

Germany Japan In Agreement On Anti-Communism

THIRD PARTIES MAY BE ASKED

Ambassadors of All Foreign Nations Are Summoned to Berlin Foreign Office to Receive News of Official Declaration By Two Powers

Berlin, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Germany and Japan signed today an agreement directed against the communist international.

The alliance was signed at the foreign office after the government had announced it would publish an "official declaration" this afternoon.

Ambassadors of all foreign nations were summoned by sudden invitation for the ceremony.

The agreement, asserting the international, communist organization with headquarters at Moscow, is aimed "at directing and violating existing states with all means at its command," said the two governments believed tolerance of such alleged interference "threatens peace at large."

Hence Japan and Germany bound themselves for a period of five years to:

- 1. Inform and consult with each other and execute cooperative action to combat communist internationalism;
2. Invite third parties whose domestic peace is endangered by the disruptive activities of the communist international to join them;
3. Exchange constant police information on the subject;
4. Take strict measures at home or abroad against persons who directly or indirectly serve the communist international; and
5. Cooperate in an international campaign against communism thru a permanent German-Japanese commission.

Dr. E.L.Henderson Opens Fall Course In Scout Training

Instructions To Be Given to Prospective Scout Leaders at E. C. T. C. Each Monday Evening.

Speaking on "The Nature of the Boy," Dr. E. L. Henderson, Chairman of the Greenville District of the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts, officially opened the fall training for Scouters of Pitt county. Each Monday evening, this training will continue in the Austin building of the E. C. T. C., and capable instructors will handle the subjects covered in "The Principles of Scoutmanship," which is an advanced course in Scout training opened to those registered as Scouters and others interested in boys and in giving them leaderships.

Dr. Henderson, Monday night, said that the boy of Scout age is somewhere between a child and a man. The boy of 12 has twelve different traits, and among these he listed the following:

- 1. Very active—especially in things that exercise his longer muscles.
2. Awkward, having grown two or three inches that he does not, at this time, know how to use.
3. He either intends to dominate, or very timid.
4. He wants to satisfy his wants anyway he can.
5. He desires approval of everything.
6. The boy of 12 wants to gang.
7. He has a great love of adventure.
8. He is curious.
9. He needs simple, but definite instructions in regard to sex.
10. He wants to be independent and self-directed.
11. There is keen rivalry in him.
12. He is highly emotional.

Next week, the Scout Training Course will tell how the Scouting Program meets the above traits of character, and additional men, other than those present Monday night, are invited to attend.

Among those in attendance for the opening session were: Wayland Clifton of Winterville, and the following Greenville men: J. Ed. Waldrop, Sam Dees, Thomas J. Wilton, A. H. Windham, C. J. Vates, C. T. Wells, Thomas Field, Curt Bennett and professional leadership.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 25.—(AP)—United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull reached Buenos Aires today bringing completed drafts of proposed neutrality and cultural exchange conventions for presentation at next month's inter-American conference.

Foreign Minister Carlos Saavedra Lamas, and a large group of other Argentine, Ecuadorian and Costa Rican officials and delegates met Secretary Hull at the pier.

Argentine authorities at the same time put finishing touches on the program for President Roosevelt's arrival November 30. The day will be a national holiday.

A harmonious and fruitful conference was forecast by early arrivals.

LOYALS BLOCK REBEL ATTACK

Fascist Fight Futile Battle to Rescue 2,000 Comrades

Madrid, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fascist shock troops fought a futile all-morning battle today to rescue 2,000 comrades marooned by government troops in the huge hospital clinic in University City.

An international brigade surrounding what once was one of Europe's finest hospitals, held its ground although a flank attack by the insurgents seemed for a time to be menacing the first houses of interior Madrid.

Thirty fascist bombers and pursuit planes bombarded the University City defenders and long range guns dropped shells in the center of Madrid.

Within the capital the government ordered families of refugees in subway stations to evacuate because of the "awful" sanitary conditions.

At Cartagena police semi-officially reported the discovery of a Nazi espionage and propaganda organization.

Reps. said "interesting documents" had been discovered at the German consulate and sent to Valencia for government inspection. The newspaper Claridad meanwhile said militiamen who seized and closed the former German embassy here yesterday had found a large night signalling apparatus and a "veritable arsenal of guns and ammunition."

Take Congressman Back To Washington

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Representative John H. Hoepfel and his son, Charles J. Hoepfel, held here since federal agents seized them November 1 as fugitive from justice, will be returned to Washington today under a removal order of district judge Robert N. Pollard.

United States Marshal Delano said he will return the Congressman and his son to the capital city this afternoon. They are under sentence of four months to a year in the District of Columbia for conspiracy to sell an appointment to West Point.

The Soil Conservation Service says a "depth of double a season's evaporation loss" is a safe rule in constructing reservoirs or ponds for livestock.

Greenville Takes Holiday To Observe Thanksgiving

Greenville will join with the rest of the nation tomorrow in pausing to give thanks, a custom established by the Pilgrim fathers in the earliest days of this country. Churches of the city will provide all citizens with an opportunity of gathering in a service to give thanks. The services will be held at the Memorial Baptist church and the special message, Rev. A. W. Fleischman will be in charge, assisted by Rev. R. C. Grady.

STALIN FAVORS CABINET POST OF MUNITIONS

Gives Approval in Second Public Talk Of Career

SAYS COMMUNISM BE ONLY PARTY

Observers Believe Adoption Would Mean Soviet Would Prepare for War

Moscow, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin approved a separate industry of munitions in the Soviet cabinet in a speech before the Eight-hall-union congress of Soviets tonight.

