Fascists Launch Drive Against Madrid

ATTACK FROM THREE POINTS

Bombing of Toledo's Alcazar, Housing 1,700, Delayed by Loyalists as Fierce Fighting Engaged in Outside of City

(By Associated Press)

Fascist forces, with an estimated potential strength of a million men, launched a three-pointed drive on Madrid today and locked with desperate government militiamen in one of the fiercest battles of the nine weeks' civil war on the Toledo front.

Meanwhile in Toledo's Alcazar 1,700 men, women and children huddled over the momentary threat of massed death. Refusing to surrender, they were told by government commanders the ancient fortress would be blown to bits at any moment from underground mines.

A last minute delay in the explosion was ordered this morning to give the fascists a final chance to surrender and to put the finishing touches on the mine, but the mayor of Toledo said the building might be "blown up" soon.

Personally led by General Francisco Franco, the rebel commander-in-chief, the fascist forces advancing on Toledo and Madrid engaged in a bloody battle with government militiamen only a few miles from Toledo itself.

From the northeast, the north and the northwest other fascist drives were pointed toward Madrid where the government announced foreign "dare devil" pilots were being recruited to lead a great aerial offensive with a "huge fleet of new bombing and fighting planes."

At Saint Jean de Luz, France, the United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers said he was attempting to obtain the release of three American newspaper correspondents reported to be held by insurgents at Carceres.

Greenville People Anxiously Inquire Concerning Storm

Number of Citizens Having Summer Homes in the Morehead City Area Especially Interested

With a severe tropical hurricane raging off the coast of North Carolina, telephone calls and personal inquiries flooded the Reflector office today.

Twenty-two Greenville citizens own cottages in the Morehead City area, and with most of the owners in the city, they especially were interested in the storm.

It was doubtful, however, that any of these cottages would suffer any damage unless from wind, as they are built on land high enough to be safe from water.

A telephone call from Morehead City this afternoon said wind was blowing strong there, but no serious damage was anticipated. High water was expected and all small craft had gone to cover.

Even as far inland as this city strong winds were felt at times. Barometers fell at Morehead City and other coastal cities and high winds and rain squalls were reported at a number of the places.

First Associated Press reports placed the path of the storm north of Cape Hatteras, but a later bulletin indicated it would strike near Cape Hatteras. This later bulletin caused much concern among persons having summer homes in the Morehead City area.

Free Will Baptists Begin Revival Sunday

A revival will get underway at the Greenville Free Will Baptist church Sunday, with Rev. Henry Melvin of Durham as guest preacher.

The meeting will run through October 2 with morning and evening services being held on Sunday and each week-day night at 7:45 o'clock.

All members of the church are urged to attend the services and non-members of the church have been invited to join with the church in the revival.

The Free Will Baptist church is located at the corner of Eleventh and Cotanche streets.

Republicans To Launch Campaign In This State

Intentions Announced At Conference in New York

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Opening a conference of Republican leaders from Maine to Florida, Rep. Joseph W. Martin, eastern division campaign manager, said today the Republican party would soon inaugurate an intensive campaign, not only in the border states of Maryland, but in Virginia, North Carolina and Florida.

About 50 national committeemen, state chairman and other leaders participated in the conference with Martin, national chairman John D. M. Hamilton and Harrison B. Spangler, the national committee man from Iowa, and Hamilton's assistant in Chicago.

In a series of private sessions these leaders discussed each state in detail.

Rep. Martin said the party would make a most extensive drive in its history down the Atlantic seaboard.

"We hope to carry not only Maryland," Martin said, "but also Virginia, North Carolina and Florida. We are confident of victory in one of these states."

Leaders attending the conference from southern states said they counted on opposition of "Jeffersonian Democrats" to the New Deal to aid them.

State chairman William C. Meekins of North Carolina said in his state the normal Republican vote was about 41 per cent of the total and he felt confident with the Democrats opposed to the New Deal the Republican ticket "has a fine chance this year" in North Carolina.

OKLAHOMA'S FARM TAXES DECLINE FIFTY PER CENT

Stillwater, Okla. (AP)—Taxes on farms in Oklahoma have dropped more than 50 per cent in the past five years, the most outstanding tax shift in the history of the state, it is shown in figures compiled by J. T. Sanders, head of the department of agricultural economics at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college.

"School taxes were reduced from an average of 20 cents per acre in 1930 to 10 cents in 1935, a decline of 50 per cent," Sanders said state tax commission records reveal.

Other reductions cited included a drop in county taxes from 13 cents to 10 cents, a decline of approximately 30 per cent; state and township taxes, a decline from 11 cents to one and one-half cents, a drop of 89 per cent.

FDR DECLARES NATL. INCOME ABOUT DOUBLE

Compares Present Day With Low Depression Point

SAYS PROGRESS HAS BEEN MADE

Chief Executive Speaks at Mobilization of Human Needs Conference

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told an annual meeting of the mobilization for human needs today that national income soon would be double what it was at the low point of the depression and that "confidence has returned to the great mass of our people."

Several times he referred to "returning prosperity" and on that thesis built an argument that private relief organizations should expect a larger measure of private aid and that every individual has a greater obligation to aid in the relief of distress in his or her own community.

From the south portion of the White House Mr. Roosevelt spoke to mobilization delegates gathered on the lawn.

"Through you," the President told his audience, "I appeal to every man, woman and child in the United States for a revival throughout the length and breadth of the land of the spirit of charity."

Turning to general economic conditions, Mr. Roosevelt asserted: "Since the low point of the depression, great and substantial progress has been made. The national income will soon be double what it was then."

