LOYAL TROOPS CHECK REBELS' MADRID DRIVE

Government Bombing Planes Rain Shells on Fascists

ATTACK BLOCKS FASCIST DRIVE

Communiques Declare Loyalists Resisted Several Advances Near City

(By Associated Press) Determined government resistance today checked the insurgent advance on Madrid. At San Martin de Valdeiglesias three government bombing planes rained shells on fascist concentrations entering some Moorish cavalry troops, killing their mounts and wrecking several buildings. The Madrid war ministry asserted its forces had repulsed a strong insurgent attack, blocking the fascist drive toward El Escorial, a strategic base for the attack on Madrid. Communiques announced government troops also had resisted several other fascist attacks. Asturian miners were reported to have led government bomb squads in a dynamite and artillery charge on Oviedo, Asturian city in the far north. The government claimed its forces occupied four-fifths of the city. Insurgents commanders declared they had cut the electric supply lines to Madrid at the Alberche river power house, shutting off 80 per cent of the capital's power. Outside Madrid at Marseilles, France thwarted an attempt to blow up the Spanish schooner Calapi at its dock there. They described a burning fuse attacked to a basket full of dynamite and other explosives on the bridge. Burgos, Spain, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Declaring "several Madrid leaders" had tried to gain concessions in return for speedy surrender of the capital, insurgent Spanish officers (Continued on page three)

They are reminded that the first obligation of each of them in this emergency is to the public."

Col. Knox Asks Tar Heels To Forget Party Labels

Vice Presidential Nominee Opens Tour of State in Chapel Hill Address; Renews Assault on FDR Administration

Chapel Hill, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Declaring that the American "order of society" is in danger, Col. Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, urged North Carolina voters today to "forget party labels" in the forthcoming election. Opening a tour of the state in this college town, home of the University of North Carolina, Knox renewed the assault on the Roosevelt administration which he began last night in Richmond, Va. "Within the past four years the course of government in this land of ours has gone far to undermine this American system," Knox declared today. "It has persuaded that fatal policy of government waste which leads to destruction of orderly government. It has persuaded that policy of coercion of the legislation branch of government which foretells dictatorship. It has persuaded that policy of brow beating the courts which substitutes the control of men for the control of law. "Above all, it has fanned the fires of class hate which must be lit before free government is destroyed. "It is not a matter of political parties. It is a matter of protecting and maintaining the American system of life against the disintegrating that has come to so many countries. I would ask all of you to forget party labels and political affiliations. "The vice presidential candidate, en route to Asheville, will stop for short platform talks at Burlington, Greensboro, Salisbury, Statesville, Hickory and Marion. Tonight Knox will speak in Asheville.

He served as secretary of the Merchants association of that city. He moved to Greenville from Durham and has served as secretary of both the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants association here. He also was chairman of the Pitt County Federal Housing Administration committee. He was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. Surviving him are his wife, both his parents, his grandmother, Mrs. C. A. Linville of Winston-Salem, one sister, Mrs. Blaine Glasgow of Winston-Salem, and one brother, Dr. C. P. G.O.P. IN STATE BEGINS DRIVE

Landon Seeks Workers Vote

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. By J. C. BASKERVILL Raleigh, Oct. 13.—The Republican "drive" to capture North Carolina for Governor Alf Landon is in full swing today. It was started here last night when Thomas Dixon, formerly a Democrat, but now campaigning for the National Republican Committee and Landon, spoke in the Court House here. The State Fair proved more attractive to most people than Dixon's speech with the result that the effect of the speech is being rated at about zero by Democratic leaders here today, who agree that if they could have selected the date and place they could not have done better. Indications another good average would be struck today as bidding was kept for a number of grades. On the heels of Dixon's Republican speech here last night, Col. Frank Knox, the Republican candidate for Vice President, invaded the state this morning for a speech at Chapel Hill and is now en route to Asheville, where he will speak at a Republican rally tonight. The special train on which Knox is traveling was scheduled to pause in Burlington, Greensboro, Salisbury, Statesville, Hickory and Marion long enough for the Chicago newspaper publisher to make brief speeches from the rear platform of his private car. Roosevelt Asserts Foes Telling Bedtime Stories

Chief Executive Carries Campaign for Re-election Into The Heart of Alf. M. Landon's Home State of Kansas

Wichita, Kansas, Oct. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, bringing his reelection campaign to the heart of Governor Alf M. Landon's home state, asserted today that Republican leaders were telling "political bedtime stories" in "spreading the gospel of fear" about the New Deal, setting one class against another. Speaking in Lawrence stadium from an open car, the Chief Executive said he was certain the American people would not be frightened by "fairy tales" in November and added: "The people who talk about class distinctions are the very ones who are encouraging class antagonism. For they tell one story in the east and another story in the west; one story in the city and another story on the farm. That is not my way and never will be my way." Mr. Roosevelt did not mention his Republican rival by name. But, he declared the "leaders" who were disseminating this silly, false fear are the men "whose blindness to fact and refusal to act caused the real fear and the real danger of national disaster in 1932. "After outlining in detail the objectives and philosophy of his administration as having been based, generally speaking on economic security, freedom of religion and full opportunity he said: "We are coming through a great national crisis with flying colors. "We have not lost our respect. We have not changed our form of government."