Making the second public speech of his career, the Secretary General of the communist party went before the congress on the same day that Germany and Japan signed an agreement directed against the communist international.

He also presented a new constitution to the party and told them the communist party would remain the only party in the Soviet Union.

The fact that establishment of a military industry commissariat was the only important one of numerous suggestions submitted by the people to which Stalin gave his approval, was seized upon by the delegates as indicating recognition of grave danger of war.

In a speech which occupied two hours and 15 minutes, Stalin threw down a challenge to fascism declaring the new Soviet constitution was an indictment of this creed.

Observers believed adoption of the military industry commissariat idea meant the Soviet Union would rapidly develop her military industries in preparation for war in view of the international situation.

VICTIMS OF EXTORTION-HOLDUP

In one of the most daring extortion-robberies ever executed in Atlanta, Ga., T. K. Glenn (left), president of the Trust-Company of Georgia, was forced to draw $30,000 from a bank and deliver it to a bandit who held Ernest Woodruff (right), capitalist, a prisoner at pistol point. W. T. Moyers, an attorney, and his 18-year-old son Marshall were arrested for the fantastic crime. (Associated Press Photos)

SELF DEFENSE TO OPEN DRIVE FOR SEAL SALE

Mrs. Godwin May Take Stand In Her Murder Trial

Lillington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The defense continued today to present evidence to support its contention that Mrs. Sina Pope Godwin fatally shot her third husband in self defense and not deliberately as the state charges.

Silas Alphin, a Dunn filling station operator, testified that he saw Mrs. Godwin's husband, Furman, at his filling station the day of the slaying, last July, and that he was drinking.

Alphin testified that Godwin told him he wanted his wife to sign a paper and threatened he would kill her if she did not and that a gun was in Godwin's car.

Under cross examination Alphin denied he had tried to bribe witnesses in the case and also denied that Mrs. Godwin had paid him frequent visits recently to discuss the case. He admitted Mrs. Godwin told him once she shot her husband in the leg.

Mrs. Godwin's mother, Mrs. J. C. Pope, testified she went with her daughter to the Godwin home and was in an automobile outside the house when the shooting occurred.

The state brought out from the mother by cross examination that Mrs. Godwin had gone with her third husband while her second husband was living. She admitted that she thought the pistol Mrs. Godwin used in shooting her husband belonged to J. C. Pope.

The defense indicated it might send Mrs. Godwin to the stand.

Set-Up Revealed For Social Security Act

Washington, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The system whereby the government will check up on taxes and wages for pension purposes became clearer today with an announcement that the social security board will have at least 108 regional offices.

Extending from coast to coast, these offices will cover territory coinciding with the internal revenue districts into which employers in commerce and industry must pay taxes on wages and payrolls beginning January 1. In addition to the payroll tax payments each employer must make a quarterly "information return" in wages paid and to whom.

Body of Aged Man Found in Edgecombe

Tarboro, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Ed Gardner, aged Macclesfield man, was found dead in a roadside ditch here under circumstances which led coroner J. G. Raby to say he believed the man was thrown or fell from a rapidly moving automobile. He said marks showed the body slid 12 or 15 feet after striking the ground.

For several years these families, pioneers of East Carolina, have held joint meetings annually, which have been well attended and successful.

UNION AGREES TO MOVE FOOD FOR ALASKANS

Verbal Promise To Man Ships Given Federal Officials

COSTS OF STRIKE REACH MILLIONS

Efforts to Bring Relief to Alaska Side-track Moves to End Walkout of 37,000

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Federal officials had a verbal promise today from striking unions to man food ships for Alaska, acutely affected by the widespread maritime tie-up.

Hawaii, also cut off from normal supplies of mainland necessities, still was without a promise of aid.

New figures—in millions of dollars—were issued on the cost of the strike to Pacific coast business.

Efforts to bring relief to Alaska temporarily sidetracked direct moves to end the walkout of more than 37,000 union workers who have tied up nearly 230 ships in coast ports in the 27 days of the dispute.

New moves were expected to end the strike blockade of Hawaii where the food situation is not yet acute.

Colonel O. F. Ohlson, manager of the government owned Alaska railroad, announced last night the joint strike policy committee had agreed verbally to "man, load and discharge" ships the railway chartered and move necessities to Alaska.

The research department of the San Francisco chamber of commerce said the strike completely stopped movement of cargoes valued at $3,000,000 daily and had "frozen in its course" or impaired at extra cost movement of goods totalling more than $75,000,000 to date.

Larceny Charges Aired At Session Of Police Court

Three Negroes Ordered Held For Higher Courts on Charges of Stealing; One White Man Tried

Three negroes were bound over to higher courts on charges of larceny, another was ordered held under bond for his appearance for trial on an assault with a deadly weapon charge, and a white man was taxed with the costs upon conviction of drunkenness at this morning's session of police court.

J. C. Clark was the white man ordered to pay the costs on the drunkenness count.

Jim Green was ordered held under bond of $300 for his appearance in Superior court on a charge of breaking and entering another negro's house.

Robert Lee Woodard was bound over to the same court under $300 bond for trial on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

John Atkinson was ordered held for trial in county court on a charge of stealing a coat. Bond was fixed at $200.

Oscar Evans was ordered held for county court under bond of $200 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Mr. Williamson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson, and two sisters.

Santa Claus Arrives Here On Monday December 21

Definite announcements concerning the coming of Santa Claus to Greenville on the night of Monday, December 21, were made today following a meeting of the merchants' division of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Already extensive plans have been made for decorating the streets for the Christmas season and the city is expected to be dressed in holiday fashion within a few days.

A number of stores already have started their decorating, but the varied-colored lights along the streets and other holiday frills will not be put up until December 5.

