WIDE PROGRAM BEING MAPPED FOR CONGRESS

Beginning of 75th Session Only Six Weeks Away

SIX PROPOSALS ARE ADVANCED

Measures Suggested for Enactment Involve Crop Insurance and Tenancy

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—With the opening of the 75th congress only six weeks away, a score of congressional leaders today were hammering together the framework of a heavy legislative program.

1. A farm tenancy bill providing federal aid to convert tenants into owners. Such legislation has been urged by the president and chairman Jones (D. Tex.) of the house agriculture committee, who said its passage was "assured."
2. Minor revisions of the tax on undistributed corporation earnings to relieve any "inequities revealed by the first collections."
3. A crop insurance plan.
4. A new neutrality act to replace the present one expiring May 1.
5. A relief bill which probably will be offered by the president late in the session.
6. Modifications of the Tennessee Valley act as suggested by Mr. Roosevelt to put some strong emphasis on land use in conservation activity.

Openly Says Germany Signed Secret Treaty

Moscow, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov tonight linked two serious far-Eastern border clashes with the German-Japanese pact and charged openly that Germany had signed a secret agreement so she might start war on two continents, which would spread to "all continents."

Youth Fatally Hurt In Tarboro Accident

Two British women workers are to attend summer school in the United States next year.

STATE GRANGE CALLS SESSION

Eighth Annual Convention Set for State Capital

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—The North Carolina State Grange will hold its 8th Annual Convention in Raleigh, December 9th, 10th and 11th. Official delegates from more than 250 Granges in North Carolina are expected to participate in the discussions.

Inasmuch as this session precedes by a few weeks the 1937 session of the General Assembly, it is expected that varied resolutions dealing with taxation, crop control, education, liquor control, rural electrification and kindred other matters will be presented. Grangers of Robeson county have already sent in a resolution dealing with tobacco contracts, which will be considered by the entire delegate body.

The North Carolina State Grange is a legislative body and is affiliated with the National Grange, America's oldest and largest farm organization, which recently celebrated its 70th birthday.

The highlights of the first day will be the annual address of the State Master, Ben F. Wilson of Mebane. This will be followed by the reports of State officers in order. The Boone Trail Juvenile Grange will put on a special program and the finals in the State Grange Debate will be held during the afternoon.

The committee chairman for this convention have been appointed as follows: Crops, A. M. Patterson, Rowan county; Livestock, H. D. Robertson, Forsyth county; Tobacco Problems, Roy L. Bowman, Guilford county; Cotton Problems, Fred P. Johnson, Hoke county; Insurance, D. D. Wilkerson, Scotland county; Conservation, Development, P. M. Hendricks, Davidson county; Cooperative Business, J. L. Leonard, Columbus county; Education, T. W. Allen, Granville county; Grange Programs and Publicity, H. G. Early, Davidson county; Women's Activities, Mrs. J. C. Barber, Rowan county; Law, Observation and Civic Problems, Jacob M. Pickler, Stanly county; Taxation and Legislation, W. W. White, Vance county; Rural Electrification, J. P. Lowder, Stanly county; Resolutions, W. R. Rowensend, Robeson county; Good of the Order, G. F. Loftin, Lenoir county; Juvenile Granges, Mrs. H. T. Chapin, Harnett county; Auditing, A. K. Medadams, Orange county; In Memoriam, Rev. N. N. Fleming, Alamance county.

Hoppers Held Menace to Poultry

Urbana, Ill., (AP)—A possible heavy influx of grasshoppers in 1937 holds a menace for poultry flocks as well as field crops, says J. D. Minnie, assistant parasitologist at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Minnie warns that chickens eating grasshoppers and certain other insects become infested with roundworm parasites and tapeworms.

Triplets Get Free Care Salt Lake City, (AP)—The Wagstaff triplets got an unusual gift on their fifth birthday. It was a membership in the Salt Lake Visiting Nurse association, entitling them to free nursing care throughout the year.

GALA WELCOME FOR PRESIDENT

Buenos Aires Displays Posters Greeting Roosevelt

Buenos Aires, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Welcome Roosevelt posters worded in typical Spanish were pasted over Buenos Aires today. At order of Mayor Mariani de Vedio.

Putting the finishing touches on plans for a tremendous reception for the United States president, municipal officials also asked every one of Buenos Aires 2,200,000 citizens to display Argentine flags from their homes Monday.

For the last several days the Roosevelt program has been undergoing simplification. As the program now stands, Mr. Roosevelt will arrive Monday afternoon aboard the cruiser Indianapolis escorted by the United States destroyer Phelps and seven Argentine warships.

