SECY. WALLACE SEES NO FEAR OF SCARCITY

Declares Real Period of Want Was During Year 1932

SAYS RAILROADS ARE AGAIN BUSY

Head of Agriculture Department Delivers Speech at the Great Lakes Exposition

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said in an address prepared for delivery at the Great Lakes Exposition today: "Drought did not bring scarcity into the average American home in 1934, nor will it in 1935."

"The record shows," he continued "that the real period of scarcity was in 1932. It was then when the surpluses were longest. It was then that the farmers were losing their farms, that industry was prostrate and fear and hunger were rampant. It was when farmers were burning corn instead of coal that the city people were most hungry."

"The records show that every year since 1932 farmers have been able to buy more things, many people have been able to sell more, business has been better and more people have gone back to work."

Counties Prepare File Claims With Debt Commission

Number of Units, Including Pitt, Contend State Owes Them Money For Roads Built

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 19.—A much larger number of counties are preparing to file claims with the county road debt adjustment commission than had been expected to do so, judging from the large number of inquiries which are being received, Chairman Carl L. Bailey of Plymouth, indicated today.

Pitt county expects to file claim with the commission. The formal claims of all the counties which think they are entitled to refunds or which want the state to take over the balance due on any bond issues for roads later turned over to the state, must submit these claims to the commission not later than August 25, Chairman Bailey said. He also pointed out that under the terms of the resolutions adopted by the commission, these claims and briefs must be submitted in batches of eleven copies or they will not be considered. The briefs and claims should be mailed or taken to him in Plymouth, N. C., by August 25, Bailey said.

"So far I have received claims from only three or four counties which are in proper form and ready to be considered," Chairman Bailey said. "But indications are that we will be swamped with claims before the deadline set by the commission goes into effect August 25. I have had to return some claims because they were improperly prepared or because the directions to prepare and submit eleven copies were ignored. It is necessary to have these eleven copies so every member of the commission may have one and so copies may be had for the files, since the commission has no appropriation for clerical help."

DREAD MALADY REFUSE ALLOW TAKES VICTIM BOND IN CASE

Little Grimesland Girl Dies of Spinal Meningitis

Annie Lou Arnold, 21-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Arnold of Grimesland, died in a Washington hospital last night, a victim of spinal meningitis.

The infant daughter was stricken with the dread malady only about noon yesterday. She was rushed to the hospital, but lived only a short while. The case was described as the contagious kind.

Funeral services were conducted from the graveside in the Arnold cemetery near Grimesland this afternoon with Rev. Warren Boyd of Black Jack in charge.

The little girl is survived by her parents both her maternal and paternal grandparents and one sister, Mary Gold, eight years old. Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, health officer, said he had not had an official report of the case, but had been informed informally of the death.

He declared, however, "we do not become alarmed at one case as the disease occurs sporadically." He added that no outbreak was feared as the disease seldom spreads from one case. He added, however, that if several cases were to occur within a short time, efforts would be made to trace down the cause as some specific factor probably would be behind the outbreak.

Load Of Tobacco Brought To City By County Farmer

Season's Initial Offerings Placed on Floors of Johnston's Warehouse, One of Oldest

Jesse B. Hardee of Black Jack set a precedent by bringing in the first load of tobacco to the Greenville market this season.

Although it is still eight sales days until the market opens here September 1, Mr. Hardee brought his first load early to Johnston's warehouse to avoid the opening rush.

Johnston's warehouse, one of the oldest and best known warehouses in the bright belt, was established in 1913 by the late P. V. Johnston whose son, J. M. Johnston, will operate Johnston's warehouse this year. Mr. Johnston being a member of one of Greenville's oldest warehouse families, has been in close contact with the tobacco warehouse business all his life.

Mr. Johnston has assisting him O. G. Rucker as sales manager, who has been associated with the various bright leaf markets in Eastern North Carolina for the past 24 years. Bob Leggett, who is known as one of the best auctioneers in the entire east, will spend his first season in Greenville at Johnston's warehouse.

Johnston's warehouse, one of the best lighted in the belt, has every modern convenience made ready for their farmer friends, and is expected to see this season one of the best in the 23 years since its establishment.

