COURT AGREES TO DECIDE ON WAGNER BILL

Two Cases Involving Validity of Act Added by Court

LAW SUSTAINED IN LOWER COURT

Statute Guarantees Collective Bargaining and Sets Up Relations Board

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Two cases involving constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act were added today by the Supreme court to the list of new Deal litigation awaiting a final decision.

In a brief announcement the tribunal agreed to pass on challenges of the legislation filed by the associated press and by the Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach company.

The act was sustained by lower courts in both controversies. The statute guarantees collective bargaining to labor and sets up a national labor relations board to settle industrial disputes.

In acting on approximately 30 appeals the court also refused to speed up a final ruling on a petition by Illinois communists to compel state officials to place the names of the communist candidates for president and vice president on the ballot for the November 3 election.

That action made it impossible for the court to act on the petition until after the election. It adjourns. (Continued on page six)

AWAITS DIVORCE SUIT HEARING

Here's a new studio portrait of Mrs. Ernest A. ("Wally") Simpson, close friend of King Edward VIII, whose divorce suit will be heard in the Ipswich, England, as sizes. It was believed the action would not be heard before tomorrow. Friends said Mrs. Simpson might visit some small British colony after obtaining her divorce — to escape public attention until King Edward's coronation next spring. (Associated Press Photo.)

Divorce Case Expected to Be Reached Tomorrow

Ipswich, Eng., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke this evening set hearing of Ipswich divorce suits — a list headed with the notation "Simpson vs. Simpson" — for 2:15 p. m. tomorrow.

Disclosing his decision just before court adjourned Justice Hawke indicated the seven undefended divorce petitions, only cases remaining to be heard, would not be taken up before tomorrow afternoon.

Ipswich, Eng., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Marital freedom—presumably a foregone conclusion—lay just ahead for Mrs. Ernest Simpson today.

Crazed Negro Is Subdued After Doing Much Damage

A crazed negro who destroyed the windows and doors on one side of the home of B. T. Cannon on Paris avenue was finally subdued after officers and citizens had been stood off for several minutes with threats that he would kill them with an axe which he wielded menacingly.

Shortly after 11 o'clock telephone calls began pouring into the City police station that a negro was running wild and destroying everything that came in his way. Officers H. E. Woodson and J. L. Whitehead rushed to the scene and passers-by stopped, but they were unable to reach the negro as he waved the axe at them and dared them to come nearer. Finally other officers were rushed to the aid of the two already on the scene. The policemen surrounded the negro and as he was talking to one L. D. Page ran into him from the rear and knocked him to the ground. Other officers and private citizens jumped on the negro, tied

REBELS BLAST NEW ROUTE IN MADRID DRIVE

Portugal Says Russia Responsible For Civil War

NEWSMEN FREED BY INSURGENTS

Germany and Italy Join in Common Front Against Problems Facing Europe

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The fascist Spanish government at Burgos announced today Madrid had been completely isolated from the rest of Spain and would fall to insurgent forces "within three to 10 days."

A bulletin issued at Burgos said El Escorial, northwest of Madrid and Aranjuez to the southeast, both important railway terminals, had been encircled cutting them off from Madrid.

From Madrid the railway through Aranjuez leads to vital southeastern seaports.

(By Associated Press) Spanish insurgents blasted a new path in their drive on Madrid today as Portugal charged Soviet Russia was responsible for the bloody civil war on the Iberian peninsula.

The fascist troops overwhelmed strong forces of government defenders north of Aranjuez, strategic communication center approximately 30 miles south of the capital.

The fresh allegation against the Moscow government was made in the Portuguese reply to Russian charges that Lisbon was sending military aid to the fascists.

Soviet agitators, it was charged, not only created a situation in Spain which resulted in the fascist rebellion, but also attempted to sow the seeds of revolt in Portugal.

Arrival of 20,000 Russian volunteers to bolster the capital's defense organization was reported imminent by Portuguese citizens arriving in Lisbon from Barcelona.

One column of insurgents operated around El Escorial pushed its outposts three miles closer to Madrid.

Two American newspapermen caught in bitter machine gun fire near Aranjuez were released after being held for a short period by their insurgent captors. An English companion was also set free.

American Shipper Sends Out Appeal For Rescue Tugs

Two Tugs Already Made Fast to Vessel in Irish Sea Unable to Handle Disabled Ship

Dublin, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Crippled and buffeted by heavy weather in the Irish sea the American merchant liner, American skipper, appealed today for more help after two tugs failed to take the disabled ship in tow.

(The office of Lloyds, limited, in Liverpool relayed a message from the distressed vessel saying "two Dublin tugs made fast at 6 a. m. but have not power to handle the vessel. We need large tugs with hawsers. Barometer falling.")

The American skipper radioed she had lost her rudder and was wallowing helplessly in high seas near Wicklow Head, off the Irish coast.

