Express Fear European War

CONCERN OVER WAR IN SPAIN

London and Paris Look Anxiously At Revolt in Spain As Insurgent Forces Fighting for Possession of Madrid Appear to Be Approaching Capital

(By Associated Press)
A crisis in the Spanish insurgents' fight for possession of Madrid appeared to be approaching today at least two European capitals experienced new pangs of anxiety over the maintenance of European peace.

London and Paris looked anxiously toward the cauldron of family unrest in Spain—a civil war now in its 18th day—and diplomatic activity to obtain a general European hands-off agreement respecting the insurrection heightened.

From Tangier, North African international zone, issued a report that officers of two German warships anchored off Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, had been received by General Francisco Franco, Generalissimo of the revolution.

Fears in some French quarters of another European war growing out of foreign fingers in the Spanish situation were quickened by the receipt of report on the German warships.

French anxiety over the European situation was "fifty times" by the British foreign office, it was stated authoritatively in London.

The nub of the situation apparently lay in the attitudes of the German and Italian governments. The boom of heavy artillery and steady crack of rifle fire in Guadarrama mountain, north of Madrid, late today betokened another and perhaps critical assault by fascist insurrectionists on the gateway to Spain's capital city.

New waves of government militia recruited from Valencia and other points to meet what was reported to be the long-awaited general rebel offensive on Madrid poured into the mountain passes.

Reserves ready to be moved northward by motor truck if needed were mobilized in Madrid for instant dispatch.

The government said it was pushing forward its positions in the strategic passes which it dominates. A rebel announcement at the seat of the junta government in Burgos today predicted that Madrid would fall shortly under crushing attacks not only from the north but also from Moroccan legions approaching the city from the south.

The government, however, insisted that the bodies of rebel stragglers on the battlefields attested its ability to withstand the assaults.

Bureau Committee To Meet Thursday To Plan Campaign

Executive Body of North Carolina Farm Bureau Called Into Session to Map Legislation

The executive committee of the North Carolina Farm Bureau of Federation will meet here Thursday to launch an active campaign for state legislation designed to aid tobacco growers to get a good price for their product.

"The committee at its first meeting since the permanent organization was perfected, will prepare to put its shoulders to the wheels in the interest of tobacco compact legislation," E. F. Arnold, executive secretary, said.

"But the federation will not devote all of its attention to the tobacco growers, as it also lays plans for general state participation in the 1937 federal soil improvement and conservation program."

The federation now plans, Arnold said, to secure the services of one or more lawyers in drafting proposed compact legislation with the counsel probably conferring with members of the state delegation in congress.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., on Aug. 24, Arnold said, Southern Farm Bureau Federation associations will confer and representatives from tobacco states not having federations will attend. "We hope to have fairly definite proposed legislation on tobacco ready for consideration then," Arnold said.

SEEK POSSIBLE TREND FROM VOTE IN STATES

Washington, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Political leaders watched for any possible hints of national sentiment today as voters of three states cast their ballots in primaries.

The primaries, part of a series of 11 which will be held this month, were in Missouri, Kansas and Virginia.

The Missouri voting involved something of a test of strength between Thomas S. Pendergast, Democratic organization of Kansas City and supporters of William Hirth, Columbia farm leader.

In Kansas, the home state of Governor Alf M. Landon, leaders of both parties strove to get out a big vote for psychological purposes. Candidates for governor, senator, representatives and other posts were being nominated, but in many cases there were no contests.

Testimony Is Completed Against Industrial Group

Says Lewis Group Used Threats Get Unionists In Fold

Washington, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council today considered what action—if any—to take against John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his colleagues charged with "insurrection" against the organization.

Testimony was completed in mid-afternoon against the members of the committee for industrial organization working for industrial unions as opposites craft organizations favored by other members of the federation.

John P. Frey, Federation prosecutor, wound up the proceeding against the absent defendants with a plea that the council disregard these proposals.

Observers thought one of three courses would be followed:

1. Suspension of any definite action and reference of the whole issue to the Tampa convention of the Federation next month.
2. No action at all.
3. An assertion that Lewis defied the Federation's executive council in organizing in the radio industries in organizing in the radio industries was made by E. D. Vierz, assistant president of the electrical workers. Vierz was the first witness called against Lewis.

