Rebel Junta at Burgos Announces Abortive Attack

VIOLENT BATTLE AROUND OVIEDO

Conflicting Claims by Fascist Rebels and Government Forces Being Circulated

(By Associated Press) A rebel junta, which claims it is the "real" national government of Spain, today announced 2,000 government troops had been slaughtered in an abortive attack on the island of Mallorca.

At the same time fascist rebels and socialist government sources reported a new and violent engagement at the besieged rebel city of Oviedo, in the northern part of the country.

Who actually won was hidden in highly conflicting claims.

There was a similar conflict of claims concerning success or failure of the rebels' southwestern drive on Madrid and on other battle fronts.

The rebels at Burgos, seat of the junta, declared a final attack on the northern city of San Sebastian as imminent and said an unofficial truce there involving negotiations for the city's surrender had been broken because the defenders wanted safe conduct for militiamen whom they desired to send to the defense of nearby Bilbao.

International worries over whether the Spanish war will stay where it belongs were reflected at a conference in Paris of the administrators of French territories in northern Africa.

These colonial authorities, meeting on call of Premier Leon Blum, said they suspected a network of active runners was spreading secret agitation connected with the Spanish trouble, among the Mohammedan peoples in the northern African area.

Last rites for Mrs. Robert L. Humber, who died in the local hospital yesterday morning, will be conducted from Memorial Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, assisted by Rev. W. H. Moore of Wadesboro, former pastor of the church, and Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will conduct the rites. Burial will follow in the family plot in Cherry Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Humber was born in Carters county November 24, 1870, but moved to this city immediately following her marriage to Mr. Humber of Greenville, and has lived here since.

She took an active part in religious circles and was one of the church's most ardent supporters. She served as secretary-treasurer of the Woman's Missionary Society of Memorial Baptist Church for 40 years and as financial secretary of the church for 15 years. For 40 years she was superintendent and teacher of the primary department of the church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Dr. John Davis Humber, superintendent of Southern Pacific Hospital at San Francisco, Calif., and Dr. Robert L. Humber, Jr., of Paris, France, internationally known attorney; one daughter, Mrs. Lindsey D. Smith of San Francisco, who is connected with her brother in cancer research work.

Other survivors include two sisters. (Continued on page eight)

Rains May Heal Scars of Drought

Continued Rains, Late Frost and Mild Winter Listed as Factors Which Probably Will Have Effects of Long Dry Spell

Washington, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Continued rains, a late frost and a mild winter were listed today by crop experts as factors that will help remove the scars of droughts between now and a new growing season.

Another reduction of nearly two per cent in the estimated total yield of the nation's crop for this year was coupled yesterday with a statement that the drought of 1936 was less damaging than the 1931 arid season.

"Now that one can look back without worrying about losses still to come, the drought appears to have been a less serious national calamity than was that of 1931," said the federal crop reporting board.

Widespread rains late in August and since September 1 were said to have ended crop deteriorations in perhaps two-thirds of the interior drought area, although conditions were still reported as serious in the southwest and "scattered localities."

The crop board said the total acreage harvested this year will probably be "about 10 per cent below average, but still about 10 per cent greater than in 1934." It estimated total crop yields at "perhaps 16 per cent below average," but still "two or three per cent greater" than two years ago.

The yield of most field crops was revised upwards slightly for the August 1 forecast, but these gains were offset by a 11 per cent decrease in cotton during the month and a 28 per cent decline in grain sorghums and important animal feed.

Lawyers Of Pitt County Revive Bar Association

Julius Brown Named President For ensuing Year

The Pitt County Bar Association, long dormant, was revived at a meeting held at Respass barbecue palace last night called by Secretary-Treasurer Arthur B. Corey and attended by a majority of the attorneys in the county.

Following a business session and brief talks by F. C. Harding and Albin Dunn, several of the lawyers expressed a desire to make the organization a wide-awake, active association. J. W. H. Roberts was the first to make a move in this direction when he offered a motion that the association meet once each month. Immediately several other members of the bar arose to voice second to the move and following discussion of the subject it was decided to meet the first Tuesday night in every other month, the next meeting falling on November 3.

Julius Brown, whose name was put in nomination by Jack Edwards was named president of the association by acclamation. The names of Mr. Corey, F. C. Harding and J. B. James were offered, but all refused and Mr. Brown was voted on first and was named unanimously.

Jack Edwards was named vice president and Charles Whedbee was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The Pitt bar association was organized in 1925, but shortly thereafter became inactive, apparently because of lack of interest. It was clearly indicated last night that the members are anxious to revive the association and make it a live and active organization.

Each of the new officers, who will take office the first of the year, made short speeches of acceptance in which they expressed their appreciation for the honors bestowed upon them and pledged their efforts to the newly revived association.

Judge Dunn will serve as president until the new officers take office and Mr. Corey will continue as secretary.

The two main addresses were made by Mr. Harding, who spoke on "Legal Ethics," and Judge Dunn who addressed his fellow lawyers on the topic "The Duty of the Lawyer to His Client." Secretary Corey, who had charge of the program and presided over the meeting, declared he had sought to have a speaker on the subject of the duty of the client to his lawyer, but discovered that all members had done the representing and had never been represented.

Mr. Harding said in part that he had been interested recently in culling out of his library all books which were printed more than a century ago and was surprised to find that there were so many. One of these old books on the Ethics of the bar had this quotation: "Of law no less can be said than that her seat is the bosom of God, and her voice the harmony of the world; all things in heaven and earth do her homage. The very least as feeling in her care and the greatest is not exempt from her power." Another quotation used by Mr. Harding found in one of the old volumes is as follows: "It is plain that law is a moral science since the end of all law is justice and justice is the most extensive use of the word differs little from virtue itself." Mr. Harding here explained that the word virtue did not have reference to chastity but referred to the original use of the word which is truth, inevitable and unchangeable.

Mr. Harding again quoted from an old volume, "There is a distinction between truth and justice. Truth under the law has to do with the law as it is, and justice is the law as it should be." (Continued on Page Eight)

COURT GRANTS MAXWELL GIRL SECOND TRIAL

Slayer of Father Under 25-Year Prison Sentence

BOND DECLINED FOR DEFENDANT

Reversal of Verdict of Wise County Circuit Court Reopens Sensational Case

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Virginia supreme court of appeals today granted a new trial to Edith Maxwell, under a 25-year sentence for the murder of her father in Wise county.

