OFFICERS GET ADMISION TO BRUTAL CRIME

Aspinwall and Moore Face Each Other in Wilson Jail

EACH ONE DENIES SHOOTING VICTIM

Police Chief and Pitt Sheriff Pay High Tribute to Georgia Officers

Bernice Aspinwall and Bernard Moore facing each other for the first time since they separated in Dunn the night of December 28 only a few hours after they brutally attacked and shot G. Lem Pleasant, admitted their guilt in Wilson county jail today before Chief of Police George Clark and Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst.

Aspinwall was taken in custody Tuesday night by Wayne county, Georgia, officers at his home after he had spent several days living in barns and other pack houses. Moore was arrested last Friday night as he came home, admitted for more clothes and some money with which to leave this part of the country.

Aspinwall was returned last night by Chief Clark and Sheriff Whitehurst, who left Tuesday before learning that he had been captured. He was left in Wilson, where

Chief of Police George Clark and Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst today paid high tribute to Sheriff R. E. Warren and Deputy Sheriff L. T. Dent of Wayne county, Georgia, and Sheriff Carter of Pierce county, Georgia, for their work in apprehending Bernice Aspinwall, one of two men charged with the brutal attack on G. Lem Pleasant.

The officers said without the wholehearted support of the Georgia officers the task of apprehending the 23-year-old man would have been a difficult one. "My respect for Georgia officers has been greatly enhanced," declared Chief Clark. Sheriff Whitehurst was just emphatic in his commendation of the cooperation of the officers.

Moore has been kept since he was arrested. The two officers went to Wilson this morning and led Moore to Aspinwall.

"Moore came out, looked at his partner, smiled, and told his partner in crime there is no need for us to tell a lie about it, both of us are guilty," Chief Clark said.

The officer said Moore then proceeded to tell of events before and after the attack took place on the old Stokes road about 8:45 o'clock Monday after Christmas.

He said, however, that both boys (Continued on page six)

Pitt Young Folks Plan Attend Ball Here January 29

Announcement Made That Towne Club Has Purchased 90 Tickets For Distribution to Members

W. W. Lee, general chairman of the Roosevelt Birthday ball to be held here the night of January 29, declared today he was pleased at the interest the young people of the county were taking in the annual event. The ball will be held in the Campus building at the college.

He said evidence of the fact that the younger set is planning to attend the ball in full force was the announcement that the Towne club had purchased 90 tickets for its members. Frank Patrick is president of the club and Jimmie Wilson is secretary-treasurer.

Stress is being placed on the fact that the ball will start promptly at 9 o'clock. The first on the program is a floor show of 40 minutes, with Miss Ramona Staples and Miss Carolyn Hamrick putting on shows of 20 minutes each.

Immediately after the floor show, the grand march is scheduled, with Chairman Lee leading. All dancers and spectators will be expected, to join in the march. After the march the entire evening will be devoted to dancing, with Joe Burke's Duke Ambassadors providing the music.

J. G. Clark is head of the ticket sale committee and is offering a number of honor, or sponsor, tickets for sale as well as the regular admissions—$1.50 per couple for dancing and 50 cents each for spectators. An intensive drive will be put on for the sale of the tickets and they also will be placed at a number of places in the city for the convenience of the public.

FASCISTS TAKE SPANISH PORT

Britain Urged to Enter Anti-Bolshevist Alliance

(By Associated Press) Herd-fought war fired Spain's South coast today. On the international scene Italy and Germany made British entrance into an anti-communist bloc the price tag for a strict "hands-off Spain" pledge.

Twenty thousand Fascist fighters, paced by a cavalry charge, advanced Eastward from Estepona toward Malaga, the Spanish government's lone important seaport on the southwestern Mediterranean shore. They took Estepona in a furious 48-hour battle, prolonged by government air attacks on Fascist warships, but today, driving toward the edge of Marbella, they faced a stout defense and a socialist counter attack.