Rescuers Seeking Save 32 Persons From Cruel Death

Surviving Siamese Severed from Twin

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Simplicio Godina lived on today, parted by death and a surgeon's knife from the siamese twin to whom he had been joined for 25 years.

His brother, Lucio, III, with pneumonia for 10 days, died last night in York hospital while Simplicio, in good health, lay beside him.

Within an hour an operation had severed the bodies, linked by muscular tissue at the base of the spine.

Physicians said the living twin was in no immediate danger. They explained the operation had been in the nature of a "routine" amputation.

Rescuers toiled today to save 32 persons missing in widely scattered disasters which already had accounted for 21 deaths.

DISPEL FEARS FOR LINDBERGH

Anxiety Had Been Felt For Whereabouts of Colonel

London, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed at 4 p. m. yesterday at the royal air force airfield at Sealand near Chester and drove away without a word, it was learned tonight.

That settled definitely a day and night of near alarm resulting from absence or any report of the Colonel's arrival following a three hour flight from Ireland.

London, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fears for the safety of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were dispelled today by a woman at the American flyers' country residence, "Seven Oaks" in Kent.

"The Colonel is quite safe," she said.

She lessened mounting anxiety which began in Dublin and spread across the Atlantic ocean to the United States that Lindbergh was unreported over night on a three hour flight from Ireland to England. He took off yesterday at noon.

"Reports that he is missing are silly," she said over the telephone. "He is quite alright."

The question still remained—"where is Colonel Lindbergh?"

Attendees at airports around London were deluged with queries. They could only answer: "He hasn't landed here."

MISHAPS OVER WIDE SECTION

At Least 21 Deaths Already Caused By Disasters From Alaska to New Orleans; Ship Fire, Chemical Fumes, Avalanche Take Heavy Toll

(By Associated Press)

From Alaska to New Orleans a ship fire, avalanche, chemical fumes and transportation mishaps took a heavy human toll.

A steel electric train ploughed into a wooden elevated rail car in Chicago last night, killing nine and injuring 65. The elevated, laden with home-bound workers, was tele-operated as it awaited a dispatcher's signal.

Five raged in the hold of the S. S. Scantic in New Orleans holding the fate of nine men. Hope was virtually abandoned for their rescue. Four were known injured.

Fliers searched the ice-laden Gulf of Alaska for a trace of a missing air liner with 14 persons aboard. The ship was lost on a 300-mile flight from Cordova to Juneau. Repeating records added to the peril.

Three young-old Lorraine Vassal, entombed last night in debris from a chemical fumes, avalanche, died soon after her rescue. Nine others were believed missing in the wreckage. Lorraine's death was the seventh.

Chemical ice fumes suffocated five men in the motor ship Empire State of Buffalo at Brooklyn. Three others, overcome by the gas were saved by policemen wearing gas masks.

SEVEN BODIES RECOVERED FROM HOLDS OF STEAMER

New Orleans, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Seven bodies were recovered today from the blackened hold of the steamship Scantic, which burst into flames at drydock here yesterday. Two other bodies were sought.

PLAN DEVELOP EASTERN AREA

Resettlement Administration Takes Up Option on Tract

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—The fact that the Resettlement Administration is going ahead with its development of "Scuppernon Farms," a 20,000-acre farmstead development project in Washington and Tyrrell counties, centering around Lake Phelps is a state owned lake and under the administration of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

The Resettlement Administration announced yesterday that it had exercised its option on three more tracts of land in this area amounting to 3,000 acres and bringing the total amount of land already approved for purchase to 13,000 acres. As 10,000 acres had already been approved, the remaining 3,000 acres needed are already under option.

It is proposed to divide this land up into 250 separate farms for as many farm families. The land in this area is very fertile and admirably suited for the use now being planned for it, provided proper drainage can be provided. The Federal government is planning to provide this drainage, it is understood.

Santa Goes Modern on the Thirtieth Christmas Seal

A design showing the twinkling, jolly old face of Santa Claus, popular symbol of Christmas, was submitted by Walter I. Sasse of Brooklyn, New York, and was chosen for the 1936 Christmas Seal and for the colorful posters appearing throughout the country. The modern treatment in brilliant red, green, and yellow makes this thirtieth Christmas Seal fairly shout "Good Health and Holiday Greetings!"

MR. WALTER I. SASSE of Brooklyn, New York, submitted his first Christmas Seal sketch in 1929 while he was still a student at Pratt Institute. He has been eager to see a wholly new type of Christmas Seal, one that introduces a feeling of modern art and is at the same time decorative and colorful. The Advisory Committee of the National Tuberculosis Association composed of five members representing the 1931 state and local affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country unanimously chose this design of Santa Claus treated in the modern cartoon manner. They consider it especially appropriate for the thirtieth Christmas Seal since the educational campaign to fight tuberculosis urges the use of modern weapons.

The Santa Claus tuberculosis Christmas Seals go on sale Thanksgiving Day and the sale of the penny stickers continues through Christmas.

"THANKS A MILLION" FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

CHEVROLET The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people. And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry. Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months: You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the country; you have conferred this same high honor upon Chevrolet trucks by purchasing more than 205,000 commercial units; you have made 1936 the most-successful year in all Chevrolet history. And now, to climax these expressions of friendship, you are displaying even more marked preference for the new Chevrolet for 1937. It is difficult to express adequate appreciation for gifts so great and so generous as these. All we can say is, "Thanks a million" for more than a million cars in 1936; and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer.

Bobbie Lee is a finished tap dancer, with the sense of rhythm as is seldom seen even on the professional stage.