EXPECT IL DUCE REFRAIN FROM INTERFERENCE

Italy Keeps Fleet of Planes in Readiness, However

FRANCE, ITALY APPEAR WARILY

Negotiations to Take Both Germany and Italy Into Pact Pushed from Paris

(By Associated Press)

Italy, warily keeping her fleet of 1,500 fascist war planes in a state of readiness, is expected to make a compromise proposal in a settlement of Spanish neutrality was nevertheless in sight.

Such a compromise, fascist officials indicated, might mean Italy would give up her demand that socialist France stop its expressions of public opinion at home on behalf of the socialist Spanish government.

Earlier informed Italian sources said Dictator Benito Mussolini had served notice the air fleet would swing to the aid of Spanish rebels if France fails to obtain from intervention and "moral" support for the socialist government of Spain.

Paris officials quickly let it be known France would abandon her present position of neutrality if Italy undertakes to aid the rebel cause. They insisted France still was neutral in word and deed.

Jubilant rebels from their headquarters at Burgos declared both Italy and Germany were ready to extend full recognition to a fascist Spanish government on the day the rebel armies take Madrid—if they do.

But French officials, despite these new and seemingly difficult obstacles, pressed negotiations to bring both Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy into a non-intervention pact.

The sharpest civil fighting appeared to be taking place in the Bay of Biscay sector with rebels advancing within 600 yards of Irun.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two men of different ways of likes—the skyways and Broadway—worked over an airplane at Floyd Bennett field today preparing it for a round trip to London.

They are Dick Merrill, veteran of 2,500,000 miles of air mail flying, and Harry Richman, theater and night club songster.

The plane is Richman's $100,000 monoplane. They flew from Albuquerque, N. M., yesterday in a non-stop jump from Kansas City in five and one-half hours.

ABC Officials Here Plan Attend Meeting

Charles O'H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt County Alcoholic Control Board, said today he and other members of the board would attend the hearing in Wilson on August 28 of the state liquor legislation commission, headed by Victor Bryant of Durham.

Three meetings have been set for the state, the others being at Raleigh on August 27 and Wilmington, August 29.

All the meetings will be open to the public, Chairman Bryant said, but testimony will be limited to invited witnesses and to persons who have notified the commission they wish to be heard.

OTHER DEATHS BEING PROBED

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Turning from Rufe Swain's confession he killed Mrs. Mary Louise Trammell, investigators questioned the negro today about the slaying of two other women.

Captain Daniel Gilbert said Swain, 27, admitted last night he bludgeoned and choked Mrs. Trammell, 24, to death last Saturday night.

Then officials took him to criminal court building for interrogation about the deaths of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, 24, night club beauty, and Mrs. Lillian Guild, 59.

In all these cases Gilbert said the assailant stole up hotel fire escapes, crept into the rooms of his victims and broke their skulls with heavy blows.

Swain was traced through a laundry ticket made out under his alias "James Gray." It was dropped on the State hotel near escape days ago by a prowler who fled.

Captain Gilbert said he surrendered yesterday, but "broke" after Miss Frances Yeiger identified him as the intruder who was chased out of her room in the Lorraine hotel last Thursday night.

A negotiating committee came out of conference this morning and reported rejection of their request. Immediately a general strike in the mill was called and union members began leaving their machines.

Keel's Warehouse One Of The Best Throughout State

New Local Warehouse Uses As Its Slogan "Our Sales and Service Will Please You"

Keel's new warehouse, located on west Dickinson avenue, is another evidence of the growth of the Greenville tobacco market. This warehouse is one of the largest and most up-to-date in this section. It is well lighted, conveniently located and arranged. It is surrounded by plenty of parking space. Sufficient number of scales have been installed so that tobacco carried there can be promptly weighed with least possible delay.

Sleeping quarters are so arranged that those who wish to spend the night may do so and rest without annoyance. Nicely furnished ladies rest rooms have been provided. The cafe which is located in this warehouse will be operated in such a manner that ladies as well as gentlemen will find it a pleasure to eat there. In fact nothing has been spared which would be of convenience to the thousands of growers who will make Keel's their headquarters during the selling season.