FRENCH PREPARED TO DELIVER AT CONFERENCE

Abroad the U. S. S. Center at Rio de Janeiro, (AP)—President Roosevelt already at work on his second major speech in South America sailed southward today for Buenos Aires in the inter-American peace conference.

The cruiser Indianapolis pulled out of Rio de Janeiro's harbor last night after a visit in which hopes for friendly relations between Brazil and the United States were reaffirmed.

"I am leaving you tonight with great regret," the Chief Executive of the United States told President Getulio Vargas of Brazil shortly before his cruiser departed.

EVERLASTING FLOWERS GIVE FARMERS A LIFT

Montara, Calif. (AP)—Farmers of this little coastal area have found a unique answer to agricultural problems in the raising of "everlasting flowers."

Every night trucks lumber out of the peat lands here, once devoted almost exclusively to arichokes, bearing cargoes of a small chrysanthemum that never wilts.

There is only a brief three-month season in the fall but during that period about 20,000,000 flowers are exported. Most of the sales are in the east.

ATTACK FINAL OBSTACLES IN WAY OF PEACE

Maritime Strike Negotiators Continue Push Efforts

CENTER EFFORTS ON THREE UNIONS

Operators of Over Seventy Coastwise Freighters Called to Meet with Unions

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—(AP)—One of the last obstacles to partial settlement of the Pacific Coast maritime strike was attacked by peace negotiators today.

Operators of over 70 coastwise freighters called a meeting with master, mates and pilots, only union with which tentative agreements remained to be negotiated.

All unions but these three have signed contracts to operate government-chartered ships for carrying food supplies to Alaska, cut off from normal sources by the strike called at midnight October 29, and the officers' union was expected to sign a contract today.

In New York, striking seamen signed a working agreement last night with two affiliated steamship companies operating three freighters. Strike headquarters hailed it as the first break in walkouts along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts following the Pacific dispute involving 37,000 union workers.

West coastwise operators reached tentative accord last night with the marines, cooks and stewards. These employers had reached tentative agreement for new contracts with the other major marine unions just prior to the strike.

The session will be the sixth in a series to discuss a state-wide program. Sheppard Memorial will be represented.

An effort is being made to have other representatives from Greenville and Pitt counties attend the meeting. Miss Marjorie Beal, director of the North Carolina Library Commission will preside. Speakers will be Mrs. J. M. Hobgood of Farmville, a former president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. W. B. Murphy, Snow Hill, Mrs. J. S. Blair, of Wallace, head of the Southeastern District of the state Parent-Teachers organization; E. R. Sams, superintendent of the Lenoir county schools and others.

Miss Margaret Gilbert, field worker for the library commission, will lead a discussion of new books. All those interested in libraries are invited to attend.

Press For Special Term Consider Social Security

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 28.—Strong pressure is expected to be brought to bear upon Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus again to call a special session of the 1935 general assembly between now and December 31 to pass a state unemployment insurance law that will meet with the approval of the Social Security Board, as a result of the action of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania calling the Pennsylvania legislature into a special session December 1 for this purpose.

Governor Ehringhaus has no comment to make today on this latest development and it is known that he is strongly opposed to calling a special session with the meeting of the 1937 regular session now only a little more than 30 days off.

Until Governor Earle called the Pennsylvania legislature into special session and the announcement of this action yesterday, both Governor Ehringhaus and Senator Josiah W. Bailey were both confident that no special session was needed to save the $3,000,000 or so in payroll taxes which the Federal government will collect from North Carolina employers in January for unemployment insurance and which under

Insurgent Army Reported Routed By Defense Force

Column of Cadets Bolsters Lines of Loyalist Troops

Madrid, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Madrid's defense junta announced today its troops had "routed" an insurgent army which was attempting to cut the northwestern road to El Escorial.

It also asserted in international bulletins on the southern front lines had driven insurgents back several miles capturing two important posts.

Heavy rains and clouds put a stop to operations during the day after a devastating aerial bombardment of Madrid over night and a new attempt by fascists to break through government lines in the University City northwestern section.

A column of cadets arrived to bolster the city's defenses. Newspapers praised the heroism of a 17-year-old youth who was reported to have stopped an insurgent attack in University City single handed.

"The appalling catastrophe that faces the civilian population of Madrid" was emphasized in an appeal sent out by visiting members of the British parliament.

From Saint Jean de Luz, on the Franco-Spanish border, came reports of severe fighting by government armies, claiming success that endangered three insurgent strongholds on the Bay of Biscay sector.