Three-Power "Gold Bloc" Aimed Curb Speculation

Agreement Described as New Kind of Gold Standard

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Declaring that its aim was more normal trade relations, the United States government today put into effect what Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau termed "a new kind of gold standard." Great Britain and France took similar action as the result of a three-power agreement. Officials here said the pact was designed to curb currency speculation, put a check rein on exchange fluctuations and establish a free movement of gold among the three governments. Other nations were invited to join the "gold bloc" and some government economists predicted it might spread within a few weeks to a large part of the world. The understanding provided that the stabilization funds of the three governments would exchange gold with each other, buying or selling as the occasion arises. Gold can be purchased by individuals nor can it be purchased by nations not a party to the agreement. While the Franco-British-American accord did not establish fixed rates between the three currencies, Morgenthau said he regarded it as a long "second step" toward ultimate stabilization. The first step was taken September 25, when the same three nations made a "gentlemen's agreement" to cooperate in studying the exchanges while France devalued her currency. The secretary said today's agreement would have virtually no direct effect on the "man in the street" because it will not influence the internal value of the dollar.

NAZIS PROTEST FRENCH RALLY

German Embassy Objects to Alleged Statement

Paris, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The German embassy announced today an official protest had been delivered to France against a communist "bulletin" to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. The German protest decried an "outrage" made in a French foreign office official concerning alleged statements made during a speech at Strasbourg by Leon Blum, secretary general of the French communist party. The French official was declared to have promised to transmit the Nazi objection to Premier Leon Blum and foreign minister Yvon Delbos. The German embassy asserted it expected an early response from the French government. A foreign office spokesman said the German protest was considered in the light of "calling attention to the French government" to the statements alleged to have been made by Blum during party rallies in Alsace Lorraine. He insisted the conversation was "entirely friendly." A spokesman for the German embassy, however, said Berlin took a "serious attitude toward the communist campaign in Alsace Lorraine and looked for a quick explanation" from the French government. The German cited an agreement whereby France and Germany undertook to avoid political demonstrations along the frontier and indicated they believe the Blum government should have banned all communist meetings.

Diphtheria Occurs On Sharp Incline Throughout Pitt

Health Officer Advises That Children Be Vaccinated Against Disease; 10 Cases Last Month

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, said today that an unusually large number of diphtheria cases were occurring in Pitt and urged that precautions be taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Dr. Ennett advised that all children be vaccinated. He said that if a family was able to do so the children should be taken to the family physician, but added no one would have to go without the vaccination because of lack of funds. He said the Health office would give the vaccinations with the only cost to be 10 cents to pay for the vaccine and added this cost would not be charged if the family was unable to pay this. The health officer advised that children as young as six to 12 months be given the treatment, explaining that the disease was much more common among small children than older people. Recalling that most of the cases reported in this county were children under school age, he said children from 17 months to five years were more apt to have the disease than others. During September 10 cases were reported in the county, as compared with only two in the corresponding period a year ago. So far this month six cases have been reported, while up to this date in October last year only three had been reported. Dr. Ennett said the disease was much more prevalent over the entire state this year than last. He declared the disease occurred to a greater extent at the approach of fall, just when the weather begins to turn cool.

TATE COUNSEL ARGUES CASE BEFORE COURT

Contends Confession Obtained With "Rubber Hose"

APPEAL ARGUED BY PITT LAWYER

Negro Convicted in March Term of Superior Court of Slaying Bethel Man

Raleigh, Oct. 13.—(AP)—S. Worthington, Greenville lawyer representing Willie Tate, Pitt county, under death sentence for murder, obtained before the Supreme Court today that a confession was obtained from the negro "by the usual inducements" of "rubber hose and black jack." Associate Justice Michael Schenck asked Worthington what he meant by "usual inducements" when the attorney first used only that term and the lawyer replied: "According to the sheriff there were none. But according to the defendant the usual rubber hose and black jack were used. Tate was convicted of the killing of Alexander Warren as Warren and his fiancée were riding. The court heard fifth district appeals today from the fifth and 10th districts. Opinions will be filed late tomorrow. Willie Tate, 29-year-old negro, was convicted in Superior court here on March 19, and the date of execution was set for April 24. An appeal was taken to the Supreme court, however, and he has been on death row at State Prison since. The plea was asserted during the night of September 29. He was arrested in this city later and a confession is alleged to have been obtained by the state during the trial. Following his arrest he was taken to Nashville jail for safe-keeping until the trial. The negro implicated two others in the murder, but neither was tried on the murder count. Tate alone being held responsible for the crime. Funeral Services For Former Staff Member of College to Be Held at 2 O'Clock Tomorrow Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. Nannie F. THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News WASHINGTON (By Ira Bennett) CLEAVAGE: Candidate Landon reiterates his support of a St. Lawrence saway project but doesn't commit himself specifically to the treaty with Canada, which was rejected by the Senate in 1931. He restates his idea that the saway would serve as a "major means for permanent industrial and agricultural uplift to the entire nation." By avoiding commitment to the treaty already introduced Mr. Landon leaves himself free to oppose the Roosevelt plan for developing a huge government owned and operated power system based upon the St. Lawrence. Some politicians call this a delicate subject to handle, because opposition to government power would give the New Dealers a chance to charge that Landon "is on the side of utility monopolies and against the people." Governor Landon's intimate friends hint that a statement is coming from him on this subject. They add that he is a competent lawyer, fully equal to the task of defining the constitutional scope of federal authority. BIDS: New Deal and G. O. P. rivalry in courting the colored vote is vastly pleasing to the latter. CROWDS FLOCK TO STATE FAIR

Thrill aDy Observed at Exposition in Raleigh Today

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 13.—Visitors by the thousands streamed through the gates of the State Fair today as the weather continued fair and cooler, to see the thrill offered by Lucky Teeter and his "Hell Drivers" and the many other thrilling attractions booked by Manager Norman Y. Chambilis and his partner George Hamid. For this is "Thrill Day" at the State Fair, also the day on which all of the Raleigh school children are being admitted free.

