RUSSIA DENIES SENDING ARMS TO MADRID

Known, However, That Soviet Assistance Forthcoming

DEFENSE LINES FORCED RETREAT

Fascist Troops Move Toward City Along Strategic Highways Leading to Capital

(By Associated Press) Soviet Russia disclaimed knowledge of a mysterious Spanish arms shipment today, while the troops of Madrid backed up "strategically" on the main highway from the west and fascist columns pushed methodically toward the capital from three directions.

Despite the official Moscow disclaimer of information concerning the Norwegian steamer, reported to have left a Russian Baltic port with ammunition for Madrid, statements in the controlled Soviet press and workers resolutions made it plain that armed Soviet aid for Madrid may be close at hand, if not already a fact.

The Madrid high command, consolidated under the absolute power of Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, declared it had repulsed fascist attacks directly west of the capital although officers acknowledged their main highway defenders had fallen back toward Navalcarnero within 20 miles of Madrid.

This retreat augured ill for isolated government troops to the south near Toledo. The war ministry, however, asserted these troops were holding the fascists in check.

The latest insurgent strategy sent strong forces toward Madrid from the region 38 miles due north from the northeast and from the west. A side expedition battered at Aranjuez, south of the capital.

On the western front the fascists are in possession of Valdemoro, the next town before Navalcarnero.

Greenville Woman Claimed By Death At Sister's Home

FARM BUREAU FARM AGENTS TO LEAVE CITY ATTEND MEET

State Headquarters to Be Established in Raleigh

Raleigh, Oct. 17.—(AP)—E. F. Arnold, executive secretary, announced here today that the State Farm Bureau Federation planned to move its state headquarters here from Greenville as soon as quarters can be obtained.

The executive committee of the organization will have a banquet meeting here tonight.

Arnold said he was informed by federal officials today that the proposed "model" bill for tobacco compacts to control production and sale of the crop had been completed and copies had been mailed him.

The secretary also said the Federation planned to have a legal staff which would study every bill introduced in the 1937 legislature to ascertain its effects on the farmers of the state so the organization could intelligently take a stand for or against the measure.

Two Negroes Held For County Court On Larceny Count

Man and Woman Held Under Bond of $100 Each Following Hearing on Larceny of Tobacco Charge

Two more negroes were tried in City court this morning on charges of stealing tobacco from a local warehouse and each were bound over to County court under bonds of $100.

Mollie Smith Yelverton is alleged to have stolen the tobacco walking around on the floor and putting small quantities under her coat and carrying it out in an automobile. L. W. Yelverton was indicted as her accomplice and tried jointly.

William Raby, alias Carl Raby, negro, was taxed with the costs upon conviction of disorderly conduct and assault.

Louise Langley, negro, was ordered to pay the costs or serve a 30-day jail term following her conviction of assault.

LABOR COUNCIL REVIEWS ACTS OF ROOSEVELT

Workers Asked, By Inference, Support President

STATEMENT FOR "INFORMATION"

Adhering to Its Non-Party Policy, Body Fails to Make Any Flat Endorsement

Washington, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Quoting from message and statements from President Roosevelt and Governor Landon the executive council of the American Federation of Labor today issued the following statement:

In a report reviewing the labor planks of the Democratic and the Republican parties, however, the federation's executive council adhered to its non-partisan political policy and made no outright endorsement of any party or candidate.

The report was issued, the council said for "the information of the 130 national and international unions, 48 state federations of labor, 800 central labor unions and 33,000 local unions."

The report went back to 1911 in detailing President Roosevelt's record, giving a list of measures which the council said were "in the interest of labor."

There was no listing of Governor Landon's executive actions as governor of Kansas except quotations from his message to the state legislature.

These quotations included comment on relief, child labor, reemployment labor and social legislation and social security.

During a morning round-table discussion a number of the agents proposed that the 1937 benefit payments be based on the soil building done, rather than partially on the basis of diversification from base acreages of the soil-depleting crops.

Some immediately contended that desertion of the base acreage for tobacco, cotton and the like might result in no limitation on their production of such crops, and resultant low prices.

Dean I. O. Schaub of the college explained the meeting was principally held to get farmer reaction to the 1936 program so changes to meet objections can be included in 1937.

J. E. Thigpen of the AAA offices in Washington, told the meeting that 130,000 work sheets were signed by North Carolina farmers to cover all commodities, compared with 220,000 contracts last year, when each crop had a separate contract.

F. C. Harding, local attorney, will deliver a political address at the Court house Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at a rally being sponsored by the Democratic women of Pitt county.

In addition to discussing the Democratic candidates up for election, from township constable to president of the United States, Mr. Harding will review the proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on throughout the state at the November 3 election.

James Warburg Backs Roosevelt Election

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—James P. Warburg, youthful member of the prominent New York banking family who quit as an economic advisor to President Roosevelt in protest against New Deal fiscal policies said today he would support the President for reelection.

