GOVERNOR CALLS SPECIAL LEGISLATIVE SESSION

British Opinion Behind King In Fight To Retain Throne And Wed American

EDWARD STILL IS DETERMINED

Officially Announced Ruler Has Canceled All Official Engagements, Presumably In Order to Have His Hands Free to Deal With Present Crisis

London, Dec. 5.—(AP)—King Edward of England told his private cabinet today he is determined to marry Wallis Simpson—and then formally canceled all his official engagements "for the present."

His supporters seized joyfully on those last three words, contained in a Buckingham palace announcement. They thought it meant he merely wanted to have his hands free to deal with the present constitutional crisis—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's ultimatum that he and Mrs. Simpson must not wed.

The king, it was learned from a high source, has not decided to abdicate—he has decided nothing except that he will marry his American friend.

But the card still was stacked high against him. (Continued on page three)

Letter Carriers Of Eastern N. C. To Meet In City

Officers to Be Elected and Committee Appointed to Draft Constitution and By-Laws For Body

City letter carriers from all post-offices east of Raleigh will assemble here in the Postoffice building tonight at 7 o'clock to organize a district meeting of the North Carolina Association of Letter Carriers.

Such a movement originated at the State Convention held in Greensboro last July 4th. On September 18th, W. F. Owens, president of local branch of city carriers, received notice of his appointment from the state president as temporary chairman, authorizing him to proceed with work of organizing this district.

Notices were mailed out to all city letter carriers in eastern North Carolina, requesting their attendance here tonight. Approximately one hundred carriers are expected to be here.

Among the principal speakers will be T. T. Hollingsworth, local postmaster, who will deliver the address of welcome. He will be followed by L. L. Edwards, state president, of Durham and P. E. Hauser, state secretary of Winston-Salem.

After election of officers, a committee will be appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws, to be presented for adoption at the next meeting, which time the organization will be perfected.

Unidentified Man Held On Charges Hit - Run Driving

Twelve-Year-Old Child Slain and Companion Injured in Rocky Mount Late Yesterday Afternoon

Rocky Mount, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Police today held a man they would not identify in connection with the hit and run death here late last evening of a 12-year-old child and the injuring of his 13-year-old companion while they walked along the side of a principal highway near here.

The victim, George Speight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seth E. Speight, of this city, died in a local hospital without regaining consciousness shortly after the accident. Raymond Drew, George's companion, was knocked down by a glancing blow, he said, but was not believed seriously injured.

Both boys and automobile were going south.

Sixteen Persons Killed In Division Last Month

Sixteen persons were killed in highway accidents in the Eastern division of the state during November compared with exactly half that number in the preceding month.

A total of 120 accidents were reported to the State Highway patrol during the period, in which 87 persons were injured. During the previous month 71 persons were injured in an even one hundred accidents.

The entire force in Troop "A" made 646 arrests, 108 of which were for driving drunk, during November, while in October 768 arrests were made, 123 being for driving while under the influence of whiskey.

Activities of the patrol resulted in 620 defendants being convicted, while only 25 were found not guilty. Sentences totaled eight years and nine months. Fines totaling $3,602.98 were meted out, court costs

OFFERS MEANS TO AVOID WAR

Secretary Hull Lays Down Plan to 21 Nations

Buenos Aires, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Secretary Hull summoned the 21-American nations today to cooperative efforts to help stave off war abroad as well as preserve peace at home.

Presenting to the inter-American peace conference an eight-point program for a comprehensive anti-war structure, the head of the United States delegation pleaded for the creation of an "army of teeth" in the interest of the whole world.

"I strongly entertain the hope," he said, "that a united group of American nations may take common action at this conference further to assure peace among themselves and define their attitude toward war; after that this action may not only demonstrate the happy position of the new world, but, though designed primarily for our own benefit, embody policies of world application and correspond to the views and interest of nations outside this hemisphere."

Hull stressed the necessity of joint action by the American governments to infuse the will to peace, not only in their own policies, but by example in the world at large.

