S. C. DEPUTIES ON GUARD AT TEXTILE MILL

Indicated Union Plant Might Seek to Reopen Today

NO STATEMENT FROM OFFICIALS

Federal Conciliator Arrested for 'Trying Take Possession' Of Sheriff's Office.

Union, S. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A group of approximately 75 special deputies, armed with pump guns and shot guns, descended upon the strike-torn Monarch textile mill this morning.

They arrested a youth on a disorderly conduct charge and took up positions before and behind a similar number of pickets thrown across the road leading to the entrance.

The presence of the deputies indicated that the mill might open today, but there was no official statement. There was no disorder on the part of the pickets, who merely watched the maneuvers with interest.

George Kamenow of Washington, D. C., a federal labor conciliator, was released under bond of $100 to answer to a disorderly conduct charge early today after spending most of last night in the county jail.

Sheriff J. G. Paucet said he had arrested Kamenow "for coming into my office and trying to take possession and run it," but had consented to his release on bond.

Kamenow was understood to have protested against sending the special deputies to reopen the mill when he was arrested yesterday. Gov. Olin D. Johnston proposed a 30-day truce for arbitration of the discharge of a union worker three weeks ago which precipitated the strike.

Total Enrollment For Pitt Schools Shows Gain of 25

1936 Figures Are For First Two Weeks. While First Month Counted For 1935 Comparison

Enrollment in the Pitt county schools showed an increase for the first two weeks this year over that for the first month last year, it was announced at the County Board of Education offices today. An even larger increase is expected to be shown for the entire first month, it was indicated, as several schools have reported increases since they sent in their enrollment figures to County Superintendent D. H. Conley. Figures for the first two weeks last year were not available and the comparison was made for the first month.

The enrollment in all schools for the first two weeks was 6,412, as compared with 6,387 at the close of the first month last year.

Five schools show an increase this year. They are Arthur, Chitwood, Falkland, Fountain and Pactolus. Other schools in the county may be able to show an increase by the end of the first month.

Chitwood, with 780 pupils enrolled at the end of the first two weeks, is the largest school in the county. Greenville, with 720, came second. Other units and the number of enrollment of each follow: Ayden, 697; Belvoir, 454; Arthur, 316; Bethel, 460; Stokes, 354; Grimesland, 404; Falkland, 337; Fountain, 364; Pactolus, 358; Grifton, 398; and Winterville, 689.

Order Bond Issuance For Washington, N.C.

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Local Government commission today authorized issuance of $90,000 bonds by the town of Washington to be used for electric system extensions. The First Citizens Bank & Trust Co., of Smithfield bought a $15,000 Torbaro tax anticipation note with interest at 1.90 per cent, and Branch Banking & Trust Co., of Wilson took a $7,000 Kinston note with interest at two per cent.

Old Family Name Detroit (AP)—Panis Tranotopoulos, Greek fighter, won't change his name. He refused his manager, William McCarney, saying: "My name Tranotopoulos, Tranotopoulos my father's name, Tranotopoulos my grandfather's name, Tranotopoulos great name, Tranotopoulos old Greek name, Tranotopoulos never, no never change from Tranotopoulos, Tranotopoulos good enough." "But here the manager passed out."

E. C. T. COLLEGE OPENED TODAY

Record-Breaking Freshman Class Marks New Term

The formal opening of East Carolina Teachers College this afternoon, when a record-breaking Freshman Class gathered for the first program of Freshman week, marks the beginning of the twenty-eighth year of this institution. When the dining halls and dormitories were opened yesterday, the new students began to pour in and were greeted by officers from the Student government association and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Practically all the faculty arrived ahead of time, committees have been meeting and preliminary plans for registration have been made.

The first two days are devoted entirely to Freshmen and start them off on "Freshman Week." Throughout the entire week special attention is paid the newcomers. This afternoon they assembled in the Robert H. Wright Auditorium where President Meadows extended to them a cordial welcome and Dr. McGinnis explained the plan of the program for their week. Group singing was led by Misses Kuyendall and Thomas. Then followed a sight-seeing tour of the campus, with student officers acting as guides to the Freshmen group. A barbecue, under the trees, was the closing event of the day. Immediately after luncheon, Paul R. Riggs, in his buses, led the groups on a sight-seeing tour of the town.

At 7:30 tonight they will assemble again and their relationship to the registrar and to the registrar will be explained by Dr. Duncan and Miss Ross, then they will be introduced to the student and dormitory officers and a treasurer and assistant officers will get some idea of the campus organizations and life. The cheer leader will lead them in the College songs and yells. Tomorrow the Freshmen will register and in the evening another program will be held. On Thursday the members of the Upper Classes will register and regular class work will begin on Friday morning.

Among the leaders who came early were the president of the Student Government Association, Miss Elizabeth Dixon Johnson of Goldsboro; the secretary, Miss Lillian Warren of Newton Grove; the treasurer, Miss Joyce Harrell of Hertford and all the members of the Student Government Council; and the president of the Young Women's Christian Association, Miss Catherine Wallace of Kinston; and Miss Margaret Norman, vice-president of Robinsonville; and Miss Mildred McDonald, secretary of Forest City and Miss Juanita Davis, treasurer of Fremont and all the other members of the cabinet.

Certificate Granted Rural Cooperatives

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Utilities Commission granted the Edgecombe-Martin Rural Electric Cooperatives a certificate of convenience and necessity today when no opposition developed at a hearing on the petition.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN ON TOBACCO MARKET

All season records—offerings, money paid out and average—were broken on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday when 1,570,846 pounds of leaf were sold, bringing farmers $327,461.24, or an official average of $23.89.

So far this season 15,364,266 pounds of tobacco have been sold here for $3,333,511.82, an average of $21.70.

Yesterday's average of $23.89 was only one cent less than two dollars higher than the general average for the season. The high price paid for the heavy offerings yesterday also boosted

Pitt Farmers To Receive $307,261 Under Program

Pitt county farmers will participate in the 1936 soil conservation program to the extent of $307,261.20, a report on results of field supervisors' activities made by R. R. Bennett, farm agent, revealed today.