Warburg, reached by telephone at his country home at Greenwich, Conn., said he had informed Secretary of State Cordell Hull in a letter of his intention to support the President.

TIPSY DRIVERS FORCED TO VIEW DEAD IN MORGUE

Judge M. A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh has his own unique ideas about remedies for drunken driving. Tipsy motorists convicted in his court were ordered to the county morgue. And there with bodies of the unclaimed dead in plain view all around, they swore they never again would drive under the influence of intoxicants. Chief Deputy Coroner J. L. Davidson (left) is shown reading the oath prepared by Judge Musmanno which the defendants accepted with upraised hands. (Associated Press Photo)

LEAF AVERAGE REMAINS GOOD

Offerings Heavy and Prices Strong Despite Downpour

Despite a downpour of rain throughout most of yesterday, offerings were heavy on the Greenville tobacco market and prices continued strong.

Offerings amounted to 951,344 pounds, making more than 25,000,000 pounds of the leaf sold on the market this season. Money paid out yesterday totaled $273,922.93, or an average of $28.79 for the day.

The season's offerings of 29,114,182 pounds so far this season have brought $6,810,638.05, an average of $23.39.

Prices during the past week have been stronger than at any time during the season. Although 5,000,000 less pounds have been sold here this year than up to the same date a year ago, approximately as much money has been paid out, accentuating the sharp incline of prices this year.

Roaring Fires In North California Leave Three Dead

Thirteen Women, Men and Children Cut Off From Rescuers by Fifteen-Mile Wall of Flame

San Francisco, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Fanned by hot winds, a score of fires roared through timber and brush in widely scattered sections of Northern California today, leaving behind three deaths and untold property damage.

Thirteen men and women and children were cut off from rescuers by fires in Placer county, where a 15-mile wall of flame destroyed most of the inlet of Westville.

Only the sudden changing of the wind and the valiant work of volunteer fire fighters saved half a dozen other widely scattered towns.

Some 2,500 fire fighters, including WPA workers, fire wardens, city firemen and volunteers fought the flames, which with unofficial estimates said, would cause damage in the millions of dollars.

The Mexican army has established an air patrol at Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas.

Three Victims Of Auto-Train Wreck

Greensboro, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Three men, as yet unidentified, were killed in a grade crossing accident near Climax 1.5 miles south of here about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

A southbound train struck their automobile, a small roadster, demolishing the automobile, killing one of the men instantly and the other died en route to a hospital here.

The trio, all comparatively young white men, were the only occupants of the automobile. Their bodies were badly mangled.

ASKING FUNDS FOR BUILDING

Salvation Army Proposes Erect Community Building

The Salvation Army Monday will launch a drive to raise a budget of $2,000 for maintenance and $1,500 to erect a community building to be located on Dickinson avenue to be used to carry on the Army's work among the under-privileged boys and girls.

This drive is to be under the direction of Rev. Worth Wicker supported by the following leading citizens of Greenville, who compose the local advisory board: J. C. Galoway, Guy V. Smith, A. A. El'wang, J. Hicks Corey, R. M. Garrett, S. M. Woolfolk, J. H. Waldrop, T. Y. Walker, Dr. A. M. Schultz, Dr. K. B. Pace, J. C. Gaskins, Mayor M. K. Blount, R. V. Keel.

In announcing plans for the drive, officials of the campaign issued the following statement on activities of the organization:

The Army's program of religious activities is well known. There are men and women today in every community who, only a few years ago, were a menace and a liability. They came in contact with the Army and today they are self-respecting and self-supporting citizens, caring for their families and contributing to the city's upbuilding.

The Salvation Army Home and Hospital located in Durham extends a physical and spiritual ministry in the moment of deepest distress to young women often estranged from relatives and friends, and deserted by those whom they trusted. In the Home and Hospital is found a sympathetic understanding of the girl's problem, loving attention, efficient medical care for mother and baby.

In short a deep practical interest in the physical, moral, and spiritual welfare of the mothers and children. Mother and baby remain in the home for six months, and when ready to leave, plans are carefully made for their future. The Army in Greenville has sent a number of girls to this institution. Such a ministry cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents. This is service that counts.

Report of activities from December 1935 to September 1936: Evangelistic services: Senior meetings held 116 attendance 2,790 street meetings held, 61 attendance 9,165. Mother's club meeting 33, attendance 338 hours spent in visitation 415. Number religious papers distributed 1,563.

ADDS FEATURE FOR PITT FAIR

Public Wedding to Be Staged on Thursday Night

As a special added attraction to the Pitt County Fair, to be held at the old grounds here the week of October 26, the management is making plans to stage a public wedding on Thursday night.

The couple, to be selected later, will receive a sum of money and in addition the Fair association will pay for the wedding ring, marriage licenses and will make all preparations and pay expenses of the ceremony.

With the fair to be operated as a community project, sponsored by the two American Legion posts in the county, indications are the exposition this year will be the best ever presented here.