Number Sufferers With Tuberculosis Are Receiving Aid

Report On Seal Sale Fund Issued Today by Mrs. K. B. Pace, Treasurer, and Health Office

A report on the Pitt County Tuberculosis Seal sale fund, issued today by Mrs. K. B. Pace, treasurer, through the health office, revealed that $40.04 of the money was spent during June and July in aiding a number of sufferers in the county.

Three dollars was spent in providing an x-ray for a white resident of Ayden township, and a similar amount was expended in providing an x-ray for a colored resident in Pountain township. Four dollars was spent in purchasing milk for a white patient in Chic-d townships, and $3 for a colored patient in Carolina township. Sputum cups were purchased at a cost of $4.

Five white children in Ayden township were provided at a total cost of $15; milk for colored patients in Ayden township cost $1.01; and milk for two white patients in Ayden township cost $7.

In connection with the report, N. Thomas Ennett, health officer, issued the following statement:

"It is of interest that the seven dollar milk item, Ayden township is for milk being furnished to a mother and a 12-year-old daughter, both of whom have recently returned from the State Sanatorium. It is hoped that this extra nourishment will lend this mother and daughter to maintain the improvement received at the sanatorium."

"It has not been possible to meet all of the demands made upon the Tuberculosis Seal Sale, but I feel that the fund has been invaluable in certain control measures which could not have been put into effect without this fund."

"It is hoped that the fund will hold out until the next Seal Sale which begins, annually, in November."

Local People Visit Dionne Quintuplets

While on a trip to New York and Niagara Falls Mr. and Mrs. Tyson P. Bro. Miss Frances Harvey, Miss Helen Eldridge, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Stokes of Ayden, traveled up into Northern Canada and paid a visit to the world-famed Dionne quintuplets. It is believed they are the first people from Greenville to have seen the famous babies.

Virginia, traditionally Democratic, had only two congressional contests for Democratic nomination to the national house of representatives. Senator Carter Glass was not involved in the primaries, having already been declared his party's nominee for senator.

A hum of activities in the Roosevelt and Landon camps heralded the imminent beginnings of the more intensive stage of the national campaigns.

After conferring with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, Democratic national committeemen indicated he had signaled full steam ahead.

"I reported that we are prepared to conduct an aggressive campaign from now until November," said Chairman James A. Farley. "We are not losing any time. We are ready to go."

PITT TAX RATE IS DECREASED

Commissioners Order Levy Lowered From 90 to 85 Cents

A decrease of five cents on the $100 valuation in the county tax rate was announced today by J. H. Coward, auditor, following a meeting of the Board of Commissioners yesterday, at which time the tentative budget was adopted.

The rate was set at 85 cents, as compared with 90 cents for the 1935-36 year.

The budget calls for a small increase in expenditures, but profits derived from the sale of liquor will be used in making up the increase and in providing for the decrease in rate.

The 85 cents is divided as follows: General fund, eight cents; county home, two and one-half cents; relief, seven cents; health, three and one-half cents; school maintenance, seven cents; and debt service, fifty-seven cents.

A decrease was ordered for the general fund to eight cents for this year. An increase of one cent was ordered for the county home, this being necessitated because the increased exemption brought about a sharp drop in money derived from poll taxes. The law states that one-fourth of the poll tax is to be used for the poor.

The budget, as finally adopted by the board yesterday, calls for a total expenditure of $316,270 during the 1936-37 fiscal year, as compared with $309,686 during the past similar period.

Funeral Held For James Cary Spain At Home in Pitt

Belvoir Township Man Succumbs to Second Stroke of Paralysis Suffered Last Thursday

Funeral services for James Cary Spain, 41, who died at his home in Belvoir township Monday, were conducted from the home at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon by Rev. J. C. Williams of Greenville. Burial followed in the family cemetery.

Mr. Spain suffered a stroke of paralysis 17 months ago and has been an invalid since. Death followed a second stroke suffered last Thursday.

