New Success Claimed By Spanish Government In Country's Civil War

Red Cross Officials Estimate 35,000 Wounded PARIS EXTENDS NEUTRAL PACT French Government's Proposed Neutrality Agreement Offered Other Countries

(By Associated Press) Reports of fresh successes by liberal armies punctuated Spain's civil war today as Red Cross officials estimated 35,000 persons had been killed in the most savage political-military upheaval in Spanish history.

Inspired by military successes in the Guadarrama mountains, the government insisted it had inflicted a decisive defeat on a rebel column near Avila.

The Red Cross estimated that those wounded in the Spanish fratricidal fighting exceeded 100,000. In Paris the French government's proposed three-power non-intervention pact was offered to other European nations by suggestion of Great Britain, Italy and Germany.

Demand Continues Throughout State For New Licenses

Request For State Drivers' Permits Goes On Unabated With Result 709,400 Already Issued

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—The demand for driving licenses continues unabated with the result that 709,400 licenses had been issued through July 31, of which 12,056 were issued during July, Director Arthur Pulk of the highway safety division pointed out today in announcing the figures for July.

A total of 547 drivers' licenses were revoked by the division during July, most of them because the holders had been convicted of drunken driving or of equally serious offenses for which licenses are automatically revocable. This brings the total number of driving permits revoked up to August 1 to 4,290. In addition to the licenses revoked, the division has suspended the licenses of 358 drivers, of which 77 were suspended in July.

The division has also refused to issue driving licenses to 890 drivers who have applied for permits, of which 88 were refused in July. The division has authority to refuse to issue licenses to any persons they regard as being incompetent to operate an automobile. Many of those to whom licenses were refused were persons having past records for drunken driving, reckless driving or who were otherwise unfit to drive cars.

Day Watering of Plants 'OK' Ames, Iowa, (AP)—Night watering of plants is more economical, because less moisture evaporates, but day watering is not harmful, says Prof. E. C. Volz of Iowa State college. Of 100 plants watered every day for two weeks, only the plants that were watered at night were harmed, he reported.

BRITAIN BACKS FRENCH STAND

Encouraged, France to Offer Pact to Other Nations

Paris, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Encouraged by an affirmative reply from Great Britain adhering in principle to the French stand France's socialist government decided today to communicate its appeal for non-intervention in Spain to other European powers immediately to thwart any incident which might provoke a "general conflagration."

Definite Increase In Number Arrests For Driving Drunk

Better Enforcement of Law Believed by Captain Farmer to Be Responsible for Trend

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—The very definite increase in convictions for drunken driving, as shown in the number of drivers licenses being revoked, does not mean that there is any great increase in the number of drinking drivers, but may be due just to better enforcement of the law by the police generally and by the highway patrol, both Ronald Hocutt, assistant director of the highway safety division, and Captain Charles D. Farmer of the highway patrol, said today.

Both agreed, however, that holiday and vacation drinking and the ease with which it is possible to buy liquor in "dry" as well as in "wet" counties and towns, was undoubtedly a factor. A total of 86 drivers' licenses were revoked today, bringing the total so far for the first five days in August to 185, most of which were revoked following convictions for drunken driving. Hocutt pointed out. During July 547 drivers' licenses were revoked, most of them for drunken driving.

"We feel sure, however, that this increase in the number of convictions for drunken driving means that the officers are enforcing the law better and the courts handing out more convictions, rather than any very great increase in the amount of drinking on the part of drivers," Hocutt said. "It is true, of course, that this is vacation time and there is always an increase in the amount of drinking done then, with a corresponding increase in the number of arrests and convictions for drunken driving. But we are confident that a large part of the increase is due to better law enforcement by the police and the courts."

Prohibition and the bad liquor sold in so-called "dry" counties are to blame for some of the increase in drunken driving, Capt. Farmer maintains. "On the whole, liquor is easier to buy in the "dry" counties where prohibition is supposed to prevail, than in the counties that have liquor stores," Farmer said. "Most of this liquor is sold in 'joints' outside of towns and sold at night. This causes more drunken driving."

