HOUSE TO END WORK ON BILL LATE TONIGHT

Unemployment Compensation Program Being Speeded

EXPECT ADJOURN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Lower Division Meets at 11:55 O'Clock Tonight to Pass Bill on Third Reading

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The lower division of the general assembly unanimously passed the administration bill for an unemployment compensation program in North Carolina on second reading today and recessed to meet at midnight to complete work on the measure and send it to the senate.

Legislative leaders quickly predicted the bill would become law late next Wednesday, and the special session convene yesterday to act on the measure would adjourn then.

The house set 11:55 tonight for its final vote and then adjourned today's session. A few minutes after midnight it will pass the bill on third reading and adjourn until Monday.

Senate members heard Attorney-General A. F. Seawell explain the measure and then adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow and at 2:30 Monday afternoon, when it is planned to pass the bill on first reading there by receiving it from the house.

Rep. Lumpkin of Franklin told the house he was voting "aye" on the bill he thought it should provide compensation for workers in firms employing less than eight workers. In explaining the bill to the senate the attorney-general pointed out the word "insurance" should be employed in connection with the measure as it set up an "unemployment compensation" program without insurance features.

Gangling Negro Pays Penalty for Slaying N. Y. Co-Ed

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Martin Moore, gangling, big, stoop-shouldered, 22-year-old negro, was put to death with lethal gas at state's prison today for the hotel room murder in Asheville last summer of Helen Clevenger, pretty and petite blond New York university student.

The negro, former ball boy at the Battery park hotel in Asheville, was pronounced dead by Dr. George S. Coleman, prison physician, at 10:46 after he had breathed the gas fumes 12 and one-half minutes.

By official time at the prison the negro entered the white gas chamber at 10:31 and the gas machinery was turned on at 10:33 one-half.

It usually takes between 10 and 15 minutes for the prison physician to pronounce a man dead after the gas is administered.

Warden H. H. Honeycutt and two negro ministers, Reverends J. V. Williams and W. J. Jones, both Raleigh Baptists, said Moore denied his guilt this morning. He had previously been quoted as confessing the crime.

"No Sir," Moore replied to the warden when asked if he had anything further to say while he was seated in the gas chamber.

Earlier the ministers had sung "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Savior" with Moore as rain leaked through the roof of the old "death row" where Moore had been moved early this morning so he would be near the death chamber. "Savior o Savior" Moore chanted.

"I'm going to live for God," Moore said before he went to the chamber.

Farmers Signing Applications For Benefit Payments

Ayden Township Planters and Tenants Advised to Go to County Agent's Office On Monday

Farmers in Ayden township who signed the Soil Conservation work sheets and also their tenants have been advised by R. R. Bennett, farm agent, to go to the department's office here Monday and sign their application for payments under the 1936 program.

Farmers and their tenants from Chilled flooded the offices today, it being estimated that 800 persons visited the office and signed the applications.

Mr. Bennett advised Ayden farmers that to go to his office on Monday as farmers from other townships would be coming on other days.

The landlord and each tenant and each cropper who has an interest in the cotton, peanuts and tobacco in 1936 must sign the applications. The county agent urged farmers and tenants to go to his office at the same time so the application could be completed at one time.

Farmers crowded into the offices this morning to place their signatures on the forms to apply for benefits under the federal program.

ONE MAN DEAD, MANY INJURED IN STRIKE RIOT

Disturbance Outside Chester, Pa., Shipbuilding Co.

MANY EMPLOYEES BRAVE PICKETS

Police Express Opinion Slain Man Victim of Fire Engines Answering Alarm

Chester, Pa., Dec. 11.—(AP)—One man was killed and about 36 persons were injured during rioting today outside the Sun shipbuilding and drydock company where a strike has been in progress since last Monday.

Police said they believed the man was killed when fire engines, responding to a false alarm at the Sun plant, ran through a crowd of several thousand pickets and sympathizers outside the gate of the main entrance. Many of the injured asserted they had been run down by fire engines.

Rioting broke out after non-strikers attempted to get through picket lines surrounding the plant.

All members of the Chester police force, numbering more than a score, were on duty as about 100 persons made their way through a milling crowd surrounding the company property.

As a second contingent of workers arrived blows were exchanged.

Royal Assent Given To Act Proclaiming Duke Of York As King Of British Empire

BOTH FACTIONS VIOLATE PACT

Madrid Government and Fascist Accused by Briton

Geneva, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Viscount Cranborne, British parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs, told the League of Nations council today the international agreements for non intervention in Spain had been violated for the benefit of both sides in the civil war.

