FARMERS PAID GOOD RETURNS FOR PRODUCTS

North Carolina Growers Favored by Crop Recovery

N. C. FORTUNATE IN NUMBER WAYS

General Crop Summary for Nov. 1st Places Weed Yield at 463,420,000 Lbs.

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Good crop recovery since mid-summer and good prices for products of the farms led the crop reporting service today to say North Carolina was a favored state with an outlook of a return of nearly $150,000,000 from its tobacco and cotton crops.

The general crop summary for November 1 put the tobacco yield at 463,420,000 pounds and the indicated tobacco sales prices average for the season in the neighborhood of 22 cents a pound, indicated a return of $101,950,000. Thus far this season the average price has been 23 cents a pound, but it usually drops during November and December.

The indicated cotton yield is 625,000 bales of 500 pounds each and the price is running around 12 cents a pound, making $75,000,000 from cotton, plus probably around one-fifth that amount from cottonseed and its products.

A mild October was fortunate in the state for cotton, peanuts, pecans, late potatoes, pastures and some hays, the report said, and was also favorable to the planting of next year's crop.

North Carolina was said to be fortunate also in an apparent yield of 765 pounds of tobacco per acre compared with 935 a year ago, due to the spring drought which required many replantings.

The state's corn yield of 44,918,000 bushels, compared with 47,092,000 in 1935, was also described as fortunate as North Carolina farms will average 18.5 bushels per acre, while the national average is 15.5 bushels.

Decreased Number Of Wreck Victims In North Carolina

State Now Ranks Fourth From Top Among Those Showing Biggest Reduction From Last Year

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—North Carolina now ranks fourth from the top among the states which have made the biggest reduction in automobile accident deaths so far this year, only four other states having shown a larger percentage in the reduction this year as compared with their record last year, according to the ratings contained in the November issue of Public Safety, the monthly publication of the National Safety Council. It was pointed out today by Captain Charles D. Farmer, commander of the State Highway Patrol, and Director Arthur Fulk of the highway safety division.

"North Carolina is not only on the honor roll of the ten states showing the greatest reduction in automobile deaths so far this year, but ranks fourth from the top, showing a reduction of 11 per cent this year over last year and only through September," Captain Farmer pointed out. "The only states having a greater percentage of reduction in automobile deaths this year are New Hampshire, with a 26 per cent drop, Nevada with a 14 per cent increase and Connecticut and Wisconsin, with a decrease of 12 per cent each, according to the ratings given to the honor roll of the November issue of Public Safety. We are hoping that the October, November and December figures on accidents will show a still greater decrease in fatal accidents and put North Carolina up nearer the top of the list."

Not is it any longer true that North Carolina has the largest number of fatal accidents in proportion to the numbers of gallons of gasoline burned than any other state, although several radio speakers have recently made this statement, Capt. Farmer said. Four other states—Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee—also have a higher death rate on the basis of gasoline consumed than North Carolina, while 22 other states have a higher automobile accident death rate on the basis of population, the latest tabulation by the National Safety Council shows. Automobile death rate in North Carolina are: Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, (Continued on page four)

Poultry Farm Searched For Hidden Bailey Cash

Bank Robber Caught

Reese Bailey, North Carolina escaped convict (shown above) was shot and injured at dawn by Federal agents yesterday.

Federal Men Seek Clue to Activities of Bank Robber

Jackson, Ohio, Nov. 14.—(AP)—An unpretentious poultry farm became today the object of an intensive hunt by federal men for a clue to the activities of an accused killer and bank robber captured in a gun battle.

Wounded three times, Reese Bailey, 36, was in the federal reformatory hospital at Chillicothe as Department of Justice agents sought a possible hidden cache of money on the farm where the desperado lived with his wife and three children.

Bailey, sought in the South and Northwest since his escape from the Raleigh, N. C. state prison two years ago, tried to shoot his way to freedom yesterday when trapped by federal agents, but wounded. Bailey was under indictment for the slaying of Bert Lemley, Rosalia, Wash. marshal, during a bank robbery and for violation of the national motor vehicle theft act. He also was wanted in North Carolina for seven bank robberies.

FARM IMPORTS SHOW INCLINE, EXPORTS DOWN

Figures Released For June Through September

COTTON EXPORTS DOWN $6,000,000

While Farm Products Sold Out of Country Decline, Other Goods on Increase

Washington, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A decline in the value of farm products exports was reported today for the first quarter of the current year. The value of farm products exports for the first quarter of 1936 was $1,141,000,000, compared with $1,141,000,000 for the same quarter in 1935.

