LONDON FEARS GERMAN BREAK WITH RUSSIANS

Action Would Give Nazis Free Hand in Spanish War

BRITISH SHIPPING TO BE PROTECTED

Secretary Anthony Eden Tells Commons Britain Not to Stand for Interference

(By Associated Press)
Unconfirmed reports circulated in London diplomatic circles today that Germany might be considering breaking off relations with Moscow so the Nazis could assume a free hand in Spain.

The reports followed hard on the heels of a 45 minute conference between Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain, and prime minister Stanley Baldwin on an undisclosed subject.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the British House of Commons that Great Britain will protect its shipping from either Spain's government or the insurgents.

To put teeth into the already strict British arms export regulations, Eden announced the government would introduce a bill to make carrying of arms to Spain by British ships illegal.

Adding indirectly to the Russo-German tension over intervention in the Spanish civil war was a sentence to death of a German engineer by a Russian tribunal for anti-communist sabotage.

Authoritative Berlin newspapers warned that Germany stands behind every German abroad.

The Nazi ambassador to Russia appealed for postponement of the execution until he could lodge a formal protest.

Convention Shows High Recognition For Green Lights

Official Publication of Greenville High School Received All-Southern Rating For First Time

Green Lights, official publication of Greenville High School, received all-Southern voting at the Twelfth Annual Convention of the Southern Interscholastic Press Association, held at Washington and Lee University on Friday and Saturday of last week. This is the first time in local high school history that it has received out-of-state recognition.

The local publication won second honors for schools in class C—those with an enrollment of less than 800 students—and was awarded a medal. Morganton, West Va., which has competed for a number of years, took first place honors in the group.

Ernestine Hobgood, James Whitfield, Madeline Woodard, Pauline Abeyonnis, Earle Hellen and V. M. Mulholland, adviser, represented the local high school at the convention which had representation from North and South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, District of Columbia, Georgia, Tennessee and Maryland. There were approximately 250 delegates representing these states.

During the session, addresses were made by Professor O. W. Riegal, C. Harold Lauck, Robert A. Anderson and Latham B. Weber, of the Washington and Lee school of journalism, respectively; Howard Blakeslee, Science Editor of The Associated Press, New York, and President of the National Association of Science Writers; Edwards S. Stanley, the Associated Press, New York; Raymond Clapper, columnist of Scripps-Howard newspaper alliance, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, President of Washington and Lee University; Dr. Percival R. Cole, University of Sydney, Sydney, Australia, and others.

The local delegation returned to this city this morning, highly elated over the recognition given their paper at the convention.

Tourists Get Their Way

Tokyo.—Because American and foreign visitors to Japan invariably complain about the lavatory facilities and the absence of dressing rooms on Japanese trains, the bureau of tourist industry of the Railway Ministry plans to have 10 special de luxe first-class cars built for the exclusive use of foreigners. It will also urge the construction of more picturesque stations buildings at principal tourist resorts.

TWO HELD FOR MARTIN DEATH

Robersonville Filling Station Operator Is Brutally Slain

Captain Bowen Dorsey of the local police department, who aided in investigating the murder of Thomas Holliday, 24, filling station operator of Robersonville, yesterday, described the slaying as one of the most gruesome he ever had investigated.

Two white men are being held in connection with the brutal slaying. They are Willis Bullock and A. W. Watson, the latter having gone to Robersonville recently with a construction crew as a truck driver. Captain Dorsey said Watson had confessed to the crime and implicated Bullock. The alleged murderers are being held in an undisclosed jail.

The two are alleged to have entered the filling station operated by Bullock between 2:30 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning, hit Holliday over the head with a hammer and then to have taken him into a wash room and beat him some more. The two charged with the crime were arrested some time later. Officers said when they were found at their homes, each had blood on his shoes and clothes.

Robbery was said to have been the motive, some cigarettes and cash having been taken from the station.

Officers advanced the theory that Watson and Bullock found that he had been critically wounded and decided to kill him. An examination showed that Holliday suffered 13 fractures on the head. He died a short while after having been found. He was taken to a physician's office, but could not be revived.

The station operator was the son of W. H. Martin of Martin county.

Lillington Woman Brought To Trial On Murder Charge

Jury Selected to Hear Case Charging Mrs. Sina Pope Godwin With Killing Her Husband

Lillington, N. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—A 13-man jury—to hear and decide on charges of murder against Mrs. Sina Pope Godwin, 36, in the shooting of her husband, Thurman Godwin, 40—was selected in Harriet County Superior court today.

With the jury in its box, Solicitor Claude C. Canady prepared to send his first witness to the stand as he began his announced effort to prove the woman shot herself after the killing in an effort to "fake" a self-defense plea.

Mrs. Godwin, well-to-do woman, said she killed her husband after he shot her twice.

INSURANCE ACT IS HELD VALID BY HIGH COURT

Evenly Divided Vote Allows New York State Statute

COURT ADJOURNS FOR TWO WEEKS

Justices Agree To Review Appeal Of Communist Against 18-20 Year Sentence

Washington, Nov. 23.—(AP)—With surprising speed and by an evenly divided vote, the Supreme court today held constitutional the New York unemployment insurance act which taxes employers to aid the jobless.