The center of attraction this afternoon was to be the performance of Teeter and his dare-devil, rip-roaring automobile drivers and motorcycle acrobats who will deliberately stage head-on collisions, jump automobiles over parked trucks, turn cars over, drive through boards fences and many other feats of daring in order to provide thrills for the onlookers. In addition, those in the grandstand will also see the 15 big hippodrome acts provided for their entertainment, while those those visiting the fair will see the presentation of "Revelations of 1936," the colorful and tuneful musical comedy produced on the big open-air stage in front of the grandstand. Thousands of people jammed the grand stand last night for the first performance of the "Revelations" and were delighted with the tuneful music, pretty girls and entertaining dance numbers, in addition to the regular program of hippodrome acts.

The three-days horse racing program will start Wednesday afternoon and continue through Friday, with many of the best known harness racers in the country participating. Joe McGraw, veteran horse racing official, will act as starter. These races are expected to attract horse fanciers from every section of the state.

Although the opening day of a State Fair is not generally regarded as a very big day, the crowd at the fair grounds yesterday was one of the largest for a "first day" in its history, Manager Chambilis said. If the weather continues favorable, as now seems likely, the attendance for automobiles over parked trucks, the week is expected to pass the 250,000 mark.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — The timeliness of President Roosevelt's announcement that he was advocating a form of crop insurance was in keeping with a whole series of events so adapted to meet political developments that coincidence seems partly ruled out.

Seasoned politicians sense that a well planned campaign has been designed to anticipate just such problems.

The President and his advisors may be credited with estimating in advance on just what grounds the administration would be attacked. What better than to devise a running defense that at times, like the crop insurance matter, roaches upon carrying the fight into the enemy's territory? Instead merely of defending AAA and its substitute, soil conservation, the President advances a new plan.

That it actually was "stealing thunder" from the Republican candidate appeared to be quickly evident when Governor Landon issued a brief statement saying he had planned to discuss crop insurance in his speech next day.

Long before the national conventions much talk along the curb-stones was that business generally was against Roosevelt, alienated by carried leftist tendencies.

Who should bob up at the White House for a series of conferences about that time, but some of the leading industrial figures of the nation, heads of companies which only shortly before had declared dividends or had issued reports giving other evidence of happier times. The President simply explained he was consulting industrial leaders on methods of government cooperation.

More recently the statement by Colonel Knox which was interpreted widely as implying bank deposits and insurance policies were unsafe was followed by a call of insurance leaders at the White House. They had been invited earlier, well in advance of the Knox statement. After the conference the White House permitted them to answer.

Colonel Knox, amplifying his statement later, said that he was not questioning the soundness of banks and insurance companies, but was giving warning of the danger of inflation destroying the value of savings and insurance policies.

The insurance men said that $3,000,000,000 of new insurance was evidence of popular confidence, and insisted insurance was safe. At that time it was indicated, but not formally announced, that bankers might be calling at the White House some time soon.

Jack Denny Here Monday

Ted Husing, who recently came to Durham to broadcast the Duke-Colgate game, played a large part in the success of Jack Denny and his orchestra. Denny will play his lulling melodies before a concert audience at East Carolina Teachers College October 19.

Denny's newly organized band has been playing an engagement in the Astor Hotel in New York. After a short stay he went to the Frivolity Club, where Ted Husing announced his broadcast.

While Denny and his band were broadcasting, a phone call came Husing answered. It was Montreal calling, and the party wanted to speak to Denny's manager. Husing thought it was a joke, and decided to joke in return.

"I am Denny's manager," said Husing.

"We want to engage him for the Mount Royal Hotel. What will it cost?"

Husing knew nothing about orchestra rates but seeing the number of the Frivolity Club on the telephone dial, he quoted it as the price. The number happened to be twice what Denny was receiving at the time, so he accepted a six week's contract at the Mount Royal Hotel.

He stayed five years and two months.

but the same parent who makes an unnecessary fuss about early tumbles may miss a trick later on. The child is so used to screaming over trifles that an important injury may be overlooked.

Tommy has been permitted, even encouraged, to yell every time he "tubs his toe. When he falls out of the apple tree no one can tell whether he is badly hurt or not. He raises the usual commotion, but when the noise quiets down and it is found that he can still walk and move his arms and legs as usual, the episode is passed over as "just another tumble."

Months or even years later, when the boy develops physical or nervous symptoms for which no cause can be found, the accident has been forgotten.

It is a good idea to pay no attention to a baby's casual tumbles. Let him pick himself up and go on without comment. When he has a serious accident give him more care and less sympathy. A day or two in bed, a thorough physical examination by a doctor and constant observation for a few weeks, are worth more than kisses and words of comfort.

Children seldom injure themselves badly when they fall. They are light and generally well padded, and beyond a bruise or scrape are unlikely to sustain any real injury.