The other performers were College students and alumni. James Pittman sang "The Organ Grinder's Swing" and an encore. Carolyn Hamric sang "You Turned the Tables on Me" and did a tap-dance number which was loudly applauded. As an encore, she did an interpretation of "Star Dust."

James Dudley Simpson, accompanied by Brandel James, sang "In My Solitude" and an encore. Alva Page and Joe Williams sang two selections each and, as a final number, Francis Ferebee, Charles Guy and Tex Lindsey sang a medley trio.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York — A writer I know, a cheery fellow, is wedded to a lass whose father has forbidden him to enter his door. For nearly three years they have lived in a suburban community, and twice yearly the girl pays a visit to her father and mother.

But, neither the father nor the mother suspects that she is married. They fancy she is writing scenarios for a film company in Hollywood. Their letters are relayed by a friend who dwells in that delightfully mad place.

Recently the daughter flew in from the "coast" for a fortnight's visit and was rapturously acclaimed at the airport by her overjoyed family. Two weeks later, when it became time to return to the "coast" papa and mother accompanied daughter to the airport, accorded her a tearful adieu, and saw her plane disappear into a fiery red sunset.

It was just 20 minutes after this that the lass descended from the plane at Camden, N. J. A few moments later she got on another and came zooming back into Manhattan. As the big airliner came down the runway a tall, grinning fellow stepped from behind a convenient hangar, gathered her into a bear's hug. Then they ferried the river and took a suburban train for their Westchester home, a village, incidentally, that is hardly a stone's throw from the outskirts of the city.

Marc Lachman reports the quandary in which Bernard Sobel found himself not long ago. As Ziegfeld's press agent, Sobel was asked to help publicize a motion picture based on the Glorifier's career. Then shortly afterward they induced him to assist with "Romeo and Juliet."

Beset with a thousand chores to perform, Sobel whirled down Broadway in a mental fog. "Hey," screamed a gad-a-bout, "you look terrible — whatcha working on?"

"Ah, yes," mumbled Ziegfeld's old press agent, "another picture — 'Romeo and Ziegfeld.'"

A nightclub proprietor stopped me in Times Square just before dawn. He was quite unmoved and it takes a lot to unnerve one of those table cover handits.

"I know New York is a place where anything can happen," he went on, "but something took place tonight that I just can't believe. A fellow approached me and offered to lend me $10,000 without collateral. . . he said he'd heard I was in a jam and wanted to help me because he liked my club. He said the waiters were kind to him there. Can you defeat that!" . . . and the nightclub impresario reeled off into the night.

Slipping into his accustomed role of clam, J. P. Morgan declined to live shyly news reporters a story when they ambushed him on a private deck of the Queen Mary. Like his father before him, the elderly financier does not encourage interviews and indeed is so loath to give one that when such an event takes place it becomes front page news. A dozen reporters fired questions at close range—how was Europe, what about the election, did he believe recovery was here?

Finally Mr. Morgan broke his silence. A reporter had shouted, "What about war, Mr. Morgan, do you think there'll be war in Europe soon?"

"I don't think," snapped J. P. M. It was his most lengthy retort of the year.

WHITE MAN'S THANKSGIVING DAY JUST ONE OF MANY FOR INDIANS

THANKSGIVING—IN THE SPRING Chief Mofu of Oregon's Cello Indian tribes serves as high priest for the tribe's Thanksgiving ceremonial which is held—not in the late November—but at the opening of the salmon season on the Columbia river each spring.

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, Nov. 25 — (AP)—When the Pilgrims offered their first Thanksgiving, the Indians were their guests, and as courteous folk the red men still observe the day at the same time as their white brothers—but their own Thanksgiving extends throughout the year.

Indian bureau officials say that, although reservation schools close, missions hold services and families feast on the white man's Thursday, the tribes still give thanks to the "great spirit" in their own ancient ways at their own traditional times.

Seven Different Periods
The Iroquois, for example, in New York state, in Ontario and along the St. Lawrence river, have seven separate periods of Thanksgiving. The first is at the beginning of the year and lasts for seven days. Elaborate dramatizations of gratitude for past favors are presented, newborn babies are named, dreams are interpreted, and solemn prayers for good fortune in the year ahead are offered.

The first running of the maple sap, spring planting, ripening of strawberries, beginning of crop cultivation, appearance of the green corn, and harvesting time all are occasions for thankful ceremonies among the Iroquois.

Cello tribes of Oregon observe the opening of the salmon season on the Columbia river with age-old rites of Thanksgiving. Feasts and dances from which white men are excluded follow the appearance of the first spring chinook.

"Let Off Steam"
In the southwest, at Gallup, N. M., during the last three days of August there is one of the greatest gatherings of Indian tribes in America. Pueblos, Navajos, Hopis, Pimas, Apaches, Paiutes and Papagos, numbering more than a thousand, meet to "let off steam" as one Indian official describes it, but at the same time to give thanks to the "great spirit" in ceremony and in dance.

One of the most colorful Indian Thanksgivings, too, is that held in eastern Oklahoma, near Miami, the latter part of July. There the eastern Shawnees, Senecas, Modocs and Wyandottes assemble to offer up their thanks in the "green corn festival" for the gifts of the rain, the sun and the grain.

Wings For Sally
by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Sally Warren, society editor of the Warrenton Courier, becomes secretly engaged to Terry Maynard, boyish blond aviator who has been promised a South American job. While Sally works, her pretty younger sister, Tip, flies and plays with Terry. Philip Page returns to his boyhood home and buys the Courrier as a strike starts in the Morris mill. He backs the workmen. During a picnic, Tip "announces" the engagement of Sally and Terry before Philip. Terry wants Sally to marry him at once. She asks for a week to decide.

