REBEL TROOPS ON DEFENSIVE IN CIVIL WAR

Loyal Forces Reinforced by New Airplanes and Tanks

CASUALTIES HIGH AMONG FASCISTS

Report in Paris Say Madrid Government Has Mobilized Secret Army

(By Associated Press)
Government forces, reinforced with new warplanes and modern tanks, battled today to drive the fascist line back from Madrid.

Fresh men were rushed to the front ranks as the second day of one of the war's bloodiest battles opened with the Madrid army shelling Torrejon de Velasco preparatory to a renewed charge.

The counter offensive, which turned the socialists into aggressors after a steadily receding defense, started suddenly yesterday with the capture of three towns.

General Francisco Franco's insurgent forces, which government reports said lost heavily in the battle, shifted their front to repulse the fierce government drive. A communique issued by General Jose Varela's fascist headquarters reports from Lisbon said, claimed insurgent troops had captured many prisoners including 300 Russian soldiers in fighting yesterday in the southern front.

The war ministry posted bulletins in Madrid asserting government air squadrons had scored heavily on fascist bases.

Reports in Paris said Madrid government had mobilized a secret army supported by tanks and aircraft in southern Spain in which to strike General Franco's unguarded rear.

Norfolk Fugitives Held Under Bonds On Robbery Count

Four Former Convicts Unable to Give Bail of $5,000 Each and Kept in Jail at Lumberton

Lumberton, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Four fugitives from the Norfolk, Va., jail were bound over to Superior court in $5,000 bond each today on charges of robbing the Western Union Telegraph company office here of $613 in a hold-up last Monday. The four, listed as Paul Edwards, Clifford Hollowell, C. E. Smith and Arnold Scott, went to jail in default of bond.

Mrs. William Parmele, operator of the Western Union office, identified Hollowell, Smith and Scott at the hearing held by Recorder John G. Proctor.

Edwards was identified by policeman J. S. Lassiter as the driver who sat at the wheel of the automobile while his accomplices robbed the office at the point of a gun.

Hollowell was the only defendant to testify. Taking "the stand" he repudiated a confession attributed him by police chief V. B. McCall, who said he admitted participating in the robbery.

FORTUNE SWEEPSTAKES TICKETS

William J. Schreiber (upper left) of Syracuse, N. Y., had a $150,000 fortune dumped into his lap by virtue of holding a ticket on Dan Bulger, winner in the Irish sweepstakes. Another holder of a $150,000 ticket was Frank Kranefuss of Quincy, Mass., who is shown (upper right) receiving congratulations from his boss, J. R. Stull. Kranefuss looks on wistfully for he sold Kranefuss the ticket for a small amount. Jimmy Short (lower left), 16-year-old school boy of Portage, Pa., also won $150,000 and will use part of the money to pay back taxes on his mother's home. Not many people feel like taking chances at 87 years of age. But Mrs. Bridget Morgan of Niagara Falls, N. Y., did—and here we see her (lower right) making merry over the $8,200 she won on Pegamos, one of the "also ran" horses. (Associated Press Photos)

Presidential Candidates Bid For Populous Areas

BOTH PARTIES LAYING CLAIM

Both Democrats and Republicans Predict Victory

Raleigh, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Conflicting claims of political victory began to simmer down to definite forecasts of figures today as North Carolina Republicans and Democrats worked hard with only three more days remaining for campaigning.

Gilliam Grissom, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, said he was confident he would be elected by a majority of upwards of 25,000.

Wallace Winborne, state Democratic chairman, said he was not ready yet to make a final forecast, but already had enough information in hand from the 100 counties to forecast a party majority in the state of 285,000.

Tuesday the 1,877 polling places in North Carolina will open at sunrise, which will be 6:39 o'clock in Raleigh, and will close at sunset, which will be 5:16 here. The opening and closing time varies by about 30 minutes from the east to the west in the state.

Every properly qualified and registered voter in the state may cast his or her choice for national, state, county and township officers and vote for or against five proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Reynolds Family Aids the Democratic Fund

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—One single North Carolina city—Winston-Salem—sent one of its prominent residents, Gordon Gray, to national Democratic headquarters here with funds in excess of the entire state quota for the victory fund.

The gift of $44,100 was made by 15 of the tobacco town's citizens, with $20,000 having been contributed by two members of the Reynolds family.

Mr. Gray is the son of the late Bowman Gray, former president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company. He is financial director of the Forsyth Democratic committee. The smallest amount listed in the Winston-Salem fund was $100.

Roosevelt to Speak in Madison Square Garden Tonight

(By Associated Press)

On a wave of emotion and argumentation rarely equalled, the long campaign of 1936 entered its final phase today.

Both bidding for the votes of the populous east, President Roosevelt and Governor Alf M. Landon spoke last night to madly cheering throngs. The former appealed to the sayings of Abraham Lincoln to show the New Deal is right and the latter challenged the President "to tell us where you stand" on such questions as NRA, AAA and executive powers.

Leaving Washington late today, Mr. Roosevelt planned to speak tonight in Brooklyn and tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, his last major utterance of the campaign.

Late yesterday he received from a crowd at Wilmington, Del., a reception he called "marvelous." Abraham Lincoln, he told the Delaware citizens, once said that when the shepherd drives the wolf from the sheep's throat the sheep thanks the shepherd as a liberator while the wolf denounces him as a destroyer of liberty.

Mr. Roosevelt said the great emancipator believed in the kind of liberty which "our administration has sought and continues to seek."

Among the challenges Landon hurled at the President in his address at Madison Square Garden last night was this:

"Does he favor reviving the principles of the national recovery act or does he favor the American system of free initiative?"

He also asked whether Mr. Roosevelt favored "concentrating more and more power in the hands of the Chief Executive" and demanded: "Tell us where you stand Mr. President."

TESTING: Democratic hopes of Roosevelt's victory are tempered by the almost certain increase of anti-New Deal strength in the House of Representatives. This may change the whole picture of relations between the White House and Congress.