By a four to four vote with Justice Stone, who is ill, not participating, the court affirmed a ruling by the New York court of appeals upholding the legislation.

If Justice Stone had been present it was generally assumed in view of his liberal record he would have voted to uphold the law. When the court divides evenly it can only affirm the action of a lower court.

The New York act was supplementary to the federal social insurance system and was passed as a model of legislation enacted for the purpose by several states.

Before adjourning for two weeks to write opinion involving five New Deal controversies and a number of others argued during the last fortnight, the court agreed to review an appeal by Angelo Herndon, Cincinnati communist organizer attempting to escape an 18 to 20 year chain gang sentence imposed by Georgia courts under a statute enacted in reconstruction days to prohibit insurrection against the state.

Review Cases Of Forgotten Men In N. C. State Prison

Study of 1,190 Prisoners, For Whom No One Has Ever Spoken, Made by Parole Commissioner

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—The records and cases of 1,190 "forgotten men" in the State Prison, for whom no one had ever spoken a good word either to the Governor or the Commissioner of Paroles and whose cases had never been presented or considered for possible parole or pardon, have already been given preliminary study with a view to determining whether any of these "forgotten men" now deserve paroles. Commissioner of Paroles Edwin Gill announced today.

There are now only from 100 to 150 prisoners left among those convicted of felonies and now serving sentences in the state prison whose cases have not already been investigated and these prisoners will be interviewed and their cases studied in the very near future, Gill said.

"When these remaining 100 to 150 prisoners all have been interviewed and their cases studied and files set up, the parole office will have in its files, a detailed case history and study of the past and present life and record of every felon in the State Prison system," Gill said.

"Every one of the 1,190 prisoners on whom a file has been prepared during the last few months, was given a personal interview by an investigator from the parole office of from 45 to 50 minutes and sometimes more. We tried to make every prisoner feel we were trying to help him and wanted to help and that he could talk frankly and freely about his case. We did not tell them that they would be paroled, of course, but we did tell them that they were being interviewed and their cases studied in an effort to determine if they could or should be considered for parole. We received very fine cooperation from the prisoners, the prison officials and from county welfare officers, also from local law enforcement officials who were frequently asking to contribute information and reports concerning prisoners."

A statistical report on the information obtained from these 1,190 "forgotten men" in the prison is now being prepared and will be released later by the parole office, Gill said. The information accumulated as a result of the interviews and studies made of these prisoners and their records will constitute an invaluable source of material for the parolers and cure of crime, and every effort is being made to collect and preserve all of the statistical information possible which in the future may aid in a scientific approach to the problem of crime, Gill said.

This task just completed, involved

GREEN FIRES BACK AT LEWIS

The spirited fight between William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and John L. Lewis, rebellious leader of the movement for industrial unionism, took on even more vigor when Lewis telegraphed Green at the federation's annual convention in Tampa, Fla., demanding that the latter "quit associating with enemies of the miners." Green is seen showing newspaper men his reply in which he accused Lewis of "ingratitude and a desire for personal revenge." (Associated Press Photo)

Outspoken Threats Made Of Rival Labor Unions

Showdown on Future Status of Rebels Near at Hand

Tampa, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Outspoken threats of a rival organization faced American Federation of Labor leaders today while they neared a showdown on future relations with John L. Lewis' rebel unions.

Charles P. Howard, secretary of Lewis' committee for industrial organization, told reporters the rebels would be forced to set up a rival organization if the federation convention backed up suspension of the rebel unions.

"We will be driven to set up more than a committee without a constitution without dues and without affiliation," Howard enlarged. "It will mean a full organization and that will mean a fight."

Majority leaders of the American Federation of Labor were agreed on a middle course—continued suspension of the 10 insurgent unions rather than the outright expulsion demanded in some quarters.

Only Minor Accident Here Over Week-end

In contrast to last week-end when three Greenville people were killed in an automobile wreck near Morehead City and a number of accidents occurred near here, Highway Patrolmen reported today that only one minor wreck occurred in this section and no local citizens were involved in accidents Saturday and Sunday.

Emmett H. Degraffenrid, negro, was said by patrolmen to have driven a light truck into an automobile bearing a load of negroes near here last night. No formal charges have been filed as yet, but patrolmen are investigating the wreck.

Social Security Problem Holds Attention In State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—Social security or rather the many different angles and ramifications of social security legislation both in Washington and North Carolina, is in the spotlight here as never before.

Virtually everything else is being shoved into the background as state officials, politicians and even individuals discuss what should be done or speculate on what will be done by the approaching general assembly with regard to the various phases of social security.

It is already agreed that the new general assembly will have to devote a large portion of its time and attention to social security legislation, especially at the beginning of the session.

The first phase of the social security problem the general assembly is going to deal with, will be old age assistance, generally referred to as old age pensions, most observers agree. This will make it necessary for the assembly to do two things:

LANDSLIDE OF MUD AND ROCK FATAL TO FOUR

Several Injured And Many Trapped in Juneau, Alaska

LARGE BUILDINGS ARE DEMOLISHED

Cries From Debris Heard As Rescue Workers Seek To Reach Victims

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Four dead, seven injured and possible 25 trapped were unconfirmed estimates today of a toll exacted by a huge landslide of mud and rock which fell with crushing force last night on Juneau's apartment house district.