Chapter 15
Tip Girls On Her Armor

HOME again, Sally took the picnic basket to the kitchen and went upstairs. She would undress and tie down. Perhaps it would be easier to think things out, and she could get rid of the ache that was beginning to throb behind her temples. With one hand on the knob of her own door, she paused to listen. Someone was crying, sobbing and smothering the sound. After a moment's hesitation, she crossed the hall and opened Tip's door.

"Go away," cried Tip, her face buried in a pillow. "Don't you know what it means when a door's shut? I'm going to have a lock put on that door, that's what I am!"

Sally crossed to the bed and sat down beside Tip. "Tell me what's the matter, honey?" she asked quietly. "Don't you feel well?"

"Sure, I feel fine," said Tip, crying harder than ever. "Can't you see for yourself? Now go away and leave me alone."

"If you want me to, I will. But don't you feel like telling me what's the trouble?"

"Tell you?" Tip sat up straight, her face flushed, her eyes swollen with crying. "You're the last person on earth I'd tell!"

"Why, Tip?" Sally was hurt. She got up and started out, but Tip called her back.

"Wait, Sally! Don't go. I didn't mean it the way you think! Tip turned back to the pillow and sobbed. "Nothing matters—I wish I was dead. I wish Duke had wrecked his old car and killed me!"

"Then you must tell me what's the matter," said Sally.

"All right, I will," Tip sat up and spoke quietly. "I'll tell you—and you'll be sorry you ever asked. I'm in love. I love somebody I can never, never have—and I can't bear it."

"But who?" Even then Sally did not see.

"I love Terry," said Tip. "I love him till I could die for him. Now you know."

Now she knew, what she had been a fool not to know before. It had all been there for her to see, as plain as daylight, and she had not seen.

"You see—I've been loving him—for a long time," Tip went on. Her words were choked out in little gasps. "I've got so I can't bear to see him—without you. That day—on the porch—I had to run away because I couldn't stand to see you—with him."

Sally put an arm about Tip and held her close. That day on the porch she had been blind not to see. She had deliberately sent Tip out again and again with Terry. Tip's words came pouring out now, in relief.

"You see how it is. Suppose you were in my place—could you stand it? Now you know why I've got to get away from here. Terry has taught me to fly."

Terry! A new thought struck Sally and she looked at Tip searchingly. "Does Terry know how you feel?" she demanded.

"I—don't think so," faltered Tip. "But of course he does," Sally cried. "Anybody would have seen but me. Even Philip Page must know."

"He knows," said Tip.

"Oh, Tip," groaned Sally. "Why did you have to fall in love with Terry? You've had so many chances to fall in love—why must you love the one person who belongs to me?"

"I couldn't help it," said Tip. She lifted her head. "I don't want to help it. Terry's the right person for me—and I am for him."

To Fight For Her Man

TIP'S speech was like a slap in the face to Sally—a stinging slap that made her angry and sober. This Tip was the one Sally knew best, the Tip who was spoiled and must have her own way, who was always so sure that she must have what she wanted no matter whose feelings she trampled. How could this spoiled child know that the loved Terry, when she had thought herself in love so many times? How could she dare to go further and say that she, not Sally, was the right woman for Terry?

"I don't believe that," said Sally. "You're only fooling yourself. You think you want Terry so you've convinced yourself you're in love with him. I don't believe it. I won't listen any longer."

"Wait! Tip ran after her. "What did Terry say to you tonight?"

"Why should I tell you?"

"You've got to—I've got to know."

"All right, I'll tell you," Sally knew that what she said would hurt Tip. But why shouldn't Tip be hurt? Nobody in the world could be spared from hurt for very long. "Terry asked me to marry him right away. He wants to go now. I've promised to give him my answer a week from tonight."

Tip's face went very white. Then she threw up her head defiantly. "That gives me a week to take him away from you."

"That's a shameful thing to say!" cried Sally. "As if I would fight for Terry. You make my love for him and his for me sound cheap. I won't discuss it any longer."

"All right—don't!" Tip flung herself on the bed again, but this time she did not cry.

At the door Sally turned once more. "Remember," she said, "you were out with Duke Adams only yesterday. That looks as if you love Terry, doesn't it?"

"I do—I do! Why do you think I went out with Duke? Because I was feeling desperate, I didn't care what happened to me."

"That's the way you are," said Sally cruelly. "When you're unhappy you try to make everybody else suffer more than you do. Well, I hope you're satisfied. You've done enough to everyone."

Sally went into her own room and shut the door. Was it only yesterday that Philip Page had scolded her for being one of the "comfortable" people who couldn't understand misery because they had never felt it?

The week before she should give Terry her answer seemed very short. How could so many complications be resolved within a single week?

Through the long night that Sally spent trying to find her way out, one thing stood out clearly in her mind: she was not as sure of Terry as she had led Tip to believe. Terry was waiting anxiously for her answer—but what was the answer he really wanted?

Mary Decides On Pursuit

SALLY was closing her desk to go out to lunch when Mary Morris wandered into the office.

"Hello, darling," said Mary. "I'm just in time. I came to carry you off for lunch."

Sally could not help wondering what Mary's real reason for coming was. Mary did not seek her out for the pleasure of her company, Sally knew well enough. Although she and Mary had always been friendly, the Warrens had never had money enough for Mary's country club set. Mary looked strangely out of place in the dingy little office of the Courier. She was wearing a startling shade of orange linen, and had painted her finger nails to match.

"I have less than an hour for lunch," said Sally, getting her hat. "You'll probably want to take longer."