The insurgent radio station at Seville broadcast a report that fascist planes dropped hundreds of bombs on the Biscayne, coastal strategic city of Santander, causing heavy damage.

Revival Services At Pentecostal Holiness

Thirteen persons were killed and 53 injured in 41 grade crossing accidents in Oklahoma in the first half of this year.

COURT SESSION OPENS MONDAY

Jail Overflowing with Defendants Awaiting Trial

With the county jail overflowing with prisoners, the term of Pitt County Superior court to try criminal cases here next week probably will be composed exclusively of defendants in jail.

The special term, asked by the county commissioners to help clear the crowded docket, will be presided over by Judge J. Paul Frizzell. With no especially important cases scheduled to be heard, a large number of minor charges are expected to be disposed of.

The docket became crowded in part because a term of court to try criminal cases in November was called off because of the illness of a daughter of Judge N. A. Sinclair, who was scheduled to have presided over the session. A term of civil court was called off at the same time. In addition, a term of civil court set for this week was called off.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst said that the jail was almost overflowing, saying that more than 60 defendants awaiting trial were being taken care of in the building with a capacity of some 40 prisoners.

Solicitor D. M. Clark announced some time ago that jail cases would be given preference at the term and with so many such cases awaiting trial, it is unlikely any bond cases will be reached.

Annual Red Cross Roll Call In City To Begin Monday

Chairman W. A. Ryan Issues Statement Calling on Greenville People to Support Campaign

With the annual Red Cross roll call set for Monday, Rev. W. A. Ryan, chairman, issued a statement today in which he urged citizens of Greenville to support the organization, which is always found at disaster scenes to help those who are unable to help themselves.

The statement follows: "On Monday morning, after a breakfast at 8 o'clock, the workers from the various organizations of Greenville will go out to make the annual Red Cross Roll Call. With the record of Greenville's generous sharing in the nation-wide work of mercy before us, there seems little need for an added word concerning the importance of this work. We know all of us, the untold suffering which would come to all sections of our country were the work of Red Cross to cease, or even to be curtailed. Forty-three out of forty-eight States called for help last year. We have no reason to suppose that the calls will be less numerous or less imperative during the coming year. Let us not lag in our support—give freely, give cheerfully, and—give promptly. Please remember that the canvassers are giving their time to this work. Don't compel them to make more than one call to obtain your support."

Tests by Kansas State college of fields showed wheat yields on Kansas bindweed-infested land averaged 13.8 bushels an acre. Fields free of bindweed averaged 18.2 bushels.

SEEK TO KEEP WAR PROBLEMS OUT OF LEAGUE

Attempts Take Shape in France and Britain

TO ASK DEFENSE WITHDRAWAL PLEA

Two Powers Said To Be Contemplating Asking Spain Not to Push Appeal

(By Associated Press) An attempt to keep the Spanish war and its grave international problems out of the league of nations—at least for now—look shape in the capitals of Great Britain and France today.

Informed sources said these powers may try to persuade the Spanish government to withdraw its appeal for council consideration of Italy-German recognition and alleged aid to the fascists insurgents.

Great Britain and France were represented as believing such league action would endanger international peace as well as being futile. They were said to be hoping to continue to deal with the international aspects of the war through the non-intervention organization.

From Rome came confirmation that Italy and Japan have agreed upon neutral recognition of the Ethiopian conquest of Il Duce and the Japanese sponsored state of Manchukuo. It was stated Italy would not join the new German-Japanese anti-Komintern pact.

In the other great camp Russia was told by the chief of her naval forces that the Soviet union had virtually doubled her submarine fleet in 1936.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — Somewhere off Cape Haiteras on a blustery afternoon a big air liner was winging towards New York. The sky was clear and the sea empty with the exception of a few smudges that marked a freighter or so far below. We were about 8,000 feet up.
"Well," said the trim little hostess, "how did you like it?"
"Great," I said. We weren't talking about the trip, or about the weather. We were talking about a motion picture, with sound, which had just been screened while we roared along a mile in the air.
The picture was "The Flying Hostess," a thrilling melodrama about the trials young girls have to go through before they are accepted as hostesses on the big transport planes. It was an excit-

PRIZE WINNING JUDGES

Trenton, Nov. 27.—The array of red and blue ribbons shown in the picture above attests the skill of these Jones County 4-H club boys in judging poultry and livestock.
Harris Gilbert, the black-haired boy standing directly behind the placard of ribbons, is considered one of the best, if not the best, 4-H poultry judge in the State.