"Nearly six million more men and women are now at work in private industry. Three million

U. S. MONEY IN GERMAN FIRM

Du Pont Chemical Co. Heavy German Investor

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A reported asserting that E. I. duPont de Nemours Company, American chemical firm, owned 882,671 worth of stock in a giant German armament trust, was made public by the Senate monitors investigating committee today.

The report showed that the duPont Company controlled 7.98 per cent of the voting stock of the Dynamit Aktengesellschaft—the largest German explosive manufacturer—and had invested $1,159,904 in another German chemical firm.

An informal agreement between the Dynamit Company and the duPont firm providing for the exchange of information and patents and the division of sales territory was also disclosed by the committee.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker EASTERN: Military and diplomatic experts engaged in spotting the date and place of the next European war figure that everything depends on the outcome of the present strife in Spain. Here's the kernel of their reasoning:

The great question mark is whether France will rush to the side of Russia under the terms of their recent alliance in the event of an anti-Soviet move by Germany and Japan. (Neither Germany nor Japan dares attack Moscow alone.) Nobody knows the precise terms of the Franco-Russian agreement which has been kept more secret than any similar pact. If the Madrid forces (radical) win out, it is expected that France will eventually fall into the hands of a communist-socialist government. In that event France would probably be warring to fight Germany should Hitler move against Moscow. It might der Der Fuehrer. But if the Spanish rebels triumph, France would probably pursue its present course of staving off a showdown.

That would be Hitler's great moment. It would give him an opportunity (or so he might think) to attack Russia with the expectation of Japanese aid in the East. Under such circumstances France, Italy and Great Britain would sit on the sidelines until their national interests were jeopardized, or until one or the other of the combatants be-

Red Cross Prepares For Possible Storm Victims

Chapters In Three States Told To Be In Readiness

Washington, Sept. 17.—(AP)—National headquarters of the American Red Cross directed all coast chapters in Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland today to stand in readiness to give disaster relief to regions that might be hit by a storm off the Atlantic coast.

At the same time, the headquarters said that Maurice R. Reedred, assistant director of its disaster service, and George Myer, a disaster worker, were at Raleigh, N. C., awaiting developments and that Mrs. Catherine Myers, another disaster worker, was at Raleigh, N. C.

The Red Cross announced later arrangements had been made to have the coast guard stations between the Virginia Capes and the North Carolina—South Carolina state line advise persons living along the water line to move to higher ground.

The coast guard notified the Red Cross that supply boats were standing by at Elizabeth City and New Bern, N. C. for use on disaster relief. Two coast guard cutters also were ready to go into storm service from Morehead, N. C.

LIKELY HIT LAND AT CAPE HATTERAS BY EARLY TONIGHT

Early Indications of North, Northwest Curve Appear Less Pronounced With Hurricane Headed For Coast Line At Cape Hatteras or North of There

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau today ordered hurricane warnings displayed from Wilmington to Beaufort, N. C., effective at noon, Eastern Standard Time, as a severe tropical storm approached the Cape Hatteras section of the seaboard.

Two hours earlier the forecast ordered hurricane warnings displayed from the Virginia Capes to Southport.

The storm, described by the Weather Bureau as of full hurricane intensity (winds of more than 75 miles an hour) continued to move closer to the mainland without slackening its speed or losing any of its fury.

The noon advisory said: "Warnings changed to hurricane north of Wilmington to Beaufort, N. C. hurricane warnings now displayed north of Wilmington to Manteo. Storm warnings elsewhere from the Virginia Capes to Southport, N. C."

Forecasters said early morning indications of a north, northwest curve in the hurricane movement appeared less pronounced in later reports. This means, they said, the storm center may hit the coastline in the Cape Hatteras area, instead of north of there.

Reports from exposed points along the North Carolina coast indicated the storm already was being felt there. Barometers were falling and winds were becoming stronger. Some places had rain squalls.

The barometer reading at Hatteras was reported at 29.78 as northeast winds increased.

Tides were four to five feet higher than normal, the coast guard station reported.

Hatteras fishermen and others along the coast in this area and officials said they expected the center of the storm to reach this section about midnight tonight.

Forecasters here said the storm's center was about 200 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras at 7 a. m. (EST), today and its forward movement is increasing "with some indications of turning northward."

They said if the indicated curve to the northward continues the hurricane may miss the North Carolina coastline, but may not pull to the north and east sufficiently to miss the entire seaboard section.

Storm warnings were ordered displayed from Southport, N. C., to the Virginia Capes and all vessels along the coast were warned to be warned of this severe storm.

The weather bureau issued the following storm warning: "Advisory 10 a. m., warnings changed to hurricane 12 noon north of Beaufort, N. C. to Manteo, N. C. Approach of severe tropical storm will be attended by northeast gales, probably reaching hurricane force tonight, accompanied by very high tide. Advise all interests. Storm warnings remain displayed from Southport, N. C., to Beaufort and north of Manteo to Virginia Capes."

American Red Cross officials mobilized their forces along the Carolina coast against a possible emergency. George Myer, disaster relief worker, went to Raleigh, N. C. to direct preparations.

State Patrolman Hurt In Accident Well Known Here

R. W. (Rip) Arnold, critically injured yesterday afternoon, Once Located in This City

R. W. (Rip) Arnold, state highway patrolman, who was critically injured in Northampton county yesterday, is well known here and spent several days in this city a week or so ago attending Superior court. He also was located in this city at one time.

Patrolman Arnold was found lying in an unconscious condition on the highway a few miles from Rife Square yesterday afternoon by a school bus driver.

Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the Eastern division of the patrol, went to the Roanoke Rapids hospital, where the officer was taken, and spent much of the night there. Arnold remained in an unconscious condition, however, and he was not able to reveal the cause of the accident.

The theory was advanced, however, that the patrolman hit a soft place in the road, wrecking his motorcycle. Patrolman Arnold is located in Weldon.