The study showed that 3,025 individual work sheets were signed by farmers in the county, indicating they were participating in the federal program.

Farm land covered by the contracts amounted to 302,120.4 acres. This figure included all lands, whether in cultivation or not. Crop land covered by the work sheets is 136,362 acres.

The percentage of cotton acreage covered by work sheets is 93.5 and the percentage of cotton producers in the county covered is 91.

Eighty-six per cent of the tobacco acreage in the county is covered by the contracts, and 84 per cent of the tobacco producers are included in the program.

The percentage of peanut acreage covered was set at 85.5, while 82.5 per cent of the peanut producers in the county signed the work sheets.

Farmers this year reduced their tobacco growth by 6,516 acres, or 5,242,934 pounds. They will be paid approximately $262,146.70 for diverting this land to soil conserving crops. Approximately 3,898 acres of cotton land was planted to soil conserving crops and will reduce the crop in this county by about 3,898 pounds. Farmers are due to be paid $43,752.50 for diverting this amount of cotton acreage to other crops.

A total of $27,221.70 was allotted to Pitt county for soil building payments, but farmers have earned only about five per cent, or $1,361.89 of this amount by adopting soil conserving practices.

The cotton, tobacco and soil building payments constitute all the payments Pitt farmers are due from the program.

County Agent Bennett declared that in order for farmers to earn larger amounts of the money set aside for soil building payments in this county they will have to turn under more green manure crops by October 31.

State Penal Division To Erect Five Camps

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Oscar Pitts, acting director of the state penal division, announced today that work would start as soon as possible on construction of four new prison camps over the state and on improvements at a fifth. Johnston county will have a new $30,000 camp, Pitts said.

They expect to stage most of their updates in New England, New York,

FRENCH FRANC CHANGE VOTED

Paris, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Adjustment of the French franc with the British pound and United States dollar was approved today by a weary chamber of deputies after a 25-hour session.

The vote on the government sponsored proposal was 350 to 221. The devaluation measure which reduces the gold content of the franc between one-quarter and one-third, was sent immediately to the senate. Exportation and importation of gold already had been prohibited.

Cooperation of the United States and Great Britain in establishing a "monetary equilibrium," agreement was cited by Premier Leon Blum in a final appeal to the deputies. He asserted the devaluation bill was one item in the French social reform program which is compared with recovery legislation in the United States.

Deputies Approve Adjustment After Long Session

The acquittal of Herschell Gill the only defendant freed of the charge by the jury, had been suggested by an assistant state's attorney.

Five of those convicted of first degree murder—"Colonel" Harvey Davis, Ervin B. Lee, Urban Biggs, Paul R. Edwards and Edgar Baldwin—were present when Pool was shot to death by Dayton Dean, the confessed "executioner." The others convicted of first degree murder were John Banerman and Lowell Rushing, who were charged with taking an active part in the death plot.

The jury convicted Thomas R. Craig and Virgil Morrow, both of whom attended the meeting where the state charged the "execution" plot was agreed upon, of second degree murder with a recommendation of leniency for Morris.

The bench returned the second degree conviction against Albert Stevens and John S. Vincent. Both of them also were at the meeting. Under Michigan law the maximum penalty for first degree murder is life imprisonment. Second degree conviction leaves the sentence to the discretion of the court.

Elements Provide Oregon Residents Relief From Fire

Marshfield, Ore., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The elements which whipped forest fires into such a fury that they destroyed a town, caused nine deaths and $3,000,000 damages came to the aid today of southwestern Oregon's 400,000 smoked-covered acres.

A cooling fog blown in from the sea and a dying east wind prompted weather observers to believe that previously threatened towns now were certain to escape the fate which befell the coastal city of Bandon. Heartened residents quickly tackled rehabilitation.

In California state forestry officials estimated damage in a dozen northern counties at more than $1,000,000 in an area in excess of 300,000 acres.

Federal and state agencies, combining with private individuals, public organizations and officials neighboring cities, rushed the work of caring for homeless and destitute.

Highway Patrolmen In Meet Here Today

Highway patrolmen from all over Eastern North Carolina met here today for a regular monthly luncheon meeting held at Pecos barbecue palace and attended by high officials in the organization, including Captain Charles Fagner. Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the division, said routine discussions would be held and instructions given.

CULT MEMBERS CONVICTED OF POOLE MURDER

Eleven of 12 Charged With Poole Death Found Guilty

ALL BUT FOUR IN FIRST DEGREE

Michigan Law Provides for Life Imprisonment for First Degree Conviction

Detroit, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Eleven of the 12 men charged with plotting the Black Legion "execution" of Charles A. Poole on an isolated suburban road last May 12, were convicted today in Circuit court.

All but four were convicted of first degree murder. The jury of nine men and three women held two of the others guilty of second degree murder, and Judge Joseph A. Moynihan returned a second degree murder conviction against the two defendants who waived a jury trial.

The jury, which had listened to the prolonged testimony in the case since September 10, required an hour and 25 minutes to reach its decision.

The acquittal of Herschell Gill the only defendant freed of the charge by the jury, had been suggested by an assistant state's attorney.

Five of those convicted of first degree murder—"Colonel" Harvey Davis, Ervin B. Lee, Urban Biggs, Paul R. Loyalists Concentrate Their Defense Efforts On Capital City Itself

TWO NOMINEES DOWN TO WORK

Roosevelt Speaks in Syracuse; Landon Announces Tour

(By Associated Press) Governor Alf M. Landon announced a fourth major campaign swing today while President Roosevelt, made ready to discuss national issues before the Democratic convention at Syracuse, N. Y., tonight.

Fighting words were in order in both political camps. Doing his own talking, the Republican presidential nominee, said shortly after his return to Toledo, "There will be no slacking." His trip will take him before audiences in Chicago, Oct. 9, Cleveland Oct. 12, and Detroit, Oct. 14.

Friends said the Roosevelt speech would be "straight from the shoulder" and would lay a foundation for detailed discussion of farm, budget and relief questions later. His next address comes Thursday in Pittsburgh.

