commissioner of Parole Edwin M. Gill, announced today.

The present system of interviewing prisoners at the time they are admitted to prison and the making of detailed files on all new prisoners convicted of felonies, was instituted October 1, 1935, so that the detailed case histories of these more than 1,000 prisoners have been obtained in a period of ten months, or at the rate of 100 a month.

These files containing detailed information about every new prisoner admitted to the prison system, with the exception of short term misdemeanants, are regarded by Commissioner Gill as being the most important in the parole office. For they not only contain information which must be available and used when the issuance of a parole or pardon to any prisoner is considered by the present commissioner, but are expected to prove even more valuable in future years when long term prisoners become

CALLS SESSION OF DEMOCRATS

Executive Committee to Meet Aug. 14 to Name Chairman

Raleigh, July 31.—(AP)—Chairman J. Wallace Winborne of Marion called today for the State Democratic executive committee to meet here the night of August 14 to elect a State chairman for the next two years.

Winborne, now completing a four year term as chairman, announced the call by long distance telephone to the associated press.

"It is the regular meeting," Winborne said, "The business to come up will include filling of vacancies in the committee, election of a chairman, election of a vice chairman and any other transactions the committee should consider."

The next chairman, if custom is followed, will be designated by Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Winborne and Hubert Olive of Lexington, who managed Hoey's campaign during the primary, said they had no idea who he had in mind.

State Commission For Liquor Study To Hold Hearings

Body to Report Findings and Recommendations to 1937 General Assembly and Governor

Raleigh, July 31.—(AP)—The State Liquor Study Commission voted today to start a series of hearings here on August 27th in its investigation of liquor conditions in North Carolina.

The commission must report its findings and recommendations to the 1937 general assembly and Clyde R. Hoey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has said he expected to be largely guided in his liquor recommendations by the report of the commission.

After a one-day session here the commission chairman, Victor S. Bryant, said will meet August 28th probably either in Pitt, Wilson, Edgecombe, or Lenoir counties and on August 29th a hearing will be held in Wilmington.

"We shall be glad at these hearings to hear anybody in the state who has any facts to contribute with regard to liquor," Chairman Bryant said.

Bryant emphasized that only "those who have facts" would be permitted to appear before the commission and said it was planned to invite representatives of the wetts and the drys to appear.

All members of the commission, appointed two weeks ago by Governor Ehringhaus, attended the 3-hour executive session except Senator Lee Grady of Rocky Mount.

"The commission is interested in making a survey of the conditions as they are in North Carolina as to the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating beverages," Bryant said.

"Our duties also embrace the study of control laws in other states and to submit a report of our findings and recommendations to the 1937 general assembly."

Asked if there was anything said in the commission's first session to indicate the stand of the various members of liquor control, Bryant replied: "none whatever."

Congressman Lindsay Warren will be on hand to head a list of speakers including representatives of the cooperating organizations. A telegram has been received from M. R. Beaman, head of the Morehead City port project, that he would be here.

None of the speakers will speak more than a few minutes, officials said in announcing that it was decided to have a number of brief addresses instead of one long speech.

It was impossible to check up on the number of tickets already distributed, but it was indicated by those in charge that the meeting would be attended by a good part of the city's business and professional men. Tickets may be secured at the door by persons who do not get one in advance.

IT BELONGS TO THE COUNTIES

Ever since the last legislature legalized the sale of liquor in 17 eastern counties and these counties began to show good profits from the business it seems that the state has been hankering to find a way to get more revenue from the sales than the present three per cent sales tax it is receiving.