Two tugs were to start from the Mersey river at 1 p. m. (8 a. m. est) to tow the ship to Liverpool.

The American shipper carried 22 passengers.

Publisher Gets Big Fish; Says Write About Others

D. J. Whichard, Jr., is publisher and editor of The Reflector, but this is one story that he did not see before it appeared in print and it was too late for him to "kill" it.

Possessing a good sense of humor, he will, however, it is unlikely he will object even if he is the subject of the fish story—and a true one.

Having been told that "Dave" made the biggest single catch of the fishing season while engaging in that sport yesterday morning, the publisher was asked about the story as there are probably more people in Greenville interested in fishing than any inland town of its size in the country.

"Oh, write about the 10 whoppers that E. F. Tucker and L. G. Cooper caught and the 15 beauties that Ralph Garret and party landed," replied "Dave."

But while these other sportsmen made news, the publisher made the best copy as the 36 and one-half pound cove was landed was said to have been the largest caught off the coast at Morehead City this season.

The fish was weighed several hours after it had been caught and old-timers estimated that several pounds were lost from the time it was caught and when it was weighed.

"Dave" admitted that if he had realized how large it was when he hooked it, he probably would never have landed the fish as he would have considered it too big to handle.

Realizing that he had a big catch on the end of his line, however, the publisher-fisherman expertly maneuvered his line to get the fish to the boat. It took him some time to land the fish, almost as long as he himself is tall and it was only with the aid of E. L. Henderson of the college faculty and his son, Kenneth Henderson, his fishing companions, that he was able to get the cove in the boat.

Mr. Whichard is not a boastful man, but it is a wide grin he displays when his friends congratulate him for making the "catch of the season" at the popular fishing community.

PIRATES LOSE CLOSE BATTLE

Extra Point Provides Winning Margin For Foes

East Carolina Teachers lost a hard-fought game to the Western Teachers eleven in Cullowhee Saturday by a margin of one point, 6-7. The first half of the game was scoreless, though the E. C. T. C. Pirates once drove the ball across the Catamount's goal line, only to have it called back for an offside penalty.

The Pirates scored early in the third quarter, when three successive passes from Powell to Shelton were good for 35, 10 and 5 yards and a touchdown. Shelton jumped high in the end zone to snag the ball and first six points for the Eastern Teachers.

Later in the same period, Humphries, for the Catamounts, kicked out on the Pirates' 4-yard line. The Pirates punted to safety, but the ball was called back and placed on the 1-yard line. The Catamounts eked the next punt, and Dandalake recovered in the end zone to score 6 for the Western Teachers. A pass from Andrews to Gaston was good for the extra point.

The Pirates outclassed the Catamounts in the first half and the game ended with E. C. T. C. on their Western rivals' 20 yard line.

LET'S GIVE MEN JOBS BUILDING ROADS AND STREETS

GIVE THE MOTORIST A SQUARE DEAL

LET'S STOP THE BAD ROADS TAX

Bad roads levy annually an enormous tax on the motorist. Poorly surfaced highways are costing the motorist up to 2¢ per mile more than if they were properly improved.

LET'S MODERNIZE OUR HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Hundreds of miles of state highways need rebuilding—time saving and safety demand widening, and the elimination of sharp curves, steep grades, dangerous grade crossings. Traffic has outgrown our highway system.

LET'S GET OUR TRAFFIC THROUGH TOWN

Let's rebuild worn and bumpy streets, eliminate "bottle necks" and grade crossings, so that city traffic can flow freely and safely on our arterial streets.

STOP HIGHWAY FUND DIVERSIONS

With these crying highway needs facing us, let's use gas taxes and auto fees for badly needed highway and street work. Give the motorist what he pays for.

Appeal to your legislators to prevent any diversion of highway funds.

First Church of Christ, Scientist "Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 25, 1936.

The Golden Text was from Job 17:9. "The Righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall be stronger and stronger."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things. Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God." (Revelation 22:8, 9.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is only when the so-called pleasures and pains of sense pass away in our lives, that we find unquestionable signs of the burial of error and the resurrection to spiritual life. There is neither place nor opportunity in Science for error of any sort. Every day makes its demands upon us for higher proofs rather than professions of Christian power. These proofs consist solely in the destruc-

DRIVE AGAINST TRUCK SPEEDS

Patrol to Continue Bearing Down On Drivers

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel,
Raleigh, Oct. 25.—The State Highway Patrol is going to continue to bear down on truck and bus drivers in the state and to enforce the speed limits of 35 miles an hour for truck, 30 mile an hour for trucks with trailers and of 25 miles an hour for school buses, no matter how much the operators may howl and object. Captain Charles D.
Farmer said here today. Several big truck operators have begged and pleaded with him to "go easy" in enforcing the speed limits on trucks especially the big gasoline tank wagon trucks which haul gasoline from Wilmington to inland cities, but to no avail. Capt. M. Farmer said.