The court, however, refused to grant bail to the young woman who has been in jail since her arrest July 21, 1935.

The supreme court's reversal of a verdict of a Wise county circuit court jury reopened one of the most celebrated legal cases in Virginia court history.

Miss Maxwell, 21-year-old school teacher, was convicted in November, 1935, of the murder of her father, Trigg Maxwell, in their cabin home at Pound on July 21, 1932.

She contended that she struck her father with a high heeled slipper as he attempted to whip her in a family quarrel. She, her mother and a younger sister, testified that father was drunk at the time.

The commonwealth argued that the slaying was deliberate and the growth of long standing enmity between father and daughter. The state did not ask the death penalty however.

Leftist Laborers Plan Siege Plant As An Experiment

Paris, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Leftist French workers plan to seize the Renault automobile factory, outside Paris, the government was told today for "an experiment" in "industrial sovietization."

A delegation representing 1,500 foremen and technicians in the Renault works, one of the largest industrial plants in France, gave the information to Premier Leon Blum in his office.

The group told Blum the movement was started by communists employes. They declared they had received information the extremists were planning to take over the plant by force and operate it for themselves temporarily.

The delegation asked the Premier for a government guarantee that non-union employes would be assured of the right to work in the event the "experiment" materializes.

French labor troubles linked to workers' demands for reconsideration of France's non-intervention policy in the Spanish civil war brought new worries to cabinet officials.

U. S. Indianapolis Fire Deliberate

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A small fire "undoubtedly deliberate" was discovered aboard the U. S. Indianapolis on August 25 while it was undergoing routine overhaul in the Brooklyn navy yard, Capt. C. A. Dunn, manager of the yard, said today.

Capt. Dunn said in a statement that the fire was due to a short circuit in some of the auxiliary power cables and that damage was confined to the cables.

He said two nails were found in one circuit in a fire room of the 10,000-ton naval cruiser on which President Roosevelt took a trip in 1933 and another nail was found in another circuit which was dead.

"This action was undoubtedly deliberate," he said. "The navy has no one under suspicion at the present time."

COUNTY BOARD ORDERS DRIVE

Instructs Tax Supervisor Go After Delinquent Listers

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners have instructed the tax supervisor to put into effect a campaign to place on the tax books all property not listed and all delinquent polls and to assess in all cases the minimum penalties for failure to list.

The law ordered enforced by the board provides for a penalty of 10 per cent, with a minimum of two dollars, for all delinquents. Under the law a person who has not listed even for poll taxes will be required to pay four dollars instead of the customary two dollars poll tax. A delinquent who owes $200 would be taxed with a $20 penalty and so on.

The tax supervisor was further instructed to make use of all available sources of information in carrying out the order and "to comply fully with the statute in all cases where he may be unable to have such property of polls properly listed."

It was understood, however, the tax supervisor was going to recommend to the commissioners that in a case where the delinquent showed the proper cooperation and voluntarily came in to list, be given some consideration and the penalty be reduced to a nominal sum. The suggestion has not been made yet, however, and it was not known whether the board would accept the suggestion.

Another duty the tax supervisor was instructed to proceed with was the checking of automobile license records. His order regarding this action reads: "Since quite a few persons own cars which have been listed for taxes in names other than the license holder, this department urges that in such instances it be advised by the parties affected."

ADVANCE PLAN IS ADVOCATED BY PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Addresses Third World Power Conference

MANY COUNTRIES REPRESENTED

Address by Chief Executive Precedes Starting of Turbines Great Boulder Dam

Washington, Sept. 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today advocated advance preparation for a future day when, through the conversion and application of energy "half of the population can provide the basic machine-made products necessary for the welfare of all."

Standing before the third world power conference with representatives of 52 nations in his audience, the President said in an address that preceded his starting of the turbines of the great Boulder Dam:

"We can conceive that this world mean that the people between 30 and 50 years of age will be able to produce the basic commodities for themselves and also for all others below and above those ages."

Should the condition arise, he asserted, it would be the duty of the power experts to "think what would be the effect on our leisure, our culture and our way of life."

"I would suggest," he added "that the answer should not be left solely in the hands of bankers, government officials or demagogues."

Ceremonials attended the pressing of a small electrical button by the chief executive at the end of his address. He called the attention of his audience to it as the "instrument for stirring into life and creative activity 'for the first time the powerful turbines' of Boulder Dam."

Disbursements By Democratic Party Shown In Report

Total of $1,110,810 Expended During June, July and August; Receipts Total $1,581,768

Washington, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Disbursement of $1,008,940 during June, July and August were reported to the clerk of the house today by the Democratic national committee.

The report showed receipts for the same period amounted to $1,181,768 leaving a balance as of August 31 of $172,977. To this was added a June 1 balance of $299,074.

Previous reports filed by the committee showed the Democrats spent $548,818 the first five months of this year. Adding the June, July and August disbursements, the committee's total expenditures thus far amount to $1,570,792.

The Republican national committee report yesterday showed expenditures of $1,773,000 for June, July and August and contributions of $2,679,911 during the same period. Total expenditures during the year were reported at $2,544,919.

Largest contributor to the Democratic chest was J. M. Patterson of New York, who gave $20,000. Ambassador Robert W. Bingham of Louisville, contributed $10,000. Joseph Daniels of Raleigh, ambassador to Mexico, contributed $5000.

Germans Seeking Another Atlantic Crossing Record

Flying Boat Awaits Catastrophe From Base Ship After Sister Vessel Already Set One Mark

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The thorough-going Germans, with one transatlantic flight record for an east-west crossing stowed away, today sought a second mark with flying boats of the German International Air Lines Lufthansa.

The flying boat, Zenith, landed at Port Washington, N. Y., last night, completing the first non-stop flight between the Azores and the United States. Its time was 81 hours, 7 minutes for the 2,396-mile trip.

Its sister ship, Aeolus, was catapulted from a base ship off the Azores a few hours later for a second trip between the two points this time with a scheduled stop at Bermuda.

The importance of the flight in the aviation world is that air transports can and now have added new folios to the fundamental data necessary to the operation of mail and passenger planes between the United States and Europe to regular schedules.

