DECLARES SEX ANGLE OUT IN MURDER TRIAL

Authorities Differ Over Motive In Clevenger Death

SHERIFF INSISTS ASSAULT AIMED

Solicitor, However, Declares He Will Prosecute Negro on Theory Of Robbery Only

Asheville, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Authorities differed today over the motive in the Helen Clevenger murder case while preparations went forward for the trial of Martin Moore, negro hall boy charged with killing the 18-year-old college girl.

The sheriff added, however, he did not believe an assault was actually attempted. Physicians earlier in the case could not agree on this phase.

Disputing the sheriff's theory, Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles, who will prosecute the case, said, "The sex angle is out altogether."

He asserted he believed Moore entered the room solely to loot it and shot the girl in a moment of panic when he was frightened by her outcry.

That was the story the negro related in a confession which Sheriff Brown and other officers announced he made 24 days after the girl's bullet in her breast was found.

While disputing the negro's motive, Sheriff Brown said he was "through with the case."

"The grand jury and the solicitor can have him," the sheriff said. "He's the murderer. That's all we wanted to know."

Nettles disclosed he planned to hand the grand jury a bill of indictment next Monday and that the 22-year-old negro would be tried at the term of court convening that day.

McDonald Praises Roosevelt In Talk At Labor Meeting

Candidate for Governor in Recent Primary Declares Executive "Balance Wheel of America"

Winston-Salem, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Acclaiming President Roosevelt as "The balance wheel of America," Dr. Ralph McDonald told the North Carolina federation of labor today that the benefits of the new deal should be brought to North Carolina.

"While nation after nation is in the midst of a bloody struggle between fascism and communism the Democratic philosophy of Roosevelt carries the United States forward in a new conception of balance and fairness in the inter-relationships of property and human rights," he said.

Declaring this state "stands as one of the few" which has not been effitted by the spirit of the new deal, McDonald enumerated that in "unemployment insurance and old age pensions North Carolina has as yet done absolutely nothing."

In farm legislation North Carolina lags far behind Roosevelt's x x x. Recognition of the rights of labor have been foremost in the policies of Roosevelt, but North Carolina has not yet caught step with the national Democratic party in this matter.

Echoing charges made in post-primary investigations McDonald said, "when North Carolina's greatest industrial concern uses its foremen and time keepers to canvass and corral the votes of its employees, as was done in a state election, causing those employees to vote under the supervision of their bosses at the polls and in the plants and offices, of the company, then the time has come for the general public to bid God speed to the work of labor organizers to the end that such prostitution of Democracy be ended."

The American federation of hosiery mill workers will launch its long-heralded organization campaign in North Carolina shortly. Emil Rieve, national president told the convention.

URGE CITIZENS FLEE DANGERS

New Appeal Sent To Americans In Danger Zones In Spain

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A new appeal to Americans to leave the danger zone of the Spanish revolution was dispatched today by William Phillips, acting secretary of state.

In a message to the American embassy at Madrid, which state department officials said applied also to all other strife-torn cities in Spain where Americans are located, Phillips said:

"I can not urge too strongly that all American citizens who can possibly do so take advantage of present facilities to go to places of safety."

Elaborating on the message at his press conference, Phillips said it was sent because of reports indicating an increasingly serious situation at Madrid and the possibility that present facilities for reaching Valencia by train from the capital might be disrupted.

More than 100 American citizens have refused thus far to leave Madrid because of business or family reasons. The same attitude has been adopted by a number of others in other Spanish cities.

The commander of the American heavy cruiser, Quincy, advised the department that 19 more American nationals were evacuated from Palma in the Balearic islands yesterday.

BIG EVENT SET FOR THURSDAY

Dollar Day to Be Observed by Business Houses in City

Only one more day of regular business remains before merchants of this city will put on one of the greatest promotion events ever held in Greenville—Dollar Day.

All merchants are looking toward the big event—Thursday—and many clerks who usually have Wednesday afternoons off will spend the time in the store making arrangements for the big sales event opening the following morning.

Advertising writers are going through one of their busiest seasons. Most of the firms participating in the event are carrying ads in the daily newspaper which are worthy of consideration of all thrifty buyers. The public is urged to give these advertisements much thought as the merchants are offering some of the best values ever stored anywhere.

Stores have laid aside large quantities of first class goods for the event—held semi-annually.

With tobacco slated to bring good prices buyers are expected to flock to the stores Thursday. Plans have been made by the various merchants to take care of the crowds and provide as efficient service as possible.

Dollar Day will be observed by the stores on Thursday only, but The Reflector will continue its semi-annual event throughout the week offering subscriptions at greatly reduced rates.

AUSTRALIAN PRODUCTS ARE BARRIED IN BELGIUM

Brussels (AP)—Importation of Australian grain and preserved meat is prohibited by Belgium as retaliation for the higher tariffs the Australian government recently put into effect. A similar measure against Australian wool and barley is due shortly.

Australian exports to Belgium in 1935 totalled approximately $20,000,000 compared with only $2,000,000 worth of Belgian goods exported to Australia.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER LUCK: Uncle Sam's best posted diplomatic scouts report confidentially that a widespread European war appears more inevitable daily.

Despite dictators' dreams and desires, our lookouts scoff at fears that Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin will deliberately set the match to what would become a universal conflagration. The surest safeguard against war coming coldly and calculatedly is the realization of Europe's chancelleries that it cannot be localized. Armies and navies, which are supposed to provoke conflict, temporarily postpone a smash-up, the guns are too heavily charged for any individual to pull the trigger. But nobody offers guarantees against a drivill mishap that will precipitate a general outbreak. Diplomatic records reveal that Europe and the Orient have survived seven distinct war scares in three years. They range from the murder of King Alexander of Yugoslavia to the recent German aggression in Danzig. Spain's rebellion is still a potential spark. The only question puzzling statesmen is how long their luck will last.

REBEL TROOPS ARE REPULSED BY LOYALISTS

FASCIST ATTACK AREAS IN NORTH

France Decides To Invite United States To Join European Countries In Pact

(By Associated Press) Spanish loyalist led down a de-finite barrage of shells and bullets in the South today, with a single objective, which seemed at least partly achieved—stopping the rebel drive on the capital city of Madrid.