Through disrupted communications came the reports of the dead and the estimate of fire chief W. Mulvihill that more than a score may have been killed or trapped by the 100-foot wide mass which rumbled down from a rainswept mountain.

Muffled cries from the debris were heard as rescue workers toiled through the night. The slide demolished two apartment houses, a lodging house, a two story concrete store and several homes.

It cut off power lines, plunging the city into darkness and disrupted telephone and United States signals corps communications.

The reported dead were unidentified. The heavy rains of the last few days caused two slides. The first did slight damage. The second, a few hours later, was 100-feet wide and from 10 to 40 feet deep.

Ehringhaus Feels Unemploy't Tax Will Not Be Lost

Reiterates That $3,000,000 Federal Government Will Collect in January To Be Ear-Marked

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—North Carolina will not lose the approximately $3,000,000 which the Federal government will collect in January from the employers of the state for unemployment insurance, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus reiterated again today, despite the fact that the state does not now have an unemployment insurance law recognized by the Social Security Board.

He is more confident of this than ever following the two days he spent in Washington last week and intimated that the opinion is prevalent there that Congress will so amend the Social Security Act when it meets again that the states which have not yet enacted satisfactory unemployment insurance laws will not lose the amounts which will be collected from the tax of one per cent on payrolls during 1936.

"I have been confident for many months that neither North Carolina nor the 31 other states which do not have unemployment insurance laws regarded as acceptable by the Social Security Board, would be penalized by Congress and lose the proceeds of the unemployment insurance tax merely because they had not yet enacted the type of legislation required by the Social Security Board," Governor Ehringhaus said.

"I did not think then, and do not think now, that Congress will permit the confiscation of the millions of dollars which will be collected from this tax for unemployment insurance and dump it into the U. S. Treasury to be used for other purposes, merely because the unemployment insurance laws in 32 states are not of the type desired by the Social Security Board or because some states have not yet had an opportunity to pass any such laws. Assurances which I received in Washington last week only serve to strengthen my original belief."

The fact that the conference of Governors meeting in St. Louis, Mo., last week, adopted a resolution asking Congress to adopt an amendment to the Social Security Act, which would permit the retention of the proceeds from the unemployment insurance tax to the credit of the various states, until they have an opportunity to enact the necessary cooperative legislation, was also pointed to by Governor Ehringhaus as being significant. He maintains that Congress will not disregard the wishes of 32 states in this matter.

Women Escape Injury When Car Over-turns

An automobile in which Mrs. Roy T. Cox and Mrs. M. T. Spire of Winterville were riding was turned over here this morning when it and a truck driven by an employee of the Economy Grocery company collided on Fourth street.

Neither woman was seriously hurt, but Mrs. Spire received a slight wound on the leg and was shocked. Mrs. Spire's baby, who also was in the automobile, was not injured.

Famous Financier Dies On Train On Way To New York

Oris P. Van Sweringen Succumbs at Noon Today; Apparently Had Been in Good Health

Cleveland, O., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Oris P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland financier, died today aboard a train enroute to New York, his offices here announced today.

Van Sweringen, whose mother, Mrs. J. Van Sweringen died less than a year ago, left Cleveland for New York last night. Death occurred at noon today, his offices said they were informed.

Van Sweringen, who was 57 years old, boarded a Nickel Plate train here at 6:01 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) last night for the trip to New York. He apparently had been in good health.

First announcement concerning the death came from Joseph Dehert, public relations counsel for the widespread Van Sweringen interests.

REBEL MISSILE HITS PATIO OF WAR MINISTRY

Insurgent Air Raiders Renew Attack On Capital City

BOMBS FALL IN HEART OF MADRID

Government Defense Charges Two Foreign Submarines Attacked Vessels

Madrid, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Insurgent air raiders attacked the Spanish capital early today, dropping several bombs on the ministry of war in the heart of the city. Windows in the war ministry headquarters for the emergency defense council, were shattered when one explosive missile fell in the patio of the building.

Several other bombs fell in the central district in the renewal of air assaults which had been suspended for three days.

Charges that two foreign submarines attacked two government war ships in Cartagena harbor yesterday morning were made by the ministry of air and navy in Valencia.

"This morning at 9 a. m. (Sunday) several submarines—at least two of which certainly must have belonged to a foreign fleet in as much as the fascists never possessed ships of this kind nor could ever have built them—attacked war ships of our fleet at the entrance to Cartagena harbor," the official announcement said.

The most recent air attack on the capital, which began at 6 a. m., was chiefly of a propaganda nature, the fascists pilots dropping bundles of leaflets in addition to a few bombs.

The bombardment interrupted the wholesale evacuation of women, children and old men to eastern sections of Spain. Between 200,000 and 400,000 persons under defense plans are to be evacuated.

Nine Defendants Tried At Session Of Police Court

Charges of Possession of Illegal Whiskey For the Purpose of Sale and Drunkenness Are Heard

Seven negroes and two white prisoners were convicted in City court today of various charges, including illegal sale of whiskey, drunkenness and assault.