SQUIRRELS TELL RANGERS IF TREE SEEDS ARE RIFE

St. Paul, (AP)—Squirrels are the finger men for the great "seed robbery" by state forest service rangers so that Minnesota's forests can be perpetuated.

This year 24,000,000 trees will be planted in Minnesota; trees grown from seed-cones taken when squirrels, one of nature's greatest hoarders, tipped off rangers the time was ripe to gather cones.

Corns from Norway, White and Jack pine and white spruce trees also are examined to ascertain if they are ready for planting but watching the squirrels is easier and the animals never are wrong. Clarence Prout, forest assistant says.

DUKE TO OPEN CAROLINA-WFC SEASON SAT'Y VIE SATURDAY

To Meet Davidson in Night Game at Greensboro

Durham, N. C., Sept. 17.—The air may be filled with passes at Greensboro Saturday night when Duke's Blue Devils and Davidson's Wildcats clash in the 1936 opener of Southern conference and North Carolina Big Five races.

That indicates that the battle will be fought in the line—and that's just where it looks like warfare will rage.

Both Davidson and Duke will enter the contest with their biggest lines in years. The Wildcats forwards will tip the beam at an average of 190 while Duke's team will hit about the same mark, a little over or under that if there are lineup changes.

With the fight going on in the forward wall, it may force both teams into the ozone for their scoring thrusts. And both teams appear well fortified for the aerial game.

The Wildcats have Ed Armfield and Tesny Lafferty to throw them, and any number of capable receivers. The fact that they have two fine losers will make their passing attack—which they have used freely in past years against Duke—a dangerous weapon.

Coach Wolf has used no less than six combinations behind the first string line. Little-Cernugle-Stewart-Hutchins; Dashiell-Bricklemyer-Dunham-Ditt; Dashiell-Stewart-Cernugle-Hutchins; Burnette-Cernugle-Watson-Ditt have all been tested.

But the Little-Cernugle-Stewart-Hutchins combination is frequently called upon to run with the first stringers. Many observers believe that these boys will start together against the Deacs.

Big Five Elevens To Open the Season in Charlotte

Chapel Hill, Sept. 17.—Already well set on the line which he will start against Wake Forest Saturday week at Charlotte, Coach Ray Wolf is now devoting considerable attention to the selection of his No. 1 backfield.

Coach Wolf admitted at the beginning of the fall work that his biggest problem would be in the backfield. He heard many tales of the gridiron exploits of Don Jackson, Harry Montgomery, Herman Snyder and Jim Hutchins when he came here in the spring.

But only Hutchins of the brilliant 1935 quartet is back this season. The selection of three capable replacements is now in order. The Texan has experimented frequently. He has worked as many as three men for each of the positions. Crowell Little, Dick Dashiell and Tom Burnette have all alternated at quarter. George Watson, Tony Cernugle, Bob Stewart, Gene Bricklemyer, Wally Dunham and Wallace Winborne have done duty at the halves. Jim Hutchins seems to be the logical candidate for the full berth, although there's plenty of competition from Art Ditt every day.

She Knew Him
Kenia, O. (AP)—A small girl, a pupil in McKinley school, stood gazing at a picture of William McKinley in a collection of old photographs in a bank window. A passer-by asked her if she knew whose picture it was. "Why, yes," she responded promptly, "that's the man who owns the school where I go."

Joe Ryneska looks best at full, but Anderson may start Jake Mahoney, Ren Hoek or Andy Pavloski.

Even after three weeks of work the State College Wolfpack is a mystery squad.

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeye)

SPORT SLANTS

The manner in which the New York Yankees romped off with the pennant robbed the American league race of much of its usual interest, but there was plenty of drama which should not be overlooked. The sensational drive of the Chicago White Sox, who were generally picked to finish well down in the second division, is deserving of much praise. The job little Jimmy Dykes has turned in with a bunch of castoffs should net him more than an honorable mention.

Perhaps it was because Jimmy himself was cast off by Connie Mack when he seemed to be nearing the end of his playing career that he was able to work wonders with a group of players who had been shunted about the American league. Whatever the reason he did it... and more power to him.

Three years ago Connie Mack sold Dykes to the White Sox. He figured that Jimmy's days as a big league ball player were numbered. Dykes has slowed up a bit around third base, but he still has one of the best throwing arms in the business. And then, too, how was Connie Mack to know that he was turning over a potentially great manager to the White Sox?

Jimmy Dykes has won his spurs as a big league manager. There is no doubt about that. He knows how to play ball, but even more important, he knows how to handle men and how to make them work for him. It hasn't been all luck with Dykes in the matter of picking up ball players who had, to all appearances, outlived their usefulness, or had failed to measure up to the big league standard. He sized them up on what they were capable of doing, not on what their records showed. He has been right in too many instances to call it luck.

Take the case of Vernon Kennedy the leading Sox hurler and the first pitcher to ring up 20 victories in the American league this season. Connie Mack had Kennedy's contract, but turned him loose after a trial. Dykes took a flyer on Bill Dittmuch as $100,000 in the last few years for ball players there is no record of it.

The White Sox may not hold the ground they have gained, but whether they finish in second place or not one thing is certain—Jimmy Dykes has done a grand job of piloting the Chicago team. Few managers have ever done as well with second-hand material.

Another Ferrell Also Makes Baseball Name

Thomasville, Ga. (AP)—Another Ferrell is leaving the bush leagues and beginning the trail that points toward major league stardom.

He's Beverly Ferrell, fly-chasing cousin of Wes and Rick of the Boston Red Sox. Next year he'll become the property of the Baltimore Orioles, having served a 2-year apprenticeship with Thomasville of the Georgia-Florida loop.

