COLONEL KNOX OPENS ATTACK ON PRESIDENT

Republican Nominee Attacks Roosevelt's Acceptance

ASSERTS PLANS ABSOLUTE BLANK

Chief Executive Accused of Walloping 'Straw Man' in Address

Hampton Beach, N. H., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, vice presidential nominee today charged President Roosevelt with "shadow boxing" in the president's attack on "economic royalists."

Knox devoted a speech prepared for delivery at the Rockingham county Republican club's annual outing to replying to the president's acceptance address in Philadelphia.

Asking "who are these economic royalists?" Knox called them "imperialists" and said that the president in the acceptance address "walloped a straw man" while ignoring "money, credit, merchants, agriculture, industry, trade, labor, relief and recovery."

Knox asserted that the administration's major policies are "in ruins" and its future plans "an absolute blank."

"When the responsible head of our government offers as the remedy for grave national ills to go out and save the people from non-existent and unidentified ailments of the economic imagination, the plainness and the inadequacy of our government are exposed."

"When we have that sort of shadow boxing with serious problems it is the time to try a new performance."

Of these payments loans totaling $19,961.53 were made to 59 persons and $2,022 of grants to 98 persons were disbursed.

An additional activity of the Resettlement, that of farm debt adjustments, showed that in Pitt County eight cases had been adjusted through May, 1936 involving an original indebtedness of $31,276 with resultant savings of $5,800. In addition to the saving through adjustment there was one case where the loan had been extended or where a reduction of interest rate had been effected. Further benefit from this activity was noted in the taxes paid as a result of adjustments, which in Pitt County amount to $2,022.

The State of North Carolina had received rehabilitation loans through June 26, 1936, amounting to $1,834,985.56 which were actually certified for payment. There remained the sum of $202,718.52 in unpaid commitments. Rehabilitation grants during the same period were advanced in the sum of $231,611.97. A total of 7,441 persons in North Carolina received loans, while 9,238 persons were the recipients of grants.

ROOSEVELT ON DROUGHT TOUR

Bismark, N. D., Chief Executive's Immediate Goal

Aboard Roosevelt train, en route to Bismark, N. D., Aug. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sped today toward the west for first-hand information on devastation caused by the drought.

The chief executive's immediate goal was Bismark, N. D., the heart of a section hardest hit by the long dry spell. From there tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt and his party will begin a swing through nine drought stricken states.

At Bismark also the President will begin a series of conferences with governors, senators and other state and federal officials looking toward drought remedies and prevention of its most damaging works.

One of the parleys at Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday will bring to the conference table his Republican rival for the Presidency, Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

The President expected to receive a report tomorrow at Bismark from the great plains drought committee which has completed a motor expedition from Texas to North Dakota. He is looking to the committee to formulate some long-range plan for combatting the drought.

Drainage Project To Be Considered At Tarboro Meet

Number of Pitt Citizens Plan Attend Session Friday to Discuss Draining Conetoe Creek

A number of prominent Pitt county citizens have received special invitations to attend a meeting in Tarboro Friday morning at 10 o'clock called for the purpose of discussing ways and means of draining Conetoe creek.

M. O. Blount is one of the chief sponsors of the meeting and has sent invitations to a number of officials and citizens in Greenville and Pitt county.

A group of prominent state officials are expected to be at the session. Land-owners, both in Edgecombe and Pitt counties, will join with their guests in a barbecue dinner at one o'clock in the community building.

Judge Frank Wooten of this city is scheduled to deliver the chief address of the meeting. Judge Wooten is recognized as an authority on drainage.

Among those expected to attend are Congressman John H. Kerr and Lindsay Wherry Senator Josiah W. Bailey, George W. Coan, State WPA director; J. B. Brady, director of WPA district No. 3; Lee Wallace, director of WPA district No. 2; Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, secretary of the State Board of Health; W. H. Booker, chief engineer of the State Health Department, and the latter's assistants. Health officers of Edgecombe, Martin and Pitt counties also were invited to attend.

The area in the proposed drainage district has been declared potentially one of the most fertile in the State and the same time one of the poorest.

Grain delivered at Indianapolis during the week ending August 5 nudged to new peaks, the highest since 1929.

The specialist, Dr. Fritz Meyer was immediately taken to the hospital, where the war secretary was reported in a physician's statement this morning to be in a semi-conscious condition after having spent a "rather restless night."