"Trucks of any sort, especially the larger transport trucks, either in one unit or of the semi-trailer variety, are among the most dangerous vehicle on the highways today, even at the legal speeds allowed," Capt. Farmer said. "But when these trucks exceed the speed limits of 30 and 35 miles an hour, they become even more dangerous.
Yet I have trailed these trucks, at times when they were doing 70 miles an hour and so have patrolmen. But we are going to stop this speeding by trucks or know the reason why and I have recently ordered patrolmen to bear down harder than ever on trucks of all types and to see to it that truck drivers do not exceed 35 miles an hour or that trucks with trailers or semi-trailers do not exceed 30 miles an hour."

Automobile drivers in all sections of the state are asked by Capt.
Farmer to watch all trucks and to report any violations either as to speed or recklessness, reporting the type of violation, approximate location when observed and the license number of the truck. Letters will be written to both the drivers and owners warning them and informing them that further violations will be prosecuted. Capt. Farmer said.

"Truck and bus drivers have got to learn to observe the law and to stay within speeds which offer a minimum menace to other traffic," Capt. Farmer said.

MANY WRECKS OCCUR IN CITY

Nearly Half of All Reported Accidents Within Limits

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel,
Raleigh, Oct. 25.—Nearly half of the automobile accidents reported so far this year happened in cities and towns and almost exactly half of the accidents in September were in cities and towns, new figures just compiled by the statistical division of the State Department of Revenue and made public today by the State Highway Patrol, reveal.

Of the 4,717 accidents reported during the first nine months of this year 2,109 occurred in cities and towns and 2,608 on highways outside the limits of cities and towns.
Of the 315 accidents reported during September, 306 took place in cities and towns and 309 on highways in rural sections. In August, 229 accidents were in cities and towns and 340 on highways in rural areas outside of city limits.

The fact that gap between the city and rural automobile accidents is rapidly closing, is regarded by officials here as indicating increasingly better law enforcement on the open highways, since until this year the number of automobile accidents on rural highways has usually outnumbered the city and town accidents two to one, it is pointed out.

The rural accidents are more deadly than the city accidents, first because drivers are not as careful on the highways as they are in cities and towns, which have more policemen and second, because cars attain higher speeds on the open highways than on city streets, with the result that when they collide or it a fixed object, the impact is greater and more likely to be fatal, it was pointed out.

Of the 2,109 city accidents so far this year, 111 were fatal and 1,998

Black-Draught High
In Quality Without Being High In Price

Black-Draught is "easy to pay for" because it is so economically packaged and so reliable.
But as to quality, there's nothing "cheap" about it. For instance, its principal active ingredient is the leaves of a certain species of plant that are brought 10,000 miles from where they grow to the factory where the medicine is made. These leaves from far, far away, help to give Black-Draught its well-known "laxative reliability." They could quality.
For a good, purely vegetable lax-out real loss of good medicinal active, insist on Black-Draught

IT'S YOUR FAIR

The Pitt County Fair under the operation of Farmville and Pitt County posts of the American Legion got under way this afternoon and will continue throughout this week. The American Legion posts of this county took over the operation of the fair here in an effort to give this county a good fair and certainly the fair deserves the support of our people. The future fairs of this county will be just as good as the people of the county want them to be and no better. If you want us to have good fairs support them by your attendance for without attendance the fair cannot and will not be a success. What money if any is made on this year's fair will be devoted to making a bigger and better fair next year and so on each year until a really worthwhile fair is developed here. If you like fairs and want Pitt County to have one of the best start your support now by attending this year's fair this week.

LOOK NOW--DON'T WAIT

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure—and one thorough inspection of your property may prevent a disastrous fire.

The cold season will soon envelop this section of the United States. Furnaces and other heating devices will be taxed to their utmost. More lights will be used and will be in operation for more hours of the day. Fireplaces will be in service.

To enter the winter season without checking such equipment is to give a hostage to fortune. Many a heating plant has developed an inconspicuous flaw—and fire has resulted. Chimneys are always a potential source of trouble, as are flues and fireplaces. An ancient electric cord may have "worked all right last year" yet be in condition to cause a serious fire today.

If you were wise, you took advantage of Fire Prevention Week, which was observed early in October. You listened to talks, read pamphlets and learned of the more common hazards, how to search for them, and how to eliminate them. Apply that knowledge now.

If you aren't sure that you can properly inspect your property, any insurance agent will be glad to help. So will fire marshals and fire departments. And there is a wealth of printed material which is obtainable for nothing.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Instead of trapping Terence Mahony into an admission that he had murdered Vincent Little, as he had expected, Inspector Kennedy has heard a fairly convincing denial. He is inclined to give Terence rope—and Terence is perfecting a plan to capture and convict the real murderer, who is Ambrose Lawson, head of a kidnaping and dope ring. Now Kennedy, another detective and Mahony are on their way to a vacant house where Ruth Proser, friend of Mahony's, is hiding. Trying to help Terence, Ruth has got herself into trouble.