With merchants planning to have displays at the fair and rural citizens already preparing their exhibits, interest in the exposition is running high. It was estimated that 30,000 people will visit the fair during the week.

Agricultural exhibits, including livestock and poultry, will be an outstanding feature as the registrations for these exhibits are piling high on the desk at the headquarters located in The Daily Reflector building. New shelter has been built for the housing of the poultry and swine exhibits, and all other buildings have been put in good shape for the local concessions and farm exhibits.

Grandstand seating facilities are being handled through the building of a new grandstand which will accommodate some 3,000 and will be confronted by a narrows of the finest aerial athletes, performing animals, circus acrobats, wire walkers, and ground clowns ever to be gathered in one performance at any North Carolina Fair, an elaborate display of fireworks will be presented each evening.

It is estimated that at present time the advance sale of ten-cent tickets, which will close on Saturday, October 24th, has reached a high mark of 10,000 and from all indications will more than double that number; evidence that the population of Pitt County and the surrounding communities are anxious for a real fair.

The Greenville and Pitt County school children will be given the opportunity of visiting the Fair on Wednesday, October 28th free of charge.

With all mechanical riding devices and educational shows carrying a special price for that day and a special comedy offering on the high elevated stage in front of the grandstand, all the youngsters are invited to go to the Fair and enjoy themselves.

Friday, Oct. 30th will be set aside as a colored day and special features for this day will be drawn out by the local committees, with prizes to be offered to the school children attending in the largest body. School children on this day will also be admitted free, with suitable attractions on the stage.

Belgium To Aid Ships

Brussels, Belgium (AP)—With all but one of the 112 ships which lay idle in 1935 back in service, the Belgian government is preparing to encourage the development of its mercantile marine by clearing the way for more than $5,000,000 in credits for shipbuilding during the next two years.

GOP CANDIDATES IN CONFERENCE

James Roosevelt Says Father Plans to Seek Amendment Involving NRA Principles

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Dedicating a civic stadium here today, President Roosevelt said he believed this city was a "happier" one now than four years ago.

"There are many reasons why we should feel proud of what we are doing," he told the crowd spread over the bowl.

Such projects as this, he said, meant not only jobs for the needy, but a step toward building for the future.

"My only regret is you haven't got a football game today for my benefit," he said.

Pointing to the closeness of Canada, he said he was happy that "the undefended border of ours is becoming internationally famous. You who live on the border, on both sides of the border are responsible for this friendly feeling and a better understanding of peace between nations."

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Standing in Niagara Square today before thousands of cheering citizens, President Roosevelt declared his public works program "had helped start the wheels of trade and commerce turning again" in sections where business had been "sluggant" for years.

He told of his western trip and of having seen "sharpt" faces that told him the nation was back on the road to prosperity.

TWO MAJOR CANDIDATES CONTINUE WITH CAMPAIGN (By Associated Press)

A campaign conference between Governor Landon and Col. Frank Knox and a busy schedule of speech making for President Roosevelt in New York state highspotted today's political doings.

The Republican strategy meeting at Topeka was a prelude to the trip which Governor Landon will start Sunday. He will go to Los Angeles to speak Tuesday, then return across the continent for an appearance in Madison Square Garden before the ballots are cast November 3.

At Cleveland last night Mr. Roosevelt said Wall Street is wasting security holders' money by sending them warnings "against returning this administration to office." He said the "waste" is being "perpetrated by the same group which brought business to its knees during the dark days of the depression."

Last night saw much campaigning by other figures. Herbert Hoover, speaking at Philadelphia, accused the New Deal of "juggling" figures and presenting "hypocritical misleading" data on fiscal affairs.

At Lancaster, Pa., secretary Wallace said there was a "terrible conflict" in Republican farm policy and he laid it to two "short sighted groups." He said the program (Continued on page four)

Charges Revealed Against Concerns Seeking Monopoly

Federal Trade Commission Alleges Five Automobile Parts Associations Forming Combination

Washington, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The federal trade commission announced today it has accused five trade associations, composed of manufacturers and jobbers of automobile parts and accessories, with forming a combination to control the market in the products throughout the United States.

Two of the organizations, the national standard parts association of Detroit and the motor and equipment wholesale association of Chicago, were described as national organizations.

The other three respondents are middle western regional groups.

The commission alleged the five associations, "representing a substantial proportion of the total volume of business of all manufacturers and jobbers of automobile parts and accessories throughout the United States" were organized "for the purpose of blinding together the largest possible number of competing individuals, partnerships and corporations as members and of obtaining their cooperation for a common end."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By IRA BENNETT BUDGET: Long range results to be expected from the election are indicated by the policies expounded by the two presidential candidates. Short range results can be foreseen, in part, and they will be marked by important changes.

If Roosevelt should be reelected, his relief policy would be quickly revealed in the estimates going to Congress on January 6. Government finances would be exhibited in the budget and the budget message.