Imports of all agricultural products for the June-September period were valued at $322,736,939, compared with $298,226,079.

While value of farm products exports declined, sales of other goods were large enough to bring the export total to $569,909,000, well above the 1935 total of $539,568,000.

Cotton exports valued at $40,000,000 for June-September this year and $38,000,000 in 1935, and tobacco valued at $127,709,000 this year and $128,000,000 in 1935, comprised the bulk of this country's sales to the world in farm products both years.

Claude L. Thigpen Claimed By Death Rites From Home

Life-Long Resident of Pitt County Succumbs to Extended Illness at Home on Broad Street

Claude L. Thigpen, 54, died at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home on Broad Street after having been in declining health for several months.

Funeral services were conducted from the late home at 3 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. W. A. Ruff, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, of which Mr. Thigpen was a member, in charge. Burial followed in the family burial ground on the old Thigpen home place on the Pictious road.

Mr. Thigpen is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hulda Thigpen; four sons, Claude, Jr., Willie Benjamin, Bruce Edwards and Howard (Tom) Thigpen; three daughters, Miss Margaret Louise, Ida Lucille and Hulda Frances Thigpen; five sisters, Mrs. Julius Fleming and Mrs. Julius Brown of Greenville, Mrs. W. W. Harrington of Asheville, Mrs. George Cherry, Sr. of Greenville and Mrs. Hugh Cobb of Norfolk, Va.; two brothers, James Adley Thigpen of Florence, S. C., and W. J. Thigpen of Sanford, Pa., and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Mr. Thigpen was born and reared near Greenville and has spent most of his life in the county. He retired from farming a few years ago on account of his health and moved to this city from his home in the country.

Active pallbearers were A. K. McGowan, Jake Kinnair, J. Henry Erdler, R. B. Kirtland, J. C. Galloway, Ed Ward, E. R. Dudley and C. E. Langley. Included in the list of honorary pallbearers were G. V. Smith, L. B. Fleming, V. C. Fleming, S. T. White, Dr. K. B. Pate, Godfrey Osler, Carl Reid, W. C. Chubbuck, Sam McGee, W. E. Chubbuck, B. B. Sarg, J. H. Harrison, J. C. Gaskins, J. H. Brice, R. V. Keel and Wayland Stroome.

In presenting their appeal to the President, Maloy and Patterson completed their campaign for federal support in resisting the Carnegie-Illinois employee representation plan at the proposed wage agreement, which the company has asked employee representatives to find.

Yesterday they were successful in obtaining from Secretary Perkins and opinion that the company employee representatives do not have authority to sign a binding wage agreement.

The company has offered a 10 per cent increase in wages, contingent upon signing a yearly agreement—starting Monday—which provides that wages shall be adjusted upward and downward with fluctuations in the cost of living as computed by the labor department.

Only Wheat Expected In Insurance Set-Up

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Crop insurance, if such a law is enacted by Congress, probably will be limited to wheat, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told the 90th annual meeting of the National Grange today.

A group of government officials, headed by Secretary Wallace, is studying the subject. A report will be made to President Roosevelt and Wallace said he thought the chief executive would make a recommendation to Congress.

Some opposition to crop insurance has been voiced by farmers, Wallace said, on the ground the plan would divert attention from their "more vital interest—production control." He added the future program of the administration may be based on production control with crop insurance as a phase of it.

MAN HELD FOR FATAL WRECK

Elbert Stokes Charged with Death of 'Dick' Flowers

David Watson ("Dick") Flowers, 28, of Clayton was killed in an automobile wreck on the Washington highway in front of the O. K. filling station early this morning and Elbert Stokes of Greenville, South Carolina, is being held in connection with the fatal accident.

Patrolman C. R. Williams and Constable Gus Stokes, who investigated the wreck, said Stokes drove out onto the highway at the filling station four miles from the city, swerving to the path of the oncoming car, which was stopped and turned over several times.

The officers and Stokes failed to stop and render aid to the injured man, but drove about three miles down Red Bank road and ran into a tree, wrecking his car. Stokes' brother Ray Stokes was in the front seat of the car and suffered lacerations to the face and several broken ribs in the second accident.

An ambulance was summoned and Flowers taken to the hospital, but died at about the time he arrived.

The officer charged Stokes with manslaughter in the hit-and-run wreck. The accident occurred about 3:30 a. m.

Flowers' car was said by the officers to have contained a number of empty five-gallon cans.

A coroner's inquest was called and after it was brought out that Flowers had been drinking, he was set at $1,000, which he posted.