Carol Goerch, editor of the State magazine, likewise is of the opinion that the revenue belongs to the counties and should not be tampered with. In this week's issue of the State he says: "As you undoubtedly know, there are seventeen counties in the state (and an additional township in Moore County) which are selling liquor at the present time. Practically all of the revenue from this sale stays in the individual counties—only three per cent, which the state receives under the provisions of the general sales tax law. There is going to be made a bitter fight by a number of the dry counties in North Carolina to see to it that the state gets a larger share of this revenue. And that's where our opposition starts. For instance, Mecklenburg, Buncombe and Caswell counties are dry. If they wish to remain so, that is their privilege. At the last session of the legislature they refused to legalize the sale of liquor in any form whatsoever. That being so, it is our opinion that those counties should not derive a penny's worth of benefit from the sale of liquor in the seventeen counties located in the eastern part of the state. They are in no way entitled to participate in this proposition. If they want to share in liquor profits, then let them legalize the sale of liquor within their own boundaries. It looks to us like an open-and-shut proposition and one against which there can be little argument, so we're going to stand by the seventeen counties and try to assist them in keeping this revenue themselves. As matters now stand, the state gets the gasoline tax, the sales tax, the franchise tax and a number of others as well. About all that the counties have left is the property tax. It is true that the state has taken over maintenance of roads and schools, but provisions for taking care of these items have been made aside from any liquor revenue. We hope that the verdict of the legislature will be to say to the counties in the state: 'If you want to legalize the sale of liquor, that is your privilege. By doing so, you can get some of the additional revenue which the Eastern counties are obtaining at the present time. But if you do not want to take action of this nature, then you're not entitled to share in the profits.'

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marion Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance feels a little better about her sudden decision to teach school in Alabama, Ga., since she has met her fellow teacher, Ellen Gandy, and seen Ben Taylor, the town bachelor, once again. The Sunday afternoon before school opens Ben takes Carol to play golf, and releases her apprehensions about the morning to come, when she must face her classes for the first time, but Carol does not intend to teach school forever.

Chapter Seven

THE CAT

AFTER supper she and Ellen walked lazily home. "What'll we do tonight?" Ellen demanded. "Go to church?" "What—again?" "Well, there doesn't seem to be much else."

There didn't. "All right. But I don't want 'em to think I'm establishing any precedents."

Only a handful at church tonight. Another neat little sermon that was slightly more informal than that of the morning. Mr. Hudson was there again and they encountered him on the steps, talking to an incredibly old woman. His beam was even brighter.

"Well, well! You're starting the week right, I see." Carol twinkled outrageously at him. "I told Ellen, though, that I wasn't establishing any precedents."

He laughed heartily and introduced the old woman. "This is Mrs. Taylor. She lives next door to you."

They were, Carol and Ellen said politely, delighted to meet her; exhilarated at the idea of being neighbors. The old woman hardly waited to acknowledge the introduction before she looked at Mr. Hudson.

"What'd you think of your teachers playing golf on Sunday?" she demanded, with a connotation that was intended for a smile.

A crimson rage shook Carol. She looked quickly at Mr. Hudson and saw his face empty itself; become bland and vacant. He said pleasantly: "Can I drive you home, Mrs. Taylor?"

Mrs. Taylor looked surprised, but not disconcerted. Mr. and Mrs. Hanna had brought her, she said; she guessed they were waiting for her now.

When she had gone Carol turned on Mr. Hudson. "I could hug you for that!" she said, and his eyes danced. Then she sobered. "I didn't dream the retribution would be so swift. I won't play again if you say so."

His face became thoughtful. "No, you go on and I'll see what happens. Nobody could please her; we'll wait till the protest is more general." He nodded, almost paternally, and turned away.

As they left the church Carol realized that Ellen was shaking with laughter.

ON Tuesday morning Carol faced her first class. Monday's session had been brief, devoted to registration, arranging schedules, handing out book lists. Today there would be a half-time schedule; twenty minutes to each period.

The class was American History and the students were seniors. She eyed them speculatively, and the class eyed her with mingled relief and curiosity. Relief because she was young and pretty; curiosity because they wondered how much they could get by with.

The door opened and four youths entered, swaggering a little. They looked like men, but Carol recognized them from their bearing as blackies them by economic reprisals which will shut off all commerce.

This move, which may extend to sympathetic republics to the South, hits at Mr. Roper's intensive campaign to sell more goods in South America. It plays into the hands of British, German and Japanese competitors. It is probable the difficulty could be solved by quiet negotiation, but Mr. Roper doesn't dare to act without Mr. Hull's sanction. So far it hasn't been given.

become major campaign documents. Mr. McCarl's recent pilgrimage to Topeka supports reports that he will occupy a high office if Governor Landon is elected. The post mentioned is Budget Director, but he would probably head a committee for coordinating government agencies and cutting down costs.

PROGRAM: G. O. P. higher-ups at Washington seriously question the wisdom of Alf Landon's strategy as revealed in conferences at Topeka since he delivered his acceptance speech. Unless he changes his tune and teups, they predict that he will not attract "borderline voters" in sufficient numbers to win.

