MRS. SIMPSON GETS DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND

Only 17 Minutes Consumed in Entire Proceedings

HUSBAND TO PAY COSTS OF COURT

Friend of Kind Edward Accuses Mate of Misconduct in Obtaining Divorce Degree

Ipswich, Eng., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson, fascinating Baltimore born friend of King Edward of England, won a divorce from her husband, Ernest Aldrich Simpson at Historic Ipswich assizes today.

Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke announced a decree nisi after hearing a few minutes of formal testimony.

Cost of the case were charged to the defendant, Simpson, who did not contest the divorce.

The decree will be made absolute within six months.

The whole hearing lasted just 17 minutes. Mrs. Simpson was on the stand for 14 minutes.

She was questioned carefully by her attorneys, Norman Birkett, to bring out the facts of the most celebrated divorce case in the united kingdom since the stirring days of Henry VIII.

She produced three letters which she handed to the judge.

Her evidence alleged that her husband, a subject of the king, was guilty of misconduct at the Hotel de Paris at Bray near Maidenhead Berkshire at the end of July.

Decide Not to Hold Civil Court Term; Criminal Put Off

Judge Detained at Home by Illness of Daughter; Criminal to Get Under Way Next Wednesday

The term of civil court scheduled to have started here yesterday and postponed until today, has been called off entirely because of the illness of Mrs. Travis, daughter of Judge N. A. Sinclair, who was to have presided over the term.

Judge Sinclair informed local court officials, however, that he would be here Thursday to hear any motions by attorneys.

It also was decided that the criminal term due to get under way Monday would not be started until Wednesday, Tuesday being election day. Judge Sinclair is scheduled to preside over the criminal term of court also.

Solicitor D. M. Clark announced today that there would be no need for members of the petit jury to present themselves for duty before Wednesday, but stressed the necessity of grand jury members being here Monday as that body would be convened in session and he would lay cases before them for action.

He said that would speed the court when it did convene.

The solicitor said jail cases would be given preference at the short term.

The County Board of Education is sponsoring a dinner-meeting at the Repping dining room tonight of all school maintenance employees for the purpose of discussing certain phases of transportation and upkeep of the trucks and buildings.

Mechanics, carpenters and painters will attend the meeting. The Board said it was attempting to find means of providing more economical operation of the schools and trucks. Safety also will be stressed at the meeting.

Check on Enrollment Shows 1,078 Students

In the final check up on the enrollment of East Carolina Teachers College, it was found that the correct count was 1,078, four more than the number reported at the close of registration.

While the number added is small, it makes a great difference in comparative records. The figures as reported were ahead of any other fall enrollment, but this final count puts the enrollment one ahead of the highest point ever reached, which was the winter term of last year.

Divorced nearly 50 years ago, Miss Pamela E. Burgess, and William Abbott, re-married at the ages of 75 and 77, respectively. Their home is Livingston, Tenn.

CANDIDATES IN EASTERN AREA

Roosevelt and Landon Invade Industrial Sections

(By Associated Press)

Landed in 11th hour combat in the thickly-peopled section of the industrial East, both parties watched intently today the unfolding of the final campaign strategy of their leaders.

Gov. Alf M. Landon carried to the heart of Pennsylvania's steel regions an address entitled "civil service and the spoils system," while President Roosevelt ordered his special train to stand by for a trip to New York tonight. In a speech described as non-political last yesterday Mr. Roosevelt told negro students that the administration's policy is "no forgotten men and no forgotten races."

Landon declared at Philadelphia last night that the New Deal "wields the same axe which has destroyed the liberties of so much of the world." To the accompaniment of shouts and cheers he declared also that New Deal "waste and extravagance" violate the constitution and foist the "little fellow" must pay for it.

Early today the "Sunflower Special" moved on to Pittsburgh where Landon will address a gathering tonight.

Tomorrow President Roosevelt will speak at the 50th birthday ceremonies for the Statute of Liberty, in New York Harbor. This speech will be followed by a stumping tour through Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and New York.

John G. Winant, former head of the social security board, said Republicans are back of "misleading" information about the social security act. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor also went to the defense of the act with a declaration that it was something for which workers prayed for many years.

