Administrative Leaders Plan Study Which May Bring Lower Taxes

No Additional Taxes To Be Requested of Congress

LEADERS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT

Business Improvement Such That Budget Will Be Balanced Earlier

Washington, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A White House conference today produced an announcement that no new taxes would be recommended to Congress at the next session and that a thoroughgoing study to be immediately made, in fact, lead to reductions.

Secretary Morgenthau, chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee, and chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, gathered with the President just prior to his departure from Washington on a drought inspection trip to study a recommendation made to the chief executive by Mr. Morgenthau that:

"Any changes in the tax structure should, therefore, not be in the direction of increased taxes. But this very situation makes it possible and timely for us now to consider revision of the tax laws with the purpose of removing any inequities or unnecessary administrative difficulties that may be necessary inherent in the law and simplifying or modifying taxes that create unfairness to consumers or to trade, or have other disadvantages that would outweigh their revenue yield."

Harrison told reporters that if the administration cost and difficulties of some specific taxes were found to be so great that they could be repealed with little loss of revenue such action would be recommended.

Morgenthau told newsmen he referred to "miscellaneous taxes" commonly called "nuisance taxes."

"Business improvement is at such a pace that we are going to reach a balanced budget much earlier than we expected," Harrison said.

Consider Erecting Rural Power Lines On Tar Heel Coast

Rural Electrification May Be Extended to Jlands Along Coast by State Authority

Faleigh, Aug. 13.—The possibility of extending rural electrification lines to some of the island settlements along the coast, especially to Knott's Island, a part of Currituck county, and Harker's Island, a part of Carteret county and in the sound above Beaufort, will be investigated this coming week by J. M. Granger, assistant engineer for the state Rural Electrification Authority. Chairman Dudley Bagley said today.

Mr. Granger will leave here Sunday on a trip in the course of which he will visit both Knott's Island and Harker's Island, as well as meet with groups interested in rural electrification in Bertie and several other counties and which will carry him to Wilmington and then back into Sampson county before his return. Chairman Bagley said he will confer with groups in Bertie and Sampson counties believed to be interested in forming cooperative organizations for the building of rural electric lines, it was indicated.

While much of Currituck county has already been electrified as a result of the building of rural lines by the Virginia Electric and Power Company, none of these lines have as yet reached Knott's Island, which has a population of about 750 people. If enough of these people want electricity to sign up for it, it is believed that the VEP company will build a line down from Princess Anne county, Virginia. Mr. Granger will make a survey of all the families on the island in an effort to find out what they want.

The problem of getting electric lines over onto Harker's Island, up the sound from Beaufort, is more complicated, since it would be necessary to carry the lines over about two miles of open water, since there is no bridge to this island. The people on this island will be expected to see if they could rather form a cooperative and set up a power plant on the island, or whether they want to try to negotiate with the Piedmont Power Company with headquarters in Wilmington to see if it is interested in building lines over to the island and serving it.

REVOLT'S END IS PREDICTED BY LOYALISTS

Collapses Seen By Madrid's Government Shortly

REBELS LOSE ON VARIOUS FRONTS

Fascists Press on Toward San Sebastian in Effort to Gain Seaboard

(By Associated Press) Collapse of the fascist revolt against Madrid's communist-Socialist regime within a few hours was forecast today by the Spanish government.

Advances against the rebels, who have fought for almost four weeks to establish a dictatorial government in Spain, and repulse of rebel offensives on various fronts were pictured in official quarters as heralding the end of the civil war.

But in a surprise attack on San Sebastian, Bay of Biscay resort, fascist rebel airplanes scored direct hits on several important points and the cruiser Almirante Cervera lay off shore prepared to throw shells into the beleaguered town.

Demands that the government surrender went unheeded. Rebels projected a new offensive against Estepona, near Gibraltar, and reinforcements were dispatched to Algeciras, which was under fire of government war ships.

The rebel radio station at Seville announced 40 officers and soldiers in the Madrid government's air force were executed after being captured in the storming of San Rafael Estepona.

As the same time France continued efforts to draw European powers together in general neutrality and barred recruiting for Spanish armies.

Forbes & Morton Again To Operate Local Warehouse

Concern Occupies Important Place in Progress Greenville Has Made As a Tobacco Market

In what Greenville has attained as the best tobacco market in the State and one of the largest in the world, no individual firm has contributed more to this accomplishment than Forbes and Morton, two as popular warehousemen as there are in Eastern Carolina.

Under the personal supervision of Gus E. Forbes and Will Z. Morton, both of whom are experienced warehousemen this firm has won the confidence of the growers from the thirty odd counties sold in the various offices.

She is active in Parent-Teacher association work, club work, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Daughters of the American Revolution. In the last election campaign she made 31 talks in the First District in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

Dr. Frank To Speak At Kiwanis Meeting

Dr. A. D. Frank, director of the 1st district of East Carolina Teachers college, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

The program will be in charge of J. Howard Moyer.