Secretary Hull's eight-point program called for: (Continued on page four)

Educators Return After Attending Virginia Meeting

Several Local Men Present at Annual Session of Southern Association Educational Body

President L. R. Meadows, Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, and Dr. Carl I. Adams returned late yesterday from Richmond where they attended the forty-first annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Thursday and Friday.

Dr. McGinnis, who is a member of the Commission of Institution of Higher Education and the Committee on Standards went to Richmond Monday to attend committee meetings preliminary to the general sessions.

Dr. Meadows and Doctor Adams left Greenville Wednesday and attended the general sessions.

The general theme of the convention was "Education in a Dynamic Age." The high spot of the meeting was the lecture of Dr. Isaiah Bowman, President of Johns Hopkins University who spoke Thursday on "Trends in Modern Education."

The Committee on Standards, on which Doctor McGinnis served, decided to modify the qualifying requirements for Southern schools. Hereafter the standards will be more nearly qualitative than quantitative. The new standards will resemble those of the North-Central Association.

The next convention will be held in Dallas, Texas, March 1938.

Fascist Bombers Add at Least Score to List of Dead

Madrid, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fascist bombers attacked Madrid today, adding at least a score to the list of dead, continually mounting in the heaviest aerial attack of the civil war.

One bomb which fell during the morning in Glorieta de Quesada, not far from the American embassy, destroyed an entire house, burying many victims in the ruins which are still being searched for bodies.

Man Held On Charge Threatening Actress

Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said today his agents had arrested James F. Hall, 20-year-old sailor, at Long Beach, Calif., on charges of attempting to extort $5,000 from Ginger Rogers, the movie actress.

Hall was arrested late last night at a Long Beach cafe Hoover said. The agents, Hoover asserted, led Hall into a trap by carrying out instructions contained in a letter the film actress received on November 27. It demanded delivery of $5,000 at the cafe and threatened the lives of Miss Rogers and her mother if the demands were not met.

Hoover said Hall had signed a confession that he forwarded extortion letters to the actress. Six years after Koch had discovered that tuberculosis is caused by a germ, Georg Cornet contributed to our knowledge of the disease still further by showing that the germs are found in large numbers in the sputum of those who have tuberculosis. It promptly destroyed, best done by burning the sputum, the germs can do no harm. When scattered about through spitting, coughing, and sneezing, through using the same dishes or bedding, the careless consumptive is a constant menace.

POPE SUFFERS LIGHT STROKE OF PARALYSIS

Pontiff Declared Unable to Lift Either Of His Legs

A L L AUDIENCES ARE CANCELLED

Recalled That Holy Father's Mother and Brother Stricken in Same Manner

Vatican City, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Pope Pius was stricken with a light form of paralysis in both legs today, high Vatican officials reported.

Persons close to the holy father disclosed a paralytic condition first noticed in his left leg had spread to the right.

His prelates asserted the pontiff could move his limbs somewhat, but was unable to lift them.

Other parts of his body, they said, were weak. Nevertheless the holy father's spirit remained excellent and he was completely resigned to either getting better or worse, the officials told the Associated Press.

The morning strike was stated authoritatively to have been due to a combination of arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure.

Vatican officials said the Pope had cancelled all activities and audiences and spent his first day in bed since becoming head of the Catholic church.

Some recalled that both the pontiff's mother and elder brother, Fermo, were stricken in the same way.

Fermo spent the last year of his life in an arm chair which some believed may be the case with the pope.

To Cut On Lights In Shopping Area Of City Tonight

Christmas Decorations and Varicolored Lamps Officially Open Greenville's Holiday Season

The holiday shopping season gets in full swing next week and the city's streets and stores have been gaily decorated for the annual event with Christmas less than three weeks off.

The colored lights strung along the main streets will be turned on for the first time tonight. In addition to the lights, ropes of mountain laurel, pine and Spanish moss have been hung across the thoroughfares in the heart of the city.