Chapter 36 EMPTY HOUSE

MAHONY was filled with foreboding. Number 518 St. John's Wood Road was the house where he had left Lawson's crooks tied up. Would Ruth be there when he and Inspector Kennedy arrived?

In a quarter of an hour they had arrived, had sprung up the steps, and found the front door slightly open. They went in; the house was silent.

Inspector Kennedy flashed his electric torch in front of him. The first room they entered was the drawing-room in which Mahony had left the two bound crooks. On the floor were pieces of the rope which Mahony had used to tie the two men. The rope had been cut.

Inspector Kennedy examined it, frowning. Sergeant Dawkins uttered an exclamation and stooped and picked something up from a corner. "Hallo!" he said. "This looks as though she's been here."

He held out a woman's bag. The bag was Ruth's; the contents proved that. But neither Ruth nor anybody else was in the house.

"I wonder what happened to her?" said Inspector Kennedy in a worried tone. "Have you any ideas on the subject, Mahony?"

For a moment Mahony did not answer. His heart was full of fear for Ruth. So far as he could see, no one thing could have happened to her.

"I'm afraid she's fallen into the hands of the dope and kidnaping gang," he said in a low voice.

Inspector Kennedy nodded. "Have you any idea where they could have taken her?" he asked.

"None at all," answered Mahony. There was a pause. Then the Inspector asked another question.

"Where does Lawson come into all this? What is the meaning of that reference to him in her letter?"

"He's the head of the dope and kidnaping gang," answered Mahony briefly.

"What—Ambrose Lawson?" exclaimed the Inspector in an amazed voice. "Have you any proof of your statement?"

"Not a scrap," answered Mahony. "If you accused him, he'd only laugh in your face. But after you'd left the house he'd make arrangements to have you quietly murdered. Think this over. I told Bassett I was pretty sure Lawson was the head of the gang. I told Lee-Ramsden that I'd told Bassett. Lee-Ramsden immediately told Lawson. Within an hour of Lee-Ramsden telephoning Lawson this morning Bassett's house was attacked by armed gunmen. Doesn't that strike you as peculiar?"

"Very peculiar," agreed Inspector Kennedy dryly.

He was silent for a time, thinking Mahony's statement surprised him. But he was not altogether disinclined to believe it. Inspector Kennedy looked at Mahony very keenly.

"I'm not going to keep you any longer now, Mahony," he said in a slow, meaning voice. "I expect you'll have a lot to do tonight. But I'm letting you go on the condition that you report at my office at the Yard at ten in the morning, and tell me if you have any news of Miss Fraser. Is that a bargain?"

Mahony perfectly understood that the Inspector was giving him a chance to try to rescue Ruth. He did not blame the Inspector for the condition attached to that chance.

"That's a bargain," he said curtly. "Good luck to you," said Inspector Kennedy.

WITH that Mahony left the house. When he had gone Sergeant Dawkins spoke to Inspector Kennedy.

"What do you reckon he'll do, sir?" he asked.

The Inspector shook his head. "I don't know. Something pretty drastic if I'm any judge of character. I shouldn't be surprised if somebody gets hurt tonight."

But Lawson would probably not be easy to catch; he would be guarded. Mahony smiled grimly; he had thought of a way of catching him. Elsa had played one part tonight; now she could play another. But she need not know she was playing it.

At Marlborough Road Station he rang her up.

"This is Terence Mahony speaking," he said. "The police decided to let me go after all, thanks to the word you put in for me at our interview. I want to know if you'll do something for me?"

"Of course," she answered. She was eager to do something to try to make up for the harm she had done.

"I want to speak to Mr. Lawson tonight," went on Mahony. "Could you ring him up and ask him to come round and see you about eleven-thirty? But don't tell him I want to speak to him, or he won't come."

"Well... I'll do it if I can, but I don't know whether I shall be able to get hold of Mr. Lawson," answered Elsa. "He told me he was going out tonight, to some club—the Golden something or other. I'm terribly sorry. Though, if I ring up his house, perhaps his butler will be able to tell me where he's gone."

So Lawson had gone to the Golden Centipede. A thrill of exultation ran through Mahony.

"Never mind," he said. "I'll see him some other time."

With that he rang off, left the station, and took a taxi to his lodgings.

He spent twenty minutes at his lodgings disguising himself according to the directions which had been given to him by the assistant at Clarkford's. He spent five minutes carefully rubbing out the name on the Golden Centipede membership cards which he had taken from the two crooks that afternoon, and writing in another name. Then he set out for his appointment with his gang.