Pitt Woman Hoey Choice For Position

MRS. J. B. SPILMAN

Mrs. J. B. Spilman, prominent in political circles for the past decade, today verified rumors that she had the support of Governor-Nominee Clyde R. Hoey for the vice chairmanship of the State Democratic Executive committee.

The choice of the nominee is always accepted by the committee. The committee will meet in Raleigh tomorrow night to name its officers and map plans for the fall election campaign. While no definite statement has been released, veteran political observers have expressed the belief the present chairman, J. Wallace Winborne of Marion will be recommended by Mr. Hoey and will be re-appointed to the post.

In announcing that she had been recommended for the vice chairmanship, Mrs. Spilman said she had heard from every district in the state promising her support and urging her to accept the post. She also said she had heard from every member of the First District Executive committee.

This is the first time in history that only one woman was in the contest for the coveted position. Mrs. Spilman revealed that she had received telegrams from Miss Beatrice Cobb, former state vice chairman; Mrs. Charles W. Tillett the present vice chairman, and other women prominent in state and national politics, urging her to accept the position.

Mrs. Spilman, if she accepts the post, will visit every state in the union in line with her duties. The office is considered, without a doubt, the most coveted position and highest political office in the state open to a woman.

Mrs. Spilman has served as vice chairman of the Pitt County Executive committee for the past eight years. When she took office in the county, in the last primary 3,175 women cast ballots, indicative of the progress she has made in getting women interested in the selection of officials.

She is active in Parent-Teacher association work, club work, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Daughters of the American Revolution. In the last election campaign she made 31 talks in the First District in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

AGREEMENT IN CUSTODY CASE IS COMPLETED

Judge Signs Settlement Ending Sensational Trial

FATHER REFUSES DISCUSS DIARY

Leaving Conference, Dr. Thorne Declared Wife Had Child Most of Time

Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—(AP)—A settlement government and the sensational child-custody fight between Mary Astor, movie star, and her ex-husband, Dr. Franklin Thorne was approved today by Superior Judge Gordon J. Knight. Attorney Ethel M. Penin said.

Miss Penin made the statement emerging from a conference between Judge Knight, Miss Astor, Dr. Thorne and their lawyers on an agreement reached last night dividing custody of the couple's young daughter, Marilyn.

Dr. Thorne who came out of the conference with Miss Penin said the "question" of what will become of Miss Astor's diary had been settled. He was asked if he would relinquish possession of the diary, but said he could not discuss this upon order from the judge.

"I would have preferred the old arrangements to the new," said Dr. Thorne. The physician referred to the terms of the divorce he won last year from the actress, where he was awarded full custody of the four-year-old child.

"I gave the baby to Miss Astor more than half the time anyway," said Dr. Thorne, "but if any issues arose I had the final word."

Fire Continues Rage In North Wilderness

St. Paul, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Covering flames spread swiftly through a northern wilderness today despite the efforts of 25,000 grimy men who labored under increasing hazards. Official pessimism grew. Adverse winds and low humidity handicapped the fire-fighting forces. But they struggled to stem the fiery onslaught.

OLD LIGHTNING THEORY DOESN'T SEEM TO WORK

Newtown, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Lewis N. Rudisill of Jacobs Fork Township, a member of the Catawba county board of commissioners probably discounts the theory that lightning does not strike twice in the same place.

Reports here said that lightning this summer had struck a field in front of the Rudisill home, another bolt had hit the house, a third had run into the house on a wire, and a fourth had struck near the house.

Neighbors suggested an ore deposit might be responsible.

Average From $22 To $25 Seen From First Sales As Border Belt Starts Auctions

CITES REASONS FOR DECLINE IN EXPORTS

Dillon, S. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—B. D. Hill, chief of the tobacco division, department of commerce, attributed the decline in American exports of tobacco in recent years to general world conditions and increased production of tobacco in other countries in an address at the opening of the Dillon tobacco market.

"What the future will bring forth," he said, "is problematical. Your type of tobacco leads in the export trade, and any adverse effect upon that trade as a whole is reflected directly on the farms of South Carolina growers."

Hill said growers had benefited temporarily by increased values but that this was a factor in declining exports.

"Values necessarily placed upon your tobacco in many cases are considered by the foreign buyer beyond his ability to pay," he said. "For this reason he has looked elsewhere for his supplies, and found them, although they were a poor substitute."

In recounting the increase in production of tobacco in other countries, Hill said they had been taught to grow it by the United States.

"Not only have we welcomed foreign emissaries seeking knowledge of tobacco, into our country, but we have thrown open the gates to our farms, the doors to our barns, and our firesides, and upon departing, we have filled our guests' pockets with tobacco seed, the duplicate of which cannot be grown anywhere else in the world."

He added that tobacco growing had now become an important factor in Italy, China, Japan, Canada and the English colonies.

ALL MARKETS OPEN BRISKLY

Warehouses Jammed With Some Markets Setting All-Time Record; Offerings Heavy and Selling Good with Farmers Apparently Pleased, According to Private Reports From Fairmont and Lumberton

Florence, S. C., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Tobacco sales in the 21 markets of the Carolinas "border belt" opened briskly today.