Apparently repulsed for the time being in the Guadarrama mountains, the doorways to Madrid on the north, the insurgents in turn concentrated a savage attack against loyalist-held communities on the northern seaboard.

Government troops crumpled one section of the rebel lines in the south to capture the strategic town of Adamuz, 21 miles northeast of Cordoba. A fresh onslaught against Cordoba, important provincial capital, was imminent.

Aiding the government in the south were leftist warships, which have kept up a running fire against the troop transports of General Francisco Franco, generalissimo of the revolution. Only a portion of the massed thousands of Moroccan troops which Franco wanted to land on the peninsula for the march on Madrid have been ferried across the straits of Gibraltar.

The French government decided to invite the United States to join European nations in its proposed neutrality accord respecting Spain's civil war. French diplomats were worried on two counts: the slowness of Berlin's specific reply approving the accord and a possibility that Spanish fascists had violated the neutrality of the internationalized zone in Morocco.

Effect Of Alcohol Included In Group Of New Textbooks

Report of Commission Submitted to State Superintendent for Further Recommendation

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—The report of the State Elementary Textbook Commission, including the work which it has been doing in attempting to find a suitable textbook on the harmful effects of alcohol and narcotics on the human body, was submitted today to State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin, who in turn will transmit the report and recommendations of the commission to the State Board of Education, including its recommendations for the adoption of the text dealing with alcohol and narcotics.

Due to the fact very few textbooks were available concerning the ill effects of alcohol and narcotics, most of the books submitted were in manuscript form. As a result, the commission has recommended the adoption of only one book, written especially for use in North Carolina by a member of the faculty of the Chapel Hill unit of the University of North Carolina. It is expected that the book will be adopted without any opposition and that it will be printed and distributed in time so that it can be used in every school this year. Its use will be mandatory in the sixth grade of Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

There was some speculation as to whether President Roosevelt might use his powers under the tariff act to reduce the 25-cent per bushel tariff on corn imports or eliminate it on specific purchases for drought needs.

A smaller decline in the production of fall wheat was also forecast in the report. Prediction this year was placed at 62,745,000 bushels, compared with the July 1 estimate of 63,899,000 and the five-year average of 63,564,000.

Comparing estimated production of "important" crops this year with percentage of the five year average production from 1928 to 1932, the crop board rated tobacco production at 78 per cent.

The State of North Carolina accounted for most of the drop in tobacco estimates. Last month the North Carolina crop was estimated at 425,013,000 pounds. Yesterday the estimate was reduced to 450,549,000 pounds. The yield for the state in 1935 was 577,435,000 pounds.

By types, the Georgia-Florida Type 14, which has already matured was unchanged at 81,500,000 pounds. Type 13, grown in South Carolina and the border counties of North Carolina, is now estimated at 111,313,000 pounds, as compared to an estimate of 115,050,000 pounds a month ago. Type 12, grown in Eastern North Carolina, is now estimated at 225,675,000 pounds as compared with 228,625,000 pounds a month ago. Type 11, which is grown in the Old Belt of North Carolina and Virginia, and is the latest to mature, showed an increase over a month ago, today's estimates being 239,735,000 as compared with 236,325,000 pounds a month ago.

Although figures on tobacco, and those made public three days ago on cotton show that the two principal North Carolina crops have been shortened by drought conditions, figures made public on the 32 principal crops combined show that on August 1, the condition of the combined crops in North Carolina was 87 per cent of the 10-year average for the period from 1921 to 1930 both inclusive. Small 1936 Tobacco Crop Predicted By Department

Corn Crop Estimated Smallest In Past 55 Years

Washington, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A government estimate that the 1936 corn crop will be the smallest in 55 years served as a guide today to federal relief moves in the drought area.

The yield of 1,439,135,000 bushels, estimated by the crop reporting board late yesterday, is the lowest since 1881 when the population of the nation was only 50,155,000 as compared with more than 127,000,000 at present.

Secretary Wallace and other administration officials who had anxiously awaited the forecast, immediately proceeded anew with relief plans.

Drought relief officials added 30 more counties in seven states to the emergency list, which now includes 920 counties in 22 states. Relief efforts are concentrated in these counties.

There was some speculation as to whether President Roosevelt might use his powers under the tariff act to reduce the 25-cent per bushel tariff on corn imports or eliminate it on specific purchases for drought needs.

A smaller decline in the production of fall wheat was also forecast in the report. Prediction this year was placed at 62,745,000 bushels, compared with the July 1 estimate of 63,899,000 and the five-year average of 63,564,000.

BETTER YIELD FORECAST FOR TOBACCO CROP

Service Reports Leaf Outlook 'Has Improved Amazingly'

CORN CROP ALSO SAID BE BETTER

Indicated Yield Of 450,548,000 Pounds Tobacco Forecast Condition 66 Per Cent

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—(AP)—North Carolina's tobacco crop has improved "amazingly" and "excellent yields" of corn are now indicated for many counties, the federal-state crop reporting service said today in its August summary.

"Crop conditions in North Carolina are now indicative of better yield than at any time this year," the report said. "General rains have at last covered the state. While stands are often poor and growth late the outcome may not be so bad excepting in a few counties and limited localities."

The state tobacco outlook is for 450,548,000 pounds with condition August 1 at 66 per cent, and a yield of 745 pounds per acre forecast. Last year the state produced 877,435,000 pounds. The report noted that "just what the weight and quality will be is problematical."

In many counties where a forecast of half a crop of corn on July 1 "would have been optimistic," the service said "excellent yields are now indicated." From a condition of 75 per cent of a normal crop and an average yield of 175 bushels a crop of 42,000 bushels is indicated compared with 41,321,000 bushels last year.