DEFEATED MEN MAY GET JOBS

Durham, Wade And Graham Expected Land Positions

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 26.—North Carolina's Big Three who lost their state positions in the recent primary, Auditor Baxter Durham, Commissioner of Agriculture William A. Graham, and Secretary of State Stacey W. Wade may find places in the new administration, according to friends of the incoming powers.

These casualties, the heaviest of modern times in North Carolina, have a mixed meaning to the students of politics. The auditor and the commissioner of agriculture in the 1932 and 1936 campaigns were counted among the foes of Gardner, Ehringhaus and Hoey. In both campaigns there was no doubt that their successful opponents of this year were friends of that organization. Mr. Wade was strong four years ago for the present administration, and barring the little episode with the tobacco farmers in April, there was no cloud upon that support of regime all the way through.

But the news which drifts down from Cleveland county is that Major Durham is in the mind of Governor-Nominate Hoey and may land a place in the social security organization which must be formed to carry out the 1937 legislation. Mr. Graham has a farm in Lincoln county, but there are agricultural agencies in which it is believed he can fit by executive appointment. The commissioner of agriculture never had a friend of whom he was more certain than the commissioner is of Mr. Hoey. Had A. H. Graham, first cousin, not been in the running, Mr. Hoey would have had more of Will Graham's help.

The odd thing about that overturn was that it got the best set of vote winners the state has had since the days of Bryan Grimes. No amount of legislative manipulation could beat any of them. Then the electorate without any warning to them voted them out. Friends of the winning candidates are not disposed to see anything beyond the desire for change in those defeats.

NEW DEALERS WIN VICTORIES

Senators Byrnes and Harrison Get Seats in Senate

(By Associated Press)

The return of two new deal stalwarts to the senate was assured today on the basis of virtually complete returns from Mississippi and South Carolina.

Senator Pat Harrison had a lead of 60,000 votes over Sennett Conner, former Mississippi governor who was aided by senator Theodore Bilbo in a bitterly fought struggle for the nomination. With all but 172 of the state's 1,639 districts re-elected, Harrison's vote totaled 122,650 to Conner's 60,550.

In South Carolina Senator James F. Byrnes won a seven-to-one victory over Thomas P. Stoney and Col. William C. Harless, both of whom had criticized the new deal. The vote in 1,294 of the 1,474 districts: Byrnes, 199,691; Stoney, 18,789; Harless, 9,850.

The nominations of both Harrison and Byrnes are the equivalent of re-election.

In California the Townsendites, cutting across party lines, appeared on the basis of early returns to have been successful in placing endorsed candidates in 11 of the 20 districts for the November election.

Dr. F. E. Townsend's legal counsel, Sherida Downer, conceded defeat in his efforts to wrest the third district nomination from Rep. Frank H. Buck.

Close Swimming Pool Friday Of Next Week

The municipal swimming pool will close Friday of next week after having enjoyed a "very successful season" in the opinion of H. A. McDougale, manager.

The pool is understood to have paid its way and had enough cash left over to keep up the payments on the money borrowed to construct the project.

The pool lost money last summer but the epidemic of infantile paralysis, which caused restrictions to be set up, was given as the cause.

LETTER LINKS KING ALFONSO WITH FASCISTS

Former Ruler Alleged Have Promised Support

REBELS ATTACK BAY OF BISCAY

Spanish Insurgents in Struggle Within Few Miles of Irun in Desperate Fighting

(By Associated Press)

Rebel Spain's smashed power, the official of the government's position on the Bay of Biscay today while socialist Madrid, through a confiscated letter linked former King Alfonso with the fascist revolt.

A rebel army of 2,000 with a tank armored cars and big guns, struggled a mile closer to Irun in desperate fighting, with three miles to go. Retreating government militiamen, blowing up roads sent their wounded back to Irun.

The "Alfonso letter" seized in a Madrid house was quoted as informing the rebels: "Victory is ours" and "you can count on me for any assistance you may need."

A white flag fluttering over the long besieged rebel garrison in Toledo's famed Alcázar caused the wildest excitement among loyalists.

However, after loyalist truce-makers had been greeted by shots the government concluded the 1,700 rebels were fighting among themselves within the Alcázar and that only one faction, weary of the long siege, had hoisted the flag.

Jose Giral Pereira, Spain's premier, exuded new confidence. He said "the military situation gets better for us every day."

Executions went on as four rebel officers died before a firing squad at Barcelona.

