HIGH FEELING ENTERS FINAL BAPTIST MEET

Presiding Officer Interrupts to Call for Prayer

FIGHT EXPECTED DURING ELECTION

Judge Hayes Offers Strongly Worded Resolution Condemning Intoxicants

Durham, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Intense feeling entered into the closing sessions of the 106th North Carolina Baptist convention here today. More than once, the presiding officer at this morning's session interrupted warm debate to call for prayers to stabilize the congregation "in order that it might regain its safe bearings."

Meanwhile Judge Johnson J. Hayes, of the Federal Court, in a dramatic appearance before the convention, offered a strongly worded resolution petitioning the Legislature "to save this state from the debauching influence of intoxicating liquors," asserting that the legalization of such beverages neither lowers the consumption nor banishes the bootleggers.

Two other vital centers of divided opinion also loomed as the morning deliberations were on—the selection of a president to succeed Dr. Zeno Wall, and the issue of dancing at Wake Forest College.

What was expected to be quiet selection of a new convention head from among probably three candidates now threatens to develop into a general contest in which ten or fifteen names may be proposed.

N. C. Departments Required Provide Greater Services

Increased Responsibilities Reflected in Budget Requirement Estimates of State Agencies

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 11.—While greater demands for service and greater responsibilities have been reflected in budget requirement estimates of almost all State agencies, one of which this situation is particularly true is the Department of Conservation and Development.

The National administration has centered tremendous emphasis on the conservation of natural resources of the country, and a considerable amount of emergency relief funds have been expended on such objectives. Many of these projects in the various States have been sponsored by the State departments and as a result their programs have been advanced beyond all expectancy from local funds had not the Federal assistance been available.

Conservation officials have requested an increase of some 90 percent over the appropriations to the Department during the current biennium, and a major part of this increase is accounted for because of the necessity of administering and maintaining improvements made possible by the Federal expenditures.

Other factors influencing the need of expanding the service of the Department of Conservation and Development is the fact that (Continued on page six)

Deputies Called Halt County Home Trouble

A member of the sheriff's office was called to the County home last night to quell a disturbance, alleged to have been caused by Robert Atkinson, negro, who is said to have beaten a negro woman who is being held at the institution.

The negro is said to have gone to the home late last night, engaged in riotous and disorderly conduct and then to have assaulted the woman, with whom he had been going before she was sent to the institution. When officers arrived the negro had left, but officers expected his arrest today.

TEACHER MEET SET FOR CITY

Northeastern Division Session Here Next Friday, Saturday

A number of prominent educational leaders are scheduled to appear on the two-day program of the North Eastern division of the North Carolina Educational Association at the college here Friday and Saturday of next week.

In addition to the general meetings, departmental sessions will be held for the teachers in the various departments. It has been estimated that approximately 1,000 teachers would attend the sessions.

Among the speakers scheduled on the program are Dr. Edgar W. Knight of the Department of Education at the University of North Carolina; LeRoy Martin of Raleigh, former executive secretary of the North Carolina school commission, and M. P. Jennings, superintendent of Pasquotank county schools. Judge Dink James and Arthur B. Corey of this city also appear on the program for talks.

One session of the meeting will be devoted to the question: "Is North Carolina providing as good a school system as it is financially able?" This discussion probably will be at the Friday afternoon session.

On Friday night a pageant is scheduled to be put on by the teachers in the Greenville schools depicting the progress made in education in North Carolina.

All Pitt county teachers will be expected to attend the sessions, as each is a member of the association. Schools will observe a half-holiday Friday so the teachers can attend.

A football game is being considered as an added attraction to the meeting, but no definite schedule has been arranged as yet.

Miss Lorraine Hunt of the teachers college, is in charge of a committee to provide housing facilities for the teachers who will spend the night here and all teachers desiring to find a place to stay will be requested to get in touch with her upon arrival.

All Greenville people having an extra room they would be willing to turn over to a teacher or teachers Friday night also are requested to get in touch with Miss Hunt.

North Carolina Gives FDR Record Majority

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Vice-President John Nance Garner received 618,171 votes in the general election of November 3 in North Carolina for a majority of 392,171 over the 223,283 cast for Governor Alf M. Landon and Colonel Frank Knox.

The vote reached a record high of 839,454, as compared with a previous mark of 711,000 in 1932. At midday today the State Board of Elections received the last official county returns—from Scotland county—and unofficial state totals were immediately made.

HOPE TO OPEN NEGOTIATIONS TO END STRIKE

Both Sides Said to Be Willing to Resume Deliberations

LABOR OFFICIAL NOW OPTIMISTIC

McGrady Says He Thinks There is Still a Chance to Settle Strike Immediately

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Immediate opening of peace negotiations in the maritime strike has been throtted Pacific coast maritime commerce for two weeks was forecast by Assistant Secretary Edward P. McGrady.

"It is obvious the strike must be settled some time," he declared. "Both sides have assured me that negotiations will be resumed today. I will think there is a chance to settle this strike quickly."

The official spent most of yesterday conferring with representatives of the 37,000 striking union workers, whose walkout at midnight October 29 has left an estimated 178 ships strike bound in west coast ports and Hawaii and led to sympathy action in Atlantic and Gulf harbors.

Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, representative of the federal maritime commission, meanwhile announced that his hearings into the situation would be postponed for the fifth time, this time indefinitely after a session this afternoon.

Spokesmen for both sides have been pessimistic concerning resumption of negotiations.

Strikers claimed nearly 250 ships were tied up by sympathy walkouts in Atlantic and Gulf ports.

REAR ADMIRAL HAMLET RECALLED TO WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The maritime commission announced today that Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, which has been conducting the commission's inquiry into maritime conditions on the west coast, would withdraw from strike settlement negotiations in San Francisco.