Assuming Roosevelt's reelection, with a new spirit of independent in Congress, the next four years as impartial observers see them will witness royal battles over new proposals that are believed to have been elaborated by the inner council.

Reports from the South point all one way—to stiffer resistance by Democrats to departures from Jeffersonian Democracy. This feeling pervades Senate Democrats Senate as well as the House may try the mettle of Roosevelt's steel.

DOCK WORKERS DESERT POSTS ALONG PACIFIC

General Maritime Strike Cripples Ocean Shipping

CONTINUE SEEK NEW AGREEMENT

An Estimated 37,000 Ship and Dock Laborers Ordered Off Jobs Last Midnight

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A complete tie-up of shipping paralyzed waterfront commerce along the Pacific coast today with the walk-out of 37,000 maritime workers and secretary of labor Francis Perkins immediately interceded in an attempt to bring ship owners and workers together for negotiation.

Miss Perkins telephoned from Buffalo several times, possibly to assistant secretary of labor Edward E. McGrady, and then declared she was confident "the strike involved nothing that can not be arranged by adjustment and negotiation."

The general strike threatened to spread to east coast and Gulf ports, although a New York "sit down" strike failed to materialize and New Orleans longshoremen still were handling cargoes.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A general maritime strike crippled Pacific coast shipping today, quickly spread to other industries and brought repercussions in Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Thirty-seven thousand ship and dock workers were ordered off their jobs at midnight after failure of efforts to set up new working agreements between ship owners and seamen, deserted unions.

From Seattle to San Diego men began dropping work and picketing the wharves. Their number will be swelled steadily as ships return to the coast from the Orient, Alaska and South America.

Greenville Shows Much Interest In Meeting On Peace

John Barclay of Wilson to Deliver Address in High School Auditorium Tonight at 8 o'clock

The interest of Greenville citizens tonight is being turned to the mass meeting scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, the speaker, John Barclay of Wilson, presenting the message and need of the Emergency Peace Campaign during a time which bears many earmarks of pre-war days.

The local meeting is one of 500 scheduled for this fall throughout the country — to share in an emergency campaign to create public opinion which will keep the United States out of war and enable America to lead in building a peaceful world. The 278 metropolitan centers which were contacted through such mass meetings last spring, in the opening phase of the EPC's two year campaign, revealed enthusiastic and leading ministers and rabbis, college and school officials, presidents of women's and business men's clubs, labor union heads, American Legion posts and many other groups in American life responding effectively.

Tonight's meeting should be no exception—if interest displayed locally up to now is any criterion. Dr. G. R. Combs, president of the local Ministerial Association and chairman of the program committee for the local peace council, will introduce the speaker.

The money was not missed immediately and the man who stole it got up and climbed back in the warehouse door and asked his victim to hand him a basket he had when he jumped or fell onto him.

The pocketbook was missed, however, by the time the man made his disappearance, but a search for him proved futile.

Police officials were notified, but no description was available, about the only information being that the man was white.

Officers said there was no doubt the man who leaped on the farmer was the one who got the money as he had not been but a short distance when the money was taken. Mr. Pinkham said when the man fell from the door he thought he was crazy or drunk and did not suspect any foul play.

A number of the farmer's friends were standing nearby, but they did not expect any foul play was being perpetrated and casually watched the incident.

ROOSEVELT 'UNDER' LANDON BANNER

By an incidental twist of fate, President Roosevelt found himself "under" the Landon banner when the two rivals for the presidency visited New York simultaneously. ALL RECORDS BROKEN IN ATLANTIC CROSSING

Croydon, Eng., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Shattering all speed records for an eastward crossing of the Atlantic, Captain James A. Molison landed here today only 13 hours and 17 minutes after hopping off from wintry Newfoundland.

Roaring across the stormy Atlantic in his Bellanca monoplane, the lone pilot averaged approximately 160 miles an hour to reach his goal at 9:57 a. m. (4:57 a. m. eastern standard time).

It was the first time a flight with Landon as the eastern goal had been successfully completed without a forced landing en route.

Counting the six hours and 41 minutes he took to reach Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, from New York he had made the entire flight in 19 hours and 58 minutes.

Not content with this feat, he said he planned to rest only a few days before flying on in an attempt to break the record to Capetown, South Africa.

The English flyer took off from Harbor Grace at 3:40 p. m., Eastern standard time, yesterday on his fourth flight across the Atlantic.

FARMER LOSES $430 IN RUSE

Receipts From Tobacco Stolen From Beaufort Man

Police officers had little to work on in their search for a man who robbed J. E. Pinkham, 74-year-old farmer of near Washington, of what he estimated at $430.

The farmer had just sold some tobacco and cashed several checks made out to him, his son and tenants and was on his way to his car where he had agreed to meet others in his group to return home. A man apparently fell from a warehouse door onto him, knocked him down and in the scramble apparently took the pocketbook from his pocket. In addition to the money, a number of papers and keys were in the pocketbook, which was in the farmer's pants pocket.

The money was not missed immediately and the man who stole it got up and climbed back in the warehouse door and asked his victim to hand him a basket he had when he jumped or fell onto him.

The pocketbook was missed, however, by the time the man made his disappearance, but a search for him proved futile.

FARMERS PAID $9,118,587.11

Figures for This Year Compare Favorably With 1935

Offerings sold on the Greenville tobacco market so far this year, through yesterday's auctions total 37,647,896 pounds and brought $9,118,587.11 for an official average of $24.22 per hundred pounds.

These figures compare favorably with those of last year in regard to the average and money paid out, but the crop this year is much smaller and more than six and one-half million pounds had been sold in the 1935 season up to this date that has been sold this year.

Up to this date last year 44,226,464 pounds had been sold for $2,304,204.53, for an average of $21.04. With the big difference in poundage, only $185,617.43 more had been paid out last year than has been paid this year, accentuating the marked increase in prices.

During the week which ended yesterday 4,708,894 pounds were sold for $1,253,399.40 compared with 5,354,680 pounds for $1,305,804.04, an average of $24.39 for the corresponding week last year.

