President Departs For Inter-American Parley In Buenos Aires Dec. 1

Embarks From Harbor at Charleston Amid Ceremonies

PLANS TO MAKE OFFICIAL VISITS

Chief Executive To Address Opening of Meeting Called In Interest of Peace

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—In a ceremonious setting President Roosevelt embarked on the cruiser Indianapolis here today for his good-will journey to South America.

Bound on a fast 6,000 mile voyage to Buenos Aires to open the inter-American peace conference December 1, he rode from the train to the dock through two miles of streets lined with thousands of citizens from South Carolina and neighboring states.

He was piped over the side of the cruiser with two 21-gun salutes while more than 600 officers and men in blue manned the rails.

As the speedy gray navy craft pulled out of the harbor, a battery at Fort Moultrie boomed out another 21-gun salute.

One of his last acts before he left was to issue a formal statement expressing "heart felt appreciation" for the thousands of telegrams congratulating him on his reelection.

Mr. Roosevelt is to address the Buenos Aires peace parley December 1.

Twenty-one American republics will participate in the conference, which Mr. Roosevelt called last summer as a step toward making the spirit of peace on the western hemisphere a "practical and living fact."

The president also will visit Brazil and Uruguay before returning to Washington the middle of next month.

PRESIDENT PLANS RETURN TO CHARLESTON DEC. 14th

Charleston, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Gov. Olin D. Johnston said President Roosevelt told him today before sailing for South America he would disembark here December 14 on his return trip and go to Warm Springs, Ga.

The Governor said the President indicated he would travel by train to Columbia and motor from there to Macon, Ga., in order to grant Johnston's expressed wish that the people of central South Carolina might have an opportunity to see and greet the Chief Executive.

The President expressed great satisfaction over news in the morning press that a widespread movement for wage increases had gotten under way in the Carolina textile industry and over South Carolina's record breaking vote in his behalf two weeks ago yesterday.

Health Officials Report Diphtheria Situation Serious

Sixty-Five Cases Reported in Pitt County So Far This Year Compared With 37 in All of 1935

Following on the heels of an announcement yesterday that tuberculosis is showing a marked increase this year over 1935, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, health officer, said today that so far this year 65 cases of diphtheria have been reported in the county, compared with only 37 during the entire of last year.

Dr. Ennett said that there had been a general increase in diphtheria throughout the state, but said the increase in Pitt county was much greater than for the state as a whole.

The alarming situation in Pitt county is shown by the fact that of 37 cases reported throughout the state in October, 22 of them were from this county. The 38 in the state last month compare with 34 in the corresponding month a year ago.

The health officer urged vaccination of all children as old as six months, and added it was essential that all children in their second or third year be given the antitoxin.

He explained that it was at this age that most cases occur.

The health officer strongly urged parents to see that their own children do not visit sick children and that the quarantine sign be observed strictly after it is put up.

So far this month 12 cases of diphtheria have been reported in Pitt county. Twenty-two were reported in October, 10 in September, six in August and one in July.

Forty-two of these cases were children under six years of age, the youngest being only four months old.

ENDORSED FOR HIGH POST

The Pitt County Bar Association in session this afternoon unanimously endorsed Judge Albion Dunn for appointment as one of the Justices of the North Carolina Supreme Court when the next session of the legislature increases the court from five to seven Justices. At the recent general election the voters of this state adopted a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to increase the number of Justices. Judge Dunn, prominent member of the local bar, is a former Superior Court Judge having been appointed to the bench by the late Governor A. W. McLean.

King's Daughters Order Holding Convention Here

Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, President of State Branch

The 46th annual convention of the North Carolina Branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons opened its day session here this morning in the Patient Circle church, Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, and Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, president of the State Branch as hostess. Approximately a hundred delegates were in attendance at the opening session.

Preceding the opening of the convention this morning a meeting of the executive board was held with the following present: Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, of Greenville, president; Mrs. B. L. Tyree, of Durham, vice-president; Mrs. W. T. Uelshci, of Raleigh, recording secretary; Mrs. E. W. Harvey, of Greenville, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. A. Stanford, of Willard, state treasurer; Mrs. T. R. Manning, of Roanoke Rapids, chaplain; Mrs. W. H. S. Burgwyn, of Raleigh, honorary president; Mrs. C. L. Haywood, of Durham; Mrs. Viola Young of Charlotte; Mrs. Claude Gore of Rockingham; Mrs. W. A. Thorne of Roanoke Rapids and Mrs. J. L. Boyd of Salisbury.

Also meeting with the executive board was the building committee for the new chapel at Stonewall Jackson Training School at Concord. Mrs. Burgwyn is chairman of this committee.

At the executive board meeting last night the work of the order for the past year was discussed by the various members present; plans for the new year were discussed, but most important of all the discussions was in relation to the building of the chapel at Stonewall Jackson School this year, which is the main objective of the meeting in session here. In addition to this the following committees were appointed to serve during the convention here: Credentials committee—Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Greenville; Mrs. W. B. Evans, Wilmington; Mrs. C. H. Shipp, Durham, auditing committee—Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Greenville; Mrs. Easdale Shaw, Rockingham; Mrs. W. A. Thorne, Roanoke Rapids.

The Resolutions committee is composed of Mrs. Z. A. Rochele, of Durham; Mrs. N. B. Allbrook, of Raleigh, and Mrs. R. G. Kizer, of Salisbury.

The opening session this morning was presided over by Mrs. Moye, and began with the registration of the guests. After the singing of a hymn a most impressive devotional was conducted by Rev. R. C. Grady, pastor of the Presbyterian church here. He gave a most inspiring talk on "Greatness of Love."

Mrs. Virginia Perkins, of Greenville, presented the various programs of the convention and they were accepted by a unanimous vote. Miss Zoe Anna Davis, secretary of the Methodist pastor, gave a

LABOR LEADER DESIRES COURT ADJUST ITSELF

November Election Declared Mandate Of People

GEORGE L. BERRY A. F. L. SPEAKER

Secretary Perkins Also Delivers Address, Outlining Formula to Insure Progress

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 18.—(AP)—George L. Berry, coordinator for industrial cooperation, told the American Federation of Labor today he believed the Supreme court would recognize the November election as a "mandate" for "maintenance of liberalism in the United States."

Berry said he hoped the Supreme court "will adjust itself to the will of the people," adding he "ventured we will find a legal way of furthering liberalism in this country if there are further reversals."

"I know that the constitution grew out of oppression and was never intended to work against human progress in this great nation," he declared.

A national living wage, continuity of income, stability of employment, reasonable profits and "guidance for the conservation and maximum utilization of natural resources," were named by Secretary of Labor Perkins as comprising a formula for progress.

Speaking before the American Federation of Labor convention, Miss Perkins said, however, that labor's interests can not be attained by legislation alone.

"A strong union movement is essential to the development of labor standards," the secretary declared.

Mrs. Perkins came into a federation convention grown less tense over the necessity for dealing with a group of insurgent unions.

Gaining momentum was a middle-of-the-road plan for saving the federation's face and avoiding an open schism in labor's ranks.

It called for delegate approval of the executive council's suspension of the committee for industrial organization unions, but for leaving in status quo the question of expelling the rebels from the American Federation of Labor.

Defendants Fined For Violating Game Laws

Pitt county residents who violate the State game laws are finding the practice an expensive one, several defendants having been fined in Magistrate courts on such charges.

Tom Langley was forced to pay a $25 fine, costs to be deducted, on a charge of shooting quail out of season.

Keth Graham and T. P. Langley, each was fined $10, costs to be deducted, upon conviction of trapping without a license.

Easley Buch, convicted of possessing a raccoon without a license, was fined $100, costs to be deducted.

Truck-Scoter Crash

Muskogee, Okla. (AP)—O. E. Hall, a truck driver, received a broken thumb when his truck collided with a scoter here. Glen Thomas, 9, riding the scoter, was uninjured.