AT half past eleven he met them, as arranged, in a little quiet square not far from Jermyn Street. They arrived in two cars, the first car containing two men in evening dress, and the three huge bottles of champagne which Mahony had ordered, the other car containing the remaining four men clad in their rough sea-going clothes. Mahony gave them all careful directions and they started for the Golden Centipede Club.

The Golden Centipede had two entrances, a front entrance in the courtyard, and a tradesmen's entrance in a quiet alley at the back of the club. The car containing Mahony, the two men in evening dress, and the biggest of the four other men, drove to the front entrance. The second car drove to the back entrance.

Inside the front entrance was a flight of stairs, which wound upwards to a landing on which were situated the men's and women's cloak-rooms. At the entrance to the men's cloak-room sat a large, uniformed commissionaire to see that non-members, unaccompanied by members, did not enter the club. From the landing another flight of stairs led upwards to the dance room and cocktail bar.

Mahony and the two men in evening dress, clutching their jerrycans of champagne, mounted the steps that led up to the first landing in a somewhat uncertain manner; they had the appearance of being rather drunk. The commissionaire frowned slightly; he stepped forward to challenge them.

"Are you a member, sir?" he demanded.

"Sure I'm a member," replied Mahony thickly. "Here's my card."

He pulled out his faked membership card, held it in front of the commissionaire, and thrust it into his pocket again.

"Brought a couple of friends 'long for a drink," went on Mahony solemnly. "My birthday. Have to pay entransh fee and sign book, I suppose? Pay it for me, there's good fellow. Here you are."

He thrust a couple of pound notes into the commissionaire's hand.

"Very good, sir," he said. Mahony and his companions went on up the stairs towards the dance floor. From the bottom of the stairs, by the front entrance, a voice hailed the commissionaire.

"Oi, mate!"

At the bottom of the stairs stood a large, rough-looking unshaven man. The commissionaire was indignant. With an air of immense dignity he descended the stairs.

"Wot d'you want?" he demanded. "This ain't no place for the likes of you. You 'op it."

"'Arf a minute, matey," he said in a conciliatory tone. "Just 'ave a good look at this."

As the commissionaire bent forward, a fist came upward, taking him fairly under the chin. The commissionaire slumped forward unconscious.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Opinion among Jeffersonians who can control their emotions long enough to discuss the matter calmly is that Roosevelt will carry the Solid South by such a reduced vote as to register a solemn warning to the New Deal Democrats coming to Congress from the South will quickly manifest an independent spirit, these Jeffersonians say. Their almost universal prediction is that a second term for Roosevelt will strewn with thorns if he should ask Congress to put through new experiments in government.

Very few Jeffersonians agree that the Democratic party is doomed to extinction because of the New Deal. They cling to the hope that the party will survive and restore the independence of Congress.

CRITICS: From all that can be learned in inquiries among Jeffersonians, there will not be a wholesale swing to London as a rebuke to Roosevelt. The average Jeffersonian Democrat is a hard-boiled party man who detests the G. O. P. Carter Glass is a typical Jeffersonian. It is believed that he represents the great majority of that group throughout the South. Glass will not vote for London.

Apparently the Jeffersonian idea is to "take it on the chin," stick grimly to the party, and wait for the time when they can throw out the New Dealers. The first duty as they see it is to erect barriers in Congress to frustrate New Deal proposals in the event of Roosevelt's reelection. Jeffersonians in Congress will play ball with the G. O. P. where they would score to vote for G. O. P. candidates. Some political observers shrewdly suspect that Democrats throughout the country who oppose the New Deal are comforting themselves with the thought that a critical Congress will checkmate new experiment—and that these Democrats as a rule will vote for Roosevelt.

GRAVE: The foreign diplomatic corps in Washington is a network with ends reaching every capital in the world. A quiver along the line stirs up agitation here among diplomats who are intimately acquainted with foreign personages and their backgrounds. These diplomats—and their wives—are almost a unit in predicting dire consequences from "L'affaire Simpson. They think they see King Edward VIII in the coils of a social tragedy that may wreck him. Many of these diplomats know Mrs. Simpson well. They describe her as a woman of keen wit and varied charms, quite capable of swaying power behind a throne.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN HOLLAND: Banking sources get word that the delicate poise of the monetary "gentlemen's agreement" between Great Britain, France and the United States is likely to be upset before the end of the year—and by an outsider.

Holland is not a party to the agreement, though she has cooperated to date by holding the guilder in line with other currencies. Influential Dutch interests are grumbling. They want a monetary advantage in world markets for the rubber and tin produced in Dutch colonies and they aren't getting it. Pressure on the Dutch government is increasing and the prediction is made in responsible quarters that the lid will blow off around the first of December in the form of a sudden and rapid slide of the guilder in terms of other currencies.