Madrid's minister to Tokyo announced he had sided with the rebels.

Negro Seriously Cut In Altercation Here

An argument between two negroes Lee Murphy and Harrison Atkinson last night resulted in the former being lodged in jail and the latter taken to a doctor's office for treatment.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst said Atkinson came running up to the jail last night claiming Murphy had "killed him." The sheriff took the negro to a doctor's office and then went for Murphy and lodged him in jail.

The sheriff said Murphy said he bit Atkinson, but the officer said he was of the opinion a knife was used to inflict the wound, a six-inch gash on the jaw. The altercation occurred on West Fifth street.

The officers said the argument started over stealing, each of the two claiming the other had engaged in such practices.

Estimated Armies Of Entire Europe Set At 6,000,000

French Statistician Predicts That Many Be Ready For War When Germany Adopts New Plan

Paris, Aug. 26.—(AP)—French statisticians tonight estimated 6,000,000 European men, a third of them Germans, would be "ready for war" when Germany's new two-year term of military service becomes effective.

While France mapped intensive plans for strengthening military defense, convinced Germany in heading for war, the statisticians reckoned the men under arms in Europe's leading military states would soon reach 5,369,000.

They estimate Germany in addition to regular fighting units which they place at 1,365,000 would have 400,000 nazi militiamen and 275,000 in labor camps, organized along military lines.

Inspector For County To Be Hired Shortly

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer, said today he still was negotiating for a sanitary inspector for Pitt county to succeed J. P. Stowe, who took over the duties of City inspector a week or so ago.

Half of Mr. Stowe's salary is being paid by the city and his duties are confined to the city and a one-mile radius. He will have charge of the milk and water sheds, however, regardless of where they are located.

France Moves Strengthen Its Military Defense Forces In Face Of German Action

STATE PREPARES FOR ROOSEVELT ADDRESS

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 26.—Arrangements are being made for a throng of 100,000 persons to hear the address President Roosevelt will deliver here September 19 at the Green Pastures Rally, according to an announcement made today by the central committee.

While the day's program will include several important events of great interest to the public, the feature will be the President's address from a platform in Charlotte's magnificent American Legion stadium, which is being completed by the Works Progress Administration. Permanent and temporary seats in the stadium will accommodate approximately 35,000 persons while the overflow crowds will be accommodated on adjacent baseball fields in Independence Park.

The Green Pastures Rally is expected to bring together in this city a great gathering of men and women prominently identified with the affairs of the South. Invitations are being sent to hundreds of the leading figures in activities of men and women in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee. Earnest co-operation of the governors, members of the Congress, other public officials and chairmen of various organizations already has been assured.

Preparations are being made on an elaborate scale for this meeting, which will be made more memorable for these seven states by the presence of Mrs. Roosevelt, the First Lady of the Land.

Additional significance is given to this rally by the fact that it will be held in the city where the famous Mecklenburg declaration of independence was signed in 1775. The spirit of those pioneers now is stirring the Carolinians and other Southerners who in great numbers are vigorously active in this and other movements for the advancement of Southern progress. The President himself has informed the central committee that he is giving his enthusiastic support to this movement.

Many local committees are completing the multitude of details in preparations for this tribute of the seven states to the Chief Executive.

PREPARES FOR EXPECTED WAR

Convinced Nazi Germany Headed For War, High French Officials Confer On Possible Effects Of Decree Increasing German Army To Double That Of The French

Paris, Aug. 26.—(AP)—France mapped intensive plans today for strengthening her military defenses, convinced Nazi Germany is headed toward war.

Virtually all sections of French opinion asserted Chancellor Adolf Hitler's latest decree increasing military training period from one to two years moved him toward armed conflict.

General Marie Gustav Gamelin, chief of staff, and other military leaders conferred with Premier Leon Blum and it was announced effects of the Nazi decree creating an army twice the size of France's was being studied in the hope of reaching "rapid, practical decisions."

Informed quarters said increasing French military service beyond two years definitely was out, but agreed the nation probably would move toward an increased mechanical effectiveness of her army and strengthen military alliances, especially with Russia and Poland.

The government, it was asserted, would continue a circumscribed policy, but most quarters doubted that much progress would be made toward improving Franco-German friendship.

Official circles said by diplomatic protest against the German army increase was contemplated since Hitler "clearly has been going his own way since he began violating the Versailles and Locarno treaties."