Property Classification Big Legislative Problem

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 18.—One of the biggest jobs the 1937 general assembly is going to have on its hands is the enactment of legislation to put into effect the recently adopted amendment providing for the reclassification of property. It is agreed in political circles here.

This one amendment may cause enough trouble and disagreement in legislative circles to hold the general assembly in session for many weeks more than otherwise might be necessary, a good many observers believe.

The purpose of the property classification amendment is to permit the general assembly to classify and segregate property for purposes of taxation, so that different types of property may be taxed at different rates instead of at a uniform rate, as was the case until this new amendment was adopted.

The valuable property at higher rates and to put lower rates of tax on inactive property and personal property, such as notes, bank deposits and so forth. Proponents of the plan maintain that by reducing the tax rate on personal and

FASCIST SPAIN IS RECOGNIZED

Germany and Italy to Send Diplomatic Representatives

Rome, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Italy and Germany, the world's great fascist powers, formally recognized the regime Dictator Designate Francisco Franco in Spain today.

The joint action came on the Italian "day of Ignominy and Inquiry" the first anniversary of the day on which most of Europe's powers—not including Germany—resorted to league of nation's sanctions in a futile effort to stop Italy's conquest in Ethiopia.

It followed by less than a month an Italo-German agreement, under which the two countries both accused by the Spanish and Russian governments of aiding the Spanish insurgent with men and arms agreed to work together on major problems of Europe.

An official communique issued on Rome stated:

"In consequence of the fact that General Franco has taken possession of the great part of Spain and the development of a situation which shows with increasing clarity that in the remaining part of Spain one cannot speak of the exercise of a responsible governing power the fascist government has decided to recognize the government of General Franco and send to that government a Charge d'Affaires to begin diplomatic relations."

Simultaneously in Berlin, Germany granted official recognition to the Franco provisional government with headquarters at Burgos.

American Industry Dividend Overflow Near $500,000,000

Fourteen Companies Add More Than $20,000,000 in Extra Payments and Christmas Bonuses

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—American industry pushed the year end dividend overflow toward the $500,000,000 mark today as 14 companies and more than 200,000,000 in extra payments to the Christmas push of thousands of share holders.

The ranks of workers participating in the golden torrent through wage increases and Christmas bonuses were augmented by more than 65,000 in the tire, shoe and other industries. The widespread autumn movement period had rolled up wage increases estimated at more than $125,000,000 annually for 1,200,000 workers.

A distribution of $600,000 for 30,000 workers by the international Shoe Company with headquarters at St. Louis helped lift the Christmas bonus total above $25,000,000.

Twenty-one companies ordered payments amounting in all to about $65,000,000 including the $30,000,000 in expanded dividends in the year end rush to distribute larger 1936 profits and avoid the federal surtax upon undivided earnings.

This raised the total for 20 companies to about $425,000,000 and put industry well on the way toward a new record for Christmas distributions.

In Favor Of Fixing Limit on Work Hours

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Robert W. Johnson, president of Johnson & Johnson, declared today that the United States "must give the wage earner his due" and "the simplest way is to pass a constitutional amendment giving Congress authority to fix maximum hours of work and then pass legislation to carry this out."

Johnson, whose surgical dressing company employs more than 5,000 persons, and controls large cotton mills in the South, proposed that "American big business give immediate consideration to the fixing of maximum working hours for all classes of labor."

He said this should be done "either by industrial cooperation or, if necessary, through constitutional amendment" as a "means of broadening the rising tide of recovery and permanently ending unemployment."

The Phoenixians are the first recorded settlers in Spain.

Death Claims Diva

Mrs. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, (above) beloved operatic and concert singer, died at her home in Hollywood last night. She was stricken with a recurrent blood ailment that caused hemorrhages of the throat and lungs. Blood transfusions were resorted to, but failed to revive the beloved singer. HIGH OFFICIAL SUICIDE VICTIM

French Minister Had Been Charged With Desertion

Lille, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Roger Salengro, French minister of the interior died today in what his brother Henri said was an act of suicide.

The minister's death was caused by gas asphyxiation, his brother declared.

The first announcement of Salengro's death had declared it followed a short ailment from a heart ailment.

"The campaign of infamy recently carried on against my brother drove him to desperation," Henri Salengro said.

"Although he was completely exonerated, he committed suicide."

(The brother referred to revival by Rightists last month of charges Salengro betrayed his country during the war.)

The death of Salengro caused a sensation in French parliamentary circles, especially his brother's declarations of suicide, which were interpreted as putting the government of Premier Leon Blum in an embarrassing position.

Legislative quarters began an immediate discussion as to the possibility the asserted suicide might be interpreted in opposition circles as tantamount to a confession of guilt to the desertion charges.

Tugwell To Quit As Administrator Of Resettlement

Dr. W. W. Alexander, Formerly of Atlanta and Now Assistant Administrator, Named to Position

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Rexford G. Tugwell announced today he had resigned as under secretary of agriculture and resettlement administrator.

In a brief statement, Tugwell said Dr. W. W. Alexander, formerly of Atlanta and now assistant administrator, will succeed him as head of the resettlement administration.

At New York it was announced Tugwell would become an executive vice president of the American Molasses company.

This was announced by Charles W. Tausig, president of the company with whom Dr. Tugwell was associated in the "Roosevelt Brain Trust" through the 1932 campaign and in the early days of the New Deal administration.

"It is true that I have resigned," the New Deal executive told newsmen before leaving for East Arkansas for an inspection of farm tenant conditions with Secretary Wallace and others, including Alexander.

BOMBERS RAID BUSINESS AREA

Northwestern Section of Spanish City Is Transformed Into Virtual No Man's Land as Defenders and Fascists Engage in House to House Battle

Madrid, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Wiry thousands streamed out of Madrid's packed subway stations after a night of terror today to view the blackened skeleton of bloodshed and great shell and bomb-craters in the heart of the capital.

A nightmare of bound white-faced Madrid packed four deep in the underground city took many lives and caused incalculable property damage, gave way to bright sunshine and a lull in the battle for the Spanish capital.

There was an early morning air raid but big guns of fascists invaders limited themselves to occasional shots along the southern and western front.

Madrid, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Packed four deep in subway stations, terrified men, women and children made an underground city of bombarded and besieged Madrid today.

Quarreling and jostling for elbow room or even curling up on the platform beneath the feet of the crowds, Madrilenos sought safe refuge from aerial bombs and artillery shells while fascist invaders and defending militiamen fought house to house in a corner of the city.

Many of those who jammed the subway stations tried to push aboard trains running to the eastern sections of Madrid and away from the bombed western and central portions.

The exodus to the eastern area began after fascist bombers rained explosives and insurgent gunners set a barrage of shells ripping into the business and residential districts.

Fires blazed in the central district as the insurgent invaders threw all available man and gun power into the drive to capture Madrid.

The northwestern section was transformed into a virtual no man's land as attackers and defenders fought building to building battles in the University City district.

Man Held In Jail For Higher Court On Robbery Count

James M. Adams, Said to Have a Long Criminal Record, Charged With Robbing Aged Farmer

James M. Adams, said by local police officers to have a long criminal record behind him as a professional pickpocket, was bound over to Superior court under bond of $500 following a preliminary hearing in Municipal court this morning on a charge of having robbed an aged farmer of more than $400.

Adams and his confederates are charged with having taken approximately $430 off the person of J. E. Pinkham, 74-year-old farmer of near Washington, shortly after he had sold his tobacco and cashed the checks here on October 29.

Adams or one of his confederates is alleged to have faked a fall from a warehouse door onto the aged farmer and during the scramble picked his pocket of the money. The cash was not missed immediately and when the loss was discovered the men could not be found.

Adams was said by Chief George Clark to have served a term in the Atlanta penitentiary, as well as a term in State's prison for picking pockets. He also was said to have "skipped bond in a number of cities in North Carolina during the past year or so.

Bud Pitt, negro, was fined five dollars and costs upon conviction of assault.