His declaration came after Julio del Vayo, Madrid's foreign minister, declared an international war was being fought on Spain's soil and that "an international conflagration daily becomes more of a menace."

Viscount Cranborne, representing Great Britain at the council because of the absence of foreign secretary Anthony Eden asserted the forces of both the Spanish government and the fascist insurgents have been increased "to an alarming proportion."

France and Great Britain, he declared, will try to arrange an armistice.

Julio del Vayo charged European fascist powers hope to "put Spain, with all that it represents in resources and geographical positions, at the service of their national policy."

Socialist government war casualties, he said, were "victims of fascist airplanes and foreign war material delivered despite the non intervention agreement," while "women and children in this capital (Madrid) are butchered in the hundreds by bombing planes under the orders of rebel generals supplied by states which had in fact begun war whilst their statesmen talked of preserving peace."

DELAY CLOSING LOCAL MARKET

Auction of Tobacco To Continue Here Through 16th

The Sales committee of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, in a special meeting today decided to keep the market open through Wednesday, December 16, to afford farmers who have not sold all of their tobacco an opportunity to dispose of it.

The market had been scheduled to close with the end of sales today.

A spokesman for the committee said this action was taken in the interest of the farmers of this section of the state.

It was pointed out that bad weather recently has kept many farmers at home who otherwise would have brought their leaf here to be auctioned.

During the present week tobacco, and especially that of the better grades, sold higher than it did last week.

So far this season 46,908,526 pounds have been sold for a total of $11,149,848.50, an official average of $23.77.

The Massachusetts State Sanatorium at Rutland was in turn the spur to other states so that today there are 65 such sanatoria operated by states, in addition to the hundreds of city and county sanatoria, and suffered fatal burns. She had private sanatoria, and tuberculosis been a smoked since her childhood divisions in general hospitals.

EDWARD PLANS GO TO FRANCE

Former Ruler Expected to Leave Tonight to Be Near Mrs. Wallis Simpson, For Love Of Whom He Renounced His Throne After Ruling 327 Days

London, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The greatest empire on the earth gave up Edward, VIII, as king today and placed his older brother, Albert Frederick Arthur George, on its throne.

In three hours the House of Commons and Lords approved the abdication of the 327 day sovereign who chose marriage to a twice-divorced American instead of his ancient crown.

Then with quick precision a royal commission gave royal assent to the act. At 1:52 p. m. (8:52 a. m. eastern standard time) Edward, VIII, ceased to reign.

At that very moment the quiet Duke of York became king of England and the dominions beyond the seas, emperor of India and defender of the faith.

The new king chose officially the name of George VI.

Tonight plain Edward Windsor is expected to cross the channel to France to be near Wallis Warfield Simpson, the woman he loves. Reportedly he would sail at midnight from Dover to an undisclosed destination.

First at 10 o'clock (5:00 a. m. est) he will talk by radio to his people. Tomorrow heralds will proclaim his brother king — with medieval robes. Actually Albert Frederick Arthur George became king with the giving of the royal assent by a commission — just as Edward took the reign when his father, George V, breathed his dying breath at Sandringham last January 30.

Commons will meet tomorrow to take the oath of allegiance to the new king. Monday the sovereign's 41st birthday. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin will present a message from him.

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Irish Free State will act independently through their parliaments on the abdication as autonomous units of empire.

MRS. SIMPSON DECLARES SHE HAS NO PLANS MEET EDWARD

Cannes, France, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson, for love of whom King Edward renounced his throne, said through a spokesman today she expected to obtain her final divorce decree without any complications.

The American-born fiancée of the former ruler said she was not aware of any move in England to invalidate her temporary divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson, the intermediary assessor.

Mrs. Simpson has "no arrangements to meet Edwards," the spokesman declared, reiterating the former Baltimore belle expected to remain in southern France for several weeks at least.

Bailey Man Faces Charges of Slaying His Aged Mother

Jesse Bissette, 45, Held in Nashville Jail Following Coroner's Inquest This Morning

Nashville, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Jesse Bissette, 45, was left alone in his jail cell here today to ponder a coroner's jury charge he killed his 60-year-old mother with an axe at their home in Bailey.

Mrs. Maria Bissette, Jesse's widowed mother, was found dying beside a chair by neighbors called by the son, who was her only child. She died before a doctor could arrive.

Her head had been crushed by blows with an axe found nearby. Sheriff C. V. Paulkizer said Bissette claimed he left the house for about 10 minutes yesterday morning, returning to find his mother wounded.

Bissette was convicted recently of the theft of a small amount of liquor from an ABC store and was given a two year suspended sentence.