WARNS COUNTY OF NEW FEVER

Two Cases of Serious Disease Reported in Pitt

Two cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever, considered "a very serious disease," were reported in the county today by Dr. N. Thomas E. Nett, health officer. Notices went out to physicians in the county today informing them of the two cases of the disease, both in Fountain township, and also of the case of infantile paralysis which was reported yesterday.

The health officer said that Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a comparatively new disease in North Carolina, the first cases appearing in 1933, but added the malady has been known in the Rocky Mountain regions since 1873. Declaring he felt it desirable to inform the public of a few facts regarding the disease, he issued the following statement:

"It is transmitted by the tick, and therefore most frequent in the late summer and early fall, the 'tick season.' Small, wild rodents, such as squirrels, chipmunks, etc., constitute the basic animal reservoir; this is where the tick gets its infection. In addition to human beings getting the tick on them by going into the woods, the tick may be brought to the home by the house dog, and this is a common way for the disease to be transmitted. The incubation period, the time which it takes the disease to develop, following the tick bite, is usually two to eight days. The chief symptoms are fever, intense headache, joint pains and a rash. This rash appears as a rule on the 5th or 6th day of illness and is usually first noticed on the wrists or ankles and may extend over the entire body, including the palms and soles. It is not contagious, that is, one person cannot give it to another person."

"Persons whose business or pleasure carries them into the woods during the tick season should have their clothing and body inspected for ticks at least twice a day. Dogs that run in the woods should be inspected regularly for ticks. Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a serious disease. The mortality in the Eastern section of the United States is around 20 per cent, while in the Rocky Mountain regions, the mortality runs as high as 70 per cent. It is important that you consult your physician on the first appearance of symptoms. Experts can tell crystal beads from glass beads by pressing them to their lips. The crystal beads feel colder."

Sentence Passed On Mongrel Dog

Brookport, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The mongrel dog, Idaho, which has been accused of the murder of a swimming boy was returned to his owner by Justice of the Peace Homer D. Benedict today "for confinement until October 1, 1938." Under the verdict death is the penalty of freedom during the interim. Idaho was tried in a crowded village hall for the drowning of 14-year-old Maxwell Breece, who sank in the Sarce canal July 4 while a dog was pawing him.

City Employee Lived In Terror Of Legion

Detroit, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Charles T. McCutcheon the city bacteriologist discharged because he did not report being "approached" in a black legion typhoid germ plot, said today he was forced to join the secret society three years ago and has "lived in terror ever since." He told newsmen of being questioned by a high legion officer about the possibility of infecting the legion's "class enemies," particularly Jews, by contaminating milk and cottage cheese delivered to them.

NAME CROWELL R. R. PRESIDENT

Present General Manager of A. and N. C. Line Elevated

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Governor Ehringhaus designated H. P. Crowell, now general manager of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad today to become president of the state owned and controlled line tomorrow at the annual stockholders meeting at Morehead City. Crowell who came to North Carolina last year as an experienced railroad man to direct operation of the line between Morehead City and Goldsboro when it became an independent road, succeeds Luthern Hamilton of Morehead City.

Hamilton was designated to become attorney for the railroad in succession to R. A. Whitaker of Kinston, resigned, and Morris R. Beaman, secretary of the Morehead City port terminals commission, was named to the board of directors to succeed Paul Webb of Morehead City. Crowell was named to the board of directors to succeed Hamilton.

The governor said he did not name any expert as none was needed now that the railroad company was operating independently instead of with its lines leased to the Norfolk-Southern railroad. All other directors and officers were reappointed by the governor, with the board to elect the officers tomorrow.

SAYS COUNCIL WILL SUSPEND LEWIS' GROUP

Prediction Made Following Talk With William Green

MEET TODAY TO DECIDE ACTION

Member of Defense Counsel Says He Will Fight Suspension

Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A heated protest by David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies' Garment Workers, delayed action today by the American Federation of Labor executive council on charges that unions affiliated with the commission for industrial organization were guilty of "insurrection."

Dubinsky, a member of the "rebel" committee headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, protested that the council had no authority to suspend the 10 unions in the committee.

Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—After a talk with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, David Dubinsky, president of the ladies garment workers, told reporters today he expected the federation's executive council to suspend the unions affiliated with the committee for industrial organization.

The council met today to decide what action to take on charges by John P. Frey, president of the federation's metal trades department, that the union affiliated with John L. Lewis and the committee for industrial organization had "fomented insurrection" by working for industrial unions as opposed to craft unions, favored by the Federation.

Dubinsky, the only counsel member who also belongs to the Lewis committee, said he would protest suspension "for all I'm worth." "The council clearly lacks jurisdiction," Dubinsky said. "Only the convention of the American Federation of Labor could suspend us."

Earlier it was reported that a majority of the 13 federation vice presidents sitting in judgment on the defendants had decided to suspend the Lewis faction unless it comes to terms within 30 days. The vice presidents were prepared to hand down their verdict today. They were understood to be determined to stipulate that before the suspension order can be lifted Lewis' committee for industrial organization must dissolve.

Coy Smith Injured When Auto Wrecks This Side Grifton

Local Man Taken to Kinston Hospital; Clyde Smith, Alleged Driver, Held Under Bond

Coy Smith of Greenville was taken to a Kinston hospital last night and Clyde Smith of Kinston was ordered held for trial on charges of driving while drunk and causing a wreck just this side of Grifton last night about 7 o'clock. The Greenville man was taken to the hospital suffering cuts about the face and bruises on the body. His condition was not considered serious.

Clyde Smith was ordered held by patrolmen who investigated the wreck. The accident was reported to have occurred when the car struck a guard rail on the Greenville-Grifton highway. MARTIAL LAW RULES GREECE

Dictatorship Set Up to Prevent Bloodshed in Strike

Athens, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A "temporary" dictatorship approved by King George II, held Greece in the quiet of martial law today to thwart danger of bloodshed in what the government described as a communist-promoted general strike.

The regime, headed by Strong Man John Metaxas, the premier, took full control of all civil affairs as he proclaimed dissolution of the Chamber of Deputies, decreed martial law and imposed a rigid censorship. New elections for the chamber will be held when the situation is stabilized.

The dissolution of the law-making body wiped out the legislative power of 14 communists who have held the balance of power between two factions. The government charged them with stalemating all work in the chamber.

In the proclamation establishing martial law and abolishing the work of the legislature for the moment, the government said it could now proceed to perform its functions unmolested. The cabinet action was precipitated by the proposals of leftist trade unions to call the general strike in protest against a recent law fixing minimum wages and providing for compulsory arbitration of labor differences in place of strikes.

Outlook for More Blocked Sales In Belt Today

FLORIDA PRICES ABOVE 25 CENTS

All Available Floor Space Taken on Several Georgia Markets on First Day

Virginia, Va., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Georgia's 1936 tobacco crop started moving from the state today while buyers continued to offer prices growers considered good.

The tobacco markets, many of them still eluded with opening day's prices, reported another session of heavy offerings, brisk trading and good prices today. Unofficial reports from various markets sold first sales yesterday averaged about 25 cents a pound. Official averages for first week sales—Tuesday through Friday—will not be compiled until next week by the State Department of Agriculture.

Here are dispatches from various markets today: Valdosta—The Tobacco Board of Trade reported opening day sales of 658,346 pounds at an average of 26.72 cents a pound, receipts heavy again today with about two million pounds on floor.

Moultrie—The Moultrie market sold 635,976 pounds yesterday at an average of 25.55 cents per pound. "Tifton"—Yesterday's sales, 801,000 pounds at 24.58 cents average.

Hahira—Opening day sales, 250,500 pounds at 26.72 average. Adele—Yesterday's offerings were greatest in any one day's history of Adele market, 312,970 pounds sold at 25.37 average.

Douglas—Sales yesterday 100,410 pounds, averaged 26.97. Pelham—Yesterday's sales 270,000 pounds averaged 26.83 cents. Nashville—Opening day sales 99,616 pounds at 26.85 average. Waycross—Sales yesterday 271,700 pounds at 25.32 average.