EXPLAINS ROW OVER LICENSE

No Permit Ever Issued Pasquotank Lawyer

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Sept. 11.—No permit was ever issued to St. Clair E. Bailey, alias C. E. Bailey, Elizabeth City lawyer convicted of drunken driving February 12, 1936, in spite of claims that he had been granted such a permit, records in the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue revealed today. The records here show that C. E. Bailey was notified February 20, 1936, that his license had been revoked for one year and that he would not be able to drive an automobile legally until February 12, 1937.

The records further show that Bailey failed to surrender his driving license, with the result that on September 3, Highway Patrolman L. B. Lane of Elizabeth City was ordered to call on Bailey and take up his driving license. Patrolman Lane did this and the license was received here Thursday morning.

The Bailey case came into prominence as the result of a second trial of Bailey on a charge of drunken driving in Elizabeth City on Sept. 1, when he was acquitted. At this trial it was brought out that Bailey had been tried and convicted of drunken driving in February, and that as a result he was also driving without a license when he was arrested for drunken driving August 15. But it is reported that his counsel maintained he had a permit to drive again in less than 12 months and that this permit had been granted by the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue. This permit was never actually shown, however.

When a report on Bailey's second trial, even though he was acquitted, was received by the highway safety division here, orders were immediately issued to Patrolman Lane in Elizabeth City to take up his license. The reason the license had not been taken up before was that the name was given as C. E. Bailey in the report of the first conviction, when the license had been issued to St. Clair E. Bailey and the division here could find no record of ever having issued a driver's license to a C. E. Bailey in Elizabeth City. Assistant Director Ronald Hovick of the highway safety division said today, despite the fact that a notice had been sent to C. E. Bailey on February 20 that his license had been revoked with instructions to surrender the license. When it was finally discovered that C. E. Bailey and St. Clair E. Bailey were the same person, the license was taken up immediately.

The lie on Bailey here also discloses that on February 18 a letter was received from city prosecutor W. W. Cohoon of Elizabeth City and on February 19 a letter was received from Judge W. C. Morse, Jr., of the Recorder's court in Elizabeth City, calling attention to the fact that C. E. Bailey had been convicted of drunken driving on February 12, assessed a fine and costs, and that the court revoked his driving license for 90 days instead of one year. Both Prosecutor Cohoon and Judge Morse said they believed "the ends of justice would be served" by the revocation for 90 days and asked that if possible, this sentence be allowed to stand and that it be not revoked for one year. On February 20, Director Fulk of the highway safety division replied that the law made it mandatory for the department to revoke the license of any driver convicted of drunken driving for one year and that accordingly the license of C. E. Bailey had been revoked for one year.

The case was believed closed at that time until Bailey was again arrested and tried for drunken driving Sept. 1, the department here notified and the discovery made that Bailey had never surrendered his license. It was not until then, also, that it was discovered that C. E. Bailey and St. Clair E. Bailey were one and the same man. It was pointed out here today

New Gold Rush On Strike Yields Nevada $500 a Day

GOLD ORE MOVES OUT . . .
A miner wheels out a load of gold ore from Jumbo, the hole in the ground where George Austin, 63-year-old hotel and store keeper in Jumbo, Nev., 40 miles away, struck it rich after paying only $500 down, with the promise of $9,500 later, for a claim.

AND DOWN THE MOUNTAIN . . .
The ore is loaded on sleds and hooked to a tractor which Wilfred, one of Austin's sons, pilots down the steep mountain side to the little refining mill five miles distant. Austin says just one day's yield now is enough to pay back the down payment. The strike has started a new gold rush in this section, numerous claims being filed all around the mine. Herbert Hoover inspected it recently.

TO REFINING MILL . . .
At the mill the gold is extracted by an amalgam process. The ore is first crushed and then moves to the amalgam plate where the gold particles are collected under the supervision of another son, Kenneth. Austin expects to use part of his profits to install a 35-ton mill soon to replace the one and a half ton affair now in operation.

FOR HER, CHICKEN . . .
Austin is making so much money he has turned down offers reported at upwards of $1,000,000 for his mine—but his wife still feeds the chickens behind the hotel and general store. Chickens come in handy in the desert, she says. She plans to buy a washing machine she has wanted for many years.

FOR THEM, HIGH HOPES . . .
The siren call of gold does not go long unanswered. As soon as the news of Austin's luck got around prospectors such as these, filled with the never-dying hope of getting rich over night, began trekking to spots about the mine on the edge of Black Rock desert in northern Nevada. "George was lucky . . . perhaps this time we'll hit, too."

that while Bailey was acquitted of the second drunken driving charge on September 1, that he could still be charged with driving while his license was revoked, since the records show that he cannot legally drive an automobile until after February 12, 1937.

Mattamuskeet to Be Set Aside For Hunting Grounds

Portions of Lake Important as Wintering Grounds for Migratory Waterfowl So Designated

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Sept. 11.—Portions of Lake Mattamuskeet, one of the most important wintering grounds for migratory waterfowl on the Atlantic coast, which have been open to shooting during previous seasons will again be set aside as public hunting grounds, J. D. Chalk, state game and inland fisheries commissioner, said today.

The lake area, consisting of two portions on each side of the huge body of fresh water, will be operated for the third year as public shooting grounds under the direction of the Department of Conservation and Development. They consist of two tracts of approximately 5,000 acres each.

While complete regulations governing hunting on the lake have not yet been approved, Mr. Chalk indicated that they will be for the most part the same as during the two previous seasons. The rigid federal regulations recently promulgated, with additional special rules for the lake, will be enforced.

Oscar Chadwick, who has served previously in the same capacity, will continue as chief warden at the lake. All guides are required to have special licenses for conducting hunting parties and there will be a definite schedule of fees which may be charged. Each guide is also held responsible for the observance of the law by hunters who are served by him.

Under arrangements with the U. S. Biological Survey, fishing on the lake will also be continued under the supervision of the State Department of Conservation and Development, Mr. Chalk said.

Since the number of hunters permitted on the grounds will be limited, the commissioner advises that reservations be made early either through the division of game and inland fisheries at Raleigh, or the chief warden at New Holland. Early applicants will be given preference, the commissioner asserted.

"Close" odors can be removed from closed houses by burning a piece of gum camphor around which has been placed a small quantity of ground coffee.