In a statement Chairman H. A. Wiley of the commission said that it "will be necessary" for the commission to launch a new and broad investigation of the maritime situation in the East and Gulf coasts and that Admiral Hamlet was returning to Washington to discuss the advisability of consolidating these inquiries with that which has been underway on the Pacific.

Improvement At Teachers College Shown In Report

Biennial Statement by Board of Trustees Calls Attention To Dr. Meadows' Report.

In the biennial report of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina Teachers College, which has recently been printed, Superintendent Clyde Erwin, ex-officio chairman of the Board, calls attention to the report of President Meadows which he says, "shows a most satisfactory utilization of resources, and indicates a sound business administration."

The financial report from the treasurer shows that the College was operated well within its budget, and that collections have been excellent. No better evidence of the good business management could be given.

The registrar's report shows the increase in the enrollment, giving the figures for several years past. The increase in five years has been twenty per cent.

A new dormitory is requested in the proposed budget for the next biennium.

This is for the purpose of making provision for the boys, although that is not stated in the report.

The proposed budget for the next biennium, which is in the printed report, give the specific needs of the College and the amount requested for each item. Among the requests are an increase of 15 per cent to take care of the growing enrollment and rising prices, 20 per cent raise in salaries and wages, and an extra teaching staff of seven teachers. The items in the list all call for equipment, replacements, furniture, and repairs.

GRANGE GROUP IS COMMENDED

President Roosevelt Wires Message To Convention

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt messaged the national grange convention today that a "fight to achieve real equality for agriculture" would be pressed forward.

The President's message was a greeting for the 70th birthday of this farm organization, which has members in 35 states. It was sent to Louis J. Taber, national grange master, to be read at a birthday party this afternoon.

"Through you, as master of the national grange, I wish to send my greetings to the membership" the President's message said.

"As you meet this week in annual session, the grange looks back upon 70 years of steadfast efforts to improve American agriculture as a business and as a way of life. The nation needs strong leadership today."

"We have made progress in the fight to achieve real equality for agriculture, but we must strive to continue this progress. National and international problems demand the earnest attention of groups such as the grange to the end that our Democratic processes may be brought to bear effectively on their solution. I congratulate you, my fellow members of the grand and join with you in your determination to go forward."

Mr. Roosevelt, a grange member for 25 years, holds the organization's highest honor—the seventh degree, which 10,000 members received here today.

In its first year of operation, Missouri's 1 per cent sales tax brought in $11,150,000.

Federal Agency Attempts To Stir Up Dirt In N. C.

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL
Raleigh, Nov. 12.—Not only has the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington sent one of its "special investigators" or private detectives to North Carolina in an effort to dig up some dirt about the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, apparently in the hope of finding something to discredit the state authority, but it has also sought to bring about a secret investigation of the authority by a secret committee, it was learned from an authoritative source here today.

Not is that all. For in addition to getting a secret committee appointed to make a secret investigation of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, Administrator Morris L. Cooke of the Federal REA then sent Boyd Fisher, one of his chief lieutenants, down here to call on the members of this committee, evidently in an effort to prejudice the members so they would make an unfavorable report on the activities of the state authority, according to additional reliable information obtained by this correspondent.

It is also known that Chester Lake, another employe of Cooke and REA, has been snooping around in the state recently. It is believed that Lake has been either trying to find something detrimental to the record of the state rural electrification authority or to stir up sentiment against it, or both. Last week B. P. Adams, the "special investigator" for the Federal REA, who was formerly an investigator with the Alcohol Tax Unit and an experienced Government snooper, spent several days in the state asking questions and trying to find something that would discredit the state authority, those to whom he talked say.

All of which is not making Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, who appointed the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority at the authorization of the 1925 general assembly, nor its Chairman, Dudley Bagley, feel any too friendly towards the Federal REA and its Administrator, Mr. Cooke.

NEW DEALERS DECLINE ACT ON AAA JUST NOW

Washington, Nov. 12.—(AP)—High New Dealers appeared today to have adopted a policy of watchful waiting with regard to current demands from some quarters for constitutional amendment and revival of such experiments as AAA and NRA.

They seemed determined to await future events and further crystallization of public opinion before going into action with any broad program.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told reporters late yesterday that despite recent demands from a group of farm organizations heads that AAA crop control be revived, the administration would not ask the new congress for control legislation.

"That is a matter for congress and the farmers," he said.

Wallace left no doubt, however, that he personally believes future events will make "just about everybody in the United States" favor "some kind of production control."

Despite the call of farm leaders for re-enactment of the AAA system of curbing production, Wallace said drought and high prices this year had led many farmers to desire unrestricted production next year.

It would be a good thing from a long range view if they got their desire, he argued, because the piled up surpluses that would result under normal weather conditions would depress prices and evoke a new and stronger demand for federal control.

COUNCIL SPLIT COSTLY BRIDGE ON EXPULSION OPENED TODAY

Federation Executive Group Said to Stand Nine to Eight

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 12.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council was said today in usually well informed quarters to be split, nine to eight in favor of expelling John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his 10 rebel unions from the federation.

The council suspended the 10 unions two months ago for setting up the committee for industrial organization.

The nine to eight division was disclosed after a council member (Continued on page six)

NATIONS UNITE IN TRI PARTITE

Italy and Hungary May Ask Germany To Join

Vienna, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Italy, Austria and Hungary already bound together by economic and financial pacts—are building a tri partite front regarding Bolshevism, Spanish socialism and the League of Nations, informed sources disclosed today.

A foreign office spokesman said an Italo-Austro-Hungarian agreement, coupled with a possible bid to Germany to join the block, was on the agenda for ensuing sessions of the current conference among the three nations.

The Spanish situation, the spokesman declared, would come up. It was rumored in diplomatic quarters that recognition of the insurgent government in Spain was possible should the socialist administration fall.