Their theory is that Mr. Landon starts with the 15,000,000 dyed-in-the-wool conservatives who voted for Herbert Hoover. To defeat President Roosevelt, he needs to corral 3,000,000-plus from the ranks of moderates and liberals alienated by New Deal excesses rather than its general philosophy. So far there is no indication that this floating vote will warm to the Kansas Governor on the basis of what he has said or done since his nomination.

For the present these voters seem to be withholding judgment on the Republican nominee. They realize that he could not detail his program in a single speech. But unless he rings the bell in their hearts with his next few speeches, they may conclude that FDR—with all his faults—is the better bet. Like a sprinter, Mr. Landon has got to make a fast start.

New York ACCORD: A surprisingly large number of New York leaders agree with Joe Kennedy—former chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission—that "there is something in the air in the advancing time of some new social order." But practically none of them shares Mr. Kennedy's belief that the best way to cope with this developing problem is to reject Mr. Roosevelt. In fact, some of Mr. Kennedy's erstwhile pals speak very scathingly of his "devotion to the enemy."

The question of a realignment of social and economic forces comes up frequently in New York conversations. But those who figure that progressive concessions to the forces of liberalism will have to be made in order to preserve social stability usually insist that Mr. Roosevelt is wholly unqualified to carry them out. They admit that a number of his ideas are reasonable enough in principle but contend that his lack of executive ability is a fatal handicap to their successful application.

These sources are entirely in accord with Governor Landon's attitude that much of the New Deal philosophy is worth salvaging if efficiently administered.

MAMMON, MASTER OF MAN

Our dollar age is heading us for destruction, and has already caused us much suffering with the real pinch to come yet. History seems to show, if we are to believe those who have made a careful study of it, that all Nations that have lived and died, have displayed four stages of development: First—Conquest. Second—Wealth. Luxury. Third—Pride. Idleness. Fourth—Dissipation. Cruel Taxation and disintegration.

It seems apparent to any fair-minded person, that America has about passed the third stage and is entering into the fourth. After our conquest and setting up of a nation, the dollar was made our sole aim. It was put above the worth of man. Nothing mattered. So we trusted in mammon: No Nation can make money its God and continue to exist: American Civilization has made marvelous development, but it has split the race into two widely separated factions—the extremely rich and the extremely poor. True and satisfying progress can only come through an education planned to overcome old conditions, one that will put more emphasis upon human personality. The old order showed signs of giving away to truer ideals of thinking and living. Some day, when we choose wiser ideals and become better followers of them we will choose better leaders. It looks like to the average person of late years, that both parties are morally bankrupt. Every Nation should be a great united family with a high moral standard, ideals to high for politics to undermine. Neither parties have shown much sign of creating by law a safe and reliable status, sound currency, fair tariff laws:

Big politics, big business and big finance seem to get along well enough together: But the rest of us small fry—what is to become of us? What is the matter that we are not more prosperous and happy? We are a divided house and politics have done the dividing. You can always trust politics to do a plenty of dividing, if it sinks the land; And you can never trust them to do much that is constructive, until they have fortified themselves politically. An honest man has very little chance any more at the jobs; he is pushed aside by professional politicians. They are crude mossbacks, old fashioned robber barons using the same dishonest methods they did in the dark ages. —A. E. DENTON, Greenville, N. C.

At Methodist Church
During the month of August Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Mem-orial Methodist church, will be away but he has arranged for visit-ing ministers to fill the pulpit each Sunday morning. On next Sunday morning, Rev. T. McM. Grant, Pres-iding Elder of this District, will be here. Those who will lead the services will, in every case, have a message well worth hearing, and the congregation is urged to give these preachers their most cordial support. The schedule arranged is as follows:

August 2—Rev. T. McM. Grant, of New Bern.
August 9—Rev. Jennings Past, of Charleston, W. Va. (coming here from Hookerton, N. C.)
August 16—Service in charge of laymen of our church.
August 23—Rev. S. E. Mercer, Stantonburg, N. C.
August 30—Rev. P. H. Fields, of Grifton, N. C.

Remember that this is a Unified Service, beginning with the Sunday School classes at 9:45 o'clock, and the Worship Program at 10:20.

Entertain for Guests.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor en-tertained at dinner and a theatre party on Tuesday evening, honor-ing their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Crutchfield of Winston-Salem.