VANCE SCHOOL RUMPUS ENDED

Additional Truck Allocated by State Commission

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Oct. 13.—The Vance county school bus rumpus has now been settled as far as the State School Commission is concerned, with the allotment of an additional school bus to the Townsville school, in the northern part of the county some 18 miles from Henderson and with the allotment of additional funds to make any needed repairs to other school buses, it was learned from the State School Commission here today.

It was also pointed out that the additional bus could have been allotted sooner and would have been had the Vance county superintendent presented the facts to the commission and made any effort to get the extra bus, also that it was the duty of the county superintendent to see that all school buses are in proper condition and that if he needed an extra allotment for repairs he could have had it without waiting for the grand jury to act.

There is no doubt that the Townsville school was overcrowded, due to an unexpectedly large enrollment, and that it needed an additional bus, School Commission officials here agree. The school has an average daily attendance of about 180 and two buses were not sufficient, even making two trips each. Now two of the buses are supposed to make two trips each and the third bus one trip, so that the average load per trip is now about 30 children, it was pointed out. But if the commission had been advised of the large enrollment and the need for an additional bus, it would have allotted it at once, commission officials said today. Nothing was known of this crowded condition until an article appeared in the morning newspaper here in Raleigh telling of alleged conditions in the Townsville school and insisting that more than 70 children were being hauled at one time in a single bus.

Those here familiar with the school situation in Vance county maintain there has been a lot of politics in this school bus squabble and that the county superintendent in Vance deliberately sought the adverse publicity concerning overcrowded school buses in an effort both to get another bus for the county and to make it appear the State School Commission rather than himself was to blame for conditions. The understanding here is that the superintendent is very much opposed to the School Commission.

today announced their flat refusal to deal with government authorities. The Salamanca headquarters of the fascist armies announced "revolt" Madrid chiefs had "tried to surrender of the capital."

This was followed by a statement from insurgent general headquarters here declaring the situation of our army, is such that it is useless to discuss the surrender of Madrid which must be total.

It was announced fascist planes had dropped proclamations on the capital calling upon the police and the authorities for complete capitulation to "avoid useless spilling of blood."

The leftists added: "If this surrender is refused the strength of the punishment will depend upon the resistance opposed to us."

ANTELOPE GUARDS CUSTOMS HOUSE

Corwin Center, Mont. (AP)—"Slim," an antelope with goat-like proclivities has become a self-appointed "watchdog" at the U. S. customs office here.

When "Fat" shepherd dog and constant companion of the pet antelope, died, the 100-pound, year and a half old animal took over the job voluntarily.

Strangers stand the chance of getting butted out into the street when they attempt to enter the custom station. The practical way, customs officials says, is to "bulldog" the animal like a steer.

Talks To Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

Too much sympathy

Tommy was running and fell. His father and mother dropped what they were doing and ran to pick him up. "Poor Tommy, did you hurt yourself, darling? Mummy's so sorry!" Tommy was not really hurt at all, but to get all this attention and sympathy would have been worth a good deal of pain. He shed bitter tears over his imaginary hurts, and after this made no attempt to keep from stumbling and falling. Furthermore, when he did fall he lay and screamed until help came.

The Techo Echo

The Techo Echo made its first appearance for the new College year this morning and is a most attractive and interesting sheet of six pages.

A number of pictures, including one of President Meadows on the first page and campus leaders scattered throughout the paper, add to its interest. The make-up is good and the campus news, activities, and departments, are well covered.

George Willard is editor-in-chief and Miss Louise Martin is chief business manager, and if the first number is a sample of what future numbers are to be, the College is to be congratulated on its choice of staff members. The associate editors are: Vernon Ward, Robertsonville; Miss Naomi Newell, Salem N. J.; Miss Frances Barnes, of Draper; Miss Viola Smith of Goldsboro; Miss Lucille Lewis, of Wilmington; Miss Martha Hamilton, of Monroe, and Joe Braxton, of La-Grange.

The assistants to the business manager are: Miss Hannah Martin, Miss Louise Brit, Miss Caroline Evans, "Pokey" Johnson, and Misses Helen Downing, Margie Watson and Sue Speed. Miss Elizabeth Copeland, of Ahsokie, is the reporter for the Y. W. C. A.

The Techo Echo is a member of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association and of the Associated Collegiate Press.

"The Pitt County Play"

The Pitt County Play, composed by the Seventh Grade of the Training School, was presented by them to the College students this morning at the assembly hour, by special request. The children acted with considerable poise, not at all overawed by College girls and boys, who were delighted with the performance.

The play has been recorded in a book on Pitt County, a book which was also written by the Seventh Grade students to be donated to the Training School Library.

KENTUCKY COULD KEEP LIQUOR LEAD

Frankfort, Ky. (AP)—Even though every Kentucky county should vote "dry" in local option elections, this state could legally maintain its position as the nation's leading distiller, Director Theo Hageman of the division of alcohol control points out. Manufacturing and wholesaling of liquor are legal in "dry" counties, so long as the product is not sold here.

Out of 12 counties that have voted on the liquor question since passage of the 1936 local option law, 11 have voted "dry."

Kentucky is collecting upward of $300,000 a month from its 5-cent-per-gallon liquor production tax.