Reports from over the belt indicated the growers were pleased with the opening prices.

The Mullins market opened its auctioning at 9 a. m. with more than 1,500,000 pounds of tobacco on the floors of the eight large warehouses there. Early estimates said prices apparently would average about 25 cents a pound for the day.

Dillon warehouses were jammed with an estimated 300,000 pounds for the first sales. Pile prices were low with first bids ranging from $5 to $45 a hundredweight. Official estimates, upon the basis of early sales, that the day's average would amount to $23 to $25 a hundredweight.

At Lake City a check upon 100 offerings as they were sold in lots disclosed 3,500 pounds in 85 baskets brought $783.51, for an average of 22.02 cents a pound. General satisfaction was reported at prices ranging from four to 40 cents a pound.

More than one million pounds was on the warehouse floors at Fairmont, N. C., with one of the largest crowds on hand for the opening sales since the market was established. The first 60 piles, weighing 5,000 pounds, brought an average price of $33.70 a hundredweight.

The largest opening day offering in the history of the market, between 800,000 and 1,000,000 pounds, were reported from Whiteville, N. C., where the first row sold brought an average of $26.85 a hundredweight. E. J. Pierce, sales supervisor, estimated the day's sales would exceed 500,000 pounds. Highest prices were 75 to 85 cents a pound.

Seven warehouses at Lumberton N. C., reported 800,000 pounds on their floors with common grades predominating. Price ranges were $3 to $18 a hundred for common, $25 to $42 for smokers and $50 to $60 for fancy grades. Average for the first 10 piles sold was $33.40.

Boyd Rankin, sales supervisor, estimated the average for the day would be $5 higher than last year. Pamlico market prices ranged from 23 to 25 cents a pound for offerings in which poorer grades predominated. The opening was terminated the largest in the market's history.

At Timmonsville all four warehouses were filled with a good grade of weed from first curings. Opening sales brought average prices of $28 a hundred, said by warehousemen to be $5 above the opening average last season.

The Clarkton, N. C., market opened with high sales, estimates forecasting sale of 150,000 pounds during the day. Highest prices were 40 cents a pound with an average of 25 and 30 cents prevailing.

Reports from the Chadbourne, Fair Bluff and Tabor City, N. C., markets said better grades were showing strength over last season's offerings while poor and common grades were weaker.

Private reports received by The Reflector from local warehousemen on various border belt markets follow:

Fairmont, N. C.—Sales are heavy in Lumberton and Fairmont. Tobacco selling good. Farmers pleased. Lots of tobacco selling from 30 to 40 cents per pound. I think they will average 21 cents.

Mullins, S. C.—We estimate average price today about twenty cents.—Smith & Sugg.

Lumberton, N. C.—First row averaged $24.80. Medium quality Reynolds, American, Imperial strongest. Higher than Georgia, according to quality. Imperial W. 35; Reynolds O. 34; Reynolds S. W. 35; Reynolds O. 33; Reynolds E. 35; American J. 34.—Wallace Bennett.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER GAIN: A 1-partisan check of primary results has convinced Republican and Democratic politicians that the Lemke-Townsend-Coughlin party will cut no more ice this year than third party movements have in the past. The box score suggests that its effect will be chiefly local.

Almost half the members of Congress have suffered their primary ordeal. Perhaps 50 per cent had opposition from candidates with Townsend or Coughlin backing. Nevertheless, only six sitting Democrats in the House have been defeated on these issues, and no Republicans lost out. The Democrats downed by the cheap money and pension people live in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Battles in several western states may boost the Coughlin-Townsend total, but not appreciably.

The Townsend-Coughlin press has been effective indirectly, however. It has forced almost every candidate, including some hitherto hostile, to endorse the Social Security Act. In many instances they have declared for higher state and federal outlays than the present measure provides. So the doctor and the priest may chalk that gain to their credit.

Soccer Team Frays

Buenos Aires (AP)—Players of the Racing club, most expensive collection of professional soccer talent in South America, tried prayer in an effort to end a protracted slump. One of the best known Buenos Aires teams, the Racing club lost consistently to tail-end elevens. They went to a shrine and asked for divine help. The next Sunday they lost again.

FALLS INTO FURNACE AND SUFFERS SERIOUS BURNS

Williamston, Aug. 13.—Johnson Modlin, farmer in the Jamesville township, was badly burned when he fell into a tobacco curing barn furnace at his home near Jamesville. He was brought to Williamston and given first aid treatment, then carried to a Washington hospital.

It is estimated that one out of every 12 persons in England makes a living by selling something to the other 11.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance, who teaches school in Ashboro, has a major problem in Mike Hannigan, who is too handsome for his own good. Mike has been set upon by the beautiful, blonde, who obviously expects to marry him whether or no. And Mike has good stuff in him, and deserves a better fate. While Carol was home with her family for Christmas, she was able to forget Mike. Now she is back in Ashboro, dreading the moment when she will appear before him.