Lety Evans was given 30 days on the roads; and Jim Haddock, taxed with the costs upon conviction of charges of drunkenness. These were the only two white men tried, the remaining being negroes.

Pearlie Moore was bound over to County court under bond of $500 on a charge of possessing illegal whiskey for the purpose of sale.

Sarah Vines was bound over to County court under bond of $50 on a charge of assault. She is charged with having struck a negro man with a knife.

Sylvester Atkinson was bound over to County court under bond of $500 on a charge of possessing illegal whiskey for sale.

Willie Briley was ordered held for the higher court on a charge of careless and reckless driving. Bond was set at $100.

Tom Parker was fined five dollars and costs upon conviction of drunkenness.

John Gibbs was taxed with the costs on a drunkenness charge.

Clinton Metts was given 30 days on the roads upon conviction of being drunk and using profane and obscene language.

Some 200 experiments are in progress in the two states and sponsors estimate that 500,000 trees will be growing in the territory within a year. A mill for crushing the oil out of the tung tree nuts has been promised "within two or three years" if the trees prove profitable.

Tung oil, known as the most powerful drying oil produced, is used chiefly as a waterproofing agent in paints and varnishes and kindred products.

Tung nuts are grown profusely in some sections of Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, but the bulk of tung oil comes from the Orient.

CONGRATULATIONS

Our congratulations to the staff of "Green Lights," local high school paper, on winning second place and a medal in the South Atlantic competition held at Washington and Lee University the latter part of last week. This is just the second year of the local high school paper and the fact that it should win in competition with much older papers in its first entry in a contest speaks well for the members of the staff.

BOYS' DORMITORY NEEDED

It is understood that the request of East Carolina Teachers College for funds from the next legislature will include a sufficient amount to erect a boys' dormitory at the college. If the boys of this section are to have the advantages that the school offers in the way of an education, certainly there must be some provision to house them at the college and every organization in Greenville should endorse this request and urge the legislature to provide the necessary funds. Providing more facilities for boys at the college would not only make it easier for the boys of Eastern North Carolina to get a college education but it would mean much to Greenville in a business way. Already with less than 150 boys at the college, the college is gaining recognition in the way of athletics and with four or five hundred boys in college here instead of less than 150, it is not hard to imagine just how far the college could go in taking its proper place among colleges in the state in athletics.

A boys' dormitory at the college would mean better education facilities for the boys of this section, better athletics at the college, a greater number of visitors and more business for Greenville. Let us all use our influence to get the budget commission to recommend to the legislature that the necessary funds for this much-needed dormitory be provided.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Sally Warren, attractive young society editor of the Warrenton Courier, becomes secretly engaged to Terry Maynard, bogish blond aviator who has been promised a South American job. She isn't merry at once, feeling her family needs her financial help. Tip, Sally's pretty headstrong younger sister, is thrown with Terry who teaches her to fly. Handsome, da.: Philip Page buys the Courier as a strike starts in the Morris mill. He backs the workmen, seeking better living conditions. Sally surprises Tip and Terry on the porch and Tip runs away.

Chapter 13

A Trip To Milltown

SALLY went in search of Tip and found her lying across her bed staring soberly out of the window.

"What's the matter?" asked Sally.

"Why did you run away a while ago?"

"Stomach," said Tip, without looking at her. "Ate too much candy."

Sally was immensely relieved. Tip was always eating too many sweets and having to be dosed for it, like a child.

"We're going on a picnic Sunday," Sally told her. "Terry's idea—and you're to invite anyone you choose."

Tip raised up from the bed. "Did he ask me?"

"We're going on a picnic Sunday—to Clinton's Mill."

"Of course, goose. We're going to Clinton's Mill for a swim, and take supper with us. Who will you ask?"

Tip wrinkled her brow in a frown. "Philip Page," she decided.

"You can't ask him," Sally protested. "He's not in your crowd. He's older, and you scarcely know him."

"I know him well enough," said Tip coldly. "You needn't think I'm such a child. I know what I'm doing—and if I can't ask Philip Page I won't go."

"Ask him if you like," Sally said slowly.

'How The Other Half Lives'

SATURDAY at the office was always a busy day, but on this particular day there was added excitement. Lola Hopkins first brought the news to the big office.

"What do you know?"—Horton, the buildings inspector, has lost his job with the city," she announced.

"He expected that," said Sally. "I heard him say so."

"Mayor says the town's got to curtail expenses," Lola went on. "They're doing away with the job of buildings inspector." She turned to Sally.

"We've got a call from McDonald, who's heading the workmen's delegation. Boss wants you to go with me to Milltown and take it down in shorthand."

Sally went with Lola gladly. Lola seemed always to be in the thick of any excitement, and though she treated Sally with some condescension, Sally did not mind.

"Bet you never been to Milltown," said Lola, as they rattled down Main street. "It's time you folks on Rosemary street found out how the other half of Warrenton lives."

At the edge of town, they turned off the paved highway and drove slowly down a narrow, unpaved road that led into the heart of Milltown. Here were rows of little frame houses standing long-legged on slender brick piles. The yards were hard, packed clay, without grass, but on the edges of the porches spindly plants blossomed in tomato cans and lard buckets. The whole village swarmed with children, who kept constantly getting in the way of Lola's car. Women sat on the porches, and men stood about in groups, talking and spitting tobacco juice.