This season has batting average, .338, placed him at the top of those sluggers who played the entire season in the league. Beverly hit 14 home runs, for second-place honors among circuit clouters. And he was on the league all-star team for the second straight season.

He's good, too, at running the bases and making spectacular put-outs afield. Only Duane Kratzer, Albany, (Ga.) player adjudged the most valuable in the minors last year, tops Ferrell in stolen bases.

Beverly, 20, quiet, and unassuming, is accordingly popular with other players. Experts like his businesslike ball-playing, classify him as "bi-league timber", and predict he'll make good in the majors.

Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee first-sacker, always tugs on his cap just before stepping to the plate.

STATE LINEUP BIG QUESTION

Wolfpack to Open 10-Game With Elon Saturday P. M.

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—The big question at North Carolina State today is who will Coach Hunk Anderson start Saturday when the Wolfpack opens its 10-game schedule by meeting Elon College in Riddick Stadium here at 3 o'clock.

Anderson has used first one combination and then another since drills began three weeks ago and has switched players about so much that it would be difficult to say definitely just who he will start.

Captain Mac Carr, will, without question, start. He is the leader and the life of the team and also one of the finest left ends to be found this fall in the South.

Eddie Berlinski is another who seems assured of starting roll at one of the half-back posts as his was has been one of the highlights of the training program.

As for the other starters, the guess of one person is as good as another.

The quarterback assignment is a toss up between Joe Schwerdt and

Says Winter Garden Proves Great Value

Raleigh, Sept. 17.—"Since we had our fall and winter garden last year, I don't see how a family of seven can get along on the farm without one."

This was a statement made by Mrs. H. M. Bailey, of Rowan county, to Miss Mary E. Thomas, extension nutritionist at State College, who has charge of the fall and winter garden contest running from October 1 to March 31.

"All during the fall months we had an abundance of vegetables," Mrs. Bailey continued. "We had lima beans, shelled green peas, black-eyed peas, tomatoes, and peppers until Thanksgiving. We also had turnip greens, broccoli, spinach, kale, mustard, beets, carrots, radishes, cabbage, Chinese cabbage, collards and lettuce."

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

One little-publicized aspect of the Presidential campaign is the great reliance placed by the Democratic field marshals on the big-city political machines.

In some respects the situation is anomalous. In the public mind the Roosevelt administration has been identified with idealism and the brain trust. Its vocal following is made up largely of those interested in "a cause." Daily it is indicted by the opposition on a charge of having elevated theorists, novices and impractical zealots to places of high responsibility.

In the quieter precincts where the political war plans are made, however, sit very practical men indeed. At several of the most important salients the tower of Democratic hope is a political organization of long experience and determination. It is not entirely inconceivable that the outcome in these particular salients may spell national defeat or victory, regardless of the noise and fury elsewhere.

Will Tammany deliver in New York? Will Hague come across in New Jersey? Can Guffey swing Pennsylvania? How is Pendergrast doing in Missouri? Will Kelly provide the needed majority in Illinois?

Very, very eagerly will Democratic managers at headquarters watch for the answers to these questions when the returns begin to trickle in on election night.

The five states mentioned here among them, 143 electoral votes. Added to the solid South, they would be more than sufficient to elect a president. In all of them, the rural sections normally are Republican; they go Democratic only when the Democratic organization rolls up an overwhelming majority in the cities.

It is worth noting also that each of the five organizations named has been doing very well for itself recently.

In 1935 Tammany made tremendous gains in New York City. In the same year, in Chicago the Kellys carried the city by the unprecedented majority of 630,000, and Frank Hague established a new high for Democratic pluralities in his urban bailiwick in northern New Jersey.

The Guffey organization in Pennsylvania had its latest test in 1934, when it elected both a governor and a senator in that traditional Republican stronghold. As late as August 4, 1936, the Pendergrast machine in Missouri won one of the most impressive intra-party primary victories in its history.

All of these five states are hotly-debated territory in the 1936 election. Probably few Republican leaders would dispute that if all five are pushed into the Democratic column by the strength of their five powerful big-city machines, Mr. Roosevelt certainly will be re-elected.

Strangely enough, when the practical politicians consider this situation, the question asked oftenest is not whether the big five among Democratic machines will be able to deliver their states and the presidency, but whether they will choose to do so.

Outwardly, all five are for Roosevelt. But the ways of machine politics sometimes are strange and inscrutable. Very often a political

Safety Officials Expect Fatalities To Show Decrease

Statistics For August To Be Announced Late This Week, But Early Drop Looks Good

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 17.—With statistics to come out late this week, the state highway patrol believes that the August deaths on the highways will fall far below the normal figures for such a driving month.

The patrol reads the revocations religiously, those daily bulletins which show how many drunken drivers had been separated from their steering wheels. The list is imposing and the 5,000 deprivations were not expected before November 1, the close of the first year under the drivers' license law. But the revocations have now reached near to 5,500 with six weeks to go. Notwithstanding which riot on the roads, the figures fall.

The very removal of these drunks from the roads makes for a cut in the rates of the killing, the patrol thinks. Instead of emphasizing the great hazards in driving the arrest and conviction of the drunks must mean the removal of a steady menace. The patrol will have the figures ready Saturday and before the compilation is complete, or actually before it began, the road police saw a drop.

The drunken drivers furnished well above 90 per cent of the revocations, an occasional bootlegger, manslayer and hit and runner getting in the list. Transporting gets a few drivers, while drunken driving often is compounded with other offenses. The patrol believes there will be no question that the patrol has justified the bigger appropriation and the larger organization. There will be a move to enlarge it and give it better equipment when the legislature assembles in January.