Chapter 18

MIKE AND ANNABEL

MONDAY morning and rain. Whining, nagging rain, beating against the roof and filling the Great Lakes on the ceiling. Carol turned her face into the pillow and felt the weight of five more months crushing her.

She reached the building just before assembly bell, and sat at her desk, watching the first class file in. They came reluctantly, with memories of their holiday dragging at them, pulling them back into a rosy, too-recent past. They were glad to see her, but they were listless and distant because of their memories.

She smiled fixedly at them and began to check the attendance, then suddenly her heart stood still. Mike was absent—and Annabel. They saw her eyes flick from one empty desk to the other, and animation stirred them like a breeze. Two girls said simultaneously:

"Mike and Annabel got married, Miss Torrance!"

The room whirled dizzily and then receded. The sentence echoed and re-echoed in caverns of space. Mike and Annabel got married, Miss Torrance!

She read the rest of the story in their eager, thrilled faces. She clenched her hands beneath the desk and lifted an eyebrow.

"That's—quite a surprise, isn't it? We'll miss them..."

The day went by on stumbling feet, and rain slashed viciously at the windows. She gathered her belongings finally and fled through the rain to the sanctuary of her room.

It was almost five when Ellen came in. Ellen's eyes were sick, too, and incredulity peered through the sickness.

"Carol! Isn't it ghastly?" "Oh, my Lord! Carol leaned her forehead against the cold, moist glass and closed her eyes. "Let's talk about something else," she said finally. "What else did you do at Christmas?"

THAT night Mrs. O'Connor called from downstairs. "There's somebody to see you, Miss Torrance." Carol went down.

"It's Mike Hannigan," Mrs. O'Connor whispered excitedly. "He wouldn't come in."

"Then I'd better get a coat." She went back for her heavy coat, then stepped outside and closed the door behind her.

Mike was a tall, blurred shadow. She thrust out her hands blindly, and he caught at them like a drowning man.

"Mike!" They stared at each other for a long time. "Please come inside; there's no one in the living room."

"I'd rather not, please, Miss Torrance. I won't stay but a minute." She turned towards the soot-stained swing. "Then sit down. It's dirty, but it seems to be dry."

He sat down beside her. There was a light in Mrs. Taylor's house, and the cold white shaft fell on his face and emphasized his desolation. Because he couldn't speak Carol plunged into the midst of the thing.

here and try to do it—if I can stand it." The last words were scarcely spoken. She knew what was in his mind, and she found herself hoping furiously that he wouldn't stand it too long. She sat still, shivering with cold, and stared at the dark.

Mike's control snapped suddenly and he leaped forward with his face in his hands. "Oh, God, Miss Torrance; do I have to go on like this?"

She stretched out her hands and touched his head, and he turned swiftly to her, resting his head against her.

"I—don't know, Mike. If you can stand it I guess you'd better do it. It's bound to get better after a while."

A car drew up before the house and Mike jerked himself quickly to his feet. "I got to go. They'll be wondering where I am." He crushed her hands for an instant and brushed his lips against them. Then he ran precipitately down the steps, past Miss Morrison's interested caller.

Carol turned and went blindly into the house and up the stairs. She passed Miss Morrison on the way, said: "Hello. Your date's come," and fled to the quiet of her own room.

Mike plodded back to Annabel's house with his head down. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe were in the living room, and he knew from the quick silence that they had been talking about him. Broken sentences hung in the air like smoke.

He said: "Eyening," and tried to walk past the bright hostility of their eyes into the room he shared with Annabel. Mr. Monroe said coldly:

"Where have you been?" "To see my mother and father." He had intended to go there if he could find a ride out to the village, but the search had been unsuccessful, and loneliness and desperation had lashed him irresistibly towards Mrs. O'Connor's. Fortunately there was a telephone at home and he could warn his parents before Mr. Monroe checked up.

Mr. Monroe stared at him. "I've meant to talk to you about that, Mike. Since you've forced yourself into our family, I think it would be a good idea for you to forget where you came from."

Mike's head came up. "You mean—not ever see them?" "Not if you can help it, yes. It will be less embarrassing."

Mike looked at him hard. Mr. Monroe felt vaguely defensive, and resented the feeling. "I get you," Mike said finally. And walked out of the room.

That night, when midnight had turned its face towards morning, Mike slipped quietly out. He had no luggage, and he had three dollars and fifty-eight cents in his pocket. Daybreak found him 30 miles on his way north. He had seen his parents and told them the truth, and they had bid him goodspeed. They had the militant consciousness of their class, and Mr. Monroe's attitude had alienated them forever.

ON WEDNESDAY Mr. Hudson stopped Carol in the hall after chapel. "Miss Torrance?"

"Yes?" "I'd like to talk to you, please, as soon as it's convenient." She looked at him in surprise. "Why, of course. At lunch, or after school?"

"After school would be better. I'll be in my office, if you'll just come there..." He bowed and walked on, and she stared after him. It was the first time she had seen him without his beam, and a sense of foreboding was like a hand closing around her throat. She went through the day mechanically.