Yesterday's offerings continued to bring good prices. $16,284 pounds having been sold for $212,192.24, an average of $26.

Tobacco Check Stolen From Room of Owner

Police were faced with the task today of identifying and locating the person who entered the room of J. R. Thomas on Pitt street and stole a $107.80 check received from the sale of tobacco at a local warehouse.

The check was taken to Young's mercantile store and proffered in payment for some articles purchased. It was accepted and the balance given in cash, but Chief George Clark said employees of the store who handled the check and sold the goods were unable to identify the man who offered it.

Although at work on the case, officials said they were without information upon which to base their investigation.

LIQUOR SET-UP NOW IN EFFECT DECLARED BEST

Hotel Manager Says Conditions Better Under Plan

TESTIFIES AT FINAL SITTING

County Boards Now Serving Said to Be Beneficial in Controlling Situation

Asheville, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Richard Tufts, president of Pigeon Forge, Inc., told the North Carolina liquor investigating commission today that the Pasquotank act under which two stores operate in Moore county had resulted in decreased liquor consumption in Pinehurst.

He was testifying at the last public hearing of the commission on prohibition and various control proposals.

Tufts told the investigators the Pasquotank act, with a few modifications, would be practical if applied to the entire state.

He said the act as applied in Moore county, had been particularly beneficial, controlling the liquor situation in hotels and that this also was true in Wilson county.

Asked how he reached the conclusion, Tufts said it was based on experience with conditions in hotel rooms. His company operates a hotel at Pinehurst.

O. W. Donnell, of Greensboro, president of the North Carolina division of the Southern Hotel Men's association, told the commission that hotel men favor country control systems and that he believed his group preferred the Pasquotank and New Hanover store plans to plan for other districts.

Fair To Continue Through Saturday With Full Program

Winners of Premiums To Be Paid in Cash by Fair Association Before Exposition Closes

With only tonight, tomorrow and tomorrow night remaining of the Pitt county fair, large crowds were expected to turn out at the final performances of the American Legion-sponsored exposition.

Large crowds were on hand yesterday and last night. The public wedding which followed the regular free attractions on the stage was well attended.

Winners of premiums will be paid off in cash even before the fair is officially closed. All winners will be able to receive their cash prizes tomorrow.

The Kaus United shows continue to do a good business with their many rides, concessions and shows. It is the most complete carnival ever to show here.

The agricultural exhibits at the 1936 exposition are the best ever displayed here, farmers and farm women having taken a keen interest in the fair.

The regular program will be held tomorrow and everything will remain open for what is expected to be one of the best days of the fair.

Irak Army Chases Government Heads From Capital Post

City Bombed and Machine-Gunned in Defiance to King Ghazi, Reports at Jerusalem Declare

Jerusalem, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Irak army, in defiance to King Ghazi, bombed and machine-gunned the capital, chased the cabinet out of office and took control of the city, reports reaching here said today.

Despite a threatening show of force, the military coup was bloodless, advisers—some of which were army-assorted.

Army leaders were declared to have used dissatisfaction over the national budget as a pretext to spring a plot which had been under consideration for a long time.

Some reports said unrest against the government—noted principally in Central and Southern Irak—were directed against Premier Yasin, Michael Hashimi.

This unrest was believed combined with the long smouldering Pan-Arabian movement, which has as its objective an Arabian kingdom carved out of the race of the Near East.

The reports from Irak conflicted as to the identity of the coup leaders.

PRISON PLANS LIVE AT HOME

More Food to be Produced on Various Farm Camps

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 30.—The "live at home" plan is going to be expanded still further by the prison division this coming year so that a still greater portion of the food needed to feed the nearly 9,000 prisoners now in the prison system will be grown on the various state prison farms. Oscar T. Pitts, head of the prison department said today. Ever since former Governor O. Max Gardner launched his state-wide "live at home" program in 1929, an increasing amount of food has been produced for the prison division on the various prison farms. Yet the production of food and vegetables on these farms is still far short of the actual needs of the prisoners, Pitts said.

"During the past spring and summer, we canned 86,383 gallons of vegetables of various sorts in our canning factory at Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax county," Pitts said. "Of this amount, 45,233 gallons are of canned tomatoes and 41,097 gallons of other vegetables, such as beans, peas, corn, carrots and mixtures of these vegetables to be used in making soup. Yet these 86,283 gallons of canned vegetables represent only about half of the amount

How's Your Health—

Children's Play: I
It is tempting to compare the play activities of young animals with those of children. The kitten toying with the spool of thread or chasing the wind-blown leaf, the puppy growling like a grown dog and mauling its litter mates, appear to us to be preparing for their adult activities. In a similar sense we have been taught to look upon the child's play activities as of a preparatory nature.

Play has been defined as the serious business of the child's life. Some have even gone so far as to forecast the aptitudes and occupational predilections of the child on the basis of its play preferences. To a degree, the analogies drawn between the play activities of animals and children are sound. But the parallel must not be extended too far, for the life of animals is governed by instinctive drives the expression of which remains largely unhampered by those very civilizing restraints that distinguish human behavior.

The younger the child the closer its behavior is to that of the animal. As soon as the child is able to manipulate objects it begins to accumulate sense experiences. The young child is avid for "contacts." It reaches for everything within and without range. It used in the course of a year. We are now checking with the division of purchase and contract and indications are that the prison uses about 150,000 gallons of canned vegetables a year, in addition to the fresh vegetables raised and used during the spring, summer and fall.

"Nor do we produce anything like the meat we use, especially pork, although we have more than 1,100 hogs at Caledonia this fall and will use from 600 to 700 of these this winter. But having no cold storage plant in which we can store our own meat, we can use our own hogs only in cold weather. We grind a large part of the flour and corn meal we use in our own mill at Caledonia, from wheat and corn grown there, but by no means all of it."