ARBITRATION DECIDED FOR CENTURY OLD-CASE

Buenos Aires—(AP)—A Buenos Aires civil courtroom resounded with cheers of 84 litigants after Judge Dobranich had induced them to agree to arbitrate a property case which dates back almost 100 years.

Title of property 500 yards wide and several miles long along the river Riachuelo and worth hundreds of thousands of pesos is at stake.

A century ago heirs of Ramon Flores and his wife got into a dispute over property rights, and the case has been in the courts intermittently since.

Chapel Hill, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Bayard Wooten, photographic artist of Chapel Hill, has just returned from a northern trip during which she gave illustrated lectures on the Brookgreen Gardens near Myrtle Beach, S. C. She says the Gardens serve as a background for the largest collection of American statuary in the world, they contain approximately 150 pieces and more are being added from time to time.

Mrs. Wooten showed her photographs of the Gardens to Archer M. Huntington, present owner of Brookgreen, who is planning to have separate pictures taken of every piece of statuary of the collection.

While in the north, Mrs. Wooten also gave an illustrated lecture on "Gardens of the Low Country" before several members of the National Federation of Garden Clubs, including Mrs. Malcolm Edgerton, chairman of the lecture board.

IF FIRE STRIKES When fire strikes, be calm, if you value your life! That sage advice is given by "Safeguarding America Against Fire."

Should your clothing become ignited, drop to the floor and roll into a rug or blanket. That will cut off the supply of oxygen and smother the flames. Thousands of people, insane with panic, have run, thus fanning the blaze—at the cost of their lives.

If you are in a public building when the fire alarm sounds, remember the old adage: "Walk, don't run, to the nearest exit." A legion of lives have been unnecessarily sacrificed to panicked mobs in theatres, hotels and similar buildings.

If you awaken at night and smell smoke, DON'T OPEN THE DOOR! That is vital—to open the door may permit super-heated air and fumes to enter and smother you. First place your hand on the door to see if it feels hot. If it is cool, open it very slightly, with your face averted. If you feel "fire-pressure" against it, close it at once and seek another means of exit.

Even as 90 per cent of fires can be prevented through the exercise of simple precautions, so can ninety per cent of the lives now lost in fires be saved—if we don't get excited. Knowledge of a few rudimentary facts, such as those given above, plus presence of mind, makes the best life saver of all.

Fire may break out in your home, your place of business, in a building or theatre you are in, at any time. When it does, keep calm, think, and then act!—(Industrial News Review).

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(Continued from Page One) came so weakened that it would be an opportunity to join in. The French, the Italians and the British will bargain their way into—or out of—any Eastern war.

FORECAST: Taking a leaf from J. Edgar Hoover's melodramatic pages Her Hitler has tabbed Russia as "World Enemy No. 1." But he would be surprised if he could read the minds of American diplomatic and military sharpshooters.

They figure that the three statesmen most likely to precipitate war within the next year or two are, in order (1) Hitler; (2) Stalin; (3) Mussolini. Hitler's recent demand for a return of German colonies places him in the first rank of potential war-makers. He has torn up the Versailles Treaty in every other respect, but unless he can continue to burnish his brow and banners, to maintain his glory at home, he will run out of pills and propaganda. That's the story of all dictators. Therefore Hitler is only awaiting the hour.

When he strikes, military students predict it will be against Russia—around powerful Poland and through the Balkan hegemony he is rapidly forming. His immediate objective will be the rich and fertile Ukraine, again linking Berlin and Bagdad. Sounds dreamlike to the American decided whether he'll vote for Roosevelt or Landon, but that's future history as read by men who don't base their predictions on dreams, tea leaves or palm reading.

BUNK: Government chemists have made some surprising discoveries with respect to repeal liquor. Their unpublished findings may revolutionize tastes and purchases when they become known to Americans whose evening respers begin and end with the line: "Let's have a drink!"

Liquor does not mellow or improve materially after 3 or 4 years aging. The superstition that expensive 16-year-old bonded stuff rivals Olympian nectar (whatever that was) is the unadulterated bunk. As a matter of chemical fact one and two year old liquor is less damaging, physiologically, than its older sisters and brothers. It may lack the taste of the more ancient stuff, but it also lacks the impurities and ailments which longevity bequeaths.

The Treasury might be suspected of issuing this propaganda because it receives larger revenues from volume sale of cheap whiskey and gin. But the rate of mortality among drinkers of 15 cent whiskey (pep glass) and 60 cent liquor seems to corroborate their alcoholic autopsies.

STUCK: Military and diplomats at Washington are chuckling over the plight of Ambassador Bowers and Col. Stephen Fuqua, who have been central figures in the Spanish turmoil of the last three months.

Mr. Bowers, Hoosier biographer of Jefferson, Hamilton and Jackson, was given his choice of diplomatic assignments by President Roosevelt. At the moment he had several new books under his belt (he had completed his research work in this country) and he chose Madrid because it was a peaceful and romantic spot. There, he figured, he could finish his books without disturbance. For the same reason Col. Fuqua chose to go to Spain as military attache. He had only a few years to serve before retirement and he yearned to spend them in sunny, idyllic lands.

Mr. Bowers has written no books except one which was almost completed before he sailed away; Col. Fuqua has seen more bullets and bombs than sunlight. They haven't time to write letters to their families or Washington friends.

ESSENTIALS: Critics who cavil at Governor Landon and Chairman Hamilton for their campaign crudities fail to realize the practical difficulties which beset a party organization that is on the outside looking in. They don't recognize that the once powerful G.O.P. machine has fallen apart like the one-horse shay.

The Democrats control the federal government with its handling of patronage and vast expenditures in every field. The Democrats dominate the election and patronage machinery in 37 of the 47 states through election of Democratic governors in the last four years. They run the works in a majority of the 250 first class cities, with police, firemen, teachers and other municipal employees as silent but effective volunteers. Of the 3,000 odd counties in the United States the Democrats probably boss the "court house gang" in 75 per cent of the states. That amounts to the most formidable political array in political history, and the Democrats have not hesitated to utilize it.