MOVIES HIT BY VATICAN CODE

Pope Pius Shows Tenacious Interest in Film Industry

By W. Stephen Bush

The Hall of Recreation in the papal summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, where more than two generations ago the late Pope Pius IX used to enjoy his favorite game of billiards with many a famous guest, has recently been converted, at the command of Pius XI, into a private film theater. The largest firms in Rome vied with each other for the privilege of furnishing a silver screen, a modern projection machine and a score or more of "lauteils" or easy chairs.

Once or twice a week the pope and a few selected members of the curia meet there in conference and look at motion pictures, most of them of American origin. These grave and reverend gentlemen are of course not in search of entertainment. They sit as spectators to secure first hand information for a practical world wide reform of motion pictures as outlined by the recent papal encyclical devoted to this subject. From time to time American ecclesiastics, both residents and visitors in Rome, have been drawn into consultation.

The Pope has shown a most tenacious interest in the future of the motion picture and seems more than ever determined to make his influence felt. He has studied the subject for some years and regards the motion picture as the most powerful medium of expression and intercommunication, surpassing in its effects on the masses the printed as well as the spoken word. He had at first been inclined to favor a project submitted by a great motion picture reformer in Belgium, a prelate named Brohe, belonging to the chapter of the Brussels Cathedral. Father Brohe's plan contemplated the creation of Catholic film producing centers throughout the world. Distributing stations and Catholic motion picture houses for the exhibition of the films were to be part of the Brohe's system. The Pope directed his secretary of state Cardinal Pacelli to embody a general approval of the plan in an exhaustive letter to its author, culminating in the view that an enterprise based on the Brohe's principles was bound to produce excellent moral results and achieve sufficient material success to keep it going.

Father Brohe made an heroic effort to realize his theory but his means were found inadequate and the whole scheme proved abortive. The Belgian plan was eventually abandoned in favor of the American plan. The American plan discards all thought of even any indirect competition in a commercial way, but seeks to approach the problem entirely from the moral side.

The deeper the Pope delved into the problem of world motion pictures, the more he was impressed by the supremacy of the United States in the domain of the film. European productions were in the main pale reflections of American models in points of technique and entertainment value. Despite all discrimination on the part of foreign governments, and despite the heavy handicap the introduction of speech had placed on the American producer, he continued to dominate the markets of the world. Moreover in America the motion picture was found to be a far greater social and moral factor than in Europe, which still regards the screen with a certain measure of disdain or incomprehension. Having probed the situation to all its depths the Vatican turned to the Catholic episcopate in America for the realization of its reforms. The formation of the so-called "League of Decency" and the long sustained drive against alleged immoral pictures were the first fruits of this international cooperation.

The Vatican was much pleased over this first success of its plan for a better control of the film. It was encouraged by the fact that several religious bodies, not of Catholic communion, followed its leadership. It was surprised at the eagerness with which the film interests themselves accepted regulation. It is now proposed to broaden the foundations of preventive censorship and to compile a comprehensive list of prohibitions.

To perfect a new code of morals for governing the screen and to find the best means of enforcement are the chief objects of the present examinations in the summer palaces at Castel Gandolfo. It is expected that a complete set of new rules and standards will be ready for promulgation and application before the papal court returns to the Vatican in the early days of October. The program will undoubtedly contain an "index expurgatorius" whose operations will be applied to films much in the same manner as they are now applied to books. Upon a proper complaint and inspection a number of films now running will be closed upon the index and denounced as unfit for exhibition.

In the main however the committee of censors will concentrate upon measures of prevention rather than condemnation. The film interests will be warned against certain types of plays which are to be set forth in detail. No doubt many of the rules and standards to be adopted coincide with the ordinances established by the boards of censors in various states of the Union. There will be a repetition of the anathemas against darning scenes, bed room dramas, vampire films and an undue display of nudity, all of which by the way has generally been exaggerated in censorship propaganda.

The new prohibitions are reported to have a much wider sweep and to strike much deeper. Whatever in the opinion of the committee may tend to lessen the public respect for particular ecclesiastical institutions and practices or for members of the clergy comes under an absolute ban. A literal or narrow interpretation of this rule might make the story of Hester Prynne ineligible for the screen. A considerable portion of classic and modern fiction will thus be barred from film adaptation. Even the filming of historic events with their undoubted educational contents will become a hazardous undertaking.

One of the features of the ecclesiastical program will be a sharper differentiation between films for adults and films to which minors may be admitted. This measure will hardly be felt in America and is really aimed at the countries in Europe many of which fail to discriminate between the two kinds of entertainment.

The Vatican committee has definite ideas on the best ways of enforcing its codes on the film interests—ideas said to have originated with the Catholic episcopate in America. This of course is the practical end of the problem of which they will have full charge. Moral pressure through exciting and mobilizing public opinion is one method. But another alternative, which it is believed will be even more effective is an agitation for the federal censorship of motion pictures combined with a licensing system. Federal censorship will not necessarily do away with state censorship but may, like in other fields, be made the subject of concurrent jurisdictions.

Theaters of course are licensed now but the creative forces in the production of screen plays, the authors and directors, are still enjoying a great measure of freedom of expression. Under a licensing system the censor will begin his work with the very script itself and practically stand beside the director in every scene. The very threat of such an "evolution" may make the film industry inclined to accept the new rules and regulations as the lesser evil.

Mr. Watson is at a loss to determine how the animal got into the trap as the only hole through which he could have entered is one on the floor which opens into a drain and he is doubtful the opossum could have entered through that.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Spirit" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 9, 1936.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 143:10, "Thou art my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God. There are neither spirits many nor gods many. There is no evil in Spirit, because God is Spirit. The theory, that Spirit is distinct from matter but must pass through it, or into it, to be individualized, would reduce God to dependency on matter, and establish a basis for pantheism." (Page 324.)

Governor Landon will get 75 per cent of the dry vote, in the opinion of the latter's leaders. Not because they regard him as a prohibition sympathizer, but because he appeals to the same element which furnished the shock troops in the anti-bribe fight.

PRACTICAL: The Spanish rebellion has filled many people with suspicions that the 1936 neutrality act is full of holes insofar as keeping the United States out of a foreign war is concerned.