Birthday Celebration.
On Monday afternoon from four to six, Mrs. Jessie Laughinghouse delightfully entertained about forty guests at her home on Evans Street, celebrating the birthday of her four-year-old son, Billy.

The little folks were shown to a shaded grove, where tables were placed in the midst of mixed flow-ers, where the birthday cake stood out with four pink candles. There many attractive gifts were shown, and an ice cream was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Lore of Fort, after which other forms of entertainment were enjoyed on the lawn.

As each little guest departed, all declared the last birthday party the best of all.

DATA ON 1,000 PRISONERS ON FILE AT PAROLE OFFICE

eligible for parole, Gill pointed out.

Whenever anything develops con-cerning any of these prisoners or letter are received either asking for or opposing clemency, these letters are added to the prisoner's file. As a result, it is possible to keep the complete record of a prisoner up-to-date and to refer to this record at any time. Confidential letters concerning the prisoner and his past life from county welfare offi-cers, the judge and prosecutor are a part of these records, in addition to the prisoner's own story.

During the first interview with each prisoner by J. H. Fleming, who is the representative of the paroles office who conducts these inter-views, and effort is made to plant in his mind constructive ideas and impress him with the importance of maintaining good behavior and conforming willingly with all pris-on discipline, Gill pointed out. Each prisoner is told that one of the big-est factors in becoming eligible for parole and obtaining a parole is good behavior while in prison. This has already contributed greatly to improved morale throughout the prison system, Gill said.

"This interviewing of all new prisoners — and we are also inter-viewing and setting up files on old prisoners as rapidly as possible — is merely a part of a long range parole program which contemplates the eventual setting up of a file in the office of the Commissioner of Pa-roles on every felon in the state prison system." Gill said. "Eventu-ally we hope to extend this same system to any prisoners convicted of misdemeanors with sentence of a year or more. We do not think it would be worth while to use this system on any prisoners with sen-tences of less than one year.

"We have been informed by pris-on experts connected with the United States government and from other states that we are taking a pioneering step in the study and treatment of crime. They also agree that in studying the cases of pris-oners in this way there is little chance that deserving men will be overlooked and even less chance that hardened criminals with bad records will obtain their liberty, even if their prison records are good. For the idea back of our pa-roles system here in North Carolina is to give prisoners a chance to reform and to reward these with paroles, but to keep the hardened criminals in prison and prevent them from gaining paroles, even by the winning of good prison records. For many of the worst and most dangerous criminals are smart enough to make good records in prison in the hope of winning their freedom on parole."

SUMMER LULL IN CAMPAIGNS

Forecast for August Features No Political Typhoons

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

Politics is a game of paradoxes, and that perhaps accounts for the present comparative lull in a cam-paign which had promised to de-velop so furiously from the start.

Two months ago the two great parties were like newly caged pan-thers. Angry howls of impatience smote the welkin and whetted the anticipation of the bystanders. It was remarked everywhere that things were warming up early and that real action might be expected by July.

Then, after a June surfeit of po-litical oratory at the conventions, the growingly subdued appreciably. Organization work went on, of course, and there were some mu-tually uncomplimentary exchanges between the campaign managers. But the bigger guns held fire.

Mr. Landon, nominated by the Republicans, retired to the fastnesses of a mountain vacation re-treat, from which he emerged in due course with an acceptance speech postponing detailed discus-sion of the issues until later.

Mr. Roosevelt, named by the Democrats, accepted at once in a speech leaving detailed issues for the future, and departed thereupon from American shores in a sailing ship, for a vacation cruise in ob-scure northern waters.

Nor does the political forecast for August feature either typhoons or whirlwinds.

Governor Landon proposes a chicken-dinner homecoming to his ancestral home in Pennsylvania, coupled with a week-end, perhaps, at a favorite summer resort in up-state New York.

President Roosevelt plans to go into the west but not, he says, for any intensive spellbinding. He means to inspect the dried-up corn fields and the bare pastures in the drought belt.

Meantime, what about the issues? When are they to be defined clearly and submitted to the voters—When does the joint debate of the cen-tury begin? September or October, it now ap-pears, will see most of the heavy action, just as they almost always do. The President, it is said, will swing out then to the Pacific coast and back, and the governor will show himself to the midwest and to the great population centers in the east.