R. V. Keel and Jimmie Taylor, proprietors of this warehouse, have for several years been connected with the Greenville tobacco market. They fully understand the needs of the tobacco farmers and at all times have made an especial effort to serve their farmer friends. They have left nothing undone which would help make Greenville the great tobacco market that it is.

In selecting those who will be in charge of the office and assist him in the management of Keel's new warehouse, Mr. Keel has chosen men of experience whom he can depend on to see that every tobacco grower gets the most efficient and courteous service.

Gilbert Peck who will be in charge of the office and assist in the general management of this house will cheerfully serve you in any way possible.

K. S. Woolard and T. S. Tyson will be in charge of the floor and will see that each lot of tobacco brought to this house will be unloaded and placed on the floor to the best possible advantage.

Several other men will be on hand to serve you but lack of space does not permit us to name them. Keel's new warehouse uses the slogan "Our Sales and Service Will Please You," and every man connected with the house is enthusiastically striving to make it 100 per cent true.

UP: Well informed business men marvel at the underlying strength of the industrial, financial and commercial structure of the country.

FARMERS: The soundest and most reliable politics do not concede the farm states bordering on and west of the Mississippi River to President Roosevelt.

The best guess is that the President leads in most of the agricultural states with the exception of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Colorado and South Dakota.

UNFAVORED: The TVA-ers face a delicate question which they don't quite know how to solve.

Private companies still war against federal generation and sale of hydro-electricity but, ironically, they compete rapaciously for the right to purchase the juice in their respective regions.

The problem opens a rich field for political exploitation. TVA can give or withhold favors on a political basis.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol Torrance has decided that she must start life in a new town. She leaves her home town of Meredith, N. C. for Asheville, where she just has taught school a winter, only better. She has only one real chance for a job in Asheville—Blake Thornton, who has no advertising agency, but Blake comes and she has taken a little apartment, and now Carol is home convincing the family that her latest step is "wise."

Chapter 23 NEW HOME

THE air in apartment 620 was thick and warm and still. Carol followed the Negro who carried her bag, and was about to say: "Just put it in the bedroom," when she remembered that this was the bedroom. The boy flung open windows, bowed over her hip and left, closing the door softly behind him.

She stood motionless for a long time, with her head defiantly lifted. This is mine, she thought passionately; nobody can come in here unless I open the door and invite him; nobody can say: "I believe I'll go with you..."

She took off her hat and began to unpack her dressing case. The box containing her pictures and books and linen stood in the middle of the room, conveniently opened for her; the Sherwood's service was no empty boast. When she had finished with the bag she began on the box, and emptied that.

The books and pictures worked a subtle change in the room: they overlaid its impersonality with a veneer of herself. Surprisingly there was a low bookcase, painted cream, and she filled it promptly. The neutral walls accepted her prints—gladly even—as if they too disliked their own monotony. The couch and the big chair would have to be covered: that was the one extravagance she had decided on.

She realized suddenly that she was being determinedly, ostentatiously busy, and faced the reason. She was trying to forget Milly's pathetic courage, her gallant and determined interest in this new move. Milly had been rather magnificent about the whole thing; she had matched Carol's frankness with an unwonted frankness of her own.

"As much as I'll miss you," Milly said at last, "I know why you're doing it, and I don't blame you. I want you to be happy and to marry, of course, and I know now that you probably won't do either if you stay here. I hoped you might..." She left the obvious hope unspoken.

On the question of Carol's small income, too, she had been uncompromising. "Of course you'll take it," she said firmly. "Pat and Jill have the advantage of the house, and living together is much less expensive for all of us than living alone will be for you; I wouldn't consider taking it, and there's no use arguing it."

Thus Milly had settled the question and dismissed it. And when Carol had appealed to Pat and Jill they had been equally firm. "Don't be a jackass," Pat said roughly. "Can you name one good reason why Jill and I should live off your money when we've each got a like amount and a salary? Thirty-five dollars isn't much, but it may mean the difference between living in fair comfort and living like a church mouse. Forget it." And she had "forgotten it" with a lump in her throat.

There was, finally, nothing more to unpack. She bathed and went to bed, and lay for an hour listening to the muffled sounds in other apartments.