After school she hurried to the office that served as his headquarters. He was standing at the window, looking into the yard. He turned slowly, and the hand at her throat tightened. "Sit down, please, Miss Torrance."

She sat down and waited, but Mr. Hudson found it hard to begin. "Miss Torrance... I'm in a rather difficult position. It's about Mike Hannigan."

the Department of Justice are studying the Robinson-Patman anti-price discrimination act. It is expected that these agencies will furnish the business organizations with a joint legal interpretation.

Corporate heads say that that would be just dandy. If the joint interpretations aren't to the liking of industry as a whole a test case will be got under way almost immediately. But if the opinion is favorable business organizations will follow the legal expressions and thus government prosecutions will be avoided.

IN THIS way, it is felt the constitutionality of the law will not be tested. "But the opinions must favor business or a fight is in the cards."

Investment quarters, however, anticipate great activity during the early part of September. It is believed that the financing parade will be led by the General Motors Acceptance Corporation offerings of two $50,000,000 issues. These have already been filed with the Securities Exchange Commission and are awaiting the formal registration certificates.

Utility companies, too, are slated for a burst of financing activity. This batch will be supplemented by holding company financing as soon as the 1935 Holding Act is passed upon by the United States Supreme Court. But since a decision on the bill isn't expected for some months that class of financing may be withheld for the January reimbursement demand.

HOPE: Business interests aren't at all pleased with the charade of business recovery. True they like the plant activity and the larger corporation profits but they all agree that it can't last forever. They show that the bulk of the trade rife is due to government spending.

They say it all started in the late summer of 1933 and has been going up since. They even confess that when "big money" forced invalidation of the NRA hurried increased administration spending greased the wheels of industry to greater activity. "How long can it last and what will happen when it goes—or if Landon is elected?"

With nothing but gloom in their minds business heads hope only for the best.

WIND-UP: The Republican National Committee has decided to stage the grand climax of its presidential campaign in New York City on October 29th. It will be in the form of a monster rally at Madison Square Garden. A series of parades and other demonstrations will precede the grand public powwow.

Since President Roosevelt's New York speaking date will be fixed at an earlier time it is hoped the smashing Landon wind-up will win for him the forty-seven New York electoral votes.

SWITCHING: Informed sources say that the Communist Party is quietly urging its members and followers to cast their votes for President Roosevelt. They see no chance for their own party. And rather than aid Thomas, Lemke or Landon they are switching to Roosevelt. Best rate previously obtained was six per cent. And the British government will guarantee the notes.

International trading quarters say that the Soviet-British credit arrangement will cut sharply into America's portion of the trade. Russian business in this country is strictly on a cash basis. The British arrangement allows Russia to conserve her gold reserves. It is doubted whether equal favorable trade agreements will be established with this country. And so industrial organizations expect to lose their Soviet orders.

The Soviet Union — to date — has not defaulted on any debt contracted in any country. Nor has it paid in special currencies. It always pays in gold. So Soviet Russia could classify as the best credit risk in the world.

Some people have been a bit skeptical as to whether there was really going to be such a game. But there is really going to be. There was one last night in Washington. The Rotarians are going to put on the exhibition donkey base-

I'm delighted with our new Dodge! In the first place it's such a gorgeous-looking car. I doubt whether we could find greater riding comfort in any other car...

...It handles like a dream...so easy to steer and shift gears...and the brakes are marvelous...and what a money-saver it is...

We haven't had to add any oil between regular changes... What's more, our Dodge is giving us at least 7 more miles to the gallon of gas than our old car. No wonder they call it the Money-Saving Dodge!

Ballard's X Road

Rev. Mr. Mason of Ayden, preached on Sunday afternoon. We expect several visitors next Sunday; come and worship with us—let ours be a community service indeed, non-denominational, harmonious and devotional.

It is a long, long way from the stage coach days and the old "Plank Road." They have told one that the coach was red, drawn by four fleet horses; there was a "toll" house every ten miles, many remember the "toll" house that stood in the edge of Greenville; there was one near Lang's Cross Roads and another at or near Fieldsboro. This road was planned to reach from Raleigh to Washington, N. C., but only finished from Wilson to Greenville.

Does anyone know whether this stage coach ran during the Civil war or was discontinued before the war?

In those far-away days, Ballard's was Pleasant Mount. When the post office was discontinued the name was changed to Ballard's Cross Roads.

Both old and young will enjoy this look into the past, at least I hope they will.

Miss Lillie Tucker of Washington, D. C., has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Nannie E. Tucker.

Misses Mary Emma Joyner, Kathleen Ross and Mrs. Ulysses Joyner, Jr., returned Sunday from a visit to friends in Washington, D. C.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jones on Saturday, August 8th, a daughter, Patricia.

Mr. George Butts of Grimesland was visiting his mother, Mrs. R. E. Butts, Sunday.

Mrs. J. R. Riggsby of Roxboro, is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. J. Elks.

Return From Virginia Beach.