The stores will begin their annual custom of remaining open at night on Saturday night, December 19, two weeks from tonight, in order to take care of late shoppers who do not find time to make their Christmas purchases during the day time.

Santa Claus will be on the streets beginning next Saturday to listen to the wishes of the children and remind that his annual visit is due within the fortnight.

On Monday night, December 21, Old Santa will pay his official visit to Greenville and will be accompanied by a parade. Toys and confectioneries will be distributed to the kiddies who are on hand to welcome him.

Grand Jury Recommends Increase In Jurors Pay

The Pitt county Grand Jury report submitted to Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, presiding over a special term of court here this week, recommends that all jurors be paid three dollars per diem instead of the present two dollars.

The report declares that it is the opinion of the jury that two dollars per day is not sufficient pay for services rendered. The body also recommended that the grand jury officer be paid the same per diem that the jurors receive.

The full report follows: We, the Grand Jury, have passed upon all bills presented to us, except one for which we could not obtain witnesses, and have rendered our decisions according to the evidence. We have visited the County of Deeds, Auditor, Treasurer,

CALL MEETING TO FIX HOLIDAY

Merchants of City to Decide on Closing Saturday, 26th

A general call to merchants in the city has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce to attend a meeting in the offices of that organization Tuesday morning, at which time some action will be taken on whether the stores will close on Saturday following Christmas, which comes on Friday.

Mrs. R. L. Powell, secretary, announced this morning that she has been contacting other towns in North Carolina to ascertain whether or not they would observe a holiday on Saturday.

Announcements already have been made that the city and county offices and the banks would be closed Saturday. A number of merchants have openly expressed the desire to close their businesses both Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Powell said that the Chamber of Commerce was getting a large number of calls in regard to the questions. She said some desired the extended holiday, while others opposed the proposal.

It is generally conceded that there will be but little business on the day following Christmas and the extended holiday would allow employees a chance to enjoy three days of vacation from their regular duties.

Another Special Session Of Court Set For Dec. 28th

Only About Half of Jail Cases Completed at Term Held Here This Week; Docket Still Crowded

In a hope of clearing the criminal docket in Pitt County, another special court term has been called for the week of December 28, with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, presiding.

The session here this week moved at a steady pace but several of the cases were hard-fought and took up a good deal of time with the result that only a small percent of the jail cases was reached.

The County Commissioners yesterday requested the governor's office to sanction another special term and the proper action was taken.

Defendants in jail will be given preference at the term to begin during the holidays, but a number of bond cases are expected to be reached during the week.

Some 60 defendants were in jail when this week's term of court started onday and only about half of this number went to trial during the session.

The session worked steady during the term but the nature of many of the cases necessitated long trials. A term to try criminal cases was scheduled for the first of last month, but was called off because of illness in the family of Judge N. A. Sinclair, who was to have presided.

Call Issued to New Members For December 10th

1935 CHERRY ACT NOT SUFFICIENT

Governor Makes It Clear That He is Still Of The Opinion Old Law Adequate

Raleigh, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus issued a call today for a special session of the North Carolina general assembly to meet December 10 at 11 a. m. to enact social security legislation.

The call, issued by the governor and the council of state, is for the new legislature elected last November. It said the solons would be asked to pass legislation "acceptable to the federal social security board."

The governor made it plain that he still considered the Cherry act of the 1935 legislature ample to qualify the state for participation in federal social security funds despite a ruling of counsel of the security board, but said he did not wish to place any additional burden on the senate or congress. Applications For Federal Payments At Agent's Office

Pitt Farmers Advised to Go to Office and Sign Application for Soil Conserving Benefits

R. R. Bennett, county farm agent, today sent out letters to a number of Pitt farmers advising them that their application for payments under the 1936 Soil Conservation program had been prepared and are now ready for signature.

The farmers were advised to go to the agent's office on Tuesday of next week for the necessary signature. One day each is devoted to farmers in the various townships and Mr. Bennett explained that it was necessary that the farmers come on the day designated.