The prison division is now fattening 122 steers at Caledonia, but will sell these to packers and use the proceeds from the sale to buy less expensive meat for the prison, Pitts said, pointing out that the could sell these steers at $10 a hundred and buy dressed meat for the prison at $6 to $7 per hundred.

also indiscriminately seeks to taste things. At this stage it gathers in the elements of sense knowledge, of hardness and softness, of lightness and heaviness, of sharpness, dullness and so on. It is desirable to make available to the child at this stage of development a variety of odds and ends with which it can toy. And every household offers a wealth of such play materials. Pieces of cloth, small wooden boxes, smooth-edged tin cans, wooden spoons, large corks, round rubber balls, heavy rope and a score of similar objects will provide the young child with endless amusement and instruction.

In gathering such a collection of toys, one must be cautious against the hazards which unsuitable objects should not be given the child, nor should its toys include any small beads or other things which it might place in its mouth. If any of its toys are paint covered, make certain that the paint does not contain lead. If uncertain, remove the paint.

Talks To Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

Relaxation

To relax and do nothing gracefully is an important accomplishment, and one too often overlooked. Parents are so full of the idea that "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do" that they cannot bear to see a child doing nothing. If Mrs. Brown finds Sam sitting in the hammock or on the front steps peaceful and contented, just thinking, she at once hustles him off to mow the lawn or at least to read a book. A baby knows how to relax. After a period of active exercise he will lie still or take a cat nap. Nature looks after him and sees to it that he has time to restore tired nerves and muscles.

Parents are very apt to forget the need for relaxation. Recreation they know about. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." But recreation is in itself a kind of work—pleasant, it is true, but requiring active brains or muscles or both. Relaxation is different. The body is completely at rest, every nerve and muscle limp, while the brain is working along idly and uncontrolled. Not everyone can attain this relaxed condition, chiefly because in childhood he was never taught how, or given a chance to practice it.

Much of the tenseness of modern life, the senseless rushing about to no end, the neurotic thoughts and behavior, could be overcome by a little more conscious relaxation on the part of mankind. But there is little chance of achieving this relaxation so long as the children are relentlessly driven to feverish activity except when they are asleep.

All idleness is not a sign of laziness. If a child occasionally sits still and just do nothing, he should be permitted, even encouraged, to do so. It is a faculty which later on will stand him in good stead.

BLACK-DRAUGHT For Clean System Helps To Prevent Sickness

One of the advantages of Black-Draught is that, if it is taken at the first disagreeable feeling of constipation, one or two doses usually bring relief. Prompt relief, such as that, is well worth while. Constipation is too dangerous to be neglected.

"A clean system for health" plan has saved thousands of people much useless sickness. They keep a package of Black-Draught in the family medicine cabinet and take this purely vegetable laxative at the first sign of constipation. They say the relief it brings is mighty hard to beat.

Find out, by trying it, why so many people prefer Black-Draught when it comes to buying a laxative. —(Adv.)

FRIDAY
8:00 P. M.—Emergency Peace campaign mass meeting, High School auditorium. Dr. John Barclay, speaker.

Meeting of the Round Table

The fourth meeting of the Round Table was held with Mrs. J. W. Higgs on Tuesday afternoon. Autumn flowers were used throughout the home—lovely yellow dahlias and chrysanthemums.

During the short business meeting Mrs. Winslow stated that a membership drive is now being made by the N. C. Art Society and she solicited the cooperation of the club members. Mrs. Everett urged attendance at a mass meeting which will be held in the High School auditorium on Friday night when Dr. John Barclay will speak on the Emergency Peace Campaign.

The paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Guy Smith. The title was "Paper Making." She introduced her subject by commenting on the methods of recording history. Then followed a detailed and scientific description of how paper is made today from rags, grass and wood and the many intricate processes that are involved and a discussion of the many uses of paper in our daily lives, and hence, its great importance.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Smith's paper, tempting refreshments consisting of a salad course, tea and cake, were served by the hostess and her daughters, Mrs. Helene Kirkpatrick and Mrs. H. H. Duncan.

Christian Homes to be Emphasized
Beginning Sunday, November 1, at ten A. M., the Eighth Street Christian church is offering to its members and to all others who may be interested, a course on "Achieving a Christian Home." The preservation and cultivation of high ideals for family life are necessary to save society. Upon Greenville's homes will depend the type of social life, business ethics, racial understanding and international outlook found here. In a word—Our Homes Will Determine Our Community.

Eighth Street Christian church believes this course on Christian Family Life is perhaps its best contribution as a Christian organization to community life. There will be four sessions on the first four Sundays in November at the hour stated above. The teacher is Mrs. J. H. Rose of the Methodist church, who will bring to her work both discourse and the teacher should make thinking parents and others interested in the subject want to attend. Are you interested in "Achieving a Christian Home?" If so, be one of this group on Sunday morning.

At The College

A dress dinner, an hour and a half of after-dinner dancing, initiation ceremonies of the Poe society, and a pep rally in preparation for the William and Mary game Saturday were the high spots of yesterday's student activity program at the college.

After dinner the students assembled in the Robert H. Wright auditorium for the prolonged period of dancing which they enjoyed on Thursday evening.

Bill Tolson and "Poky" Johnson, head cheer leaders, all broke up the dance when they rushed into the auditorium with the initiates of the Poe society, who were dressed in evening dresses and aprons, and were carrying umbrellas. Tolson and Johnson took the steps to lead the most rousing pep meeting in the history of the college. The students sang and cheered at the top of their voices and loudly applauded talks by Doctor Haynes and Mr. Deal. They gave each member of the football team a noisy sendoff.

Pep Meeting Tonight
The students and faculty of the college will assemble tonight at 7:30 behind the Robert H. Wright auditorium for a bonfire and pep rally for the William and Mary game tomorrow.

Dr. McGinnis Returns
Dr. and Mrs. Howard J. McGinnis returned Wednesday from a ten day vacation in Virginia and West Virginia, where they visited friends and relatives. They attended the homecoming celebration at Doctor McGinnis' Alma Mater, the State Teachers College in Greenville, West Virginia.

Doctor McGinnis said that they found the fall far more advanced in the mountains than here, and that the autumn colors were brilliant. At the higher altitudes, winter had already arrived and icicles hung from the rocks.