Misses Ethel Whitehurst, Alice Leigh Blow, Vivian Stokes, Eleanor Rives, Virginia Fryer, Betty Whitehurst, Carl Abee, Joe Proctor, Charles Wilkerson and Carl Williams, members of a house party, have returned from Virginia Beach.

The party was chaperoned by Mrs. A. C. Tadlock and Mrs. Key Norris.

BANK NIGHTS' BOOSTING WESTERN LEAGUE CROWDS

Des Moines, Ia. (AP)—A "bank night" plan to attract customers to western league baseball games here is working like a charm.

Attendance the first half of the season was so bad visiting teams were asked to waive the customary guarantee.

Two trials showed the scheme would work. The first game, 1,500 men and women, the latter admitted free as "ladies' night" guests, spun the turnstiles.

The second test brought out 2,000 persons, largest week-night crowd of the season.

Social Calendar

THURSDAY

7:30 p. m.—The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet in the church.

FRIDAY

7:00 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club building.

8:00 p. m.—The T. E. L. Class of Immanuel Baptist Church will meet with Mrs. Pearson, 1305 Cotanche street.

The 'Runaway Clowns'

The dramatic club of the Third street playgrounds will present their first play "The Runaway Clowns," on Friday evening, August 14, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Third street school auditorium.

This play consists of attractive rhythm, nature and original dances, clown stunts and fun.

Pierette and Pierrot chance upon the clowns in the woods. These little French people sing several songs among them one in French.

The cast is:

Tiny Tot Dancers—Carolyn Whitehurst, Alison Hearne, Louise Briley, Harriet Carr, Mildred Jones, Doris Marie Davenport, Mary Bertole Smith.

Pierrette—Mary White Jones.

Pierrot—Evelyn Glenn.

Clowns—Estelle Bright, chief; Eleanor Clark, Delphia, Flye, Frances Jones, Dorothy Taylor, Constance Baker, Viola Waters, Dorothy Flye.

Circus Dancers—Jane Taylor, Betsy Anne Flye, Martha Rowe, Doris Moore, Riggs Proctor, Elizabeth Carter, Betsy Hellen, Martha Whitehurst, Alice Joyce Rowe, Christine Jordan.

The public is cordially invited to come to the play. There will be no charge for admittance.

The dramatic club of the park playgrounds is working on a play "The Cook Says 'Yes'." This play will be given at an early date.

A dramatic club has been organized on the Fifth street playground—at present they are reading plays and will soon decide upon which they want to give.

Returns From New York.

Miss Almata Mallison has returned from New York, where she has been to purchase fall merchandise for Brody's.

Buie Urges Farmers To Plan Their Crops

Statesville, Aug. 13.—"Keep cotton and other clean cultivated crops off the sloping fields," emphasized T. S. Buie, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, in an address today at the 31st annual field day of the Piedmont branch experiment station near here.

Soil conservation is a program of wise land use, he said. North Carolina farmers can obtain highest returns from their farms by using each acre of land for the purpose to which it is best adapted. Keeping clean cultivated crops off the hillsides and using such lands for pastures, close-growing crops, and trees, protects the soil against erosion.

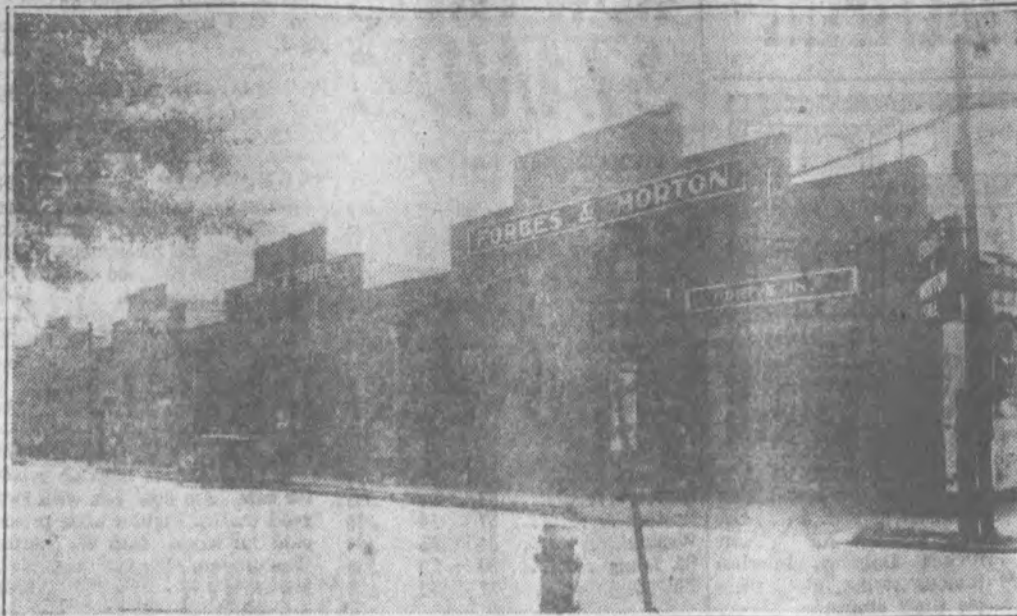

While the government cannot do all the work necessary for erosion control on every farm in North Carolina, he stated, the service in co-operation with the State College Extension Service, Experiment Station, and other agricultural agencies hopes to make available to all farmers methods that they can apply for themselves to control erosion.