Hold Jailbreaker Wanted On Charge Of Small Robbery

Paul Edwards, last of four escapees, wanted in connection with Lumberton hold-up captured.

Fayetteville, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Paul Edwards, last of four Norfolk Va. jail breakers sought in this section, was arrested near Godwin today by county officers and taken to Lumberton to join his three confederates, all charged with holding up the Western Union office there yesterday.

Edwards was found walking northward along the Atlantic Coast Line railroad after a cold night in the open. He made no resistance and first reports that he was armed with a machine gun were found false.

Meanwhile in Lumberton, T. A. McNeill announced after a conference with Norfolk officers that the men would be tried there for the $5,000 holdup instead of being returned to the Virginia city.

The other three men arrested near Eastover after a hot chase yesterday were booked as Arnold Scott and Clifton Hollowell of Norfolk and C. E. Smith of New Bern. The four suspects, with one other, in a jail break at Norfolk Sunday night and Edwards' wife wanted as an accomplice was captured in Washington, N. C., yesterday.

FORCED RETREAT TOWARD MADRID

Fresh Efforts to Isolate Spanish Conflict Postponed For The Present

(By Associated Press)

Desperate socialist commanders fighting to stem a fascist advance on Madrid hurled waves of raw recruits against insurgent forces today only to be driven back with heavy casualties.

The government counter attacks surprised sleeping fascist warriors as the socialist "pincer" movement concentrated on the short stretch of insurgent-controlled road between Valmajoado and Navalcarnero.

General Jose Varela, fascist commander in the advance on the capital, hastily marshaled airplanes, tanks and troops, battered the driving socialists with a rain of steel and drove them backward in disorder.

As the newest battle raged in war torn sectors South and West of Madrid, fresh efforts to isolate the Spanish conflict were postponed in London when a session of the neutrality sub committee was called off.

The suspension was ordered by Chairman Lord Plymouth after a note expected to clarify the Russian position failed to arrive from Moscow.

The Russians declared their intention to answer at a general committee meeting tomorrow Portuguese charges that Moscow agitators were responsible for the situation which provoked the Spanish civil war, together with attempts to sovietize the entire Iberian peninsula, including Portugal.

The situation inside the Spanish capital was described as desperate by American newspaper correspondents taken into custody by fascists during a running machine gun battle Sunday.

Postpone Hearing School Child Case Until Later Date

Order Restraining Authorities From Sending Student Home Not to Be Heard This Week

Hearing on a temporary order restraining school authorities from refusing to allow the small daughter of E. I. Bloom to remain in school this year has been indefinitely postponed by consent of both the plaintiff and defendant.

Judge Albion Dunn, attorney for Mr. Bloom, said today he did not know when the case would be heard. In the meantime the little girl will remain in school.

The order was secured in September after the little girl had been sent home because she was not six years old. She celebrated her sixth birthday on October 26, yesterday.

The complaint alleges that the child has a constitutional right to attend the public schools. The brief contended that she had a right to remain in school until she was six years of age under an agreement with local school officials. J. H. Reese, city superintendent of schools, said the girl, along with several others, who were not six years old, was allowed to remain in school until the date of birth required for a school child was finally settled. He said that when the date was set all children not eligible under the ruling were sent home.

Even though the scheduled term of court had been held this week the case would not have been heard.

FIRST COURT TEST CASE SCHEDULED FOR BURGAW

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The first court test of the State School Commission's ruling on school age entrance limit will be held at Burgaw on November 2 under present plans.

Lloyd Griffin, secretary of the commission, said he expected a hearing scheduled for that date before Judge Henry A. Grady on a temporary restraining order obtained there by J. H. Burnett, would be held while a postponement was announced today of a similar suit in Pitt county.

Burnett secured a temporary restraining order prohibiting E. M. Thompson, principal at Burgaw, from preventing his daughter, Mary Elizabeth Burnett, from attending school even though she was not six years old until October 12.

Judge Grady signed the order and it is returnable before him Monday.

Sudden Drop in Temperature Felt In Greenville

Although cold weather was late in reaching here, it came so suddenly it caught Greenville citizens unawares and coats were pulled from the closets and coal bins ridded in efforts to keep warm.