Mr. Spain was reared on the same plantation on which he died. He was a member of Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist church and was active in the work of the denomination as long as his health permitted.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Annie Briley of this county; one daughter, Miss Lillie L. Spain; two brothers, Roosevelt and Dolphus Spain; one half-brother, J. A. Spain, all of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Johnnie May Spain and Mrs. John Elks of the Black Jack community; and one half-sister, Sarah Elizabeth Spain of the home place.

Little Haddock Child Is Claimed By Death

Little James Allen Haddock, nine months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Haddock of Winterville Route No. 1, died at 4 o'clock this morning in the local hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, with Rev. Walter Nobles in charge. Burial will follow in the family cemetery near the home.

Besides his parents, the little boy is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Haddock, all of Pitt county, and a great-grandmother Mrs. J. A. Stokes of Greene county.

Many Fail List Auto For Taxes

An additional $50,000 or $60,000 in property valuation is being added to the county's books as a result of checks made on automobiles in the city which were not listed and persons who are delinquent in their poll taxes.

J. H. Coward, auditor, said today the list books were checked against books kept by cities on automobile licenses issued and 250 vehicles were found to have been granted city licenses which were not on the county's books. He called attention to the law which provides a penalty of 10 per cent, or a minimum of $2, for failure to list property. In addition, a person failing to list his property is guilty of a misdemeanor.

BOY FINDS 'FORTUNE' IN TRASH

Exploring a trash dump as boys sometimes do, Abraham Mills, 13-year-old negro of Louisville, Ky., found $450. He turned it over to his mother who used part of the "fortune" to buy him the bicycle he sits upon so proudly. The rest was spent in buying the new horse for the family, paying up all back-grocery bills and making a payment on a home. (Associated Press Photo)

DENY DRIVERS CUSTODY CASE AUTO PERMITS TAKES RECESS

Total of 99 Licenses Revoked So Far in August

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 4.—The driving permits of 47 automobile drivers were revoked today by the highway safety division of the State Department of Revenue, bringing to 99 the number of drivers' licenses revoked from August 1 through today. A total of 647 drivers' licenses were revoked during July, most of them for driving while drunk. The total number of driving permits which have been revoked to date for all causes is 4,305, the records of the highway safety division show.

Of the 47 licenses revoked today, 44 were for driving while drunk, one for manslaughter, one for reckless and hit-and-run driving and one for incompetence. The license of Reid Craven of Concord for reckless and hit-and-run driving and of Boice Ray Costin of Currie for manslaughter. All of the other 44 lost their licenses either because of convictions for drunken driving or for driving drunk and recklessly.

Charlotte, a supposedly "dry" city in a supposedly "dry" county had the largest number of revocations on the list, with six Durham. (Continued on page three)

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER
READY: Reestablishment of an American naval force in European waters after a seven-year absence awaits only President Roosevelt's approval. Sendoffs at the Navy Department have recommended the move, but the "go" signal waits upon a conference between the Chief Executive and Secretary Hull.

President Roosevelt is understood to favor the navy's scheme. The Spanish revolt demonstrated the need for furnishing protection for citizens almost overnight. The same emergency may arise in other countries, notably France, in view of Europe's troubled state. For an American to lose his life in a communist uprising or continental strife might upset the administration by precipitating a wave of nationalistic emotion.

Admiral Arthur Fairchild, who recently headed the Scouting Division of the Pacific fleet, has been selected for commander of the European squadron. His ship, the new cruiser Astoria, is now at the New York navy yard—ready to sail on telegraphic notice. Under present plans a force of destroyers would accompany him, bringing our present naval strength off the continent to three cruisers and the smaller vessels.

CHANCE: Formal assignment of American warships to European and Mediterranean spheres marks a historic break with the policy of Herbert Hoover. He shifted the entire fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 1929 on the eve of the 1930 disarmament parity at London.

Mr. Hoover thought that the departure of our battleships from the continental coastline would be a visible demonstration of our desire for peace. Another and more compelling reason was Japan's aggressive attitude toward China and Manchuria, which provoked talk of possible conflict in the Pacific.

There were other factors, including finer facilities and harbors on the western coast, proximity to all supplies and the need to train the fleet for battle in this section of the world.