With all available floor space taken yesterday, tobacco growers had to press other buildings to use service to store their harvest while waiting for the jam in the warehouses to be relieved. First sales in the markets yesterday brought favorable prices, fair grades harboring between 20 and 30 cents, with one sale of extra quality leaf reported at 31.40 a pound. The average price last year was 19.97 cents.

At Live Oak, Fla., the opening of that state's 1936 tobacco auction brought prices averaging slightly over 25 cents a pound, seven cents above last year.

Building Permits In Month of July Indicate Progress

Permit Granted For Erection of Brick Veneer Dwelling House and Other Buildings

Eight building permits were issued in Greenville during the month of July, the total estimated cost being over $17,000.

E. G. Flanagan and W. E. Hooker were granted permission to erect a one-story brick building on Evans street at an estimated cost of $3,500.

Mr. Flanagan also was granted a permit to construct a one-story wood building on Clark street at an approximate cost of $950.

R. V. Keel secured a permit to build an addition to his warehouse on Dickinson avenue, the cost to be about $600.

Alonso Cherry was granted a permit to erect a one-story frame building for a store on Twelfth street, cost about $100.

Jim Parker was given permission to build a one-story frame building on Fifth street to cost $1,200.

J. C. Wooten was granted a permit to erect a one-story brick veneer dwelling on Fifth street, estimated cost $7,600.

J. S. Ficklen and R. M. Curwell secured a permit to build a one-story frame building on Tenth street to cost $600.

The two also were granted a permit to construct a filling station on Evans street, estimated cost $3,000.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER JOBS: Unemployment figures compiled by the experts for their own perusal rather than publication place the total at 8,500,000. That's a dead-of-summer estimate which is remarkable if true. It contrasts with computations of 11,000,000 by the A. F. of L. and 9,500,000 by private calculators. All figuring is hazardous for want of a census to furnish a base. But here's how the government's mathematicians reach their conclusion: There were 48,000,000 people at work in May of 1929, including 12,000,000 allotted to agriculture. Those with jobs now are counted at 43,000,000, meaning that only 5,000,000 have actually dropped out. That may be taken as a fairly reliable estimate. The puzzle begins in guessing at the number who have become employable age since 1929. The A. F. of L. puts it at 6,000,000, whereas the official mathematicians cut it down to 3,500,000. There's where the discrepancy appears. Three activities—industry, construction, transportation—account for 3,500,000 of the jobs. If they could be put back to work it is believed that unemployment—the key political, social and economic problem of the day—could be reduced to a manageable bulk. INSPIRED: Lindbergh's Berlin warning against use of aerial forces as a destructive rather than a civilizing force had profound repercussions behind the military, national diplomatic doors at Washington. Life had given officialdom no inkling of his plan to air such revolution. (Continued on page two)

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance has taken a job teaching in the Ashboro high school, largely because she can't bear her home town any longer. She plans to go to Ashboro to Atlanta or some other city—but then she meets Denis Ford. She is determined that Denis shall not stay here. She knows he is a newspaper man out of work and a rebel and probably unstable. But now, when Denis is sitting beside her on the front porch, she feels that she has told him her story. And gladly.

Chapter 11 THE CATS BOY CAR stopped before the house and Denis stood up, pulling her with him. "The traffic'll be back here from now on. Let's go." In the street Carol looked inquiringly at his roadster and he chuckled. "My kid brother's. He's a potential captain of industry. Five years from now he'll be able to buy out the family—Dad included."

"Where is there to go?" "I wish I knew. Besides, I don't want to go anywhere; I want to sit still and talk to you. Under the circumstances we might be forgiven for parking..." "I probably wouldn't be forgiven for parking under any circumstances."

"Oh, hell." There was genuine anguish in the whisper. "Well, we'll go get a soda. Anybody can park in front of a drug store." She ordered a cherry phosphate, not because she liked it, but because it cost five cents. Then she said: "It's your turn, Denis, to begin at the beginning."

He told his Odyssey tersely, starkly. One year of college and then Atlanta—Dallas—Kansas City. Always newspapers. "On the last job," he explained, "one of my chores was the movie reviews. They got me kicked out."