Among other developments: Resigning his chairmanship of the special security board, former Governor John G. Winant of New Hampshire, a Republican, drafted a defense of the old age pension unemployment insurance law to be broadcast from New York tonight in answer to criticism by Landon.

Chairman John D. Cox, of the House Agriculture Committee, said in a Chicago statement that the prices of what the farmer sells and buys are nearer parity than at any time since 1929.

Attempt Rob Bank Lands Local Negro In Municipal Jail

Wesley Atkinson, Grant Mehey From Guaranty Branch But Quickly Caught By Officers

Haskell Atkinson, 31, described by Police Chief George Clark as a "mean negro" was caught in the Dickinson Avenue branch of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company today attempting to steal a sum of money and was lodged in city jail where he will await a hearing.

Frank Patrick, cashier of the bank, said the negro reached through a teller's window and scooped up about $35 in bills and dashed for the door. A number of customers in the bank, however, caught and held him until officers were called.

The negro attempted the robbery as a farmer was being given cash for a tobacco check.

The negro got off the roads only recently, Chief Clark said, in describing him as an "old offender." He is a brother to a negro given three to five years in a recent term of Superior court for robbing a newspaper carrier of his collections.

His address to the Chicago Pure Milk association, a cooperative dairy producers' group, was the first of five political speeches scheduled for this week in the capitol belt.

Wallace said the Republicans had proposed a combination of the Smoot-Hawley tariff act and the Federal Farm Board as an agricultural program and that recent speeches by Landon had set forth "the governor's negative psychology of farm policy."

Expanding his speech to include administrative relief measures, Wallace said these had been "assailed on two grounds: That they employ undervaluing people on worthless projects and that they result in an outlay of extravagant spending."

In reply he said no one in the government would contend that the employment program has been perfect, but he added that "50,000,000 were jobless and many of them hungry; refusal to take action would have meant complete and devastating collapse of our economic system."

Wallace said the additional to the public debt would cost about $1.60 a year for each man, woman and child, "instead of reckless extravagance, the expenditures for recovery look like the best investment in history."

Wallace Declares New Deal Spending Sound Investment

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace told a farm belt audience today that "free competitive enterprise" advocated by Gov. Alf M. Landon was "cut-throat competition" and "a system of agriculture operating for the most part according to the law of tooth and claw."

His address to the Chicago Pure Milk association, a cooperative dairy producers' group, was the first of five political speeches scheduled for this week in the capitol belt.

Hunters Are Warned Get Their Licenses

With the opening of the squirrel season on October 1 only a few days off, hunters were warned today to purchase their licenses before they take to the woods. The county warden declared that all persons found hunting without licenses would be prosecuted.

The squirrel season closes on February 15. Open season for hunting opossum with gun and dog is the same dates, while the raccoon season opens on the same date but closes on February 1.

Terrifying Epic of Alcazar and Its Rescue Unfolded

FASCISTS BEGIN DRIVE ON MADRID

New Call to Arms Sent Out for Additional Man Power to Bolster Defense

(By Associated Press) The terrifying epic of Toledo and its rescued Alcazar was unfolded bit by bit today while Spanish insurgents started a fresh drive on Madrid and the government, slowing its reinforcements to Toledo, built a giant defense system before the capital itself.

In the last hours of the fastest assault on Toledo Sunday, survivors said today, 600 Catholic priests supporting the rebellion were slaughtered by frenzied lancers.

From the Alcazar survivors came those stories of the siege and the rescue: "Everything was destroyed around the Alcazar 'in the 73 days of artillery fire, dynamiting and flaming gasoline."

Radio reports of the advance of the insurgents kept the Alcazar men, women and children alive "and food dropped from planes kept us going."

"Women and children all escaped without injury."

"The change of dynamite set off by Government's business caused 'comparatively little injury' because of engineers among the self-imprisoned fascists heard the excavation being dug and knew what part of the Alcazar would be blown up. The fascists led to other sections."

As for the drive on Madrid, fascist commanders at Toledo said the "warfare is developing." To the north other fascist columns were seeking to encircle government forces between Avila and Segovia.

In Madrid a new call to arms went out for government men to defend the capital defense.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON (By Ray Tucker) EFFECTIVE: Mathematicians at Republican Congressional headquarters have revised upward their private estimate of the number of House seats they will win.

July-August canvasses indicated that the G. O. P. might win back forty districts and that fifty was the maximum. Predictions that 60 Republicans would replace that many Democrats were only pleasant publicized hopes. Now the pencil politicians have boosted the figure to a minimum of seventy-five, and some insist that a gain of 100 is not impossible.

They expect to stage most of their updates in New England, New York,

Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska. The Republicans must retain their present membership of 100 and add 118 more, to control the lower chamber. Few look for an actual majority, but they do count on enough for a fighting, effective opposition. Except on a clear-cut major division 200 votes usually constitute a House majority because of illness, absences, pairs, etc. With disaffected Democrats, a Republican gain of 150 or 175 would hurt President Landon tremendously.

TARS ANXIOUS TO BEAT VOLS

Carolina - Tennessee Battle at Carolina Saturday

Chapel Hill, Sept. 29.—The North Carolina-Tennessee football game in Chapel Hill next Saturday was every earmark of being one of those nip-and-tuck contests that will not be settled until the last whistle is blown.

The coaches and players of both teams will be especially anxious to win this one. Ray Wolf will be making his bow before the homefolks and naturally he will want the team to look its best. Major Bob Neyland, who is on the comeback trail after a year's leave with the Army will be doing his utmost to keep intact the record of never having been defeated by a Carolina team.

And naturally his players will be giving their all to help him. If Tennessee can win this one, it would go a long way toward wiping out the sting of last year's 38-13 drubbing handed the Vols by the Tar Heels.

Major Bill Britton, who coached the Vols last season, sat in the press box at Charlotte Saturday and took copious notes. And he learned plenty, for the Tar Heels had to open up in order to conquer the stubborn Baptists. Also there must be considered the fact that it would gladden his heart tremendously to be instrumental in helping the Vols alone for last year's top-heavy loss to their brethren on this side of the mountains.