Doctor McGinnis usually remains on the job during the summer when the other faculty members are taking their vacation, and takes his holiday after the college is well under way in the fall.

The college took precedence over the Woman's College of U. N. C. in a featured article in the News and Observer this morning. Along with Peace and Meredith, the two Raleigh girls' schools, E. C. T. C. and W. C. U. M. were the other two colleges mentioned in the lead paragraph of the article. E. C. T. C. was listed before W. C. U. N. C.

 preme Court. Therefore Mr. Roosevelt will save time by asking the country to give him the constitutional power he seeks.
 Politicians think that strong endorsement of the New Deal next week would be Mr. Roosevelt's justification for believing that the country would approve of a constitutional amendment.

INTEGRATED: Many attempts have been made to draft a constitutional amendment covering the idea of transferring jurisdiction over industry and agriculture from the states to the United States. No one, so far as can be ascertained in Washington, has ever succeeded in making a satisfactory draft (Let the reader try his hand).
 Such an amendment would have to take into account a multitude of considerations, such as state jurisdiction over public health, order, education and morals. All of these are involved in the conduct of business.

It is insisted by many others besides New Deal insiders, however, that a satisfactory amendment can be drawn. They believe that the people are ready to concede that the nation's business (manufactures, mining, transportation and agriculture) is already integrated and operating regardless of state lines.
TAXATION: Senator O'Mahoney and some other Democrats think a way out is offered by federal incorporation of business concerns. Through a license system they believe that federal regulation can be made effective within constitutional limitations. But they do not indicate how farmers could be placed under a federal incorporation and license system.
 The point is made by skeptics of the federal incorporation plan that agriculture must be regulated by the government if industry is to be regulated—that agriculture, through processing, modern packing and cooperative marketing and otherwise, is a highly organized industry.
QUESTIONS OF TAXATION pop up when it is proposed to transfer corporations to federal control. The states take gifts from Uncle Sam readily enough but they are not so eager to shower him with gifts. Moreover, they are jealous of their jurisdiction over public schools—and this calls for local tax revenue.
COMPLEX: Complications in the social security act will press for solution early in the year, whether Roosevelt or Landon takes the oath on January 20. Old age benefits will become effective from January 1, to be granted in lump sum to employees reaching the age of 65 before 1942, when the benefits will be paid on a monthly basis.
 The Social Security Board is struggling with the task of dealing with the first flood of registrations, which will finally amount, it is estimated, to 26,000,000 individuals. About 1,000,000 blank forms are going out to begin registration as of November 15. Presumably these are intended to cover cases of employees entitled to lump-sum old age benefits after January 1. These lump sums amount to only a few cents in most cases.
 The Board has not made public its plan of reaching the employees affected, except to state that postmasters will assist. Apparently employers will be called upon to collect application blanks from their employees and deliver them to postmasters.

NEW YORK
 By JAMES McMULLIN
BANNER: This column, recently reported that Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under Woodrow Wilson, is not going to take a public position either way in the presidential campaign.
 High New York circles regard Mr. Baker as the logical person around whom to rally a post-election party to reconstruct the Democratic party along its traditional pro-Roosevelt lines.
 It is hoped that Mr. Baker's refusal either to waltz out on his party or to endorse the New Deal will be an asset in the role for which he is being cast. This does not necessarily imply that he is rated a future candidate for the presidency. It is rather because of setting up a banner to pull disorganized forces together preparatory to re-forming battle lines.
QUIXOTIC? This move will be undertaken no matter how the election comes out. If Landon wins, the repudiation of Roosevelt will of course speed up the work of reconstruction.
 If Roosevelt wins, the object will be to salvage what's left of the conservative or "true" Democratic party as a political entity and preserve it from being either handed over permanently to a left-wing coalition or swallowed by the G. O. P.
 New York realists call the project of reviving the old-line Democratic party as a major political factor

The Wrong Murderer
 By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Kennedy suspects Terence Mahony of knowing more about the Little murder than he should, and he also suspects Ruth Fraser of guilty knowledge. But he is agreeing with Terence that Terence and Ruth may have two hours start of the police, for Mahony has a plan to catch the man he knows did the murder—Ambrose Lawson. And although Lawson is ostensibly a most upright gentleman, even Kennedy is curious about certain things he does.

Chapter 40
LAWSON CALLS
 "All right," Kennedy said briskly. "I'll give you a couple of hours' start after you leave this office. Then if you're arrested, that will be your look-out. You'll simply be charged and brought up for trial in the ordinary way; any evidence that I shall give will necessarily be against you. Does that suit you?"
 "That suits me," answered Mahony.
 "I see your idea all right," went on the inspector. "But I'm not certain that it's a good one. Obviously, with a hue and cry out after you, you hope to lull Lawson into a false sense of security. Well, suppose he does feel secure, and just sits tight and does nothing. What then?"

"If you're arrested, that'll be your look-out."
 "That might be a bit awkward," admitted Mahony. "But I have an idea that he won't sit tight and do nothing. I don't think he's at all anxious that Miss Fraser and I should be arrested; he has an uneasy suspicion that we know a bit too much."
 "Perhaps you're right," agreed the inspector. "I'll take a chance on it, anyway. I'll do more than that. If you like to ring me up here every morning at ten, I'll give you a hint or two what's happening. But this is all quite unofficial, mind. If you're arrested, you'll have to look out for yourselves."