To develop erosion control methods and to apply these measures in a coordinated demonstration program were cited as the two main purposes of the Soil Conservation Service in the state. The third important function of the Service, he continued, is the training of personnel qualified to make recommendations to farmers on erosion control.

The program of the Soil Conservation Service in North Carolina, explained Buie, includes 8 demonstration projects and 20 CCC camps engaged in erosion control activities. He stressed particularly what farmers may do for themselves to control erosion. Farmers were urged to visit the demonstration areas where they may observe the work and obtain ideas on crop rotation, cover crops, strip-cropping, contour cultivation, and other erosion control measures applicable on their own farms.

Because soil conservation consists largely of using the land properly, he pointed out, an individual farmer can carry on, at little expense, a thorough erosion control program promising handsome returns.

FORBES & MORTON WAREHOUSE IS A POPULAR ONE

Whatever record Greenville has attained as the best tobacco market in the world, Gus E. Forbes and W. Z. Morton, operators of the Forbes & Morton warehouse, shown above, have had their part. The two men will be at their stand again this year, serving their many patrons.

EFFORTS SEEN 'GET' WAYNICK

Highway Head Said To Be Victim Of Circumstances

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Aug. 13.—The movement now generally conceded to be under way to "get" Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and the weather those who know the facts agree.

Ever since the start of the depression, the highway department has been faced with the necessity of greatly curtailing its maintenance and betterment program in the face of greatly increased demands for maintenance, due to the more rapid wearing out of roads and the need for new surfacing of the light traffic surface treated roads. At the same time there has been a steady increase in the demand for new construction and for the surfacing of secondary roads.

Yet the 1931 general assembly greatly curtailed the appropriation for maintenance and refused to appropriate anything for new construction. The 1933 general assembly was even more jittery and accepting the pessimistic predictions of Assistant Budget Director Henry Burke, cut the appropriation for highway maintenance almost in half and put the highway department off starvation rations for two years.

This meant that maintenance had to be neglected, that roads that needed to be repaired or resurfaced had to go without any attention, that only the most necessary maintenance work could be done while mile after mile of roadways wore out or broke up for lack of funds to patch it or maintain it.

It also meant that delegation after delegation waiting new surfacing or new roads had to be turned away empty handed.

To make the situation worse, conditions started to improve about the time the 1933 legislature adjourned, so that the highway revenue started coming in faster than between 1931 and 1933. But because expenditures were limited by the appropriations act, none of this additional money could be spent. It was hard for the average citizen to understand this and the majority could not see why with highway revenue piling month after month, they could not get any roads repaired or new roads built. They got madder and madder about it.

Then the 1935 general assembly came along and the big highway surplus became a grab bag into which the counties, the schools and many other agencies sought to thrust their fists and bring out funds for other purposes. Some 44 counties wanted $8,000,000 of it with which to pay off county road bonds. Others wanted it distributed back to the counties to be used for any purpose the county commissioners might desire. The schools wanted about $2,000,000 a year of it. But the highway forces finally defeated all these many efforts at diversion on the grounds that it was needed to do work on the roads that was not and could not be done the two years previous.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

For it has been an open secret for weeks that a big fight has been brewing over the roads and the highway commission and that all those who are disgruntled with the present highway set-up are going to make a bitter fight on both Waynick and the commission in the forthcoming general assembly.

Those who have been following the course of this dissatisfaction, however, are convinced that both Chairman Waynick and the members of the commission are more victims of circumstance than anything else and that many of the grievances against them have their origin in matters over which the commission has no control or which date back long before the present chairman and commission took office. These also agree that a good deal of the opposition is due to the plan on which the commission is now organized and the abolition of the district representation on the commission in 1931.

One of the principal grievances against the commission is that it is not improving the roads fast enough and that it has been too slow in repairing roads which have gone to pieces. The present highway commission is not to blame for this condition, however. The real causes are the depression, the 1933 general assembly which decreed that highway expenditures should be held within the appropriations instead of the highway revenue collected, and the weather those who know the facts agree.

Ayden at Goldboro.

New Bern, Aug. 12.—Jack Card, who came all the way from Utah to pitch for the Greens, held the Bears to six hits today as his pals clubbed two Bruin hurlers for a down hit and an 8-1 victory.

Tarboro nosed out Snow Hill, 2-1 yesterday to gain full possession of fifth place. Ayden trounced Kinston, 7-3, in a "home-run" game at Ayden yesterday. The Williamston Martins held to the league lead by defeating the Goldboro Bold Bucs, 4-3. The Tarboro-Snow Hill game was a 12-inning affair.

Card held the Bears hitless until the fifth, an inning in which Jacobs and Branch singled. Tom Burnette's sixth-inning home run blocked a shut-out for Card.