J. W. Mills was bound over to County court under bond of $50 on a charge of careless and reckless driving.

Johnnie Hyman and Tom Little, negroes, were bound over to County court under bond of $250 each on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS. Sally Warren, attractive, 22 and considerate, joins the Warrenton Courier staff as society editor to boost the family income. She wants to help Ray and Terry, headstrong Tip, the 18-year-old Warren twins. Terry Maynard, boyish blond aviator, lands a job with South American prospects and asks Sally to marry him. They become secretly engaged. Philip Page, whom Sally hasn't seen since childhood, buys the Courier. He finds her dreaming in the moonlight in the garden of his old home. Together they go through the long-uncertain house. Sally notes his charm, but decides to be very formal with her new employer at the office.

Private Secretary

GOOD MORNING, Miss Warren," said Philip Page. "I hope I didn't cut your conversation short, but I wanted to speak to you about a slight change in the make-up of your page."

He sat down by Sally's desk and told her briefly and clearly what he wanted. His manner was business-like to the point of brusqueness, and he made no reference to their meeting of the evening before.

Sally, observing him as he talked, decided that he was quite as good looking as she had thought him the night before. His mouth was firm and well shaped, his eyes were dark and set well apart beneath black brows. His brown hair was brushed back from a high, thoughtful forehead. It might be curly hair, Sally thought, if it were not so severely brushed.

"That's all, I believe," said Philip Page, rising. "By the way, do you take dictation?"

"I did once," said Sally, "but I've forgotten some of my shorthand, I'm afraid."

"I shall need someone who can take dictation from time to time," said Philip Page. "If you feel you could manage it in addition to your work at the desk here, I should be very glad. There will be a salary for that special work of course."

"I'd be very glad to do it," said Sally. She liked the idea of working for Philip Page, and she could certainly use the money.

"Good," said Philip, and retired into the inner office, leaving a cheerful and somewhat excited Sally behind him.

When she reached home that evening, Sally found Tip excited over the prospect of Mary Morris' party.

"It'll be the first real party we've had this summer," gloated Tip. "I've just got to have a new dress. Can I have one, Sally?"

"What's happened to the new frock we bought for the graduation dance?" demanded Sally.

"Oh, that's old, now. Everybody in town has seen that thing."

Tip was stretched out full length in the hammock, looking very pretty in an old sun-back dress that had faded to a faint pink. Sally suddenly felt very tired, and wished Tip would get up and let her lie in the hammock awhile.

"Go help Mother with supper," said Sally suddenly. "I feel like being lazy."

Tip stared up at her in amazement, then, unexpectedly, she rolled out of the hammock onto the grass and picked herself up. "All right," she said. "I don't mind." And then with a mischievous smile she ran toward the house. "You will try to get me a dress, won't you, Sally?"

"I won't promise anything," said Sally firmly. She took off her hat and let the wind ruffle through her hair. The hammock was swung between two apple trees on the edge of the garden, and the dappled shade of the great trees made it an inviting spot.

Sally lay down full length in the hammock and gave herself a little push. The idle motion of the swing made her a little sleepy and very content. With eyes half closed, she dreamed about the party Mary Morris was giving. She would wear her old white organza—no, she would have a new dress, a blue one, of some soft stuff. Terry liked her in soft things like silk or voile. She wondered what Philip Page liked. She guessed he would like Mary Morris. Mary was handsome and brilliant, and had been about a great deal in the world that lay outside of Warrenton, the world Philip Page knew.

Terry's Ideal Of A Wife

A CAR rattled noisily down Rosemary street. Sally knew it was Terry's. She was glad to come often to the Warren house these days. It was fun to be able to go out with Terry to ride or to dance after a day in the office. Sally decided to be quiet and let Terry hunt for her. She heard the car stop, heard Terry's steps on the brick walk to the house. Then Terry whistled, a sort of signal whistle that Sally had never heard him use before. She was about to call out to him when she heard an answering whistle from inside the house. That must be Ray—no, it was Tip. She heard Terry's voice, then Tip's. She could not hear what they said, but she heard Tip's laugh. The minutes went by and still Terry did not come to find her. Sally wanted him to come and sit by her. She wanted to hear that he loved her. She was, somehow, lonely. And then he did come, and Tip with him. He flung himself down on the grass, and Tip sat down beside him. Sally wished Tip would go away. She wanted Terry—someone—all to herself, this afternoon.

"Let's have a game of tennis and a swim at the lake before supper," proposed Terry.

"Let's not," said Sally. "Let's dress, go somewhere and eat and dance afterwards."

"All right. Get your hat."

"I'll call up Joe Morris and we'll go, to," proposed Tip.

"Sure," said Terry, "the more the merrier."

Tip ran away to call Joe, but Sally still lay in the hammock. She did not want Joe and Tip with them. She had wanted to go somewhere with Terry, for once alone.

"Tired?" asked Terry.

"Tired of the office," said Sally. "Not too tired to dance."

"Swell," said Terry. He leaned over and kissed her, ruffling her hair, as he always liked to do. "I wish you didn't have to work, honey. You won't after we're married."

"But I like to work," protested Sally. "Now that I have worked, I can't imagine being content just to stay at home and keep house and go to bridge parties."

"I want my wife to stay at home," said Terry, half seriously, "except when she's flying with me. I want her all to myself. She's got to devote an awful lot of time to me."

"That wouldn't be hard," laughed Sally. "Only wouldn't you want her to devote herself to anything but waiting on your whims and fancies?"

"No, I wouldn't," said Terry. "I want a woman who'd be Johnny-on-the-spot when I want her. She'd be willing to knock about with me wherever I go, and not get tied down too tight to any one spot." Terry laughed. "I guess maybe that sounds pretty serious."

"Let's not be serious," said Sally, rolling out of the hammock. She did not like to admit to herself that this picture Terry drew of married life was not like her picture. Yet she had always known that Terry thought of women only as creatures to be loved, protected and played with. She knew that her own belief that every woman should have a life and interests of her own, apart from her husband, would shock Terry.

'One Of Us Might Change'

YOUNG JOE MORRIS, son of old Joe Warren's wealthiest citizen, insisted on taking the four of them to Chase City, where there was a popular roof garden. In vain they protested the expense of the roof garden. Young Joe had a larger allowance than he could spend and he loved nothing better than spending money on Tip, whom he had adored since their early high school days. Tip received Joe's extravagance and admiration as her due.

Dancing with Terry, Sally looked up at him and decided he was easily the handsomest man on the floor. She felt proud of possessing a man at whom other girls stared with interest.

"Happy?" questioned Terry.

"Perfectly."

"Not perfectly," said Terry. "Not until we're married and on the way to South America." Abruptly he added, "I don't like this waiting around to get married and keeping it secret. Something might happen—one of us might change."

Sally laughed at him. "All the more reason for waiting, if you're going to find out you don't want me after all. It would be so much worse if we were married first and found out afterwards."

"Just the same," said Terry, "I don't believe in long engagements."

It was very late when they left Chase City. They sang the whole way home, and then Sally and Tip said goodnight in whispers so that Mrs. Warren would not wake and look at the clock.

The next morning at breakfast Mrs. Warren informed them that Philip Page had called the evening before.

"Just my luck," said Tip. "I stay around three nights out of the week and nothing happens, but let me leave and a good looking man comes to call."

"He wouldn't have paid any attention to you," retorted Ray, her twin. "He spent the whole time talking to Mother and Dad and most of it playing chess with Dad."

"He seems to be a very fine man," said Mrs. Warren. Coming from her, this was great praise, for she seldom approved of any of the men who called at the Warrens.

"That's wonderful!" Sally could not be grateful enough to Philip Page. Now Ray could help to earn his own money for college in the fall.

"Philip is very much like his father," said Mr. Warren. "I predict he'll make a success of the paper. He's put everything he has into it."