Responsible sources also asserted a consensus would be sought against communism. The proposal was advanced, well informed quarters said, in the hope of attracting Germany to the group of Central European powers.

Diplomatic and other circles were astir with talk over the recognition of Italy's conquest of Europe. Expressed in boasts to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy last night by Kurt Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, and the Hungarian foreign minister.

Two Negroes Held On Murder Charge Following Arrest

Tom Phillips and Alvin Phillips Charged With Murdering James Pitt, Negro, in Bethel Saturday

John Phillips, alias Tom Phillips, and Alvin Phillips, negroes, are being held in jail without privilege of bond in connection with the death last Saturday night of James Pitt, another negro.

The pair were arrested in Wilson county last night after local officers had learned of the whereabouts of the two.

The negroes are alleged to have shot Pitt with a shotgun last Saturday night at Bethel after some misunderstanding. After they fatally wounded him, they rifled his pockets of cash cigarettes, according to officers.

The sheriff's office was called shortly after the murder and menbers went to the scene, but when they arrived, the negroes had fled and left no trace as to which way they went.

Pitt was murdered in a cafe in Bethel. The two negroes charged with his slaying probably will be tried at the special term of criminal court scheduled to get under way here the week of November 30th.

REBEL FORCES PREPARE MAKE FRESH ATTACK

Advance on Madrid Under Cover Of Artillery Shells

FASCISTS QUELL COUNTR ATTACK

Socialist Troops In Front Line Trenches Able to See Muzzles of Insurgent Army

Madrid, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Massed insurgents advancing under a canopy of artillery shells, nervously prepared today for an expected fresh attack on Madrid from the southwest.

Fascist commanders halted a surprise attack in the northwest section as the insurgents' drive encountered strong resistance.

The onslaught started shortly before midnight, but died down a few hours later.

As shells crashed into Madrid from some batteries, other gun emplacements were vacated and the cannon moved forward.

Socialist troops in the front line trenches could see the death dealing gun muzzles, 200 or 300 yards in front of them.

Government gunners labored feverishly to return the vengeful fire. Shells from their guns streaked across the dark sky while planes from unceasing flights illuminated the Rosales district.

(At Salamanca, official headquarters of the fascist provisional government, the high command asserted the blame was the "work of anarchist hordes.")

(Government counter attacks in battle zones along Madrid's city limits were "easily repulsed," the communication stated.)

New fires broke out in the area under heavy insurgent shelling between the Kings bridge and the Segovia bridge on the east side of the city.

County Officials To Present Claim For Road Refunds

County Auditor and Attorney in Raleigh Today Preparing to Go Before Commission Tomorrow

J. H. Coward and F. C. Harding, county auditor and attorney, respectively, are in Raleigh today preparing to appear before the State road debt commission tomorrow to present claims that the state owes Pitt county for roads built and turned over to the state system and also for money advanced by the county to the highway department to erect highways.

Local officials have contended all along that this county had one of the best claims of any of the many seeking refunds. They claim that the county put up money to erect roads with the distinct understanding that it was to be reimbursed by the state.

The commission started a series of hearings some time ago and already most of the counties have presented their claims to the commission. This county is among the last to appear before the commission.

The commission, appointed by Governor Ehringhaus, was charged with the task of studying the claims and see if there were sufficient grounds upon which the counties to base their claims the highway fund could return refunds.

When the Pitt officials appear before the commission tomorrow they will be joined by Roy T. Cox, chairman of the board of commissioners, and possibly others from this county.

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—Guilford county asked the State Commission investigating highway claims today to recommend it be paid $2,000,000, while Lenoir county pleaded for relief from "the burden of a high tax rate for road bonds."

The commission is holding its last series of oral hearings on claims presented by more than 70 counties for close of $6,000,000 in claims was spent on roads or donated or loaned to the State for roads before the State assumed the entire road system.

Guilford's claim for repayment was the largest heard today. Lenoir claimed $1,614,496. Bedford county asked $1,557,381; Hyde county $75,000 and Pamlico county $125,000.

The commission members held that the Hyde county claim was not within their jurisdiction.

NO DIVERSION IN ROAD FUND

Highway Department Plans to Keep Its Own Cash

Raleigh, Nov. 11.—No further diversion of any highway funds to the general fund or for other than highway purposes is contemplated in the tentative budget for the next two years just submitted by the State Highway and Public Works Commission to the Advisory Budget Commission and which will eventually become the request of the highway department to the 1937 general assembly.

Thus the highway commission is regarded as serving notice on all comers that in the 1937 general assembly it is going to again resist all efforts to divert any part of the highway revenue to other than highway purposes. It is generally agreed, of course, that an effort will again be made by the school forces and others to continue the diversion of at least $1,000,000 a year from the highway fund into the general fund, to be used for school purposes, just as was done by the 1933 and 1935 general assemblies. But the belief is that the diversionists are going to have harder sledding in the forthcoming 1937 assembly than in several years and that the highway commission has a better chance to go back to the old plan of highway revenue for highway purposes only, than ever before.

The move towards ending all diversion from the highway fund to other purposes is expected to have stronger backing this time than ever before, since not only is the highway commission going to fight against any diversion harder than ever, but it is conceded that it will have strong support from other sources. The North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee, representing all of the large gasoline and oil companies as well as thousands of individual filling station operators, has been fighting diversion for years and is already starting its pre-legislative campaign along this line. The Carolina Motor Club is also expected to renew its attack on diversion, backed up by the recently organized Highway Users Conference composed of all classes of individual automobile owners, truck owners and operators and all those who use the highways and pay highway taxes.

