Loyalists And Fascists Send Fresh Troops Into Spanish Civil Conflict

Government Prepares For Another Push Capital Gateway

REBELS TURN ON SAN SEBASTIAN

French Plea for European Neutrality Is Well Received in London,

(By Associated Press)
Assaults on the front — North, Central, South — opened today with both government and rebel leaders throwing fresh troops into the civil war.

Loyalists gathered strength for another push against rebels in the Guadarramas mountains circle above Madrid.

Rebel insurgents turned a new against shell-torn San Sebastian on the Bay of Biscay. General Imilio Mola ordered the campaign with reinforcements of an estimated 10,000 soldiers.

French government officials learned their plea for strict European neutrality in the Spanish conflict was apparently well received in London, but less welcome in Rome.

Observers said general Mola sought to clear a northern outlet to the sea before turning against Madrid, which he said last week would be captured within a few days.

Rebel advance guards were reported to have occupied two towns considered control points of the three mountain gateways to Madrid.

In the capital, itself, the government said complete control had been established over the population and declared the entire civil war situation was "definitely good" from their standpoint.

Constable Admits Killing His Wife And Hiding Pistol

Police Officer Quotes Man as Saying He Fired After He Had Been Threatened With Gun

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lieut. Sam Strautz, night chief of police, announced today John Hamilton had made oral admission he shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Wilma Woods Hamilton and Thomas Grison Sunday.

Strautz said Hamilton told of the killings after hours of questioning. The police officer also quoted Hamilton as saying he had thrown his pistol and one taken from Grison into a lake south of the city. A search was begun for the weapons.

Hamilton is a constable and a candidate for the St. Clair county board of review.

In his oral statement Strautz reported Hamilton said he fired at Grison in self defense and did not intend to kill his wife. The police officer quoted Hamilton as saying Grison pointed a pistol at him.

"Then I drew my revolver from the holster and started shooting," Strautz quoted Hamilton as saying. "I never intended to shoot her."

Last Rites Held For Lillie Florence Boyd

Little Lillie Florence Boyd, three and one-half year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd of Dudley's Crossroads, died this morning after having been taken ill only on Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted from the grave near Chocowinity at 4 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Duff Tolar, Free Will Baptist minister, in charge.

Besides her parents the little girl is survived by five sisters, Bernice, Elizabeth, Anne Bell, Ethel Mae and Adele.

Conley To Announce List County Teachers

D. H. Conley, county superintendent of schools, said today the list of teachers for the various schools this fall was nearly complete and would be announced publicly shortly.

All schools with the exception of Farmville have sent in their lists. Mr. Conley said the turnover in the teacher personnel would be small this year. Only a few changes were made in principals.

URGE CITIZENS LEAVE MADRID

Immediate Evacuation Suggested Is By Embassy Officials

Madrid, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Immediate evacuation of all Americans desiring to leave Madrid in order to take advantage of the one Railroad line open to Valencia, sea coast town, was suggested by American embassy officials tonight.

The announcement was made at a meeting of the officials and the 74 Americans still housed in the embassy building. Most of them, however, said they preferred to remain here and take care of their business affairs.

Three British ships lay off Valencia ready to take foreigners aboard. They will proceed to Marseilles tomorrow.

Secretary Hull of the American state department warned today that conditions in Spain might make it impossible for United States government ships to provide refuge for this country's nationals later.

86 Boys And Girls Only 16 Years Old Jailed One Month

Figures For County Jails Only and Do Not Include Those Held by Cities and Towns

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—A total of 86 boys and girls in the state under 16 years of age were arrested and put in 72 county jails over the state during the month of June, according to figures obtained today from R. Eugene Brown, director of institutions for the State Department of Public Welfare. This figure does not include the number arrested and put in jail in cities and towns, since only the county jails are required to make reports of all arrested and placed in jail. If those arrested and jailed in cities and towns should be included, the number would probably be doubled or tripled, Brown indicated.

The total number committed to these 72 county jails during June was 4,547 of which 2,417 were white men, 174 white women, 1,674 negro men and 282 negro women, the report shows. This number is in addition to the more than 9,000 prisoners in state prison camps. The jail population represents either those being held without bail pending trial, those held for investigation without the preferment of definite charges and those sentenced to serve terms of less than 30 days and some Federal prisoners. All prisoners given sentences of 30 days or more are sent to prison camps in the state prison system.

Of the 85 boys and girls under 16 years of age placed in these 72 county jails in June, 28 were white boys, seven white girls, 43 negro boys and two negro girls.

In May, 95 boys and girls were placed in jail in 75 counties of which 34 were white boys, five white girls, 54 negro boys and two negro girls. In April 119 boys and girls were in 70 county jails, the largest number reported in any one month; this year. In March there were 94 boys and girls under 16. A study of the offenses for which these boys and girls were jailed is now being made.

Heavy Police Court Heard In City Today

An unusual heavy City court docket was disposed of by Mayor M. K. Blount this morning, many of the cases involving drunk and disorderly conduct charges.

Joe Wooten, negro, Tom Suttie and Charlie Landen, white men, were fined $10 and costs upon conviction of drunk and disorderly charges.

Amos Harris and Willie Myers, negroes, were each sent to the roads for 30 days on charges of drunk and disorderly.

John Weston, John Ivey Speight and Fred Boomer, negroes, were sent to the roads for 30 days each upon conviction of assault.

Jack Reeves was sent up to County court under $300 bond for arson.

W. L. Ormand, white man, was bound over under $100 for reckless and careless driving.

Elsie, Mae, Lucille and Billie Colquitt, of LaGrange, Ga., have their birthday parties together. All were born on August 15.