In Rome qualified persons said Italy and Germany would be sorely tempted to help the Spanish fascist openly if Britain failed to enter an anti-bolshevist alliance. France also would be so approached, it was stated, but the fascist powers felt it was most important to get Britain's adherence first.

Commissioners Seek Prohibit Exemptions

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The state association of county commissioners adopted a resolution today asking the legislature not to consider any homestead exemptions and property classifications acts this year.

Governor Hoyer in a brief talk to the commissioner said "more progress had been made in administration of county affairs in North Carolina than in any other state," and said he wished "us to go forward as one big unit, rather than a 100 small units."

Liquor legislation was not discussed. The age range of University of Florida students is 15 to 56.

Strong Methods Provided For Collecting New Taxes

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—There have been sounds, even louder than murmurs, of opposition to some of the proposed new taxes on intangibles, but none of the complaints has been that the levies would be uncollectible. It is generally agreed that A. J. Maxwell, Commissioner of revenue, has effectively seen to that. In fact, Mr. Maxwell, already regarded as one of the champion loophole pluggers of the tax world, has even enhanced his already high reputation in this respect.

Taking the bank deposit tax as an example—and this is a tax which has been previously avoided by the simple expedient of withdrawing deposits just before the time—how are would be tax dodgers going to get around it now?

The proposed new plan calls for payment of the tax by bank officers the levy to be based on the sum on deposit January 1st of each. At first tax "experts" just smiled at this one, feeling they could get around it simply by having only a

Move Comes As First Break in General Motors Strike

STRIKERS LEAVE COMPANY PLANTS

Corporation Agrees Not to Try to Resume Operations Pending Parleys

(By Associated Press)

The first break in the giant General Motors strike came today in the shape of a management and union agreement to start negotiations in Detroit Monday, with the down strikers in the meanwhile leaving the factories they have occupied and the corporation agreeing not to try to resume operations.

Both sides advised Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan of their concurrence in the truce which provided settlement efforts would go on for a minimum of 15 days unless consummated sooner.

General Motors promised there would be no discrimination against union workers.

An Associated Press survey indicated the strike, involving the job of more than 114,000 persons, already had cost corporations and employees about $10,000,000 in wages and profits. Uncomputed was the loss of trade by merchants in 18 Michigan, Ohio, Georgia, Missouri, Tennessee, Indiana, New Jersey and Wisconsin cities where workers were made idle.

The Pacific coast maritime strike, 78 days old and involving 40,000 workers, became a matter of international diplomatic consent when the Merchants exchange of Vancouver, B. C. asserted the Canadian flag Prospective had been stopped in American waters by men from Everett, Wash.

School Busses In County Declared Be In Good Shape

Condition Here Said to Be in Direct Contrast to Situation Declared in Forsyth

In direct contrast to the school bus situation in Forsyth county, the system in Pitt county was declared to be operating efficiently with the trucks in good condition. It was announced at the offices of the Pitt County Board of Education today.

All schools in Forsyth county were ordered closed Wednesday because of the condition of the busses, reported by the grand jury to be "beyond comprehension."

The system in this county has been commended on various occasions by local grand juries and the trucks have continued to operate with little or no interruption.

A survey of the bus routes in Pitt county was made recently looking toward the possibility of establishing a central gas station to supply the trucks.

The Pitt trucks are serviced at the county garage in Winterville. It was stated that by servicing the trucks, mechanics would keep a better check on the condition of them.

No serious accident has ever occurred in Pitt county which anyone was critically or fatally injured while being transported to or from school.

Additional Clues In Mattson Case Are Investigated

Two Men Interrogated and Rural Cottage Examined

Gives Self Up

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Federal officers questioned Fred Haynes, former convict and Lee Fowler under long sentences for robbery, today in their attempt to find the kidnaper who slew 10-year-old Charles Mattson.

Haynes walked into the Seattle police station this morning. "They've got me all wrapped around this kidnaping," he told detectives, "and I didn't have anything to do with it."

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 15.—(AP)—A closely guarded robber and a cottage with a blue clay barbecue pit were swept into the swiftly moving Charles Mattson kidnap murder investigation today. Blue clay was found under the slain boy's fingernails.