So the action of the highway department in leaving this town out of its budgets for the next two years is regarded as having already thrown down the gauntlet to the

RURAL PEOPLE TO GET POWER

Many Miles of Electric Lines Built Over State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 11.—The number of miles of rural electric lines built in North Carolina continues to increase, despite the fact that very little aid has been received from the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington. It was learned here today. Since June, 1935, the Carolina Power and Light Company alone has either built or authorized the construction of 1,420 miles of rural electric lines serving 7,937 customers and embracing 497 rural extensions, according to the last report of the Carolina Power and Light Company.

During this same period the Duke Power Company has also either built or authorized some 1,400 miles of rural electric lines, with the result that since the rural electrification program was launched in North Carolina by and through the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, approximately 4,000 miles of rural lines have been built or authorized, of which about 3,000 miles have been built or authorized by power companies doing business in the state. It was revealed today by Chairman Dudley Bagley of the NCREA. The other thousand miles have been built by cities and towns having companies doing business in the length of 390 miles and designed to serve 1,963 customers and got much of this mileage under construction. From June 15, 1935 to November 4, 1936, this same company actually constructed 726 miles.

Johnston-Benteen
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11.—The betrothal of Miss Maria Luisa Benteen to Lieutenant Franklin Vine Johnston, Jr., United States Army, is of interest to a host of friends of the young couple in both Army and civilian circles.

Announcement of the engagement is made by the bride-elect's parents, Lieutenant Colonel F. W. Benteen, United States Army, retired, and Mrs. Benteen. The bride-elect is the paternal grand-daughter of Brigadier General F. W. Benteen and Mrs. Benteen. On her maternal side, Miss Benteen is the grand-daughter of Dr. Juan Jose Casanova and Mrs. Casanova, of Cienfuegos, Cuba.

Miss Benteen attended Oglethorpe University, St. Genevieve's-in-the-Pines, in Asheville, N. C., and the Academy of the Sacred Heart, at Clifton, near Cincinnati, Ohio. She is a member of the Daughters of the United States Army.

Lieutenant Johnston is the son of Mrs. F. V. Johnston and the late Mr. Johnston, of Greenville, N. C. He is a graduate of the United States Military Academy, West Point, class of 1932, and is now stationed at Fort McPherson.

Prior to the nuptials Miss Benteen and her fiance will be feted at a series of interesting social affairs.

Bridge Breakfast for Miss Warren
Outstanding among the many attractive affairs honoring Miss Mary Warren, bride-elect, was this morning when Miss Ada James, in her usual gracious manner, entertained at breakfast and bridge.

At ten o'clock the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, served a tempting breakfast. Attractively appointed tables were placed in a setting of varicolored chrysanthemums and snapdragons.

After breakfast, bridge was played, and at the conclusion of the game Mrs. W. E. Padgett was awarded a piece of pottery for high score. Miss James' gift to Miss Warren was a silver relish dish.

Miss Helen Burnette, bride-elect of Saturday, was remembered with silver in her selected pattern.

Miss Winslow Entertains
Miss Elizabeth Winslow entertained Wednesday evening, honoring Miss Helen Burnette, whose wedding will take place Saturday afternoon of this week.

Arrangements of large yellow chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers decorated the rooms of the home, a color note of pastel shades being emphasized in the appointments.

The hostess was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. J. E. Winslow. On arriving the guests were shown into the music room, where after-dinner coffee was served; coffee being poured by Mrs. Norman Winslow.

The tables for bridge were placed in the living room and library. The bridal note was interestingly carried out in the tallies and score pads. The refreshment plate of moulded ice cream, angel food cake, almonds, and moulded mints were in lovely pastel shades in bridal designs.

Miss Helen Burnette scoring high was awarded an inland novelty box. Handkerchiefs were given for high score at each table. The bride was remembered with silver in the cascade pattern. Mrs. Robert Greene, Jr., a recent bride, was also remembered with a gift.

Bridge Shower for Miss Burnette
Miss Helen Burnette, popular bride-elect of the week, was honored yesterday afternoon when Mrs. W. E. Hooker charmingly entertained at bridge.

The house was artistically decorated in chrysanthemums. The color note in the library was pink, the music room in yellow and bronze, and the dining room in pink and white.

At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Charles Woodward was given silk hose for high score. Miss Nina James assisted the hostess in serving a tempting salad course.

Miss Burnette was given a ball of cord with instructions to hold tight and follow the cord to the end, which led her to another room where she found a shower of beautiful linens on a line circling the room. She was also instructed to gather the linens and place them in a decorated laundry basket.

Mrs. Hooker's gift to Miss Burnette was china in her selected pattern. Mrs. Robert Greene, Jr., a recent bride, and Mrs. F. T. Hanner, of Jamestown, were remembered with sport handkerchiefs.

Junior Woman's Club
The Junior Woman's Club will meet in the club house Friday afternoon at 3:30 with Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, Mrs. Wyatt Brown, Mrs. L. A. Brook, Mrs. Jack Spain, Mrs. Brick Staring and Mrs. W. S. Tyson as hostesses.

Vester Mulholland will be guest speaker for the afternoon. He will give a review of the popular book, "Gone With the Winds." This will be an especially interesting meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Cox-Harris
Ayden, Nov. 12.—Miss Dallas Harris was united in marriage to Roland Lee Cox on Thursday morning, November 12, at 8:30 o'clock, in a private ceremony in Greenville at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cox, with Rev. W. A. Ryan officiating.

The bride is the attractive and only daughter of Mrs. Mary Jane Harris and the late P. B. Harris. She received her education at the Ayden High School and East Carolina Teachers College in Greenville.

For the ceremony she wore an attractive green ensemble with brown accessories, and her corsage was yellow roses with valley lilies. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cox. He was educated in the Ayden Public Schools and the Washington Institute, and is a young farmer of this section.