EX-HUSBAND CRUEL TO BABY, MARY ASTOR ASSERTS

"He shook her so hard her teeth rattled," Mary Astor, the pretty movie actress, told the court in Los Angeles in testifying her former husband, Dr. Franklin Thorpe, often was cruel to their four-year-old daughter, Marylyn. She is shown (left) emphasizing her testimony with gestures during her legal fight to regain custody of the child. Marcus Goodrich, (right), shown listening to Miss Astor, was identified by a nurse-maid in the Thorpe home as the man she had seen alone with the actress. (Associated Press Photo.)

LEWIS ABSENT FROM 'TRIAL'

Labor Leader Refuses To Recognize Executive Council

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With the chairs of the "defendants" vacant, angry members of the American Federation of Labor executive council gathered today to try John L. Lewis and his allies in the federations, industrial union faction on charges of "insurrection."

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his 11 associates in the committee for industrial organization, challenged the council's right to try them and boycotted the session.

Unions in the Lewis group are said in labor circles to contain more than one million workers. If the council should decide to suspend them the federation would lose about one-third of its members and one-third of its revenue.

Efforts to reconcile the differences between the Lewis faction and the dominant craft union group led by William Green, American Federation of Labor president, were temporarily at a dead end.

The bitter feeling between the two reached a new high yesterday with publication of a letter Lewis sent members of his union assailing the executive council for "flaunting" the "direction of the last two federation conventions."

Green said today that hopes for settlement of the controversy between the craft union faction of the organization and Lewis were "not as bright as they were."

At the end of the first session of the trial of Lewis and 11 other union leaders for "insurrection and rebellion," Green said:

"Our hopes for a settlement are not as bright as they were prior to the meeting of the executive council this morning."

Appearing as prosecutor at the bitter trial in the history of the Federation, John P. Frey had charged Lewis and the 11 groups of the committee for industrial organization with "ingratitude, treason and contemptuous disregard of the principles of majority rule."

Frey, president of the Federation's metal trades department, gave his views after a compromise proposal to delay a showdown was made by Henry Ohl, Jr., president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. There was no action.

He gave his views after a compromise

Thirty-Six Marriage Licenses Are Issued

Thirty-six marriage licenses were issued at the Pitt County Register of Deeds' office during July, as compared with 41 in June.

Of the total issued 17 were to white couples and 19 to negroes.

August got off to a good start Saturday, eight licenses having been issued on the first day of the month.

Boy's Rescuer 'Konks' Ram

Manchester, Ia. (AP)—Fred W. Hermann saw a ram attacking Roy Iben, 10, as he drove past the Iben farm, leaped from his car, bulldogged the ram and rescued the boy. When the ram, continuing the attack, charged Hermann, the man knocked it cold with a stick of stove wood.

Calls Playwright To Take Stand In Screen Star Case

Mystery Enveloping Name of "George" in Hearing Is Removed With Calling of Witness

Los Angeles, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mystery enveloping the name "George Kaufman" in the Mary Astor child custody case was lifted today by a subpoena calling the playwright of that name to tell of his acquaintance with the screen beauty.

Also in prospect with resumption of the sensational court hearing was the introduction of a diary the actress is said to have filled with intimate secrets.

Miss Astor herself was assigned another interlude in the witness chair to be questioned by attorneys of her divorced husband, Dr. Franklin Thorpe from whom she seeks custody of their four-year-old daughter, Marylyn. She has testified he was a rough and inept father.

Coughlin Pledges To Make Attempts Remove Roosevelt

Prepared Be "Instrumental in Taking Communist From Chair Occupied by Washington"

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, returning to Detroit after addressing three outdoor rallies in New England, said he was prepared to be "instrumental in taking a communist from the chair once occupied by Washington."

"As I was instrumental in removing Herbert Hoover from the White House, so help me God I will be instrumental in taking a communist from the chair once occupied by Washington," he told a gathering sponsored by the national union for social justice here last night.

Roosevelt, he asserted, started with a platform and acceptance speech which promised "to make this world a paradise—which he could have done were his promises kept."

"We can't endorse either Mr. Landon or Mr. Roosevelt," he said, "because one wants to go back to the gold standard and the other to the dole standard and there is no choice between the two."

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER
GRIPS: Nothing save a last-minute miracle can prevent the first major split-up of American organized labor as a result of A. F. of L. executives' conference here today. President Roosevelt's emissaries are reconciled to the prospect, but are banking an assurance that the struggling factions will close ranks behind him an Election Day.

An ex-miner himself, easy-going William Green, A. F. of L. chief, is reluctant to suspend the miners and other workers aligned with Miners' President John L. Lewis. But the latter's affronts and aggressiveness have angered Mr. Green's aides—

Arthur Wharton of the machinists, Tom Rickett of the garment workers, William Hutchinson of the carpenters. A conflict of personalities virtually overshadows the fundamental difference of industrial (Lewis) against craft (Green) unions.

Insiders foresee only one outcome. They look for the growth of a rival union which will eventually prove more powerful than the A. F. of L. They predict that Mr. Lewis will try to rally under his banner employes in such industries as automobile, radio, textile, rubber, cement. In the end they believe there will be a streamlined organization of union forces in accord with the (Continued on page two)

FALL OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS BEST IN YEARS

Some Authorities Paint Bright Picture For Season

CLAIM RECOVERY MAKING STRIDES

Fears Expressed By Some, However, That Short Crops Will Be Deterrent

New York Aug. 3.—(AP)—A mid-summer panorama of broad business revival unfolded today as Wall Street sought to appraise the autumn outlook.