"But why aren't they at work?" demanded Sally, uncomfortable beneath the steady, almost hostile eyes of the people they passed.

"Some of them haven't any work. The others are staying out because they go back they go on old Joe Morris' terms."

"But how will they live?"

own time, is comparable. Wilson, victorious President of a nation whose intervention decided the World War, was at the peak of his influence as he sailed for Paris.

Roosevelt, new champion of the "good neighbor" policy, popular among the Latin American republics as he is at home, was perhaps at the high level of his influence as he started for the equator.

Wilson Risked Prestige.

There the parallel ends. Wilson laid out the 14 points and proposed a league of nations. But instead of returning home at that point, while the give and take of treaty negotiations worked out, he stayed on. His name became associated with some of the compromises in the treaty which made it bitter medicine for some minor European peoples, and a vulnerable target for foes at home.

He lost the fight.

At the outset President Roosevelt announced that his stay in Buenos Aires, the scene of the conference, would be limited to one day. He would speak, but would not negotiate. He would leave to Secretary Hull, whom he called "wise and experienced," the negotiation of harmony among the 21 Latin American neighbors.

Harmonious as South American republic are toward the United States' "good neighbor" policy, they Principal hope of the state department is for an agreement on a policy of neutrality toward non-American war similar to the United States' neutrality policy. Like the league it will envisage collective security. Unlike the league it will lack compulsion, if present outlines are followed.

F.D.R.'s Advantages.

Trade and other economic factors will inevitably be considered in connection with any such general neutrality agreement. Little rivalries from such sources may arise, but they will be associated with the negotiators, not with Mr. Roosevelt.

When the agreement is presented to the senate and to the country by President Roosevelt, the prestige he brings to it will be untarnished by personal association with any of the conflicts which had to be submerged in writing it.

Then, too, Wilson had to submit his product to a senate with a Republican majority. President Roosevelt has a senate overwhelmingly Democratic, and with its membership already on record for neutrality of a big part of the hemisphere—all the 48 states.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York. — One of the major benefits of the new drama season has been the clearing-up of a pertinent question. I mean, we are no longer in the dark as to how a Hamlet must behave on Broadway in order to satisfy the metropolitan reviewers.

He must, first, over-act. Then he must rant and rave like a lunatic and cleave the air with a battle-axe as well as with horrid speech, leaping like a mountain goat from one emotional peak to another. Finally he must read into the character a degree of lunacy such as not even Shakespeare himself imagined. These are the "musts" in order successfully to stage "Hamlet" on Broadway. Emulate these and you will be exalted to the disparagement of all others.

At least recent history indicates as much. I am thinking now of Mr. John Gielgud, the distinguished over-actor, who came from London to play the title role in Mr. Guthrie McClintic's production of "Hamlet." Mr. Gielgud believes in nothing if not tradition and so he plays Hamlet as two centuries of distinguished over-actors before him have played the part. The New York critics were charmed by this fidelity and sang him a hymn of such lyric sweetness that I think it should be set to music. Were Mr. Gielgud to over-act in any other play as he does in Shakespeare the critics themselves would be the first to hoot him off the stage. And that's what I can't figure out. Why is Shakespeare exempt from the temperance demanded of every other playwright?

After Mr. Gielgud established himself at the Empire theatre, Leslie Howard brought his production of "Hamlet" to the Imperial. But Mr. Howard does not throw an epileptic fit every time he opens his mouth, and so the reviewers were unable to see in him any of the "verve and consummate fire" so plentifully found in Mr. Gielgud. Mr. Howard fancies that one can love one's mother without shouting it from the third balcony, but this, of course, is a fallacy and the sooner he realizes it the happier he will be.

I have always thought that Shakespearean characters, at least occasionally, should speak in modulated tones, and I have always hoped that some day somebody would give us a Hamlet in whom we could believe. Hamlet, after all, was a moody creature (in no sense mad in the beginning) and I suspect that the overhasty marriage of his mother had more to do with his despondency than the murder of his father.

If Hamlet actually achieved madness he approached it in measured steps, and he certainly was not crazy when the first curtain rose. . . at least he wasn't in my understanding of the play, nor in Leslie Howard's interpretation of it.

But Mr. Gielgud, in the first scene, shows us a Hamlet already wrecked by emotional violence. It is unreal to me that one could attain such a frenzy at that point without then and there wreaking vengeance on whomever he has condemned.

Let me make it clear that I am not disparaging Gielgud. The critics liked him and so all power to him. Nor am I carrying the torch for Leslie Howard. It is simply that I am unable to understand how a press could be so overwhelmingly against what seems to me the most satisfying "Hamlet" Broadway has seen. It may be that Howard's personal following will be strong enough to pull him through, although few plays ever survive the lambasting visited upon this one.

If Howard fails, it seems to me the theater shall have been bankrupt of something fine it has never had before and perhaps may never have again.

Another Question About CARDUI

MOTHERS RECOMMEND IT

"Why do so many MOTHERS recommend Cardui to their daughters?"

Isn't it but natural that any good mother should tell her daughters about Cardui if the mother herself felt that she had been benefitted by this medicine?