American business men and manufacturers are cooperating with the government for very practical reasons. They're taking no chances with countries where they are not sure of payment.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Terrance on her way back to her home in Asheville, from her teaching job in Asheville, she has sent Denis Ford on his way to Washington, although it meant heartbreak for each of them.

Chapter 16 MORE ABOUT DON

MEREDITH was becoming a reality with every mile; Ashboro a life she had lived in a dream. She was taking off Asheville like a garment, and putting on Meredith instead.

The porter gathered up her bags and she followed him eagerly, too soon. She stood in the vestibule for almost a mile, as if she had never traveled before.

Three shapes were hurrying down the platform towards her: a tall angular one that loomed, a tall slim one that strode, a smaller bundle that pattered.

"Milly! Oh, gosh, I'm so glad..." Milly's face was soft and cold, and her old fur coat smelled faintly of moth balls.

Pat picked up her bags and they walked towards the car, talking in the broken, meaningless sentences of people who have not yet become re-acquainted to each other.

The house, as they turned in the driveway, seemed to hold out its arms to them. It was unbearably lovely after Mrs. O'Connor's, Carol thought: it had acquired graciousness and serenity in so few years.

MILLY eyed her critically. "You're a little thinner, aren't you?" "Probably. The first month or so is always strenuous. After that you can relax."

Milly's face was flushed and her eyes were shining. "Oh! I'm getting fat, darn it! Middle-aged spread. Did you have supper?"

"Did it in solitary state. It was marvelous after months of feeding with the public. I ate for almost an hour."

"But wouldn't you like a glass of milk and some cake? I want to fatten you up while you're here. Milly's affection brooded some tangible outlet.

"I'd love it. Let's all eat cake." They trooped into the kitchen and draped themselves on stools and over the table. Milly bustled happily.

"Nut cake!" Carol said. "I'll bet you made it for the prodigal." Pat grinned. "We've had the calf on ice for a week. But this, his voice was ludicrously domestic, 'isn't as good as I usually make. I think it was the eggs."

Their earlier constraint was gone. They settled down to the business of re-knitting the close fabric of their relationship.

At eleven o'clock Milly assumed a firm expression. "It's time for bed. Carol must get plenty of rest while she's here. . . . You're in your own room, Carol."

While she was brushing her hair Pat appeared, and sprawled his length across her bed. She smiled fondly at him, and felt the catch at her heart that so often came with the sight of him.

"Well, Patrick—what about it?" He lay with his hands locked behind his head and watched her. "Nothing. What about it yourself?"

"I don't know." "Is it working?" "Not particularly. But then I hardly expected it to. There've been one or two bright spots. . . ." She told him about Denis and Mike, and he listened keenly.

PAT looked thoughtful. "Sometimes you use your brain too much. Not in this case, I imagine, be a collapse in all markets which will last about four years." Republican political quarters are using this sentiment for their own purposes. It is estimated that some 15,000,000 people are interested directly or indirectly in security prices.

because I sort of agree with you. But when the time comes I want you to stop thinking and begin feeling. Let yourself coast."

"I know. If the time ever comes, I think I will." By association of ideas she asked casually:

"How's Don, by the way?" Mirth flickered in Pat's eyes and disappeared. "I wanted to tip you off about that. Brace yourself: Don's falling for our little sister. Since he couldn't make love to the one who was dear . . ."

She turned in her chair and stared at him. "No fooling?" His face was sober. "It's hard on your pride, of course, but when you get used to it I think you'll approve."

She faced the mirror and rubbed cold cream carefully and mechanically from her face. Don and Jill. . . .

"How does Jill feel about it?" Pat knit his thick, fair brows. "I don't quite know; she probably feels uncomfortable about snatching your lover—even unintentionally."

"But he isn't," Carol said quickly. "If he were I wouldn't be in Asheville." She began to smile. "I'm already getting used to it, and I think it might be perfect."

"Sure. They both want the same things: home and family and fire-side. . . ."

Pat's voice was hungry, and she wanted to go and throw her arms around him. Instead she said:

"Thank heaven you warned me. Wouldn't it have been awful if I'd appropriated him when he came, just assuming that I was still the light of his life?"

Don and Jill. And three months ago it had been Don and Carol. Pat was right; her pride had been jarred, although Justice told her that Don was doing the wise thing in taking her at her word. But aside from her family this severed her last thin link with Meredith.

Pat said gruffly: "I never saw you do any appropriating, even when you had him; but I knew you'd want to know. Of course," he added, "seeing you again may bust it wide open. . . ."

And if you don't really want him, I hope you won't let it. Carol heard his mind saying. She answered his unspoken request.

"Don't worry. It won't." Milly poked her head in the door. "Go to bed, you ows. You've got two weeks to talk in."

tions an philanthropic organizations are in worse shape now than ever before. This is due to the easy money rates brought about by the administration's credit policy.

DELAY: A close scrutiny of the 1936 Revenue Act discloses that many corporations will not be affected this year. One clause indicates that the tax is applicable only to the taxable year beginning after December 31, 1935.

STRUGGLE: To railroads the political conventions were all to the good. Neither of the major party platforms carried a plank referring to railroad supervision or legislation.

It is privately stated that when Congress goes into session railroads will form one of the most powerful lobby forces in history. The group will do everything possible to force Congress to give the I. C. C. supervision of water carriers. But it will of dividends to stockholders will be delayed.

DELAWARE: The final break-up of these once powerful organizations will remove a definite political weapon. Besides shelving prohibition as a side or undercover issue, it means that there will be no formal, organized effort to punish the Roosevelt administration for fathering repeal.

Volunteer organizations have split like a hot air balloon. By far the majority have collected as members in the Townsend movement. Some have lined up with the New Deal, notably Dr. Stanley High, and others are seeking employment with the Republicans or with the Lemke party. Thus, for the first time in twenty years, neither candidate will wear a recognizable "dry" or "wet" tag.

Governor Landon will get 75 per cent of the dry vote, in the opinion of the latter's leaders. Not because they regard him as a prohibition sympathizer, but because he appeals to the same element which furnished the shock troops in the anti-bribe fight.