Busy steel mills record electric power output, well sustained automobile production, a high level of retail trade, peak freight movements for the year and demand for new equipment by railroads were sketched into the July picture.

Business analysts accepted the latest statistical data as evidence that trade and industry were under momentum of a year of almost unbroken expansion, had held their recovery stride instead of slowing for the hot months as usual.

How long the pace would hold was a matter of conjecture. Some authorities have painted the autumn and Christmas outlook in bright colors, taking the mid-summer record as an indicator of a powerful underlying recovery sweep.

Others contended that crop losses from droughts and a rise in food prices eventually would hit mass purchasing power.

Business figures added to the record in the last week, depicted a substantial advance in industry, compared with a year ago.

Outstanding was steel, with operation around the peak for the year at 71.5 per cent of capacity, against 44 per cent a year ago.

Railroad car loadings made a peak for the year at 731,062, an increase of 135,490 over the comparable 1935 figure. Power production figures were 14.5 per cent higher and weekly automobile production was reported as between 96,000 and 98,000 units, against about 69,400 in the comparable 1935 period.

In their petition the major carriers of the United States asked authority to translate the emergency rate into permanent charges through filing permanent rate schedules.

In requesting permission to make the entire surcharge rate structure permanent the carriers contended such rates would be "just and reasonable" that "industry and traffic can bear them without harm and that their application has not and will not result in material loss of traffic."

Various shipping interests, led by coal producers, protested the surcharges, contending they were impeding freight movements by railroads, burdening interstate commerce and causing substantial traffic diversions to other forms of transportation.

Truck Driver Freed In Farmville Death

Lennie R. Russell, 55, of Farmville was instantly killed Saturday night in that place when he was struck by a truck as he was riding on the running board of a car driven by Miss Mary Ida Jones.

Paul Tripp, driver of the truck, was exonerated at a coroner's inquest called Saturday night.

According to testimony at the inquest, the automobile was full and Russell was riding on the outside when a truck sidwiped the car, crushing the man to death.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Mary Holloman; and five children, Lynwood, William Edward Lee, Mary Frances and Rose Reid Russell.

She was married to Mr. Kittrell about 25 years ago.

Fire Damage Slight On Albemarle Street

A fire at the home of S. M. Waters on Albemarle avenue this morning did damage estimated at from $50 to $75.

The fire started from an explosion of an oil stove, but was extinguished before firemen reached the scene. The blaze was put out by a "bucket brigade" and the damage was a result chiefly of smoke and water.

GIRL'S UNCLE MAY SUE HOTEL

Professor W. L. Clevenger May Bring Damage Suit

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—Prof. W. L. Clevenger, of the State College faculty here and uncle of Helen Clevenger who was brutally murdered the night of July 16 in her room in the Battery Park hotel in Asheville, is seriously considering bringing a large damage suit against the Battery Park Hotel and its management both in connection with the murder of his niece and for the manner in which he was treated by the hotel management after he had discovered the body of his slain niece. It was learned here today.

It is no secret in State College circles that both Prof. W. L. Clevenger and his brother, Prof. C. E. Clevenger, feel that one of the principal reasons the slayer of Helen has not yet been arrested, is due to the failure or refusal of the management of the Battery Park hotel to make an investigation of the screams heard from Helen's room the night she was killed and reported to the hotel management by at least seven different persons and to its slowness in reporting the murder to the sheriff and the police. It has also been learned here that Prof. Clevenger was locked in his room in the hotel and told to stay there by the hotel management after he discovered his niece's body about 8:30 the morning of July 16 until about 10:30 when the murder was finally reported to the sheriff and Prof. Clevenger allowed to leave his room. Reports brought back from Asheville are to the effect that between the time the girl's body was discovered and the time the sheriff was finally notified, the room had been thoroughly cleaned up, evidently by the hotel, so that very few clues were left and these made virtually worthless.

Friends of Prof. W. L. Clevenger maintain that he was unlawfully and forcefully detained and imprisoned in his room by the hotel management and that he has ample grounds to sue the hotel for damages both for its treatment of him and for negligence in reporting the murder of his niece to the sheriff or police. The belief is also growing here that the murder was an "inside job" and committed by some one very familiar with the hotel, if not actually connected with it.

Mrs. Roy B. Kittrell Claimed By Death At Local Hospital

Funeral Services For Local Woman To Be Conducted From Home at 5 o'clock Tomorrow

Mrs. Roy B. Kittrell, 44, died, at 3:10 o'clock this morning in the Pitt General hospital after several days of critical illness. She was taken to the hospital Wednesday.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock from the late home 306 East Fourth street, with her pastor, Rev. W. A. Ryan of Eighth Street Christian church, in charge. Burial will follow in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Kittrell is survived by her husband, a local merchant; four sons, Belmont, Jack, Earl and Bobbie Kittrell, all of the home; three brothers, Frank, Lindsay and Heber Savage, of Greenville; and her mother, Mrs. Adrian Savage, also of this city.

Mrs. Kittrell formerly was Miss Maggie M. Savage. She was born near the city and spent practically her entire life in Greenville.

She was married to Mr. Kittrell about 25 years ago.

Prosecutor Holds Cult Responsible For Printing Plot

Black Legion Charged With Printing Pamphlets Urging Negroes "Rise Against Whites"

Detroit, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Wayne county Prosecutor Duncan S. McCrea said today he had evidence that the black legion which fought communism, printed and represented as communistic in original pamphlets which called upon workmen to "kill the aggressors of the common people."