Germany Assumes Complete Control Over Its Rivers

Notifies Signatories of Versailles Treaty Internationalization Clause No Longer Valid

Berlin, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Germany assumed complete control of her rivers today, notifying signatories of the treaty of Versailles that the internationalization clause is no longer valid.

River traffic henceforth will be subject to German regulations, the Third Reich asserted.

Several of Germany's best waterways were placed under international commission by part XII of the treaty of Versailles assuring foreign traffic equal rights with German shipping.

Today's denunciation, following six months Germany's "showing off" of Versailles, shocked the commission of five German rivers.

These have been controlled by commissions comprised a representative of the most interested nations, with Germany in the minority.

Today's move, it was explained, automatically means that Germany will no longer recognize powers of the international commission.

Strike Spokesman Threatens Action

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Harry Bridges, militant longshoremen leader, declared today strike marine workers would like new action against employers unless the maritime strike is settled soon.

Business men, who said the dispute is costing west coast $10,000,000 daily, demanded quick peace.

Bridges, who led the longshoremen's walkout two years ago, declared his union and others "would do something" unless docked peace negotiations could be resumed "within the next three or four days."

A pioneer in the formation of "Roosevelt" clubs, Howell maintained an active interest in national and state politics until the end.

He was chosen last June to succeed Governor Eugene Talmadge as the State Democratic committeeman.

Howell, known nationally for his journalistic work, was one of the original directors of the Associated Press. He was elected to the position in 1900 and held it at the time of his death.

The editor is survived by his widow, the former Mrs. Margaret Cannon Carr of Durham, N. C., four sons and four sisters.

Washington Man Held For Reckless Driving

M. D. Boyd of Washington is being held under $100 bond for his appearance in County court here to face charges of reckless driving following a wreck on the Washington road about 7 o'clock this morning.

Patrolman H. B. Smith, who investigated the wreck, said Boyd attempted to pass a truck driven by E. A. Huntings of New Bern, side-swiped it and then struck an oncoming automobile driven by J. Y. Monk. No one was seriously injured in the three-way accident, Boyd and Huntings were on their way to Greenville and Monk was going in the opposite direction.

Prices Continue Good On Local Leaf Mart

The Greenville tobacco market has sold a total of 43,993,040 pounds this season for $10,643,314.42 an official general average of $24.19.

The market continues to attract growers from a wide area, farmers from a number of border and South Carolina counties bringing their product here to be sold.

Prices also continue to remain high on the local market, with the average running higher here than on any other market in the New Bright belt.

Only Few Defendants Tried In City Court

Only four defendants were tried in Municipal court this morning. The defendants, charges and disposition follow:

Louis Harper, negro drunk, pay cost; Elbers Braxton, parking left of street, pay cost; Bryant Baker, careless and reckless driving, bound over to County court under $100 bond; and Lulu Campbell, assault with a deadly weapon, bound over to County court under $100 bond.

Negro Slightly Hurt By Hit-Run Motorist

Reber Fleming, negro, was wounded early this morning when he was struck by a hit-and-run automobile on the Falkland highway near this city.

The sheriff's office was called to investigate, but when members arrived no trace could be found of the car. Fleming was brought to the hospital here, treated for cuts about the face, but was not admitted.

BOMBS HURLED AT CENTER OF MADRID PLAZA

At Least 53 Persons Slain and Many Others Injured

EXPLOSION FELT IN U. S. EMBASSY

Defense Commander Calls Upon Army to 'Wipe Out' 50,000 Insurgent Invaders

Madrid, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Insurgent bombers, unleashing high explosives into a thronged Madrid plaza, killed an estimated 53 persons and wounded 150 others today.

The aerial attackers "dropped eight explosive missiles, five of which fell into a throng where a defense mass meeting was being held.

Stung to fury by the raid, Madrid's defense commander ordered his armies to "wipe out 50,000 of the enemy."

"Before you are rebel armies about 50,000 strong," proclaimed General Jose Miaja. "Smash thru them, wipe them out."

He ordered a relentless drive on the besiegers of Madrid a few hours after the air raid.

The force of the explosion was felt in the United States embassy, where more than 50 American Nationals have taken refuge from the assaults on Madrid.

The crowded plaza was turned into a scene of horror by the blasts, which shook the capital to the foundations.

The power of the bombs was demonstrated by the fact that one blew a large hole through the roof of a subway which had been considered a bomb proof shelter.

Farewell Dinner Held In Honor Of Dr. Gilbert Combs

Board of Stewards of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Gather For Testimonial Occasion

The Board of Stewards of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church held a testimonial farewell dinner last night for Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, who is to terminate connections with the local Methodist church Sunday after spending three years as pastor.