The official weather bureau station here, headed by B. T. Clark, reported the mercury was standing at 38 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Clark explained that the weather was normal for this time of the year, saying the balmy weather which has been experienced here so far this fall has been abnormal.

This section is due to have frost about the 15th of October, but so far the mercury has remained much higher than the degree of temperature necessary for frost.

The weather forecast indicates frost in this section if it clear tonight.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON (By Ira Bennett)

REVISION: Many big business men who take no part in political meetings are putting their heads together in Washington. They come and go, in the aggregate representing the business sentiment of the country. Of course nearly all of them are for Landon and against the New Deal—but realistic reports tell them to prepare for another wrestle with Roosevelt.

What they want is revision of two laws—the corporate surplus tax and the social security act. These laws seem to be the special hates of business, not only in account of the bigger taxes that loom up, but because they force business to change its methods, tighten its belt, and await orders from Washington.

Assuming that Mr. Roosevelt will triumph, the business idea is to concentrate upon Congress for early revision of the two laws in question. The corporation surplus tax law comes first, as they see it. Their plea will be that corporations in debt are caught in a trap, while concerns with no surplus already in hand are prevented building up.

TAXES: Inquiry among lawmakers does not yet show any concerted opinion on revision of these tax laws. Democrats are non-committal, and Republicans have no power to force changes. Jesse H. Jones' statement that President Roosevelt probably would not oppose revision of the corporation tax has encouraged business men, but doesn't seem to have drawn out and commitments from legislators.

LEADERS JOIN IN PREDICTING RECORD VOTING

Democrats and Republicans See Big State Vote

800,000 BALLOTS LEAST ESTIMATE

Tar Heels to Vote on Five Proposed State Constitution Changes November 3

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Election officials and party leaders joined today in predicting a record-breaking vote next Tuesday when North Carolinians vote for national, state and local officers and on five proposed changes in the state constitution.

Democrats and Republicans, directing one of the most intensive political campaigns ever waged in the state, and Raymond C. Maxwell, secretary of the board of elections, forecast a vote in excess of 800,000 up more than 10 per cent from the record set in 1932 at 711,501.

Proponents and opponents of the constitutional amendments have also been conducting an active campaign and say they expect the ballots on the proposals to be unusually heavy.

The constitutional changes before the voters will be:

1. To permit the legislature to add as many as two additional associate justices to the Supreme court.

2. To permit the legislature to exempt from taxation homesteads occupied by the owners up to $1000 in tax valuation.

3. To permit classification of property for taxation.

4. To permit levy of income taxes up to 10 per cent instead of only 6 per cent as now.

5. To limit debts of public governmental units, state and local.

The Democrats, announcing they will have more than 1,000 precinct political talks Thursday night, have scheduled probably close to 2,000 meetings during the campaign and practically every leader in the party has taken to the stump.

Gillum Grissom, the Republican choice for governor, expressed confidence today he would be elected. "I will gain a majority of around 75,000 of the honestest cast and counted vote," Grissom said.

Wallace Winbir, state Democratic chairman, and D. L. Ward, party secretary, predicted on the other hand that the party would sweep the state as it did four years ago.

Radio System For N. C. State Patrol Expected Shortly

Contracts Let For Receivers and Transmitters; Hope to be in Operation by January

With contracts already let for the transmitting and receiving sets for the State Highway Patrol radio system and the contract for erection of the five buildings due to be let within the next few days, Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the Eastern division of the patrol, said today it is hoped work would begin right away and that the system could be put into operation by about the first of the year.

General Electric company was awarded the contract for the transmitters and R. C. A. will furnish the receivers. The contracts were held up for some time while patrol officials and the division of purchase and contract made a study of the various types for which bids were submitted.

Patrolmen in this division will be served chiefly by the station to be erected near Williamston, but they also will be in touch, through their radios, with the other four stations. The receiving sets will be set on the patrol broadcasting stations and will not be able to tune in on any other station.

The local headquarters of the patrol has set up a booth at the Pitt county fair this week in which a motorcycle has been equipped with a receiving set. It is tuned in on the Pennsylvania patrol transmitters and visitors will get a chance to see how the system will work.