McCrea said the pamphlets also urged negroes to "rise against your white oppressors."

The prosecutor said the printing plot was disclosed by statements of Andrew W. Fossick and further statements by William H. Guthrie, black legion printer. Fossick's statement was voluntary.

W. VIRGINIA GAME COUNT SHOWS TOO MANY DEER

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Nearly a thousand deer roam the Seneca state forest. The conservation commission thinks that's more than enough and may trap some for removal to areas where they may be hunted.

The count was made by W. O. Anderson, state game surveyor, who enumerated 979 deer in the area, along with 45 wild turkeys, 1,085 grouse, 226 rabbits, 493 gray squirrels, 23 gray foxes, 157 red squirrels and four beaver.

Better Grade of Tobacco Predicted for This Season

HOLIDAY SPIRIT IS IN EVIDENCE

Improved Quality and Drought Curtailment in Carolinas Seen as Price Factor

Huge warehouses, their space increased in a number of cities and towns, today began to receive the crop expected to be of better grade than last year, although the leaf is lighter in weight.

Higher prices, too, are expected. The improved quality and drought curtailment in North and South Carolina are the main factors.

Last year more than 71,000,000 pounds of the leaf was sold at Georgia's auctions. Those familiar with crop conditions this season have predicted the poundage would run about the same or larger.

The 1935 crop brought farmers more than $15,250,000, at an average price of 18.31 cents per pound.

As usual, a holiday spirit prevailed through the belt, especially in the marketing cities.

Increased Prices of Food Supplies Seen From Report

Weather Chief Factor in Prediction by Department of Agriculture of Higher Costs

By SIGRID ARNE
Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Sunday's chicken should cost no more this winter than last, figures from the department of agriculture show. But the food bill seems likely to go up for several other commonly used staples such as milk and potatoes.

The weather had most to do with it, the report says. First, there was the late spring frost which harmed fruit trees, and then the drought hit states which grow feed for the animals which supply meat for the market.

The department's report does not forecast actual prices, but it shows the food divisions in which supplies are likely to be lower or higher than last year. And when supplies are low, prices rise.

The report says: Dairy products supplies are expected to be slightly lower because pastures have been burned. This means farmers have to buy feed for their cows, or else kill them and sell them for meat. In either case it cuts the supply of milk for the dairies.

Poultry and egg supplies should be larger. There were larger spring hatchings this year than last. Even so, the prices may rise if the drought sends feed prices so high that farmers decide not to raise their chickens to maturity.

There will be less fruit. The spring frost harmed the trees. Apples and peach crops are the smallest since 1921. Pears and citrus fruits, though, promise to be plentiful.

There is expected to be less beef, veal and lamb for the next twelve months. But there will be more pig than last year. The drought reduced the amount of feed and the reduced feed will probably curtail meat production.

Lard will be 25 per cent more plentiful this year than last.

Butter prices are high because of the drought, and farmers in the intensive dairy regions are busily producing it to meet the demand. If meat prices go high in proportion, farmers are likely to sell their cows for meat. That would mean less milk, less butter fat, and lower stocks of butter.

There will be plenty of wheat of all kinds except those used for bread and macaroni.

Rice stocks are expected to be larger. Farmers in California and the south planted for this year.

Potato supplies will be markedly less this year. The prices for them the last two years were so low that farmers planted less acres in potatoes this year.

Blooms A Hundred Years

Lufkin, Tex. (AP)—A real Centennial rose bush blooms in the yard of Miss Mary Ellen Harrington of Huntington. The original bush was brought by Miss Harrington's grandmother when she fourth moved to Texas from North Carolina before Texas was a state. The family moved Texas but each time carried a piece of the bush to transplant.

DUD: William Randolph Hearst still remains on the New Dealers' trouble list as a political marplot. Their somewhat camouflaged move to counter-attack failed so flatly that they're stumped on future strategy.

The publisher's personal onslaughts, sheltered certain Rooseveltian so-called methods of reprisal were discussed at a conference of Cabinet members, politicians and publicists, including ex-Hearst's Charlie Michelson. They decided to reply with a brutal review of his 49-year record as a politician and journalist. Then arose the question of who should play the red dragon, Harold Ekes begged for the assignment, but PER ordered that nobody in his official household should be drafted.

Governor Paul McNutt of Indiana was finally chosen as important enough to command attention but not too important to reveal official concern. Democratic GHQ supplied him with supposedly devastating stuff. He even revived Elihu Spota's charge that Hearst editorials had inflamed the mind of McKinley's assassin. But the McNutt blast got almost no space in the rival press—the utter disgust of its behind-the-scenes sponsors.

Foreign Affairs — Arrangement for a practical but not a diplomatic recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, consideration of problems which may be raised by future developments in the Spanish rebellion, expansion of the navy to meet construction of other nations have recently planned, for January 1, 1937, when 1936 disarmament provisions die.

DECISIVE: The President has frequently turned a stony stare on advisers and newspaper correspondents who dared to suggest that the government's handling of the drought problems could be capitalized politically. Nevertheless, he will probably develop his ideas on the campaign's major issue — national planning from Washington — during his tour through the West.

He is expected to cite the drought's ravages as evidence that only a long-time, integrated and federal program for soil conservation can preserve national fertility and prosperity. He will point out that winds and floods which blow or wash away top soil do not exhibit any regard for state lines followed by Supreme Court opinions. He will defend expenditures for distressed farmers and challenge those who complain of high taxes and unbalanced budgets under such circumstances.