If Landon should be elected he would take office January 20, before which time, presumably, Roosevelt would have sent in the budget. Landon's fiscal policy would call for revision of his predecessor's proposals. To accept them would mean that Landon would lose a year in putting his budget balancing ideas into effect.

Democrats are expected to retain control of the House, but by a reduced majority. Heavy demands for funds to be spent at the President's discretion would meet more resistance than formerly, according to private opinions of lawmakers of both parties.

SPECULATION: Election of Landon would be followed by feverish activity of G. O. P. office-seekers. Formerly a President-elect had (Continued on page two) nearly four months in which to pick out a Cabinet. Now he has two and a half months. Several recent Presidents have barely finished Cabinet-making by inauguration time, notably Wilson and Roosevelt.

Cabinet changes are in sight, whether the Presidency changes or not. Common talk is that if FDR receives another White House lease he will make several important shifts. Daniel J. Tobin's ambition to become Secretary of Labor in 1937 may work out in 37.

Very little speculation is heard as to a Landon Cabinet—presumably because the Kansas is just getting acquainted with men who might make suitable Cabinet material. Washington opinion is that a Landon Cabinet would be surprisingly progressive, and mostly western.

MEKTURE: Father Coughlin speaks with feeling when he referred to Monsignor Ryan's liberal use of costly radio time. The radio people seem from Father Coughlin a heavy toll in advance of delivery, which he finds difficult to meet. His revenues are smaller than they were, but there's no hint that he isn't balancing his budget.

Father Coughlin has adopted a double-gauged method of reaching audiences—one by radio, in which comparative moderation and pecked-in argument are the rule. The other is direct to the crowd, without a microphone to cramp his style. He did this at Baltimore, with fine results. His audience got the full benefit of oratorical fireworks and roared off its approval.

Fifty of chatter at the Catholic University, among faculty and students, over the debut of Monsignor Ryan as a political speaker. One professor said: "A little more Ryan in Coughlin and a little more Coughlin in Ryan wouldn't be a bad mixture, would it?"

OBSTACLES: Farmers are giving their ideas to Secretary Wallace on the crop insurance proposition. They favor it in principle, but many of them doubt the feasibility of government control of crops. When stress is laid on the suggestion that control may be attained by the voluntary cooperation of farmers, some of the hard-headed ones are skeptical.

One point recently made is that the soil erosion plan now in effect has never been tested as to its constitutionality. Therefore, while it is based upon ostensible voluntary cooperation by farmers, it is contended that the Supreme Court might hold that this cooperation is merely a disguise for coercion, as it did in a somewhat similar case.

A farm leader who is sharing in the symposium said: "No voluntary cooperation plan can be made effective because of the big percentage that will fall to cooperate. That means that crop production would run wild and endanger the insurance scheme unless crop control can be made compulsory. How to make it compulsory within the Constitution is more than I can see at present."

WHICH? There's a sharp difference of opinion between cotton manufacturers and trade agreement makers over the effect of Japanese cotton exports to the United States. This disagreement will be aired at the next session of Congress.

Frank I. Neild, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, predicts a determined drive for increased tariff duties on cotton goods. He describes it as a movement for "flood control of Japanese imports which are destroying the American wage scale."

Assistant Secretary of State Sayre in charge of trade negotiations, asserts that the total amount of cotton cloth imported from Japan in 1935 could have been manufactured in "an average-sized mill in this country, with 1200 employees."

DIFFICULT: Refusal by the Supreme Court to review its decision upsetting the New York minimum wage law for women is looked upon as the forerunner of a movement to empower states to protect women in industry, notwithstanding the present bar against violating freedom of contract.

Both political parties have indi-

LEE-RAMSDEN'S PLAN

"But how did Miss Fraser know about Fatty Bassett?" asked Terence.

Lee-Ramsden shrugged. "She said she was going for a walk. She didn't go for a walk; she listened outside the door and heard all we were saying."

"But why has she turned against me?"

Old Lee-Ramsden shrugged his shoulders.

"Half holds no fury like a woman scorned," he quoted. "Ruth is in love with you, Mahony, and . . . well, you did rather push Miss Little down her throat this morning. But I didn't suspect that her jealousy would lead her to such extremes: it was only a momentary madness. She's sorry for it now, and would give anything to undo what she's done."

"Oh damn!" said Mahony in a hopeless tone.

"Things could not vary well be much worse, he thought. Yet, in the middle of his own worry he felt sorry for Ruth. Poor girl, he reflected, she must be feeling pretty rotten."

He looked up at Lee-Ramsden with an air of decision.

"I must warn those men of mine, Bassett and the others, at once," he said.

"They've been warned," answered Lee-Ramsden. "While Mullins was telephoning you I rang up that number you told me and warned Bassett. He has promised to ring me later and let me know where they're all gone."

"That's fine," said Mahony in a tone of relief. I suppose I'd better lie low and try to get into touch with them as soon as I can."