At present, Hageman said, there are 63 active distillers' permits in force. He predicted that 100 Kentucky distillers would be operating by January 1, and that by that time 30 counties would be dry through local option elections.

The committee in charge of the campaign for funds to carry on the Boy Scout work in this community for another year is to be congratulated for its fine work and the citizens of this community who pledged or donated the fund are likewise to be congratulated. The $2,000 asked to carry on the work for next year has been oversubscribed by nearly $100. This action on the part of the citizens of our community is evidence of their interest in our boys and their desire to give them every opportunity for training that will make them grow into useful citizens.

The Greenville tobacco market set a new season's record yesterday when the average price was more than $29.00 per hundred pounds for one of the largest single day's sales of the season. Since the opening of the season there have been some—even in our own community—who apparently have enjoyed taking a knock at the local market, but a study of the figures of the season to date will reveal that Greenville is again standing at the top of the list of the larger markets from a price standpoint. The Greenville market continues to live up to its claim of being the best market in the state.

 ing the leaves-and-fishes gospel of the New Deal in Northern states where colored voters may hold the balance of power.
 Fully alive to this pious propaganda, Gov. Landon throws out the suggestion that he is interested in finding legal means to prevent lynching. He doesn't say that he supports the anti-lynching bill, but colored voters can draw conclusions.
 The anti-lynching bill died with the 74th Congress, but it could be revived in the 75th.

SHRUNK: As campaign fires war brighter the Liberty League flame grows dim. Orthodox politicians the lads who can't stomach chumming with the "enemy," are now saying "I told you so."
 Regular Republicans shied away from the League when they say it headed up by J. Edgar Hoover. The letter is associated in their minds with Charley Michelson's activities in the "near Hoover" days. The Roosevelt Democrats sniffed when they saw G. O. P. bigwigs and Jeffersonian Democrats on the League board of regents.
 Being neither fish, fowl, nor good red herring, the League hasn't been able to enlist either Republicans or Democrats in large numbers. Shouse has fixed pay, but the revenues of the League have shrunk.

RUMORS: Senator Jerry Nye's release of the Pokker affidavit served as a popgun sensation for a few hours. If a President has any relatives at all, politicians try to discredit him by exploding sensational rumors of family misdoings. Sen. Nye acted from a different motive. He chafed under the charge that his munitions committee was suppressing information.
 Old politicians recall attempts in 1925 to embarrass President McKinley by spreading sinister rumors about Brother Alner and his bus-

The Wrong Murderer
 By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony is a hood and himself, surprisingly enough, in command of part of Ambrose Lawson's gang of dope runners and kidnapers, leading a fight against Lawson himself. Mahony knows that Lawson, ostensibly a gentleman, keeps written evidence of the crimes of his underlings in a black book, so that he may equal on them at any time. Terence wants that book, because it will give him control of Lawson. He just has left the hide-out of his new "gang," which last is supervised by Patty Bassett.

Chapter 26
 THE HAT

DETECTIVE Sergeant Wishart had been in charge of the police raid in Jamaica Row. Late that night he returned to Scotland Yard to make his report. There he met Inspector Kennedy, just preparing to go home.
 "Any luck?" asked the inspector.
 "Well—yes and no," replied Sergeant Wishart. "The tip was all right, sir; the man Barney Flynn was in the house, but he got away. There was another man with him, and he got away too. It was too dark to identify him. We found evidence of a struggle in the room they'd been in, and we found these."
 He produced the packet of dope which Mahony had seen in the desk. And he produced a hat.
 Inspector Kennedy inspected the hat critically. Inside it, he had the maker's name: "Nicholson and Co., Shanghai," and the initials "T. M."

"Dope and this hat. I wouldn't call that doing so badly even if Flynn did get away," remarked the inspector cheerfully.
 He paused.
 "I wonder what that man Mahony was doing in that house in Jamaica Row," he added.

ABOUT the time when Mahony was first interviewing Lake, alias Hill, in the street near Notting Hill Gate, Elsa Little was sitting in the drawing-room of her house in Chelsea. The police had finished their investigations in the house and left; Lawson had also just left, and the house was quiet. Elsa was thinking.

She was conscious of a sense of gratitude to Ambrose Lawson. He had shielded her as much as possible from the unwelcome attentions of the public; he had interviewed policemen, directed everything in the household, and had in every way been kindness and thoughtfulness itself.
 She was also conscious of an intense hatred of Mahony, and the very fact that she had instinctively liked him when she had first met him made her all the more bitter against him now. There was no doubt whatever in her mind that it had been his voice she had heard in the room when her uncle was murdered.

But Ruth, her best friend, had lied; she had made a false statement, produced a false alibi, in order to shield Mahony. That worried Elsa a good deal. It seemed to her that Ruth could only have liked to shield Mahony because she was in love with him, and she hated the thought that her friend could be in love with a man like Mahony.
 Acting on a sudden impulse, she put on her hat and coat and went round to Lee-Ramsden's house. She was shown into the drawing-room where Ruth and Lee-Ramsden were sitting. Lee-Ramsden greeted her with his usual kindly courtesy.
 "Come in, Elsa, my dear. I'm very glad to see you. I don't suppose an old man's sympathy means very much to you, but if there's anything I can do to help you in this terrible business, you know you have only to ask," he said.