FDR will not talk politics in the raw. He will not indulge in partisan oratory. But the elaborate preparations for the trip indicate that the White House regards it as one of the most important, perhaps decisive, ventures in the campaign. It may mean the winning or losing of the West for the Democrats.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance is doing quite well at teaching high school in Ashboro, even though she only took the job to get away from her own home town. She has found a few congenial people, and curiously enough, she has found also a blonde Irish plant in her classes, whose determination to get an education at any cost interests her very much. Mike Hanrahan is his name, and Mike already has told the world what he'll do to anybody who starts snubbing in one of Carol's classes.

Chapter Nine DENIS FORD BEN TYLER said: "I don't know how good this dance'll be. It's what the society editor will call 'in the nature of a farewell to the college contingent.' The contingent may overrun the place completely, and considering that I used to run around with some of their mothers it don't make me feel any younger."

They were to stop by Alice and Tom Harrison's, he said. Most of the crowd would be there. The Harrison house was brilliant with lights and crowded with guests. Alice put down her glass and rushed at Carol with outstretched arms.

"Carol, darling! I'm so glad to see you! I've been meaning to call you all week, but little Alice hasn't been well, and I've been swamped with..." She kissed Carol, deftly avoiding enumeration of the things she had been swamped with, and Carol kissed her in return.

"Well, well, well. Welcome to our fair city!" He radiated hospitality. He'd grown fatter too. When she had been greeted by her acquaintances and introduced to the strangers he steered her towards the portable bar that stood in the dining-room.

"Good Lord, you overwhelm me! I'll take a small quick one, I think: rye and ice water." An unattached man drifted in, and was greeted with shouts of welcome. Carol looked at him in surprise. He didn't look like Ashboro; he looked more like Hollywood. Most of the men wore white linen suits, but the new man wore a linen mess jacket, and he was almost garishly handsome.

They had one more round and then went. They assaulted the club house with noisy gaiety. They were a social unit in themselves, and if the college crowd thought them antique, and the older people thought them fast-whip, to hell with 'em—all. They were self-sufficient.

Ben was waiting when Carol came out of the dressing-room, tapping a foot to the music. His dancing was even more unchanged than Ben himself; it went back to the days of the cotillion and the hesitation. She followed him effortlessly, lost in the joy of dancing—even of dancing with Ben.

Someone touched his shoulder. Denis Ford's voice said: "May I break?" and Denis Ford's arms had carried her off. He danced beautifully, of course. He probably knew all the steps of the tango. She smiled at him vaguely, and let herself drift.

He drew his head away and stared at her curiously. "What are you doing here?" In Ashboro, he meant, intending for a compliment. She said: "Teaching history and French in the high school. What are you doing here?" He grimaced. "Living on the family until I can get a job." And then, in an awed whisper: "History and French. My God!"

That made her mad. "So I won't have to live on the family," she explained sweetly. He should have winced, but he only grinned. "Oh, mine can afford it—for a while."

"What sort of job would you prefer?" "None, I'm—ah—fitted for newspaper work. At least that's what I thought. The last managing ed. didn't agree with me."

On the contrary, he goes out of his way to impress it on you that he's just an average fellow—or even sub-average. And yet you come away feeling that he has a real grasp of economic fundamentals and that he means what he says."

Curiously, although Landon has not offered them any specific encouragement, managed money advocates among the farm leaders are convinced that they have a better chance of getting somewhere with him than with Roosevelt. They get the impression that the Kansan is genuinely open minded on questions of monetary policy, whereas FDR is definitely and permanently opposed to their pet remedy for agricultural ailments.

BOOMERANG: Outstanding financial men sharply criticize certain phases of G. O. P. campaign tactics. They figure that the new generation of party leaders — too eager to make a killing — is consistently overplaying its hand. Two recent incidents are cited as examples of this tendency.

One was the G. O. P. treatment of Senator Carter Glass' speech about Patrick Henry. It was a beautiful anti-New Deal document and everything would have been swell if Republican publicists had simply featured it as such. But instead they tried to gild the lily by drawing inferences that the Virginian was about to walk out on his party in the Al Smith manner.

Another was the story from Republican sources that all living Democratic ex-presidential candidates — Al Smith, John W. Davis and James M. Cox — were opposed to Roosevelt's reelection. This is obviously true of Smith and Davis, but Cox is another story. The latter has been extremely critical of the New Deal in private, but he has never committed himself publicly one way or the other. This attempt to read a man out of his own party without his permission might easily boomerang.

Naturally they sympathize with the idea, but they fear an attendance so feeble in numbers and quality as to make the affair a laughing stock. Not that there is any shortage of responsible Democrats who intend either to vote for Landon or not to vote at all. But it's one thing to make such a decision privately — quite another to put yourself on the spot by standing up to be counted publicly as a bolter from your party.

One astute observer dryly remarks: "Jim Reed should have known better and probably does. It must be that he craved a return to the spotlight so badly he just couldn't resist temptation."

But tomorrow Carol makes a date with Denis.

Greenville, Terry Lyon of Fayetteville, J. M. Broughton of Raleigh and Reg. L. Harris of Roxboro, and several others. But of these, most observers here are inclined to think that Parham has a better chance at being named chairman than any of these others. It is pointed out that for many years Parham has been a power in the inner councils of the party, especially in the past, that he has always rated well with the more conservative wing, to which Mr. Hoyce admittedly belongs, but that he has also always had the good will and confidence of the younger and more liberal element. It is further pointed out that although Parham has been regarded as belonging to the more conservative wing of the party, he was always able to remain on friendly terms with the later Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt and his more or less radical and "machine" hating group now conceded to have been nucleus around which Dr. McDonald built up his following and from which he received some 212,000 votes. Accordingly, it is believed that while Parham is an "original" Hoyce supporter and voted for him in both primaries, that he would be entirely acceptable to most of the Graham backers and to many of the McDonald supporters.