Don't minimize Holland as a factor in world trade and exchange because of her small population or area. In some respects this little nation is a more important element than France. There is no doubt that the Dutch can kick the props from under the informal stabilization agreement of the three major powers if they choose.

WEAPONS: If Holland does tip over the cart, a battle of competitive depreciation among the major currencies is almost sure to follow. Britain could use the Dutch move as justification for cheapening the pound, on the ground that she cannot allow such a formidable trade competitor to get the jump on her. Then we in turn would be virtually compelled to push the dollar down (in foreign exchange) along with the pound in order to prevent British competition from getting an edge on us in world markets.

The United States has two weapons in reserve which can be used, if our government chooses, to keep the British from straying too far off the monetary reservation. One is that in order to manage sterling effectively, England must be able to pay gold freely somewhere. She can no longer get the metal from France or Holland. Therefore she needs to be able to buy it from us. So the threat of an American embargo on gold exports would make Britain think twice before starting to get rough.

The other weapon—more subtle but equally effective if intelligently employed—is that Great Britain will urgently need American friendship to keep a key position in world politics as the storm clouds gather. So she had better not rub us too hard the wrong way.

"INVESTMENT": The campaign has reached the scratching and biting stage. New York leaders on both sides are busy accusing each other of everything from mayhem to grand larceny. One of the latest complaints is a lusty one from Republican insiders that the Maryland poll of the Baltimore Sunpapers—showing a big lead for Roosevelt—was seriously doctored (though emphatically not by the newspapers conducting it).

The essence of the charge is that Democratic workers bought up the ballots of colored voters in carload lots at bargain rates—thus greatly exaggerating the proportionate Democratic vote in the state to the end that a false bandwagon psychology might be created.

But New York skeptics doubt that this angle is as important, even if true, as Republicans contend. They point out that if the Democrats were able to buy large numbers of straw votes for cash—and were willing to spend money for the purpose—they will naturally buy actual November votes the same way. Obviously the second "investment" would be even more worthwhile—bound probably just about as effective.

Authentic: Republicans are also busy trying to find a convincing explanation of why the New York Letting odds in Roosevelt's favor don't mean a thing. One suggestion is that those offering a long price on FDR are hedging by purchasing utility stocks—hence the odds mean nothing. Another ingenious argument runs that the odds are established by the underworld for its own nefarious purposes. A leading Republican newspaper concedes that the odds are artificially inspired by the shrewd placement of relatively small sums by Democratic sympathizers for the purpose of swaying the "bandwagon vote."

An ardent G. O. P. er read that last explanation triumphantly aloud in a New York broker's office where a customer had the bad taste to be expressing pro-Roosevelt sentiments. "He was too good a customer to be thrown out for his heresy," Terence said to the customer, snapped back. "So odds of 2-1-2 to 1 are phony, eh? All right. I have $1,000 to bet on Roosevelt at a mere 2 to 1. Find me $500 of London money to cover it." There was a moment of pregnant silence. Then one of the brokerage house partners picked up the phone and called contacts in close touch with such matters to try to get the bet placed.

He could not find $500 of London money that way. He did get offers of 2-1-2 to 1 if his client would bet on London instead of Roosevelt. The customer, having carried his point by first-hand demonstration that the odds are authentic, departed leaving instructions to place his $1,000 against $400 for London if $400 could be found. STATE RELIES ON PRESIDENT

Supporting Roosevelt Because of Confidence

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL
 Raleigh, Oct. 25.—North Carolina is going to give President Roosevelt a big majority in the forthcoming election because the Democrats of the state have confidence in his leadership and ability and because he has definitely bettered the condition of the entire state and of the people in it during his present administration, a representative group of professional and business men told David Lawrence, nationally known news writer and commentator when he stopped here Friday in the course of his swing through the country sounding out sentiment with regard to the election. Most of the group of some 25 or 30 men, composed of Republicans as well as Democrats who were the guests of John A. Park, publisher of The Raleigh Times, at a luncheon given for Mr. Lawrence, assured the Washington columnist the President Roosevelt would get just about as many votes in this election as he received four years ago, while some thought he would get more.

There was considerable difference of opinion among those present, however, as to why virtually all of the Democrats in North Carolina are expected to vote for the reelection of President Roosevelt. When the question was raised as to whether most of the Democrats in the state believed he would bring about a swing back towards greater economy and greater conservatism in the Federal government or whether he would become even more liberal if reelected, most of those present expressed the opinion that the bulk of sentiment in the state was that probably 40 per cent of the Democrats in the state both hoped and believed that he would become more liberal.