GAS CONCERNS DODGING LEVY

Give Up Stations Because of Heavy Chain Store Tax

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—The reason many of the large gasoline and oil companies are ceasing to operate many of their filling stations as company operated stations and are leasing them to individuals without any restrictions, whatever, is because they simply cannot afford to pay the heavy chain-filling station tax on these stations, Robert Grady Johnson, secretary of the North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee, said today. So the only alternative the oil companies have is to either close the stations up entirely, or to lease them to individual operators, Johnson said.

"The average person does not realize how much it costs to operate a filling station," Johnson said. "Since most of the sites for the stations are leased, even by the companies, they pay an average of one cent a gallon for the rental of these sites. This, if the rent on a particular site is $100 a month, the station must sell a minimum of 100,000 gallons of gasoline a month merely to pay its rent. If in addition it must pay a heavy tax, this takes an additional amount and the gallonage sold per month must be heavily increased before any profit can be earned.

"I know of gasoline companies which have closed up stations, even though they are still paying rent for them under leases, since they found it was costing them more to operate them than to close them up.

"So in order to reduce expenses, many of the companies have found it necessary to lease their stations to individual operators, without retaining any control over the stations whatever and permitting the new lessors to sell any other brands of gasoline and oils they may want to. Where the lessors won their own stations outright, they get 4 cents a gallon profit, and where some one else owns the stations, the profit is 3 cents a gallon, the other one cent a gallon applying on the rental. So a station operator must sell a lot of gasoline in order to make even a small profit."

Adult Vocational Education Classes

The adult classes in business education at the Greenville high school are showing very satisfactory enrollment. Classes are being organized in shorthand, typewriting, and bookkeeping. This work is appealing to several distinct groups, viz.: recent high school graduates, persons employed in business offices wanting to improve their skill, persons out of school for several years who want to prepare for entrance into the business office, and persons wishing to learn typewriting for their own personal use.

Those interested in enrolling in the classes should call at the high school and make necessary arrangements. Classes will be taught before the regular hours, 7:30 to 8:30 a. m.

The Wild Life Conservation conference met at Camp Graystone this year from August 31 to Sept. 5. As a reward for best work done on the wild life conservation project sponsored by the 4-H clubs, sixty-four boys and girls under 18 years of age were given a free trip to this conference.

Miss Lucille Tugwell of Fountain high school and Albert French Tyson of the Bell-Arthur high school, were the winners from Pitt county.

Camp Graystone is an ideal place for nature study and pleasure; situated between Greensboro and High Point in a lovely piece of woods, with high hills to climb, fine water to swim in; nice screened-in furnished cabins to live in; an ample dining room for serving meals, and on this occasion an extra fine bunch of people to work and play with.

In the morning we had lectures by prominent men on such subjects as Soil Conservation, Trees, Insects and Birds. In the afternoon there were tours of inspection and field trips to further impress the topics of the lectures.

In the evening there were various recreational games and stunts until "good-nights" were said and lights were out at ten o'clock.

Such prominent men appeared on the program as Dr. J. H. Stallings of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service; W. W. Graeber and O. F. McCray, of the N. C. Extension Service; West Jacobs, U. S. Dept. of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries; Alexander Sprunt, Jr., of the Audubon Society; George Lay of the U. S. Geological Survey; Dr. Z. V. Metcalf, N. C. State College, and Dr. H. W. Lieby, State Department of Agriculture.

Friday morning camp broke and a happy bunch of girls and boys went home with pleasant memories of a week spent in great learning.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—After two years of Hollywood Freddie Bartholomew has become completely one of the gang, and as nearly "Americanized" as an English boy could be.

Some say it was working with that young "toughie" Mickey Rooney, and that equally audacious fellow, Jackie Cooper, in a picture called "The Devil is a Sissy."

Others insist, like his Aunt Myllicent and his teacher, Miss Mary Murphy, that it is merely the result of Freddie's aptitude for quick adjustments.

But mostly the completion of this Americanization process is attributed to Freddie's famous fist fight, his first in Hollywood—and his last of record.

When Freddie came here to make "David Copperfield" he was the proverbial stranger in a strange land—and he was 10 years old besides. He came with a scholarly background and an ability to sling multi-syllabled words in his clipped English accent, to talk like a grown up when occasion arose, or to play like a kid at every opportunity.

He was decidedly "cricket"—but he was different. He was a little gentleman in an Eton collar, a curly haired tyke entirely surrounded by American slang, American skyscrapers, strange American sports, and numerous other American phenomena, including children.

Ray Sperry, his stand-in, took care of initiating the newcomer into baseball, football and chewing gum. And on the set with Mickey Rooney, Jackie Cooper, and a hundred other youngsters, Freddie was a ringleader in the goings-on.

By then he had been around quite a bit—had gone to soccer and ice-hockey games, gone on the school-room tours to "points of interest," met Chirley Temple, Jane Withers, Jackie Searl and other film juveniles, and was quite a fellow. His teacher used English and American textbooks side by side, giving him the new point of view while retaining the old. And Freddie was, as Aunt Myllicent says, very quick at adjustments.

But then came the fight. It seems there was a boy who used to yell taunts over the Bartholomew wall, including "You're a sap!" Freddie felt a light coming on—and combat was arranged for next day.

Miss Murphy thought a fight would do him good, would "get it out of his system," and so did Aunt Myllicent. They raised no objections.

At the appointed hour, Freddie and his adversary repaired to the vacant lot. The carnage lasted 25 minutes, or five three-minute rounds with two-minute rest intervals, before the enemy decided Freddie was no longer a sap. They are friends now, but—

Ray Sperry, who was referee, lost no time getting back to the studio to spread the word around the set. Freddie was a hero when he arrived in person.

WHY WE NEED A PUBLIC LIBRARY

Except a living man, there is nothing more wonderful than a book—a message to us from the dead—from human souls whom we never saw, who lived, perhaps, thousands of miles away; and yet these, on the little sheets of paper, speak to us, amuse us, vivify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers.—Charles Kingsley.

A college education is not necessary, nothing is necessary except ability to read intelligently and a desire to know. In the books worth reading, which no man can exhaust in one lifetime, you will find happiness, suggestions for the use of power and wealth, if you possess them, consolation in poverty, and strength under all conditions.—Arthur Brisbane, editor.