In the face of such a political phalanx local Republicans are dismayed and disgruntled. Their first need was an injection of monkey glands. That explains why Chairman Hamilton swung around the country instead of spending all of his time at headquarters. It was more important to whoop it up among the local organizations than to interview and soft-soap putrefied politicians at Chicago.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
CONCENTRATION: Anti-New Deal backstagers are banking heavily on Bill Lemke and Father Coughlin to make deep enough inroads on the Roosevelt vote in doubtful states to put Landon over with something to spare. Coughlin and Lemke are expected to stage a whirlwind finish that will wear a large following of discontented leftists away from the President. A formula will also be sought to attract more active support for Lemke from the Townsend element in the "coalition," which has so far been painfully apathetic.

Money will be made available to the Union party or its components whenever it appears that their efforts will yield worthwhile results in terms of votes subtracted from the Roosevelt column. Other splinter groups—racial, for instance—will be given financial encouragement on evidence that they can contribute practically to the same end.

Popular pluralities mean nothing to anti-New Deal strategists. Their single-minded aim is to concentrate on recapturing the states—and electoral votes—which Roosevelt won by a close margin in 1932. They hope to get maximum efficiency from their dollars by such concentration.

DEFLATION: Reports have been circulating actively in financial circles that sharp deflation is in prospect next year—especially if Landon is elected. If these reports were well-founded they would of course foreshadow a severe slump in security and commodity markets.

A source who has close contact with the Republican candidate dismisses this fear as absurd. He points out that the new administration, if Landon is elected, could not switch from the present condition of inflation to a sharp deflation without severe dislocations. He adds: "Landon is a man of proved caution, and I believe with sufficient discretion to know that any change from inflation to deflation could not be made with emphasis as a beginning step of the new administration."

As to the possibility of deflation if Roosevelt is reelected, shrewd observers figure FDR would find it impossible to reverse New Deal spending policies. As long as the government continues to spend much more than it takes in, inflation rather than deflation will prevail.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER
Washington — In the two states of Virginia and Maryland situations have developed which cause almost endless speculation, and the result locally or nationally is unlikely to be fully evident for weeks.

The Baltimore Sun in Maryland announced in an editorial widely printed in other papers that it could not support President Roosevelt and was reserving decision on whether it might support Landon. The Sun, really two papers, morning and evening, has been critical of New Deal methods almost from the beginning although at times endorsing New Deal purposes.

In Virginia a group of "Jefferson Democrats" is urging Democrats to vote for Governor Landon unless "traditional ties or other personal reasons" make that impossible. In such event, the voters are urged to refrain from voting rather than to vote for President Roosevelt. The "Jeffersonians" are taking no part in the congressional races as an

REVISED: This column has several times recorded the dissatisfaction of leading eastern Republicans with what they call "All Landon's milk-and-water liberalism." They have kept hoping that the candidate would take a more forthright stand against the New Deal and all its works—somewhat as Colonel Knox does.

But now the reports of numerous scouts indicate that the Landon variety of liberalism so sharply criticised in the East is winning votes for him in the important midwestern sector—so eastern sentiment is being revised. In the last analysis, New York big timers don't care nearly as much about what doctrines Landon preaches as they do about his success in correlating electoral support.

organization. (Senator Byrd, often critical of the New Deal, urges readers of his newspapers to support Roosevelt.)

Both developments came only shortly before the crucial Maine election. Both found Democratic leaders discounting their effect and Republicans openly jubilant because of their "object lesson" value.

The Baltimore Sun has been Democratic for a century, although turning against Bryan in 1896 and 1908. In those two years as well as in five other elections since 1896 Maryland has chosen Republican presidential electors. It has chosen Democratic electors three times since 1896, including 1932.

Unlike the Virginia "Jefferson Democrats," the Sun is not urging voters to stay away from the polls unless they can relish Landon. The Sun stated simply that unless it found reason later to support Landon it would "make the best of a situation in which it cannot advocate the election of either candidate."

But if the effect of these two examples should be to persuade any considerable number to refrain from voting for either Republican or Democratic presidential candidates, which would suffer most?

Was not Governor Landon depending upon many of the conservative and anti-Roosevelt voters to give him victory? If they merely do not vote, will the Kansan have enough votes from elsewhere to overcome Roosevelt?

To many it appeared unlikely that more than a few citizens who normally vote would stay away from the polls at any urging; but that the bulk would go right on voting their likes, dislikes, prejudices and convictions, reasonably assured that in any event the end is not yet.

NO FEAR OVER BRIDGE ISSUE

Highway Heads Expect Structure To Be Built

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Sept. 16.—State Highway and Public Works officials do not think the lower county protestants in the Albemarle region will bring that threatened injunction to prevent the construction of the span recently chosen by the commission.

One of the state papers wrote immediately after the hearing in Raleigh last week that an injunction would in all likelihood be asked. The middle route chosen by the commission, which happens to traverse some of the acres owned by Commissioner Julien Wood, is costlier than the western and less expensive than the eastern, seems to be popularly the most objectionable, according to reports from the east.

The opposition to the commission's choice, derisively called "Mr. Wood's Bridge," has been strengthened by the attachment of Representative Joe Vann of Hertford county, to that side. It is not inconceivable, according to some of the people in the east, that an injunction may stay operations long enough to get a legislative act submitting the bridge issue to popular vote. The contention of the defeated delegation up here last week is that the chosen route is objectionable to a large majority of the people.