SCHOOL was becoming gradually a matter of routine. Gradually, too, she was getting acquainted with the rest of the faculty. Miss Hawkins, the head of the English department, was delightful; mellow and wise, with a quiet wit and a boundless tolerance. And Miss Thomas, who taught Latin, was a dynamo of enthusiasm—an enthusiasm that grew rather than diminished with the years. If the occasion demanded, Carol felt sure Miss Thomas would lead the cheers on the football field.

Mr. Hall, the principal, improved on acquaintance. He admired Carol extravagantly, and gave her his whole-hearted support. In justice to him she had warned him of what she was doing. "I wanted to tell you," she explained, "in case I came a cropper. Some parents may object to having me put my foot through the delusions they've grown up with and passed on to their children."

outcome is expected to stimulate union recruiting. Northwestern's employees won a 10 per cent pay increase and the company recognized the "outside union" as a collective bargaining agency. The labor negotiators asked for the closed shop as a matter of form, but did not attempt to make a point of it. This confirms our recent prediction that the Legislature will be satisfied with recognition in present and privately regard the closed shop in steel as a development of the remote future.

companies which did so would be cutting off their own noses. The demand for tires is booming. Any concern which sacrificed current business to "put labor in its place" would find its competitors ready and willing to take up the slack—and might find it difficult to regain its customers when the shock was over. A hull in activity is looked for in September and something may happen then. This development will bear watching.

DEFERS: Financial analysts are constantly finding fresh quirks in the new tax on corporate surpluses. Their latest discovery concerns its effect on corporate policy as to paying off accumulated arrears on preferred dividends. The method most favored in the past when such arrears have grown unwieldy has been to issue a junior preference stock to preferred stockholders in payment of the cumulative obligation. This system enables the corporation to conserve cash and is usually acceptable to the shareholders affected. It has the added advantage of getting rid of all arrears at once, so that they do not impede resumption of dividends on common stock as earnings improve. Still further, it permits the setting aside of a larger proportion of earnings to strengthen surplus. Bethlehem Steel tried it out successfully not long ago with a 5 per cent issue of junior preferred.

With the new tax in effect, a company which diverts earnings into surplus instead of distributing them in dividends is penalized. So a corporation with preferred arrears will find it advantageous to pay them off little by little out of current earnings instead of issuing new securities for the purpose. Of course this will slow up the process of getting such obligations off a company's books. By the same token, it defers the hopes of common stockholders, since they cannot collect any dividends of their own until all preferred accumulations are paid up. Anti-New Dealers are planning to make this plan to the common shareholders of the many corporations—such as U. S. Steel—which have an unpaid preferred dividend problem. It is hoped that they will get good and sore at Mr. Roosevelt about it.

SHARPER: Power leaders are not so happy about the results of the Texas Congressional primaries. Utility sources really turned on the heat behind the scenes to bring about the downfall of their two pet Texas hates—Sam Rayburn and Maury Maverick. But the two marked for destruction both came through with flying colors and will be back on Capitol Hill in 1937. It can safely be presumed that their hostile attitude towards the utilities is likely to be sharper than ever as a result of their hard battle to survive the primaries. They know just where the opposition was rooted.

GRAINS OF SALT WILL GIVE STRENGTH TO KANSAS ROAD

Hutchinson, Kas.—(AP)—Kansas motorists soon may be able to take their driving with a grain of salt.

The state highway department is completing the next to the final step in the construction of the first salt highway on a federal route west of Mississippi, a six and one-half mile stretch west of Eureka in Greenwood county.

A salt-soil stabilization base course developed by soil research scientists, has been laid on the grade. Over it will be rolled a two-inch macadam surface. The salt course, three inches deep and 24 feet wide, is expected to prevent frost heave, contraction and expansion, and insure a firm permanent road bed.

LONDON PATIENTS USE SLOW, STOP, GO SIGNALS

London—(AP)—Miniature traffic signals by which the patient advises his dentist exactly how he feels as the drill sinks, have been invented by a London practitioner.

A "stop-a-sound-go" apparatus is on the wall before the dentist, the patient handling the controls from the chair. He gives the doctor red, amber or green lights without jerking some throbbing instrument from his mouth in order to voice his feelings.