All the way to the office, Sally rejoiced over the news of the breakfast table. Her father had found a friend, and her young brother had found a much-needed job.

LOCAL ELEVEN TO END SEASON

Wilson Game Friday Draws Curtains On Grid Year

One of the most successful seasons in gridiron tactics sponsored by the local eleven in some time will be brought to a close Friday afternoon of this week, during which, the football eleven of Greenville high school, engages the grid-ironers of the Charles L. Cogan high school of Wilson.

The game was originally scheduled to be played here. However, attendance has been rather small at home games this season—zero receipts not netting enough for expenses—so the game was transferred to Wilson.

The Wilson team is the strongest the Greenville eleven had on their roster for the year. Wilson has a series of spectacular encounters to its credit. They boast a 33-0 win over the Winston Eagles and a 49-6 win over the Williamston Martins. On Friday of last week they held the strong Rocky Mount Black Birds, Class "A" champions of Eastern North Carolina for this year, to a 7-0 score.

The Wilson team is fast, large, and aggressive—averages close to 178 pounds per player—approximately 29 pounds heavier to the man than the local outfit. All positions on the team are filled by capable players, with Batts, Hackney, and Jap Davis being most outstanding. Batts and Hackney, guards have demoralized opposing lines all season. Jap Davis, halfback is six foot two inches in height, and tips the scales at 208 pounds. He is as fast as he is large—can run, pass, kick, and fill other positions on the team equally well—is known by most teams as a triple-threat man.

The starting lineup for the locals will probably be the same as Washington played the Pam Pack of Washington high school last week, with George (Prexy) Laustares and Howards Hodges at end, Robert Earl Clark and Edward Conway at tackle, Wayland Tucker and Jimmie Wells at guard, DuBose Simpson at center, Bernice Eilers, quarterback, Carl Pierce and Tom (Parson) Parish at half, and Harold Forbes at fullback.

Milton Wilson, Earl Kittrell, Jack Moye, Kenneth Lane Henderson, Baxter Clark and Jack Forbes are also slated to see considerable action.

IDEAL HUSBY NEEDN'T TELL FUNNY STORIES

Port Arthur, Tex. (AP)—Spinsters, married women and widows, replying to a questionnaire, agreed the ideal husband doesn't have to have sex appeal, good looks, fine clothes—or the ability to tell funny stories.

Spinsters, however, demanded he be healthy, matrons ruled he must be intelligent and understanding and widows required intelligence and mutual interests.

No Traffic Cop

Beckley, W. Va. (AP)—Police said they released Sherman McMillan from jail and an hour later found him attempting to direct traffic at one of the city's busiest intersections. McMillan's story that an officer had given him a whistle and told him to watch traffic for a few minutes aided to convince Police Chief J. Q. Stover. McMillan went back to jail.

Branches of the general assembly. There is no doubt that Baker has had this experience. In his letter to members of the 1937 house, Baker says:

"I am a young man 29 years of age and have been connected with the house of representatives for the past 21 years. At the age of eight I was a page, then later on Chief Page and since then have held jobs in one office or another continuously until I have served in every capacity in the clerical branch of the house except as Principal Clerk. During the past three terms, when Mr. Thad Eure was Principal Clerk, I served as his first assistant."

Since his election as Secretary of State, a large number of former members and former speakers have voluntarily offered me their support for the office of Principal Clerk of the next house. In view of the very gracious indications of support coming to me and if by my desire to serve a complete term in the clerical end of that body, I am asking the membership of the house to elect me its Principal Clerk."

"It'll be the first real party we've had this summer," gloated Tip. "I've just got to have a new dress. Can I have one, Sally?"

"What's happened to the new frock we bought for the graduation dance?" demanded Sally.

"Oh, that's old, now. Everybody in town has seen that thing."

Tip was stretched out full length in the hammock, looking very pretty in an old sun-back dress that had faded to a faint pink. Sally suddenly felt very tired, and wished Tip would get up and let her lie in the hammock awhile.

"Go help Mother with supper," said Sally suddenly. "I feel like being lazy."

Tip stared up at her in amazement, then, unexpectedly, she rolled out of the hammock onto the grass and picked herself up. "All right," she said. "I don't mind." And then with a mischievous smile she ran toward the house. "You will try to get me a dress, won't you, Sally?"

"I won't promise anything," said Sally firmly. She took off her hat and let the wind ruffle through her hair. The hammock was swung between two apple trees on the edge of the garden, and the dappled shade of the great trees made it an inviting spot.