While Ed Flanagan is well known over the state, especially in the east, the fact that he has been nominated for the state senate is believed by some to take him out of the picture, since as a rule an effort is made to select a chairman who is not a candidate for any office himself, although this rule was not adhered to in 1928 when O. Max Gardner selected Odus M. Mull of Shelby as state chairman while Mull was a candidate for the house. There is also some doubt as to whether Flanagan would be willing to do the tremendous amount of work connected with job of state chairman, a large part of which is the solicitation of campaign funds. The belief is that Reg. Harris is out of the running, since he was for Graham in the first primary, and that Broughton does not want the job.

The last three volumes of Mark Sullivan's "Our Times" completes this six volume set of recent American history, written so that it may be easily read and enjoyed.

—Linn—Jane Adams and Adams—Forty Years at Hull House give a very complete study of this remarkable woman.

—Meade—"See These Banners Go"—tells the story of the nine leading Protestant Churches in the United States. Other religious books are "Jornwell—Acres of Diamonds and Kagawa," "Meditations on the Cross."

—Wilson—Charm, Maule—"She Strives to Conquer" and MacGibbon—Manners in business from a group that may be read with pleasure and profit. They are specially recommended for young women.

—Hudson—"Humor of the Old Deep South" and Price—"We Northmen" have been reviewed in recent magazines and newspapers. Coffin—"Strange Holiness" won the Pulitzer prize for poetry in 1936.

Other volumes are:
Young—"Be Kind to Yourself"
Overton—"Home in a Changing Culture"
O'Brien—"Will Rogers"
MacAuley—"Personal Pleasures"
DeKruib—"Why Keep Them Alive"
Hockenbery—"Make Yourself A Job."

Jones—Johnson.
Benson, Aug. 3.—A marriage of interest to friends was that of Miss Hattie Mae Johnson and Carl D. Jones, which was solemnized at 9 o'clock Friday morning, July 24th, at the home of the bride here.

The Rev. J. J. Nichols was the officiating minister.

Prior to and during the ceremony Mrs. Edgar Wall of Raleigh, played a program of wedding music.

The improvised altar, which had been arranged in the living room, was decorated with Southern smilax forming a lovely background for the tall floor baskets holding gladioli and bronze dahlias. Flanking the altar were seven-branched candelabra.

The bride and bridegroom entered alone and stood before the altar, where the vows were taken. The bride was attired in a handsome navy blue chiffon ensemble, navy hat and accessories of pink. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Jones, daughter of Mrs. P. B. Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson, is a member of one of the most prominent families in eastern North Carolina. She was educated at

Mr. Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jones of Greenville and has been identified with the business interests of Benson for the past year, having come here from New York.

4-H Short Course

The 4-H Short Course is past history now. Six girls and three boys represented Pitt County. Expressions from two attendants give you a little of the picture.

"I don't think there could be any place anywhere for such a small price that anyone could enjoy any more than I did the Short Course and I am looking forward to the Short Course again next year.

To the 4-H members who did not attend I am glad to have the chance to say that you have missed one of the greatest trips there ever was, an d to you I say, 'Look forward to going next year.' And to the boys and girls who are not members I say, 'Join the 4-H Club nearest you and put your whole heart's desire in this most enjoyable work.' The State Short Course is a most inexpensive trip although there is nothing I would agree to take for my trip. At this meeting there are boys and girls from all over the state who are very friendly and I can assure you you will make friendships that will be very dear to you. Again I say, 'Be looking forward to going next year.'

Carrie Lee Jefferson,
Fountain Senior Club,
Box 37, Fountain, N. C.

"One of the most interesting parts of the Short Course I think was meeting the boys and girls, agents and leaders.

Dean Schaub pointed out how boys and girls have the ability to decide for themselves whether they will be upright and stand on their own feet, or whether in years to come they will be clinging vines and parasites. I especially enjoyed the demonstrations on the care of the fete put on by a Durham team and the Jones county team which showed us the right and wrong ways to conduct ourselves at the table. I enjoyed the motor tours and the style reviews.

I think every boy and girl enjoyed the Short Course and they seemed to pull together so well. Please don't ever miss an opportunity to attend the Short Course."

Farm and Home Convention
Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker, Miss Inez Allen, Miss Ruberville Vandiford, Mrs. G. H. Pittman, Mrs. J. R. Lewis, Mrs. A. C. Caraway, and Mrs. Jim Allen attended the State Farm and Home Convention in Raleigh the past week. Others came Thursday for the federation meeting. We were especially proud of Mrs. Tucker.

Dr. Graham spoke of the woman as being advanced from chattel property to a great world-wide influence. Today women are needed in community affairs. Their understanding and their sympathy cannot be replaced. The school problem is one which needs their attention. er, president of the Home Demonstration Clubs.

Farm men and women have reason to be proud of their accomplishments during the last few years. In spite of the most serious of depressions, important gains have been made. The program this week gave evidence of this. Farm women are thinking today in terms of a fuller, richer life for all. Like the bit of leaven this force reaches far.

The time is here when women are ashamed to admit they are not affiliated with this progressive group. Every member has a part to play. There are 34,000 home demonstration members and 22,000 4-H girls in North Carolina over a million in the United States. Jesus called us a "household of brothers." In clubs we serve as brothers and sisters.