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE
 A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: So far, Carol's relation with her charming employer, Blake Thornton, have been kept fairly close to the employer-employee standard, although they were friends before Carol got the job. But Carol is convinced that Irma, Blake's older and very selfish wife, is not giving her husband a square deal. And tonight, when Blake offers to drive her home to save her a hot trolley ride, Carol asks him to have dinner in her apartment. Blake's enjoyment is obvious.

Chapter 29
INTIMATE MEAL
 Blake had found two glasses. "Say when."
 "When," Carol took off her apron. "I'm all through. Let's take that out and enjoy it."
 They sat on the couch and drank, and the electric fan whirred busily to meet an echoing breeze that drifted through the windows.

Blake said lazily: "Now that I'm not even pretending to work, I guess I ought to put on my coat."
 "Why?" She rested her head against the couch and closed her eyes.
 "Search me. Because it's the correct gesture, I suppose."
 "I hate gestures; because they're nothing but—well—gestures."
 "I like some of 'em," he insisted. "They do all the machinery, I have an idea we're mashing them too fast; the effect's disintegrating."
 "Maybe it's the disintegration that's making us stomp them."
 He shrugged. "That's a regular hen-o-egg argument, and it's too hot to think about it." He got up and went to the bookshelves. "Mind if I look?"

"Of course not. Why should I?"
 "I don't know. Looking at people's books is sort of like looking at their minds—unless the people are like some of my friends who cleaned out the parental shelves when they married, just to decorate the living-room. Say this is lovely!" He had set down his glass and taken out the copy of "South Wind." "I haven't seen this edition."
 The book brought Denis Ford sharply back. "For Carol," he had written, "who deserves the world with a fence." Well, she hadn't found it, and never would; this friendly hour with Blake was as close to it as she was likely to come. She could rest with Blake because they were united in their aloneness.

"It is lovely, isn't it?" she said.
 He turned and looked at her, one eyebrow lifted, smiling quizzically. "You mustn't blame that on the book," he said.
 She stared at him in astonishment and then laughed. "It's all right to read my books, but I'll be hanged if I want you reading my mind." She got up abruptly.
 "I'm going to set out the lunch, as our cook says."

To save space she served the plates in the kitchen, and Blake carried them in.
 "I never saw such a girl," he protested. "Where the devil did you learn to cook?"
 "I can't—much. I'm an exponent of Milly's theory. She says if you can broil steak and make cream sauce you can always get by."
 "It sounds logical. Some night I'll bring a steak over, and see how well you do that."

HE ate ravenously, hardly stopping to talk. When they had cleared the table to make room for the Camembert and liqueurs he gave a sigh of pleasure. The peace in his soul had deepened with the appearance of an unaccustomed physical hunger.
 "Tell me about your family," he begged. "I have an idea they're a swell lot."
 "They are." She told him eagerly of Pat's talents and wit; of Jill's serenity and beauty; of Milly's sweetness and courage. And finally of Evan, who had been everything.

"Blake's eyes were thoughtful. "I can't imagine anything better than a family like that. I was an only child, and my parents are dead."
 He added abruptly: "I wish some of your family would come to visit you, so I could meet 'em."
 "They probably will, when it's cooler. I wouldn't wish an apartment on them in this heat."
 The thought occurred to both of them that he could hardly make the acquaintance of her family if the family did come. You couldn't explain this sort of friendship, nor could you explain away Irma. And in the fall, they were thinking, Irma would be back—to replenish her wardrobe for Florida.

"She pushed her chair back. "Let's get this table out of the way; I don't like to sit and view the remains."
 He stood up. "I'm washing the dishes."
 "The devil you are."

Roosevelt argument that Norris must stand for re-election. That's why the affidavit was forwarded to the Senator.

New York
 By JAMES McMULLIN
AGAINST: New York Republican backslappers are becoming seriously concerned about one phase of Governor Landon's ability as a campaigner. They privately figure that his victory or defeat is likely to rest, in the last analysis on whether he can register positively—not just negatively—with the middle-of-the-road voters who hold the balance of power.