Following a wedding trip through the Sherandoah Valley and to Washington, D. C., the couple will live in Ayden at the bride's former home.

WILL YOUR NAME BE NEXT

The past summer was one of the worst on record in the matter of automobile accidents and deaths.

And the most dangerous driving months are still to come—the months of rain and ice, and few daylight hours.

Every season sees better, more scientifically designed highways—and yet accidents grow worse, both in number and severity. Every year sees stronger, more easily controlled, and mechanically safer cars—yet the carnage grows.

It is true that a percentage of accidents can be directly attributed to mechanical failure of automobiles, or to road conditions. This percentage marks but a very small part of the total crashes. The human element is responsible, and alone responsible, for the great majority of accidents, minor and major.

Worst menace of all is the driver who attempts to push the throttle through the floorboard—who operates his car at excessive speeds. And excessive speed is a flexible term—there are times when fifty is safe, and fifteen too fast.

Then there are the drivers who pass on hills and curves, who hog the center-line, who allow their cars to wander on the wrong side of the road—and drivers who commit a thousand and one driving errors that may save a minute, and may also send themselves and others into eternity.

You see many headlines like, "Five Killed When Cars Collide." You read the names of the victims, go on to other articles and forget all about them. Next time you see such a headline just reflect that your name, or the name of a friend or loved one, may be in the next similar list of corpses. Then it won't be so easy to forget.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — Who is going to be the national chief of police? A year ago you could hear often that J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, some time would head not only his bureau of investigation agents, but a consolidation of the famed-secret service and various other police and detective agencies of the government. You don't hear that so often now. It never had any official support.

Washington now hears much talk of a back-fire being built up against the phenomenal rise of the stocky, black-haired executive whose agents have raised red with the kidnaping industry and make bank robbery a criminal hazard instead of a criminal sport.

But well-boostered rumor credits him with having also some determined foes besides Senator McKellar of Tennessee, who alone carried his position as an increase in Hoover's pay went through that body last session. He gets $10,000 a year now, against $9,000 before.

Hoover and his men have had most of the publicity for a long time. Since run-row died out, the various police agencies under the treasury haven't been much in the news. The secret service is always around with the President, but seldom is mentioned in dispatches. The secret service also protects the currency. Yet in the most recent exposure of a counterfeiting ring in New York, some of Hoover's men came in for a share of the glory.

Breakfast foods, illustrated newspaper "hero" strips and radio broadcasts feature Hoover and his men. There recently came that exchange of letters between the department of justice and Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury disclosing that certain secret service agents had been sort of "checking up" on the Hoover men. Morgenthau apologized and ordered a couple of the secret service men demoted. Another break for Hoover.

But lately something else happened. The treasury announced it would ask congress to consolidate its police agencies under one head in the treasury. That would give the treasury a force of 2,800 men, not including the 380 in the narcotics branch, to be kept separate for a time.

Hoover's force amounts only to 625.

The treasury group would include: Secret service, 300; customs investigation agency, 300; border patrol, 500; alcoholic tax unit, 1,700.

Who will head them may not be announced until congress acts on the consolidation bill. W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service, is approaching retirement. Some have an eye on Joseph E. Murphy, assistant, who was ordered demoted and was given a post in the field after the affair with Hoover's men. But he hasn't gone, still administers the unit in Moran's absence.

How's Your Health—

Drydocks For Humans

Fatigue is probably the single most important factor contributing to the development of disease. Acute fatigue resulting from a given period of overwork, is frequently found to be the forerunner of serious illness, and its significance is widely recognized.

But comparatively few appreciate the noxious effect of chronic fatigue, so picturesquely described by the expression "run down." In this latter condition, the fatigue may not be as marked as in the acute state. The affected individual isn't exhausted. He is more likely "not up to scratch" or "not quite like himself."

Such individuals need a "drydock" where they may lay up for a while, and be put in trim.

Fortunately the need for such care is being recognized, and means for its administration are being developed in the United States, in the form of the health resort, described as "midway between the home and hospital environment."

The modern health resort is not designed to care for the sick. Such individuals can best be taken care of in a hospital. But the run-down person, and the one who needs a change of outlook on life can gain much from a good health resort.

What does the health resort offer? Perhaps most important is the escape from one's ordinary and frequently taxing surroundings. The fault need not necessarily reside in the environment but rather in one's reactions to it. At a distance, and from the vantage point of the health resort, one's perspective can be much improved, and one may learn how to live more harmoniously with his surroundings.

Again the health resort offering competent medical supervision (maintained with the cooperation of one's own physician) allows one to effect correction of those hygienic and constitutional defects for which there is neither time nor energy left in everyday existence.

It is hard to rest while all the world rolls busily by. But the tempo of the health resort encourages leisurely activity and easy resting. Exercise, too, is provided by the regimen of the well run health resort, and is limited to the needs and capacities of each individual case.

But best of all is the new outlook on life that one can gain at the modern health resort. The ancient Greeks, who much prized physical beauty and well being, built their temples of health where all the assiduous resources of nature could serve the patient. The priests and physicians who cared for the ailing taught them not only sound physical hygiene but also good mental hygiene.

Talks To Parents

By Brooks Peters Church

Impetigo

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH A disease which, in the crowded conditions of modern life, seems to be increasing in frequency, is impetigo. It ranks in seriousness with poison ivy, and since it is generally classified as a "dirt disease" the sufferer, or if he is a child, his family, is apt to feel a certain embarrassment about acknowledging it. It is an extremely infectious disease, and until parents are alive to its prevalence and on guard against its occurrence, it will continue to make life uncomfortable and hideously unattractive.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: The same day that dainty unselfish Sally Warren starts her new work as society editor of the Courier, Terry Maynard, a young aviator and her beau, takes her to lunch. He asks her to fly to a nearby town to "stand by" while he applies for a South American job. Sally wants to go, but hesitates for she has promised her stepmother not to go up again with Terry without permission. Hoping to keep her younger sister, Tip, from getting too interested in flying.