For instance the James S. McKimmon loan fund, established in 1927, to help worthy girls through college has grown to over $7,500. At the meeting Thursday, pledges of more than $800 were made for 1937.

Mrs. Evelyn Toby, American Stylist, entertained, inspired and informed her audience Friday. In brief she stresses three things that each woman should do in order to make the most of her appearance—"Scrub, brush, stretch."

Dr. Graham spoke of the woman as being advanced from chattel property to a great world-wide influence. Today women are needed in community affairs. Their understanding and their sympathy cannot be replaced. The school problem is one which needs their attention. Statistics show that in Guilford county, one of the richest North Carolina Counties, spends

State Farm Bureau Moves Forward on Three-Way Plan

Organization Gives Attention to Peanut, Truck and Tobacco Growers in North Carolina

The North Carolina Farm Bureau, with J. E. Winslow as its permanent president, is moving forward with its program for the farmers of North Carolina, according to E. F. Arnold, executive secretary, on three fronts at the present time.

Claiming attention are: 1. Truck Growers Program, 2. Peanut Growers Program, 3. Tobacco Growers Program.

The truck growers of the east became interested in the Farm Bureau as an agency through which to work out state and national problems. When committees of truck and potato growers meet with farm bureau officials to find out how the Farm Bureau could help them they were advised to come into the organization, set up a state advisory committee to work with state and national agricultural agencies a satisfactory program, and the Farm Bureau as a statewide organization would go to the bat with them in securing the necessary ruling or legislation, to make their program effective.

Since that time growers of these commodities have gotten together by counties and have set up a state advisory committee that is now working on a program with the state extension service and the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

The State Farm Bureau is likewise working with the Peanut Growers organizing them in county units in order that they may get united solidly behind a program that will protect the price level of their commodity. The Farm Bureau is suggesting a continuance of the diversion payment, however, it is the policy of the Farm Bureau organization to work through the Extension service and get all growers interested in a workable program and then put the full force and power of the State Farm Bureau behind the farmer-grower worked out program. The Tobacco Program is a little further advanced than any of the other programs because these growers have been a little more active and aggressive, the secretary stated, in fighting in an organized way.

They have had an advisory committee appointed through the co-operation of the Extension service. The North Carolina Farm Bureau has arranged through the American Farm Bureau Federation for a conference at Southern state Farm Bureaus at Signal Mountain, Tenn. One purpose of the meeting will be to get these states united on a definite compact legislative program. The State Tobacco Advisory Committees of all tobacco growing states will be present to work with

GREENIES EVEN UP SERIES WITH NEW BERN CLUB

Locals Lose Saturday Tilt 2-1 to Bears; Greenies Outfit New Bern Sunday to Win 8-5; Martins, Aces and Tarboro Victorious Yesterday

New Bern, Aug. 3.—Five homers featured an old-fashion crowd pleaser here yesterday as the New Bern Bears came out on the short end of an 8-5 score.

Conn. Weldon, of the losers, and former Greenie pitcher, clouted a homer in both the third and fifth innings. These, coupled with his seventh inning double, brought Coon out of league occasioned by two errors in the first. Burnette also featured in the fifth for the Bears, while Wagner hit for the circuit in the fifth and ninth respectively for the Greenies.

Bolland and Jacobs were hit hard at New Bern, but both managed to go the distance. Jacobs of the Bears, scored 12 hits, and 8 runs, while Bolland gave up 11 hits, and five runs. Both teams made at least five errors.

New Bern lost a run in the third on Tony baseball. Burnette opened with a single and Weldon sent a mighty drive to left. Thinking the ball might be caught, Burnette came back and held his base. The pitcher sailed over for a homer and Weldon reached first before Burnette left the bag. Umpire Gillespie ruled Burnette out, while the homer counted.

Boys Return Here After Being Eliminated By High Point

T. J. Swain, manager of the Pitt county American Legion baseball team, said today upon his return from High Point, where the local boys were eliminated from the state race, that he had never had any dealings with a "bner crowd of boys."

The local team was defeated by High Point in the first two games of a scheduled three-contest series. The Pitt boys lost the first game Friday afternoon by a 14 to 10 score. They were beaten Saturday 10 to 2.