"Yes. And so far as lying low is concerned, I can fix you up. I own a house in the St. John's Wood Road which is empty at present. I'll give you the key and you can go there and wait till you hear from me again. Here's the key; the house is number 412. You'd better get there as quickly and quietly as you can before anybody spots you."

He handed over the key and they left the tea-shop. Lee-Ramsden returned to his own house. He was well satisfied with his morning's work. Mahony was out of mischief for the time being.

Ruth also was out of mischief. Lee-Ramsden calculated that, finding she could not get into touch with Mahony by telephone, she would go round to his digs and leave a note for him. That note would never reach him.

RUTH acted as Lee-Ramsden had calculated. To begin with, she tried to ring Mahony up. For ten minutes she tried to ring him up, only to find his number was engaged. Failing to get into touch with him that way, she got out her car and drove round to his lodgings.

His landlady told her that Mr. Mahony had gone out a few minutes previously in a great hurry; he had not said where he was going, but she was expecting him in for lunch.

Ruth debated in her mind for a moment; should she wait, or shouldn't she? She decided not to wait; every moment she waited meant a moment's delay in warning Bassett and the other members of Mahony's band in the East End. She left a brief note for Mahony, telling him what had happened, made her way to the nearest post office, and rang up the number that she had heard her guardian tell Lawson.

The number was engaged. She waited a couple of minutes and rang up again, and each time the number was engaged.

She wasted nearly a quarter of an hour trying to ring Bassett. Lawson had taken his own precautions against anybody sending a warning to Bassett by telephone. Three men, in different call boxes in different parts of London, were ringing Bassett's number, putting in calls one after the other in rapid succession.

At last, thoroughly dispirited, she left the post office. Her car was out-as individuals instead of getting them through state or local party officials—which is smart psychology. The final order will be for each "Committee" to sign up 20 Roosevelt voters and get them to the polls on election day.

Those in charge of the Committee of One have fostered its growth in doubtful states especially. In a few states there are more than thirty members of the Committee for every thousand voters. Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri is running the show officially, but the plan's author—Jim Farley's right hand man Emil Burja—has had a lot to do with nursing it along.

INSURANCE: Financial insiders learn that the government has a reason for wanting to work out a power pool agreement with private utilities in the Tennessee Valley area quite apart from the feeling that some sort of settlement between private and public interests is desirable.

The Tennessee River is too erratic to be a satisfactory power source. While the TVA can fulfill its existing contractual obligations even at low water, it might have trouble carrying the load—until additional dams now under construction are completed—when its contracts with the cities of Memphis and Knoxville and with Monsanto Chemical become effective.

Pooling of generating and transmission facilities with Commonwealth and Southern would be comforting insurance against the river's vagaries.

SKEPTICAL: A top flight banker—a sharp critic of the administration—recently returned from a trip which included intimate conversations with key Europeans which disclosed that a switch from Roosevelt to Landon in the White House might bring world repercussions.

It was doped this way: Hope of improved trade and financial relations with the United States is the one bright star on Europe's horizon. Statesmen working for peace emphasize this outlook as the strongest reason why the European nations should not fly in each other's throats in the reckless hope of forgetting their economic difficulties.

This argument carries weight because European leaders are convinced that President Roosevelt sincerely intends to develop international trade on a grand scale. They feel they must be careful to avoid any misstep that might spoil the prospect. But if the star ever goes into eclipse—if the idea that American trade is sure to flourish provided Europe keeps the peace gets clouded up—the last potent barrier to war would be removed.

There is a certain skepticism among foreign leaders as to whether the hoped-for stimulus to commerce would take place under Landon's leadership—largely because of the tariff views he has expressed. "Even if he turned out to be good it would take us a year or two to realize it fully—and that would be too late for the purpose of preserving the peace."

SACRIFICE: Neutral lawyers are impressed with the brief submitted to Judge Mack by the Securities Exchange Commission in its suit against Electric Bond and Share. Comment runs that it covered a lot of difficult terrain like a tent.

Stress laid on the point that the holding company act is separable as to its provisions before the courts and that its validity must not be judged as a whole is rated the key to a flank movement by which it is hoped to capture the conservative members of the Supreme Court when the case comes before them.

Heavily guarded by detectives, Father Charles E. Coughlin (seated) is shown talking with newspaper m. in Boston after he threatened "to tear to pieces" Political Writer John Barry of the Boston Globe. lice of the credit if President Roosevelt is rejected. It has mushroomed in membership in recent weeks. Roughly 100,000 were signed up in the movement on September 1st. Now there are about four times that many and enrollments are still pouring in.

The particular advantage of this development is that it stirs up interest in the smallest towns, where regular party organizations are inclined to be moribund. Moreover, as a "non-partisan" mov., it attracts the active participation of Roosevelt supporters whether they are Democrats or not. Members of the "Committee" receive instructions direct from national headquarters

 It is particularly for the pleasure of students who have expressed the opinion that college entertainments are frequently too stiff and formalized to be enjoyable, that Jack Denny and his nationally-known broadcasting orchestra will be brought to the Robert H. Wright Auditorium Monday night. Many students feel that swing-time and the sweeter melodies of modern music are the real music of America, and that they should find expression in the college series.