JACK MORPHEW GETS POSITION

Named Chief Enrolling Clerk for General Assembly

Reflector Bureau.
 Sir Walter Hotel.
 Raleigh, Dec. 10.—Jack Morphey of Graham county, has been named by Secretary of State Charles G. Powell as chief enrolling clerk, to be in charge of the enrolling office for this present special session of the general assembly.

Morphey was a member of the house in the 1933 and 1935 sessions of the general assembly and had intended being a candidate for speaker in this session, but for the fact that he was defeated in the election. As a result of his experience in two sessions of the general assembly, he is regarded as entirely competent to hold this important post.

Although the appointment of Morphey was announced by Secretary of State Powell, it is generally agreed that his appointment was approved by Tomad Eare, who will become Secretary of State in January, having been elected in November. It is known that Powell conferred with Eare as soon as the special session was announced and indicated he would make no appointments for this special session without consulting Eare and obtaining his approval.

Accordingly, it is believed that most, if not all of those appointed to jobs in the enrolling office will be retained by Mr. Eare in the regular session, after he becomes Secretary of State.

It is also believed that the four or five clerks who will assist Mr. Eare as principal clerk in the house for this special session have been appointed with the approval of Bill Baker, assistant principal clerk, who is expected to be elected principal clerk when the regular session convenes. In this event, these clerks will be retained by Mr. Baker when the regular session meets in January.

Since there will be a contest for the post of principal clerk in the senate for the regular session between Laurie McEachern of Raeford and Ray Byerly of Sanford, the belief is that the present staff in the clerk's office in the Senate, who will serve under Principal Clerk LeRoy Martin during this special session, has no assurance of being retained for the regular session.

Turkey Surplus Goes to Needy
 Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—Canned turkey is on the menu for many El Paso county farm families this winter.

There was such a big turkey crop the farmers were unable to obtain a normal price for their birds so J. Ralph Young, Colorado Springs WPA director, suggested they be canned at the WPA kitchen.

Seventy-five per cent of the canned product was returned to the turkey grower offering his birds, and 25 per cent was retained for distribution to needy families.

Santa and the Viking

—BY SIGRID ARNE—

Coming over a hill suddenly they saw the Ice Queen's home

THE STORY SO FAR: Nils, a visitor at Toyland, is searching for his lost daughter with the aid of Santa, but the Ice Queen who has the child imprisoned is warned of Nils' approach.

CHAPTER V

The Sun and Moon Meet.
 The Ice Queen smiled coldly around her shining throne room as she thought of Nils, the Viking, trying to find his daughter. "Ridiculous," she thought. "Nils and all toyland can't invade my castle." She walked over to the west wall of the room, turned a key, and a huge block of ice swung open like a gate. Out rushed a dozen, thin gray winds that whizzed up and around the room, pushing over furniture.

Nils came closer and closer. "Slowly, slowly, my winds," smiled the Queen. "I just want you out in case we have visitors." Then she pulled up a huge chair and sat down to gaze at the sleeping Gudrun, Nils' daughter.

Nils all this time was coming closer and closer to her palace. Captain Buttons, the tin soldier, and Mister, the woolly pup, trotted at his heels as he trudged through the snow drifts. Coming over a hill suddenly, they saw the Ice Queen's home.

"This could be the place where Gudrun is imprisoned," said Captain Buttons, pulling out his tin sword. "It looks dangerous."

"Woo-off!" said Mister. The hair on his back stood straight up. "Something quee-ee-rrr!"

The Whistle Gives Advice.
 "See what the whistle says," advised Captain Buttons. "It told us to find a place where the sun and moon are one." So Nils blew the whistle Santa had carved, and it sang this tune:

Wait for the night,
 When the time is right,
 If they cross, the moon and sun,
 Then your search is almost done.

Nils and the toys took the whistle's advice, and hid behind a snow-covered hill to wait for midnight. As the time approached, the sky grew brighter and brighter. It was gold and silver. Slowly over the horizon rose the moon on one side, and the sun on the other. They slid across the sky and hung for a moment together over the Ice Queen's palace. Then they separated and continued their trip across the sky. As they slid over the horizon again, Nils and the toys hopped to their feet.

"That settles it," said Nils. "The sun and moon joined hands over that palace. We must enter it, no matter how dangerous."
 "Woo-off!" said Mister, and without another word his fat little legs were carrying him over the snow, pell-mell to the palace.