"Thank you very much, Mr. Lee-Ramsden," answered Elsa.
 She hesitated, for she was a trifle nervous.
 "I came to talk to Ruth about... about something," she went on.
 Lee-Ramsden knew very well what she had come to talk to Ruth about. But he gave no sign of knowing.
 "Perhaps you'd like to talk to her alone," he suggested. "I'll go and smoke a cigar in my study."
 He left the room. Elsa went and stood by the mantelpiece, looking down at Ruth.
 "Ruth," she said gently. "I think you know what I've come to say."
 "Yes," agreed Ruth. "And it won't be any good saying it, Elsa. You've come to talk to me about Terence Mahony, haven't you?"
 "Yes," answered Elsa. "Ruth, are you in love with that man?"
 That question was entirely unexpected. Ruth did not know how to answer.
 "My dear Elsa, I hardly know him," she said, evading the question.

ness deals. The rumor-mongers didn't do any harm to either McKinley or Brother Abner.
 It's a cold morning when an underground rumor doesn't sprout in Washington to discredit the White House family, no matter who occupies the mansion. And it's a cold night when the rumor doesn't die. From Washington to F. D. Roosevelt, it's the same old story.

LOBBIES: Congress, you'll remember, killed the anti-lobbying bill. Lawmakers knew that lobbyists would lobby just the same—and why not? Congress is the melting pot from which pure ingots are supposed to issue from a jumbled mass of sockeyed propositions.

gest lobbies will be representatives of peace and pacifist societies (some of them with Communist trimmings) who will demand a neutrality law that would automatically embargo all American commerce at the outbreak of a foreign war.
 The proof of the pudding is what comes out of the Congressional pot not what goes in. Besides, it may be noted that a once famous lobbyist, Susan B. Anthony, has had a postage stamp issued in her honor.

DISPUTE: There is only one issue of importance in the negotiations between the Tennessee Valley Authority and Commonwealth and Southern for renewal of their contract which expires in November. The utility group wants the contract extended in full for four months. This would mean that during that period TVA would bind itself not to solicit or accept business from Commonwealth and Southern's customers in competition with private power. The company takes the position that it can cooperate with the government in power pool studies only if it has reasonable guarantees against unexpected "raids" on its territory.
 David Lilienthal for TVA insists that he must have a free hand to serve any municipality (he has Chattanooga particularly in mind) that wishes to tap TVA's high tension transmission lines as soon as said municipality wishes service. He contends that to deny the TVA the right to do this is to violate the law which created the Authority.
 The point of dispute is so fundamental that it is hard to see how it can be compromised. Pressure will probably be exerted on Lilienthal by associates in the administration to get him to give in—at least temporarily—before election.

CONSTRUCTIVE: Financial insiders are becoming more and more suspicious of the Anglo-Franco-American "gentleman's agreement" to keep the pound, franc and dollar in a stable relationship to each other. Recent action of the pound in the London market indicates that the exchange is not as stable as it appears. On past performance, the Roosevelt administration is not likely to let our English cousins get away with it—if that is their idea. So New York sharps are watching for signs of jockeying by stabilization increased year-round use by buses, funds. Such jockeying might easily result in a lively currency war that would completely disrupt international trade while it lasted. One consolation is that it couldn't last very long, since it would soon become apparent that everyone was losing by it.
 Despite this menace, banking experts are still agreed that devaluation of French, Dutch, Swiss and Italian currencies was a constructive step—a necessary preface to a stabilization of currencies that will endure.

REALISTIC: It is generally agreed in high financial circles that the gold standard in its traditional form is irrevocably dead. It is most unlikely—within the foreseeable future—that a citizen of any leading nation will be able to take paper money to a bank and exchange it for gold at a fixed rate.
 Keen New York observers recall that the first serious attack on Roosevelt's popularity was based on his action in devaluing the dollar. That gave his opponents the opportunity to charge that he had violated the nation's pledge of honor to redeem its obligations in gold dollars of a certain standard of value. Naturally this action was anathema to large holders of "gold clause" bonds and they made every effort to get the nation to share their resentment.
 Some financial sources now concede that the recent French monetary action—rounding out the international cycle of escape from or ushing deflation—vindicates FDR's realistic policy. But most New York leaders still insist that he was lucky rather than foresighted in the fact that the particular remedy he chose happened to fit the world recovery pattern.

GASOLINE: Oil insiders are well pleased with the prospects for their industry. A month ago they were jittery because the carryover of gasoline stocks after Labor Day was higher than last year. But it has since become apparent that consumption is also continuing at a higher level—so all is well. There may be a few minor gasoline price wars in some states caused by local complications—but they cannot grow to serious proportions.
 Despite the most ambitious and expensive search in many years, no new oil field of importance has been discovered in 1936. Production in the Louisiana section of the Rodessa field—1935's big problem—is under control. Seasonal curves in gas-oil consumption are gradually being flattened out—partly due to signs of jockeying by stabilization increased year-round use by buses, funds. Such jockeying might easily result in a lively currency war that would completely disrupt international trade while it lasted. One consolation is that it couldn't last very long, since it would soon become apparent that everyone was losing by it.

ORDERS: General Electric and Westinghouse have compared notes on orders for turbines and find they have 47 orders on hand, 40 of which are good for immediate acceptance. On the basis of their current production it would take two years to fill these orders.
 Babcock and Wilcox have three years' business on hand at the present rate of production.