Denies Politics Linked To Trip

Hyde Park, Aug. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today his forthcoming inspection trip through some of the drought-stricken states would not be political.

He made this statement in answer to a question and then followed the usual procedure of letting newsmen quote him thus:

"It is a great dis-service to the proper administration of my government to link up human misery with partisan politics."

He discussed thought and held what he called his usual monthly conference of finances with a group of officials from Washington.

STATE PRISON HOLDS RECORD

Continues to Show Decrease in Number of Escapes

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 4.—The prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission is continuing to maintain its record for a steady decrease in the number of escapes and for an increase in recaptures, figures obtained today from Acting Director Oscar T. Pitts of the division, indicate. During July there were only 32 escapes, with 34 recaptures, while in July, 1935, there were 87 escapes and only 66 recaptures, the figures show, despite the fact that the prison population is now larger than ever before and almost 1,000 greater than a year ago. The present prison population is in excess of 9,000 prisoners.

For the seven months of 1936 ending July 31, there have been 163 escapes from the prison system and 195 recaptures, which means that 32 more prisoners have been recaptured than have escaped. Some of these prisoners, of course, are those which escaped in previous months or even previous years. During the corresponding seven months in 1935, from January 1 through July 31, there were 397 escapes and only 322 recaptures, which means that there were 75 fewer captures than escapes. These figures also show that there have been 234 fewer escapes so far this year than during the same period in 1935, in spite of a much larger prison population.

Anderson sought by his line of questioning to draw from Miss Astor that she consented to allow Dr. Thorpe to obtain a divorce and custody of Marilyn because of her love for Kaufman.

"Isn't it a fact," Anderson asked "that the reason you let the divorce go by default was because you were in love with a man by the name of George Kaufman?"

Miss Astor angrily retorted: "It is not a fact."

Sensational proceedings when the trial is resumed was promised by one of Dr. Thorpe's attorneys, A. P. M. Narlian.

"We are going to have to let the whole thing come out now," Narlian declared. "We'd hoped to pass over some parts of it, but we can't. Offerings were unusually heavy. Several of the 15 South Georgia market cities reported warehouse floors filled to overflowing and other buildings pressed into service to handle the receipts."

Tifton which led the state last year reported more trash tobacco was offered this year than on opening day in 1935. It brought five cents a pound. One row of 16 piles of various grades brought from five to 29 cents.

Hahira reported its first sale at 34 cents, demand brisk and offerings heavy.

The first row on the Moultrie market brought an average of 25.85 cents for 1,316 pounds.

A check of the first two rows sold at Valdosta indicated an average opening break of 27 cents.

Waycross reported one sale at 34 cents a pound.

On the Douglas market one grower sold 210 pounds for an average of 32 cents.

Averages reported from other towns on early sales included: Metter, 28 cents; Bly, 28 cents; Vidalia, 30 to 40 Haddock's 23.

Higher Grades in Evidence This Year Than Last Season

AVERAGE SEEMS TO BE ABOUT $25

First Week's Sales in 1935 for State As a Whole Brought Average of $22.23

Associated Press dispatches and telegraphic reports received direct from local tobaccoists on the Georgia markets told of higher prices as the leaf mart opened in that state today.

The average of the first few rows ranged about $25 per hundredweight on the various markets, although it was higher in some places and lower in others.

Much good tobacco was in evidence and farmers appeared satisfied with the prices, the reports indicated.

The best tobacco brought up to $30 a hundred pounds on several markets.

This average appeared to be above that for the first week over Georgia last year, when the official figures were $22.23 per hundredweight.

Following are a number of telegrams received by The Reflector today:

Statesboro, Ga.—Tobacco averaging about $28. Better grades bringing up to $40.

B. V. Boyd.

Pelham, Ga.—Average $25 today. All grades selling well.

J. J. Powell.

Valdosta, Ga.—Market average $25 per hundred. Volume large. Quality good.

H. G. Jett.

Metter, Ga.—C. H. McGowan warehouse has around 300,000 pounds of tobacco. Prices higher than last year. Farmers satisfied. Quality poor. Unofficial average for first four rows $11 per hundred. Selling from two cents to 40 cents per pound.