Jack Denny, who co-features with Harry Richmond on a coast-to-coast radio hook-up, has won for himself an enviable reputation. No ordinary orchestra could have remained at Montreal's exclusive Mt. Royal hotel for more than five years. No ordinary orchestra could have delighted dinner and supper dancers for more than two years at the new Waldorf-Astoria. Every engagement that Denny has filled has been a new conquest.

Recently at the Hotel Statler, in Boston, Denny broke all records for attendance.

And with all his success, Denny has never cheapened himself nor debased music. Featuring the sweeter, more sophisticated melodies, he has given American music the warm, full-hearted expression that it deserves.

Denny has been brought to Greenville by student demand; and if advance releases can be believed, he will fulfill the demands of an appreciative audience.

West Greenville P. T. A.
 On Thursday afternoon, October 15th, the Parent-Teachers Association of West Greenville school held their initial meeting for this term in the school auditorium. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Herman Duncan, and a summary of last year's work read by the secretary. The treasurer gave a very gratifying balance on hand, and since our aim for the year is a "larger and better library," it was voted to use this amount for new books.

We were happy to welcome Mrs. W. A. Ryan as our guest and speaker for the afternoon, who gave us a heart to heart talk on the part the home, school and church plays in shaping the character of our families. Since the fundamental wish of parents is an education that will produce character for our children, Mrs. Ryan very definitely placed the greatest responsibility on the home as character cannot be taught from textbooks, but is developed through daily living.

Before adjourning, newcomers were introduced and parents extended an invitation to visit the school rooms. Miss Jane Hadley's grade won the prize for having the most mothers present.

Executive Board to Meet
 The executive board of the Woman's Council of Eighth Street Christian Church, will meet at 3:00 o'clock on Monday afternoon in the church.

Bible Study at Christian Church
 At 7:30 tomorrow night the second Bible Study period will be conducted. Last week's discussion covered a general introduction to the Bible. Tomorrow night there will be "An Introduction to the Old Testament." These meetings are open to all who might be interested. It is suggested that those who attended last Sunday continue through the series that they may form a more connected view of the Scriptures. The talks are most informal and non-technical.

Vernon Ward Speaks to Students
 "Star Sapphires and Sagar" was the title of the talk which Vernon Ward, a graduate student at East Carolina Teachers College, made to the college assembly yesterday.

Mr. Ward told of experiences that he and his traveling companion had in India last winter. Mr. Ward, together with his friend, remained in India for two months, visiting all parts of the country. He spent several days at the home of Sir Seth Prem Sagar. Sagar Maharaj is considered the show-place of Lahore, and Sir Prem is frequently host to high government officials, including the Viceroy himself.

Mr. Ward, who received his A. B. degree from the University of North Carolina in 1935, says that he decided to attend Teachers College because he feels that it will best equip him for the teaching profession. He is now practicing teaching in the high school, conducting the course in journalism, and is taking courses leading to the M. A. degree. He is assistant director of the news bureau of the college, and is on the Teco Echo staff.

A. A. U. W. To Meet
 The first meeting of the American Association of University Women for the fall will be a supper program next Wednesday evening, October 21, at the Parish House. Mrs. Junius H. Rose will speak on the "History of the A. A. U. W." Mrs. J. E. Winslow, vice-president, will preside in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, who is ill out of town.

Presbyterian Notice
 An important meeting for the membership will be held after the morning service tomorrow. The attention of parents is also called to the fact that the first Communicants' Class will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 and not a 3 P. M. as previously announced.

IN MEMORIAM
 Nannie Ficklen Jeter
 Early on Tuesday morning, Oct. 15, a peaceful ending came to a life of unusual activity and usefulness, when Nannie Ficklen Jeter went to her Heavenly Home. To know her was to love her—for her thought was always of others. Generous, almost to a fault, she spent her time and strength for family and friends—even for servants and the stranger at the door. During her 20 years as dietitian at East Carolina Teachers College she became affectionally known as "Mother Jeter"—for the girls went to her with their joys, sorrows or perplexities, because her varied experiences in life had given her an understanding heart.

The servants who worked under her loved and respected her, and she included them in her kindly ministrations.

Faithful to her obligations, she performed her daily duties at the College in failing health, until she was obliged to give up and retire to her home in Lynchburg, Va. There, surrounded by her grieving family, she relinquished her hold on this life, but still planning for the comfort and well-being of her dear ones.

Three children survive her: Fielding F. Jeter of Norfolk; Mrs. Chas. A. Anderson of Richmond; and Mrs. William Gist Finley, York, S. C.; and three sisters, Mrs. G. H. Myers of Richmond; Mrs. L. C. Arthur of Greenville and Mrs. B. W. Moseley, also of Greenville.