DR. G. R. COMBS TO LEAVE CITY

Local Pastor Transferred to Western Conference

Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, who has served as pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here for the past three years, will be transferred to the Western North Carolina conference at a date in the near future.

This decision was announced at Salisbury yesterday when the Western conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, transferred a number of ministers from that section to the Eastern conference and in turn drafted a number of pastors into the Western area.

Dr. Combs will not be in the Western district for the first time. He came here from that conference where he had served in Charlotte.

It was not known exactly when Dr. Combs would be transferred from his church here, but it was understood he would be sent to Hendersonville.

In the three years Dr. Combs has been pastor here he has taken an active part in civic affairs and was especially interested in Boy Scout work. He held high offices in the Eastern Boy Scout council, which includes the Greenville district.

Pitt County Fair Has Large Crowds On Opening Night

Kaus United Shows Presenting Biggest and Shows Never Seen Here Before; Free Acts Proved

Despite a turn in the weather which kept many residents by the fire, a good crowd turned out for the opening of the Pitt County Fair yesterday afternoon and last night, witnessed the free acts and fireworks and enjoyed the Kaus United Shows along the midway.

Efforts were rushed this morning to put the grounds in shape following the rains of last night, and finders have been placed in low places and everything was in readiness for today's crowds by the time the patrons began arriving.

The attendance yesterday and last night was described as the largest of any opening day in the history of fairs in the county. Visitors viewed a large variety of farm implements, livestock and agricultural exhibits on display.

Although the Kaus shows have been here before, they have added a number of riding devices never offered here and additional shows are up along the midway.

The La Rue Brothers' Great Olympic circus, composed of twelve feature acts, offered the best presented at a local fair in free attractions. The feats of daring and skill are being offered at 3 o'clock each afternoon and 8 o'clock each night in front of the grandstand.

A public wedding will be staged on the grandstand Thursday night as an added attraction.

Despite the drought and grasshoppers, two and one-half tons of grapes per acre were grown on the Missouri state experimental farm near Mountain Grove this year. The grapes brought $125 per acre.

VOTE SUPPORT PEACE SESSION

Rotary Club to Sponsor Mass Meeting Friday Night

By WYATT BROWN

The Rotary Club voted unanimously to sponsor the Peace Mass Meeting to be held at the Greenville High School Friday night of the week at which time Dr. John Barclay is to make an address. The occasion for the vote was the regular weekly meeting of the club last night. The motion was made by Fordy Harding, chairman of the International Service Committee of the local club.

Entertainment last night was provided by the music department of East Carolina Teachers College under the direction of Mrs. Paul Davenport assisted by six girls from the college taking music. First Miss Sarah White Ryan whistled a number accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Eva Thompson; then Miss Ryan sang a number and whistled a chorus. Next Mrs. Davenport presented Miss Thompson in a piano solo entitled a Juba Dance composed by Nathaniel Getz, a negro musician who once taught at Hampton College. The final number was two selections by a trio composed of Aileen Sawyer, Helen Sawyer, and Mary Hoover Boyd accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Davenport herself.

Besides the musicians the only guest was Dr. Bonner. The attendance prize given by Gus Fleischman was won by Karl Pace. J. B. Kittrell, president of the club presided. Kinchen Cobb called to the attention of the club that the biggest "break" of tobacco was left on the floors after yesterday's sales in the history of the Greenville market. The announcement delighted everyone.

Lawrence, Kas. (AP)—The fossil skeleton of a frog, virtually complete, has been added to the paleontological museum at the University of Kansas. Dr. H. H. It was in a formation indicating an age of approximately five million years, Dr. Lane said. The find was made in Wallace county, Kansas.

Take School To Students In Education Experiment

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—Instead of trying to send thousands of adults to school who did not have the advantages of schooling when they were younger, the State Department of Public Instruction, with the assistance of the U. S. Department of Education in Washington and the Works Progress Administration here in the state, is going to take a school to the people in seven counties extending from Wake county eastward. It was announced today by Clyde R. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

This will be the first demonstration project of this sort in North Carolina and if successful, others will probably be established in other sections. It was intimated.