As Senator Townsend related it, he replied: "Well, is it worth a million dollars for you to keep Norris out of the Senate?" The answer was: "Yes—a thousand times over." Because it touches the nation's leading Progressive and P.D.'s pet program—public development of power—the revelation may headline the Democratic campaign speeches and literature. It may clinch the original program of big time anti-New Dealers was to oppose the President with an "average man" candidate. Their idea was to concentrate effort on P.D.'s faults—newly minted business virtues. It was to be a campaign against Roosevelt, not for anyone. The electorate was supposed to turn with relief from brain trust fetter-ship to just a plain citizen without frills or fancy ideas. The vote against this picture beautifully fitted the picture beautifully. But careful scanning out of sentiment in various sections indicates that this well-laid plan isn't work-

Roosevelt has about reached maximum mobilization already—and evidently it isn't going to be enough to beat him. It becomes apparent that the heaviest hammering won't make him sufficiently unpopular to allow his opponent to win by default.

SELLING: In order to win the election behind-the-scenes G. O. P. strategists figure they will have to pick up a lot of votes for Landon, a task they failed to visualize in advance. Far too many cracks about "the candidate nobody knows," "the lost leader," "John Hamilton's stooge," "the cracker-barrel statesman," etc., are circulating for comfort. There is caustic criticism in high anti-New Deal circles because the G. O. P. nominee selected such nice safe topics as "Americanism" and "education" for his eastern speeches. "It's all very well to play safe, but Alf is overdoing it. He will have to lay off the generalities and get down to constructive cases if he is to have a chance of coming out on top."

Another big-time Republican says: "A lot of us thought all we needed to beat FDR was an honest straightforward, homespun type with plenty of horse sense and a heart of gold—sort of a dignified Will Rogers. We were wrong. "Too many voters are from Missouri. They may not be so strong for Roosevelt, but they insist on being shown that they are going to get something better before they chuck him out. Landon has a real selling job on his hands."

FLOW: Well-posted financial men are uneasy about the power Europeans have obtained over our markets through their heavy purchases of American securities. If they should ever choose to pull the plug on concentrated liquidation, a tremendous crash in stock prices would probably follow. Such liquidation might or might not be planned intentionally. It could arise through chaotic depreciation of Latin currencies. For the past three years dollars have been a great bargain in international exchange, which largely accounts for the steady flow of foreign capital to this country.

 If this situation were suddenly reversed, these floating funds might flow out much faster than they flowed in—with disastrous consequences for Uncle Sam's internal economy.

ALERT: It is worth noting that European liquidation of this nature would presumably bring large profits to the sellers of American equities.
 The bulk of foreign buying took place at prices well below current stock market levels. Further, by keeping the proceeds in cash for a while, European speculators could be fairly certain of picking up the same stocks nice and cheap when the collapse was over.

There are few indications that any such devastating development is imminent. At the same time, exceptionally shrewd analysts warn that we should be alert to the possibility, especially in the event that the Spanish civil war leads to internal trouble in France.

PENALTY: Securities Exchange Commission circles are privately incensed at persistent Wall Street rumors that they will not get rough with violators of New Deal security laws. It is explained that the Commission's apparent slowness to take disciplinary action arises from the necessity of giving delinquent traders and firms every chance to present their side of the case.
 "The SEC is especially anxious to avoid giving those it seeks to discipline any opening to charge in court that the Commission exceeded its legal authority or acted in an arbitrary manner. Hence the leaning over backward to give the accused a fair trial." For instance, the venue of hearings was shifted in one case from New York to California and then back to New York permissible motive other than to delay matters.

 Only one major disciplinary ruling by the Commission is in prospect before election. That's in the long deferred Mike Meehan case. Exceptionally informed sources are willing to lay long odds that the Commission will not pull its punches—for political or other reasons—and that Meehan will be handed a stiff penalty.

WORK COMPLETED IN RESTORATION MING TOMBS
 Peiping. (AP)—Restoration work on the celebrated Ming Tombs, near Peiping, where 13 Ming Emperors who ruled China from 1368 to 1644 A. D. are buried, has just been completed.
 The tombs, famous for the long avenue of grotesque stone animals leading to them, are annually visited by thousands of American tourists on their way to see China's "Great Wall" which is only a short distance from the Ming Sepulchres.

 The restoration was begun last year with money provided by the government railways and the ministry of finance for the restoration of historic landmark and cultural objects. Similar restoration activities are now going on at the famous Temple of Heaven, the Altar of Heaven, and other shrines in or near Peiping.

INDIA TO TATTO CATTLE IN FIGHT ON RUSTLERS

Lahore, India — (AP)—A tattoo needle instead of a branding iron is the weapon with which the Indian government is battling the big-scale cattle rustlers of the Punjab.