C. H. McGowan.

Metter, Ga.—Sale average $15 to $20. Farmers well pleased on all but very low grades. Large percent of offerings now sorted, low grades. Domestic companies buying freely.

W. Z. Norton.

Tifton, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Auction of Georgia's 1936 tobacco crop began today and growers studying opening prices predicted the leaf would bring more than the $11.582,912 paid for the 11,236,352 pound yield in 1935.

Offerings varied from trash grades at five cents a pound to high grades which commanded 33 cents.

Fair grades sought in the neighborhood of 30 cents a pound.

Offerings were unusually heavy. Several of the 15 South Georgia market cities reported warehouse floors filled to overflowing and other buildings pressed into service to handle the receipts.

between FDR's and Mr. Hoover's foreign policies. Mr. Roosevelt sees little hope of European nations entering into a disarmament pact, and therefore no sense in exiling our warships to other waters. He realizes that the U. S. is not willing to fight Japan to prevent her expansion of the mainland, and yet no reason for irritating Tokyo by a demonstration of naval power in the Pacific. So Admiral Fairchild will probably get his sailing orders soon.

PROBLEM: Washington has never quite figured out why Frances Perkins has failed to live up to glowing advance notices. But a recent incident explains why her handling of the Labor Department has provoked a strong undercurrent of criticism.

The position of Second Assistant Secretary of Labor has been vacant for some time, and an accumulation of problems necessitated that it be filled fairly promptly. Industrial disputes and strife within labor's ranks have thrown an unusually heavy burden on her aides. But when President Roosevelt asked the Secretary to recommend a candidate, she sent him the name of a woman - Mary La Dame. Labor's spokesmen grumbled against "more petticoat government."

When FDR failed to appoint Miss Perkins' favorite, the latter was immediately given the job of executive assistant. So the delay in filling the post continues. What makes it embarrassing for FDR is that the Lewis - Green clash reduces the list of eligibles. The President doesn't want to anger either group by choosing a person non grata to the A. F. of L. or Mine Workers. Some think he could solve the problem most easily by naming a woman!

NEWS: The government's economic fact-finders admit privately that current cost of living statistics give a jaded picture of how the money goes and where. They're trying to set up a new system to remedy the defect, but they don't know where to start.

For a decade all cost of living tables have been figured on 1923-1925 prices as a base. But that did not allow for diversion of family funds into many new fields - for a shift in spending which affected price levels by reducing demand for such old-fashioned reliables as food, shelter, clothing, education. The 1923-1925 standard makes no allowance for the billions spent on automobiles, gasoline, radios, beauty shops, pinball games, etc. They had not then reached the proportions where they loom larger than bread-and-butter items for the household.

The experts are making studies to find a more accurate base. The most likely seems to be the 1934-1935 years, although the tag end of history's worst depression may not be the proper period to select as standard. But they've got to start somewhere if we're going to know how much worse - or better - off we need to be.

New York By JAMES McMULLIN DILEMMA: Governor Landon has a major diplomatic problem on his hands in defining his attitude on social security.

For instance, Winthrop Aldrich of the Chase Bank - who maintains close contact with the G. O. P. candidate through Benjamin Anderson, the bank's economist - has clearly specified ideas about the limitations that should be placed on a social security program. He holds that federal old age pensions should be strictly confined to the needy aged. As to unemployment insurance, he is said to feel that it should be handled strictly as a state problem, with employers and employees chipping in 50-50 for the premiums instead of saddling the whole thing on employers as per the present law. The federal government should not become involved in any way. A number of Mr. Landon's conservative advisers are in general accord with these principles.

But others among the Kansan's advisers are horrified at the prospect of a 50-50 split in such a program and are urging him strongly to interpret social security in more liberal terms. Mr. Landon has not yet indicated which viewpoint he will adopt. His speech in Pennsylvania later this month may furnish his answer to the dilemma.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance finds teaching school in Ashboro not quite so bad as she had expected. There is Mike Havigins, for example, who is a handsome youth and devoted to her. And outside the school there are casual friends - plus a young and rather Hollywood-looking chap called Denis Ford. Carol and Denis began their acquaintance at a dance. They had a fight, made up, and now are spending "kiddings" each other. Between them there is already a bond, tenuous, but actual.