Chapter Four

En Route To The Airport

IT WAS Lola Hopkins, the girl reporter, who helped Sally to make her decision. Sally had paused on the steps of the Courier building when Lola hailed her with loud cheers.

"Let's go to lunch—what say?"

"All right," agreed Sally. "I was just trying to decide where to eat."

Lola led the way to a small lunch room that Sally had never noticed before. They both ate hungrily till the plate lunches were disposed of. Then Lola turned her sharp black eyes on Sally.

"Say, how'd you like to go to a picnic tomorrow night and dance afterwards at the Lake Pavilion? You bring Terry Maynard and I'll bring my friend. We can go in my car."

"You know Terry?" Sally was somehow startled. He had never mentioned Lola.

"I live next door to his folks on Riverview Heights," explained Lola. "Ever been to see them?"

"Yes," said Sally. "A few times. She had liked the Maynards well. Cheerful Mrs. Maynard sewed t. help make a living. The house was always littered with scraps of material and the younger children's school books and toys, but Mrs. Maynard never seemed to mind the untidiness or the children's noise. Mr. Maynard ran a garage. He was tall and broad and had Terry's blue eyes.

"The Maynards are pretty swell folks," said Lola. "They don't mingle much in Warrenton society, but they've got the stuff it takes to get ahead. Came down from the mountains with four kids: to bring up and educate. They've all worked hard and now they've got their own place, and the garage. Sent Terry to flying school."

"They're awfully proud of him."

"They've got a right to be," affirmed Lola. "He's going to have the guts to get out of this little puddle and make something of himself." Sally was silent and Lola added, "What about that movie?"

Lola Offers Advice

TERRY'S flying over to Greensboro tomorrow night," said Sally slowly.

"Going with him?"

"I—don't know," said Sally. "I've promised not to go up with him again soon. My—my stepmother doesn't want me to."

"They're always like that about flying—old folks are. Mom's the same way. I just go where I please, and if she don't like where I'm going I go anyway and bring her back a present afterwards. She gets over it."

"You always do what you want, don't you?" asked Sally suddenly.

"Just about, I guess."

"I almost never do," confessed Sally. "There are always so many other people to be considered."

"You'll never get anywhere if you figure like that. Take my advice and go with Terry if you want to."

"I'm going to," said Sally, with sudden decision.

As soon as she reached the office, she called Terry before she had time to change her mind.

"Terry—I'll go."

"Good girl!" Terry's enthusiasm warmed her. "Be ready about seven to-morrow night."

When Sally reached home, she went straight to the kitchen to have it out with her stepmother. Adelaide Warren was slicing the cold roast for supper, and Tip was pressing a dress.

"Mother," said Sally boldly, "Terry Maynard's flying to Greensboro to-morrow night on a very special trip, and he wants me to go."

"I never thought for one minute you meant what you said about not going flying with him again," said Mrs. Warren.

"I didn't mean to go again soon," said Sally. "Honestly."

"It's one and the same thing," said Mrs. Warren. "You'll keep on going till one of you gets killed. I don't know how I'm to bear the worry of it."

"Don't be silly, Mom," said Tip. "Terry Maynard's one of the best pilots around here." She turned to Sally eagerly. "What's Terry going to Greensboro for? Do you think he'd let me go?"

"It's Terry's secret," said Sally. "I'll ask him his old secret—and he'll tell me, too," pouted Tip.

Sally said nothing, although she rather thought Tip could get the secret out of Terry easily enough. At any rate, Tip had distracted Mrs. Warren's attention from Sally, and the row she had feared seemed averted.

Tip Begs For A Ride

THE next evening Sally was ready and waiting when Terry's disreputable old car pulled up. Sally gave a last look at herself in the mirror. She knew she looked very well in the new blue suit, with yellow blouse and hat to match.

As usual, Terry failed to notice Sally's clothes. "All set?" he demanded. "We don't want to be late meeting the big guy."

"Of course not," said Sally, taking two steps to Terry's one as he hurried her down the path. They climbed into the car and Terry was just starting the engine when Tip came flying down the path.

"Hey, wait a minute! Terry—will you take me, too?" begged Tip shamelessly.

"Not this time," said Terry. "Business tonight."

"What are you going for?" demanded Tip, avoiding Sally's reproachful eyes.

"Tell you later," said Terry. "Get off the running board, now, we're in a hurry."

"Will you take me up Saturday afternoon?" demanded Tip.

"Yeah—sure I will," said Terry. "Move, now." The car started with a jerk, but Tip leaped off nimbly and stood there waving.

"I don't know whatever will become of Tip," said Sally. "She's such a wild creature."

"I wouldn't worry about her," said Terry. "She can probably take care of herself better than you can. Growing up into a darned pretty girl, too."

Sally was glad when Terry turned into the unpaved country road that led to the airport. Here their way lay between fields of dew-scented clover and freshly ploughed earth. Now and then they passed a farm house, and caught the scent of lilacs, or the heavy fragrance of wistaria. Terry's hand had reached out and covered Sally's.

"I wanted you to be with me because I've got a feeling th. is going to be a big moment for me tonight," said Terry. "And if things turn out the way I hope they will—well—there's something I've got to say to you."

Sally was silent, afraid to speak lest she should somehow disturb the contentment that was hers. With a little shiver half regret, half excitement, she saw the signal lights of the flying field before them.

(Copyright, 1936, Bailey Wolfe)

Sally beside him, Terry flies to Greensboro tomorrow and lands a job.