HE PAUSED. His opening had taken them by surprise. Before they had recovered he went on. "Before we go any further, I want you to understand this: I'm your boss. If I fail, you all fail. I'll tell you why. You all know my name, but you know practically nothing about me. On the other hand, I've got written evidence that would send half of you to prison for at least seven years, and would hang the other half of you. If anything happens to me, or if my organization breaks up, the police will get that evidence.
 "This news may be a shock to some of you, but Carford will know that it's true. He's seen the evidence. Ask him."
 He made a gesture towards one of the men; the man nodded.
 "He's got it all in a big book," he said. "I've seen it."
 Lawson smiled. He enjoyed the effect which his announcement had created.
 "I've told you that just to show you that, so far as you're concerned, there's no question of any of you getting out from under. Now I'll tell you something else. The man who has been causing most of the trouble is Terence Mahony. He's on the run now; the police are after him for murder.
 "The circumstances, if anything happens to him, if he gets his coat cut or is found with a knife between his ribs, there aren't likely to be many awkward enquiries. I tell you plainly, I don't want the police to get Mahony."
 There was a murmur of voices round the table. But one voice was raised slightly above the rest.
 "That sound all right," it said.
 "But how are we to get hold of this fellow Mahony? He won't be walking about advertising himself."
 (Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevely)

workers—thereby increasing productive capacity from 15 to 20 per cent.
 Few companies increased working hours directly when the NRA was knocked out by the Supreme Court. Instead a policy was instituted in many cases of simply not making replacements when vacancies occurred in the personnel. Thus the same amount of work was gradually distributed among fewer employees who picked up more and more of a load as recovery progressed. This process has now reached the point where it would be uneconomic to carry it further.
 Astute New York observers still contend that the only way in which vinced that Mahony was a murderer made him take a far more optimistic view of the situation.

 His appointment was in an upper room in a house in Bayswater, and the people he had to meet were half a dozen men who had been working for him for the last year. Now they all knew that, so far, he had been worsted in his fight with Mahony. As the result his authority over them had weakened. It was his intention to reassert his authority and ginger them up a bit.
 They were sitting waiting for him: six hard, crafty specimens of humanity. They were weighing him up, prepared to turn on him as a pack of wolves will turn on its leader when he gets old and his strength falls him.
 Lawson was fully aware of their attitude, and had his own plans for dealing with them. He entered the room nonchalantly, glanced with a cool, haughty indifference round the circle of faces turned towards him, and took his place casually in a seat at the head of the table round which the men were sitting. His manner when he spoke was cold, precise, and dignified.
 "I want to talk to you men," he said. "I've called you here because you're all important members of my organization, and I want to tell you unemployment can be reduced to manageable proportions and lifted permanently off the taxpayer's neck is by shortening the hours in the work week. Insiders predict that many industrial concerns which resisted the imposition of shorter hours by NRA will adjust to them voluntarily in 1937 as a matter of enlightened self-interest.

TEACHERS: A great many educators from grade school to university who belong to teachers' organizations are doing what they can to defeat Governor Landon.
 Liberals in this field rest their case on the plight of the Kansas schools. Governor Landon's response that this is not the state's business and therefore not the state government's fault is cited as evidence that their charges are well founded. They claim that if he were really interested in education he would have done something about increasing state aid instead of simply ignoring the problem.
 These same leaders are not too enthusiastic about President Roosevelt's attitude towards education, but they do feel that he offers a better chance of achieving a program that would put the nation's schools on a sounder financial footing. It has never been proved that teachers exert any influence on politics, and they may not this time. But plenty of them have been telling their story to all the parents they can reach and hope they have won over enough converts to count in states where the vote is close.

GRIEVANCE: New York insiders get word of a serious rift in the Massachusetts Democratic lute.
 Jim Curley—candidate for the Senate and perennial storm center of Bay State politics—is reported to be terribly, terribly hurt because FDR did not mention his name in his Massachusetts speeches.
 This grievance is said to be shared by the Massachusetts Democratic organization in general. They can't see much point in breaking their necks to elect a man who has let them down.

SHORTHAND: David Low—outstanding British cartoonist who has just been visiting New York and Washington—tells friends that the strongest impression he received here was the extent to which people carry on conversations by an interchange of verbal counters whereby a short phrase does duty for a full-length sentence. He comments that we seem—through use of an accepted vocabulary of clichés—to have adopted a shorthand form of speech.

GRID CONTESTS IN SPOTLIGHT

Football Expected to Call Halt in Hot Campaign

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 30.—Football is expected to block politics almost completely out of the picture in North Carolina Saturday, despite the fact that the election will be only three days distant as State College and Carolina clash in Kenan stadium in Chapel Hill in what promises to be one of the closest and hardest fought games between these two rival teams of consolidated branches of the University of North Carolina in several years.

There is more talk about the State-Carolina game in political circles here today than about politics and political leaders are much more in doubt about the outcome of this game than they are about the outcome of the Roosevelt-Landon contest next Tuesday.

This is also true in State Democratic Headquarters here and State Chairman J. Wallace Winborne and his assistants are expected to close up shop well before noon so they can get to Chapel Hill for the football game, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, who has been campaigning for the National Democratic Committee for the past two weeks in Ohio and Pennsylvania, is also expected to be back here tonight long enough to get a few hours sleep before taking off for the football game tomorrow afternoon. The Governor is now regarded as being the state's Number One football fan, especially when Carolina is playing.

The belief in most circles here is that the game tomorrow between State and Carolina is going to be extremely close and also spectacular, due both to the long-time rivalry between the two teams and in situations and because both the Carolina alumni and students are inclined to regard State as being inferior in brains, brawn, breeding and football ability. Realizing this and still stinging from the early season defeats, the State team is expected to go to Chapel Hill tomorrow determined to turn the laugh on Carolina and to do something to deflate Carolina's football superiority complex. State alumni and students have high hopes of defeating Carolina.

Reports from Chapel Hill, however, are to the effect that the Carolina team is expecting a stiff tussle but is ready for the fray and that it is going to give the Wolf-pack a real fight.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—This is as good a time as any for me to order myself a large dish of Crow Pie—and I'm going to eat it right out in public.

About this time last fall I donned the Swami robes, gazed into a crystal, and came up with a series of 40 predictions of which none to date have come true. Which puts me on a level with the fight experts who picked Joe Louis to set Max Schmeling back on his satin panties.

I said, for instance, that S.M.U. would win the Rose Bowl game by 21 points. The Mustangs were licked 7 to 0, but I still think they were the better team.