It is impressive that so many women report having taken Cardui on the advice of their mothers.

Cardui has been found to benefit women when weakened by malnutrition (poor nourishment); and it helps to relieve much discomfort at monthly periods.

Thousands of women testify Cardui helped them. Of course, if it does not help you, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up. Soon all your paving money is spent on upkeep . . . and no more new roads are built.

Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep. Each year, the paving fund builds more miles of concrete until the whole job is done—for keeps. Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . saves gas, tires and repairs.

Get concrete. Insist on it—for safety, comfort and economy.

Mrs. Evelyn George Wilkinson, of Cleveland, Ohio, who has a lovely soprano voice, gave a beautiful program of songs to the college students on Friday morning at the assembly hour.

Her first selection was an old English song, dedicated to a fair lady, "My Lovely Celia." The others were: "A Pastoral" from Rosalinda; "Night," an extra modern song; "A Piper," "My Lover is a Fisherman," by Lily Strickland, a South Carolina; and two German songs, "Nur Wer die Schusucht Kennst," and "Ich Liebe Dich."

Mrs. Guy Smith played her accompaniments.

First Church of Christ, Scientist
"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all of the churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 22nd.

The Golden Text was from Matthew 6:22: "The light of the body is the eye; if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To divest thought of false trusts and material evidences in order that the spiritual facts of being may appear—this is the great attainment by means of which we shall sweep away the false and give place to the true. Thus we may establish in truth the temple, or body, whose builder and maker is God." (Page 428: 8-14).

"The Handbook for Living"
"The Handbook for Living" was the theme of the inspiring message brought to the College students by J. E. Miller, of Washington, N. C., at the Y. W. C. A. Vesper services last night.

The handbook for living, he said, is the Bible, a summary of all books, an encyclopedia of all knowledge. The essence of the handbook, he said, is love thy God and love thy neighbor. If these loves, which are identical, were observed, he believes, there would be no wars and discontentment among people. He expressed the wish that the flags of all nations be burned and out of the ashes come one master flag, bearing the symbol of international peace and that all national songs be blended into one symphony of international peace.

He gave four reasons why the handbook, the Bible, should be studied: The place it holds among other books, the subject with which it deals; the fact that it speaks for itself and as no other background; and the evidence of the fruits it has produced wherever it has been followed.

He concluded with, "Let your praises be to Him, who inspired this, the Handbook of Living."

Miss Josephine Wade sang "Beside Still Waters."

SOCIAL SECURITY PROBLEMS HOLDS INTEREST IN STATE

over 65 years of age to provide each a total pension of $30 a month. It is estimated that in order to pay the full $30 a month pension, the state will have to provide at least $5,000,000 a year to match the Federal funds.

Another immediate task before the general assembly will be the enactment of a state law which will meet the approval of the social security board, providing for the participation of North Carolina in the unemployment insurance program. The employers of the state are already paying a payroll tax of 1 per cent a year, which will be due Jan. 1, 1937 and which will total about $3,000,000 this year, to be used for unemployment insurance.

But until the general assembly enacts the necessary cooperative legislation, none of this money will stay in the state or be used in the state unless Congress amends the Federal law. It is being hoped Congress will make sufficient changes in the present law so that this $3,000,000 will not be lost to the state this year. But even if it does this, the state must still enact additional state laws to permit further participation in the program. Additional state legislation will have to be enacted to permit the workers in the state to share in the old age insurance plan, for which the Federal government will start collecting payroll taxes from both employers and employees on January 1, but which will not start paying benefits to those who will participate under the act until 1942.

One of the big questions going the rounds here is whether the Advisory Budget Commission, which has been in session here for several weeks, will take into consideration the additional revenue needed for the various social security activities and make recommendations to the general assembly as to how the additional revenue can be raised, or whether it will ignore this need and pass the buck to the general assembly. In the past, the budget commission has never anticipated any new needs or requests but has held its recommendations almost entirely to the same objects as participated in the last budget. But it would not surprise a good many observers if the budget body decided to ignore the social security needs and pass the job of finding the amount needed and the ways and means of raising the money to the legislature. On the other hand, some think the budgeters may forsake their former policy and make definite recommendations both as to the amount of money needed for the social security program and how to raise it.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds
By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—New pictures parade.

Eleanor Powell, who was "Born to Dance," clicks her soles and heels through much of the footage of this new, elaborate musical comedy about a gob and a small-town girl who wanted to make the big time grade.

It is smart and effective dicking, surrounded at all times by the beauty or talent (or both) of a cast including Virginia Bruce, James Stewart, Buddy Ebsen, Una Merkel, Sid Silvers, Frances Langford, A'an Dinehart, Raymond Walburn and others.

Everybody sings and everybody dances, gags and comedy situations abound, and it winds up with a huge "production number" in the current mode. Made for fun, "Born to Dance" should give it. Roy del Ruth directed, and the music is Cole Porter's.

The Dionne quintuplets make their second feature bow in "Reunion," which is about the big get-together of the 3,000 "babies" delivered by Dr. Luke (Jean Hersholt) of "The Country Doctor" fame. The reunion affords the good doctor opportunity to straighten, rather cleverly, the tangled lives of several of his grown-up "babies"—including Robert Kent, whose romance with Rochelle Hudson is threatened by Helen Vinson, who is about to leave her husband Tom Moore; Alan Dinehart, the great governor who is childless and little George Ernest who is parentless. Esther Ralston plays the down-and-out movie star, and J. Edward Bromberg, her faithful old home town admirer.