The lights were suggested to the inventor as a joke. In perfecting the system he found the set-up had a strong psychological effect upon the patient, usually giving him such assurance that the dentist seldom uses the stop sign.

Children sometimes become so absorbed in working the signals that the tooth is out before they decide to cry.

DECRIES USE 'SEX APPEAL' LIQUOR INTERESTS AGAINST SUCH ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington, Aug. 5.—It used to be principally the dries who complained against use of "sex appeal" in liquor advertising, but now the cry against it has been taken up by certain liquor interests hoping to keep the industry within the bounds of propriety.

The proposition is interesting as evidence that the liquor interests may be wary of the dries' power and are trying to give them no handle upon which to fasten a comeback campaign.

Ernest C. Kennedy, an executive of one of the largest distillers' corporations, told a conference of state liquor administrators of a 14-point code of good advertising and selling conduct his organization planned to adhere to, even if it had to go it alone.

He said large distillers and distributors were disposed to keep within bounds of "decency," even though federal regulation of them had been limited by recent Supreme court decisions.

But the big fellows, he said, could not enforce good conduct on the little ones, such as retailers. He seemed fearful these would let their eagerness for business lead them to use advertising and sales methods which might bring down upon them the wrath of the dries and the general public.

He asked the administrators to apply the code to the little ones, using state law as authority, of which he said they had plenty. Summarized, his code proposed:

That no illustrations of women be used in liquor advertising, and no appeal be made especially to women buyers.

That no appeal be made to children or youths, including college students.

That no liquor advertising be put on the radio or in Sunday papers, and that advertisers avoid associating liquor with Santa Claus, Easter rabbits, saluting outdoor or bathing scenes, or handsome army officers.

That no illustrations feature ship officers, locomotive engineers, aviators or others responsible for human safety.

Perhaps no irony was intended but Kennedy also urged that no liquor advertising be placed in religious applications, "irrespective of the fact that such advertisements are solicited by those publications."

That dries have strength left was indicated in the sweeping primary victory of Senator Sheppard of Texas, co-author of prohibition.

Looking to the future, dries announced long ago they were going to begin the fight for prohibition from the local option districts on up. They put no faith in regulation for control of the liquor traffic.

NEW LISTER DAMS FURROWS TO SAVE EVERY RAIN DROP

Guymon, Okla. (AP)—A machine that makes ponds instead of rivers of lister furrows has been devised by Charles Pencock.

The damming lister throws up ridges at intervals of from 12 to 15 feet between ordinary furrows. Enthusiasts claim the little basins conserve every drop of water that falls on a field.

Pencock, explaining his method at a demonstration here recently, asserted drought, has not kept him from raising a good wheat crop in the nine years he has been using his home made device. During that period his farm has received as little as four inches of rain in a year.

REORGANIZATION MADE IN FORESTRY SET-UP

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, August 5.—Transfers and re-assignments of district foresters in all except one of the six headquarters in the State, were announced today by W. C. McCormick, assistant forester in charge of fire control.

W. K. Belchler, oldest of the district foresters in point of service, who has been stationed in Asheville in charge of the office in that city and Lenoir, has been promoted to Chief Forestry inspector and will work out of Mr. McCormick's office in Raleigh.

J. R. Spratt, district forester in Rockingham, has been transferred to take the place formerly occupied by Mr. Belchler, and Assistant District Forester Paul W. Tillman who has been stationed in Fayetteville will succeed Mr. Spratt in Rockingham.

J. M. Stingley, who has been at the Rocky Mount headquarters, will exchange districts with J. D. Findley at New Bern. F. L. Hooker, who has been district ranger at New Bern, will serve in the same capacity at Rocky Mount.

The only district forester not affected by the transfers will be J. B. Lattay, who will remain in Fayetteville.

In his capacity of inspector, Mr. Belchler will spend a large part of his time in the field, being available to assist in any district during emergency fire conditions. He will also assist in planning emergency conservation work activities under the direction of the Department of Conservation and Development and with other administrative details.