ing occasion and I asked the hostess if the action of the picture could be duplicated in real life. I mean, in the film the star takes command of the plane after the pilots have been shot, and while an operator 500 miles away feeds her instructions via radio, she brings the ship safely to port.
I was surprised and gratified to learn that the feat was perfectly feasible. "After all, in an emergency like that, it's a chance one has to take. Then, too, everybody on the ship is familiar with the controls. This picture is technically 100 per cent correct."
This was the real hostess talking. When she went to talk with one of the motion picture operators, I glanced up at the make-believe hostess, who played the part in the picture. But there wasn't anything make-believe about Judith Barrett, of whom you'll know a lot later on.
She sat there, eyes flaming with excitement, heroine of the party, heroine of the picture, and hope, a heroine to herself. Judith Barrett is a Texas girl, very slim and dark and with a wonderful smile and a fine sense of humor.
She was on a whirlwind journey to New York for a fortnight of plays and campaigning. Then she departed for quick personal appearances, flying of course, in key cities between here and the coast.
She told me: "The only time I ever flew before I made this picture was something of a tragedy. I became air-ill. But that was a long time ago. You won't catch that happening to me again. I guess I'm N. 77 1-2 W. to a fine; G. M. Moor- other story with flying in it and I'd poles to the Chinquapin Island give anything to get the part. It's called "Wings Over Honolulu." It's about those big clipper ships. Oh, how I'd love to play it!"

Miss Barrett is about five feet two and just 22. She is, above all, one of those persons you tell good-bye and then say to yourself: "What a pretty girl; I'm sorry she isn't going to be here longer."

Russian Writer Here Wednesday At the outbreak of the World war, Irina Skariatina, who will speak in the Robert H. Wright auditorium at the college next Wednesday, exchanged the luxury of the court for the grime and blood of the battlefield.

She joined the Red Cross service as a nurse, and studied medicine in order to make herself more valuable to the allies. She did not hesitate to assume a position near the front lines where her attention was most needed.

After the war, her family fortune was exhausted and the family jewels were confiscated. The Empress, for whom she had been maid of honor, was driven from Russia, and Czar Alexander was beaten to death.

Her sympathies were always for the common people, whose ignorance and sorry plight she pitied; but noble blood ran through her veins; she was suspected, imprisoned, and finally driven from her country.

But, as she tells us in her book, "First to Go Back," she was the first Russian of noble blood permitted to re-enter Soviet Russia.

Today Irina Skariatina is an author of books that run into many editions and thrill thousands of readers all over the world. The stress and conflicts of her life are a part of the past. She is one who has overcome the most desperate hardships to win not only a place in the sun, but also a serene, a secure, a happy place in the world.

How's Your Health

The Strain of Modern Life It is universally agreed that the strain of modern life is greater than that of the past. But as to the cause or causes of the greater strain, there is much disagreement. Two points of view are presented. One maintains that the environment in which the modern man lives is more taxing. The other argues that his environment is not much more exacting than that prevailing in former times, but that mankind seemingly is more "on edge" and is less able to withstand the strain. Phrased in another way, one group places the fault outside the individual person, the other sets it within the person proper. The discussion is far from academic. Its practical implications are numerous. If we accept one viewpoint, then we must bend our efforts to ameliorating the environmental conditions. If we accept the other, better mental hygiene is called for. The environment of the modern man can hardly be contrasted with that of his forbears. A century ago, citymen complained that the noise of Sunday traffic prevented their voices from being heard during divine service. But this has little in common with the strain of the "automation performances" required of many workers. The irritation produced by the noise of wagons rattling on cobblestone streets is not to be compared with that produced by the shrill and alarming automobile horn. The complexities of modern economic and social life, with their hurries and uncertainties, are unique in history. Withal, the environmental factors do not entirely account for the strain of modern life. The individual's capacity to tolerate strain influences the ultimate issue. This was clearly shown in World War experiences. Most instances of nervous breakdown in soldiers were not due to shell shock and fatigue, but rather to the internal emotional contest between the instinct of self-preservation and the requirements of duty. Some could withstand the contest; others broke down. Since the war we have learned to recognize many cases of "shell shock" in civil life. Here again, inherent predisposition and the precipitating factors of environmental strain effect nervous breakdown. Not all cases of nervous breakdown, however, express themselves in the classical psychologic ways. Many of them appear behind a mask of functional difficulties, such as chronic headache, indigestion and heart irregularities. The problem is hard for patient and physician alike, but the answer lies in reducing the environmental strain and in emotional and intellectual readjustment.