Cattle thieves take about 50,000 head a year, because of the ease with which the animals escape identification. The government has drawn up a program by which the cattle will be tattooed on their left and right ears and an elaborate code system of symbols has been devised under which every village in the province has its own identification.

State Employees Hear They'll Get Deferred Payment

Workers Hope They Will Include Recommendation in His Inaugural Message to Assembly

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 25.—State workers have been hearing recently that Democratic Nominee Clyde R. Hoey will, when he shall have prepared his inaugural message to the general assembly, recommend the return by the state of an approximate $400,000 taken from them April, May and June of 1933.

Mr. Hoey has made no public commitment to that effect, and his two opponents did. His Republican antagonist Gilliam Grisson makes no such promise. But the attorney general at that time, Dennis G. Brummitt, later ruled that this is a state obligation and represents a delayed payment. The 1935 general assembly discussed bills proposing the return of these withheld amounts. During the campaign for the governorship Lieutenant Governor A. H. Graham declared his purpose to recommend this payment and said it had been defeated by the present administration.

Some friends of Mr. Hoey are quoted as very certain that the incoming executive is going to regard this emergency cut just that, and a real obligation of the state. The necessity for holding out on the hired help was generally recognized at that time and Governor Ehringhaus never has been blamed for using the powers granted him by the legislature in taking a slice large enough to help the state in an extremity. Mr. Hoey hardly would make a commitment of this character before an election. It is said. But for him it is suggested that the state is in pretty fair financial shape and it can now restore some funds that have been very much needed by the persons who surrendered them three years ago.

The 1935 general assembly would not insert the re-payment of this money in its legislative budget. But it is contended by many possible beneficiaries of this action that legislation would not be necessary, though probably easier to achieve should a change of executive mind should it need changing.

WHY WE NEED A PUBLIC LIBRARY

Libraries exist for the use and benefit of the average man. He pays the freight, and, in the last analysis, he controls their destinies. Libraries may tend to re-create the average man but, first of all, he creates or destroys them as his pleasure may dictate. There can be no permanent establishment and support of public libraries except as they spring from public demand and have behind them public sanction.

Books are a substantial part of the material on which minds may be fed. It is easier to produce fiction from thistles than to produce rational and intelligent opinions from minds which have been deprived of such nourishment as books afford.

In referring to voting and jury service I mention two of the most elementary and primary duties of the citizen. I have assumed, as I must assume, that deep down in the heart of the average man there is a desire to be a good citizen. I believe that to this desire an intelligent appeal for libraries may be addressed. And I believe that when it is made plain to the average man that a public library within his reach will appreciably increase his capacity to discharge these primary duties, he will respond to that appeal.

There is ground for the faith that the people will respond to an appeal for public libraries when that appeal is intelligently presented. In the year 1927 the State of North Carolina took the lead in the organization of a Citizens Library Movement. Hundreds of patriots, men and women gave freely of their time and means in order to present to the citizens of North Carolina their obligation to place books within the reach of every man, woman and child of that state. The response was electric. The library progress of North Carolina dates from that campaign. Other states have fallen into line.

The underlying philosophy of the Citizens Library Movement is the underlying philosophy of every civic movement in a democracy. It is that permanent growth and improvement must grow out of an informed public opinion, and that the duty is upon those assuming leadership to create such informed public opinion. Where this course is followed, a proper basis is laid for achieving the goal of all workers in the library cause—the placing of books and ever more books in the hands of every man, woman, and child who wishes to read.

ACT INCREASE FISH INDUSTRY

Shad and Rock Making Way Back To Dinner Table

Morehead City, Aug. 26.—The shad and rock fish are on their way back to the dining table of Mr. Average Citizen, and the restoration of what was once a lucrative industry for the fishermen was planned at a meeting of a special committee from the Department of Conservation and Development with Glen C. Leach, chief of the division of fish culture, of the United States Bureau of Fisheries.

The sessions here on Thursday and Friday were held about the flagship of the North Carolina Navy, the John Nelson, and were attended by State Director Bruce Ehrberidge and his assistant Paul Kelly, State Game Warden John Chalk, State Fisheries Commissioner John Nelson and committee members R. S. Askey of Elizabeth City, Jas. L. McNair of Laurinburg, and J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount.