HOPES TO MAP NEW ADDITION SCHOOL STUDY STATE FOREST

Curriculum Slated for Attention by Next Legislature

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, August 1.—The 1937 general assembly will probably devote considerable attention to the subjects taught in the curricula of the public schools as well as to the financial support of the schools, according to rumblings already being heard from over the state.

The greater part of the time of every general assembly is now spent in seeking new revenue with which to provide the appropriations for the financial support of the schools, which now amounts to more than $20,000,000 a year. Reports now indicate that the school forces will ask an increase of not less than $5,000,000 a year in this appropriation during the 1937 legislative session, which if obtained will bring the school allotment up to approximately $26,000,000 a year. But in the past very little attention has been devoted to the subjects which are being taught in the schools or the type of instructions being given.

For the past several years, however, there has been a growing feeling in non-educational circles that the type of instruction being given in the public schools in North Carolina, especially in the high schools, is not in tune with the times and not properly fitting the children to lead after they finish high school. Many feel that the State Department of Public Instruction, which so far has been almost dictatorial authority in determining high school curricula, and the subjects to be taught, has adhered too closely to the old theory that the primary purpose of the high schools is to prepare boys and girls to enter college. For it is generally agreed that when the high schools were first added to the public school system, the prevailing belief even in educational circles was that only those who intend to go on to college and whose parents were able to send them to college, should attend high schools and that those who were not able to go to college should remain on the farm or in factories or shops.

The belief no longer prevails, however, that a grammar education is all that is needed in rural and industrial districts and that the high schools should be reserved for the sons and daughters of professional men and white collar workers who are able to send their children on to college. Yet the high school curriculum in North Carolina is still modelled after pretty much the same pattern as it was 30 years ago and for the most part does little more than prepare boys and girls to go on to college, many people now complain. They maintain that the public schools, especially the high schools, should do more to prepare boys and girls who do not want to go on to college or who are unable to go to college or making a living by giving them more vocational instruction in agriculture, mechanics, domestic science and allied subjects.

For while there are almost 250,000 children in the high schools of the state public school system at the present time, with about 27,000 graduating from high school each year, only about 7,000 of these graduates go on to college after graduation from high school, statistics show. Thus only slightly more than 26 per cent of those who actually graduate from high school go on to college each year, while 74 per cent go back home to work on the farms, help their mothers in the homes or go to work in factories, mills, stores or offices.

It is agreed, of course, that most of the high schools offer excellent courses and fine preparation for the 26 per cent of the graduates who go on to college for professional training. But the complaint is becoming louder and being heard more frequently that the proper type of preparation is not being provided for the 74 per cent who do not go on to college—and indications are that this complaint is going to be voiced on the floor of this coming general assembly. Many are going to ask if it is good business or good sense, or even good educational policy, to shape the curricula of the high schools for the benefit of 26 per cent of the graduates and compel most of the other 74 per cent to take the same courses as those who intend to go on to college, when it is known that a majority do not and will not go on to college. There are indications that the legislature may balk at the steadily increasing demand for more and more money for the schools unless some effort is made by the school forces to revamp the curricula more to present needs.

HOPE TO MAP NEW ADDITION SCHOOL STUDY STATE FOREST

Curriculum Slated for Attention by Next Legislature

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—Recent completion of a deal to add 33 acres of land to the state forest nursery near Clayton in Johnston county, together with a purchase of 63 acres last year, adds greatly to the capacity of the station, State Forester J. S. Holmes announced today. The 96 acres were purchased from the liquidating agent of the old Raleigh Bank & Trust Company, and lies immediately across the highway from the nursery which has been operated for a number of years.

Provisions are already being made for an expansion of the nursery. A side camp from the CCC has been established at the nursery and is carrying out an extensive program of development, part of which includes an enlargement of the water supply by boring a new well on the recently acquired property, the construction of new plant beds and erection of necessary buildings.

The state forester said the enlargement of the nursery plant will provide facilities for transplanting beds, the alternation of beds for better protection against plant diseases, the production of a larger number of seedlings, and other improvements.

One of the plans for utilization of the nursery addition is the establishment of experienced and demonstration plots. The State forester hopes to provide through these demonstration plots examples of reforestation, using various types of forest trees where the rate of growth and general practicability of reforestation can be exemplified. He hopes to carry on practical experiments as extensively as available funds will permit.