MORNING was still and hot and brilliant. She had breakfast downstairs, and during the meal made a list of groceries to be ordered. In spite of Harry's prediction she was determined to do at least a part of her own cooking. You were less a vagrant when your food was prepared within your own walls; there was something stabilizing in the idea of being self-sufficient.

The car was warm and crowded, but not even the indifference of its passengers could entirely crush her sense of adventure. The asphalt pavement, when she descended, was already velvety beneath her feet. Heat poured itself on to the pavement and rose again in shimmering waves. There would be, she realized, almost three months of this, and she was passing grateful for the weeks of quietness that had fortified her for the ordeal of a summer of real work—the first such summer she had ever known.

Many of the women, she noticed with relief, wore cotton dresses; evidently the custom of dark silk dresses for office work was passing with other, worthier traditions. She entered the elevator and tried to quiet the pounding of her heart. "I'm scared stiff, she thought: suppose I make a flop of this?"

And tomorrow, Carol had dinner with the boss.

New York BY LOU SCHNEIDER OFFER: Now that industrial activity has started skillful labor is hard to get. Then again those who could fill the jobs offered are on PWA or other forms of federal dole where work is easy and not under pressure. Carnegie-Illinois Steel—a United States Steel subsidiary—is one of the many making this offer.

NICKEL: Even though the United States is the world's largest producer, owner and consumer of metals it only has a small supply of nickel. Only one-half of one per cent is mined in this country. About ninety per cent of the world's nickel supply is in Canada. And about ninety per cent of that total is owned by the International Nickel Company.

According to inside knowledge British and Canadian money own a fifty per cent interest in the world's nickel resources. Americans own about forty per cent while French and Belgian money control about eight per cent. This fact RELIGION: The latest inside Republican campaign information is that President Roosevelt will be assaulted with the religious question. It will be pointed out that in his Philadelphia acceptance speech he raised thunder about economic and industrial royalists. It will be on that phrase that the religious drive will be made.

The information is that the Republicans will tell the people that the Spanish revolution started with statements of that kind. It will be followed by other harsh parallels which—according to recent history—resulted in the complete downfall of all religion. The Russian and German movements will be cited.

CASH: The Department of Finance of New York State is out to collect as much in back taxes as it possible can. State officials had every public official of every village, city, county and township report to the bureau salaries paid to employees. They were written rather sweet letters telling them that their 1934 tax returns can't be located and would they please file another or tell where they did pay.

It is expected that New York State will add a good many millions of dollars to its cash position by this procedure.

PENALIZED: The French government's threat against "foreign hiding out" of French capital isn't bringing about the results anticipated. September 1st is the deadline set for citizens to file their foreign money and security holdings. But nothing is being done about it because of the Spanish battle for class control. Then again there's fear in Paris of the revolutionary spirit over-running into France.

Just what the French government will do to force action is unknown. Paris interests say nothing can be done while the Spanish fighting continues. Proof that French money interests continue worried is evident by the steady decline in the value of the franc while pound sterling and dollars are strong. But private wire reports hint that should the Spanish fighting stop prior to September 1st the excuse of fear will not be tolerated. Those who do not report will find themselves heavily penalized.

UNFOUNDED: There is talk current of a possible fuel oil shortage this coming winter. Increased consumption because of greater industrial activity plus the larger number of household oil burners in use is said to be the reason. Some 141,000 domestic burners were sold during the past year.

Official sources estimated the nation's oil stocks as of August 1st at 108,856,000 barrels against 109,32,000 last year same date. It is disclosed that the increased demand is offset by increased production. And so all talk of a pending oil shortage is considered unfounded.

WHY WE NEED A PUBLIC LIBRARY

It is hard for me to speak of the value of libraries in terms which would not seem exaggerated. Books have been my delight these thirty years, and from them I have received incalculable benefits.—Sir William Osler.

An indispensable community institution—the public library.—Mary Sherman, president, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Meredith Nicholson counts the Indianapolis Public Library as one of the strong influences in his life—acquainting him with the best people in books, and teaching him the purest and best English.—Indianapolis Public Library.