Winfrey Brown hit a pair of homers and a single to feature the Greens' attack. Wayne Ambler, with a double and three singles, had a perfect day at bat.

Brooks, the Bears' starting hurler, departed in the midst of a three-run uprising in the third. Dopey Fuller pitched the remainder of the game, allowing three more runs.

The Greens pulled four fast double plays to help Pitcher Card. Three of the two-ply plays came after he had walked the first batter in an inning.

Snow Hill meets Greenville here this afternoon at Third Street Stadium to open a two-game series.

Score by Innings: R. H. E.
Card and Wagner, Latham; Brooks, Fuller and Branch.

AQUATIC TEAM WINS CONTEST

Greenville Swimmers Defeat Kinston In Meet Here

Taking six out of eight first places, the Greenville swimmers overpowered the Kinston aquatic team here last night 41-24. George Baker started for Greenville, taking first place in the 150-yard dash and second place in fancy diving for a total of eight points.

For Kinston Billy Wolf placed first in diving and Phillip Rountree came first in the breast stroke. The best times of the meet were turned in by Bill Tolson and Ray Smith, both of Greenville. Tolson was clocked 35.4 seconds in the 50-yard back stroke, and Smith swam the 200-yard free style event in 3 minutes 0.3 seconds. Five hundred saw the meet.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Stocks responded heartily today to the quickening pulse of heavy industry's improvement.

A high stepper on resumption of the dividend after about 6 years was Sloss-Sheffield Steel which bounded ahead some 13 points.

Revival of shipbuilding capturing Wall Street's attention, Bethlehem, the steel industry's prominent shipmaker, was again the favorite at advancing prices.

The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,450,000 shares.

"SHOPPING WITH MILLICENT"

Greenville has given me many pleasant surprises but none more pleasant than the exquisitely beautiful studio I found on the third floor of the State Bank Building. MISS HIGGS' STUDIO OF INTERIOR DECORATING is indeed a credit to this section and imparts to the stranger at once the knowledge that there is taste and refinement in the homes of Greenville, and I believe many of my readers will appreciate the following paragraph from an article published in a consumer's magazine recently. "There are decided indications that the great American public has returned to the state of mind where it wants good things rather than cheap things. . . . Consult the professional decorator. She is qualified by training and experience to give you high grade merchandise and high grade service. If you do business with her she makes no charge for professional services. Your merchandise costs you no more than if you bought it yourself through the usual retail outlets, because manufacturers, importers and wholesalers gladly allow the decorator her profit." . . . Miss Higgs as you know, is constantly on the lookout for the newest and smartest furnishings which appear on the market in order to bring them to your attention. Surely, it is to your advantage to have the benefit of trained assistance when it costs you no more. With her help you can have a home of satisfying charm and comfort. We are even now beginning to think of fall draperies and rugs, warmer tints for the interior of our homes and your home decorator is ready with the very plan you need to insure perfect taste in color harmony, artistic grouping of furniture and real comfort during the long winter days just ahead.

Long Winter Evenings . . . Cozy family groups around a cheerful fireside has long been a popular version of American Home Comfort. But the modern family goes a step farther and demands a well heated comfortable home. The problem is how to have an even temperature throughout the home that will insure the health and comfort of the family. I know cool days and frosty nights are just around the corner so I decided to drop in at the RUSS HEATING & PLUMBING COMPANY and find out what could be done about it. I learned that the Fairbanks-Morse Automatic Coal Burner will solve the heating problem in any size residence. It is indeed marvelous! Providing even temperature for every room in the house by burning smaller sizes of bituminous coal under proper conditions to get all the heat out of the coal, the saving on fuel is often sufficient to return the total investment in a short time. The automatic control keeps the fire from going out in mild weather but lowers the temperature for only the amount of heat needed. Think of building only one fire for the cold season! Smoke and soot proof it is a perfect joy to the housewife. If you would enjoy an ideally heated home this winter call by the RUSS HEATING COMPANY and let Mr. Russ explain how easy it will be for you to have one.

FOOLISH QUESTION NO. 502,129 BY RUBE GOLDBERG.

The gay, romantic summer season is at hand. College boys and girls are at home and the fun pot is boiling . . . there are teas, supper parties, lawn parties, "open house" and dozens of interesting social activities that will draw upon the resource of the gracious hostess to make her guests rave about her hospitality. There's always the problem of something different to serve . . . something that will appease the appetite as well as do credit to the hostess. And of course, in hot weather one must figure on iced drinks as the high spot. This is where the new 1936 KELVINATOR shines . . . an inseparable companion of the modern hostess. It gives her a chance to serve tempting, tantalizing ices, desserts and salads and at the same time take her rightful place along with her guests without having to stay out in the kitchen all during the party. Everything can be prepared in advance and stored in your KELVINATOR all ready to serve . . . and here's the pretty part about the 1936 KELVINATOR . . . the savings on foods more than pays for it. Ask Mr. Gaskins at the CAROLINA SALES CORPORATION to prove this statement.