High School Grid Eleven Swamp Ahoskie 53 to 0

Greenies Go on Scoring Spree to Roll Up Big Count

By JAMES WHITFIELD
The football eleven of the Greenville high school set a record here yesterday afternoon for other pigskin organizations in high school football competition to take a crack at, when they defeated the gridsters from Ahoskie by a whitewash score of 53-0.

Yesterday's clash was scheduled to have been played on Friday afternoon of last week, but a cloudburst somewhere between this locality and Ahoskie fell upon the flivvers of the visitors, causing them to turn back and declare a postponement of the game. The soaking received Friday, however, was not equal to the one meted out by the Greenies yesterday afternoon.

During the game, the coaches at the local high school gave every man affiliated with the football outfit an opportunity to exhibit his playing ability, including the bench warmers as well as the mainstring, with the exception of two; those being, Bernice Eilers, who was suffering a sprained ankle received in a game, and Robert Earle Clark, who has been a little under the weather of late because of a recent illness.

The Greenies made 16 first downs as compared with 2 made by the visitors, and 6 attempted passes to match 1 chalked up by the Ahoskie lads—the locals also completed 3 passes, while the visitors failed to make a scratch.

During the process of the game, the Greenies were penalized five times for a total loss of 40 yards, and the Ahoskie bunch one time for a loss of five yards. While the game wore on, the local blocked two of Ahoskie's kicks, scored 14 points in the first quarter, 14 in the second, 7 in the third, and 18 in the fourth.

Harold Forbes was the king bee in yesterday's tilt by making three touchdowns, and two extra points on kicks. Tom (Parson) Parrish was a follow-up with two touchdowns and one extra point. Carl Pierce nosed over for a touchdown and an extra point, and Jack Forbes followed suit with the same number of gains as Pierce. Little Johnnie Lantiers showed up exceptionally well in yesterday's affair by making a touchdown in the first game he has ever played in on the local high's grid staff—making the touchdown on a forty yard run, after being sent in as a substitute.

The game was one-sided throughout according to Herman Dally, coach at the local high school, and the visiting team was small and light. Harmon, right tackle for the visitors did best for them on defense. For the Greenies, Victor Cozart and DuBose Simpson showed up well for defense, while Jack Forbes, Harold Forbes and Tom (Parson) Parrish took the cake for offensive playing.

The next game for the highs take place at Morehead City on Friday afternoon of this week.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—Gray hair that grows thicker on the head of a felony court magistrate than grass in the streets of that legendary depression-ridden city is caused largely by witnesses that recant on the stand.

A large negro took the stand today as complainant against her husband. The charge was assault. "He broke your arm?" asked the assistant district attorney.

"I guess he did," she said, looking at a very brawny, black arm suspended in a sling from her shoulder. "And he took $10 rent money?"

"Yes, sir, he done that." Then suddenly her ear to ear grin disappeared. "Judge," she said, "we was just playing. I got mad when I oughtn't to. I don't want my man to go to jail."

The court sent the two, arm-in-arm, down the aisle. Not, however, without an admonition against such violent "play."

Another young couple were led before the judge. This time, the young man, scarcely out of his teens, was defendant in a grand larceny complaint.

The girl, blond, pretty, took the stand. She had a firm chin. In as stern tones as she could command she recited the facts of the complaint.

He had used her automobile without her permission. The judge reminded her of the discoloration of her face and her husband might spend a long time there. But the lass was adamant.

"Mr. District Attorney," the court finally instructed, "during the noon recess will you talk to these principals and find out what is wrong with marriage?"

Suddenly, without warning, the girl capitulated. Then the court warned the defendant that he was never to use the car again.

"Unless," the magistrate appended, "your wife makes a statement in writing that she has asked you to use it. Be sure her permission is in writing, preferably in affidavit form."

Another young man and young woman were brought before the magistrate. The man charged her with grand larceny.

"But I refuse to press the charge," he declared. He refused stubbornly to answer questions pertinent to his complaint.

After a whispered conference with the pretty, tearful defendant, the court told the complainant: "You won't have to answer questions this time, young man. But if you ever again molest this young lady, somebody will go to jail, and it won't be she."

Then there's the kind of case that commands the attention of the busy judge and causes spectators to lean forward with hands cupped to their ears—the case in which the complainant weakens. Like this next one:

A saloon-keeper refused to press charges against a husky young moving man who is charged with stealing a barrel of beer.

"If he goes to jail," the complainant explained, "I lose a friend." "And," he added after a moment's thought, "a fine customer." P. S. He lost a customer!

It is possible to live out a lifetime on the island of Manhattan without once seeing a train, despite the fact that scores of them enter the city daily. The answer is that all trains arrive and depart underground.

PHILIPPINE BAR ALIENS AS PROPERTY OWNERS

Manila, P. I. (AP)—Heavy penalties, involving both fines and imprisonment for Filipinos and Americans who use their citizenship rights in the Islands to help aliens acquire lands, franchises or other national concessions, are provided in a bill considered by the National Assembly.

The bill would fix penalties of from 10 to 20 years imprisonment and fines of from $5,000 to $10,000. The aliens also are subject to the penalties.

DANDRUFF

Dandruff is a very common condition affecting principally the scalp, but involving at times the other portions of the skin, too. The disease is characterized by the formation of very fine scales, which when abundant, are likely to fall on the clothes, in a powder-like effect.