Chapter 10 SURRENDER

THE mask of mockery slipped a little, and Denis saw a corner of Carol's face behind it. "I think there's too much - and not enough. I think we'd better let well enough alone. Skip it entirely." "We'd better, but we won't." He knew it was futile to pretend with her. There was no use kidding themselves about what came afterwards. "Unless," he experimented, "you're afraid to take the cash and let the credit go?"

Her eyes were narrow. "How a man does love to pass the buck. . . . He frowned impatiently. "This is damn foolishness - all this footwork and sparring. Come on, Carol." But she shook her head. "I'm a public servant, Denis, Caesar's wife. We might sit on the terrace and talk Einstein, but it would add up to the same thing."

"Tell me about this man you've got a date with." "Oh, all right. Tomorrow night, then? Make up your mind, sweet; then I'll head this way with a predatory gleam in his eye." She gave it up. "Yes." He didn't dance with her again, and they both knew why.

SATURDAY afternoon in Ashboro. The streets and sidewalks were cluttered, crawling streams of humanity. Farmers in wagons and small cars, with provisions and children spilling over the edges of their vehicles, blocking the way for cars that squawked profanely behind them. The farmers' lives were adjusted to a different tempo, and they heard the impatient squawking with a superb indifference.

Mill girls and women trod the sidewalks. The older women were stamped unmistakably by their gait and their faces; they moved deliberately, pushing their heads and their stomachs before them, and their faces held neither happiness nor pain, hope nor despair. Nothing, Carol thought, but emptiness.

Only the Negroes seemed alive, their dark faces slashed with wide, white grins. They alone were alive, and with so little reason.

Carol said despairingly: "If I'd known it would be this bad I think I'd have stayed at home." Ellen laughed. "Every town in America must be this way on Saturday. Don't pretend you never knew that."

"I don't. But this seems worse than Meredith, probably because we've only got three cotton mills." "Well, it's very insinuating. The correct remark just here is: 'I love to watch crowds.'"

She shivered. "I do. Or at least I think I do. Only it's pretty wearing, like being pounded by waves. You feel all their poverty and misery heaving against you so vividly." "Probably more vividly than they do - poor devils, because you've got something else to compare it with." Ellen turned into the drug store.

"Come on, and I'll buy you an orangeade to cheer you up." When the drinks appeared Ellen said cheerfully: "Tell me about this man you've got a date with tonight." Carol stepped her drink and forced her mind to think about Ellen's question: to put Denis Ford into words. "Well, he looks like a composite of Valentino and George Raft and all the other Big Menaces of Hollywood. He even wears a mess jacket." "I don't see anything wrong so far," Ellen said stoutly. "There isn't. It's just perfect." "What does he do?"

"When he does anything he's a reporter. Just now he's at Laura. And of course I suppose he writes." "What makes you suppose that?" "Did you ever see a newspaper man that didn't?"

"I never saw but one," Ellen admitted, "and I don't know whether he did or not. He didn't say." "I know. He did."

LEGAL fees are based on such intangible values anyhow that it is virtually impossible for a critic to prove that a given bill wasn't actually for services rendered rather than a bit of polite camouflage.

RELATED: Farm cooperative organizations are disdainful of the studies of European cooperatives now being conducted by a commission named President Roosevelt. They claim that FDR is interested only in consumer co-operatives - which put the screws on all producers - and not at all in producer co-operatives, which have developed in the United States for the benefit of dairy farmers, fruit farmers, etc.

In support of their skeptical attitude they cite the fact that the commission - as originally announced by the President - did not include a single representative of American agricultural cooperatives. Then the White House, evidently realizing that farm sentiment wouldn't approve the omission, because a few days later Robin Hood - secretary of the National Cooperative Council - was added to the list. This belated gesture has failed to carry conviction.

PROFITABLE: As we have noted before, the question of who's to be the nominee for lieutenant governor of New York is causing Democratic leaders plenty of concern. The party's choice for this minor office may influence a lot of votes in the state which is the biggest electoral prize of all.