Dr. Combs is being transferred to the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist church and has been assigned to the church at Hendersonville.

It was an unusual occasion in that everyone present was permitted to express words of regret and praise for the retiring pastor.

The first speaker was K. T. Putrelle, chairman of the finance committee of the Board of Stewards, introduced by Toastmaster K. W. Cobb as the "outstanding member of the board. Mr. Putrelle spoke of what a pleasure it had been to work the past three years with Dr. Combs because he had kept things moving.

The next speaker was J. H. Waldrop, chairman of the Board of Stewards. First he read a telegram from Dr. K. B. Pace, who wired his regrets from Maxton, where he was detained on business, and could not attend though one of the sponsors. Mr. Waldrop said he wanted to indicate a few of the outstanding achievements and evidences of progress of Dr. Combs pastorate.

By reference to figures from the Church Journal, Mr. Waldrop said he found the following amounts raised in the past three years—1934 $23,403; 1935 $13,518; 1936 $13,000.

"It was the leadership of Dr. Combs which saw us remove the debt we had when he came. He inspired, encouraged and spurred those who toiled," the speaker went on. Figures quoted showed an increase of 173 members in the three years making a total now of 1,195 members, but that is a net left after Dr. Combs' fearless action in having the church rolls purged of ninety members who had for years been on the rolls, but were unknown and could not be located.

"We want to say these things now while Dr. Combs is here; so he can know how much we value his leadership," Mr. Waldrop said.

L. B. Garris the next speaker briefly and pointedly expressed his regrets that Dr. Combs had to leave and his appreciation for Dr. Combs' fine leadership and his family. This speaker was followed by P. L. Goodson, who spoke in the same vein. Then the following men and ladies added their word of appreciation and regrets: Mrs. K. E. Pace, J. L. Little, Marvin Hunt, Dr. William Brown, W. C. Vincent, Johnny Overton, J. C. Waldrop. (Continued on Page Four)

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — No spot in Washington gives a person a more solemn, throat-choking sensation than that grayish-white stone catafalque in Arlington cemetery in which lies the body of the unknown soldier.

Photographs show its shape, in design not unlike an armored car. But to feel its emotional wrench you must be on the spot, sense its strange isolation and see the guard slowly pacing back and forth as detached as the ancient moving figures of an old-world cathedral clock. You must read that prayerful epithet, "known but to God," and above all know that at about eye-level, separated from you only by a few inches of stone, lies that body selected to rest in state for all time as the silent spokesman for unknown dead of the World War.

There are other tombs for unknown dead of other wars not far from this one. But either the years have robbed them of the almost dread solemnity of the World War unknown, or it was felt only by generations now gone, or almost gone. Down stream three miles along the Potomac in old Alexandria, Va., lies the unknown soldier of the Revolutionary War. A few call there, not many.

Two hundred yards up the slope from the tomb of the World War unknown is another strange monument to unnamed dead. Beneath a six foot high square of rock lie, all tangled together, the bones of over 50 dead, including men from ranks of both the blue and the gray, brought to Arlington from Gettysburg. On certain summer afternoons a group of half a dozen women, delegated by some local Civil War auxiliary, will gather round the tomb. They sing a hymn or two, deposit a wreath and offer a prayer. Their service often is not ignored or drowned out by the playful cries of youngsters.

But rarely at the tomb of the World War unknown is a voice raised, not even a child's.

The tomb is out of sight of Washington, across the Potomac. From Arlington house (home of Robert E. Lee until he left it to Union occupation while he led the southern armies) both Washington and the tomb of the unknown may be seen.

The Lee home, now a shrine, faces down the slope toward the city. It was already a famous landmark while Washington was yet a mosquito bog.

The tomb is on the reverse slope, looking away from the river. Presidents, ambassadors, war veterans, and ordinary folk unnumbered lay wreaths or sprigs by it.

Visit after visit fails to abate the uncanny awesome atmosphere of the place, the feeling that there lies a man, dead, but brooding, nevertheless, over the waste of the years that were his, but snatched away, for what good?

Children's Play: II
The earliest play activities of the child are in the nature of initial sense experiences. They represent the child's first contacts with the material world about it. Later, however, the emotional content of the child's play predominates and the purely contact element, and the child "lives experiences" by fancying them.

Imitiveness may be the outstanding character of such play. The little girl will administer to her doll the care she witnesses the mother bestowing on the youngest of the family, or the son may act his father "making things." In such instances, not ampie activity, but life's situations, experienced in play and fancy, occupy the child. Of course, the child does not discriminate very acutely and will as soon imitate the undesirable as the desirable witnessed situation and experience.