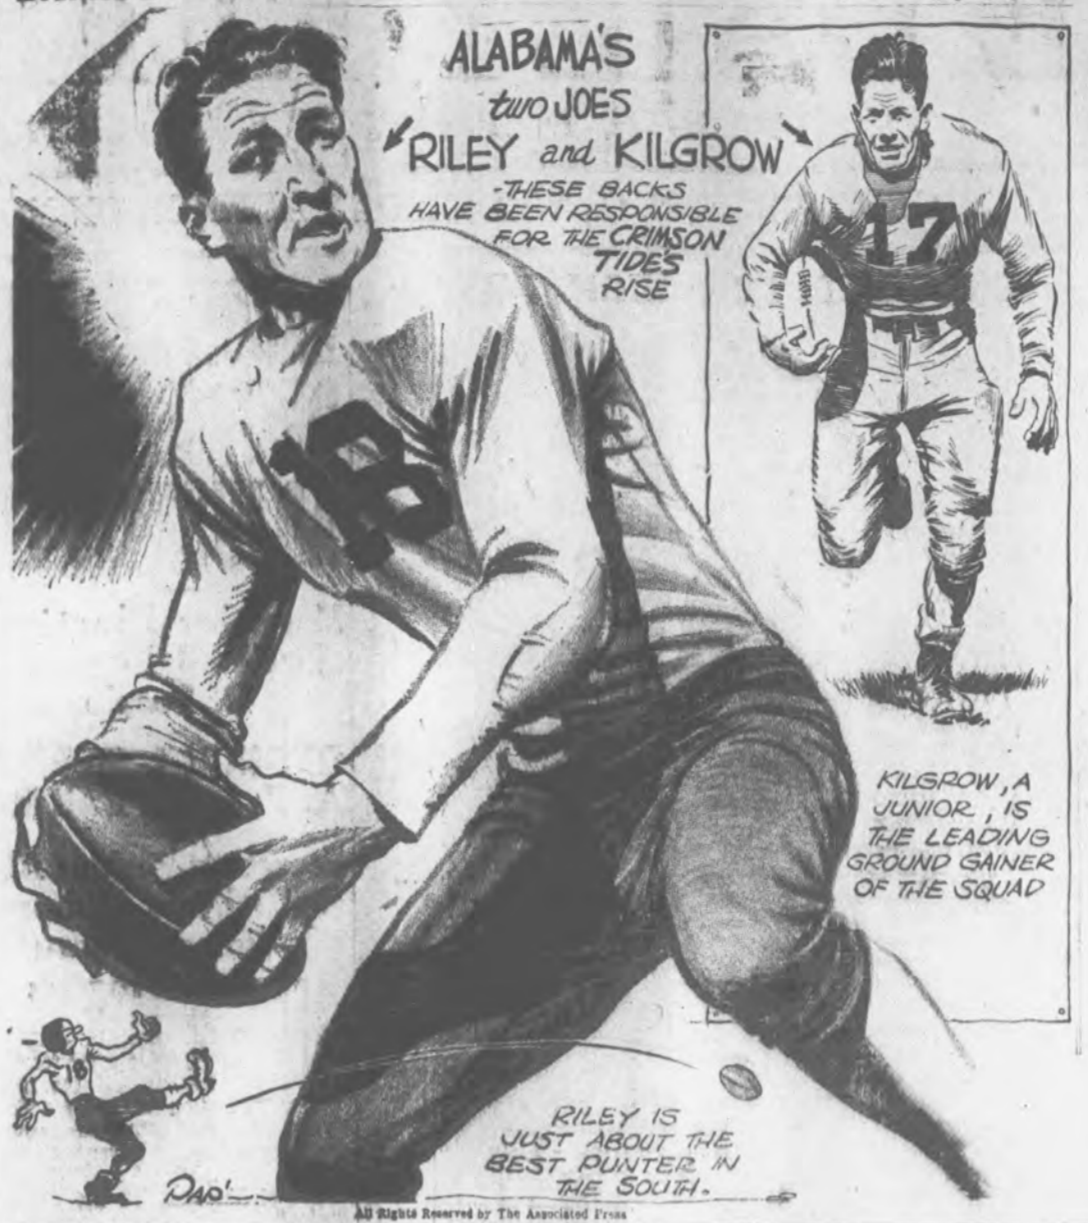

Sally lay down full length in the hammock and gave herself a little push. The idle motion of the swing made her a little sleepy and very content. With eyes half closed, she dreamed about the party Mary Morris was giving. She would wear her old white organza—no, she would have a new dress, a blue one, of some soft stuff. Terry liked her in soft things like silk or voile. She wondered what Philip Page liked. She guessed he would like Mary Morris. Mary was handsome and brilliant, and had been about a great deal in the world that lay outside of Warrenton, the world Philip Page knew.

Terry's Ideal Of A Wife

A CAR rattled noisily down Rosemary street. Sally knew it was Terry's. She was glad to come often to the Warren house these days. It was fun to be able to go out with Terry to ride or to dance after a day in the office. Sally decided to be quiet and let Terry hunt for her. She heard the car stop, heard Terry's steps on the brick walk to the house. Then Terry whistled, a sort of signal whistle that Sally had never heard him use before. She was about to call out to him when she heard an answering whistle from inside the house. That must be Ray—no, it was Tip. She heard Terry's voice, then Tip's. She could not hear what they said, but she heard Tip's laugh. The minutes went by and still Terry did not come to find her. Sally wanted him to come and sit by

Man About Manhattan

New York — With an avalanche of new plays booming along, one does acid-proof gloves and examines a few of the facets that have distinguished the early winter program.

No fewer than 40 productions have been exposed to the local seers and of these a dozen have seen tragic failures. . . . Despite nightly casualties among the newcomers, nine holdovers continue to do a brisk box office trade.

Certainly the most beautiful title of the year is "Plumes in the Dust," a melancholy drama based on the life of Edgar Allan Poe. . . . Lillian Gish, as Ophelia, is making her first Broadway appearance since she was seen as a scarlet woman in Sean O'Casey's "Within the Gates," two years ago. . . . "White Horse Inn" has the most lavish settings I have seen anywhere.

Personal nomination for the most gratifying adaptation on Broadway: "Tovarich," with Marta Abba and John Halliday.

I would say without qualification that the two "Hamlets" were the outstanding first nights. . . . No modern play has equalled in interest and scope of production the Gielgud and Howard shows.

A brace of vivid dramas with a common theme, but which met vastly dissimilar fates, were "Ten Million Ghosts," which died aborning, and "Idiot's Delight," the delightful holdover and Pulitzer prize winner of 1935. Both of these plays pointed to munition-mongers as provokers of war.

As expected, Shakespeare and Gilbert and Sullivan continue as the year's most prolific authors.

Up till now not a single new star has been uncovered, although the producers finally got around to giving Maurice Evans, long a capable actor, star billing. . . . Evans is the English actor playing Napoleon in "St. Helena." . . . Like the Hamlets, a new Napoleon is soon to appear on Broadway. . . . This one will portray a different period in the emperor's life and will have Peter Lorre in the title role.

As the queen in the Gielgud production, Judith Anderson is a moody and volcanic actress. . . . Off stage she is light-hearted and likes to play. . . . Personal nomination for the comedy with the most ludicrous situation: "Swing Your Lady," in which a lady blacksmith becomes a wrestler. This is also the town's bandied bit.

Carl Brisson, romantic leading man of the new Romberg operetta, "Forbidden Melody," is a Dane, although he once held the amateur heavyweight boxing title of Great Britain. . . . He and Jack Dempsey are great buddies. . . . For this reviewer Margaret Sullivan has more appeal than any actress in New York. She's in that Kaufman piece.

W. A. Baker Seeks House Clerkship At Next Session

First Assistant to Thad Eure For Past Three Legislatures Without Any Announced Opposition

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 12.—William A. Baker, Jr., for the past three sessions first assistant to Principal Clerk Thad Eure of the house of representatives of the state general assembly, is now actively seeking the office of Principal Clerk for the 1937 session of the house, Baker announced here today.

So far as is known, Baker has no opposition for this post and many believe he will not have any opposition whatever. But he is taking no chances. Instead, he is writing all of the members of the house of the 1937 general assembly asking their support in his effort to win the principal clerkship.

Since the office of Principal Clerk is probably the most responsible in the entire house and one which requires thorough and complete knowledge of parliamentary law and legislative procedure, it is regarded a very important, a principal clerk is elected who has had previous experience in the clerk's office and - if possible - in other

SIX COLLEGES ENTERED MEET

Cross Country Event to Be at Chapel Hill This Saturday

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 13.—Six teams are officially entered in the 12th annual Southern Conference cross country meet to be held in Chapel Hill Saturday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

Those to compete here Saturday are Washington and Lee, Davidson, N. C. State, Furman, Richmond and Carolina. Duke, defending champion, is expected to enter later in the week with the possibility that one or two other members of the Conference will be added.

Davidson, Richmond and Furman, admitted to the Southern loop last year, are making their initial appearance.

The week-end program has two other features. The Carolina freshmen and Duke freshmen are booked for a return meeting as are the Tar Heel reserves and Guilford College. The Tar Babies measured off their old rival at Durham recently. The Carolina reserves, however, have an old score to settle with the Quakers. Guilford defeated them in the preliminary attraction of the varsity clash between State and Carolina.

Carolina, by virtue of its impressive 22 to 33 beating of Duke, is the favorite to determine the Blue Devils but a close meet is expected. The Tar Heels held the distinction of winning team honors more times than any other participant. Although the Conference meet has been going on for 12 years, Carolina did not enter until 1925. Over the span of 12 years, Coach Dale Brainerd's Tar Heels have capped the Conference title six times.

In 1927 Galet, Edna's, William Tar Heel cross country and track star, set a new Conference record of 33:23 for the five-mile course. It stood until last year when Bill Moore, Clark Duke runner, broke it by a tenth of a second. Moore will strive to hang up a new mark but he probably will have to beat Bill

Lumpkin of Richmond, who defeated him recently in a dual meet between the two teams, to do it.

The coroner's post in New York City was supplemented in 1918 by the chief medical examiner, with authority to investigate any sudden or suspicious death.

Dance Monday Evening
Mrs. Rose Hanley Moye and Miss Alice Lee Hooker will give their dance for Miss Mary Warren and Major Herbert T. Lloyd, postponed from last Tuesday evening, on Monday evening, November 23rd, in the Woman's club.

End of the Century Club
On Tuesday, Mrs. L. E. Meadows graciously entertained the members of the End of the Century club, and Mrs. J. L. Woodley at her home on East Fifth street.

Large chrysanthemums, roses and other fall flowers beautifully decorated the house and formed attractive centerpieces for the tables, at which the guests were served a delicious turkey luncheon.

After this delightful social hour, the club ran through its usual routine of business. The roll call was answered with current events on the "Peace Movement."

Mrs. J. L. Little, chairman of the program committee, then introduced Mrs. C. A. White, who discussed the Peace Movement from the standpoint of one who has given it much thorough study.

Mrs. White's enthusiasm and sincerity made each member feel that she had a responsibility to make an effort to have peace, for it is only through united action that we can hope for peace.

Although "World Peace," our ultimate aim, can be accomplished only through the slow process of educating the youths to desire and demand peace, there are emergency steps necessary now. Some of these are: Stronger neutrality legislation, military, naval policy to protect only continental United States as the first step toward disarmament; economic adjustment; international cooperation; legislation to take all profit out of war, and universal draft of people and business in event that war is declared.