Warrenton. Both Edgecombe and Wilson counties are in the Second Congressional District. House was very active for McDonald in the primary campaigns and at present is the temporary president of the Liberal Democrats of North Carolina, recently formed in Durham and composed chiefly of those who formerly supported Dr. McDonald for Governor.

Barnes, who represented Wilson county in the 1935 general assembly, was one of the principal McDonald supporters in Wilson county prior to the primaries and is regarded as an excellent vote getter.

There are some who think that Richard T. Fountain of Rocky Mount, who sought the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1932 and opposed Senator Josiah W. Bailey this spring, may also be a candidate for Congress from the Second District two years hence.

Reports Indicate McDonald Backers Plan Seek Office

Three Supporters of Defeated Candidate Are Regarded as Potential Candidates

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 19.—Three men who were active supporters of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in the recent campaigns for the Democratic nomination for Governor are now regarded as potential if not active candidates for office two years hence, according to reports reaching here.

One of these three is Timous T. Valentine of Nashville, Nash county, who was assistant campaign manager for Dr. McDonald, now regarded as an active candidate for the Democratic nomination for Superior Court Judge in the Second Judicial District, in opposition to Judge M. V. Barnhill, the present judge in that district. It is generally agreed that the big vote given McDonald in Nash, Edgecombe and surrounding counties was largely due to the admitted vote getting ability of Valentine and the organization he formed in these counties. If Valentine can garner in votes for himself as he did for McDonald, it is agreed that he should be able to give Judge Barnhill a pretty stiff race, especially since Judge Barnhill has incurred the displeasure of the slot machine people by his war on slot machines.

The other two prospective candidates for jobs two years hence are Dr. W. O. House of Tarboro, Edgecombe county, and Tryp Barnes of Wilson county, both of whom are reported to be seriously considering running for the seat in Congress now held by Rep. John H. Kerr of

MASK REFUSES TO PLAY POLITICS

Fired Because He Put Efficiency Above Politics

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 19.—Homer H. B. Mask, until last Saturday Regional Director of Resettlement for Region Four, with headquarters here, was summarily fired by Director Rexford G. Tugwell last week for no other reason than that he placed efficiency above politics, believed that the function of Resettlement was to help needy farmers and farm families rather than the playing of office politics within the organization and the retention of inefficient employees and that he did not kowtow and sycophant enough to Tugwell's coterie of theoretical economists and baby "braintrusters" in Washington, according to those who know something of the background of Mask's dismissal.

motivated by intra-organization politics and jealousies rather than from any outside politics. They maintain that there is nothing to indicate there was any dissatisfaction with Mask as regional director in any of the four states in this region, which are North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee, also that there has been no friction between the regional office here in Raleigh and the state office, although reports from Washington have been that Mask was removed because he had "failed to coordinate" the work of the regional and state offices.

There is every indication here that these in most of the divisional offices here, heading the various phases of Resettlement, such as rural rehabilitation and other activities, were working in harmony with Mask and believed in his ability and sincerity.

was formerly assistant to Assistant Administrator Baldwin rather than to Tugwell, according to information just obtained from Washington. Mitchell, a former college professor of economics, is only 34 years old and is understood to have had no actual experience with farm problems and farm economics.

The prevailing belief now is that the finance, personnel and business

There is much to indicate, however, that there has been a good deal of dissatisfaction with Mask on the part of some division heads who were sent down here from the Washington office of Resettlement, who thought they should be permitted to run their divisions as they saw fit without consulting Mask and who resented it whenever he sought to take a hand in anything pertaining to their divisions. These were the finance, personnel and business management divisions, all headed by men sent here by Tugwell from Washington, or rather by Assistant Administrator C. B. Baldwin, in charge of finance, personnel and business management in Washington, and reported as being from Virginia.

Incidentally, George S. Mitchell, who was appointed to succeed Mask as regional director here and who is now in charge of the regional offices, is a Virginian and

PHILIPPINE ARMY PLANS 3 STRATEGIC CENTERS

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Philippine national army officials contemplate the establishment of three strategic centers in the archipelago, each with 1,000 soldiers and the necessary number of officers. Other centers will be opened as they are needed.