OPPOSITION TO HORTON'S PLAN

Consolidation of Committees Offered as Suggestion

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, By J. C. BASKEVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—The proposal made recently by Lieutenant Governor-nominate W. P. Horton that the appropriation and finance committees in the house and senate be consolidated in order to expediate business and save time, is being generally approved in most circles here.

There is some bitter opposition to it however, especially among those departments and branches which are always seeking larger and larger appropriations without any regard as to whether the revenue to provide them can be found and from those agencies which make it a point to high-pressure the appropriations committee and then pass the buck to the finance committee to find the revenue with which to meet the appropriations.

Strong opposition to the plan is also expected to develop to the proposal among the house and senate members, due to the fact that the consolidation of these committees would eliminate one of the two most important committees in each house and hence deprive members of a chance to be appointed on it. It would also rob the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant Governor of one of the most prized committee chairmanships which he now has to bestow.

So while the proposal to consolidate these two committees is heartily approved by all those interested in speeding up the work of the general assembly and in preserving a balance between appropriations and revenues, a good many fear that those with selfish interests—either financial or political—may block any chance of getting this reform approved by the 1937 general assembly when it meets in January. For those interested in getting big appropriations, regardless of whether the general assembly can find the money to meet them or not, are sure to oppose the move. Members of the general assembly who fear that if one of these committees is eliminated they may not have as choice a committee appointment as they might otherwise, are also regarded as certain to oppose any move towards consolidation.

There is no doubt that the consolidation of the appropriations and finance committees would greatly facilitate the handling of legislative business and materially shorten sessions of the legislature, all those who have observed legislative procedure closely agree. Many are convinced that such consolidation would cut the length of legislative session in half.

According to the system which has been followed for years, all requests for appropriations are presented to the joint house and senate appropriations committees, whose duty it is to make up a bill carrying all the appropriations without any regard for the amount of revenue available. At the same time, the finance committees are hearing the objections to the various taxes proposed until finally a finance bill is prepared together with an estimate of the maximum revenue which can be expected from the bill. These bills are then reported separately to the house, where they are cut to pieces and eventually put back together again pretty much as reported by the committees.

The strategy of the forces seeking large appropriations is to get the appropriations bill completed and reported into the house ahead of the finance bill and if possible, get it passed and sent to the senate before the finance bill is reported in, on the theory that if they can get the appropriations bill enacted into law ahead of the finance bill, the legislature will have to increase taxes or find enough new ones to make it balance with the amount contained in the appropriations bill. This was the procedure used so successfully by A. D. MacLean who managed to get the "MacLean Law" enacted which pledged the general assembly to state support of the six and then the eight months school term. He then forced the Legislature to stay in session until it found enough revenue to support the schools, with the result that the 1933 general assembly enacted the sales tax as the only way to get the money needed.

The procedure the last few sessions, however, has been to hold back the appropriations bill until the finance committees finished the revenue bill in order to be sure the two bills balanced. But if one large committee should first hear all the requests for appropriations, then work out a revenue bill and determine its maximum yield, it could then go back and bring out an appropriations bill that would balance with the revenue bill, it is maintained. This would eliminate the jockeying back and forth between the two committees.

Another Question About CARDUI
MOTHERS RECOMMEND IT.
"Why do so many MOTHERS recommend Cardui to their daughters?"
Isn't it but natural that any good mother should tell her daughters about Cardui if the mother herself felt that she had been benefited by this medicine?
It is impressive that so many women report having taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers. Cardui has been found to benefit women when weakened by malnutrition (poor nourishment); and it helps to relieve much discomfort at monthly periods.
Thousands of women testify Cardui helped them. Of course, if it does not help you, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

County Tax Notice

Attention of persons who have failed to list personal property or polls, is called to the following order passed by the Board of County Commissioners:

"Resolved that the Tax Supervisor be and he is hereby directed to put into effect a campaign to place on the tax books all personal property not listed or not properly listed, and all delinquent polls; and to assess in all cases the minimum penalties for failure to list such property or polls. He is further directed to make use of all available sources of information in carrying out this order and to comply fully with the statute in all cases where he may be unable to have such property or polls properly listed."

Among the things this office is directed to do, is to check the automobile license records. Since quite a few persons own cars which have been listed for taxes in names other than the license holder, this department urges that in such instances it be advised by the parties affected.

The returns made by List-takers show that there are a large number of delinquents in the County and the Board feels that the above action should be taken in the interest of taxpayers generally.

The Barbecue Tavern Opens In This City

The Barbecue Tavern, located at 708 Dickinson avenue, has been opened for business and will offer "barbecue cooked the old-fashioned way," according to an announcement by the management.

The new place is expected to prove popular with local residents, as well as visitors bringing their tobacco to the local market to be sold.

TWO CAROLINA'S HOME GAMES START AT 2:30; OTHERS AT 2

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 11.—None of the University of North Carolina's home games this year will start later than 2:30 o'clock, and two of them will start at 2. The opening game with Wake Forest at Charlotte, when the Queen City's municipal stadium will be dedicated, is to start at 2:30. Carolina's next two home games, with Tennessee October 3 and Maryland October 10, will start at 2:30, and the last two home events, with N. C. State October 31 and Duke November 14 will start at 2 o'clock.

N. Y. UNIVERSITY HAS 21 LETTERMEN, FEW RESERVES

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 11.—The New York University gridmen, whom the Tar Heels are to oppose in Yankee Stadium in New York October 17 in the first football meeting between the two institutions, are long on lettermen this year but rather short on reserves. The Violets have a total of 21 monogram winners and 32 sophomores. Only 9 reserves are working out with the team which began its fall training at Lake Sebago near Sloatsburg, N. Y. last Monday. The boys will work there until September 19 when they will return to Clio Stadium on the Violet campus, and complete preparations for the opening game with Ohio State at Columbus on October 3.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

WASHINGTON — Anyone who is perturbed by Japan's desire to keep more submarines than the treaty allows might glance at British and American navies and largely quiet himself with the discovery that all are over certain quota allowances although less than four months of the life of the treaty remain.

The idea behind the 1930 treaty fixing the limits was to trim the three major naval powers involved, Great Britain, the United States and Japan, down to a fixed tonnage

SOUTHERN BEAUTIES IN PAGEANT

These pretty southern girls are among the 47 contestants for the title of "Miss America" in the National Beauty pageant at Atlantic City.