"Peace Cards" were signed and the club adjourned.—Reported.

Attending Medical Meeting
Dr. S. M. Crisp left Monday for Baltimore to attend a medical meeting. He was accompanied by Mrs. Crisp.

Special Club Meeting
The Woman's club and the Junior Woman's club will have a joint meeting in the club building on Thursday evening at eight o'clock. Special out-of-town guests will include Mrs. B. W. Beasley, of Coleraine, Mrs. B. G. Campbell, Mrs. T. L. Bray and others of Plymouth.

The meeting will be social in nature. All members are cordially invited and urged to attend.

Gave Reading
Miss Elizabeth Hyman, critic teacher at East Carolina Teachers College, gave to the students at their regular assembly hour yesterday, a delightful reading from Tennyson's "Idylls of the King."

Immanuel Baptist Notice
There will be no prayer service this evening in Immanuel Baptist church.

Miss Lee in Hospital

Celebrates Birthday
Master Bert Nichols, Jr. entertained a host of little friends at his home Sunday afternoon from three to five, honoring his 8th birthday.

After games were enjoyed the guests were served orangeade and cake.

The guests present were Davis Lee Ainsley, Curtis and Naomi Nichols, Margaret Hemby, Roland Faulkner, R. E. and George Newby, Nellie R. Crawford, Linbergh Wiloughby, William Harold Crawford, James and Walter Everett.

The host received many gifts.

Memorial Baptist Prayer Service
The mid-week Devotional-Study Hour will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All members are invited to be present, and to participate in this hour of fellowship and the searching of the Word. Come. You are welcome.

Dr. Nelson at College
Dr. Thomas Nelson, dean of Textiles at State College, was guest speaker for the Science Club last night. Dr. Nelson made a talk on "How Designs are Put in Textiles." He gave a brief history of the more important textile industries—silk, linen and cotton—frequently using the Bible for reference. After the brief histories, he took up designing in its fullest detail. He described the types of designers; sketching, painting and spraying. The fourth woven picture ever made, which was a picture of the signer of the Declaration of Independence, was used as an example of how designs are woven in fabrics.

Dr. T. R. Hart, also of State College, accompanied Dr. Nelson.

A large number of Science Club members were present.

Miss Lucille Norton's "Nautical Revue" will be presented by the women's athletic association in the Austin auditorium at the college tonight at 7:30. After the stage features, which has been described as one of the most finished student productions of the year, "Anything Goes," starring Bing Crosby, will be shown on the screen.

Miss Norton is still in the Morehead City hospital suffering from shock and injuries sustained in Sunday's accident, but she has insisted that the revue must be presented, and has sent instructions by her Greenville visitors.

Miss Barnes Entertains
The College English club held its first social meeting of the year in the "Y" last night from 8:30 to 7:30. Miss Frances Barnes, president of the club, acted as hostess.

Three games provided amusement for all. In the first, the titles of ten books were arranged from "scrambled letters." In the second, the guests made a love-story from the titles of Shakespeare's plays. Dr. D. E. Baughan succeeded in using all the titles. In the final game, the guests drew from memory pictures at which they had looked for one minute, and left the drawings as permanent souvenirs of the English club.

Sandwiches, nuts and cocoa were served before a roaring open fire.

Speaks to A. A. U. W.
Dr. Lucille Delano, fresh from Spain, where she did research work when she was a beneficiary of the A. A. U. W. fellowship fund, thrilled her audience last night with the account of her experience in Madrid last summer when the revolution broke out, and of her escape.

The great work the A. A. U. W. is doing in encouraging women of marked ability and good training to do research work in whatever place they can do it best and to do it in their prime, was the subject on which Miss Delano spoke and her talk was most interesting and illuminating.

Miss Delano spent a year, doing research work for her doctor's degree, studying in the libraries of Spain, and had returned to Madrid to spend last summer continuing her researches. She had been there only three days when the revolution broke out. She was among those who took refuge in the embassy and later escaped. The papers were filled with the story of how they were assisted in getting out of the country, how the United States provided a ship for them, and how by some magic a train was allowed to pass through to get them from the heart of Spain to the seaport.

When Miss Delano returned to St. Louis, the newspapers and radio people discovered she was the only one from that section who had returned from Spain's war zone and could tell the inside story, so she was featured in the papers and over the radio. The thirty-two members of the A. A. U. W. fired questions to Miss Delano and kept her talking informally throughout the latter part of the evening.

She gave a clarifying explanation of the situation in Spain as she saw it, and made her listeners realize how terrible the disaster will be whichever side wins. Such institutions as the great library in Madrid, which has not its equal in the world, will hardly be able to survive the storm, she believes.

Dr. Delano came to Greenville to talk on the subject of the "Fellowship Crusade" of the A. A. U. W., and she made an exceedingly interesting talk on that subject.

She gave a history of the fellowship from 1890 when the first one was awarded, down to the present. The A. A. U. W. is now raising a fund, with a million dollars as the objective, to provide for twenty-five fellowships so as to keep that number of women doing special research work at one time. At present there are thirteen fellowships. This is the only organization offering opportunities to women only for scholarship research. Awards which are most carefully made are accepted without question by the greatest universities in the world, and other organizations leave to them the selection of their beneficiaries. She quoted frequently Dr. Gallagher, of Goucher College, who is the chairman of the committee of awards. "Practical Idealism," she gave as the keynote of this work.

Miss Delano attended the biennial meeting of the International Federation of University of Women in Krakow, Poland, going there from Spain instead of coming straight home. She spoke not only of the inspiration of meeting great women from many countries, but she brought out the depressing note caused by the absence of women from Germany and Italy because of the dissolution of women's organizations in these countries.

Dr. Lucille Turner introduced in a most happy manner Dr. Delano. Dr. Turner also gave a report of the State Directors' meeting, which she attended as a representative of the Greenville branch. The chief objective for which the State Association will work this winter is to keep up interest in the schools so that the appropriation will either be increased or at least not decreased.

Thirteen new members have joined the local branch this fall. Mrs. J. E. Winslow, acting president, announced the committees so far as they are completed, but the name of every new member will appear on some committee. The plans for the year indicate that the branch will have a busy and interesting year.

Young Ehringhaus Making Excellent Aide To Governor

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—John Christoph Bucher Ehringhaus, Jr., son of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, who was yesterday appointed by his father as his private secretary to succeed Charles G. Powell, who in turn had been appointed Secretary of State to fill out the unexpired term of Stacey W. Wade, is already performing his new work smoothly and capably and is proving popular with all those who are coming in contact with him.

The announcement of the appointment of "Young Bucher" as he is known to almost all of his friends here, came as no great surprise to newsmen, since they had regarded him as the logical choice of the Governor for his private secretary when he decided to move Powell up into the office of the Secretary of State. Bucher is already familiar with many of the duties of private secretary, since he has assisted Powell on numerous occasions during the four years his father has been Governor.

In announcing the appointment of his son as his private secretary, Governor Ehringhaus made it clear that Bucher was to serve without any salary and "for the experience only." Some of the Governor's friends protested and maintained that Bucher was just as much entitled to receive a salary for his services as any one else. But Governor Ehringhaus maintained that he and Bucher had both made up their minds and commended that "there are some things worth more than money."

Although Bucher was last week admitted to the bar as a practicing attorney, he is continuing to take some law work at the University of North Carolina and will drive over there three mornings a week to continue work he has been taking in the law school there, so that he may get his law degree this spring.

This is not the first time a Governor has appointed his son as private secretary, the late Governor W. Y. Bickett having appointed his son to fill out the term of Sanford Martin when Martin resigned to accept another position.

Question About CARDUI PERIODICAL PAINS

"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?" Each dose of Cardui contains purely vegetable sedative and antispasmodic—that is, a pain-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve many of the ordinary functional pains of menstruation with a beneficial plant extract not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others.