During the last several years there has been a steady growth in the demand for forest seedlings. Mr. Holmes said. From indications this condition will continue and with enlarged facilities at the nursery he hopes to be able to fill all orders. With probably between one and two million acres in North Carolina needing reforestation by planting, the forester is of the opinion that there should be a demand for huge numbers of forest seedlings over a period of many years.

GREENIES LOSE TO EAGLES, 9-7

Martins Lose; Ayden and Tarboro Winners Yesterday

Kinston, Aug. 5.—Kinston took a 9-7 decision over the Greenville Greenies here yesterday. Heavy hitting and errors by both teams marked the game throughout.

The Eagles topped Ed Clement for 10 hits and 6 runs in 3 1-3 innings, and touched Paul Billet for three tallies during the rest of the route. Rambert hurled the route for Kinston.

House's single, mixed with two walks and Browns outfield fly in the first outplay for a Greenville run. Eds by Parley, Rabb and House were mixed with an error in the second for two runs. House singled and Wagner doubled for another tally in the fifth. The Greenies made two in the sixth—Booser tripled, Ambler hit a long fly. House singled, Wagner doubled. Walter Latham homered in the ninth for the final Greenville tally.

Stonebraker's single, Michael's triple, and an error save the Eagles two runs in the first. An error, Tipton's double, and Morris' single brought two more in the third.

The fourth was Kinston's big inning—five runs were chased across the plate. Telling blows in this frame were singles by Rambert, Humphrey, and Stonebraker, and a home run by Charlie Keller.

Henry House with five singles in as many trips, and Parley with 3 for five, were Greenville's leaders. Michael, with a triple and two singles for four times at bat, was Kinston's top hitter.

The Greenies are playing host to Kinston here this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Third Street Stadium. Ayden will play Greenville here on Friday, while Kinston returns to the local stadium Sunday.

PLAN STUDIES SHAD FISHING

Special Committee on Conservation To Carry On Work

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, August 5.—Some of the unrevealed life habits of the shad, the most valuable branch of the food fish industry of North Carolina, will be studied by a special committee of the Board of Conservation and Development in cooperation with department officials. This study was directed by the Board at its recent meeting at Morehead City upon recommendation of Director E. Bruce Etheridge and was suggested by fishermen in an effort to work out means of checking the apparent steady trend toward depletion of this valuable food fish.

Does the spawning shad sacrifice her life after providing a new generation of the species or do the same fish return from the sea each year to reproduce repeated crops of progeny? In what part of the ocean do the small fish, hatched in fresh water, spend the early part of their life? What are the logical measures to provide a continuous reproduction of the shad each year? These are some of the questions with regard to the shad which have not been fully solved and on which the committee will seek additional light.

The special committee consists of J. L. Home, Jr., Jas. L. McNair and E. S. Ashe, working in conjunction with Director Etheridge and Capt. John A. Nelson, fisheries commissioner. Director Etheridge has appealed to the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries scientific division for assistance in making the study.

According to Director Etheridge, the annual take of shad from North Carolina waters was 8,963,000 pounds in 1927; 3,942,000 pounds in 1928; 1,857,000 pounds in 1929; 977,000 pounds in 1932; and 1,247,000 pound in 1934. The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries is authority for these figures. While data on the production are not available for the current year, indications are for continuation of the trend toward smaller production.

FISHON IN REGAL ROOST AFTER FOILING BANDITS

Mukden, Manchoukuo.—(AP)—A carrier pigeon has been sent to Emperor Kang Teh at Hsingking for a place in the imperial palace because its swift flight rescued 400 passengers from a bandit attack on ten state motorbuses.

The caravan was being en route from Shanchengchen to Tungshu. The military guard herded the passengers together, sent the pigeon for help and put up a determined resistance.

But there were 800 bandits in the attacking party and they gradually closed in. Just as hope seemed gone, Japanese soldiers who had received the pigeon message, arrived and scattered the outlaws. The grateful passengers decided to reward the bird.