But months before the treaty expired England announced two huge battleships would go on the ways as soon as the year ended, and the United States is expected to follow.

What will be the effect of the Japanese submarine power? Naval experts said it would put her ahead of the other two nations—until they had time to catch up, which was expected not to be long.

Submarines are most effective on defense since they have no great cruising range, but England learned during the World war they had plenty of force in attack, particularly against shipping.

High School Grid Eleven Rapidly Taking On Form

Practice Being Held At Stadium Each Afternoon

By JAMES WHITEFIELD
With the 1936 gridiron season just around the corner, the prospective varsity of the Greenville high school for this year is gradually taking the formidable shape of a winning eleven.

Practices are being held at the Third street stadium every afternoon under the supervision of Herman Daly, the high's new coach for this year. Daly, before coming to Greenville, was head coach at the senior high school of Muncie, Indiana for a period of six years.

Coach Daly said the prospects for a good team this year were picking up, and stressed the point that although the number of candidates for the team is small and average weight is light, those that are out are working hard. In addition to many newcomers, there are several regulars from last year's main string showing up for practice. Daly's comment on this was that at the rate some of the new, inexperienced players are progressing, they may take the place of some of last year's regulars before the season is over.

Four regulars from last year's backfield include: Bernice Eilers, leading quarterback, 125 lbs.; Tom (Evan) Parrish, halfback, 130 lbs.; Carl Pierce, halfback, 130 lbs.; and Harold Forbes, fullback, 150 lbs.

Regular lineups from last year are as follows: J. A. Joyner, center, 135 lbs.; Robert Earl Clark, tackle, 160 lbs.; Howard Hodges, end, 140 lbs.; and George Lautes, end, 135 lbs.

Others who saw considerable action last season were Eric Kittrell, Charles Williams, Melton Wilson, Kenneth Henderson, Billy Moore and Jimmie Wells. Even though these new candidates are aspiring to fill desirable positions, the small number of players out for the main string will more than likely cause many of them to play positions other than what they had previously intended filling.

New candidates include Baxter Clark, Paul Brooks, Charles Pittrell, Bill Taylor, Jack Moye, Clifton Ewins, Thomas Swain, Elmer Cox, Claude Hardy, John Vinson, Trotman Nobles and John Collins. DuBose Swanson who relieved J. A. Joyner at the center position last year, is out for the place in this season's line-up.

A. B. Bracy and George Sakas have been selected as managers for the varsity this year.

The first game of the season will be played in about two weeks. The schedule of games to be played in the future has not been completed but Coach Daly expressed the opinion that it would be practically the same as that of last year. He further said there would be no conference games played by the local high school eleven this year.

Duke-Colgate Battle Looms As One of Best

Durham, N. C., Sept. 11.—Nominated as such by the sports writers and selected by the two major companies for coast-to-coast broadcast as one of the 10 major games of the 1936 season, the Duke-Colgate football game in Duke stadium on September 26 should be one of the greatest ever played in the south.

Bringing together for the first time the two nationally famous coaches, Andy Kerr of Colgate and Wallace Wade of Duke, who employ completely different systems in that Kerr stresses the lateral while Wade sticks to "straight stuff," the game was a natural with its announcement.

"Sheets" Gallagher's hair turned white when he was 23, overnight. It was neither fright nor grief. It just happened.

Louise Lattimer, new to the movie, is one of Hollywood's smallest actresses. She wears a size 8 dress.

U. N. C. ELEVEN SEEKS CENTER

Position Question Mark in Team's Forward Wall

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 11.—Coach Ray Wolf seems to be pretty well set on his No. 1 line which he will send against the strong Wake Forest team when the Tar Heels clash with the Demon Deacons at the dedication of Charlotte's new stadium September 26.

Excepting Steve Maronic, sophomore guard, the Carolina forward wall likely will be composed entirely of lettermen. Dick Buck, end; John Trumpey, tackle; and Van Webb, guard, are all seniors, while Andy Bershak, Buck's running mate; Henry Bartos, tackle; and Pete Avery, center, are all juniors.

Carolina best by graduation three star linemen of the 1936 club; Tom Ewins, tackle; Emmett Joyce, guard and Babe Daniel, center. Bartos and Maronic should be able to handle the positions vacated by Ewins and Avery at center.

Most Tar Heel followers are willing to concede that AVERY is a greatly improved player but they realize he will have to go a long way to be as good as Daniel, who was regarded as one of the best pivot men University teams have had.

Daniel was a fine defensive player. He was a keen diagnostician of plays and was particularly alert on defense and he was a strong man on offense. He had no equal in the State last season as an extra point kicker. He booted 15 points after touchdowns. Seldom did the Babe get off a bad pass.

Avery may develop to be as good as Daniel. He seems always willing to take up any hints offered by the coaches and he earns fast. In the scrimmage sessions last week he looked good on offense. As yet he hasn't been tested on defense.

Carolina will hold its first full length scrimmage on Saturday. Tar Heel supporters then may get some idea as to what Avery will do this year.

Coins Honor Commonwealth

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Coins, to commemorate inauguration of the Philippine Commonwealth, now are being minted by the government. The die arrived recently from Washington. The coins, in one peso (50 cents gold) and 50 centavo (25 cents gold) denominations, bear the effigies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Commonwealth President Manuel L. Quezon, and United States High Commissioner Frank Murphy.

Shadow Of Moscow Looms In Civil Strife

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Across the entire picture of the bloody fratricidal warfare now being waged through the historic mountain passes of Spain falls the long shadow of Moscow—for years a bugbear to other powers.

Recently the Soviet government of Moscow decreed champagne for the proletariat and ordered a huge increase in the production of wine. Today the Spanish machine guns continue their staccato argument over this very question—whether there shall be champagne for the masses at the expense of the upper classes, or whether the conservatives shall maintain what they conceive to be their place in the sun.

The Spanish revolution, whichever way it goes, may alter the

RUSSELLS CELEBRATE LANDSLIDE

Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., at Atlanta as returns from the Georgia Democratic primary gave him a landslide over Gov. Eugene Talmadge in their race for the United States senatorial nomination. (Associated Press Photo)

the political complexion of that turbulent country, and a radical victory might change the status of neighboring countries. Moreover the far-reaching potentialities of the upheaval are a menace to general peace.