At her request, her nephews acted as pall bearers. She was laid to rest beside her husband, Gilbert Carey Jeter, with whom she had had but three brief happy years of married life.

Many beautiful flowers bore evidence of the affection of relatives and friends.

—A FRIEND.

"AS RELIGION SEES IT"

By The Rev. Dr. ALEX M'KINNON
 Kilmorivay, Inverness-Shire, Scotland

Church Blamed for Gloomy View of Religion—Life of Joy Should Be Stressed, Says Scotch Pastor

The Christian religion proposes and offers a life of which joy is a pronounced and characteristic feature.

It requires a complete surrender of one's being to the Eternal, involving obedience to His will at all times; probably that is one great reason for the joy that ensues. Is there not always an emotional satisfaction accompanying decisive, wholehearted acceptance of a call that has long been worrying the conscience?

This emphasis has been strangely lacking in the recent presentation of the faith. There appear to be multitudes for whom religion stands mainly for reverence in respect of God, rectitude of conduct, an da decent restraint of selfish impulses, accompanied perhaps by some vague hope of personal survival of death.

There are even those who think that people have, in any case, no right to be joyful, considering what sufferings and sorrows there are in the earth. And yet, if they are enjoying bodily health, they do not proceed to make themselves ill, because so many of their fellows are unwell.

Gloomy View

On the other hand, multitudes distrust Christian religion for the very opposite reason—namely that as they understand it, there is such a demand in it for self-denial and sacrifice as robs life of its chief attractions. It proposes to deprive them of their liberty, to set up a barrage of prohibitions against their desires, to regulate them into dullness, and generally to impoverish them. Farewell gaiety and gladness they suppose, when a man sets himself to taking up his cross.

And what about business rectitude, and spicy entertainments, and Sunday recreations—and one's natural interest in the fair sex? The very mention of religion raises all that world of vital interests, making demands that would completely spoil it. And what could possibly take the place of these interests, or compensate for their loss?

It must be admitted that not a few sayings in the New Testament, taken by themselves, bear hardly on flesh and blood and that enormous emphasis has been laid on them. Indeed, in the Roman church, the religious in the grand sense are precisely those who take the disabling vows of poverty, celibacy and obedience. But even among these there has seldom been heard the complaint that they were unhappy.

Apart from that development, the truth appears to be that self-denial is obviously meaningless, except in connection with a life that has profound satisfactions and high values. Self-denial is for the sake of a great fulfillment—a joyous experience; as an operation may be essential to the enjoyment of robust health.

Effect of Religion

When anybody makes the great surrender, he finds that his old world has lost some of its former values in his eyes; and that he now desires to deal with it on other lines, and with other tastes and interests than those that formerly moved him.

He finds that the whole world has for him a new significance; and because of that, instead of finding such dullness, staleness and emptiness as are alleged, the genuine Christian is rather embarrassed with the liveliness of the situation in which he is placed, and the sharp edge that life has taken on.

Above all, the awakening of the moral powers, the intense intellectual interest aroused, the urgency of conscience, the problems of conduct, the high requirements of discipleship, the touch of the divine spirit—all this makes life a new adventure, a fine task, a campaign for rectitude and charity that give profound satisfaction.

Other interests fall into line. No man is happy who is not fighting a battle for some high end and the Christian has the highest end set before him. Wherefore, sacrifice and self-denial, which every soldier accepts cheerfully, do not daunt him; they are essential to his happiness.

Not until we restore the emphasis on the supreme value of religion as providing the true enduring joy of life shall we be either faithful to the essential meaning of the gospel, or likely to appeal to the deepest craving of the human heart.

WHILE I TELL YOU A STORY

Last Year I Did Not Subscribe to THE SALVATION ARMY in Its Annual Appeal

Because I could get away with the alibi that times were hard and anyway, the Government was doing all relief work. Of course I knew that that was not the real reason for my refusal—I was just too selfish and self-centered. Big-hearted folks all around me were giving to the Army folks who were having a much harder time than I, and I confess that it made me feel pretty mean when I found out that many who were turning just about enough to get along on had contributed liberally for the work among the men, women and children who were facing the crushing effects of unemployment, sickness and disaster.

I've been making some inquiries since, and I know now that there are lots of families right around us here in Greenville who are carrying mighty heavy burdens.

Another important thing I found out is that the Salvation Army can make a dollar go farther and produce greater results from the money invested in its work than I dreamed was possible. I can with confidence make the Army my agent in extending the cheer and helpfulness so much needed.

So this year, my wife and I have thrown alibi overboard. We are going to spend just a little less on ourselves and do our share by giving twice as much as we should have given last year. And we are mighty glad to be able to look our fellow citizens in the face again unashamed and say when asked to contribute to the Campaign

HIGH TEAM IN 13-12 VICTORY

Greenies Eke Out Win Over Morehead City Eleven

Playing in a continuous shower of rain on a field covered in some places with three or four inches of water, the football eleven of the Greenville high school defeated the Morehead City Coasters there, yesterday afternoon by a score of 13-12.