At times, however, and especially with the somewhat older child of

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: To help her family's dwindling income, attractive Sally Warren, who always thinks of others, becomes society editor of the Warrenton Courier. She feels responsible for pay, willful Tip and handsome Ray, the 18-year-old Warren twins who are about to finish high school. Terry Maynard, boyish, blond aviator in love with Sally, flies her to near-by Greensboro to stand by during his interview with the head of a large aviation firm. He lands a job with South American prospects and asks Sally to marry him that very night.

Chapter Six Tip Gets Caught

BUT they were not married that night, Sally, on the way to the plane, trying to match Terry's long stride, tugged at his arm breathlessly. "Terry, we can't be married now. I don't know whenever we can be married."

Terry stopped short. "But you said..."
"I know. But we must wait. We mustn't even let anyone know we're engaged. Father and Mother can't do without my salary now. They've got to have the money, and I've no right to take it away from them until I've seen Ray safely off to school and got a place for Tip."

"Why didn't you say so, then, instead of yes?" said Terry sullenly. He turned away from her and stood by the plane, his hands plunged in his pockets. "That'll take years—and I'm leaving here in six months—I hope."

"Maybe you'll have to leave without me," said Sally. "We're both young, I could come to you later."
"That won't do," said Terry. "I leave here without you, we'll never get married. You'll forget me!"

"Let's not try to settle everything tonight," urged Sally. "Let's wait. We've got six months before you go. Maybe by that time I can see my way clear. So much can happen in six months."

"Sure it can. Maybe somebody will die and leave us a million."
And so it was settled that no one was to be told of the engagement until the six months were up. By the time Terry had brought the plane to a landing on the home field, he was in good spirits again.

"In six months," he boasted, "I'll make a flyer of you. I mean to begin teaching you right away."
Sally was too wise to let him know what dismay this proposal caused her.

They were very gay on the way home. Terry told her all about the interview with Willis Cates, who owned the largest block of stock in the air-line where Terry hoped to make his fortune. Sally predicted that one day Terry would be seated behind a vast mahogany desk, telling other people where and how to fly, and Terry vowed that no amount of money would ever make him give up flying itself.

Duke Has Tire Trouble
THE old car rattled around a bend in the country road and came suddenly upon a parked car. Terry rammmed on the brakes.

"They're having trouble," said Sally, noticing someone standing by the car. "Maybe we'd better stop and see if we can help."

They got out and walked toward the car. As they did so, they saw a girl, who had been holding a flashlight for the man, cut off the switch and run behind the car.

"Come back here with that light," yelled the man. Adams said Terry. "What's the matter, old boy?"

Sally recognized Duke at once. He worked at the Maynard garage and was a flying pupil of Terry's.

"Been up tonight?" inquired Terry, holding his own light for Duke Adams to work by.

"Yep," Duke Adams worked at his fire, keeping his face turned from Sally. "Couple of passengers wanted five or six, its play activities will reflect its attitude to the people and the world about it. If it is unhappy or hurt, the child is likely to reveal its emotional condition in its play. This is so true, that in many clinics dealing with children having behavior difficulties, their play activity serves as a basis for diagnosis and treatment.

But even when the child does not suffer from any gross behavior problems, its play is likely to reveal its emotional state. The observant parent can gather much insight into the child's feelings by taking note of what and how the child plays.

However, deductions therefrom must be drawn with caution. Unlike the adult, the child can do very lit-

"ANTHONY ADVERSE" AT THE PITT NEXT WEEK
Hervey Allen's monumental literary classic, "Anthony Adverse" brought to the screen with all its wealth of color and dramatic fire will be the feature attraction at the Pitt Theatre for three days beginning Sunday.
Fredric March has the stellar role, with beautiful and talented Olivia de Havilland playing the leading female role. It is said that producers spared neither time, nor effort, nor cost to make this one of the season's outstanding productions. Their will be only four performances each day, the feature starting at 1:00, 3:30, 6:35 and 9:10. To thoroughly enjoy this mammoth attraction it is important that one see it from the beginning.

A stone coffin, believed to be more than 1,000 years old, has been unearthed at Combe Down, near Bath, England. It is believed to be a relic of the Roman occupation of England.
In two years after completion of the Santa Clara valley water conservation project in California, the water level was raised to an average of 21 feet over 120,000 acres.

Social and Personal

Zeno Brown is at home from Knoxville, Tenn., to spend the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brown.