"That's time enough to run out to the club," said Mary. "By the way, where has Philip Page been keeping himself lately? He absolutely refuses to set foot in the club."

"He's very busy, I think," said Sally.

"What a man!" sighed Mary. "Nothing tempts him—not even swimming on a hot day."

Sally gathered that Mary did not know of the Sunday picnic Philip had shared with them the day before. That was Philip's affair. She would not give him away, even though it would be fun to tease Mary.

Sally enjoyed the swift ride to the club in Mary's roadster. They had lunch on the terrace beneath two great beech trees that were the club's chief beauty. Mary chatted about clothes and the love affairs of the girls she and Sally knew. One of the girls they had gone to school with was being married in a month and Mary was to be bridesmaid.

"Honestly," said Mary, "if I'm a bridesmaid again this summer I'll feel like an ad for something—often a bridesmaid but never a bride."

"You're too hard to please," said Sally. "You've passed up most of the bridegrooms you've had to share the wedding procession with."

Mary protested but she was pleased nevertheless. Sally had not been flattered her and she knew it. Most of the presentable young men in Warrenton had proposed to Mary at some time during the past two years. Mary was handsome, good-natured, and had money to spare. It was a rare man who could resist the combination.

"What would you say, Sally, if I told you I'm really in love at last?" Mary played with a spoon, and did not look at Sally.

"I'd say that I've heard you say that before," teased Sally. She was wondering whether Terry Maynard had called to take her to lunch and found her gone.

"I mean it," persisted Mary. "I've fallen hard for Philip Page and he doesn't know I'm on earth. He thinks much more about my father."

"He's interested in his work. I don't think he's a marrying sort."

"Then he's going to change. Tell me, Sally, what he's really interested in. How does he like his women?"

"Serious," said Sally. "But he doesn't think much of them at that."

"Serious, eh?" Mary frowned. "I can be that, too. At least I could, for a man I cared for. Come on, Sally, help me out. You know you can give me a tip. You work in the same office with the man."

BRYANT TO GET FINANCE POST

No Opposition To Cherry Seen For Speakership

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—Representative Victor S. Bryant of Durham was named chairman of the house finance committee by Speaker of the House R. Gregg Cherry, since most observers now agree that Cherry will not have any opposition for the speakership and that he will undoubtedly name Bryant as chairman of the number one committee in the house, the finance committee.

It is also believed that Walter (Pete) Murphy of Salisbury, is more likely to be named chairman of the house appropriations committee than any one else, both because of past experience, ability as a "ram rod" and floor leader and geographical location. Murphy has been a member of 13 sessions of the general assembly and this 1937 session will be his fourteenth. He has served as speaker of the house twice, once as speaker of the regular session of 1937 and once as speaker of the special session of 1914. He is generally conceded to be the best parliamentarian in North Carolina and has always been an outstanding leader and vigorous fighter. For most of the 39 years he has been active in general assembly, he has won a reputation for putting through most of the things he has backed and for defeating most of the measures he has opposed. As a rough and tumble debater, Murphy is regarded as having few equals.

The chairman of the appropriations committee in the 1937 house will have to be hard boiled and be able to fight harder and faster than usual, most observers here believe, owing to the fact that the house especially is regarded as containing more "free spenders" than in years. In fact, this entire general assembly is regarded as looking decidedly more liberal than any in a long time, which means that it is likely to be willing to appropriate money very freely—and more money than it can find new revenue to provide. Thus it is believed that unless the speaker appoints a chairman of the appropriations committee who is hard boiled, who knows how to trim requests and to hold appropriations down, that the sky is likely to be the limit in the forthcoming general assembly, especially since it is generally agreed that the counties are going to renew their efforts again to either dump more county expenses on the state or else to get direct appropriations from the state treasury to the counties, especially from the highway fund. It is pointed out that the various departments and institutions have already asked the Advisory Budget Commission to recommend appropriations $9,000,000 in excess of their appropriations for this year, without taking into consideration the $5,000,000 or more regarded as needed to provide for old age pensions, free text books and other objects to which this administration is regarded as pledged.

Consequently the appointment of an inexperienced member of the house as chairman of the appropri-

Superintendent Erwin Addresses Open Letter to Teachers in Issue of Public School Bulletin

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—The teaching of the effects of alcohol and narcotic drugs on the human system is mandatory in all grades and the new text-book recently adopted and published must be used in the sixth grade as a part of the course in health. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin, points out to all superintendents, principals and teachers in an open letter in the November issue of the Public School Bulletin published by his department.

"The teachers have already been informed about this law, but in view of the very definite requirements of the law, I thought it best to point out to them again their definite and specific requirements of the law," Supt. Erwin said. "Accordingly, I pointed out four points, as the law is interpreted by us. These four points are:

1. The use of the adopted text-book on alcohol and drugs is mandatory.

COAN MAY GET HIGHWAY POST

State WPA Administrator Talked For Commission Head

Raleigh Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—The talk going the rounds here to the effect that George W. Coan, present State Administrator of the Works Progress Administration, may be appointed Chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission when Governor-elect Clyde R. Hoey takes office in January, is causing some elaborate speculation. It is also causing some rather deep digging into the political background of Coan and those who seem to be interested in his being named chairman of the highway commission—especially of the latter—in an effort to figure out what may be back of what many seem to think is a well defined "boom" for the former mayor of Winston-Salem.

There is nothing to indicate that Mr. Coan is doing anything whatever to encourage this movement or that he is more than superficially interested in the speculation that he may be appointed chairman of the highway commission, most observers here agree.

He now has his hands full as WPA Administrator in the state and does not seem to be interested in anything else. But there is no doubt that there are some who seem tremendously interested in seeing Coan named the head of the highway department.