Yesterday's win was the second winner for the locals this season as compared with one loss. Coach Daily on his return to Greenville last night said that the game almost ceased several times because of rain, and added that it was rough thrust and badly officiated. The Greenies made 9 fumbles and the Morehead City lads 7 during the game. However, the high's coach accredited the rainy weather as being responsible for this phenomenon.

The Morehead outfit made their first touchdown in the first quarter by blocking a punt. Another was made in the same quarter on a fast play after recovering a fumble, bringing the score 12-0.

No damage was done by the locals in the way of scoring until the third quarter when Jack Forbes received a kick after being sent in as a substitute and ran 70 yards for a touchdown, with excellent interference.

Tom (Parson) Parrish broke the 12-6 hook before the game was brought to a close, by receiving a punt and trotting 90 yards down the sloopy field over the goal line for a touchdown which evened the score.

Jack Forbes forged into the limelight again by making the extra point by run-off tackle. The result, however, was a big squabble in addition to an extra point. The head linesman and umpire who officiated the game said the point was good, but the coach of the Morehead high failed to reach a decision until later. After the game, the referee notified coach Daily that the point was good.

Yesterday's starting line-up included George Lautares, Edward Conway, Jimmie Wells, J. A. Joyner, Robert Earle Clark, Victor Cozart, Howard Hodges, Bernice Eilers, Carl Pierce, Tom (Parson) Parrish, and Harold Forbes. During the game, Earle Kittrell, Melton Wilson, DuBose Simpson, and Jack Forbes, who had been resting their weary anatomies on the plank were extended the privilege of participating in the pigskin spree.

The Greenies made three first downs while the Morehead outfit failed to make progress in that field. The local aggregation completed six forward passes as compared with three topped off by the salt-water boys. One of the completed passes made by the locals was for 30 yards from Carl Pierce to Howard Hodges.

On Friday afternoon of next week beginning at 3:30 o'clock the locals take on the eleven of the Tarboro high school at the Third street stadium here. This will be the third of five home games scheduled by the high's before the curtains are drawn on the gridiron season.

'WE'RE GOING INTO THIS ELECTION WITH SMILES'

"Thank the Lord, we're going into this election with smiles," said President Roosevelt (on platform) at Emporia, Kas., after cordially greeting William Allen White (on ground at left), noted editor and staunch supporter of Gov. Alf M. Landon. When the President's campaign train rolled into Emporia, he immediately called for White whom he described as "a very good friend of mine three and a half years out of every four years." ## Licenses Revoked 'Wally' In New Home

During One Week Total Above 100

Of 734,261 Permits Issued by Highway Safety Department, 6,208 Have Been Rescinded

Raleigh, Oct. 17.—A total of 101 drivers' licenses have been revoked so far this week by the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue, it was announced today by Director Arthur Fulk, bringing the total number of license revocations to date to 6,208 of 734,261 which have been issued since the new drivers' license law went into effect.

Most of the licenses revoked this week were for drunken driving, although one of those revoked today was that of Jack Tripp, Greenville, for driving after his license had been revoked. This means that he cannot legally drive an automobile for almost two years. One of the revocations announced this week was that of F. C. Jones, Jr., of Raleigh, following two convictions for reckless driving. The law specifies that any person convicted twice of reckless driving shall have his or her license revoked for one year.

Two of those whose licenses was revoked today for drunken driving were women, Etta May Matthews of Raleigh and Mrs. C. C. Lanier of Raleigh. Another was Andrew Shanklin Austin, Jr., of Hatteras, away out on "the banks" where roads are almost non-existent and where most of the automobile driving is done on the beach at low tide.

"It would seem that by this time, after 6,208 drivers have already had their licenses revoked either for drunken driving, reckless driving or combination of the two, drivers would learn that they can't drink and drive at the same time without being arrested and losing their licenses," Fulk said. "But there does not seem to be much decrease in the number of convictions for drunken driving we get each week."

Here's one of the few available pictures of Mrs. "Wally" Simpson, companion of King Edward of Great Britain, who has moved into a new and palatial home in London just after filing divorce suit against her husband, Ernest. (Associated Press Photo)

CHINA'S KIDS MAY GET MORE SLEEP

Nanking, China, (AP)—Primary school children of China should be allowed to sleep more but forced to eat less, the national ministry of education has decreed in instructions circulated to teachers, throughout the country.

Ten o'clock scholars are not to be encouraged, but children who show signs of drowsiness during the day should be allowed to take naps in rooms set aside for the purpose, say the Chinese educational reformers.

The same Nanking orders instruct teachers to prevent their juvenile charges from eating too much or too often, and to see that candy peddlers are kept clear of school premises.