The fierce battle cries from the Iberian hills are echoing loudly in the chancelleries of Europe and are keeping the heads of many states awake these nights. Germany, England, Italy, France, Russia and the smaller nations are viewing the progress of the conflict with anxiety. And they are watching each other with equal concern for fear that one of their number may interfere in this critical internal struggle.

Allegations that the extreme socialist government of France is secretly assisting the radical government of Spain have made the situation tense. Premier Leon Blum of France has denied that his government has given material aid, but Foreign Minister Yvo Delbos told the chamber of deputies that the cabinet's decision thus far to refuse war supplies "is not final. It depends on what other nations do."

It is fear that the government—the radicals—may triumph and that communism may become established in Spain which is worrying her neighbors. Britain, Italy, Germany and France have lived in dread of the Moscow influence for years and have combatted it at every turn. Until recent months France was one of the main opponents of communism. Now, however, she has swung hard to the left and the large communistic party in the country is supporting the extreme socialist government of Premier Blum. That is why France is supposed to be sympathetic to the similarly constituted government of Spain.

France's old enemy, Hitler, in particular is concerned in preventing the spread of soviet power against which he declared bitter war long ago. He has been described as sitting with his hand on the switch, ready if necessary to throw it and set into motion machinery designed to block any increase of the Moscow influence in Europe. Just now he is reported to be trying to negotiate with Czecho-Slovakia a pact, one part of which would call for a cancellation of the Russian alliance with that country.

Statemen long have been saying that should Spain go communistic—and they believed she was headed in that direction—there would be a strong possibility that France might follow suit, thus establishing a great new soviet bloc in Europe. Little Portugal, England's old ally would have hard work to keep out of such a combination.

Germany then would have communism on both sides of her; Italy would have a great soviet state on her border; Britain's all-important Gibraltar would be surrounded, and England herself would be separated from the red flag by only twenty miles of water.

Many British statesmen feel that the very life of the empire may be bound up in the tangled skein which is now being unraveled in the romantic land of castles. Communism in England would mean the end of the throne, and that in turn would cause immediate dismemberment of the greatest association of commonwealths and colonies the world has known. For it is the throne and not the British government, which binds these heterogeneous units together.

Moscow naturally is strongly for the Spanish government, and would applaud any support which France might give it. The establishment of a soviet in Spain would represent the fruition of years of intensive labor by communists.

Whichever way the battle goes, there is likely to be a strong dictatorship in Spain. If the government wins, any dictatorship obviously would be radical; if the insurgents are victorious, conservative. Either eventuality holds out the prospect of further bloodshed.

DUCE SEEKING ADD TO POWER

To Stay Out of Entangling Alliances, However

By ANDRUE BERDING
Rdne, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini has become another George Washington in his determination to stay out of entangling alliances.

With conditions seemingly perfect for an alliance with Germany, he says to Hitler, in effect, "We can collaborate without incorporating."

With England and France pleading for his return to the Stresa anti-German front, he refuses to attend their preliminary Locarno conference.

He intends to be more than "a little bit independent."

Late summer, according to a high Fascist official, will see a definite flowering of Mussolini's policy, with the following cornerstones:

1.—No alliance with the German group or the Anglo-French group. On the contrary, an "independent Italian" policy which may be described as the holding of a continental balance of power as between France and Germany similar to that held by England for so many generations in the whole of Europe.

2.—A peace plan consisting largely of the revival of his four-power pact—England, France, Germany, Italy. The pact died aborning in 1923, but diplomatic surgery has been known to resurrect many dead agreements. One or two other countries, Poland, or Poland and Russia, are to be added. Mussolini would prefer to exclude Russia, but the Franco-Soviet pact may prove an obstacle.

3.—Attendance at the five-power Locarno conference (England, Germany, France, Italy and Belgium) to be called probably in September. He will have worked out his idea for the new big-powers pact by that time so as to capture the lead with it.

4.—Reform of the League of Nations by removing its compulsory features and making the big powers linked by his own pact its ruling body.

Meantime some uncertainties must be cleared up for Mussolini. One is the attitude of England in the Mediterranean. If Duce wants England to give up its mutual security pacts in that sea and enter with Italy into a pact mutually guaranteeing its freedom.

Another is the socialist government in France. If Duce must wait to see how Premier Blum's left ideas will change French foreign policies. "Yet another is the working out of the recent Austro-German treaty. He must also know whether Germany and Italy can collaborate in the Balkans.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Found: One movie hero who makes no claims to athletic prowess.

Rusky, bulky Edward Arnold is willing to let the other fellows take the honors as Bobby Jones, Jim Braddock, Donald Budge or champion swimmers. He wants to enjoy himself in his own way.

"I'll be satisfied with diabolio, a game of pinocle and a walk—but not too long a walk," he says, this good natured and least athletic of all screen luminaries.

Of course he is reasonable about it. When he had to lose weight for his role in "Come and Get It," he went to a club resort at Lake Norman and did his duty. He swam, tried golf, rowed a boat, went thru arduous hours of road-work and let a trainer maul him mercilessly. He returned considerably lighter and able to undertake the part in the picture showing him as a younger man.

Easy-going Edward Arnold is cooperative, too, when there are exploitation pictures to be taken. He willingly enough got on a bicycle with pretty Andrea Leeds, new Goldwyn contractee from the local university, to have "stunt pictures" taken.

"You would pick a warm day like this, though," he remarked to the photographer. "Couldn't make it a swimming pool instead, could you? No, Arnold gets to ride a bike in the hot sun, and the young and handsome boys get to splash around the pool."

But he smiled and got on the bike, where he stayed—well, rather briefly. Arnold likes to swim, but—

"Why should I make a sucker of myself on a golf course when I don't know how to play golf? Why should I wear polo clothes and talk about chukkers when I don't know exactly the proper technique for getting on a horse? Why should I go haywire about tennis, when I couldn't hit a cow in the neck with a shovel, let alone a racket?"

Arnold never had time to develop much athletic skill.