The interest in Coan as a possible successor to Captus M. Waynick as chairman of the highway commission seems to be coming almost entirely from two sources, according to most observers. One source seems to be from within the WPA, where some of the employees of Mr. Coan's organization are reported to be actively boosting him for the highway commission post.

Another source is regarded as those who are bitterly opposed to Waynick and glad of an opportunity to back the candidacy of any one regarded as having a chance to unseat him. In this latter group is believed to be the highway contractors, road machinery and materials businessmen and disgruntled politicians who have been quietly but persistently carrying on a determined campaign for many months to get Waynick in the hope that some one else who would be more favorable to them would be named to the job.

The so-called "Bailey crowd" is regarded as showing much interest in the speculation about Coan as a possible head of the highway department, if not the actual instigators of the speculation, although it is regarded as doubtful if Senator Josiah W. Bailey knows anything about this speculation or has had any thing to do with it.

But Herbert Guiley, regarded as Sen. Bailey's "Good Man Friday" and chief political gum shoe artist here in Raleigh and Wake county, is regarded as one of the prime movers in the Coan-for-highway-Chairman boom, while Jack B. Roach, another Bailey man and formerly a District WPA official, is being linked with this movement as one of its chief boosters.

Assistant WPA Administrator E. S. Askew is also reported as giving encouragement to the boom for Coan. So the belief is prevalent in a good many circles here that almost the entire WPA organization in the state, regarded as being pro-Bailey lock, stock and barrel, is actively backing Coan for Chairman of the highway commission.

The reason for the activity of the Bailey faction in the state and of the WPA organization in behalf of Coan or highway chairman, according to a good many here, is that the appointment of Coan to this post would kill two sparrows with one rock.

In the first place, it would give the Guiley-Bailey forces control of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and the 8,000 jobs under its jurisdiction; thus providing it with a substitute pie counter to take the place of the WPA and other alphabetical pie counters in Washington which from now on are expected to be rapidly liquidated and stripped of the patronage pie with which they have been covered for so long, it is being pointed out.

In the second place, it is believed that the State Highway Commission could be made to provide comfortable berths for many of the present employees of the WPA who now face having to find employment some where else if the liquidation of the WPA proceeds as rapidly as it is expected to. In fact, the reason Guiley and his faction are reported to have supported Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in the second primary here and in this immediate section is credited to the belief that McDonald would have appointed I. T. Valentine chairman of the highway commission and that he was also acceptable to the Guiley-Bailey forces, according to the belief in many circles here. Accordingly, the expert political hand of Guiley, if not of Sen. Bailey, is now seen in the boom of Coan for the highway chairmanship.

How's Your Health—

THE ADVANCE OF SURGERY

Through surgery is an ancient branch of the healing art. It has come into full respectability only during the last 20 years, and most particularly since the time of Lister, whose antiseptics so extensively furthered its sphere of application.

The ancient nations whose perpetual wars and strifes consumed so much of their time and manpower, of necessity required the services of military surgeons. Among the Greeks and Romans, surgeons were honored, prized and rewarded.

But surgery in those days consisted mainly in undoing the hurts of war in extracting arrows and darts, in mending broken bones, and in setting back in place dislocated joints. Add to those the lancing of swellings or tumors, and the treating of superficial wounds and ulcers and the scope of ancient surgery is almost covered in its entirety.

During the middle ages, surgery fell into disrepute. Physicians trained in "physic", that is, in medicine, left the lancing of boils and the extraction of teeth to barber surgeons and mountebanks.

The Red and white barber pole in front of the "tonorial parlor" harks back to the days when barbers were surgeons. The pole is a symbol of the bandage.

Barbers did all sorts of minor surgery as well as bleeding, cupping viding it with a substitute pie counter to take the place of the WPA and other alphabetical pie counters in Washington which from now on are expected to be rapidly liquidated and stripped of the patronage pie with which they have been covered for so long, it is being pointed out.

Conviction Of Sweatshop Operator Hailed In State

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—The conviction of Max Greenstein, operator of the Kinston Shirt Company, Kinston, for violation of the state labor laws limiting the working hours for women to 55 hours a week and prohibiting the working of girls under 18 years old after 9 o'clock at night, was applauded here today by Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher.

Greenstein was convicted on charges brought by Forrest H. Shuford, chief inspector for the State Department of Labor. Testimony brought out at the trial showed that a 17-year-old employe had worked 69 hours in one week for wages of only eight cents an hour. It was also brought out that other girls employed had worked more than 55 hours a week for equally low pay and that some of the girls less than 18 years of age had been required to work after 9 o'clock at night, which is in violation of the state labor laws.

"Fortunately, we do not have many industries in North Carolina like this one, since most of the manufacturers in the state observe the labor laws," Commissioner A. L. Fletcher said. "Most of the manufacturers also pay their employes a living wage, although we have no state laws regulating wages. But in the past year or so we have been having more and more trouble as the result of the establishment of sweatshop industries. Like this shirt factory in Kinston. Most of these have been established by persons who have come from other states where state laws made it impossible for them to operate. But we are going to make it impossible to operate here unless they conform to the state labor laws."

Commissioner Fletcher is already warned cities and towns in the state to beware of these small sweatshop industries, many of which are seeking locations in North Carolina and other southern states, especially if the cities and towns will provide them with factory space, free lights, water and taxes. He maintains these industries are more a liability than an asset, and that cities and towns should investigate promoters of these industries carefully and thoroughly before inviting them to locate or providing them with any assistance.

bers and the surgeons formed one incorporated company in 1540, and the two remained united until 1745.