It will be a most crucial game for both teams and the outcome may easily make or break either for the remainder of the season. Both the coaches are keenly aware of this fact.

The game will mark the renewal of an ancient rivalry dating back to 1893. The two teams haven't met every year, but last season was the first time the Tar Heels had defeated the Vols since 1908. They played to a scoreless tie in 1919.

Indications are that the game will draw a large crowd to Chapel Hill. There has been a heavy advance seat sale, but plenty of good seats are still available at the University ticket office here and at places throughout the State where they have been placed on sale.

The contest is being heralded as an all-important early season major attraction. The game will start at 2:30.

PACK TO MEET WAKE FOREST

State Team on Spot After Loss to Davidson Eleven

Raleigh, Sept. 28.—The football game here Saturday night between North Carolina State and Wake Forest will do one of two things for the Wolfpack—break it or make it. The Wolves are on the spot. They were put there by a group of wild Wildcats from Davidson College who upset the Wolves, 6-2, Saturday night in Riddick Stadium.

A win over Wake Forest will be just what the Wolves need to keep up their spirit which is still high even after the loss to Davidson. A loss to Wake Forest could not but help hasten that spirit.

The Wolfpack will be in a fighting mood Saturday and their battle with the Deacons will be scrap from start to finish as are all State College-Wake Forest football games.

Howard Barnes, kicking and blocking back, is scheduled to return to action, and every effort is being made to have Eddie Berinski ready. Berinski was injured in the Davidson game. Wake Forest will be favored to take State since the Deacons made such a fine showing against Carolina last Saturday and State was defeated by Davidson.

But, whatever the outcome, fans can expect a game as interesting as the State-Davidson tilt. State and Wake Forest have been football antagonists for 28 years, their games always being a fight to the finish.

There will be spectacular passing and great kicking. There will be brilliant running by Dallas Morris sprinting for Wake Forest and Berinski in charge of State's running plays.

ANY ICE TODAY, TEAM?

East Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—The ice man is a very important person in the vicinity of Michigan State college. He is an assistant student manager, and it is his duty to rush out with cracked ice when Spartan warriors are hurt in practice. The ice is always on hand. Coach Charles Bachman says prompt application of ice prevents long sojourns on the sidelines.

The Sportsman

By LARRY BAUER

As the deer season gets under way the veteran hunter wonders if he'll get out of the woods alive. Deer hunting is no sport and the only big-game hunting left in most states that may be enjoyed by the man or woman of moderate means. The one great drawback is the irresponsible rifleman.

This type of hunter enters the game country with a powerful weapon and sometimes disregards the fact that alcohol and gun powder will not mix. With his sight blurred he bangs away at any moving object—be it deer, man or domestic animal. Many veteran deer hunters who have stalked this animal for years have abandoned their autumn sport because of the increasing number of those who do not know how to hunt.

Last fall while I was talking to a farmer in his barn (this was the only habitation for miles around) we were startled by two bullets crashing through the heavy timbers over our head. The farmer cursed and said he was glad the season was a short one, because while it was open he had no peace of mind. For the hunter who will profit by advice: It is well to ascertain the nearest house or cabin in the area where you are shooting, and to refrain from firing toward it. Never fire at moving objects not entirely visible.

Utah sportsmen declare that they intend to teach the unthinking hunter manners this fall. They have the support of their state fish and game board. Some hunters go out equipped with rifles and ammunition suitable for moose and elk but too heavy for deer. These guns are especially dangerous in more or less settled country where hunting is permitted. The mortality rate among deer hunters is all too high. Folks other than hunters sometimes are bumped off.

We have said, and believe, that the great majority of hunters will listen to and profit by advice. If all the sportsmen who follow the game trails this fall will give a few kind words to the youngsters, the newcomers and the unthinking, there will be a decrease in the number of accidental shootings. Hunt clubs, outdoor organizations, guides and field men are doing good work along this line. These people realize there is little sport in keeping one eye peeled for game and the other cocked for a jittery hunter who may send a soft-nosed bullet at anything moving in the brush.

Free Will Baptists Hold Revival Service

The revival at the Free Will Baptist church entered the second week last night with a great service. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Smyer and Miss Clark; Duet, "Sometime, Somewhere."

Rev. Mr. Melvin delivered a timely message using as a text Heb. 3:7 using as a subject "Harden Not Your Heart."

In part he said "God in all ages has called to humanity. God is Sovereign and it is His pleasure to speak to us. He endeavors to speak to us and attract the hearts of men."

"God speaks to us in three ways. By His word, by the preaching and singing of His word and by the Holy Spirit. The bible stands today as God's silent messenger and His medium of speaking to man. The bible read, the bible preached, the bible sung is the voice of God calling to us. You will not find the bible in dens of shame and places of vice where men would shut God out; it is a stern message from God calling us from sin. Every sermon you ever heard preached was God speaking to you. When God calls us in the judgment to give an account, we must give an account of how we have heard His word."

"Preachers as a whole are a fine group of men and if God has laid His hands on them they are His messengers."

"God is a great God and so much greater than our sins that He does things in a great way."

"Besides His preached word and read word He speaks to us by His Holy Spirit. When you sat under the voice of some preachers and heard God's word proclaimed did you not feel some urging; that was God's spirit and is calling you from sin? When you think some one had told the preacher how you have been living it is God's spirit ringing your number. It is God using His three means, His word, His sermon and His Holy Spirit."

Vignettes in kaleidoscope, as glimpsed on a safari through the show belt after dark:

Sophie Tucker and four taxis of luggage streaking for the waterfront and the Normande. . . Tallulah Bankhead's apartment, with cigarettes curling from every ashtray, all bearing traces of the Bankhead lipstick. . . Barbara O'Neill, the actress, currying to a sign advertising a play in which she will appear. . . The 17-year-old dancer in a supper club whose father grows coconuts in the south seas.