Tomorrow—Mister in Danger

Christmas Service.
Sunday night at 7:30 the annual Christmas Service will be held in the Presbyterian church. Not a pageant but a service of praise in Scripture and Song is the 1936 Christmas program given in the interest of Ministerial Relief of the Southern Presbyterian church. Hays as its subject and theme, "Glory to God", the service was written by Katharine A. See.

A novel feature of the service is the use of the Reading Chorus of young people, with the adult choir rendering appropriate Christmas music intermittently as the theme progresses.

Part I represents God being praised by the works of His hands—trees, beasts, mountains, stars—coming to a climax in the Star of Bethlehem. Part II brings before the worshippers the worship of God by His angels, the Vision of Isaiah being introduced at the close of this part. Part III represents the worship of God by His people, concluding with a Candle-Lighting Service. Their annual "Toy Gift" offering to be received at the close of the service goes to the aid of disabled and retired ministers of the Southern Presbyterian church, their widows and orphans.

The part of the First Reader is taken by Frank W. Brown while Mrs. Arthur B. Corey, who is directing the service, acts as the Second Reader. The Reading Chorus of young people are composed of the following: Louise Corbin, Edith Forrest, Ethel Gaston, Gladys Gaston, Phoebe Nisbet, Virginia Pierce, Maude West, Harvey Deal, Joe Gaston, Withers Harvey, Billy Nisbet, Carl Pierce, and R. C. Grady. Forrest and Ray Minges, assisted by the ushers, act as candle-bearers at the close of the service. Mrs. Elna Savage, Robert Earle Clarke, J. H. James and J. A. Radcliff assist the adult choir with the music. A. E. Mulberger is organist and choir director.

Mrs. Harvey Clayton and Miss Edna McKee constitute the committee on decorations and arrangements.

The Greenville public is invited to share in this Christmas service of praise.

"Smilin' Through"
"Smilin' Through" by Allan Langdon Martin will be presented in the Austin auditorium at the College this afternoon at 3:00 and tonight at 8:30. Clifton Britton, who has had wide experience in amateur dramatics, is the director of this play, which is being given as the annual production of the senior class.

This comedy, which in its screen version starred Leslie Howard, Frederick March, and Norma Shearer, brought fame to Jane Cowell as an actress and has had long runs in all of the more important cities of the world.

The story is of the spirit of a woman who returns to help a pair of young lovers achieve the happiness she has, fifty years ago, been thwarted of.

On the eve of her wedding night she fell victim to a bullet meant for the man she was to marry. The shot was fired by a rejected suitor, and over the years a great hate has existed between the families of the rejected suitor and the bereaved fiancée.

The spectacular manner in which the boy and girl of the present generation are united and find their happiness is a thrilling and gripping climax to the series of incidents which precede.

The present production costumed by a leading Philadelphia firm, set by Roy Barrow and James Johnson, and lighted by John Crew, formerly of State College, stars Bonnie Mae Hall, Effie Lee Watson, Alvah Page, and Bill Pratt in the leading roles. The acting of Gilbert Britt, Frances Barnes, Marian Wood, and Allan Payne is notable in the smaller parts.

Says King's Love of Common People Motivated Action

Dr. M. J. Edwards Expresses Opinion That Edward's Feeling For Commoner: Factor in Abdication

Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, expressed the opinion last night that King Edward's love for the common people of England was more responsible for his abdication than his love for Mrs. Simpson. Doctor Meadows was speaking at a dinner meeting of the Nash and Edgecombe county chapters of the Teachers College Alumnae Association.

After explaining that the King, by his friendship for the commoners, had inspired the wrath of the conservatives, Doctor Meadows said that the common people of this country are also faced with the opposition of the more conservative element, who even go so far as to oppress the education of the masses.

"Pertinent Educational Problems of the Day" was Doctor Meadows' subject. After his exposition of the forces which oppose mass education, he next considered the problems of teacher preparation, teacher tenure of office, and teacher salaries.

Of teacher preparation, he said that colleges must have more time to prepare teachers. He cited East Carolina Teachers College, where the two-year course has already been discontinued, and expressed the belief that a minimum requirement of five-years' training for all teachers is immediately ahead.

Of teacher tenure of office, he remarked that security is an aim of today, and that the next legislature should protect all teachers who have demonstrated their ability over a given number of years.

Without better salaries, Doctor Meadows said, many good teachers will leave the profession and, still worse, the profession will not attract the better minds.

Forty Teachers College alumnae from Nash and Edgecombe counties attended the banquet, which was served in the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. F. L. Greathouse, of Rocky Mount, presided at the meeting and delivered the address of welcome. Joe Dunn, who was graduated from Teachers College in 1935 and is now principal of the school at Speed, made the response.