"Will you take me, too?" begged Tip shamelessly.

after the new equipment has been obtained. The amounts requested are only what we are convinced are needed if the patrol is to do the work it is supposed to do," Captain Farmer said. "It all depends on what the 1937 general assembly may decide as to whether or not we get this increased appropriation with which to enlarge the patrol to 200 men. We are hoping, of course, that the Advisory Budget Commission will recommend the full amount of this appropriation to the general assembly, also that it will be appropriated."

Request Made For Increased Number Of N. C. Patrolmen

Captain Charles D. Farmer Requests Budget Commission to Provide For Force of 200 Members

Reflector Bureau, Str. Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—An increase in the appropriation for the State Highway Patrol sufficient to increase the number of patrolmen and officers to 200 is being asked by Captain Charles D. Farmer, commander of the patrol, and the Department of Revenue, it was learned here today.

The patrol now numbers 121 officers and patrolmen but most of those here who have been watching the work of the patrol maintain that it should number at least 200 men in order to make it more effective as an accident prevention and safety education organization. The cost of maintaining the highway patrol is now approximately $300,000 a year, which includes the salaries of the 121 patrolmen and officers, the cost of uniforms for all the patrolmen and the maintenance of some 90 motorcycles and 60 patrol cars.

For the first year of the next biennium — (1937-38) — the Department of Revenue is requesting an appropriation of $814,000 and for the next year—1938-39—it is requesting an appropriation of $698,000. The larger appropriation for the first year is needed to take care of the purchase of 79 additional motorcycles and patrol cars, of uniforms and other equipment needed if the patrol is increased in size to 200 men, Capt. Farmer explained. The appropriation of $698,000 will take care of the increase in salaries

CAROLINA MEN IN LAST GAME

Ten Tar Heels to Sing Swan Song in Tilt With Blue Devils

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 12.—It will be the swan song for 10 Carolina football players as far as competition with Duke is concerned when the Blue Devils and Tar Heels hook up in Saturday's crucial Southern Conference engagement.

The Carolina men facing Duke for the last time are Captain Dick Buck and Buck McCarn, ends; John Trimpey, Elmer Wren, tackles; Van Webb and Charlie McIver, guards; Dick Dashiell, quarter; Willie Dunham and Bob Stewart, halfbacks, and Jim Hutchins, fullback.

Captain Buck, Trimpey and Hutchins are almost certain to start against the Methodists. McIver and Webb have been alternating with Bruce Smith and Steve Maronic at the guard posts all season. They may break into the starting lineup.

If not, they will see lots of relief service. McCarn, capable understudy to Buck, likely will be called upon for duty as will Wren at tackle.

Dick Dashiell is a fine lieutenant for Crowell Little. He has subbed often for the Asheville boy and has played well. Dunham and Stewart are in prime shape for the encounter. They will be ready at a minute's notice to assist George Watson and Tom Burnette, first string half-back.

The Tar Heel seniors have grabbed their share of All-State and All-Southern honors during their brief grid careers. Captain Buck was honored on mythical All-State and All-Southern teams in 1934 and 1935. Trimpey was chosen on several All-Southern selections last season.

Jim Hutchins, who has figured prominently in the Tar Heel running and passing attacks this season, caught the fancy of the grid experts two years ago. In 1934 he was named All-Southern and mentioned for All-America. He repeated last year. The Winston-Salem boy, after getting off a bit slowly this season, appears headed for State and Conference honors again.

Although the Tar Heels are rated underdogs, they hope victory will repeat itself Saturday. Buck and Hutchins were the Tar Heel luminaries in the stunning 7-0 upset of Duke in 1934.

GREENIES LOSE CLOSE BATTLE

Washington Scores Game's Only Touch-down Near End

In the annual Armistice Day football celebration staged by the events of the Greenville and Washington yesterday afternoon before a crowd of 2,000 local and Washington residents, the Pam Pack blanketed the Green Phantoms for a 7-0 win.

Washington did their scoring in the middle of the last quarter. They took the ball to the middle of the field, and then made three successive first downs. Black, left half, carried the ball from the four-yard line on a reverse play for a touch-down.

Phillips made the extra point for Washington on a line plunge. Outstanding players for Washington were two Cherry lads, left end and right end respectively, Cherry, left tackle, and Black, left half. For Greenville, George Lauares, Du-Bose Simpson, Tom (Parson) Parrish, and Harold Forbes were best.

Parrish threatened in the last quarter when he intercepted a Pam Pack pass and ran 60 yards to their 30 yard line.

Both teams played a hard-fought game, and took advantage of every break coming their way, which looked good for scoring. During the engagement the Phantoms made 10 first downs and the Pam Pack 7. Local opposition attempted four passes, completing two, as compared with five attempts and one complete by the Phantoms.

Washington was penalized four times for a 30 yard loss, and Greenville five times for a total loss of 45 yards. The Pam Pack made 31 yards on passes, and 14 through the line, while the latter secured 15 yards on passes, and 129 through the line.

The final game of the season will take place on the Third Street field Friday afternoon of next week, November 20, with the eleven of the Charles L. Coon high school of Wilson. Last year the Wilson boys defeated the locals by a 40-0 score.

BURNETTE AND PARKER MEET IN FEATURE PUNTING DUEL
Chapel Hill, Nov. 12.—Tom Burnette, Tar Heel halfback, and "Ace" Parker, Blue Devil quarter, are the kicking stars of the Carolina and Duke teams which clash here Saturday in a game which will determine both State and Southern Conference honors. Parker, the Methodists' chief candidate for the All-American ranks this season, holds an edge over his rival with a 43-yard average per game as compared to 40 for Burnette.

UNIVERSITY PHILOSOPHY CLUB SPONSORS LECTURES
Chapel Hill, Nov. 12.—Members of the University of North Carolina Undergraduate Philosophy Club will sponsor a series of lectures by faculty representatives from various fields of fine arts, beginning November 17. It was announced today.