Misses Peggy Brewer, Frances and Emily Knott of Kinston are week end guests of Miss Betsy Hobgood.

Miss Marjorie Sugg is spending the week end in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dardan are spending the week end in Durham. Herman J. McLawhorn has returned from Knoxville, Tenn., where he attended the reunion of the Eighty-First Division.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitfield of Roxboro are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wilson.

Mrs. Bowling Club Hostess

Mrs. L. H. Bowling delightfully entertained members of her bridge club yesterday afternoon at her home on Summit street.

Pink chrysanthemums were attractively arranged in the living room where tables were placed for the game.

Mrs. J. C. Waldrop was winner of silk hose for high score. The hostess served tempting refreshments.

Miss Burnette Honored

Miss Helen Burnette was complimented yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Cecil Bilbro was hostess at a very attractive bridge party at her home on East Tenth street.

In a setting of yellow chrysanthemums, artistically arranged, five tables were placed for the game.

Mrs. William H. Taft scoring high was given a set of ash trays, and Mrs. M. P. Yates a pair of ash trays for second high. Mrs. Perry, a guest of Miss Burnette, was remembered with an attractive gift. Miss Burnette was presented a pair of vases.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. P. B. Haar, served a delectable salad plate.

Mrs. R. T. Burnette, Mrs. G. C. Smith and Mrs. W. E. Hooker joined other guests for the refreshment hour.

Honors Wedding Party

Honoring the Jacobs-Burnette wedding party, relatives, and out-of-town guests, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford C. Smith and Mrs. R. Troy Burnette entertained at an informal reception immediately following the rehearsal at the church.

The home was decorated throughout with chrysanthemums and snapdragons, yellow being used in the reception hall and living room, and white in the dining room. Mrs. J. L. Hassel greeted the guests at the front door and Mrs. W. H. Woodard directed them into the gift room.

On the dining room table was a beautiful Chinese linen cloth. In the center was the wedding cake, topped with the miniature bride and bridegroom. Fern was used at the base, interspersed with dainty white flowers. Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale cut and served green and white cream from silver platters at opposite ends of the table. Green and white mints and nuts were served by Misses Doris Garris, Helen Fleming, Mary Weolard and Lena Mae Smith. The cake was first cut by the bride and bridegroom and wedding party and then the guests.

On the buffet was a miniature wedding scene on a reflector. In the background ivy and tiny white lighted tapers were used.

Entertain at Luncheon

Mrs. J. L. Hassel and Miss Marjorie Sugg were charming hostesses at a beautifully appointed luncheon at one o'clock today, honoring Miss Helen Burnette and Francis Jacobs.

The home on Pitt street was attractively decorated in chrysanthemums, Mexican sunflowers and other autumn flowers.

The table was covered with an exquisite arrangement of mixed flowers. A delectable turkey luncheon was served to members of the wedding party and the family.

son of Goldsboro. Mr. and Mrs. Mosley Carr Bowden, of Faison; Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Edwards, of Greenville; Dr. and Mrs. Karl B. Pace, of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bennett, of Burlington, and Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Thomas, Farmville.

The Homecoming dance climaxes a program which includes a barbecue luncheon for all students, faculty members, and former students, on the campus at 12:45; a Homecoming rally in the Austin auditorium at 1:45, featuring talks by President Meadows and Mrs. J. B. Epiman, vice-chairman of the State Democratic Executive committee; a football game between the Pirates and the Lenoir College eleven on the athletic field at 3 o'clock. The dance will bring the Homecoming to a close.

Carolina Playmakers

The Carolina Playmakers, who will present three one-act plays in the Robert H. Wright auditorium Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock, are on a tour which includes performances in four states.

Henderson, Benson, Chapel Hill, Wilson and Greenville are the North Carolina towns where the Playmakers will perform before starting northward to Baltimore, Princeton, N. J., and Pleasantville, N. Y.

"New Nigger," by Fred Howard, will probably prove interesting to the Greenville audience because of its setting, which is in Wilson county and deals with the consequences of a share-cropper's cruelty to his negro tenants.

Josephine Nigh's "Tooth or Shave?" is set in Mexico, where the author has lived most of her life. It deals with a combination barber shop and dentist's office. Amelma, the barber, seems to have more delight in pulling teeth than in practicing his legitimate profession.

Paul Green's "Square Medicine" which is one of the most famous of the Carolina plays, is the third play included in the program.

Resolutions for Mrs. Laughinghouse

On the 19th of October, 1936, Mrs. Carrie D. Laughinghouse, widow of the late Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, having lived a life of unusual usefulness, passed into the Great Beyond to receive the glorious reward of the faithful.