This adult education project, for which a total of $23,625 has been allotted by the State WPA, will be known as The Public Affairs Forum and will include the counties of Wake, Wilson, Johnston, Wayne, Pitt, Greene and Lenoir.

Superintendent Ray Armstrong of the Goldsboro city schools, was selected as administrator of the project at a meeting of the city and county superintendents from these seven counties here Tuesday, who will comprise the executive board directing the project. In the near future Administrator Armstrong and the board of directors will meet to select a director for the project.

The topics to be discussed have not yet been selected, but they will be topics of general interest in rural communities and may range from agriculture to religion, it was indicated. The speakers will not be school teachers or educators necessarily, but will be selected from many different walks of life. In order to provide as much variety as possible, Supt. Armstrong said.

"For instance, we will probably have one speaker who is regarded as an authority, discuss the growth and development of the farm co-operative movement in the middle west, another who will discuss the latest thought with regard to taxation, another who will deal with the religion development of the country, and so forth," Supt. Armstrong said. "The object of the forum will be to bring to the people in the rural sections the latest and most authentic information on public affairs both in this country and over the entire world, and in such a way that they will both enjoy it and benefit from it, likewise learn many new facts which will be of help to them."

Last year ten of these projects were inaugurated on an experimental basis in ten different states, Supt. Armstrong said. These proved so successful and the people who participated in them showed so much interest, that this year the program is being considerably expanded and other states added to it, including North Carolina. The belief is that this new experiment in adult education, even though somewhat sugar coated, is going to prove very popular and effective in the counties included in it.

Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Mrs. H. L. Taylor, mothers of the host and hostess, and Miss Louise Taylor served punch, nuts, candies and cakes, carrying out the Halloween colors. The young host and hostess received a number of pretty birthday gifts. Each guest was remembered with a suggestion of Halloween.

Tit for Tat
Town Club members will be excluded from the after-dinner dances at the College, the men's student council decided in a meeting last night. Guest cards, authorized by the student government, will not be issued to any members of the Town Club.

This ruling is the result of a similar move on the part of the Town Club, which excluded co-eds from its dances last year.

Grimesland P. T. A.
Grimesland, Oct. 27—The Grimesland High School Parent-Teachers Association held its second regular monthly meeting on Tuesday night, Oct. 20. As a special feature, the Greenville High School band played before the business meeting began. H. A. McDougle, director, was asked to discuss the possibilities of a high school band for Grimesland. He seemed to think there were fine possibilities of one here.

After the devotion conducted by Rev. F. E. Dixon, Miss Beddard and Miss Little read the creed and the objects of the Parent-Teachers Association, since it is the aim to become affiliated with the State and National Association. Mr. McBryde, one of the two principals of Pitt county attending the Northeastern District meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, gave a report of the meeting held in Kinston on October 13.

Two prizes were offered, one to the elementary class and one to the high school class having the largest number of parents present. Miss Forrest's room received the prize, a vase donated by the Baker-Davis Hardware of Greenville, for the elementary grade, while Miss Worthington's room won the prize, a picture of the Mona Lisa, for the High School.

The drive for equipment for the Home Economics department, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association, has been completed so that by the next meeting the department will be open to visitors, with its unit kitchens and curtains and work centers completed.

An entertainment was furnished under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Hudson. It was in the form of an amateur program consisting of solos by Misses Bernice and Beatrice Godley, accompanied by Miss Cherry and Miss Davis; a duet by Robert Boyd and A. J. Hardee; a solo by Richard Jackson accompanied by Mrs. Cecil Tucker; a tap dance by Miss Martha Rachel Fleming; an impersonation of the faculty by Harold Elks. Richard Jackson received the cash prize given for the best performance.

At the conclusion of the entertainment, punch and cake were served. The punch bowl presided over by Mrs. Lela Bell Hoell and Miss Grace Peterson, was lovely in its setting of fall colors—the refreshments carrying out the Halloween spirit.

BIG MAJORITY NOW IN SIGHT

Winborne Declares Estimates Outcome of Election

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—State Democratic Chairman J. Wallace Winborne, a careful and methodical man, has been working some political arithmetic of late preparatory to predicting the Democratic vote and majority but he is not yet ready to give the answer. The trouble is that the figures look a little too good to the Chairman and he doesn't want to climb out on a limb.