The alumnae introduced themselves and recalled incidents from their experiences at the College. They were given Santa Claus bags of candy which they are to empty of candy and to fill with coins. The full bags will be returned to the Alumnae Association to pay for dues and the subscription to Tecu Echo, the College newspaper.

Liquor Issue Out At Extra Session Due To Gag Rule

Tom Cooper of New Hanover to Fight at Regular Term, However, to Retain County Boards

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Dec. 11.—Although the liquor issue is not going to come up in this extra session of the general assembly, as a result of the "gag" rule adopted to consider nothing but unemployment insurance, several members are very frank in expressing their opinions.

One of the more plain spoken men in the entire assembly is Tom E. Cooper of Wilmington, who with J. C. Hobbs, also of Wilmington, are the representatives of New Hanover county in the house. Cooper, of course, is in favor of retaining the present county control system, both because he was one of the originators of the county control system and was largely responsible for ram-rodging the New Hanover county liquor control bill through the house during the closing days of the 1935 session and because he is a firm believer that county control is better than state control.

"I am going to fight to retain the county control system whenever the liquor control questions comes up in the regular session," Cooper said today. "The county control plan has worked out splendidly in New Hanover county and I think it should be continued."

"I think, however, that the members of the county ABC boards should be appointed for terms of one year only and that these boards should be appointed each year by the county commissioners. Under our present law in New Hanover county one member of the board is appointed for two years, one for four years and the other for six years. And while the board has done a good job, I believe that it would be wise to have shorter tenures for the members."

Cooper expressed the belief that the special session is going to get down to business on the unemployment insurance bill, pass it as quickly as possible and thus end this end the special session as soon as possible.

HOEY PLEASED WITH MEETING

Conference with Merchants Considered Satisfactory

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Dec. 11.—Governor Hoy is much pleased at the attitude shown by the committee of merchants from the North Carolina Merchants Association, which conferred with him here Tuesday with regard to the sales tax and believed that the conference has already brought about much better understanding, he indicated following the conference.

For while the members of this committee indicated that they and most of the other merchants are still opposed to the sales tax and will continue to work for its complete repeal, the members of the committee were most cordial and cooperative in their attitude, Mr. Hoy said. As a result, Mr. Hoy believes the merchants of the state will not fight the sales tax as bitterly as they have in the past, especially if certain changes are made in it which will make it less burdensome and bothersome to them.

Members of the committee, of course, made it clear that they and the Merchants Association are still opposed to the sales tax and intend to continue their opposition to it," Mr. Hoy said.

However, they showed a very fine spirit and indicated that if they are not successful in defeating the sales tax they would like to see certain changes made in it. I also pointed out that the Democratic platform pledges the party to the retention of the sales tax with the exemption restored, and that I am bound by that platform, with the result that both I and the Democratic members of the general assembly can go no farther than seek to restore the exemptions."

There was some informal discussion in the meeting of a sales tax with a lower rate, say 2 per cent, with no exemptions, instead of a 3 per cent sales tax with exemptions. Mr. Hoy said, since some of the merchants felt such a tax plan would be less troublesome and much easier to collect than a 3 per cent sales tax with exemptions, but Mr. Hoy pointed out to the committee again that since both as and the Democratic platform were pledged to a restoration of the exemptions instead of a reduction in the rate of the tax, that he could not agree to favor any other plan.

The report has been current here for some weeks, however, that the merchants would rather see a sales tax with a lower rate with no exemptions than have the present 3 per cent sales tax retained and the exemptions of basic foods restored. The reason for this is believed to be the fact that the exemptions afford a loophole for evading the sales tax, especially by the larger merchants, thus making enforcement more difficult.

In case the sales tax is retained—and most of the merchants privately agreed that there is not a chance in a thousand to defeat it in this session of the general assembly—the merchants told Mr. Hoy they would like to see better enforcement of it, so that every merchant, large and small would have to pay it. They also recommended that some provision be made to relieve them of the expense and trouble of acting as tax collectors for the state.

While you are getting for your own Christmas be sure that you include in your plans some help for one or more needy families of this community who will have no Christmas unless they receive outside aid. At the last Christmas season we published lists of around 50 needy cases in this community and the response of the public in the way of giving aid was most liberal. Beginning early next week we will publish our list of "Christmas Opportunities" for this season. Watch for these lists and be sure that you pick out one or more of the needy cases to aid. Helping the unfortunate at Christmas will make your own Christmas more enjoyable and will be carrying out the true spirit of the Yuletide season.