We, the members of the American Legion Auxiliary, wish to pay loving tribute to our beloved character member, who was one of the organizers of the local auxiliary and for many years served as president.

As a wife and mother she measured up to every demand. Nor was her interest confined to her own family for as a neighbor she was ready to render assistance toward the relief of suffering humanity, always doing her bit to make others happy. To know her was to love her. Truly her sons and daughter can "arise up and call her blessed."

We shall miss her and are conscious of a great loss in her going. We will cherish her memory and pray that her gentle spirit may ever abide, inspiring us to a nobler life.

Be it resolved, that we are sincerely thankful for her life among us, and that we were permitted to know and work with her.

That we extend her children and other loved ones our deepest sympathy and pray God's blessing on each one.

That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, and that a copy be sent to her loved ones and to the Daily Reflector.

"Education in Democracy"

"Education in Democracy" was the subject of Dr. Meadows' talk at the college assembly hour yesterday morning. This was the high spot in the observance of Education Week.

Dr. Meadows presented four difficulties with four remedies, in his discussion of the present educational system. Mass education, with over-crowded classrooms and overworked teachers who cannot give each child the attention he deserves, he believes is the first and greatest fault today.

Interference with teaching by people not qualified to pass judgment on them, and the setting up of the standards by laymen, he believes are two great handicaps the

Break Record

All records for salesroom attendance at a new Chevrolet announcement, as well as all records for sales in a similar period, have been broken this past week Mr. Stafford of the White Chevrolet Company announced Saturday.

Local sales for the week will total more than 27, and visitors in the dealership more than 5000, he said. These figures are far in excess of anything in the past, and in the opinion of Chevrolet officials, forecast another banner year.

"The demand for the new models made itself felt before a single individual had seen the 1937 line at all," said Mr. Stafford. "There were

$50 Will Buy A Smart Winter Outfit

FOR LIMITED BUDGETS
The girl who dresses on a limited clothes budget can buy this smart winter outfit for about $50. The coat of dark gray wool, designed with a collar which can be worn open or buttoned close to the throat and finished with a black feather belt, costs between $25 and $30. Under it is a simple shirtwaist frock of gray wool crepe costing from $8 to $10. Felt hat, velvet scarf and suede-finished fabric gloves are all wine colored and if the scarf is made at home the trio can be had for about $7. The bag and shoes are black. Models similar to them can be bought for a total of less than $10.

schools have to overcome in a democracy in which everybody feels he knows as much as the professionally trained person.

When teaching is recognized as a profession and teachers and others with a sympathetic intelligent attitude toward teaching as the standards, these two handicaps will be overcome, he believes.

His last point was that the supply of and demand for teachers should be worked out so that there would not be overworked teachers and trained teachers without jobs. Shortening of hours, distribution of the teacher load, and a readjustment in the curriculum should remove this difficulty.

In introducing his subject, Dr. Meadows said, "We boast of our democratic form of government, boast because we respect it, boast of our education system and boast in America that every boy can reach any height if he wants to."

He called attention to the present celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of public schools in North Carolina, which will be presented here on next Friday during the meeting of the North Carolina Education Association.

12 orders on file the night before the new car made its formal bow. In celebration of the all-time records made in 1936, and the outlook for even better business in 1937, we entertained our entire staff of 38 people at a breakfast in the Carolina Grill on announcement day. They had seen the new models at the big presentation meeting held recently at Charlotte, and were enthusiastic in their prediction of new sales peaks this year. By evening of the announcement day, there was no question in anyone's mind that the 1937 models had been enthusiastically received by the public."

Mr. Stafford reported a strong demand for the bright-colored models which are prominent in the line this year. All deliveries are being made promptly, he added.

DEBATE QUERY ON UTILITIES

Public Ownership To Be Subject for High Schools

Chapel Hill, Nov. 14.—The question as to whether the government should own and operate all electric light and power utilities will be discussed by hundreds of North Carolina high school debaters in their spring debates of the present scholastic year.

This was indicated here today in the announcement that the following query had been chosen for this year's contest of the High School Debating Union of North Carolina: "Resolved, That the government should own and operate all electric light and power utilities."

The schools which enroll in the High School Debating Union will participate in a State-wide triangular series of debates. Those winning both sides of the contest will send their teams to Chapel Hill to compete in the finals for the Aycock Cup. All schools of secondary nature are invited to enter.

Announcement of the query was made today by Secretary E. R. Rankin, who pointed out that the question of government ownership and operation of electric utilities had been chosen as the national high school debate topic for this year. Thirty-five state high school debating leagues will discuss this question in their annual contests next spring.