Cardui is purely vegetable, liquid in form, and comes in 9-ounce bottles, with full directions for use. Try it! Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE PRESIDENT

"The nation has spoken. Every American will accept the verdict, and work for the common cause for the good of the country. That is the spirit of democracy."

So ran the telegram dispatched by Governor Landon to President Roosevelt when it became apparent that the voters had rallied in unprecedented numbers in support of the Administration.

The Democratic victory is not a party victory. No mere party victory could be so overwhelming or so completely break down sectional lines of partisan sympathy.

The victory was a very different thing—it was a personal victory for Mr. Roosevelt. No man in a century has so captivated the imagination and emotions of the people, and none has received so great an expression of public confidence.

A Republican newspaper said the morning following the election that "the President today is the most popular figure our national life has known since Washington." It is impossible to gainsay that. The most popular of presidents, and those whose administrations stand out mountainously in our history—Jefferson, Lincoln, Cleveland—were never so popular as Mr. Roosevelt.

The time for partisanship has passed. And the time for cooperation has come. This does not mean that the President should be followed blindly in every course—that would be unjust to Mr. Roosevelt himself as well as to the country. It does mean that all should work together in the common cause, as Governor Landon said, deliberating differences and adjusting varying points of view to the end that the great ideal of democratic government be served to the ultimate of all our capabilities.

Congratulations to the President! Few men in the world's history have been so signally honored by a great people—an honor which carries with it the gravest responsibilities. Every good citizen will hope sincerely that Mr. Roosevelt's second term as Chief Executive of the foremost nation on earth will be successful, and that his will be a high place in the history of our time.

'Yankees' Below Equator To Greet Peace Parley

F. D. R. To Set Travel Mark On Visit

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—When President Roosevelt arrives here from his voyage on the cruiser Indianapolis to the Inter-American peace conference in Buenos Aires, it is believed he will have established a new record for Presidential travel.

While statistics on the mileage covered by chief executives are not complete it was figured recently that Mr. Roosevelt's total before starting the long South American voyage was about 63,000 as compared with some 65,000 for Jolly William Howard Hunt and from 55,000 to 60,000 for strenuous Teddy Roosevelt.

At His Best On Sea.

Franklin Roosevelt is an undaunted traveler by train and automobile but it is on the sea he has loved since boyhood that he really shines as the greatest Presidential voyager of all time. While he has covered many thousands of miles in campaign swings, drought and flood region tours, his major mileage has been piled

NO. 1 MAN

One of the principal hosts in Buenos Aires for visiting peace delegates will be Argentina's president, Agustin P. Justo.

WHERE THEY'LL MEET

Between rounds of entertainment, delegates to the Inter-American peace conference will buckle down to work in the impressive congressional palace in Buenos Aires—a building similar in architecture to the capitol of the United States.

DELEGATES TO SEE RESULT OF 4-YEAR BUILDING BOOM

Buenos Aires, Nov. 18.—(AP)—For Buenos Aires, world's largest city below the equator, the Inter-American peace conference opening here December 1 will climax a year long celebration of the 40th anniversary of the city's founding. The Argentine capital, 2,300,000 in population and growing at a rapid clip, will be at its best, when representatives of the 21 American republics meet in the congressional palace to consolidate peace agreements of the western world and study neutrality plans to keep out of European wars.

Full of Energy.

Parks and plazas will be green in December, the beginning of the southern summer, but visitors are not likely to find the lazy atmosphere Anglo-Saxons look for in Latin cities.

Argentine energy is a byword in South America and Latin neighbors sometimes call the Argentines "the Yankees of South America."

This energy has taken Buenos Aires out of the depression years with fewer scars than those acquired by most of the world's great cities.

A building boom has been under way since 1932. Hundreds of new apartment buildings, in the best American architectural style, have arisen. Dozens of new office buildings have sprung up. Buenos Aires, which likes to be called the Paris of America, now looks like a combination of Paris and Chicago.

Mayor Gets Things Done

Typical of the era in Buenos Aires is its mayor, Dr. Mariano de Vedia y Mitre, unique combination of poet and go-getter.

Writer of excellent verse, translator of Oscar Wilde's works into Spanish, Vedia y Mitre has been one of the most energetic executives the city has had since Pedro de Mendoza came out from Spain in 1536 and set up a small colony. Streets have been widened, new monuments put up. A 25-year-old project to widen the colorful Calle Corrientes, the town's Broadway, into a modern avenue was slapped into execution with dizzy efficiency and completed in 18 months under the poet-mayor's drive.

Property owners who thought he didn't mean it and were tacitly leaving condemned buildings were chucked out without a minute's extension of their time limit. A shaft to the nation's founders, obelisk-shaped like the Washington monument, was put up in one of the town's most important plazas with break-taking speed.

Man-Made Improvement

Peace conference sessions will be held in the imposing congressional palace, similar in architecture to the capitol in Washington, which overlooks a broad plaza. Committee meetings will be held in the new foreign office place, recently purchased from the Anchorena family which had made it one of the biggest and finest private residences in South America.

Outside of protocol dinners and balls, conference delegates will find amusements as varied as those in any of the world's capitals. They won't find much natural beauty, for Buenos Aires is built on a plain beside the Rio de la Plata but they will see plenty of man-made improvements. Buenos Aires' cosmopolitan population, largely Spanish and Italian by descent but with strong mixtures of English, Irish, German, French and Hebrew, has gone in heavily for broad avenues lined with trees, boulevards and parks. Transportation facilities, including three subway lines, outrank anything else in South America.

How To Look For Your No. 1 Low Priced Car

Ask the price of each leading low priced car. Then... ask what you get for your money. The questions below will help you to get the facts... prove to you that the completely new 1937 Terraplane is the No. 1 CAR of the Low Price Field.

- STYLE? Are BEAUTY and USEFULNESS combined in a car COMPLETELY NEW? Is the car redesigned ALL OVER, longer, lower, wider? SIZE and ROOM? Has wheelbase been increased to a full 117 inches... 5 inches longer than any other leading low priced car? Are front seats 5 inches wider... 55 inches of solid comfort for three? Level, CLEAR floor space, front and rear? Higher, wider doors? Broadest vision of any car... windshield 6 inches wider so no cars can pop out from side streets unseen? LUXURY? Does the INTERIOR match the outside beauty? Does it compare favorably with HIGH PRICED cars? Do you find a quality of fabrics, tailoring and equipment that really satisfies your ideas of interior luxury? POWER? Do you find 96 or 101 horsepower under the hood? And is it SMOOTH power? Is vibration engineered out at its very source? PERFORMANCE? Can the salesman PROVE performance with new stock car records made by 1937 cars before public introduction and certified by the contest board of the American Automobile Association? ENDURANCE? Has the twin of the car you're seeing PROVED its endurance? Has it traveled 86.54 miles per hour for 1,000 miles, throttle wide open all the way? Has it set a new official record that beats the best ANY closed car at ANY price had ever done before? ECONOMY? Can the salesman give you official economy figures, certified by the American Automobile Association? Can he PROVE 21.08 miles per gallon... at the everyday speed of 30 miles an hour? Does he offer PROOFS... not someone's extravagant estimate or "laboratory" figures? SAFETY? Is the body ALL of steel with seamless roof of solid steel? If so, does it have back of it the experience of the only automobile manufacturer who has been building steel bodies since 1926? Does it have hydraulic brakes? Is there a RESERVE braking system always ready for use AUTOMATICALLY, from the same brake pedal? Have the brakes PROVED their safety by stopping the car in less than half the legal requirements, under American Automobile Association supervision? Is Hydraulic Hill-Hold available as an optional extra? AND... DOES THE CAR "ALMOST DRIVE ITSELF" WITH SELECTIVE AUTOMATIC SHIFT? COME IN AND SEE THIS NEW FEATURE.