The landlord and each tenant and each share cropper who has an interest in the cotton, peanuts and tobacco must sign the application. Landlords and tenants are advised to go to the agent's office together.

These are the first applications received here for payments under the federal crop program. The applications are for payments for diverting land to soil conserving crops from soil depleting crops and otherwise participating in the new program.

The suggestion for an extra day holiday at Christmas for this city seems to be meeting with a lot of favorable comment and on next Tuesday morning the merchants of the city will meet to decide definitely on the plan. Personally, we believe that the plan is a good one for with Christmas Day coming on Friday, we believe all the business houses could remain closed over the week-end without inconvenience to the buying public and without loss to themselves.

The call for the special session of the legislature to enact state social security legislation to enable this state to come under the federal act leaves no doubt now as to North Carolina's participation in the federal fund. For some time Governor Ehringhaus has expressed the belief that the present state law on the subject was sufficient but in view of recently expressed doubt, the special session was the only alternative to make sure.

Wings For Sally by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Returning to his boyhood home, Philip Page buys the Warren Court and backs the workmen of the Morris mill in their fight for better homes. He admires Sally Warren, the attractive society editor, who has been in love with Terry Maynard, boyish blond aviator. Sally breaks her engagement with Terry when she finds that he and her wilful younger sister are in love.

Chapter 24. A Dynamite Threat. SALLY took off her wrap and laid it carefully on the rose colored taffeta spread that covered Mary Morris' bed. The ivory and rose perfection of Mary's room always dazzled her.

The soft rose rug made her footsteps noiseless as she went over to the dressing table to powder her nose. The triple mirror caught three pictures of her. Sally could not help seeing that she looked her best. She was glad she had yielded to the temptation to get herself two new dresses, one for the party and one for the wedding.

The dance was an elaborate affair. Mary had secured one of the best orchestras. Against the masses of summer flowers that decorated the rooms, the dancers moved, making gay, fantastic pictures.

Sally loved to dance, and never lacked partners. Tonight she tried not to see Terry and Tip, always dancing together. She danced often with Philip Page, and when he was not with her he was usually with Mary Morris.

Joe Morris, Jr., was drinking too many cocktails—consolation he called it. He insisted on dancing often with Sally, and to her dismay he treated her like the partner of his sorrow.

"You've been thrown over, Joe," Sally, he said, as they danced. "Now don't deny that you expected to marry Terry Maynard, just as I hoped for Tip."

"You're wrong, Joe," said Sally. "I'm not in love and I haven't been. I'm much too sensible. I know I have my own living to make. I have to keep my mind on that."

"Go on," said Joe thickly. "You want Terry, I want Tip. Everybody knows it." Bob Winkler, a boy Sally had known for years, cut in on them to Sally's relief.

"It's a long way—South America," said Sally. Would he, Sally wondered, always have this power to make her heart beat faster? He did not dance so well as Philip, or even Bob, but dancing with him was a keen delight.

"We'll stop in Rio a week," said Terry. "It'll be the longest flight tip's ever made." "She'll love it," Sally said faintly. "You bet. She's got a nerve, that kid. She'll go anywhere I go, try anything I'll let her. But you don't need to be worried about her. I'll take care of her."

Sally suddenly caught a glimpse of herself as Terry saw her—a sort of nursemaid for Tip. The idea was more than she could bear. When the music stopped, she left Terry hurriedly, making an excuse.

She fairly ran. In the hallway she hesitated, longing to get out in the cool darkness. Joe hailed her from the supper room, but she hurried past. Outside, the long porch which she found two-thirds of the house seemed deserted. The right wing of the big house was in partial darkness with a single light burning in the library.

Sally made her way toward the light. She would find a place to sit in the darkness near the library. Perhaps Philip Page would come out by and by and she could ask him to take her home.

In the darkness, Sally ran against a girl who was standing against the wall of the house, in the shadow of tall shrubbery. "Sh-h! It's me," said Mary Morris, drawing Sally into the shadow with her. "I'm listening in on Dad and Philip Page. They're having a terrible row."