"I've been an actor since I was 14 years old," he says. "I'm 46 now. They don't park polo ponies in two-by-four dressing rooms, and you can't play golf on a hotel roof, so

Former Agent To Teach Policemen

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 11.—(AP)—One of the federal agents who helped clean up Al Capone's gang in Chicago, Lieut. Dan L. Kookan, now of the Indiana State Police, will turn his talents to the teaching of policemen when the new four-year training course of Indiana University opens in September.

As supervising lieutenant of the state police force, Lieutenant Kookan has been assigned to direct the study of scientific methods, police tactics, general police administration, and criminal investigation. He has had considerable practical experience in the work as head of the state police school which he organized and headed and which is being abandoned in favor of the new college course.

Slight of stature and mild of manner—the antithesis of the glare and movie presentation of policemen—Lieutenant Kookan believes the non-political selection of a trained, educated police personnel is the answer to the crime problem of the United States. He believes college men of character and intelligence can be trained to become the best policemen in the world.

He was in the coast artillery from 1908-11, then for six years was timber cruiser, guide and trapper in the Canadian northwest. He served as first lieutenant with the 269th Infantry, seeing heavy service in the Vosges and Argonne sectors during the World war.

Returning from army service Lieutenant Kookan entered the service of the treasury department, later transferring to the department of justice as a special agent assigned to the Chicago division. In 1930, he resigned to become assistant director of the Secret Six, famed crime-fighting body organized by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

With Capone safely behind bars, Lieutenant Kookan resigned from the Secret Six to become superintendent of public welfare in Omaha. He returned to Indiana from that post in 1934 to become supervising lieutenant of the Indiana State Police.

YOLLS HAVE ELEVEN LETTERMEN FOR GRID SQUAD

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 11.—At the University of Tennessee Coach Bob Neyland has 11 lettermen as a nucleus for this year's team which will travel to Chapel Hill for an important inter-conference game with the University of North Carolina on October 3. Only three of these lettermen were starters last year: Dickens, quarter; Crawford, tackle; and Weaver, guard. But the Tar Heels recall that 4th reserves of 1935 were the boys who scored two touchdowns against them, even if Carolina did win 38-12.

MAJOR NEYLAND AT HELM VOLLS HAVE HIGH HOPES

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 11.—With Major Bob Neyland again at the helm, University of Tennessee supporters again have high hopes of rising to former heights in the gridiron world.

Before the major was appointed head coach in 1926, Tennessee was quite accustomed to taking it on the chin, but this "master strategist" soon spread terror throughout the South. He led the Vols from a lowly place in the Southern Conference to the championship in 1932. During the nine years Mr. Neyland has coached at Tennessee, he has had five undefeated teams. One glance at this record is evidence enough that Tennessee supporters are looking to the Major as their Moose to lead them back on the victory marches.

Retreat Sessions Started Today at State University

President Van Meter Arriving on Campus For Opening of Pre-College Program Today

Chapel Hill, Sept. 11.—After a full of two weeks, the period between summer school and the fall opening of the University of North Carolina campus again began to buzz with activity today as the annual Pre-College Retreat program got under way.

The retreat sessions, which are to open today at 4:30 o'clock in the University Y. M. C. A., which is sponsoring the program, will continue through Sunday.

Attending them are some 100 freshmen selected from boys who were active in H-Y work in their respective schools. The purpose of this program is to point out the value of continuing in the University work these representative students have done in high school.

A welcome will be extended to the students tonight at 7:30 o'clock at a banquet in Graham Memorial student building.

The retreat program for Saturday and Sunday will be featured by a series of group discussions to be led by faculty members, administrative officials and local ministers. Special sessions will include "Scholarship and Intellectual Development," led by Dr. Augustus Burgess of the Psychology Department; "Religion and Spiritual Development," by Rev. A. W. Hinkley of the Baptist Church; "Friendship and Social Development," by J. Myron Saunders, Secretary of the General Alumni Association; and "Campus Activities and Development in Athletics," by Prof. Harold D. Meyer, of the Sociology Department.

Interpreting regular sessions of the discussion groups, the new students will be addressed by a number of other prominent speakers and leaders of campus activities. Among them will be President Graham; Administrative Dean E. A. House; F. F. Bradshaw, Dean of Students; Coach "Bob" Fisher; and H. P. Cramer, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The program will come to a close with a lawn party at the home of President Graham Sunday evening. All freshmen will register for their studies at the University this afternoon, Wednesday, September 16; check-in will register, Thursday, and classwork will begin Friday, September 17.

And it is the office and duty of a judge to make an equality between the parties, that no one may be a winner by another's loss; but in distributive justice the same equality is required of both; that neither of equal persons have unequal things, or unequal persons have equal things." 347, 4. Having then stated that the human mind is attempting to make a system by which truth and justice might be maintained in judicial inquiry had evolved a system of legal ethics by which the individual may more easily keep his professional career in harmony with the ideals of the legal profession. Judge Dunn declared that the attorney should have a full understanding of the case he is handling and should advise his client fairly and conscientiously. He frowned on the practice of opposing attorneys engaging in personalities in trying a case.

He declared that the bar members wanted to get away from the inference implied in the story of an observer who wanted to know why two men were buried in one grave when he read the inscription on the tombstone saying there lies so and so, a lawyer, and an honest man.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—It was a stock market of contradictions today with traders decidedly diverse.

While business and industrial cheer stimulated interest in selected issues, many traders and investors seemed disposed to adjourn to the sidelines for the time being. The cloudy European scene was still a deterrent to bullish sentiment.

The list exhibited an upward bias in early dealings with these new highs for the past year or longer registered. With profits seen appeared however and near the fourth hour declines predominated. The transfers approximately 1,800,000 shares.

Cobb Frustrated In Attempt Break From Wilson Jail

Officers Reveal Roy Cobb, Who Was Yesterday Sentenced to 20 Years, Had Planned Escape

Wilson, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Wilson county officers revealed today they had frustrated a plan to escape by Roy Cobb, Nash county convict, who was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment yesterday on robbery charges.

Cobb was taken to the state prison in Raleigh two hours after Judge M. V. Barnhill had passed sentence on him.

The officers said another prisoner told them of hearing the convict's scheme to blast his way out of the jail with nitroglycerine.

Cobb, the informant said, sought to arrange with the wife of a cellmate to bring him a half pint of the explosive and a shot-gun concealed near Elm City.

Told of the alleged plan, Judge Barnhill ordered Cobb's immediate removal.