Throughout these stories Constable Slim Summerville and Quintuplet Papa John Quaien provide consistent comedy and toere are, of course, the quints doing two-year-old stunts. Norman Taurog directed.

Bing Crosby put some of his own money into "Pennies from Heaven" and it looks as if he'll get it back with interest. It's about a troubadour who "adopts" an indigent grandpa (Donald Meek) and his "problem grandchild" (Edith Fellows) and runs into all sorts of difficulties with social service workers. One of these is Madge Evans who eventually joins the side of the hunted refugees and gets her man—but not before Crosby has sung some good tunes and untangled himself from consistent troubles. Loui Armstrong, the negro jazz maestro, is a hit. Norman McLeod directed.

In "It Happened One Night" Clark Gable, a reporter, captured runaway heiress Claudette Colbert and returned her via night bus to romance, with astonishing box-office results. In "Love on the Run" Gable again is the reporter, but Joan Crawford is the proud heiress.

Gable helps Joan escape from marriage with fortune-hunting Ivan Lebedeff, and in the escape they do a glorified hitch-hike over quite a bit of Europe. Franchot Tonne as a rival reporter has nearly as good a role as either. W. S. Van Dyke directed.

How's Your Health
Climate and Health

The ancient physicians laid great stress upon the influence of climate on health. They not only considered certain regions as definitely inimicable to physical well-being, but they also paid close attention to the direction of the winds, humidity, cold, rain and snow. Upon their empirical observations, they prescribed certain rules of precaution, urging, for example, that under certain climatic and atmospheric condition it was wisest not to venture outdoors.

Much of their climatologic lore has been discarded by modern medicine. Possibly the reason why the older physicians paid so much attention to these matters is that in times past fewer means were available for mitigating the effects of harsh weather. In former days houses could not be heated as well we can today, nor was there so

Hand Bags Are 'Growing Up'

By ALICE MAXWELL

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Hand bags grow longer, shoes taller, to keep pace with slimmer silhouettes and shorter skirts. The shoes have high cut fronts and tall tongue pieces. The purses are long-drawn-out from small tops. A "dunce cap" shape of black antelope starts in a sharp point accented with a big round turquoise. Thin triangles of purple and wine colored suedes make other long purses.

For tailored use there is a new box calf bag with a flap closing. On the outside of the flap are twin purses securely snapped fastened, one destined for change, the other for tickets, handkerchief or memoranda.

Painted Purses.
Painted fabrics are being drafted into service to make unpretentious evening purses. One is black satin is mounted on a gold frame to set off a striking painted pattern in gold and multi-color.

A plain black crepe evening bag is ornamented with a single large leaf of gold kid having an arched stem which makes the handle. Black crepe evening pumps to match have a gold leaf set up in front for a fancy tongue piece.

The tall tongue goes for day shoes as well as evening pumps. Flat heeled sports models show mounting tendencies in new tongue pieces both high and wide. These are often perforated in all-over design, with the perforations getting larger and bolder as new models appear.

High Tongues
For resort wear there is a new sports shoe in mustard yellow suede banded twice across the toe with royal blue kid. The wide tongue is punched full of holes in the through-going manner of a sieve.

Some of the new tongues are so tall they need to be anchored into place. These are run through with a lacing that goes around the top of the shoe and ties over the tongue piece.

Highest among the high cult models are the boots that come up clear to the ankle and lace at back or side. A new version has a suede front, a box calf, and a lacing down the side where the two meet. A cuff top, stitched and pointed, makes a decorative finish.

IT'S THE TOP

Here is one of the new top handled bags which are smart this season. It is made of black antelope and has as its only accent three long script metal initials clasped to the handle. It steps out with a black faille afternoon suit worn with a white blouse and a black antelope hat.

much protective wearing apparel available. Umbrellas, raincoats and overshoes are of comparatively recent development.

Still there is no doubt that climate does markedly affect health. Ellsworth Huntington in "Civilization and Climate" points out that persons who live for any length of time in tropical and semi-tropical climates, gradually develop a distaste for exercise of a physical kind, while those living in the northern portions of the globe manifest a natural inclination for vigorous outdoor life, even in winter.

However, this inclination is not witnessed in all. Some individuals apparently undergo a modified form of hibernation during the cold season—an undesirable practice. Winter is the most important time to carry on outdoor activities. Vigorous walking, outdoor games, skating and coasting are healthful sports.

Advantage should be taken of the stimulating qualities of winter weather, for the body thrives best when exposed to variable temperatures serves to overcome the depressures. A few hours of cooling each day influence of a hot, stuffy, even-tempered atmosphere. Cooling the body acts as a metabolic whip, stimulating the burning up of body fuels, and accelerates circulation and a redistribution of blood. "Snowbird ventures," like bathing in icy water, or any sudden chilling however are not advisable.