For the assistance of debaters in their preparation for the contests, a debate handbook, containing articles bearing on both sides of the question and giving references as to additional sources of material, is in course of preparation here. This handbook, to be entitled "Government Ownership and Operation of Electric Utilities," will be published in the series of the University of North Carolina Extension Bulletin.

A debate on the national high school debate topic will be broadcast from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., eastern standard time, on Thursday, November 19, over the Red Network and affiliated stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

Speakers on the affirmative in Thursday's debate will be: Norman Thomas, candidate for President on the Socialist ticket in the recent election, and Harry W. Laidler, executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy. The negative team will be composed of: G. W. Dyer, of the faculty of Vanderbilt University, and W. C. Dyer, vice-president of the Southern California Edison Company.

This radio debate has been arranged by a committee from the National University Extension Association, so that the thousands of high school debaters throughout the country might hear the arguments presented on both sides of the national high school debate topic.

FAREWELL DINNER HELD IN HONOR DR. GILBERT COMBS

Mrs. Combs and Billy Combs responded briefly. Billy said he hoped the people at Hendersonville would be as good to him and his family as the folks in Greenville.

"We will carry this picture with us and treasure it," Dr. Combs responded. Then he spoke of how he had enjoyed and appreciated the fellowship in Greenville and was glad to have been able to finish his twenty-fifth year as a preacher while here. He said the payment of the church debt, the purging of the rolls, and the engaging of a student and young peoples worker he considered the mile posts in his pastorate here. His one regret was not having been able to build a new parsonage for the next preacher.

He said he never intended to let the four walls of his particular church to be the limits of his efforts in a community. He closed his remarks with regrets for having to leave Greenville where he has so many good friends.

The occasion was sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Cobb, Dr. and Mrs. Pace, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Garris, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Goodson. The fine meal was served by two circles of the Woman's Missionary Society—number two, Mrs. Marvin Blount, chairman; number three, Mrs. Key Norris, chairman.

The Board of Stewards passed a resolution which praised the work of Dr. Combs, both in and out of church circles. It called attention that a $12,000 indebtedness of the church was paid off during his first year here and stated that all pastoral duties had been carried to a marked degree of excellency.

In regard to his civic activities, the resolution declared that Dr. Combs has worked unceasingly, "and especially in Scout work, being at this time chairman of the Greenville district." He also was praised for his work with the Rotary club.

The resolution concluded by saying the church will remember him for his "scholarly messages, his example of Christian character and commend him to the Hendersonville church as an outstanding leader in civic and religious life, and further feel that our loss will be a distinct gain to others."

Hunters Awaiting Season's Opening On November 20th

Sports To Take to Fields in State Next Friday in Search of Quail, Rabbit and Wild Turkey

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—With firearms primed for action and dogs on the leash, North Carolina hunters are ready for the zero hour of the big gunning season, opening on November 20 when they will take the field for the most generally popular of all game species of the state—quail, rabbit, and wild turkey.

Various other seasons, among which are those for squirrels, deer, and bear, have previously opened and gunners have had their preliminary field outings.

As indicated by advance sale of licenses, the greatest army of hunters to take the field in years will participate in the sport this year. According to observations and reports from various parts of the state received by J. D. Chalk, State game and inland fisheries commissioner, the covers of North Carolina offer the largest supply of most types of game in years.

In spite of severe cold weather, wildlife came through last winter in good condition and followed by a good breeding season, hunters should have more than ordinarily attractive sport, in the opinion of Mr. Chalk. Another reason assigned by the commissioner to the anticipated improved hunting conditions, is the increasing amount of food available to wildlife. This has been brought about by the planting of more grains by farmers and the provision of more food sources through various phases of the soil conservation programs.

Along with quail, rabbit, and turkey seasons, a brief hunting period for ruffed grouse in Western North Carolina will open on November 20. This season will extend to December 15. Migratory waterfowl shooting, including ducks and geese, which is governed by Federal regulations, will open on November 26. New species of ducks have, however, been added to the protected group this year. Species which cannot be legally taken include wood duck, ruddy duck, buffhead, redhead, canvasback and brant. Dove season reopens on December 20 after being closed following an open period through the month of September.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Possible governmental action to stem the foreign buying rush in American securities today helped put a damper on the stock-market.

While a few alcohol, amusements and aircraft bucked the trend and early losses of fractions to two or more points were later reduced in some instances, numerous recent leaders were substantial lower at the close. Transfers were around 1,150,000 shares.