Incidentally, four years ago this same careful and methodical man took his pencil in hand to predict the majority of 1932. When the answer came out something over 250,000 he decided that was too good and put the prediction away instead of giving it to the press, thereby missing a chance to build up his reputation as a political prophet. The actual Democratic majority was 287,000—far more than anybody but Old Man Mathematics foresaw.

The other day Chairman Winborne wrote each of the 100 county chairmen asking for their forecasts of both the Democratic and Republican vote in their county. Not enough answers have been received to be the basis of a prediction but the early indications are for a record-breaking Democratic vote along with a Republican total somewhat larger than the 212,000 which Clifford Frazier got when he ran for Governor in 1932. But getting back to the Chairman's figures and those in the record book, it is a fact that the Democratic vote during Presidential and gubernatorial years is usually larger than the total number of Democrats who took part in the primary. For instance, approximately 380,000 Democrats voted in the hotly contested first primary of 1932 while approximately 497,000 voted in the general election of that year. If that sort of thing happens again, the 1936 Democratic vote will go far above the record-breaking total of 516,000 votes cast for governor in the first primary of this year. Any such Democratic vote as that would swamp the Republicans under a majority of over 300,000 for few unbiased observers believe that either William Grissom or Alf M. Landon has a chance of getting as many as 275,000 North Carolina votes.

How's Your Health—

Premature Baldness
The money and effort expended by its victims in combating the premature loss of hair must be enormous. And yet it is a definite fact that medical science knows no way of preventing what is known as premature alopecia. Furthermore, no other "science" or group of practitioners is any more competent to stop its development.

This is not to be interpreted to mean that every case of excessive loss of hair is one of premature baldness, nor that proper care of the hair, and certain forms of medical treatment may not prove effective in retarding the progress of baldness. The onset of premature baldness usually occurs at about the age of 18, and is commonly complete by 30. The hair of the crown of the head is lost and there usually remains a narrow arc of hair around the sides and back of the scalp. The condition is common to both sexes, but in women the loss of hair is even over all parts of the scalp, and is seldom complete. A hereditary factor appears to be operating in the condition, for it is common to find that the father, and possibly the collateral male members of the family, are also victims of premature baldness. It is suspected that some endocrine imbalance may contribute to the loss of hair.

Intellectual pursuits and mental overwork appear to favor the development of the condition. A true case of premature baldness to be distinguished from other conditions in which there is an excessive loss of hair does not have a favorable prognosis. And yet by good hygienic measures, and local treatment of the scalp, the of opposition by the President—assuming that the President will be Mr. Roosevelt. He could block any bill looking to relaxation of a tax law.

While the business move to amend present laws is gathering strength, some industrialists are saying "Look out for new tax laws." They base this warning on the state of the federal finances.

DEMAND: Revision of the social security act seems to be more probable than revision of the corporation tax act. Both parties and many economists agree that the act calls for improvement.

The question is whether revision of the social security act will include downward revision of the tax on payrolls and employees. No word indicating that taxes are to be reduced has come from any responsible administration source or from any leader in Congress.

Judging from experience, some onlookers predict that a public demand for revision of the social security tax will spring up when employees realize that they are taxed. This will occur after January 1st, when pay envelopes will be 1 per cent shy. It will be one of the most direct and obvious taxes yet paid by low pay workers to the government. Practically all of them are immune from income taxes.

NEW: Some observers think Mr. Roosevelt has not made up his mind, but is reserving judgment and decision on his second term plans until the people have spoken. One theory is that a big success for the New Deal in Minnesota would incline the President to take up the consumer cooperative idea strongly, though not necessarily the Farmer-Labor belief in an ultimate cooperative commonwealth directing production for use and not for profit.

A United States Chamber of Commerce committee's study of consumers' cooperatives is being widely circulated among business men. It is a cautious warning to them to get ready to oppose a "new competitive force."

The study is based upon facts elicited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, with 1933 as the latest returns. At that time there were 1800 consumers' cooperatives in the country, with about 225,000 members. Most of these operated retail stores, filling stations, etc., in rural sections.