Speakers and dates of the lectures are: Professor J. P. Harland, who will speak on architecture on November 17; Russell Smith, painting, November 24; Paul Green, drama, December 1; and Benjamin Swallow, music, December 8.

All lectures will be given in Graham Memorial Hall at 8:30 o'clock on each evening.

AMERICAN PHYSICISTS IN MEETINGS AT DUKE, U. N. C.

Chapel Hill, Nov. 12.—Joint meetings of the American Physical Society and the American Association of Physical Teachers will be held February 19 and 20 with Duke University and the University of North Carolina as hosts.

Sessions will be held at Duke on the 19th and at Carolina the 20th. Exhibits of new instruments and apparatus will be on display at both institutions.

Members of the committee on arrangements are: Professors Chas. W. Edwards, Duke; Francis Slack Vanderbilt University; and Arthur E. Ruark, Carolina; Henry Dwire, Director of Public Relations at Duke and Russell M. Grumman, Director of the University Extension Division.

'Bama Ahead
University, Ala. (AP)—Alabama was way ahead of its first six grid opponents this year in yards gained at scrimmage and in first downs. In the first half dozen battles, the Crimson Tide gained 1,453 yards, yielded only 391. The Tide meanwhile amassed a total of 78 first downs to the enemies' 29.

EXPECT TEAMS BATTLE IN AIR

Carolina-Duke Game Probably Be Decided By Passes

Durham, N. C., Nov. 11.—An exhibition of pass-snagging by two of the greatest receivers in the game will be reeled off at Chapel Hill Saturday when Duke's Blue Devils and North Carolina's Tar Heels crash together in their annual grid-iron classic.

Captain Dick Buck of the Tar Heels and Captain Ace Parker of the Blue Devils rank tops in the art of grabbing the throws of their teammates. Both have turned in magical catches this season—made when the arms of the defenders were everywhere around them. They both have the uncanny ability to pick them out of the air when it appears the ball is certain to be knocked down.

This exhibition from Parker and Buck is all the more certain in view of the fact that line play of the two teams this season indicates that the outcome of the game probably depends on which team is able to make its passing attack click.

Both are well-equipped. In addition to Buck as a receiver all the Carolina backs are fine catchers and Buck's flank mate, Andy Ber-

N. C. DEPARTMENTS REQUIRED PROVIDE GREATER SERVICES

(Continued from page one) improving economic conditions make it necessary to increase the emphasis on promoting further development in North Carolina. This type of service will help to increase the wealth of the State and create additional sources of revenues for the State and local governments. An additional responsibility of the Department during the coming biennium will be expected completion of development programs in three or more State Parks. All of these have been acquired by gift from local governments and individuals. These newly acquired recreational and scenic areas include some 7,000 acres of land, none of which have cost the State anything. Moreover, the ECW program is bearing the entire cost of development which will probably amount to more than $1,000,000 and possibly $2,000,000. To meet an increasing demand for forest planting stock, the State has enlarged the State forest nursery and the chief cost of bringing the larger area into production is being borne by the Federal ECW program. Since this nursery is near the central part of the State, it is proposed to establish another unit in the mountains where planting stock for that section can be produced.

REVUE SKIT BARRED AS 'OUTRAGE'

This skit, entitled "Scouting a Rumor," was withdrawn from the musical revue "New Faces" in Philadelphia after Mayor S. Davis Wilson termed it "a damnable outrage" for "ridiculing the wife of the president of the United States." The actress on the left depicts Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, that on the right represents Mrs. Herbert Hoover and in the center is the burlesque conception of a Girl Scout. (Associated Press Photo) other 16. When the convention assembled Saturday for a proponent, in meeting the expulsion issue may not come to a vote. Several anti-Lewis leaders are considering introduction of an expulsion resolution when the convention starts next Monday. The council may leave the question to the delegates.

FEDERAL AGENCY ATTEMPTS TO STIR UP DIRT IN N. C.

(Continued from page one) discuss the matter publicly, it is understood that they are becoming increasingly irritated by the activities of Cooke and the REA in Washington. Several high state officials are of the opinion that the Federal REA has no authority to investigate the actions or activities of a state agency created by the general assembly and point out that not even the Governor of North Carolina can investigate such a state agency and that hence the REA in Washington is not only exceeding its authority but probably violating Federal laws in attempting to make any investigation of the activities of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority and by sending detectives down here to spy on it.

That deep resentment against both the attitude and methods of Administrator Cooke and the REA exists in state governmental circles here is freely and frankly admitted and those in a position to know what they are talking about are predicting that when Congress meets again the lid is likely to be blown off Mr. Cooke's rural electrification play house in Washington.

It is also believed that the Congressmen and Senators from Virginia will join with North Carolina's delegation in seeking an explanation of the REA activities, since it is recalled that Administrator Cooke arbitrarily withdrew all REA funds from Virginia when the Virginia Public Service Commission refused to kneel down and take orders from Cooke, who had protested when it authorized a private power company to extend its lines into territory where the REA had planned to build lines through a cooperative electric membership corporation.

One reason Cooke and the REA are trying so hard to "get something" on the NCREA is believed to be the Johnston county situation, in which the Carolina Power and Light Co., has obtained a temporary injunction against the Johnston County Electric Membership Corporation, which has received a $310,000 loan from the REA to build electric lines, to restrain it from building lines parallel to those already built by the power company. For while the Johnston county people waited for months trying to get a loan from the REA, the Carolina Power and Light Co. went to work and extended its lines, now having built some 150 miles of lines along the same routes the cooperative planned to build.

It is known that Cooke and the REA blame the NCREA for this situation and maintain that NCREA "sold out" to the power companies, though the record shows that this has not been the case.