The feeling among most of those present who participated in the discussion agreed that for the most part there was general approval among most of the Democrats in the state and some Republicans over what the President has done during the past four years and that they are willing to trust his judgment and leadership for another four years. It was also agreed, however, that this does not mean that North Carolina Democrats approve everything which the New Deal has done or attempted to do or that some mistakes had not been made, but rather that the good which had been accomplished so far outweighed any harm that had been done, that the reelection of Roosevelt offered more hope for the next four years than the election of Landon. One of those present pointed out that conditions in North Carolina are so much better now than they were four years ago that most of the people prefer to go ahead with Roosevelt than take a chance on any change and that the people of the state had no desire to return to five-cent cotton and ten-cent tobacco and the excessive unemployment of four years ago.

It was readily admitted, however, that there is a sharp division of thought within the ranks of the Democrats in North Carolina both as to the desired future course of the President and Democratic party in the nation and as to the future course which Mr. Roosevelt will follow if he is reelected. Most of the Democrats present frankly admitted that there has been a very decided growth of liberal thought within the party and that there is a steady increase in the number of Democrats who favor even greater liberalism on the part of the President and his administration in the future than during the past four years. The recent Democratic primaries were pointed to as indications of this growing trend in liberalism, even to the point of increased dissatisfaction with the traditional conservatism of the Democratic state government.

It was indicated by Mr. Lawrence that this same condition exists within the Democratic party in almost all of the other states and that in many other states both the conservative and liberal groups in the Democratic party are supporting Mr. Roosevelt, the liberals confident he will become still more liberal if reelected and the conservatives believing he will trim his sails and head back to the right if he is returned for another four years.

The direct benefits which have come to North Carolina under the New Deal have reduced to a minimum the fears which some have as to future effects, the size of the national debt or the fear of too great centralization of power in Washington, Mr. Lawrence was told.

COLORED COMICS USED TO SLOW TRAFFIC

Waukegan, Ill. (AP)—The Waukegan police department has evolved a novel method of slowing auto traffic near public schools by displaying brilliantly colored comic characters bearing warning signs.

The signs stand about three feet high and depict such figures as Shirley Temple, "Barnacle Bill" and others. Each character displays a warning sign.

Sergeant Laurence F. Kelly, chief of the police department's accident prevention bureau, says drivers slow down if for no other reason than to "get a good look at the signs."

FARM GOES IN FOR LIVESTOCK

Prison Division at Caledonia Raises Hogs, Cattle

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 26.—The prison division is going in for livestock in a big way at Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax county where some 600 prisoners work the largest single farm in North Carolina of more than 7,000 acres. Acting Director Oscar T. Pitts of the prison department said today. For in addition to the 1,160 hogs which have been raised on the farm and of which between 600 and 700 will be slaughtered this fall and winter, the prison division recently purchased 622 young steers in the western part of the state and are now fattening these steers on the farm at Caledonia.

"After these steers have been fattened for several months and put on the proper weight, they will be slaughtered and the beef used to feed the prisoners throughout the prison system," Pitts said. "We have found that it is much cheaper to buy these cattle, fatten them ourselves with the feed we have on the farm and then slaughter them, than it is to buy beef already killed. These 622 steers will help greatly in reducing our meat bill through the winter months. The same is true of the 600 to 700 hogs we will slaughter to provide fresh pork for the prisoners."

More than 2,000 acres of corn, yielding from 40 to 50 bushels to the acre, were harvested at Caledonia this fall and it was found necessary to buy additional livestock to use this corn up, in addition to that which will be ground into corn meal in the mill there. The prison also has its own flour mill at Caledonia, where thousands of bushels of wheat raised on the farm is ground into flour for use in the various prison units. Thousands of bushels of Irish and sweet potatoes and tons of cabbage, beans, carrots, and other vegetables are raised on the farm in order to provide food for the prisoners. Thousands of gallons of canned vegetables are put up each year in the modern canning plant, to provide vegetables for use during the winter months. Thousands of dollars a year are saved as a result of the food produced on this one prison farm, Pitts said.

Talks To Parents

Pleasant Emotions.

It is always easier to make a baby say "please" than "thank you". God receives many more petitions than "graces"; criticism is twice as common as praise. The gracious kindly emotions are apparently harder to express than the selfish and unpleasant ones. Part of the trouble is that persons forget. The baby, having gotten what he asked for, forgets his manners in his pleasure and pre-occupation. Furthermore, having achieved his purpose, he sees nothing to gain by the additional courtesy. God is supposed to understand the thanks, though for some reason his omniscience did not include knowledge of the need of his petitioner in the first place. Somehow it seems essential to many persons that others should be informed of their bad points—their good ones can take care of themselves. In time they cease to see the good and excellent in their neighbors and harp on every fault and weakness. And yet there is far more constructive value to graciousness and to words of praise than to ungraciousness and criticism. The child who is thanked for a kind deed and praised for it, is far more apt to repeat the act than if it is taken for granted; whereas scolding for misdeeds often bears no fruit but crosses and resentment. Scolding and criticism are often necessary, but not nearly so often as one might think. They often become a habit to the exclusion of the pleasanter emotions. If praise were given to a child wherever it was due, if "thank you" rather than "please" were emphasized, the child's improvement would probably be most noticeable. Certainly the atmosphere and the temper of the home would probably be greatly improved. Meals would probably be better digested, expeditions more wholeheartedly enjoyed. Good temper and outgoingness improve both health and looks considerably.