Max Reinhardt and Crosby Gaige in earnest conversation in the twilight of 45th street. . . Helen Geaconda, "Me" opera singer, all happily fustered at a surprise party on the Marine Roof. . . Dario and Diane drifting through their wait at the Rainbow Room, in an aura of moonlight and champagne.

Henry Hull, who created the character of the depraved Jester Lester in "Tobacco Road," passing the theater where the play still runs. . . His next characterization will be Edgar Allan Poe. . . Monty Froser, the theatrical man, making prize-fight with Carl Brisson, the Dane, in the French Casino bar. . . Brisson, star of the coming Romberg opera, "Forbidden Melody," which should be a warning to critics who don't like his acting.

Jane Pickens, "Follies" star, having a golden buck in Dave's Blue Room. . . Max Gordon attending the premiere of a play that he had once planned to produce himself, and applauding it. . . The out-of-town newspapermen waiting backstage to congratulate Helen Hayes. . . Ricardo Cortez trudging up the gangplank of a trans-Atlantic liner with an armful of novels.

Restrictions Placed Fruit To Be Offered

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—Only fruit that is truly representative of its variety will be eligible for premiums at the State Fair, October 12-17.

Exhibits containing trashy fruit will also be ruled ineligible, said H. R. Niswonger and Robert Schmidt, horticulturists at State College who will help supervise the fruit exhibits at the Fair.

"We wish to make the fruit exhibits an inspiration to growers who go to see the progress that is being made in developing good varieties," the horticulturists stated.

"We will not consider for premiums just any old pile of fruit that may be entered. Each entry considered must be a good collection of fruit arranged on plates and properly labeled."

To induce orchardists to enter specimens of their best fruits, the fair is offering $700 in prize money in the horticultural department. The entries will be open to individuals.

Every word of the bible is a silent messenger from God calling to repentance. "If you don't turn from your sins you are lost and lost now." Another thing, God wants to say to you is that God loves you and loves your soul and is more concerned about your soul than you are, and stands patiently by to point you to the cross of calvary. While God tells us He loves us; He tells us we are lost and calls us to repent. Jesus died for you and at the same time tells you that He is your only hope of salvation and bids you come to Him and come now.

Another thing God wants to tell us is that today is the day of salvation and if you will hear His voice harden not your heart. Rebellion builds up a resistance against God and though He speaks very tenderly harden not your heart, every time you do so you put yourself farther from God.

The inference is that men can harden their heart. I have known men to grow old and never come to Christ but every year would go farther from God.

Do you know how to answer? Put your heart faith in Jesus and take Him as your Saviour. The highest thing in life is to accept Jesus Christ as your Saviour. Will you accept Him now?

SAVING LIVES AND DOLLARS

During Fire Prevention Week, which is to be observed from October 4 to 10 this year, every effort will be made to instruct the public in the elimination of fire hazards. Newspapers and periodicals will publicize the Week. Insurance organizations will give every effort to making the Week a success. Fire prevention organizations will send speakers about the country. Fire marshals and fire departments will cooperate.

But all of this work, no matter how aggressive and well planned, will fail unless the public does its part to cooperate and save itself from fires.

Fire prevention, like accident prevention, is largely an individual matter. It is impossible to do away with the multiple hazards found in the average home unless the owner takes an interest, and it is impossible to eliminate industrial fire hazards unless factory managements help to the extent of inspecting their factories and enlisting the interest and aid of workmen.

During the Week, every person in this country should give an hour or two to learning the simple lessons that, if remembered and followed, will prevent most fires. It will cost nothing—and it may pay tremendous dividends in life and property. Some of the worst fires start from hazards that could be corrected in five minutes.

Every town government should carefully inspect its public buildings, especially schools, during the Week. Cases have been found where new and expensive school buildings presented a large number of grave hazards. Fire in a school is the most horrible of all—as a long list of disasters that snuffed out thousands of young lives witnesses.

Remember the date—October 4 to 10. It should be regarded as both a duty and a privilege to take advantage of the Week and join in the war against fire.—Industrial News Review.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony only last night rescued Miss Little, the pin star, and Ruth Fraser from Andrew Lawson's desperate gang of kidnapers. Although he is not sure, Terence thinks he may be suspected of the murder of Elsa's uncle; nevertheless, when he meets Lawson near his house, and Lawson suggests that Terence accompany him to the Little house, Terence agrees. But he dislikes Lawson's smug confidence that no suspicion can attach to him.

Chapter 14 BETRAYAL

WHEN they had driven a short distance in the direction of the Little's house Lawson tapped on the glass in front of him and signaled to the driver to stop.

"You must excuse me for a moment," he said, "I want some cigarettes."

The taxi stopped, and Lawson got out and entered a small tobacconist's. Mahony noticed outside the shop a sign which said: Public Telephone. He frowned. Lawson, he knew, smoked Balkan Sobranies. It was unlikely that he would be able to get them at that small, shabby shop. In that case he had probably entered the shop in order to use the telephone.

But what for? What the devil was Lawson up to now, he wondered. Was he planning to have the taxi intercepted before it reached the Little's house? He slipped his hand into his pocket; his fingers closed on the butt of his automatic. The feel of it comforted him. If Lawson was planning to put over a fast one he was ready for it. He felt fine.

But nothing happened to interfere with the taxi. It drew up safely outside the Little's house and Lawson paid the driver and rang the front door-bell. A trim maid admitted them and showed them into a drawing room where Elsa, a short, fair man, and a tall, dark-haired man of thirty-three or -four were sitting. The dark man was Inspector Kennedy.

"Good morning, Elsa," said Lawson. "I've brought Mr. Mahony along to see you. Well, Kennedy, how are you?"

"Where did you meet Mr. Lawson?" asked Elsa.

Her lovely face was pale and her eyes showed signs of recent weeping. As she asked Mahony that simple question there was an air of suppressed but intense excitement about her that was not easy to account for. It affected the others in the room; both Lawson and Kennedy were listening in attitudes of expectant attention.

"I met him at the end of Dulverton Street, near his house," Mahony answered.