Evolved from the conference was a pledge of complete federal assistance for the effort within the state, a multiplying by three fold any restocking efforts ever undertaken in the state. Included in the plan will be the early assignment to the eastern area of a conservation and propagation specialist working out of the offices of the federal government at Beaufort who is to make a complete and exhaustive study of the shad in the stream and sounds and of the enemies of this migratory fish. The support of the North Carolina commission was asked in connection with a proposed conference of Conservation officials from along the Atlantic seaboard looking to the presentation of a uniform appeal to the next session of congress for regulatory measures governing migratory fish, modeled along the lines of the now existing laws as respect migratory fowl.

There was discussion of what was termed as a long range effort to bring the shad back to the waters of the state since it was pointed out that within the present generation the annual take had dropped from ten million pounds to less than one million pounds annually it being pointed out that continued period of poor catches had rendered the fishermen's per capital wealth to among the lowest in the state, and that an application of remedial measures whatever they might be would have to of necessity take this into account.

It was of this reason that the planning was confined to the discussion stage, although with the help of federal officials it is planned that the committee will present for adoption one of several alternatives when the entire board of Conservation and Development meets for a called meeting at the Mount Mitchell Reserve early in October.

proposed the construction of natural ponds in selected marsh areas in which young fish can be protected and reared to marketable size. It is proposed to start with mullet and to branch out later into other species, if the plan shows promise.

The following procedure has been outlined by Dr. Prytherch: Construction of mud banks, approximately 3 feet high, along high marsh levels, so as to enclose bays and canals of suitable depth.

Construction of wire fences or gates at mouths of ponds to retain fish and permit satisfactory circulation of water.

Seining operations to remove predatory animals from ponds and to collect young fish for stocking purposes.

According to Dr. Prytherch, two locations for the establishment of mullet ponds have been selected in the immediate vicinity of the laboratory at Beaufort. These locations are convenient to supervision and protection from the station.

Dr. Prytherch points out that there is a plentiful supply of small mullets which may be enclosed within the ponds and brought to a marketable size. These fish, he said, could be taken at any time, particularly when in greatest demand. Under this procedure, he continued, the best market prices could be obtained.

These proposed project would serve as a demonstration, and if successful, should lead the way to a possible new and important source of income for the commercial fishermen.

GREENIES LOSE 10-INNING TILT

Whatley's Homer In Tenth Wins for Ayden Aces, 7-6

COASTAL PLAIN LEAGUE (Post-Season Semi-Finals)

Table with columns W, L, Pct. for Greenville and Ayden.

Ayden, Aug. 26—A home run in the tenth inning with one man on base brought Ayden's Aces a 7-6 win over Greenville's Greenies here yesterday afternoon and evened the count in the post-season semi-finals play-off at one-all.

Big Jim Whatley was the home run hitter and it was his 19th circuit clout of the season for Ayden's star first-sacker.

It was the second extra-inning game in so many tilts.

Glass, who relieved Byrd on the mound for the Aces as the tenth opened, gained credit for the win. The contest was hotly fought throughout, with home runs playing a leading role.

Outside of Jim Whatley's tenth frame drive over leftfield fence, circuit blows were hit by Brown, Ambler and Wagner for the Greenies and Johnson for the Aces.

Lefty Holland went the route for Greenville, yielding nine to his, while Byrd held the visitors to 11. It was Holland's first loss in the last five starts.

In the ninth, with the score tied at four-all, Ambler put the Greenies ahead with a homer. In Ayden's half, Bost singled and continued on to third on an error and then scored on a fielder's choice to again knot the score at 5-all.

Wagner, Greene catcher, homered as the tenth opened. Glass relieved Byrd and retired the visitors.

With one out in Ayden's half of the tenth, Tabor walked. Wnowles popped out and then Whatley hit his game-winning homer for the tying and winning runs.

The Aces are playing Greenville at Third Street Stadium for the third game of the series today.

Card will probably start for the Greenies on the mound.

Kinston, Aug. 26—Williamston's Martins handed the Eagles a 7 to 3 setback here yesterday to even the semi-finals series one-all.

Dick Cherry, ace of the Martins' mound staff, held Kinston to nine hits and blanked them except for the second innings as his mates made ten hits off "Pep" Rambert, Eagle hurler.

Walters with a homer and two singles paced the Martins with the willow whiff Rambert, with a triple and to singles led the Eagles at bat. Rambert was responsible for all of Kinston's runs.

The Eagles are playing Williamston in Williamston today for the third game of the series.