An infection of the affected skin causes dandruff. In consequence, it is contagious. It may be contracted by using a contaminated hair brush, or comb. Self infection occurs when the scales of dandruff fall inside of the sufferer's clothing and are brought in contact with the skin.

Dandruff may occur at any age but it is most commonly developed at least in aggravated forms, after puberty. The disease thrives best on a oily skin, though the public has been led to believe that dandruff points to the existence of a dry scalp. Oily applications are not to be used in the treatment of dandruff, since the germs of dandruff thrive therein.

Frequently dandruff is associated with the other complications of the oily skin, namely blackheads pimples. In dealing with dandruff avoidance of infection and re-infection is most important. Hair brushes used by a person affected with dandruff should be avoided by others, and should be washed by their user frequently to avoid re-infecting himself.

The head should be shampooed twice weekly. As the scales tend to disappear, the intervals between shampooing may be lengthened. A good shampoo can be made out of tincture of green soap, to which is added two per cent of resorcin.

The shampoo should be rubbed well into the scalp without mixing with water, or wetting the hair. It should be left on for five minutes, and then washed off. In the latter stage it may be worked into a lather.

In addition to shampooing the scalp frequently, it is desirable that the entire skin should be well-cared for. Daily cleansing with soap and water is indicated. A non-irritating non-medicated soap should be used. After washing the skin thoroughly, it should be rubbed vigorously with a turkish towel. This friction helps to express accumulated sebum from the ducts of the oil glands.

Tomorrow—Migraine.

G. O. P. IN STATE BEGINS ITS DRIVE

(Continued from Page One) headed by Gilliam Grissom, Republican candidate for Governor, went to Chapel Hill early this morning to greet Colonel Knox, whose train was scheduled to arrive there at 8 o'clock. Most of these GOP leaders were invited to be his guests on his special train from Chapel Hill to Burlington and some even to Asheville. While Colonel Knox will be in North Carolina only today, Thomas Dixon, who attended Wake Forest College, became a Baptist minister and once was pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church here before he became famous as a novelist and lecturer—he wrote "The Clansmen" which was the basis for the moving picture "The Birth of a Nation"—will make 16 more political speeches in the state and remain in it until the last of this month. He is already scheduled for speeches in Chapel Hill, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Whiteville and Beaufort this week. Because Dixon is a native North Carolinian, is well known in North Carolina and a former Democrat, the speakers' bureau of the National Republican Committee evidently believed he was the ideal man to send into the state in an effort to turn Democrats into Muswumps who would vote for Landon and Grissom, according to comment heard here.

Whether the Republican leaders, both here in the state and in National Republican headquarters, really believe they have a chance to carry North Carolina, or are merely putting up a bold front and nursing nothing more than a fond and remote hope, is not known. But the prevailing belief in informed political circles here is that Landon and Grissom have just about as much chance of carrying North Carolina as a Hottentot would have being elected Governor of Iceland. Most observers here frankly say they believe the Republican leaders have reminded National Republican Headquarters of what happened in 1928 when Hoover carried North Carolina over Al Smith and have led them to believe the same thing might happen this fall, largely in the hope of getting the National Republican Committee to turn loose some campaign funds down here for the "faithful." For many of the Republicans here frankly admit in private that neither Landon nor Grissom has a ghost of a chance to win here in North Carolina, even though some of them think Landon will win in the nation as a whole. Most observers agree that Grissom either actually believes he has a chance to be elected Governor or else is one of the world's best pretenders, since a Republican here was overheard to remark the other day: "You know, Gilliam Grissom seems to actually believe he has a chance to be elected Governor over Clyde Hoey." It is readily agreed, even by the Democratic leaders, that a large number of the big industrialists, manufacturers and bankers in the dent Roosevelt and whooping it up for Landon. But most observers are convinced that the rank and file of the farmers and those who work for wages or moderate salaries are going to vote for Roosevelt, even though they may have voted Republican in the past. It is also maintained that the habit of party regularity is still strong in North Carolina, with the result that Grissom and the other Republican leaders are not being able to capitalize on the recent McDonald-Old Guard fuss, as they expected to.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 TEST PILOT

LEE GEHLBACH stands terrific strain in his meteoric power-dives and blinding pull-outs, as planes disintegrate in mid-sky!

THE TEST DIVE! Straight down from 4 miles up—motor roaring—struts screaming—Gehlbach tears earthward like a bullet flashing from a revolver. Anything can happen. A bump in the air—a tiny flaw, and the plane can fly to pieces as though dynamited while the pilot takes to his parachute. But Lee Gehlbach eats heartily and enjoys his food. Note the Camel cigarette in his hand—one of many he enjoys during and after meals.

"SMOKING CAMELS KEEPS MY DIGESTION TUNED UP AND RUNNING SMOOTH" — SAYS LEE

"CAMELS set me right!" Gehlbach says. "You know, chance is only 10% of my business. Keeping alert and in fine condition is the other 90%. I smoke Camels with my meals, and afterward, for digestion's sake. And when I say that Camels don't get on my nerves, it means a lot." Good digestion and healthy nerves are important for everyone in this wide-awake era. So make Camel your cigarette. Enjoying Camels at mealtime and after speeds up the flow of digestive fluids—increases alkalinity—helps bring a sense of well-being. Smoke Camels—for digestion's sake—for their refreshing "lift." Camels set you right! And they do not get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS...Turkish and Domestic...than any other popular brand.