PRACTICAL: The Spanish rebellion has filled many people with suspicions that the 1936 neutrality act is full of holes insofar as keeping the United States out of a foreign war is concerned. The measure permits embargo on war materials only against acknowledge belligerents, and does not apply in the event of civil warfare.

State Department experts shrug their shoulders over this problem. They have consulted shipping experts, and discovered that almost no American goods are heading for Spain these days. Although both sides have been stocking up for months, there has been no increase in shipments of munitions or material. In July the only fighting equipment that went to Spain was two airplane engines for private passenger lines. They were valued at $9,000.

American business men and manufacturers are cooperating with the government for very practical reasons. They're taking no chances with countries where they are not sure of payment. The experts say that only three world powers can negotiate for war materials in American markets these days—England, France and Japan. That bars the dictators unless they change their methods of doing business across the water.

NEW YORK: Br LOU SCHNEIDER. RETCENT: In anti-New Deal financial quarters it's believed that if Governor Landon is elected next market prices will boom, and industrial activity, too. But if Roosevelt gets in again there will

Fight Over Patrol Force Expected At Legislature

Both Revenue and Highway Groups Want Control

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—"Patrol, patrol, whose gonna get the patrol" is expected to be one of several interesting games the 1937 general assembly will be called on to play before the session ends. For while the State Highway Patrol is now a unit of the State Department of Revenue, it was formerly a unit of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and it is no secret that the highway department still thinks the patrol should be under its direction instead of the revenue department.

There is still another group, however, which is becoming more and more of the opinion that the highway patrol should not be under either the highway or revenue departments but that it should be an entirely separate and distinct law enforcement agency under the direction of the Attorney General through a State Department of Justice.

Accordingly, an interesting three-cornered battle for the control of the patrol is regarded as sure to develop in the 1937 general assembly. For while patrolmen are now longer supposed to act as tax collectors or warrant servers for the Department of Revenue — they acted in these capacities from 1933 to 1935, however — there is no doubt that the Department of Revenue is going to put up a stiff fight to retain control of the patrol, although the appropriation for the maintenance of the patrol, amounting to some $90,000 a year, comes from the highway fund. One reason for this desire to keep the patrol in the revenue department may be that it affords an additional outlet for patronage and the passing of political fire, even if patrolmen are supposed to be very carefully selected on the basis of merit only. There is also the ever-present hope that each successive legislature will increase the size of the patrol and thus supply more jobs to fill. It is also rumored that occasionally Assistant Commissioner of Revenue Marcus C. Stephens Noble, Jr., gets a patrolman to serve a warrant, or collect a bad check. At any rate, the revenue department does not want to give it up and will undoubtedly fight to keep it.

The highway department, on the other hand, has always felt that the highway patrol was and should be a division of the highway commission and that the 1933 general assembly "done it wrong" when it transferred the patrol from the highway to the revenue department. For from the time the patrol was created until 1933, it was under the immediate direction of the highway commission, and its duties were limited entirely to the enforcement of the motorvehicle and highway laws. The highway patrol would probably have been left as a unit of the highway department but for the prevailing belief in 1933 that both the chairman of the highway commission and all the employees of the highway department, including the patrol, had been very active in the primary campaign in behalf of J. C. Baskervill for Governor instead of for R. T. Fountain and the further fact that the Fountain element dominated the house for the opening months of the 1933 session.

Accordingly, the general assembly finally enacted the bill transferring the highway patrol from the highway to the revenue department, partly in an effort to spank the highway commission for too great political activity in favor of Ehringhaus during the campaign, and partly in the belief that some economy could be effected by having the patrol take over the duties of gasoline and automobile inspectors. For up to that time, the revenue department had a staff of automobile inspectors, to hunt stolen automobiles, while the Department of Agriculture had a staff of gasoline and oil inspectors. The legislature decreed that the highway patrol should assume all these duties, also act as revenue collectors and process servers for the revenue department, in addition to trying to enforce the highway laws.

By 1935, it was apparent that too many different duties had been saddled upon the patrol and that all its time and effort was needed in highway and traffic law enforcement. There was also some sentiment for returning it to the highway department. But the enactment of the state drivers' license law and the placing of the administration of that law in the revenue department made it necessary for the patrol to be left there too, for the time. But the 1935 assembly decreed that it should no longer inspect gasoline and collect revenue. But a new fight for control of the patrol is sure to develop in the 1937 general assembly.

THE VIENNESE ROOF ATOP THE FAMOUS ST. REGIS HOTEL IN NEW YORK

duplicates the resplendent ballroom of the Imperial Summer Palace in Schönbrunn, Austria. A model of decorative taste and justly famous for the excellence of its choice dishes, The Viennese Roof is a favorite rendezvous of those who wish to escape from the summer heat and enjoy themselves in cool and charming surroundings. Here at the St. Regis, as at other fine dining places from coast to coast, Camels are the preferred cigarette. "Our patrons understand the art of dining well," says Lawrence, deft maître d'hôtel of The Viennese Roof. "You can see Camels on nearly every table. They certainly are the most popular cigarette at The Viennese Roof."

CHAMPION DIVER. Mickey Riley says:
"Camels help my digestion. I enjoy them at my meals and afterwards. Boy, Camels have a great taste! Camels never get on your nerves—never tire your taste."

AS EVERY Camel smoker knows, Camels at mealtime help to create a cheery sense of well-being. You eat with relish—digest with greater ease. Camels increase the flow of digestive fluids... alkaline digestive fluids... in a pleasant way.

Like Frank Buck, Lee Gehlbach, Mickey Riley, Bill Tilden, Tony Manero, Willie Hoppe, and millions of other discriminating smokers who prefer Camels and recommend them, you too will find Camels an enjoyable aid in easing the tension of modern life. With their "lift"... their aid to digestion... and their mild, rich flavor, Camels do indeed set you right!

Each Camel at mealtime adds its measure of cheer... stimulates digestion... increases alkalinity. So—

MRS. NICHOLAS PENNIMAN, III, charming Baltimore hostess. "I enjoy Camels," she says. "Camels taste so good and they help digestion too."