Now both Kennedy and Lawson were looking at Elsa. And Elsa was looking at Mahony. On her face was an expression of the most utter horror and dislike. He might have been some sort of big, white, poisonous slug, the way she looked at him. She spoke slowly and clearly:

"I recognize this man's voice. He was the man who was with me in the study last night," she said.

HER words struck Mahony with all the force of an unexpected blow between the eyes. He had thought it in the last degree improbable that Elsa would remember his voice. And he objected strongly to her thinking that he had killed her uncle. The horror she contended in her eyes stung him. The gleam of satisfaction in Lawson's eyes infuriated him. For a second he was moved to indignant protest.

"It wasn't I who murdered your uncle," he said hotly.

At that Inspector Kennedy leaned forward slightly with the eager air of a tiger about to grip its prey.

"So you know Mr. Little has been murdered," he said keenly. "Will you explain how you know that? The news has not been published in any of the newspapers yet."

He paused.

"I have to warn you that I am a police officer, and that anything you say may be used as evidence," he added. "You are not obliged to answer my questions now."

It was obvious to Mahony that he had made a bad slip. The knowledge jerked him into a realization that he had to keep his wits about him.

"How do you think I know he's been murdered?" he asked bluntly.

"Lawson told me on the way here."

"What's that?" exclaimed Lawson.

For a moment he showed his white teeth in a smile. He would have smiled in the same way at an opponent who had made a good shot at tennis, particularly if the shot was not quite good enough to win the point.

"I didn't mention the murder to you on the way here," he said.

Mahony stared at him with an expression of utter amazement on his face. He appeared to think that Lawson had suddenly gone quite mad.

"You didn't mention it?" he exclaimed.

felt obligated to Father Coughlin, Dotor Townsend or John L. Lewis. You may also count on several "rugged individualists" who wear nobody's collar—not even their own.

The prospect is enough to give gray hairs to whichever man sits in the White House. Mr. Roosevelt's influence as party leader and patronage dispenser. That's history in a second term. Mr. Landon, as President, would need to compromise and bargain in order to mobilize a majority for his first-term program.

AGREEMENT? President Roose-

claimed. "Why, good heavens, man, you hardly talked of anything else. Don't you remember asking me not to stay too long, because Miss Little was very upset?"

He really seemed to believe what he said. For a moment he paused. Then he scowled and went on suspiciously:

"What's the idea? Why are you trying to pretend that you didn't mention the murder?"

He seemed to suspect Lawson of dark deeds and sinister intentions. Lawson retaliated by merely looking superior. He shrugged his shoulders with a nonchalant air.

"The man who came running out of the house when the constable and I arrived, shortly after the murder, hit me and the constable very hard with his fist," he observed dispassionately.

He made a slight gesture towards Mahony's right hand.

"How did you get that graze on your knuckles?" he asked.

Mahony glanced down at his knuckles. He had grazed them knocking out one of Mulgrave's teeth.

"I fell over and scraped my hand on the pavement," he answered.

ALL his indignation had gone; he felt quite cool and collected now. In a way, he was rather enjoying himself. He recognized that his position was very awkward, but it was not necessarily disastrous.

Elsa claimed to have recognized him by his voice as the man who had killed her uncle, but that recognition alone, especially considering the dazed state she had been in after her uncle's murder, was not sufficient to convict him in a court of law without a good deal of corroborative evidence. It was up to him to see that no such evidence was forthcoming.

"Can you give me an account of your movements after ten o'clock last night?" asked Inspector Kennedy.

Mahony shrugged his shoulders.

"Very roughly," he answered. "I've been away for about four years, you know, and last night I simply wandered alone about London seeing the sights. I walked along Oxford Street, the Strand, and back by the Houses of Parliament, Ebury Street, Sloane Street and Hyde Park. I stayed in the Park for some time listening to one of the stump speakers. I don't know what time I got home, but it must have been pretty late because everybody was asleep."

"I suppose you didn't meet anybody you knew during your wanderings?" asked the Inspector.

"No. But it's not likely that I should. I hardly know anybody in London," explained Mahony.

There was a pause. The Inspector's next question came very suddenly and curtly.

"I understand that you have recently returned from a four years' stay in China. Did you know anybody out there engaged in the dope traffic—exporting drugs, I mean?"

Mahony hesitated for a moment. Then he decided to be quite truthful.

"Yes," he replied. "I met a man out there who talked to me about that sort of thing. He was a Russian named Vladimir Kosoff. I believe I broke his jaw."

"You seem to be a somewhat violent person," observed Inspector Kennedy. "I take it that the thought of engaging in that trade yourself has never occurred to you?"

"No," answered Mahony.

"Do you disapprove of it?" asked the Inspector.

"I think it's a filthy traffic," said Mahony.

But he wondered, a little anxiously, what the Inspector was getting at. "A most creditable sentiment," said the Inspector blandly. "And when you returned to England you went at once to stay with your friend Mr. Ross?"

"Yes," agreed Mahony.

"He is a particular friend of yours, I take it?" persisted the Inspector.

"Yes," agreed Mahony again.

"We were at school together."

"Has it ever been suggested to you that Mr. Ross is a dope addict?" asked the Inspector.

Mahony had been waiting for something like that. He was ready for it.

"Billy Ross a dope addict! Don't be silly," he said contemptuously.

The Inspector had not said: "Ross is a dope addict," in the manner of one stating a fact; he had said, "Has it been suggested to you that Ross is a dope addict," in the manner of one seeking for information or admissions. Someone, quite evidently, had put this dope idea into the Inspector's mind, and he was merely engaged on exploring its possibilities.

The last person Terence expects to see arrives, tomorrow.

veld did some scouting of his own before he summoned private power executives to the White House for a discussion—and possible solution—of TVA's problems. In conference with several higher-ups in the utility field he explored their "No Man's Land."

His guests didn't mince words. They flatly told the President that they were willing to join in a yardstick experiment, such as that at TVA, but they imposed—or suggested—two conditions. They demanded that he include in his public-power cost sheet charges which they have to bear. They stipulated that he confine future government experiments to a definite and restricted territory like the Tennessee basin. They agreed to meet government power rates under these conditions, figuring that inclusion of new charges would enable them to do so.