The cops who chase automobile hunters away from important first nights. Advertising executives, sartorially perfect, dining in Madison Avenue restaurants. Wings For Sally SYNOPSIS: When Philip Page returns to his boyhood home, he buys the Warrenton Courier and backs the workmen of the Morris mill in their fight for better homes. He admires Sally Warren, the attractive society editor, who has "loved and lost." Wealthy Mary Morris is pursuing Philip despite his newspaper battle with her property-owning father. Sally goes to spend a month at the Morris home as Mary's guest and meets smooth Giles Benton, another house guest who is in Mr. Morris' employ. On Philip's behalf, Sally visits the home of McDonald, a mill worker.

Chapter 29 Sally 'Shows The Town'

SALLY did not complain of the long walk from Milltown to the Morris house. Nothing she had to bear seemed very important beside the bitter lot of the McDonalds. Mary Morris was on a side veranda of the big house, when Sally came in. She called to Sally to join her. "Darling! You're a wreck!" she cried, as Sally sank down exhausted in a big wicker chair. "I sent the car for you out there said you were gone and no one seemed to know where. You mustn't walk in this weather—you'll have a sunstroke." "This is what we used to call good tennis weather," said Sally, fanning herself with the big hat. "Tennis, yes," said Mary. "But dragging along the hot streets is another matter. When your mother sees you, she'll ask me to send you home quick to be looked after. She ordered a drink for Sally. "Now, see what you think of my plans for the evening: I'm going out with Bob Dawes, and you're going to show Mr. Giles Benton the town. We'll meet at the Barn and come home together."

"Why don't you show Mr. Giles Benton the town yourself?" said Sally, with some spirit. "He's your guest, not mine." "He's father's," corrected Mary. "But I've had this engagement for a week and can't break it. Reason number two, Giles has taken a fancy to you. Reason number three, Giles has money and is a good catch, and you're the one to catch him." "Against so many reasons, argument is hopeless," laughed Sally. "Only—I'm not in the market for a rich husband, and I don't think Mr. Giles Benton likes me or that I like him."

A Man Lurks At The Gate

SALLY was glad Giles Benton finally drove to the Barn and they joined Mary and Bob Dawes. Bob was a handsome boy whose father had made money in the furniture business. He lived some 60 miles away, but he often came over to spend an evening with Mary. Mary had gone to many house parties at the Dawes home, and Sally knew that Mrs. Morris hoped that Mary would one day marry Bob. Mary, however, used Bob when she chose to make some other suitor jealous, but Sally knew she never considered marrying him. "Let's dance," Mary hailed them. "Unless you want something to drink first, I bid for Giles. I'm tired of Bob."

Sally Senses Danger

WHEN Mary's escort had come for her, and Sally was left alone on the terrace with Giles Benton, she felt a curious sense of danger, as if she were embarking on a perilous if exciting adventure. Yet there was no reason for the feeling—Benton was scrupulously polite and the conversation had been impersonal. "I find this little town very charming," he said to her. "I have seen little of the south, but I have heard much about the pleasant, leisurely life the southerners lead." "That depends on which sort of southerner you happen to be," laughed Sally. "The leisurely life, I mean. I work for my living." "But you have not always done so. I understand you are of the old, aristocratic family of the Warrens." "Mary has been filling your head with notions," said Sally. "I'm afraid I can't play the lady-of-the-monor for you."

STATE PATROL KEEPING BUSY

2,918 Arrests in November, 321 For Driving Drunk

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—The State Highway Patrol made 2,918 arrests in November, of which 321 were for driving while drunk, the regular monthly report issued today by Captain Charles D. Farmer, shows. In addition to the actual arrests made, highway patrolmen issued citations to 2,729 additional drivers and required 11,521 drivers to correct faulty lights. Patrolmen also issued "equipment tickets" to 2,441 drivers instructing them to have their faulty equipment corrected with a certain number of days or else come into court.

The school funds in the various counties were enriched to the extent of $30,337 in November as a result of the fines imposed on those arrested by highway patrolmen, while the cities and towns profited to the extent of $17,374 from the cases imposed and collected in these same cases. Out of 2,418 drivers cited during November, 2,338 were convicted and only 80 acquitted, the report shows.

The value of the highway patrol to the state in dollars and cents in November amounted to $76,305 in addition to its work in patrolling the roads and in preventing accidents. Captain Farmer pointed out. Patrolmen recovered $15,990 worth of stolen cars, required motorists with no license plates or with improper plates to purchase $12,603 worth of licenses, while the fines and costs assessed on those convicted of violating traffic laws by highway patrolmen amounted to more than $47,000.