But the commissioner does not believe the opposition made a case that would justify any court in granting a permanent restraining order. In fact, good lawyers are doubtful that there is at issue the kind of property right that sustains such cases when once they get into the courts. The next few days will disclose whether the far easterners are in earnest about contesting this action. Meanwhile, the highway department makes ready to beginning the work which will require the expenditure of sharply more than a million.

Tried for Slaying To Avenge Sister

Ponce Brown (top) and Worth Brown (below), sun-tanned farmers, went on trial at Dallas, Ga., for the "vengeance" slaying of their brother-in-law, Harry P. Hows, who was shot on the courthouse lawn just as he was about to be tried for killing their sister. (Associated Press Photos)

It is abroad, being demonstrated in Russia.

Economists challenge anyone to show that labor saving inventions ever brought permanent disaster to any people. But it is hard to see how the next dozen national administrations can escape the tremendous task of preparing several million southern laborers to take up tasks perhaps far removed from the picking of cotton at which they have been employed for generations.

John and Mack Rust's invention may knock $10 to $20 a bale off the cost of putting on the market a bale of cotton now worth around $60. If that proves true it will displace hand picking just as the mechanical harvester displaced the sickle and the cradle in the wheat field.

Hollywood — Edward Sedewick looking warm and worn, and even a little bit groggy, leaned on his cane in the sunshine, wiped his perspiring brow, and blamed his condition on—music.

"Listening to songs," he said. "All morning long. Fifty songs, maybe a hundred—and I don't think there's one in the lot we can use."

Sedewick, soon to begin his 103rd film, this time as director and producer, had been giving an audition to hosts of Hollywood's aspiring Tin Pan Alieytes. The picture is an "untitled musical" with Jack Haley so it must have songs.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve aching backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of aching backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Don's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Don's Pills.

especially the song-writers whose names were and are Gordon and Revel, who had just written that best-seller about a dream walking.

"When old Joe Public won't lay his quarter on the line for a song," today now that the public might take to," he said. "I could whistle or hum a bar or two myself, even now after this morning. But I dunno. We've got to pick up songs the public will like, and we can't make mistakes."

He pushed back his cap and smiled reminiscently. There was a song they all thought would be sure-fire (this in a long past picture) and they were all mistaken—studio wrong guessing. "Caught Short," you remember, was that comedy of the depression teaming the late Marie Dressler and Polly Moran. It was made with high hopes and compelled in virtual despair. For some time it lay on the shelf while producers debated the advisability of releasing it at all.

And just about then an exhibitor in the middle west began kicking about a picture he was playing. Ed related, and wanted a quick substitute to finish out his week. That seemed to be a good way to get something out of "Caught Short," so they sent it on. Eight weeks later "Caught Short" was still running at that theatre, because old Joe Public knew his own mind better than the studio did.

"And I'll tell you this, too. You can't hide a good picture from that guy. He'll smell it out, every time—yes, sir, every time."

who are registering today for class-work which is to begin Friday.

In the center of the front page appears a group picture of the freshman faculty advisers who began work in earnest this week when more than 800 new students arrived to enter the first year class this fall. They are Dean C. P. Sprull, of the General College, and Prof. I. C. Griffin, Cecil Johnson, M. A. Hill, E. C. Markham, E. L. Mackie, W. S. Wells, G. B. Phillips, and H. R. Totten.

As a part of the Freshman Week program which began Monday, members of the Daily Tar Heel staff returned to the University early in order to give the freshmen an insight into campus activities. Various news stories and features concerning the events of the week, during which the first year men are holding the spotlight, appear in the special edition.

The freshmen are finding the Daily Tar Heel an essential guide for keeping up with extra-curricular activities and numerous affairs which have been planned to welcome them to the University.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER
Washington — Many thoughtful social economists will wager that 1936 will be remembered less by the election or defeat of Roosevelt or Landon or the schism in the American Federation of Labor than by the demonstration at Stoneville, Miss., of a mechanical cotton picker—that worked.

Single inventions have in times past wrought revolutionary social changes. The factory system, for instance, gained great impetus by development of the steam engine.

But the effect of the cotton picker, like the effect of the cotton gin, seems destined to be felt heavier in the southern states than anywhere.

In the south are concentrated the several millions of Negroes who have been a major factor in the cotton industry since its beginning. They have supplied the cheap labor that matched the climatic and soil conditions to make a cotton producing center unrivaled elsewhere.

In the years immediately before and after the revolutionary war the slavery question was heading toward a solution. Cotton was not then the tremendous crop it later became. Even with slave labor the cost of separating seed and fiber by hand was tremendous. Then came the cotton gin invention in 1793 which, one historian said, "fixed the institution (of slavery) firmly on the south."

War ended slavery but many a southerner will tell you that the position of the Negro in the rural south is one of almost complete dependency upon the white landlord, who often provides him a cabin, a bit of garden land and a trickle of money in return for his periodic labor in the cotton fields.

What now will be the effect of the machine cotton picker if it proves to be as successful as these early tests indicate? Will perpetual relief be the fare of the displaced Negroes, as well as the share-cropper whites cut off from a livelihood?

Cries for suppression of the invention seem like beating the kettle to scare off devils. The invention is here. Not only is it here, but ducator, had been giving an audition to hosts of Hollywood's aspiring Tin Pan Alieytes. The picture is an "untitled musical" with Jack Haley so it must have songs.

"There were snatches of songs today now that the public might take to," he said. "I could whistle or hum a bar or two myself, even now after this morning. But I dunno. We've got to pick up songs the public will like, and we can't make mistakes."