Digging deeper into my bag of revelations, I pointed out how Margaret Sullivan could not fail to win the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. But they gave the award to Bette Davis.

Then, just to emphasize my amazing consistency, I selected the Cardinals and the Cleveland Indians to meet each other in the World Series. But the nearest they got to the October classic was by radio.

The "warmest" I got was a prediction Civil war stuff would overshadow World War lore in fiction and on the screen, and this, thanks to "Gone With the Wind," "The Long Night," and other tales has become a verity.

But that was the only thing resembling a hit on the score card. Anybody else would give up in chagrin, but not this old seer. I'm going to break loose with another spasm of prognosticating soon, and I'm counting on a winning score. At least I have the heartening knowledge that I can't do worse.

Nancy Carroll sleeps only five hours a day.

One of the town's most picturesque characters, an author of note finally devised a scheme whereby he could aid himself in shaking off a bad habit of boozing. He had his tailors make him a suit of clothes in which there were no pockets—so that he couldn't carry a bottle around with him. He finally back-slided, however, and went around with an oversized straw hat on his head—the chapeau being just large enough to conceal a pint.

Which reminds of the staff writer for one of the film magazines who went over to interview a new screen siren, and the press agents promptly filled him with savory liquids.

To his amazement next morning he awakened with a telegram editor, "every hour on the hour blushed in his hands, it was ad-

THIS WEEK'S PIG SKIN PANORAMA

SPORT SLANTS

The showing of motion pictures of football games to the squads is now a regular part of the coaching routine at most colleges. Primarily intended to instruct and point out mistakes, the pictures very often bring out many interesting sidelights overlooked during the excitement of the contest.

For instance, most newspaper reports of Pennsylvania's stirring victory over Princeton indicated that Lew Everson's touchdown gallop was made possible by some lusty and effective blocking on the part of the Quakers' burly fullback, Kurlich. As a matter of fact, the pictures clearly show that it was Bob McNamara, guard, who brushed aside crumpling Tigers to open the way for Everson. One of the men McNamara put out of the way was the huge Charley Toll.

Further study of the pictures brought out that the same Mr. McNamara spent a very, very busy 60 minutes playing against the same T. Toll. Princeton ran five out of every six plays over the giant tackle.

"Toll was about the best football player I ever faced," McNamara said after the battle. "But I enjoyed every minute of the game. It was a good one to win."

McNamara was outstanding in repulsing the repeated thrusts Princeton made at Pennsylvania's goal line. It is easy to understand why the victory over Princeton was so satisfactory to him.

Laugh's On Kaufman

The Princeton squad and coaches have been having a good laugh at the expense of Chick Kaufman, Tiger halfback. And it is all because of what a recent showing of grid movies revealed.

Coach Fritz Crisler ordered the particular play re-run on the screen half a dozen times. It was in the game against Rutgers. Kaufman took his usual position with his hands on his knees as the Princeton team came out of the huddle. The ball was snapped, and all players on both sides swung into action. That is—all the gridgers except Kaufman.

Chick remained motionless, hands still on his knees, only turning his head slightly to observe the outcome of the play. When the Princeton team went into the huddle Kaufman straightened up and walked over to get into the conference.

Moving pictures of games are very much a part of the football setup at Nebraska. Thousands of feet are shot, taking in all the action on the field. Coaches have a private showing to study the technical side. Later, players view the pictures to see their mistakes.

The general public and the student body is then allowed to view the pictures for a nominal admission fee which goes to pay for the expense incurred in making the films. Eventually, the pictures of Nebraska games are shown in various clubs and schools to create interest in the team.

Caused Stir Last Year.

A little movie camera caused quite a furore last fall after the Duke-North Carolina game. The North Carolina student publication came out with a blast against Duke coaches for having employed the movie camera in scouting. The street corner alumni and Monday morning quarterbacks who had wandered on North Carolina took up the cry. Duke coaches freely admitted the use of a camera and pointed out that many other coaching staffs did the same thing.

When Lew Everson, Pennsylvania's hero of the hour, grabbed that Princeton punt and raced 57 yards to a touchdown he was duplicating a run he made against Cornell last fall. He took a Cornell boot on his own 40 yard line and, on a muddy gridiron, raced through the entire Big Red team to score.

N. C. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS—PAPERMEN TO MEET

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 29.—Invitations were issued today by editors of the Daily Tar Heel, University campus newspaper, for a meeting here November 20-21 of high school newspaper workers throughout this state to organize a North Carolina Scholastic Press Institute.

Some of those tentatively scheduled to appear at the sessions are O. J. Coffin, head of the Department of Journalism here; Phillips Russell, noted author and Professor in the University English Department; Carl Goerch, editor of the State magazine; Walter Spearman, playwright and member of the University Journalism Department; and Louis Graves, editor of the widely-read Chapel Hill weekly.

Versatile Hanson.

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP)—Although he is in his seventh season as head grid coach at Syracuse university, Victor A. Hanson still is one of the country's youngest mentors. He was graduated from Syracuse in '27 with one of the best records in athletic annals of the school. Hanson captained football, baseball, basketball; won nine letters; and was an all-America end.

Irish Have Smart Mascot

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Clashmore Mike, Irish terrier mascot of the Notre Dame gridgers, is the right man for the job—or so the team is convinced. At the Carnegie Tech game, Tech cheer leaders displayed a sign reading, "We like Irish stew." Mike immediately went after the sign with every intention of tearing it to shreds.

PIRATES GIRD STATE PRISON FOR W-M TILT TO CROW LEAF

Local College Team Engages in Hard Scrimmage

The East Carolina Teachers College Pirates played a hard scrimmage game today in preparation for the contest with the Norfolk Division of William & Mary College here Saturday. Last year the Teachers defeated the Norfolk Division 10-6 in a thriller played before a large crowd in Norfolk. For the Division's only defeat in eleven starts last season.

Last Saturday William & Mary defeated Gallant College 16-15, while the Pirates lost to W. C. T. G. 6-7. The Teachers have played only one game.