FORGOTTEN MEN IN N. C. STATE PRISON

ing the interviewing and setting up of case histories on 1,190 prisoners, was of an emergency nature and taxed the facilities of the parole office to the limit. But it will never have to be done again, since all new prisoners are interviewed as they are admitted and their case histories set up and maintained up to date from that time on, Gill pointed out. Since October 1, 1935, approximately 1,500 felons have been committed, interviewed and indexed files for them prepared and filed in the parole office. Under the new parole law, the file of each prisoner will be gone over and studied at regular periods by the parole office, so that in the future there will be no "forgotten men" in the state prison, as every prisoner will be assured of the same attention and consideration, Gill pointed out.

"This study was undertaken as a result of a survey made of the entire list of prisoners convicted and serving terms for felonies, which showed that there were many men in the prison, some of whom had been there for years, who had lost contact with the outside world," Gill said. "This first survey also revealed that there were more than 1,000 men in whose behalf no living person had ever spoken to the Governor or the parole office. Governor Ehringhaus and the parole office felt that these men were entitled to the same careful study and consideration as their fellow prisoners who possessed friends on the outside to bring their cases to the attention of the parole office. In addition, one of the main objectives of the new parole system was to inaugurate a plan whereby the cases of these 'forgotten men' might be placed on a parity with the other prisoners. We believe we have evolved this plan and that from now on there will be no more 'forgotten men' in the prison system."

Once Deaf—Now Helps Others to Hear

The prescription of a Vienna ear specialist has been brought to this country by Charles Foucek, a well-known Chicago druggist, who was once deaf but who cleared up his condition through this prescription. Through him thousands of sufferers have tried this formula and secured amazing relief from head noises, ringing and buzzing in ears, earache, and are now able to hear more distinctly. This prescription, called Ouline, costs only a few cents a day—your money back if not delighted. Pitt Drug Co.

Pirates Pile Up 19 Points in Last Half to Win Contest

The Pirates piled up 19 points in the last half of the Homecoming game at the University of North Carolina to blank the Trojans for the second consecutive year.

The touchdown came in the second quarter when Shelton took the ball and passed to the Trojan's 10. He passed to Gibson, who laterally passed to Lindsey. Lindsey carried the ball across for the first six yards. An attempted line play for the extra point failed.

In the last quarter, after a kickoff by Gibson and Ferber placed the ball in scoring position on the 23, Shelton passed to Lindsey across the goal line for the touchdown. Shelton ran the extra point.

After the Trojans received the kickoff and were held for three yards on their own 35, Brinn kicked the Pirates 20, and Gibson kicked the punt 18 yards to his own 28. The Pirates marched toward the Trojans' goal and picked up 12, Gibson 9.

There were made several good plays with the ball on the Louisville. Shelton again passed to Lindsey for the final touchdown.

The last half of play gave the Pirates 8 first downs to Louisville. Both teams made scores in the first quarter, the Pirates 20, Louisville 10.

In the second quarter, Brinn took the ball on the Teachers 45 and passed to the 10, only to be called for an off-side penalty. At 25, Brinn recovered a Louisville fumble on his 42, Gibson picked up 10 yards and a pass from Shelton to Lindsey was good for 15 yards. After the Teachers made three consecutive first downs, Louisville advanced on the 16 yard line.

Gibson, playing his last game for the Pirates, was a consistent ground runner, while the Shelton-Lindsey combination played a successful passing game.

Brinn who punted and passed for the Trojans, played a steady game. Taylor at half-back and Blue at end also featured in Louisville's play.

ATLANTA'S 'SIT' STRIKE ENDS

Employees of the Fisher Body corporation's assembly plant in Atlanta, Ga., are shown leaving the building after a one-night "sit down" strike. Union officials said the strike was ended with prospect that an "early settlement" of differences would be "amicably reached." (Associated Press Photo)

NCREA CLAIMS WIDE INTEREST

Other States Desire Information Regarding Set-Up

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—Quite a number of other states are very much interested in the North Carolina rural electrification law enacted by the 1935 general assembly and under which more than 4,000 miles of rural electric lines have either been built or authorized. It was learned today from David S. Weaver, professor of agricultural engineering at the extension division of State College, who is also secretary of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority.

Prof. Weaver, incidentally, did a great deal of the preliminary survey work for the original rural electrification commission appointed by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and of which Dr. Clarence Poe was chairman, which paved the way for the enactment of the 1935 law and the establishment of the present NCREA. This original commission, incidentally, was appointed very largely at the request of the North Carolina Grange when W. Kerr Scott was its master.

Within the last ten days, a representative from South Carolina was here studying the North Carolina rural electrification law and the state set-up under it, Prof. Weaver said. This South Carolina representative was C. V. Phagan, extension agricultural engineer from Clemson College, the South Carolina engineering and agricultural school. He was very much interested in the set-up here and in the law.

Still more recently, Prof. Weaver has received a letter from the secretary of the Illinois Rural Electrification Commission, asking for copies of the North Carolina law and for complete details as to the set-up here and what it has accomplished.

Within the next week or ten days a delegation from Virginia is expected to come here to study both the North Carolina rural electrification law, the workings of the NCREA and what has been accomplished, with a possible view towards seeking the enactment of a similar law and creation of a similar rural electrification body in Virginia, Weaver said.