What the committee foresees is that cooperatives may do much to obtain federal aid in the way of tax exemption, financial aid, and special charters relieving them from anti-trust laws.

DIFFICULT: Very few onlookers in Washington expect Pres. Roosevelt, if reelected, to make a direct effort to revive NRA. He dismisses the sophomoric remarks of the President's son James.

From present prospects of a general attitude in Congress, new belief in Washington is that a "must" bill reviving the NRA would encounter dynamite mines on the road and sniping activities from every committee bush. It seems out of the question to experienced observers to expect enactment of a law that has already been ruled out by the Supreme Court.

At this point speculation toys with the suggestion that the Supreme Court itself is in for revision. Changes of personnel are to be expected during the next four years. But these changes may not mean a change in the Court's opinion of NRA—for that opinion was unanimous.

DEPTHS: The average forecast by competent legal observers is that a move to revive the essence of NRA—that is, regulation of all industry by Washington—will take the form of a drive for a constitutional amendment. Eligible and plausible arguments can be and already have been advanced for extension of federal power over the nation's business.

Linked to the proposal to extend federal control over industry is the necessity for extending control over agriculture. Economists say that regulated industry and unregulated agriculture would make for anarchy—that agriculture is an industry and must be controlled if other in-

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony has conceived a strange plan to trick Ambrose Lawson and his gang, kidnapers and dope runners. He has provided himself with an enormous quantity of drugged champagne, and he plans to put everybody in Lawson's favorite night club sound asleep, including Lawson himself. He has also brought along some thugs, who are taking care of the front and back entrances of the club—and he hopes devoutly that the evening will provide a clue to the whereabouts of Ruth Fraser, who has tried to help Mahony, and got herself into trouble.

Chapter 27 LAWSON THE ugly intruder carefully bolted the club door so that nobody else could come in. Then with expert fingers he securely bound and gagged the commissioner.

Mahony and his followers made their way unsteadily to the middle of the dance floor, and placed their big bottles down with the exaggerated carefulness of drunken men. Everybody looked at them. Mahony stood up, swaying slightly, and spoke.

"Ladies 'n' gentlemen. Today's my birthday. Wan' you all to have a drink with me."

From the tables round the dance floor came a sound of laughter and cheering. The secretary of the club came forward angrily.

"I don't want your damned wine," said Lawson.

"What's the meaning of this foolery?" he demanded. "You can't bring your own drink into this club."

Mahony blinked at him. "Whatch good of shaying I can't bring my own drink into this club when you can shay I've brought it in?" he asked. "Thish feller says you can't have drink with me on my birthday. What you all say?"

They were all in favor of drinking Mahony's champagne. They said as much, loudly.

"I'm willing to pay for use of glasses," Mahony declared. "Tell waiter to bring table and pour out drink. Everybodys getting thirsty."

Rather ill-humoredly the secretary took the five-pound note and complied with Mahony's order.

"Take shome wine to the band; take shome to kitchen staff; everybody get to drink on my birthday," he ordered drunkenly.

Gradually the wine went round to all the tables; the waiters, kitchen staff, and band all had their glasses. Mahony lurched across the floor toward Lawson's table.

"Drink up, ole cocky," he said. "Don't be a spoil sport on my birthday."

"I don't want your damned wine, and I'm not going to drink it," said Lawson.

Mahony smiled. "Just as you like," he said. "There are more ways of killing a cat than by drowning it in champagne."

Lawson looked up in a startled manner and then sprang to his feet.

FOR a moment Lawson simply stared at the club, full of sleeping people, thunderstruck by what he saw. Then he uttered a lurid oath, and his hand flashed to the side pocket of his dinner-jacket. But Mahony was too quick for him; the noise of revolver fire was the one thing which he wished to avoid.

Like a panther he sprang across the table, and slap, slap, slap his fists thudded in quick succession into Lawson's face. A spurt of red came from Lawson's mouth as his lip split; he flung up one hand in feeble effort to protect himself from the smashing, relentless attack, and then Mahony's right came over the conflict between the Tennessee Valley Authority and the private utilities operating in its territory.