The Pirates have perfected the aerial attack which functioned three successive times for 38, 15 and 5 yards and a touchdown against the Western Teachers last Saturday. Mickey Northcutt, letter halfback, who was out with a sprained ankle last week, will probably be ready for the game Saturday.

Penal Division to Provide Inmates With Tobacco

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 29.—The state prison division is going to raise and manufacture its own tobacco. Acting Director Oscar T. Pitts of the prison department of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, announced today. Plans are now under way for the installation of equipment in the Central Prison here for the manufacture of both smoking and chewing tobacco. None of this tobacco will be sold, however, as all of the tobacco made by the prisoners will be used by the prisoners, Pitts said.

For in addition to providing the prisoners with clothing and food, the prison department is required to supply all prisoners with tobacco to the extent of half a plug of chewing tobacco or one sack of smoking tobacco a week. This item of tobacco is now costing the prison division in excess of $10,000 a year. Pitts pointed out, of which approximately 50 per cent is the Federal sales tax on tobacco.

By manufacturing its own chewing and smoking tobacco the prison will immediately save the amount of the Federal tax, since this tobacco will not be manufactured for sale but for the use of the state and hence will not be subject to the Federal tax. But Pitts intends to bring about a still further saving by raising the tobacco which will be used on some of the state prison farms, a number of which are located in the tobacco growing sections of the state.

SPEAKER URGES PEACE PLEDGE

Dr. Barclay Delivers Address at College Assembly

Declaring communism and fascism alien to the American soil, Dr. John Barclay, pastor of the first Christian church of Wilson, delivered to the college assembly the second in a series of speeches being sponsored in Greenville by the Emergency Peace Council. "The world today," said Dr. Barclay, "is all a-jitter because of the clash among three ideas, communism, democracy and fascism."

Dr. Barclay characterized communism as advocating race equality and a classless society; fascism as advocating the authority of one person; democracy as advocating liberty. Unless these three ideas can become more conciliatory within the next few years a world war is inevitable.

The question is can we keep out? Denouncing the armament race, Dr. Barclay remarked that according to the record of history the armed nation always gets into war. "A large number of people are beginning to see how insane and ridiculous it is for nations to go to war. Speaking of the World War, Dr. Barclay said, 'The United States went to war' to make the world safe for democracy, and 'now, twenty years later, no democracy is safe. The war to end war, he continued, ended peace. You can't use pagan methods and get Christian results."

In suggesting a program to keep the nation out of war Dr. Barclay enumerated three points of attack; first, strengthen the neutrality law, second, create neutral trading relations between the countries, and third, build up a consciousness against war. Declaring that if war should come tomorrow he would go to jail preaching for peace, Dr. Barclay offered the following as a peace pledge for patriotism: "I will never fight in a future war, unless our borders are actually crossed."

Miss Lois Grigsby, a member of the faculty who is the A. A. U. W. representative of the Greenville Peace Council, welcomed him to the college and introduced him. She presented him as one who had had first-hand experience with the horrors of war and one who takes the stand that there shall never be another war. He believes in peace so strongly that he is willing to work and talk for the cause, traveling and speaking in other states for the emergency Peace Campaign.

Other members of the council on the platform were the Rev. W. A. Ryan, the president, the Rev. R. C. Grady and Mrs. Hilton.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The stock market got a head-start on another rally today but met sufficient selling to put the brake on the forward sprint. At the opening a large block of the leaders changed hands for gains of fractions to a point or more. For a brief interval the ticker tape lagged behind the floor dealings. The pace slowed later as some traders were inclined to take quick profits and stand aside pending the election.

DOCK WORKERS DESERT PORTS ALONG PACIFIC

(Continued from Page One) were 118 ships. Recalling the bloody 83-day maritime strike of 1934, during which seven men were killed, police chiefs immediately ordered extra duty forces to the water front and private companies posted their own guards. Four hundred were assigned to duty in both San Francisco and Los Angeles.

No one would estimate the value of trade affected. The San Francisco chamber of commerce maritime exchange said about 300,000 tons of cargo daily passes through west coast ports. Negotiations towards new agreements continued today, but non-partisan observers placed their chief hope of settlement of the strike in intervention by the newly created federal maritime commission with jurisdiction over shipping companies and seagoing unions.

FARMERS PAY FEDERAL LOAN

Tar Heels Repay Money Faster Than Any Others

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Oct. 30.—Farmers in North Carolina who have received rural rehabilitation loans are repaying them faster than those in any of the other four states in this region, according to figures just made public by Regional Director George S. Mitchell, from the regional office here.

The latest total compiled for the week ending October 24, shows that North Carolina farmers have repaid $389,888 on their 1936 loans while the total repaid through today is estimated as well in excess of $40,000.

For several weeks now the daily receipts from farmers repaying their rural rehabilitation loans have averaged about $50,000 and as much as $75,000 has been received in a single day. These receipts are routed directly into the United States Treasury, Director Mitchell said.

Loans amounting to approximately $7,400,000 have been made to farmers in the five states in this region to help them get back on their feet and on a living producing basis. This money was loaned to them to buy mules, seed, fertilizer, cows, farm machinery and other things needed to enable them to produce crops so they would not have to go on relief. The loans were made so they would be repaid in from two to five years. Some of these farmers have had such good crops this year that they have repaid the entire amount they borrowed instead of just to 1936 installment, Mitchell said.

The amounts which have been repaid to date in the five states in this region, are as follows: North Carolina, $389,888; Tennessee, 276,563; Virginia, $198,294; West Virginia, $42,586; Kentucky, $38,561. "The reason the repayments have been so much larger in North Carolina than these other states is due largely to the fact that the tobacco crop is sold sooner here with the result that the farmers get the cash from their crops several weeks ahead of the farmers in Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia. It was pointed out. Repayments from these other states are expected to increase just as soon as the farmers in them start marketing their crops.

REPORTS MADE FOR CAMPAIGN

Ferdinando de Soto, who took home a $60,000 ducat fortune from the land of the Incas, came to the new world after being excited by reports of the wealth of Florida.