In spite of all the early growling and straining at the leash, in spite of the promises of the advance agents, in spite of the furious tem-

CHEATS DEATH 4 TIMES IN LESS THAN A YEAR

Pleasant Hill, Mo., July 31.—(AP)—With four close escapes from death in less than a year, Monroe Littell believes he bears a charmed life.

In January his car turned over but he escaped with scratches. Shortly afterward a block-and-tackle broke, dropping a heavy farm machine within inches of him.

Then he caught double pneumonia. Recently a tractor turned over and pinned Littell beneath, unhurt but saturated with oil and gasoline. Another man switched off the en-gine and prevented an accident.

With Congressman Lemke, Fath-er Coughlin, and Dr. Townsend con-stantly in the center of the news, it might appear that the new Union party alone is alert to its opportu-nities, that it is stealing an import-ant march on the two older parties at a moment when popular interest in the campaign is manifestly keen.

But is that really the case? It al-ways is possible that the older parties, out of the wealth of their experience, are reserving their heaviest fire because they are con-vinced that is the wisest plan of campaign.

If the Union party talks itself out at the start, it will not be the first time an independent political movement has rushed in too eag-erly, and repented later on.

FARLEY NAMED COACH AT ETC

Baseball Star and All Around Athlete Employed

Bo Farley, well-known to the people of Greenville and North Carolina as one of the best all-around athletes that ever attended Duke University, has been employed by East Carolina Teachers College as athletic coach for the year 1936-37.

Farley, who came to Greenville last year to manage the local team in the Coastal Plain League and remained to coach the city high school team, finished last year as coach at the college also, after the resignation of Doc Mathis. He did a good job with both the high school and the college teams.

Bo won fame in many sports at Duke. He was one of the finest infielders ever developed there. He was probably the best basketball guard Duke has had. He played a fine game as half-back in football. In fact, as a member of the Duke athletic staff, he was the best all-around athlete at Duke from his days in college to Ace Parker, the present Duke star.

Also, Bo has had considerable coaching and managing experience. He came to Greenville from Danville, Virginia, where he had been a very successful coach for a number of years. He is at present managing and playing third base for the Greenville entry in the Coastal Plain League. He has had considerable experience as a professional baseball player.

Farley also has a splendid reputation as a man of good habits. He will make the college and the city a valuable citizen and doubtless will prove a wholesome influence for the young men who play on his teams.

Snow Hill - Bears Only Game Played in Loop Yesterday

Rain nearly washed the Coastal Plain loop off the map for a day, but failed to stop the Snow Hill-Bears game at Snow Hill, which the Snow Hill nine won by a 3-1 score.

Luffy Kennel, former New Bern batter, held his former team mates down with only six hits and one run—that tally being an unearned one. Parker singled and went to second when his hit was error'd by McAllister. McAllister sacrificed. Parker scored when Williams error'd Dismyale's bouncer.

Kennel hid his strikeout ball working and set 15 Bear batters down on strikes. Parker, his opponent in the mound duel, fanned six. Each walked two. The Snow Hill outfit out-hit the Bears, 3 to 1.

A wild pitch by Parker helped the locals to a pair of tallies in the seventh. Bug singled and went to third on Parrish's single. Bug tallied on a wild pitch, and then Kennel singled to score Parrish with what proved to be the winning run.

Ralph Williams, Snow Hill skipper, homered in the eighth for the third tally.

Bug with a double and two singles to bat 1.000 was the leading batsman while Ingram, with two for four was runner-up in the victors' attack. Parker with two for three, and Weldon, with two for four, accounted for two-thirds of the Bears' safeties.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Tremendous Power!

You'll feel a big lift when you start using Essolene. There's a great difference in power and pick-up...and mileage. This regular priced gasoline gives better mileage than even most premium priced gasolines, and no gasoline at any price will give you more under hard summer driving conditions. Made by the world's leading oil organization, Esso Marketers.

Chesterfield Wins

...the cigarette paper is as pure as the food you eat

If you could see the Chesterfield paper when it's being made you'd know why it's pure and clean. It looks just about like rich cream.

When Chesterfield paper comes off the rolls it is tested again and again to make sure it will burn without taste or odor.

We know from experience that good cigarette paper helps make a good cigarette — we know it's one reason why Chesterfield wins.