"Since the patrol has consistently brought in an average of about $76,000 a month to the people of the state either in stolen property recovered, fines, costs and highway revenue from licenses, the total yearly income from these sources is over $900,000 a year or more than the cost of maintaining the highway patrol," Captain Farmer pointed out. "Nor does this take into consideration the value of the accident prevention and safety work done by the patrol, which runs into millions of dollars annually."

Legislators Irked By Boost In Rate At Raleigh Hotels

Solon Announces Intention to Introduce Bill Authorizing State to Erect Own Hotel

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—Members of the general assembly are frankly provoked at the high hotel rates being charged there by almost all of the hotels here, most of which have greatly increased their rates over what they were two years ago, and at their inability to rent rooms in boarding houses or private homes.

Several members have already been heard to remark that the $8 a day they will get during this special session will not pay for their rooms, much less provide them with anything to eat.

One member of the house, who found that he would have to pay $120 a month for the same hotel room he paid $70 a month for two years ago, has announced he is going to introduce a bill to authorize the state to issue bonds and build a hotel where both members of the general assembly and the public may rent rooms at a reasonable rental.

Another member has suggested that if this same condition exists in January, when the regular session convenes, the general assembly should enact a law authorizing the state agency to rent one or two floors in an office building here and turn the offices into rooms for members of the general assembly. It is understood that some of the

NEW LICENSES TO GO ON SALE

Bureau Ready For Rush Beginning on December 15th

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—The Automobile License Bureau has already mailed out the more than 600,000 application cards to automobile owners in the state and is ready to start its annual sale of licenses both from the central offices here in the Department of Revenue, as well as from 45 branch offices over the state, Director R. R. McLoughlin of the Bureau said today.

He also urged automobile owners to purchase their licenses as soon as possible after December 15, when the new tags go on sale.

"Two things should be kept in mind by car owners," McLoughlin said. "One is that there are more than 500,000 registered automobiles in the state for which new licenses must be obtained between December 15 and December 30. The second is that the law requires any car operated in North Carolina after December 30 to be equipped with the new 1937 license plates, which means that any person attempting to drive a car with 1936 license plates on or after January 1 will be subject to arrest and fine."

"After thinking about these two things, each car owner should ask himself how much chance he will have of getting his new license by January 1, if he waits until the last two or three days to make application for them, especially if most of the other 500,000 automobile owners also wait until the last few days. For those who wait until the last minute to get their new licenses must be prepared for considerable inconvenience and delay, since it will be impossible to issue 200,000 to 300,000 sets of licenses in the last two or three days, when we are prepared to issue only about 35,000 sets or licenses a day."

lobbyists, in spite of their large drawing and expense accounts, are objecting to the rates being charged by some of the hotels, although for the most part the sky is the limit as far as the lobbyists are concerned. One hotel here is understood to have indicated that it prefers lobbyists to legislators and is not anxious to have more than ten or twelve members of the legislature stay in it this session.

Members of the general assembly are also impressed with the lack of rooms outside of the hotels, also with the lack of office space in the state departmental buildings. The belief is that this assembly will authorize the construction of another state office building at least when it meets here in its regular session.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — Mary Maguire says she has stopped putting. She admits to no particular reason for putting in the first place, but she has a good one for stopping.

Mary Maguire, 17, with a pout looked too much like Simone Simon. They might have called her Mary Mary, and put her in school-girl roles and kept here there. When she reminds you a little of Peggy Conklin, and comes here as "the Mary Pickford of Australia," it would be too complicated to drag in a Simonish resemblance.

Mary hails from Queensland, and had been making pictures "down under" for five years before she stopped here presumably en route to the British studios. Her trip snagged on a Hollywood contract, with these results among others:

- 1—She has become addicted to gum-chewing.
- 2—She has taken up American slang.
- 3—She has stumped the wardrobe department with her requirement of Size 1 shoes which they didn't have, and
- 4—She has exposed Comedian Hugh Herbert to the afternoon tea habit, he being with her in her first film, "Love Begins."

C. Henry Gordon, the old meanie, gets most of his sizeable fan mail from boys and girls and from middle-aged people. Gordon, with rare exceptions, has had his screen roles confined to villains.

All persons indebted to the estate will please make immediate settlement. This Nov. 10, 1936.

J. C. ROUSE and H. R. KIRK.

"You'd be surprised," he says, "how many kids write and suggest that I give the leading man a kick where it will do the most good. The youngsters seem to hate leading men, probably because at their age romance bores them."