"LIKE SO MANY OF THE GIRLS, I prefer a mild cigarette—Camels," says Miss Frances Morel, machine operator. "I smoke Camels with my meals and after them too. They are swell!"

COSTLIER TOBACCOS
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 TEST PILOT—Lee Gehlbach does his daring "power dive." Afterwards he eats heartily—and smokes Camels. Lee says: "Camels keep my digestion tuned up. And they don't frazzle my nerves."

FIRST PWA 'CITY', REPLACING SLUM, READY TO HOUSE 2,500 IN ATLANTA

By WILLIAM BORING
Atlanta—(AP)—The first "city-in-a-box" ever built awaits only the moving in of its population of 2,500 to begin functioning.

It is the Techwood low rent housing development, spreading over 22 and a half Atlanta acres formerly designated by the government as a slum area.

A federal government innovation that it is the first of 50 low cost housing projects completed by PWA in Techwood is a modern city.

It includes these properties: 13 apartment buildings, seven two-story residences, 14 miscellaneous structures, including eight stores grouped in a shopping center; an administrative building with clinic and doctors' offices, and 169 garages.

The buildings are of trim brick or fireproof and all look alike. The townspeople will move in August 15 and family breadwinners will begin paying Landlord Un-leasam from $23.47 to $38.10 monthly for apartments, the price depending on whether they have 3, 4, 5 or 6 rooms.

Rental will cover electricity used in running the new electric stoves and refrigerators the PWA has placed in every kitchen as well as hot and cold water and heating service.

But the kitchen equipment is not the only thing that elicits "ahs" from housewives inspecting the apartments. They like the elevated radiators which allow sweeping under them with a minimum of back bending, the steel casement windows that may be washed inside and out from within the room, the incineration system, the asphalt tile floors with linoleum in the kitchen, the glazed tile halls, walls that may be washed, copper screens in every window and shades already hung.

Then there are centrally located laundries, tennis courts, playground, cinder garden, library and auditorium.

Rents range from $23.47 to $38.10 in Atlanta's Techwood, first low cost housing project completed by the PWA. Mr. and Mrs. John Christensen are entering a typical home.

Techwood was created at a cost of $3,000,000 and replaced a negro section.

D. A. Calhoun, manager of the project, says residents for the 603 apartment units are selected from applicant families having incomes ranging from $1,200 to $1,800 annually and who live at present in homes classified by the government as overcrowded or sub-standard.

More than 2,700 families have applied, he says.

CONCERN OVER

Nervous Balkans In Close Watch Over
Greece

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The establishment of a dictatorship in Greece under Premier General John Metaxas is causing the other fiery Balkan countries to make an intensive check to determine whether the move possibly portends any further governmental change which might alter international relations.

This Balkan cock-pit is still, as it has been through the ages, one of the danger spots of the continent, for it takes little to stir the fierce racial and political animosities which exist in that region. It will not soon be forgotten that the World war was whipped there.

King George and the monarchy have had a friendly reception from neighboring states. Furthermore, no concern has been expressed thus far as to anything which Metaxas himself may do, for while he is a man of great force and initiative, he always has professed himself to be a staunch monarchist and is credited with being conservative and safe. However, he is about the last of the great personalities whom death has spared to Greece, and he is sixty-five years old. Other nations are wondering what may happen to the monarchy when time compels him to withdraw support.

King George's nine-month-old throne is a far by hot seat in view of all the circumstances.

It is of more than passing interest that George assigned the dictatorship to another instead of jumping into the breach himself, as was done by the late King Alexander of Yugoslavia, and in effect by George's former brother-in-law, Carol of Rumania. Having done this, the ruler left his capital, which was under martial law, for a short holiday in Corfu.

The hemocled King of the Hellenes became a popular diner-out in London and other capitals during the dozen years of his exile, while his mother-in-law, the vigorous Queen Marie of Rumania, was trying to get him restored to his throne.

Queen Marie's main interest naturally lay in her desire to see her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, the first lady of Greece, Elizabeth finally divorced George on the grounds of desertion but not only July, 1935, only four months before the Greeks invited him to resume his throne.

It was about 1925 that Queen Marie turned to a great Balkan expert for advice. She wanted to know what chance there was of George ever coming back. The expert replied:

"If George would get on a white charger and ride through the city of Athens to his palace, with a sword at his side, the people would fall on his neck with joy and welcome him home. But George won't do that."

The future of Greece may easily depend on how far George is prepared to go in riding a white horse with a sword at his side. At the moment Metaxas is riding the horse for him.

Scouts Make Use Of Camping Opportunity

The Boy Scouts of the Greenville District were quick to take advantage of the new camping opportunity offered them by the Country club. Many of the boys are taking advantage of this place, especially prepared for them, to pass their test. Several are working on pioneering projects that are helping to improve the capsite as well as give them their desired advancement.

Troop 33, of the Christian church, had planned to take an overnight hike with their Scoutmaster Edmond Waldrop on Friday night but were rained out. In spite of that some of the boys were out early Saturday working on their projects.

Through a very generous courtesy extended by Mrs. Travis Hooker a much shorter route has been made available to the camp site by way of the Farmville road. Arrangements have been made whereby material for the prospective cabin and other improvements will be carried in through her property over the old country road that formerly went over the mill pond dam. This will also save hikers about three quarters of a mile walking.

The most recent improvement is the completion of a sanitary privy for overnight and week-end hikers. The water supply from the new pump seems to be very good coming from a forty-foot pump.

The chairmen of the various committees of the Greenville District plan to hold their regular monthly meeting for August at the camp site next Monday afternoon at five o'clock. Each member of the District committee is urged to make a special effort to be in attendance at this meeting.

STUNT PARADE
SET FOR CITY

Prominent Rotarians
To Ride Donkeys
Down Street

By WYATT BROWN

"Here comes my sugar down the street"—no, it is not; it is J. B. Kittrell, Herbert ReBarker and nine other Rotarians on donkeys. Any plans have been laid by the Rotarians for such a stunt definite enough that the names of the Rotarians doing the riding have been supplied for the press.