He pushed back his cap and smiled reminiscently. There was a song they all thought would be sure-fire (this in a long past picture) and they were all mistaken—

BIG BUSINESS LOSING POWER

Industrial Centers Unable to Control Elections

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 17.—Visitors from other states, some of them friendly to Roosevelt, others highly hostile, bring back the news that the industrial centers have got beyond the control of business heads and that despite the heavy preponderance of big business men, publishers and leading citizens who are inclined against Roosevelt, he will be re-elected overwhelmingly.

Many of the visit Raleigh. They don't think that whether Mr. Landon stays at home or goes places, it will matter much. They find a certain futility in the Governor's strength in the East. The straining which newspapers give the President does not seem to persuade. The crisis of frightened industry do not stem the tide. The very general impression that these hostile and friendly men bring to Raleigh is that the mass of men cannot be controlled or cajoled.

They cite, some of them, North Carolina, a fairly industrial state. In Rocky Mount, Winston-Salem, Hamlet, Erwin, Durham, West Durham, Spencer, and many smaller places such as Tarboro, Franklinton, Smithfield and others not now easy to recall, the manufacturers it is utterly impossible to change the trend. These people voted heavily for Dr. McDonald. It would have appeared easy to handle Winston-Salem with its immense manufacturing strength and the leadership of its citizens. The same was true in West Durham, Durham and Erwin. Every man of prominence connected with these organizations was against Dr. McDonald, but there was no way to carry the voters with them.

Winston-Salem gave Dr. McDonald a big majority despite one of the best organizations working for his opposition. It is true that the Foreign capital had newspapers friendly to him, but in most other places the papers were not friendly. The McDonald threat was real. These industrialists for the most part, disliked him more than they despised Roosevelt. But in those places where big business is fated to dominate, it failed.

If it would not work in North Carolina with such a stranger as Dr. McDonald, people are asking how it can stand up with such a friend as Mr. Roosevelt. The newspapers are by no means all against Roosevelt. He is receiving much more help than the press was wont to give Bryan. There are big journals supporting Roosevelt and some of the most powerful strings of papers are backing him. But if they were not, it might matter.

It is recalled in that connection that big manufacturing places seldom control the voting of their employees. In Durham 28 years ago the later W. W. Kitchen desired to speak in the assembly hall of the Erwin Cotton Mills Company. The hall was denied him on the ground that he was an agitator and he was stirring up well pleased workers.

Mr. Kitchen walked straight down town, got the county commissioners to give him the court house, spoke to ten acres or more of people, told how the Duke interests had tried to stop him, informed them that the American Tobacco Company, the Imperial Tobacco Company, the British-American Tobacco Company, the Southern Railway Company and the Erwin Cotton Mills Company were all against him and seeking to crush him.

Whereupon, Durham forgot General Julian S. Carr and his Confederate soldier candidate for Governor; forgot the backers of Locke Oatis in the mills and tobacco companies, went to the polls and gave Kitchen more than 80 per cent of the county's vote. He had hoped for no more than 40.

The same thing seems to afflict the business leaders today, these visitors say. The wishes of an industrial head have no weight with the people who are working for him. These visitors are saying the same thing will happen in this and other states this fall.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The contest in today's stock market was one of hindrance, rather than speed.

While selected aircraft, steel, motor, rails, oils and specialties trimmed sizeable amounts from Wednesday's losses or added to gains of the preceding session, the list as a whole churned laboriously in a narrow area.

Near the fourth hour a few favorites had recorded advances of a point or more, but those up small fractions were in the great majority. Numerous issues were unchanged and here and there lower prices result from light profit taking. Transfers approximated 850,000 shares.

O'BRIEN AFTER PAIR OFFICES

Seeks Vice Presidency and Senate on Union Ticket

Boston (AP)—Thomas C. O'Brien, who persisted in building up a political career despite three defeats in a row, is after two jobs this year. He's running for the vice presidency and the senate at the same time, both on the Union party ticket.

O'Brien, deep-chested six-footer, who once served as district attorney of Suffolk county, was a Democratic candidate for the U. S. senatorial nomination before he was named running mate of Rep. William Lemke, Union party candidate for President. After that, O'Brien merely changed his political listing.

He was defeated for state representative in 1912 and 1913 and for state senator in 1914 but won an appointment to the state board of parole in 1913. Later he held other appointive offices, among them the Suffolk county district attorneyship, to which he was named in 1922 to fill a vacancy. In November of the same year he was elected to the job.

Towering, well built, O'Brien looks like an athlete but his actual athletic activities have been confined to college scrub games—unless the putting he likes to do in the garden at his Scituate summer home is counted.

He has a knack, say his friends, for raising a fine quality of tomatoes.

O'Brien, a Harvard man, like President Roosevelt, was always too busy getting an education and working outside of school hours to take part in varsity sports.

He worked nights as a baggage-man and brakeman on the Boston and Albany railroad to get through Harvard college and Harvard law school. He went to work at 10 as a soda clerk in Boston, where he was born, and up to the time he completed his primary school education he was successively a bicycle repairman and odd jobs boy.

His work with the railroad paved the way for his later interest in railroad labor affairs. He has served as counsel for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of America in New England and of affiliated organizations of engineers, firemen, telegraphers and signalmen.

He tried for the senate in 1929 but was defeated by the incumbent junior senator from Massachusetts, Marcus L. Coolidge.

A life-long interest in economic problems, O'Brien says, caused him to enter the third party movement.

"Voters who cast ballots in protest before this had only the socialist ticket to vote for," he asserts. "That is but a step from communism. There is certainly nothing communistic in the National Union's platform and voters who can not support either the Old or the New Deal can turn to this party. If the principles of the National Union for Social Justice were put into effect the problems of this nation would be solved."

O'Brien, 49, has been an ardent admirer of Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, who is backing the Union party. O'Brien makes his home with his wife and four children—three daughters and a son—in the Brighton section of Boston where he was born, the son of Irish immigrants.