By calling the conference in the face of these warnings, FDR has encouraged some utilitarians to think he may accept their terms. But the others figure that an open disagreement at their first get-together may put them "on the spot" on the eve of the election.

MAJOR: Privately certain power-minded New Dealers figure that they have split the once solid front of the public utilities. Tomorrow's conference at the White House may set the stage for the last act in this drama of conflict.

Roughly, there are three great power groups currently involved in the administration's power thrust. They consist of the faction dominated by the House of Morgan thru its banking interests, the Pennsylvania and New Jersey family influenced by U. G. I. President John Zimmerman and Thomas McCarter of New Jersey Public Service Corporation, and Commonwealth and Southern, an immediate rival and customer of TVA. Wendell Wilkie head of C & S, is often called the "white hope" of the private utilities because of his ability and vision.

The Morgans have shown distinct sympathy for Mr. Roosevelt's monetary policies and have edged closer to his power program. They would like to see the utilities stock to the operating rather than the investment field. Messrs. McCarter and Zimmerman are anti-Roosevelt "die-hards," unwilling to make any concessions. So FDR's new strategy is to split off Mr. Wilkie through settlement of TVA difficulties, if possible. That's why tomorrow's parity is much more significant than it appears to be on the surface.

HEALTH: Jesse Jones' prolonged absence from Washington has provoked numerous strange rumors about his relationship with the President.

It revived midsummer's stories that he might be nominated for the presidency in the event FDR should not get a second chance. It brought out stories that he was so dissatisfied with the New Deal that he would not campaign for FDR. When he quit San Francisco without delivering a scheduled speech before the American Bankers' Association, there were whispers that he did not feel that he could conscientiously defend Roosevelt - Morgenthau monetary policies. He may not know it, but the bulky Texan was responsible for powerful, underground propaganda.

Like so many campaign tales, none was true.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
NUCLEUS: Backstage Republican and Democratic leaders have a nervous eye on the development of the new Labor Party in New York. This is the only state in which Labor's Non-Partisan League for Roosevelt has taken on the status of a regular political party. The move was tried purely as an experiment, but it is working altogether too well for the peace of mind of old-line Republicans and Democrats.

A quadrumvirate of leaders are mainly responsible for the party's rapid growth: Mrs. Elinore Herrick—who used to represent the consumer in N. R. A. days; David Dubinsky—head of the Ladies Garment Workers' Union and closely associated with John Lewis in the Committee for Industrial Organization; George Meany—president of the New York State Federation of Labor; and Louis Waldman—erstwhile right-wing socialist leader.

They are an oddly assorted group—differing from each other on numerous cardinal points of labor doctrine—yet are pulling together with remarkable harmony in this common cause. The New York Labor Party is only a nucleus for 1940 political ambitions—but a formidable nucleus.

BUILD-UP: Fiorello LaGuardia—stormy petrel Mayor of New York City—is making quite a reputation for himself as a settler of labor disputes. Twice within the past two weeks he has been the middleman in furthering an agreement which ended a serious strike or strike threat.

In the case of both the truckmen and the garage workers, employers and employees both welcomed the Mayor's intervention. Employers felt he was sincerely trying to avert menacing situations. Union officials felt they could trust him not to slip over any fast one on them. In both cases an extreme radical element was involved which was out to stir up as much fuss as possible. This element is sore at the Mayor because he spoiled their fun—so anyone who tries to pin a communist tag on him hasn't asked the communists what they think of him.

LaGuardia's success as a mediator helps build him up for a prominent role in the Labor Party to be organized on a national scale before 1940, provided his energies remain unimpaired after his strenuous term in City Hall.

SIMPLER: The Securities Exchange Commission is making progress behind the scenes with its plan to simplify the registration of new corporate security issues.

Investment bankers and corporate officers have been clamoring for simplification for many months in order to cut down on what they characterize as useless expense and trouble. The SEC has always been willing in principle. For one thing, is it eager to eliminate needless obstructions in the path of legitimate security flotations. For another, its responsibility to protect the lay investor can best be fulfilled by simplification. That would help to make outsiders aware of all the essentials about a security that insiders can get.

But the Commission has been making haste slowly in considering the problems involved. It has no intention of being played for a sucker by smart Wall Streeters. SEC officials have found their investment banking consultants generally helpful—but despite the delightfully naive suggestion from one such source that only a single copy of each prospectus be filed with the Commission.

HOPEFUL: There are indications that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is seeking a graceful retreat from Jesse Jones' plan to dismember the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad and hand over the fragments to eight other roads.

This plan was the subject of a senatorial investigation shortly before Congress adjourned, and at the time Mr. Jones and other RFC spokesmen insisted it was the only reasonable solution. Representatives of labor, of the bondholders, and of cities and towns threatened with curtailment of railroad service registered a strong dissent. Finally the bondholders committee submitted a reorganization plan involving an RFC loan which would keep the road alive and intact. The RFC has never given a definite yes or no to this proposition.

Rotary Club Program Devoted to Scout Activities

By WYATT BROWN
Two thousand dollars is the goal of the Boy Scout campaign for 1933. B. B. Sugg, chairman of the 1933 campaign, told Rotarians last night at their regular weekly dinner meeting.

"What is the use of our putting on a program to raise the price of tobacco if we do not take care of our boys?" Mr. Sugg quoted J. E. Winslow, leader in the tobacco program, as saying when approached about the campaign yesterday. Mr. Sugg's extemporaneous remarks followed Assistant Scout Executive Ralph H. Mose's address on Scouting as a program—not an organization—a few words by K. T. Futrell Pitt County Welfare officer, on the cause and treatment of juvenile delinquency.

"Fine colleges, streets, and schools are important; but the most important thing in our community is the welfare of our boys," Mr. Sugg went on. "The biggest men in our country are behind Scouting from President Roosevelt, who is ex-officio president of the movement, right down."