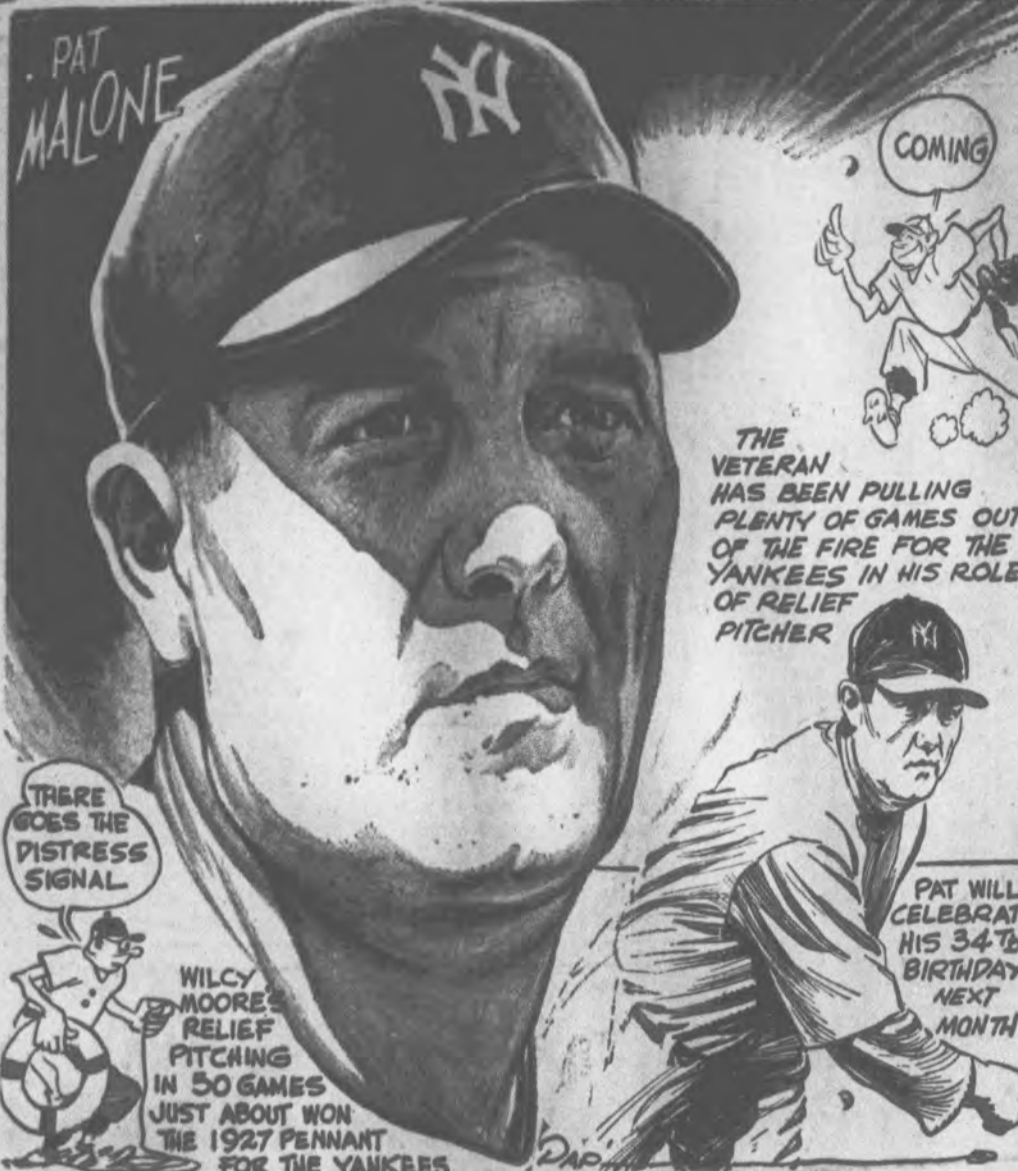

Mr. Swain said one of the games could be credited against the boys because of stage fright. He said the locals had a much better infield than the winners.

He declined to take any credit from the High Point team, however, saying they were just too much in the second game.

The Pitt team went to the semi-finals in the state elimination contest by defeating Weafield and Maize. Wilson was eliminated when it failed to qualify.

The manager had only praise for his boys. He said he took them on several trips and each member of the team conducted himself as a gentleman. He said he thoroughly enjoyed his work with the boys, and added that if the team had had the proper support of the town it probably would have made an even better showing.

The games were moved to High Point when that city agreed to pay all expenses of the local team and it was found that it was almost impossible to get a fair crowd to attend the games here.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — Milo Anderson, 22, who does research on period fashions, was supervising the fitting of a hat on blonde, curly-headed Marie Wilson when we ducked in from the heat of the outer Warner lot.

Bathing suits seemed a cool topic of conversation.

"What the difference," we asked tentatively, "between the swimming outfits of today and those of, say, five years ago?"

Miss Wilson, who plays dumb cuties on the screen, volunteered the answer:

"About a yard. They are sandals now."

Anderson, accustomed to delving into heavy books for data on period costumes—he did that for "Anthony Adverse" among other films—agreed with her without consulting authorities.

Modesty Out and In Again.
"That's right," he said. "Five years ago bathing suits were more modest than they are now. But, by a strange quirk of fashions, they are more modest right now than they were a year ago."

"Today's are more modest because the brassiere-and-trunks style of two-piece suit is going out, and so are those caught together with a ring or strap, leaving a large expanse of tummy bare. These suits of 1936 are one-piece, but they cover you up."

Five years ago, he recalled, low sun-tan backs were just on their way in, and a suit backless below the shoulder blades was daring. Necklines were higher, suits were cut higher under the arms, and the skirt, (all had skirts) not only came down farther but had to cover the panties.

Unforeseen were halter necks, rope shoulder straps, rubber suits, tricky accessories such as oilskin capes and bandana kerchiefs.

White Wash Used.
The most popular swimming style in Hollywood this summer, Anderson has observed, is the one-piece suit of rubberized satin, either in white or pastel colors. Most of these suits have no skirts.

Printed satins, rubberized materials, woolsens and even taffeta are used in others.

Olivia de Havilland always wears a simple white wool suit. Dolores del Rio, Joan Blondell, Carole Lombard and Ruby Keeler are among those who often wear white swimming togs.

And what of the aquatic future? Anderson, for one, thinks bathing suit stylists will have to rely for next year's models on changes in materials, colors and design. As far as abbreviation is concerned, the suits can't go any further.

YOU'RE ANOTHER, DRIVER TAUNTS TRAFFIC OFFICER

Lima, Ohio, July 31.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff R. A. Harshe, doing traffic duty at night, stopped a truck, and reprimanded the driver because his tail light was out.

As he started back to his motorcycle, Harshe heard from the truck driver:

Harshe hastened to the county garage.