The first three stations will be located at Camp Murphy, Rizal province, near Manila; at Cebu end at Parang, in the province of Occotabo.

Camp Murphy is sufficiently close to Manila so that soldiers could be rushed into the city, if need be, in a short time. Cebu is a center of population in the Visayas, while Parang is the center of Mindanao provinces. The latter center will be of great strategic military value in covering the southernmost islands.

New Regulations Regard Wildfowl Are Satisfactory

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 19.—Regulations governing the hunting of migratory wildfowl, promulgated under the treaty with Canada by presidential order, while perhaps too drastic in the minds of many hunters, appear too liberal to others who are concerned over the future supply of these birds, John D. Chalk, State game and inland fisheries commissioner, said today.

In general, however, while the restrictions may work a hardship on some, the Bureau of Biological Survey which has made a close study of the situation for years, thinks they are for the best long-time interests of the general public, Mr. Chalk said.

For the most part, the commissioner thinks the new regulations are somewhat more favorable to North Carolina and this part of the country than were those of last year. In the first place, he pointed out, the duck, goose, and coot season extending from November 26 to December 25 is during a period when there are more birds available on their wintering grounds in the state than at almost any other time.

Williamston Outlugs New Bern, 13-7; Kinston Beats Tarboro, 4-3; Ayden Trounces Snow Hill, 7-5; Only Few Days of Season Left

The participants in the Coastal Plain League's post-season championship series will be Greenville, Williamston, Ayden and Kinston. Kinston clinched a spot in the series by defeating Tarboro, 4-3, yesterday to stretch to six games in lead over the fifth-place Tarboro club.

How the teams will square off in the first round of the play-off may remain unappreciated until the final game of the season, which closes this Saturday, as played. Williamston and Greenville are in a hot battle for first place, and Ayden holds only one game margin over Kinston in the fight for third place.

Greenville's Ed Williams batted the Old Bug a 5-3 setback here yesterday to keep pace with the Williamston Martins who are leading the Greenville club by a half game for the better lead.

Frank Brown, Greenville catcher, scored out two homers, the first being in the first and the second in the seventh. He also hit two singles, hitting 300 for the day.

Stove, Bradford and Morris led the Bugs. Each made a pair of hits for four runs to the plate.

Lefty Holland pitched for the Greenville, scoring his third straight game. Holland fanned five and walked one.

Hugh Bellard, Goldsboro hurler, walked three and fanned eight. The Greenies meet the Bugs at Telford Stadium in Greenville this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

HERE ARE DETAILS OF SHARKEY-LOUIS BOUT

Yankee Stadium, New York, Aug. 19.-(AP)—The round-by-round story of tonight's heavyweight bout in which Joe Louis knocked out Jack Sharkey after a minute and two seconds of the third round:

Round one—Louis peppered a couple of lefts and then missed a right swing to the head as they went into a clinch. Louis caught Sharkey with two hard rights and drove him to the ropes with two lefts and a series of right uppercuts. Sharkey jabbed but missed a right as they went into a clinch Joe caught Sharkey on the ropes with another right and then missed a left as Sharkey held. Louis jabbed with his left and caught Sharkey's right on his glove. The former champion landed several light rights from in close and then lanced away, keeping his left in the Negro's face. Louis landed a hard right to the body at the bell. Louis' round.

Round two—They came out boxing, with Sharkey keeping his left in Louis' face. Joe missed a left and then caught the former champion with a right and left to the head but received a hard left to the face in return. Louis swung to Sharkey's face with a hard left and opened the cut over Jack's eye. He battered the Bostonian with rights and lefts to the head and sent him down with a hard right for a count of nine. Joe landed a right and left to Sharkey's body, flooring him for a count of nine again. Louis in again with lefts and right as Sharkey hung on desperately. Another left sent Jack reeling, but he came back and was holding on at the bell. Louis' round.

Round three—Louis sparred carefully, but Jack came in with a left that forced the Negro to give ground. Louis sent Sharkey down with two lefts for a count of nine. Sharkey was apparently out on his feet. Louis sent him to the mat with two hard lefts for the final count. The finish came after one minute and two seconds of the round.