Subsequently, with the advance of anatomical knowledge, and the better definition of disease entities requiring surgical treatment, practitioners of surgery became better educated, better trained and more respected. However they long ranked below the medical men.

Until the discovery of anesthesia and of antiseptics, surgery was of necessity limited to the treatment of such ailments as affected the external body parts, or of such parts as could be reached without entering the abdominal cavity or the chest. Any feat outside this range was epoch-making.

WINTERVILLE IS VICTORIOUS

Basketball Season Is Opened With Double-Header Win

Winterville High School opened its basketball season with two hard earned victories in the new Winterville gymnasium before a record breaking crowd Tuesday night. The victims were the boys' and girls' teams of Walsenburg High school.

Coch Coach Mobley sent his second team into the battle first, but in a few minutes Walsenburg rolled up a 7 to 0 lead. Then the coach sent his regulars into the fray and they began a drive uphill which ended at the half with the Walsenburg lasses still holding the lead by a score of eight to nine. Finally the score was tied by a foul shot from the hands of a Winterville girl. From that point on Winterville was out in front and when the final whistle blew Winterville girls were a happy bunch, because they had had the honor of playing and winning the first official basketball game in the new gym.

The excellent guarding of Miss Cobb for Walsenburg and Miss Adelle Forrest for Winterville was the main feature of defensive play. At the forward positions, the Diddy sisters of Walsenburg were the main basket finders for their team. For the Winterville team, the pass work of the Leggett sisters was the chief feature of the Winterville team's offense. Christine Leggett found the basket with practically every type of shot. Late in the game she went out on fouls and Miss Ruelle Smith carried on the good work at forward. These two girls were the only scorers that Winterville had. The latter scored ten points and the former eleven. Miss Grace Diddy of Walsenburg led her team with ten points.

The boys game opened furiously. Both teams played hard and fast from the very first second of play. Three officials worked, they gave and had their hands full keeping up with the over-anxious play of both teams.

The second half was a different story. From the first at the end of which the visitors led by four points. Winterville came back with an improved passing attack which deadlocked the score at eight all while the crowd went wild. Walsenburg again pulled out in front with a field goal. At that time Winterville called for time out to plan a last minute rally. The Winterville boys came back with a field goal to again tie the score and again chaos reigned in the auditorium. Again having played uphill all night, a Winterville team came through with a field goal to drive out in front. The ball was being passed about in midcourt when the final whistle blew, the score being 12 to 10 in favor of Winterville.

The scoring of Walsenburg was divided among Smith Taylor, Matthews, and Jones, with Matthews at center leading. For Winterville Jas. Forrest and Hogwood found the basket. Hogwood led with seven points. For Winterville the defensive work of Forrest stood out.

New Amendments Go In Effect Today

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Five new provisions to the state constitution, which received approval of the voters in the November 3 election, became effective today at noon when Governor E. M. Bingham proclaimed them part of the state's basic law.

Leaders in the campaign for adoption of the amendments gathered for the ceremony.

Only one of the amendments had immediate effect, that placing a limitation of new debts for governmental divisions.

The legislature must pass statutes to carry the other four into effect.

Auto Owned By Bank Stolen From Employee

A 1936 model standard Chevrolet automobile was stolen from the yard of J. E. Joyner, employe of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company, who lives three miles from Greenville on the Farmville highway last night.

The automobile belonged to the bank and it was declared that the car was locked. It was also said to have been insured.

FEDERATION SLAMS THE DOOR ON LEWIS' REBELS

By a heavy majority vote, the American Federation of Labor in annual convention at Tampa, Fla., refused to reinstate rebel unions under the leadership of John L. Lewis and ordered that their suspension be continued indefinitely. Matthew Woll, chairman of the federation's resolutions committee, is shown (left) reading the resolution to bar the Lewis group. The suspension "was the greatest mistake in the history of the A. F. of L.," cried Max Zaritsky, an ally of Lewis who is seen (right) speaking in vain for re-instatement of the union. ## No Date Set For Payment Of Conservation Claims

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—There is no set schedule for soil conservation payments in North Carolina and counties in North Carolina and counties in North Carolina will have nothing to do with these payments. J. F. Criswell, chief of the field office of the soil conservation work in North Carolina, located here, said today.

A few trial applications have been put through from several counties and sent on to Washington to test out the procedure to be followed. The ones that have been filed have been sent on to Washington as soon as examined and approved, and payments have been made direct from Washington.

"Aside from the few trial applications which have been sent thru and which were selected at random over the state in order to test out the machinery which has been set up to handle these applications, we do not expect to start sending through any very large number of applications until late in December and in January," Criswell said.

"These will be sent on to Washington without any regard to what counties they may be from, just as rapidly as they are received here. They will then be checked again in Washington and as fast as they are examined and found to be correct, the checks will be made out and sent to the county agents in the various counties, who in turn will notify the farmers to come and get them."

Within the next few weeks, the various county agents will notify the farmers to come to their offices and prepare their soil conservation applications, Criswell said. These applications will then be sent to the county agents to the state office here, where each will be examined to see if it properly made out and if it conforms with the law. Those found to be correct will be approved and sent to Washington. There the applications will be checked again and if found correct, the checks will be made out and sent to the farmers through the county agents. Farmers who have their data ready may now go to their county agents and make out their soil conservation applications right away, Criswell said. A few farmers have already done this.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—European nervousness again tipped stocks off balance in today market while dividends tumbled over each other in their rush to shareholders' pockets. Fears of a flare-up abroad were sufficient to offset optimism over general domestic business progress.

Comforting to speculative forces, however, was the fact a number of shares were able to tilt against the trend. After an active opening, the pace slowed and the volume was