Sally could hear the voices upraised in the library, angry, loud voices, both of them. "Can we get closer and hear what they say?" she whispered. Mary answered by sliding along the wall until they were beside the lighted window and could see the two men inside.

GRAND JURY RECOMMENDS INCREASE IN JURORS PAY (Continued from Page One) and appear to be in first class condition. The inmates are well cared for, both as to food and treatment. We wish to commend those in charge of the Home for the very efficient and business-like manner in which the County Home and farm is managed. We found the Prison Camp in excellent condition and ably managed. The prisoners well fed and cared for.

We have visited all the white schools of the County, outside Greenville. These visits were made without any advance notice being given the principals of the various schools, so we had an opportunity to observe the general average conditions. We found the school grounds well cared for, and sanitary conditions in general very good. The Principals reported buses in fair condition. All class rooms visited were neat and attractive, and the teachers had their classes and work well organized. The Principals and teachers were very courteous and readily gave any information desired. Our impression is that the County Schools are ably and efficiently managed. We recommend the Pitt County Board of Education, Superintendent County Schools, Principals and teachers for the excellent work that is being done in the schools, and for the educational progress being made in the County.

We wish to endorse the action taken by the County Commissioners and the Alcoholic Control Board in the employment of two enforcement officers for the purpose of curbing the illicit whiskey traffic in Pitt County, and we recommend that if at the end of the Sixty days the results have been proven satisfactory that the appointment of two regular officers be made permanent.

We have noticed some defects in floor of the Court room which we think needs attention, and recommend that this matter be attended to as early as possible.

It is the opinion of the Grand Jury that $2.00 per diem is not sufficient pay for services rendered, therefore, we recommend that all jurors be paid $3.00 per diem. We recommend that the Grand Jury officer be paid the same per diem that the jurors receive. In submitting this report we wish to express our appreciation to His Honor Judge J. Paul Fritzel, Hon. D. M. Clark, Solicitor, and all Court officers for the courtesies extended to us and for the assistance given us during this term of court.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine. By Dr. Iago Galdston.

Psychic Depression. Certain individuals, when confronted by life situations which are offensive to their ego, react by going into a state of what is known as psychoneurotic depression. They become unresponsive, indifferent, non-communicative; they brood ceaselessly—in a word, they lose their grip on life and themselves.

Frequently, when the given case is studied and the precipitating offending situation is reviewed, no warrant is found in it for the depressed state of the individual. Evidently, then, the given unpleasant and unwelcome situation could only serve as a precipitating factor, and not as a specific or principal cause of the breakdown.

The cure depends chiefly on the re-education of the patient, on his development of a different and better life viewpoint. In tracing the past history of such patients, it is frequently found that their childhood experiences contributed to their maladaptation to life. Exaggerated expressions of love and attention by their parents developed in them an erroneous idea of their relationship to the rest of the world, so that even when they grew to adulthood, they still expected from those about them the same type of behavior and relationship as was afforded them by their parents. They expected to be babied throughout their lives.

Again, over-ambitious and over-idealistic parents, eager to have their children attain greater heights frequently endow them with distorted standards of behavior, and with ambitions beyond their capacity. Such children acquire what might be called over-reaching personalities. They drive themselves and over-manage themselves beyond reason.

Laboring under a sense of inadequacy, they become extremely dependent upon the approbation of others. When approbation is not forthcoming, they are either resentful or else re-double their efforts. Their thinking and their judgment contain too great an element of emotion. They are subjective where they should be objective. Unless experience teaches such individuals the error of their viewpoint and practice, they are bound sooner or later to run headlong into such difficulties as precipitate their depression.

At times their maladaptation to life assumes the form of organic and functional difficulties. Such are the persons who always have something wrong with them, and who make the rounds of the doctors, complaining of one illness or another. Few of them are willing, until compelled, to recognize that their body symptoms are really a mask for their underlying psychic difficulty.