It is to be a parade preceding a donkey baseball game to be played Friday night of this week for the benefit of the Rotarian's Student Loan Fund. Also riding will be: Steve Wilkerson, Wesley Harvey, Rufus Keel, John Webb, Lyman Ormond, A. B. Stalworth, Orlie Van Norwick, Junior, J. D. Aman, Joe Dreesbach, Johnny Overton, Gus Fleischman, and "Happy" Watson.

The Rotarians had donkey baseball explained by their president, J. B. Kittrell; so if you want to know what it is ask any Rotarian. The game is to be played. Letar announcement will be made as to who will be the adversaries of the Rotary donkey nine in the Friday night match. The donkeys have already been secured—eleven squealing, kicking, dolorous looking donkeys. The committee on publicity is composed of Lebrun Spence, Orlie Van Norwick, Jr., and Joe Dreesbach.

Gerald Mitchell, secretary of the Greenville Rotary club reported last night on the District Rotary Assembly held last Wednesday and Tuesday at Atlantic Beach. He told of J. B. Kittrell's doing the Greenville Club proud as the master of ceremonies Tuesday night for the amateur program.

The Rotary club went unanimously on record as favoring the curb and gutter already approved by the City to be put on the street that runs down the side of the Rotary property. A committee composed of Julian White, Judson Blount, J. H. Waldrop, L. A. Stroud and Jasper Winslow was appointed to acquaint the Board of Aldermen with the feelings of the Rotarians about the improvement.

Guests of the club last night were visiting Rotarian Gwedy Dixon of Ayden and Knot Proctor, Fordice Harding won the attendance prize given by J. D. Aman, J. B. Kittrell, president of the club presided.

Mrs. Ryan Attending Religious Movement

One of the most significant and far-reaching religious movements of modern times has just been inaugurated at an international gathering of church leaders at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. Over two hundred leaders, authorities in special fields of adult activity, pastors, religious education specialists, and delegated lay workers, were assembled to confer upon a proposed "United Adult Movement." For two weeks, July 27 to August 8, these representatives of thirty-two states and provinces of this country and Canada, from twenty denominations, deliberated on plans and program for a powerful united movement for Christian ideals and action.

Mrs. W. A. Ryan of this city is among those participating in the movement. She reports that there are five other North Carolinians at the Wisconsin city working on the plan.

The nine commissions of the Conference gave careful scrutiny to nine fields of adult life, from personal religious living, home, and community, to economic relations and world conditions, holding each against the background of uncomplimentary Christian idealism.

The findings of the Conference will be set forth in a report containing careful analysis of each of the fields studied, a statement of problems and convictions relating to them, and concrete suggestions to adult groups. The movement proposes to initiate its work through a series of regional conferences and leaders' seminars. It does not project another organization, but plans to affect its work by channeling through existing church organizations, and cooperating with related national groups in adult education and welfare.

LOCALS WINNER OVER THE SNOW HILL CLUB, 7-2

Greenies Just Game and Half From Top As Martins Lose to Kinston Eagles.

Snow Hill, Aug. 11.—Greenville defeated Snow Hill here yesterday, 7-2, in a play-off game which was rained out several days ago.

The Williamston Martins lost to Kinston yesterday in a play-off till by the score of 6-6. By virtue of this defeat the Greenies gained another full game on the Martins. In other contests in the Coastal loop yesterday, the New Bern Bears defeated Burn Hearn's Tarboro Bunnies, 6-5. Ayden and Goldsboro remained idle.

Fay Billett started on the mound for the Greenies and was pulled in the fourth after he had walked two men and let a run in on a wild pitch. Reynolds May, who relieved Billett hurried two-hit and no-run ball the rest of the route.

A homer by Ingram in the second inning accounted for the locals' first run.

The Greenies started strong, pushing over four runs in the first inning. Ty Wagner hit a double to drive in two of those runs, and later he banged a pair of homers to drive in three other scores. His first homer, in the third, came with the bases empty; the other, in the seventh, came with one on.

Young Booser, with two doubles, and House and Brown, with two singles each, were other leading Greenville batsmen.

The Greenies are entertaining the New Bern Bears this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Third Street Stadium. New Bern's baseball team has won fifteen games this season. Although they are considered to be the league's weakest team, they have pulled some few upsets, but the locals seem to have gotten their stride and if this is so, it'll take a good ball club to stop them.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Greenville . . . 4 0 1 0 0 2 0 7 13 1 Snow Hill . . . 0 1 0 0 0 0 2 4 0 Billett, May and Wagner; Bumgarner, Celey and Parrish.

The Sportsman

By LARRY BAUER
Taking huge sea fish on light tackle is spine-pricking sport and the number of men and women who love the sport of the salt water reel is increasing year by year. Improved transportation affords inland anglers tries at the big fellows during ordinary vacation periods. The cost is not prohibitive. What formerly was considered a wealthy man's pastime now is within reach of the sportsman of average means.

If one does not care to pursue the "whoppers" among the game fish, there are many smaller species in coastal waters which afford good sport. The tang of salt air is fully as invigorating as the smell of native woods around fresh water lakes.

Change seems to be the order of the day. For instance, there are confirmed bass and trout anglers who admit they've gotten a kick out of casting in the brine. At least one thing is certain—you may be assured of catching something in the ocean.

The hardy fishermen around Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, have discovered that the tuna can be caught with rod and reel. They had been taking tuna for years with the harpoon. Now they're angling for the big fish, and what's more important, they're catching 'em.

The lobster fleet at Wedgeport is taking out sportsmen looking for 500-pounders. Fishermen and boatmen of the region credit the inauguration of these tuna fishing for sport to Michael Lerner, New York sportsman. Some admit they scoffed when Lerner suggested they try for tuna "by hand." At least one is reported to have said: "I laugh at him! Why, that line, she's no bigger than the string on a grocery package!"

Folks around Port Arkansas and Freeport, Tex., say that "rodeos" have become so popular on the gulf coast that even an old-timer can't get by with a good fish yarn. Too many persons are present.