Mr. Sugg's feeling about the importance of boys' welfare was revealed in how he next connected his experience of yesterday in having to reveal to two parents that their twenty-year-old son had forged the name of his father to a note—dumfounded father left standing in his field, mother at the house sorrowful.

As progress of Scouting in the past year the Assistant Executive Mose told how it had grown from two troops—one white meeting at the Rotary Club and one colored meeting at the colored school (where had been in existence but there were no Scoutmasters to lead them) to sixteen troops in Pitt and Greene counties; from 101 members to 289. The problem of leaders has been taken care of by the training of thirty men ready to take active leadership. So much for Greenville District and in the whole council to which Greenville District belongs, the number of Scouts has increased from 945 to 1800.

Mr. Mose also reported increased activity in individual Scout advancement in tests enabling Greenville District to rate up with the national average in this branch of activity.

Following Mr. Mose as speaker was K. T. Futrell, who spoke from his observations and reading, on juvenile delinquency. He opened by relating a personal experience with his son in the newly-planted vegetable garden. At his father's caution to be careful where he stepped, the son replied, "I am jumping right in your tracks."

Next to speak was Herbert Waldrop who made a speech which represented Scouting to the Rotarians and ardently appealed for their cooperation last week. So he just called attention to the men who are meeting once every month to check up on the program, make reports of their various contact assignments with the Scouts. His conclusion he again solicited the interest of his hearers for Scouting in view of the men who are studying, working, developing the Scouting program in the Greenville District.

The program was presented by Johnny Overton, chairman of the program committee. Guests of the club were: J. C. Galloway, Bruce Sugg, Carl Langley, Walter Cherry, Clyde Newby, Sam Baker, J. G. Summers, O. M. Lemon, Carl Heid and A. C. Tadlock. J. B. Kittrell, club president, presided. He named a committee of Carl Adams, Yoe Walker, G. E. Combs, Billy Nesbit, Roy Campbell, Julian White and Steve Wilkerson to present a program Friday night for the Ayden Rotary Club from the Greenville Club. The attendance prize was won by Lebrun Spence. It was given by Walter C. Dressbach.

Talks To Parents

CONSISTENCY

(By Brooke Peters Church)
Consistency is essential in bringing up children. No mother can blow hot and cold, forbidding for no good reason one day, what for no better reason she permits the next, punishing one moment what she passes over at another. The child who lives in such a variable atmosphere cannot himself be normal. He will be unmanageable, nervous, hyper-sensitive or callous, according to his temperament. In any event he will be unhappy.

Mrs. Smith, knowing her variability of mood, admitted it, and when her children became unruly took them to psychiatrist. It would have been better had she herself gone for treatment. All that the psychiatrist could do was to point out to Mrs. Smith that her children suffered from a sense of insecurity owing to their mother's lack of consistency. There was no cure possible for the children until the mother took herself in hand and followed a steady course of behavior. Mrs. Smith would not, or thought she could not do this, and as a result the advice the psychiatrist gave was useless. It would have taken a miracle to cure the children, and a psychiatrist is no more of a miracle worker than a doctor is.

If a doctor, analyzing the reason for chronic colds, prescribed an even temperature for a child, the mother would see that conditions in the home were corrected so that the youngster were not taken straight from a temperature of 80 to another of 40. It would not occur to her, knowing the cause of the colds, merely to treat the symptoms.

Half the so-called naughty and nervously unstable children, many of the young delinquents and rebels, are suffering from their parents' faults and short-comings. More often than not the chief error was temperamental discipline and control.

How's Your Health?

MENTAL HEALTH

Some of the preventive aspects of the mental health problem were discussed recently before the American Medical Association by Dr. H. R. Casparis of Vanderbilt University medical school.

Noting that the majority of America's hospital beds are said to be occupied by individuals suffering from mental disorders, he properly deduced that the only hope in mastering the situation lies in the prevention of mental diseases.

Prevention, however, is the task of every man, at least of every adult who deals with children, for

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeye)

It is well recognized that the seeds of mental ill health are sown in childhood.

For this reason the instruction of the public in the principles of mental hygiene, or of mental health, as Dr. Casparis prefers, is of urgent importance. Most adults, by virtue of their own experience, consider themselves thoroughly capable of training children along ideal lines. But results do not bear out this pretended competence.

In guiding the child, it is essential, Dr. Casparis urges, that we should realize that "infants differ from adults only in that adults through experience have learned to behave differently from children." Again, "that building material varies," and it is essential to recognize as nearly as possible, as we go along, whether we are getting the best out of our building material and also that we are not trying to build a stronger mental structure than the material permits. The load must not be unbearable.

Mental nurture is another item of importance. "We must pay careful attention to mental nutrition, for unless human beings are mentally well nourished, we cannot expect them to develop into adequately behaving human beings."

A NATIONAL DISTILLERS PRODUCT

"You can hurry a man into old age ... but not a whiskey"

says the OLD TOWN TAVERN KEEPER

"I've seen many a man grow old before his time—but never a whiskey... Take National Distillers' Town Tavern, for example. You can tell by its smooth, age-rich flavor that here's one whiskey that wasn't hurried. Fact is, Town Tavern grew old naturally, in charred oak barrels during eighteen months of 'controlled summer' temperature... If you haven't yet tried this rich, smooth, appetizing drink, it's about time you did!"

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 29. (AP)—Wall street today paid more attention to domestic industrial developments than to foreign currency, upheavals and the market responded with a slow price advance. While buying in the last was, on the whole highly selective, and trading volume rather slim, favored issues retained advance of fraction to a point or more near the fourth hour. Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated near the final hour. Transfers were around 1,300,000 shares.

Join The "American" Party Contest

ONE of the conditions in qualifying for the "American" Party Contest is to estimate how each state will vote. To help those who enter, we have prepared a tabulation of how each state has voted from 1872 to 1932.

This tabulation in useful blotter form is available to you free at any American Oil Company dealer's or station.

If you haven't entered this big $10,000 Cash Prize Contest, do it today. Get your blank at any American Oil Company dealer's or station. You don't have to buy anything.