It's pretty well settled that incumbent William Bray - never a strong New Dealer - is to be gracefully shelved. A way has been found to do this without irritating Mr. Bray or his friends. He wants to be counsel to the state Public Service Commission - a better paid post than the one he has now and carrying fully as much patronage - and indications are that he will get his wish. The job has the added advantage of being appointive - hence immune from the vagaries of elections.

The big remaining problem is to find the strongest possible replacement politically. Treasury counsel Bob Jackson - original choice of New Deal GHQ - is out of the picture. He is slated for a high federal post if Roosevelt is reelected. It looks now as if Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., will draw the lucky number - with the understanding that he is to be groomed as Lehman's "crown prince." Bennett's followers were all primed to push him for the governorship when Lehman announced his retirement and were quite annoyed when the latter changed his mind. There are enough of them to justify prophitiation.

Number Of Prisoners Under Hospital Care Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 4. - More than half of the 779 prisoners now in Central Prison here are in the prison hospital for treatment or awaiting treatment, the daily medical reports from the prison show. Out of a total prison population on July 30 of 779 prisoners, 433 were in the prison hospital and only 346 were not hospitalized, the report shows. Of the 433 in the prison hospital, 279 were men and 154 women.

The reason for this large number in the prison hospital, is that the hospital in the Central Prison is now the general hospital for the entire state prison system with its more than 9,000 prisoners, it was pointed out by Dr. G. S. Coleman, medical director of the prison division. Accordingly, 94 of the 279 male prisoners in the hospital at the present time are so-called "highway prisoners" from highway prison camps serving sentences for misdemeanors or, the balance being felons under sentence for more serious offenses.

Of the 279 men prisoners in the prison hospital on July 30, 51 were being treated for syphilis, 12 for gonorrhoea, 62 for miscellaneous treatment, 7 were awaiting operations, two were totally disabled while 75 were recuperating from operations or injuries. Of the 154 women prisoners in the prison hospital, 33 were being treated for syphilis, six for gonorrhoea and the remainder for other miscellaneous ailments.

Of the 346 prisoners in the Central Prison not under treatment in the hospital, 117 are employed in the various divisions of the prison, of which 103 are Grade A Prisoners or "trusties". Sixteen of these prisoners are in safe-keeping cells, 12 in solitary confinement and 16 are highway prisoners being kept temporarily in Central Prison. Thirty-five of these non-hospitalized prisoners are serving life sentences and 56 are new prisoners awaiting classification.

Dr. Meadows Speaks To Students President L. R. Meadows talked to the College students in chapel today on the topic, "Fragments."

Dr. Meadows first read the passage from the New Testament about the feeling of the multitude and the baskets of fragments collected afterwards.

In his short talk he then pointed out how our lives may be handicapped if we fail to collect the fragments of time which he suggested, in the long run make all the time we have. Fragments of material things, if collected, enable us to pay for many things that seem out of reach. Application of character traits in little everyday situations—courtesy in small things, for example—he showed might also be a sort of collection of the fragments.

He ended with the appeal to his listeners not to waste the fragments that might mean so much to them.

His death occurred in Lancaster, Mo., and he was buried there yesterday.

Miss Nulton and her mother will probably be in Lancaster for the next week or so, at least.

Rev. and Mrs. Lillycrop Here. Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Lillycrop and children, little Miss Betty and Master Billy Lillycrop, of Sarasota, Florida, arrived yesterday to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Harding and Miss Mary Harding.

Mr. Lillycrop is a former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

"The White Hussars." The White Hussars, musical troupe, played to a well-filled auditorium in their program of solos and ensemble numbers at the college last night.

They opened and closed the evening's entertainment with ensemble work, but scattered throughout the hour were solos, duets, and trios with many different combinations of instruments.

Following the opening number was a saxophone solo, "Enchantment," and a trombone, trumpet and saxophone trio in "When You Come To The End of a Perfect Day."

Perhaps the favorites of the audience in the first half of the program were Mr. Pietrie's own trumpet solo, "The Carnival of Venice," Mr. Ritsenthaler's "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" and "Golden Slippers" on the bassoon; and a trombone solo by Mr. Phillips.