The advice is Al Siegal's. Siegal is vice coach at Paramount, and he is teaching Carole Lombard to sing for "Swing High, Swing Low." Siegal wants his pupils to shout until they're hoarse. The hoarseness passes, he says, and the vocal cords are thoroughly limbered.

Intelligence is the only requirement for a singer, he insists, and anybody—with intelligence—can be taught. The hardest battle is to find a song that fits the singer's personality. Carole's two numbers were tailor-made for her.

"The first thing in teaching singing is to make the student understand through what the story of the song is," he says. "The music is secondary. Once the student has the story, he or she can deliver it in the proper mood. And anyone who is intelligent can do this."

SEVERAL JOBS TO BE FILLED

Positions to Be Provided by Social Security

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—At least two new commissions will have to be created by the general assembly in order to carry out two phases of the Social Security Act in North Carolina, which in turn will make it necessary for the new Governor to appoint the members of these commissions.

These commissions will also need a fresh supply of clerks, stenographers, statisticians and so forth, thus affording the new Governor with two new sources of jobs for the hundreds if not thousands of people who always want political jobs.

The two new commissions are the North Carolina Unemployment Insurance Commission, which the special session meeting here tomorrow is expected to create in connection with the enactment of the unemployment insurance law, and the Old Age Assistance Commission, which the regular session which meets in January is expected to create to administer the old age assistance law it is expected to enact to make it possible for this state to share in the federal old age assistance law and program.

It is expected that each of these commissions will be composed of not less than three and not more than five members. It is agreed that some of the members of these commissions may be present state officials who would thus be ex-officio members of the new commissions and serve without pay. But it is considered possible, if not probable, that the general assembly may decide to make the jobs on these salaries for political job hunters.

The salaries of the chairman, board members and employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission will all be paid from Federal funds by the Social Security Board, since one-tenth of the tax levied on employers will be set aside for this purpose. It is not known yet whether the administrative expense of the old age assistance program is expected to require more employees at first than the unemployment insurance commission.

TO EMPHASIZE SOIL BUILDING

Promises Stricter Enforcement of Requirements

Raleigh, Dec. 11.—More emphasis will be given soil-building practices in the 1937 soil-conservation program, it was announced today by Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College.

There will be stricter enforcement of requirements regarding the minimum acreage of soil-conserving crops farmers must plant to comply with the program, he said, and more consideration will be given dairy farmers, truck growers, and orchardists.

However, in this State the major payments will be made for substituting increased acreages of soil-conserving crops for part of the acreage normally devoted to cotton, tobacco and peanuts.

Whether a grower will be paid for reducing his base acreage of other soil-depleting crops, especially food and feed crops grown mainly for home consumption, will depend upon his county committee.

If the county committee considers it a good farming policy for certain growers to reduce some of their other soil-depleting crops, it may give him permission to do so and receive payment.

The dean also pointed out that whereas the minimum payment any farm was eligible to earn this year was $10, the minimum in 1937 will be $20.

The cotton diversion payment will remain the same, five cents a pound on the average production of the land taken out of cotton, up to 35 per cent of the base.

The flue-cured and burley tobacco diversion payments will continue at five cents a pound, but the maximum acreage that can be diverted will be 25 per cent of the base instead of 30 per cent as in 1936.

The rate of peanut diversion payment will also remain the same, 1-4 cents a pound, but the maximum acreage that can be diverted will be 15 per cent instead of 20 per cent as in 1936.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, then higher to four lower with recovery up on trade covering and later months down owing to realists and hedge selling.

At 12:23 for May the selling became more active and shortly after the first half hour of trading some deliveries were off two or three points from the highs.

March advanced and then reacted with price generally two to four points lower.

Offerings tapered off by midday, March which had eased from 12.38 to 12.27 closed at 12.30. The market was quite at net losses of four to eight points.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Specialties notably those in the low price brackets stormed the stock market rampart today for gains of fractions to two or more points while recent leaders either stood still or fell back.

In the first hour or so large blocks of revived favorites changed hands and the ticker tape was frequently passed to keep pace with the shifting of British kings attracted much interest in the board rooms, but brokers thought the transfer had little influence marketwise.

PROVIDE TOYS FOR UNFORTUNATE KIDDIES

Shown above is part of the crowd of youngsters who attended the special matinee last Saturday morning at the Pitt theatre, each bringing a toy for admittance. The Boy Scouts had charge of the program, acting as ushers and attending to other duties. A truck load of toys was repaired and put in first-class condition by the city firemen, and turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution to the unfortunate children of the city, who otherwise probably would not be visited by Santa Claus this year. The theatre and show was provided by the management of the city's popular show house.