Miss Grogan on College Staff Miss Stella Grogan came to East Carolina Teachers College this week to take her place as the new director of the Infirmary. For the past 14 years, Miss Grogan has been supervisor of nursing service of the Calloway Mills, LaGrange, Ga., where she was in charge of the industrial, community and school services. Miss Grogan is a native of Georgia and was reared at Stone Mountain. She was trained in nursing from Grady hospital, Atlanta, in 1915. Loughinghouse, who was college physician for many years, and left Greenville to become secretary of the State Board of Health. Miss Grogan returned to France in 1921 to work with the Red Cross as a reconstruction nurse in Paris. In 1922 she was transferred to Prague, Czechoslovakia, where she did child welfare work during the "terrible aftermath" of the war. At Reichsburg she was head worker for the American Red Cross and directed 22 baby health stations. She was closely associated with Dr. Van Perquet, who devised the Perquet test for tuberculosis. Most appropriately, the women of the Christian church have invited as their guest, Junichi Nakamaru, who is a student in the English department of Duke Graduate School, who will deliver the message for this special occasion. Mr. Nakamaru comes from an old and cultured family of Japan and is representative of the first generation of Christians in that family. The members of the Christian church extend a cordial invitation to all interested persons to attend this service and share in the pleasure of hearing a Christian message from a Japanese Christian.

"Smilin' Through" The senior class play, which will be presented in Austin auditorium Friday night, December 11, is now concluding its second week of rehearsals. This sensational comedy-drama which brought Jane Cowd into world prominence, is based on a love tragedy occurring fifty years back. On the night of her wedding a beautiful young bride-to-be is shot and killed by a rejected suitor who intends to kill the man she is to marry. She vows that she will come back in spirit to undo the wrong. And when, as time passes, a boy and girl of the families, out of the present generation, fall in love and are separated by their elders, her spirit returns to aid them in their romance. Between laughs and tears this beautiful fantastic tale of a great romance winds its way upward and upward to a gripping climax. There is all the elements combined to make the perfect stage production woven and twisted into a play such as the theatre has never before known.

People who undertake the difficult are doomed to fail. She cited Colonel Lindbergh who crossed the Atlantic alone and won fame.

London, Dec. 5.—(AP)—It was officially announced from Buckingham palace today "all of the King's official engagements have been cancelled for the present." The formal announcement was taken in informed circles to mean only that King Edward wishes to have his hands free to deal with present constitutional crisis. King Edward, continuing his stubborn defiance to the British cabinet, is determined to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the highest sources asserted. The ruler has not yielded to the government's ultimatum he renounces—formally and unconditionally—the American woman who is the choice of his heart. The most authoritative sources declared this information was given in the cabinet today during a gloomy 40-minute session at Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's home. The ministers will convene to discuss the tense situation again at 10:30 a. m. Monday (5:30 est.). The government has been promised the king's final word within 48 hours, it was understood. Twenty ministers attended the session of the cabinet. As some were leaving the Baldwin residence automobiles bearing banners urging the king not to surrender appeared in nearby streets. At noon the situation shaped up like this: First, official opposition to the king is of the most formidable character. Second, British opinion as reflected by the press and on the streets supports and sympathizes with the king. Third, parliament undoubtedly lined up strongly behind Baldwin on the constitutional aspect of the fight. Fourth, Mrs. Simpson is in France seeking a place of seclusion. One thing was plain today—the king still intends to marry her.

cent to the National Tuberculosis Association. The local funds are used in various ways in the control of tuberculosis, for example: in furnishing milk to children in poor families where there is tuberculosis, in having X-rays made of both children and adults who are suspected of having tuberculosis, in furnishing sputum cups, in furnishing transportation for patients to and from the State Sanatorium, in buying warm clothing for children with tuberculosis and in furnishing scales to the public schools, in an effort to overcome malnutrition in school children and in this way help to prevent tuberculosis in the school child.