The second part was introduced by the "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman" and closed with "Your Land and My Land," both played by the group.

There also were some entertaining novelties. In one, with the four winds and the piano going at once, the trombone was playing "In a Little Spanish Town," the cornet playing "Love's Old Sweet Song," the sax played "Saxophobia," and the trumpet "Where, Oh Where, Is My Little Dog Gone?" In another, one performer played an E-flat saxophone and a B-flat clarinet at the same time; the two performers who were playing trumpets stood side by side, with each man playing on his own instrument and doing the fingering on his neighbors; and the fourth man played his trombone and picked out an accompaniment on the piano.

It was interesting was Mr. Phillips and Mr. Ritsenthaler's trombone duet, in which each man worked the slide on the other's instrument while blowing his own.

The four men—Herbert Petrie, director, Homer Phillips, Ben Ritsenthaler, and Richard Anos—all musicians of wide training and experience, made use at various times of ten or twelve different instruments.

Their costumes were striking; white uniforms, white capes, effectively used, and high white boots with gold tassels. The lighting also was very effective, especially when so handled as to cast red shadows on the folds of the white capes.

The competent accompanist, Miss Blanche Elaine Frye, also sang several pleasing selections, among them an aria from "La Boheme."

Many Greenville friends heard the program.

Something went wrong with the rigging of Oswald's tiny chute at an air circus here the other day, and it proved so much excess baggage when he dropped earthward from a ship piloted by Jim Clark of Guthrie.

The goose descended under his own power, with the unopened parachute trailing out behind.

Accordingly, if a Republican administration should come into power and the Republicans have a majority in both houses of Congress, it would be possible for Congress to pass a law abolishing the office of Comptroller General, in spite of the 15 year term, especially if the Comptroller happened to be a Democrat.

MARTINS GAIN ON IDLE LOCALS

Williamston Defeats Snow Hill; Tarboro, Kinston Win

The Williamston Martins gained another game on the idle locals yesterday, by defeating Snow Hill 7-3.

Bunn Hearne's Tarboro Bunnies defeated the Ayden Aces 4-2 yesterday when Charlie Oadd homered in the ninth to give Tarboro the margin of victory. Kinston outslugged the whole loop yesterday, collecting 10 runs to whip Goldsboro 10-3. Greenville and New were not scheduled to play.

The locals have been in a slump of late, but are showing signs of waking out of it. Several new additions to the local nine were made recently. A pitcher named Shuman hurled a shut-out victory over Tarboro in his first start. Henry House, former Williamston outfielder, has replaced Al Parker, who has returned to Duke for football practice. Sanford has been laid up with a "busted" finger, and Walter Latham has been filling in at first base. Outside of these changes, the Orioles have the same team.

The locals have an engagement this afternoon at Kinston with the Eagles and are determined to start winning from now on. This writer feels with a few breaks the Orioles will soon regain the top rung in Coastal Plain League standings. The boys have been playing in hard luck at times, but have managed to stay in second place despite this handicap.

The locals play Kinston here on Wednesday; Ayden here Friday and Kinston again Sunday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Traders who stepped into the stock market today to bid up shares after an early moderate drop lacked the energy to bid aggressively.
While a handful of the initial losses were cancelled in full or in part, the list had a ragged look as rallying issues failed to whet general buying enthusiasm.
The late tone was steady. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

EXCUSE ME— I'M GOING AMERICAN AND GOING PLACES!

JOIN THE "AMERICAN" PARTY

JOHN P. CITIZEN, like a million and more others, belongs to the "American" Party. When the orator brought up the subject, John P. just had to get in his car, go "American" and go places! And because he belongs to the "American" Party—with its candidate as Amoco-Gas and Orange American Gas—he goes places for less. ★★ Amoco-Gas—the original candidate in the special motor fuel field—holds more official A.A.A. world's records than any other gas or motor fuel. It is powerful—smooth—knockless—and costs less per mile. Orange American Gas heads the "regular" ticket. Its 100% clean-burning, pure petroleum base and "American's" new refining methods are getting new action for motorists everywhere.