A tarpon or kingfish rodeo is simply a series of fights with the big ones. It is a game of exacting skill to outwit a 100-pounder. Points are determined on the basis of kind, number and weight of fish brought to boat.

MARKET REPORT

Publishers Agree Sell State Books At Large Savings

Change Contracts and Omit 10 Per Cent Handling and Freight Cost Formerly Charged

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 11.—Almost all of the publishers of adopted textbooks used in North Carolina have at last agreed to change their contracts and omit the 10 per cent handling and freight charge which formerly was contained in them, with the result that the state will now save nearly a hundred thousand dollars a year, State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin said today.

This saving will be more than enough to pay the entire cost of maintaining the state rental textbook system and to pay the freight and other transportation charges on all books purchased by the textbook commission, Supt. Erwin said.

Two or three publishers, including one large publishing company which holds a big book contract, have been holding out against this agreement for more than a year now, despite the fact that none of the adopted books are now handled through a depository.

Before the state rental system was started, most of the textbooks in the state were distributed through the State School Book Depository, owned by Alfred Williams and Company here and the publishers paid the depository approximately 10 per cent for handling the books and distributing them to the various retail dealers who in turn sold the books to the school children. These retail dealers in turn got a profit of 10 per cent on the books sold. But when the 1935 legislature set up the rental textbook commission and started to distribute the books direct to the schools, there was no longer any need for a school book depository or for the addition of 10 per cent to the wholesale price. But because this provision was still in the contracts with most of the publishers, many of them insisted they should still be allowed this additional sum. A good many later on agreed, however, to omit this charge. But Houghton - Mifflin Co. and a few others opposed it until just a day or two ago.

The saving last year was about $60,000 on some $600,000 worth of books and should amount to at least $30,000 this year or even more if more books are purchased. Supt. Erwin said. This amount formerly went to the Alfred Williams school book depository here.

Terraces As Bad As Outlet Into Water

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—A chain is only as strong as its weakest link, likewise a terrace is just as good or as bad, as the outlet into which it empties water.

Terraces emptying into a gully, over a steep slope, into a road ditch or any other place that may erode is not only defeating its own purpose but in many cases does far more harm than good, says H. R. Tribou of the Soil Conservation Service.

In cooperation with the State College Extension Service enough terraces to reach from Manteo on the Atlantic to Fairbanks, Alaska, and back, have been constructed in North Carolina.

Many times where there is a poor terrace outlet it is necessary, Tribou advises, to construct a ditch for the terraces to empty into, the ditch carrying the water to a suitable outlet.

These ditches may be of two types, the vegetative ditch, which is protected from washing by pasture grasses, and the mechanical ditch in which properly-placed dams retard the flow of the water and minimize erosion. The mechanical ditch should be used on the steep slopes and the vegetative ditch on the gentle slopes where silting will not occur.

The meadow strip is, however, the best type of outlet. On fields that have a natural "draw," often a meadow strip can be established that will serve both as a terrace outlet and as a source of hay.

The cheapest and most effective outlet, says Tribou, is woodland, but even these need some protection, especially when the woods are woods are very steep and the vegetative cover thin.

Best Hay Is Secured By Earlier Cuttings

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—Most North Carolina farmers would get a better quality soybean hay by cutting it three to six weeks earlier.

The best hay is secured by cutting the crop when the pods are small and before any beans have formed, said E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College.

Most growers wait several weeks after this time and the farmers get a mixture of straw and beans rather than a good hay, he pointed out.

Early planted soybeans will be ready to cut in August. Lespedeza hay, he added, should be cut while the plants are blooming. Korean lespedeza, usually blooms about the middle of August, while some of the other varieties will bloom the latter part of the month.

When common Koba and Tennessee 76 lespedeza are cut at an early stage, Blair pointed out, they not only produce good hay, but the second growth will reseed the land or make a good crop to turn under.

August is the month to start sowing fall cover crops so the land will not be left lying bare after corn, cotton, and tobacco have been harvested.

Vetch or crimson clover hay may be sown in cotton when it is laid by, or in corn and tobacco which have already been laid by, Blair stated. Scatter the seed and cover it with a cultivator.

Sow vetch at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds to the acre and crimson clover at the rate of 30 pounds to the acre when it is sown in the hull.

Crimson clover sown in the hull will give good results when seeded in August, but it should not be sown any later, Blair added.

FALL GLOVES SPORT FANCY STITCH-WORK

Paris (AP)—Stitching looms up big in fall glove trims. Over-and-over stitching, hand done in yellow silk brightens the back and edges of dark green antelope gloves. Some white kid gloves are button-holed in navy but with space between the stitches, and the same open buttonhole embroidery make a novel design on the backs.

NEW YORK CITY'S NEW 2-1-4 MILE SUBWAY WILL COST $7,000,000 AND TAKE ALMOST FIVE YEARS TO COMPLETE

Less than a month after publication, Margaret Mitchell's first novel, "Gone With The Wind," passed the 200,000 mark.

SMALL 1936 TOBACCO CROP PREDICTED BY DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page one) country, the figure was 815 per cent. However, 14 states, most of them in the South, showed figures above normal. South Dakota, the hardest hit drought state, had a figure of 21 per cent of normal.

The condition figure on the cured tobacco crop on August 1 was only 67 per cent as compared with 85 per cent a year ago. This was the lowest condition figure on record except 59 per cent in 1932, when the crop totaled only 373,000,000 pounds.

EFFECT OF ALCOHOL INCLUDED IN GROUP NEW TEXTBOOKS

The 1935 general assembly passed a special law directing that a textbook dealing with the bad effects of alcohol and narcotics on the human body be adopted and taught in all the public schools of the state in order that the children of the state might be better and accurately informed concerning the dangerous effects of alcohol and narcotics. Accordingly, the State Elementary Textbook Commission at once started to search for such a book, but was unable to find one already in print which seemed to meet the requirements here in North Carolina. It then offered the submission of manuscripts both from textbook companies and independent authors. After a careful study of all these manuscripts, it was decided to recommend the adoption of the textbook written by a professor in the Department of Education in Chapel Hill.