Our Washington column recently reported the view that permanent peace between government and private power interests is impossible. New York insiders do not quite agree, although they recognize tremendous obstacles in the way. Moreover, they figure that designation of a "neutral" group—such as the one Kennedy is supposed to head—to arbitrate TVA problems would be a logical outgrowth of current New Deal power policy.

In a nutshell, TVA-er David Lillenthal's "radicalism" no longer appears to meet with White House approval. Yet it wouldn't do to suppress Lillenthal too summarily. He is capable of retaliating vigorously—which might easily cause acute embarrassment in high administration quarters. He has to be handled—but as carefully as a Ming vase.

RESPONSIBLE: What to do? The indicated solution is to muffle Lillenthal diplomatically, through the intervention of some agency not too intimately associated with the White House.

For a time it looked as if this delicate chore would fall to the lot of the Federal Power Commission. Informed New Yorkers figure that was why this agency was chosen to head up the discussions about the proposed power pool in the Tennessee Valley area. There were intimations that the Power Commission's authority would be broadened to make it the dominant federal body in utility affairs.

But now the grapevine has it that even the Power Commission is too closely identified with the administration for the purpose. In that case the only possible alternative in sight would be appointment of a brand new body which could be advertised as free from prejudice either way and allotted the specific task of settling TVA controversies as gracefully as possible.

The essential point is that, from the viewpoint of the public, such a commission would be responsible, rather than the administration itself, for any action which might draw down widespread criticism from either right or left.

PEACE ACTION

The 278 mass meetings of the Emergency Peace Campaign held last Spring were in metropolitan centers of every state in the union except one. The goal to be reached this fall is 500 cities—Greenville being one of them—with 1,000 other cities and towns to be reached this coming winter, "not farces, but feasible goals," as Fred Atkins Moore, former head of the Adult Education Council of Chicago has said. There are 200 prominent American men and women leaders in religious, social and international thought, who are giving their services as speakers in the campaign. The North Carolinian who will speak at Greenville's mass meeting this week is included in this group.

Sidelights of some of the meetings held during the spring phase of the campaign including the following: In Minneapolis, the Mayor proclaimed the day of its mass meeting as a half holiday. In Boston, the recently-deceased Admiral W. S. Sims, who was in charge of America's European fleet during the world war, shared speaker's honors with Dr. Chas. G. Fenwick, president of the Catholic Association for International Peace. In Indianapolis a great all-day session was held, with Governor Paul McCurtain welcoming the speakers. In Duluth the great peace demonstration staged there was composed of most of the civic and educational organizations of the city. In Seattle, 5,000 attended the Gerald Nye rally, the last of a series of rallies, with a pageant planned to be presented by 5,000 boys and girls in the great University of Washington stadium. In Chicago Orchestra Hall was filled to overflowing. "A strange sight it was there," according to a correspondent writing in The Christian Century, "to see and hear a Jewish rabbi—Isserman of St. Louis—who was sharing speaking honors with the great Christian layman and labor leader of England, George Lansbury, who after describing his own training in the use of the bayonet, with its thrust and twist intended to disembowel an opponent, calling upon Christians to renounce that sort of thing unless they could conceive of Jesus of Nazareth engaging in it." In Los Angeles Kathleen Norris, celebrated novelist, opened the fall campaign in that section, speaking to 3,500 people in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church after a street peace parade had drawn a crowd estimated at 1,000,000.

It was stated in a previous article in this column, the campaign in this country is to run for two years during the present world unrest in an attempt by means of such community mass meetings to focus nationwide attention on peace measures and techniques. At the end of the two year period, leaders of this emergency movement will then determine its future policies.

Attention Everybody

This Week-end The John Flanagan Buggy Company will inaugurate a new and novel method of Used Car Disposal—the like of which has never been seen in this section of the State—

This sale will offer prospective owners of a good Used Car their first and probably their last opportunity to buy an automobile at whatever they want to pay for it.

75 Good Used Cars will be sold to the highest bidder regardless of price. We have to get rid of these cars in order to facilitate the sale of our 1937 Models—and for that reason only.

Make it a point to attend at least one of the Auction Sales at our Used Car Lot on Dickinson Avenue.