WOMEN'S CAMP MAY BE BUILT

Consider Using Cottage Plan to House Prisoners

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, Oct. 26.—The cottage plan will probably be used in the construction of the new women's prison unit rather than the single dormitory type such as used in most of the other prison camps, it was revealed today by Oscar T. Pitts, acting director of the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission. It has not been definitely decided yet where the new women's prison camp will be built, however, although it will be near Raleigh, Pitts said. At first it was planned to build the women's unit on a portion of the Camp Polk prison farm a few miles west of here, a mile or two north of the State Fair grounds which were at one time a part of the prison farm. But it has now been just about decided not to build the women's unit on any part of this farm, in the belief that it would be close to the men's unit already located on the farm, Pitts indicated. Several other sites are being considered, but Pitts declined to say where any of them are located.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged five points lower on large ginning figures and under hedge selling. December sold off from 11.68 to 11.64 with prices close to the lows at the end of the first hour or about three to seven points net lower. The market encountered renewed trade buying and prices at midday were up a point or two from the lows.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Quiet but persistent selling lessened prices fractions to two or more points in today's stock market. Offerings of leading steels, motors oils and rails were large at the opening, but the trading volume dwindled thereafter and near the fourth hour the ticker tape moved slowly. Broker quarters found little discouragement in business and industrial news and most were inclined to attribute reactionary tendencies partly to the desire of some traders to stand on the sidelines pending the election.

CROWD ANXIOUSLY AWAITS GLIMPSE OF MRS. SIMPSON

(Continued on page one) The entrance of the Ipswich court house eager for a glimpse of the American woman whose name has been linked with that of Great Britain's 42-year-old bachelor monarch in a thousand fantastic rumors, reports and fragments of "inside information." The townsfolk—finally aware their little old world town has been chosen as the scene of possibly momentous romantic crossroads—posed the question whose answer probably no one on earth knows except King Edward and Mrs. Simpson: "Will she marry him or wont she." In any event the first step in Mrs. Simpson's attempt to cast off the shackles of her second matrimonial venture was expected to be reached late this afternoon—as soon as Justice Hawke could dispose of the four cases docketed ahead of the half dozen divorce actions on the calendar.

LONDON PLAYS DICTATORSHIPS

(Continued on page one) and establish a foreign way of life in its place." In the Maryland metropolis the Kansan opened an Atlantic Seaboard drive by picturing "the fundamental New Deal policies" as leading step by step toward "the misery, the poverty, the hopelessness out of which dictatorship arise." Landon will deliver a major radio address in Philadelphia at 9:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, tonight.

MINOR WRECKS IN THIS AREA

(Continued from page one) he is alleged to have attempted to run them off the road as they drove up beside him. The officers said they observed the man driving from one side of the road to the other and drove up by his side to investigate. They said the driver refused to stop and attempted to force them into the ditch.

R. F. Butts was placed in jail on a charge of driving drunk. He, too, was arrested by highway patrolmen. While all accidents were minor in this section, three persons were reported killed over the state due to highway wrecks. Mrs. Della St. Sing of Warrenton died in a Henderson hospital following a wreck near South Hill, Va., Dugan Cox Milseheimer, 25, of Concord was fatally wounded in an accident near that city Saturday night and an aged man identified as J. B. Love of Laurel Hill was killed Saturday night when he is said to have staggered in front of a truck three miles from Lumberton.

Louis B. Lane, member of the State Highway patrol, suffered a broken leg when he was knocked off his motorcycle by an unidentified motorist. Lane is located at Elizabeth City and the accident occurred between Gregory and Belcross. Nine negroes received hospital treatment following an accident near Albemarle.

PURE... and of finer texture than most anything that touches your lips... We all agree on this... cigarette paper is important. For Chesterfield we use the best paper that we can buy. It is called Champagne Cigarette Paper. It is made from the soft, silky fibre of the flax plant. It is washed over and over in clear, sparkling water. A lot of the pleasure you get in smoking Chesterfields is due to our using the right kind of cigarette paper. Chesterfield paper is pure, and it burns without taste or odor. Watch Us Go To Town with the Best Used Cars for the Least Money. Sample Bargain: 1933 Plymouth Coach—former owner T. Y. Walker. Visit Our Used Car Display Lot Next to White's 5 and 10c Store. Greenville Motor Co. "THE DODGE DEALER". Remember this... two things make the smoking quality of a cigarette—the tobaccos and the paper. The Champagne cigarette paper on Chesterfields is tested over and over for purity, for the right burning quality. Another reason why Chesterfield wins.