SEAWELL ASKS POWER RULING

Wants Co-Operative Corporations' Status Defined

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—Attorney General A. F. Seawell has been asked to give an official opinion defining the status of electric membership corporations which have been or may be organized in North Carolina with a view to determining whether they have the same standing as public utilities or whether they are state agencies and hence not subject to state supervision. Chairman Dudley Bagley of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, said today.

He indicated that he had already talked with Attorney General Seawell informally concerning this and several other questions and that he was submitting a formal request for an opinion on this particular question.

Chairman Bagley intimated that it might be some time before the Attorney General could pass on this question, due to the fact that this is the main question involved in the present litigation between the Carolina Power and Light Co. and the Johnston County Electric Membership Corporation, in which the power company is seeking to enjoin the cooperative, financed with Federal Rural Electrification funds, from building lines parallel to those already built by the power company.

It is understood that opinions are rarely given on questions of law and its interpretation already pending in the courts. Since this particular question is now in the courts and undoubtedly headed for the State Supreme Court, it is regarded as doubtful if the Attorney General will come out in a flat-footed opinion and attempt to define the status of these electric membership corporations.

The prevailing opinion in most legal circles here, however, is that the State Supreme Court has already established precedent for holding these membership corporations subject to the same regulations as public service corporations, and hence subject to regulation by the State Utilities Commission. It is believed that this is the line of argument which the attorneys for the Carolina Power and Light Co. will follow in trying to get its injunction against the Johnston county corporation made permanent. The Johnston county cooperative and the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington maintain that these cooperatives are state agencies and hence not subject to state regulation.

Appears Doubtful State Will Erect Own Gas Terminal

More Thorough Inspection and Testing of Fuel to Be Recommended by Investigating Group

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—More adequate and thorough inspection of gasoline and of filling stations and bulk plants in the state than is now being made, together with the provision of more facilities for testing gasoline, will undoubtedly be recommended by the State Gasoline Terminal and Price Investigating Commission, which held an all-day session here yesterday, although the commission has not yet drawn up its report and probably will not for several weeks yet.

But Chairman Oscar G. Barker of Durham, who presided at the hearing, indicated that the commission is already of the opinion that not a drop of the proceeds from the tax of one-fourth of a cent a gallon now being levied for inspection service, is being expended for that purpose. This tax last year yielded more than $912,000 and this year is expected to yield at least $1,000,000.

Whether the commission recommends the erection of a state-owned gasoline bulk terminal at one of the ports in the state, is regarded as somewhat doubtful, although Wilmington, Morehead City, Fayetteville and Southport are all seeking such a terminal if erected.

At the hearing here Monday it was estimated by engineers for the State Highway and Public Works Commission that a 3,000,000 gallon gasoline terminal at any of these places would cost approximately $75,000. It was further pointed out that the state has no distribution system—tank trucks and tank wagons—and that such tank trucks would cost about $2,000 per unit. So it is regarded as doubtful if the state would save enough by building its own terminal and setting up its own distribution system to offset the expense of setting these up.

Chairman Barker indicated, however, that the commission had learned a great deal from its investigations and hearings with regard to the cost of gasoline and the various factors and influence prices, with the result that the commission would have a number of very definite recommendations to make to the Governor and the 1937 general assembly.

How's Your Health—

In Praise Of The X-Ray

"When in doubt, let your doctor X-ray," might be propounded as a medical maxim. Physicians in general well appreciate the great value of the roentgen ray. The public, however, is still inclined to look upon the X-rays as a sort of last resort diagnostic aid. The case must be involved if not desperate before, to the mind of many, an X-ray is indicated. Nor is the elimination value of the X-ray appreciated, by which is meant the exclusion of the possibility of the existence of some suspected condition.

Consider the case in which frequent colds are the outstanding complaint. Many individuals, for one reason or another, are particularly susceptible to colds, and seldom pass a winter without suffering two or three colds. Such a case may be, as we postulate, one of susceptibility to colds. On the other hand the colds may be the symptoms of some underlying disease condition of the lungs, such as a mild and incipient tuberculosis. In such a case the conscientious physician will want an X-ray to help him exclude the more serious possible causes.

Or consider the case of the so-called sprain, which remains a troublesome affair until an X-ray reveals the existence of a fracture in some involved small bone. A short time ago during the routine X-raying of a group of school children, one little girl who had complained of chronic cough for several months was found to have a tack in her lung.

But the usefulness of the X-ray is not limited to the inspection of lungs and bones. On the contrary, during the past few years the field of X-ray diagnosis has been extended to include practically every portion and every organ of the body.

But the X-ray also has its limitations. It cannot take the place of sound clinical judgment, and of wide medical experience. Also, while the X-ray can reveal the condition of a body structure, it can offer only partial information on its functional capacities and performances. In other words, the X-ray is an aid to the physician, but it cannot substitute for him.

The latter point is significant in this sense. Some individual suspecting that there is something wrong somewhere may go to an X-ray laboratory and have an X-ray taken.

en. With the film, he turns to his physician and asks him to interpret it. The physician probably will be obliged to tell him that the film is worthless, for it has no bearing on the condition to which the clinical symptoms point, or was not taken from the desired angle, or in the required manner. Unless the X-ray is part of a thorough clinical study, it is likely to prove worthless.

ent plan, so that one of the most troublesome problems in working out classification legislation is going to be that of getting the various counties or sections to agree upon any uniform plan.

It is taken for granted that an effort will be made to reduce the tax rate on money in banks, savings accounts, solvent credits, notes, mortgages and so forth, to such an extent that the tax rate will be so reasonable that property of this type will be listed again. It is now frankly conceded that at prevailing "uniform" tax rates, many people could not afford to list property of this nature because the tax on it in many cases was greater than the yield from it. As one man put it the other day, in discussing the situation, "A person could not afford to list a note on which he was getting only six per cent interest, when the tax on it would amount to four per cent, or to list savings on which he was getting only two percent, if the tax amounted to three or four percent."

Strong opposition to the fixing of a low tax rate on property of this sort is expected to develop from many of the agricultural counties, however, as well as opposition to the classification of farm lands, with different rates on types of land. For while the counties, cities and towns are now getting virtually nothing from intangible personal property, there will be an element which will favor the increasing of the tax rate on property of this sort instead of decreasing it, many agree. And while the classification of farm land will tend to decrease the taxes of those having large farms with large proportions of the land under cultivation are going to fear that classification will tend to increase their taxes.

Accordingly, many observers here are inclined to feel that when the people adopted the classification amendment November 3, they dumped one of the most troublesome problems that could be found right into the lap of the 1937 general assembly and one that will take a long time to solve.

A real fog was dissolved by a spray of calcium chloride at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1935.

Drivers' License Law Helps Reduce Number Accidents

Fatalities Reduced 11 Per Cent in Year; Safety Force Been Operating in North Carolina

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, Nov. 18.—Now that the state-wide drivers' license law has been in effect for one year—it is possible to look at the figures and see that it has really helped materially to reduce the number of accidents in the state and especially the number of automobile fatalities.

On November 1 of this year, after the new law had been in operation just one year, there were 739,658 licensed drivers of passenger cars in the state and of this number, 85,312 had been licensed during the past 12 months, the other, 654,347 having secured their licenses before the law went into effect November 1, 1935.

The most significant fact is that since the law went into effect, the number of persons killed in fatal accidents has been reduced 11 per cent, according to the most recent figures tabulated by the National Safety Council, despite the fact that the number of licensed motor vehicles in the state has increased by 50,000 in this same period.

During the year that the drivers' license law has been in effect, the highway safety division has revoked 6,535 drivers' licenses, chiefly for drunken driving, and has suspended 921 licenses, chiefly of drivers who have appealed. In addition, the department has refused to issue licenses to 1,515 applicants who it judged incompetent to drive.

"Drivers now know that the driving license law has teeth in it, and they are beginning to be more careful, with the result that fewer people are being killed," Fulk said.