In a solitary confinement cell at Bellingham, Wash., Lee Fowler, 36, was fired questions by suspicious federal bureau of investigation agents. The jail was blockaded in an unusual precautionary move.

Five miles north of Seattle, Chief William Cole of the state police investigated the four-room cottage, "spotlessly clean," and said neighbors reported a man resembling convict Fred Haynes of California occupied it until Wednesday.

The blue clay pit is along a creek nearby, but Cole said the "whole country there is of blue clay formation."

An official source asserted the Bellingham prisoner, Fowler, declined to account during several hours of questioning for his whereabouts. (Continued on page six)

VINSON SEEKS REDUCTION IN TOBACCO LEVY

Introduces Bill Calling for Decrease of 40 Per Cent

HIGHER LEVIES HAD BEEN ASKED

Proposal Given Support of Members in Congress from Tobacco States

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Opposing forces were at work today on tobacco taxes.

Rep. Fred Vinson of Ashland, Ky., who had introduced a bill to cut tobacco taxes 40 per cent, had the support of members in both branches of Congress from tobacco growing states.

However, Vinson said, a tentative list of possible taxes prepared some time ago by the treasury but not recommended by the administration, included higher tobacco levies. Department of Agriculture officials about the same time suggested new processing taxes on tobacco for consideration by Congress.

Vinson recalled five years ago Ogden Mills, then undersecretary of the treasury, suggested a tax of eight cents in place of the existing six cents a package on cigarettes. The proposal, he said, had considerable backing but was voted down in committee.

Vinson, a member of the ways and means committee which two years ago approved his proposal to reduce tobacco taxes, said favorable action on his bill at this session probably would depend on whether Democratic leadership gets a "green light" from the administration.

Numerous Divorce Cases Decided At Civil Court Term

Superior Court Session Completed Yesterday Afternoon; Large Number Cases Compromised

A term of Pitt County Superior court for the trial of civil cases was completed here yesterday afternoon, but two weeks of court is scheduled to begin Monday for hearing criminal actions.

Judge E. H. Cranmer, who presided over the civil terms, will be in the chair for the criminal terms also.

No important cases were tried in the term just completed, with the exception of divorces. Most cases were compromised before they were submitted to the jury.

Several divorce cases were granted, however. They included: Thelma Vick vs. Willie Vick; William Bradley vs. Evelyn Bradley; Cooper Little vs. Inez Little; Laura Wescott Sealey vs. Jarvis Sealey; Joe R. Joyner vs. Estelle Rush Joyner; Lydia Purser Ross vs. Blanco Lee Ross; Haywood Gay vs. Catherine Gay; Sallie J. Evans vs. Lums C. Evans; Charlie Smith vs. Selma Smith; and Walter Patrick vs. Berle Patrick.

Practically all of the divorces were granted on grounds of two years' separation.

Elsie Mae Venters was granted a separation from G. L. Venters and was awarded custody of their child until three years old, with the exception of on Sundays, when the father was allowed custody.

LEADERS PUSH RUM RUNNERS NEW PROGRAM HELD IN JAIL

Opposition to Recommendations Spurs New Dealers

Washington, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Opposition in the senate to Roosevelt plans for governmental reorganization spurred administration leaders today to direct the president's program through especially prepared congressional channels.

Democratic leader Robinson said the President's recommendations would be steered away from a special group headed by Senator Byrd (D. Va.), whose expressed aim in reorganization is to save $300,000,000 annually in governmental costs as well as to increase operating efficiency. Mr. Roosevelt announced primary aim is efficient organization.

Three hearings kept a number of capital investigators busy.

Patrolman Smith Makes Big Liquor 'Catch' Near City

A white man and a negro are in Pitt county jail, 125 gallons of bootleg whiskey is stored in the offices of the Highway patrol and a comparatively new automobile is being held as a result of activities of Patrolman H. B. Smith this morning.

The officer was on the Washington road not far from the city limits checking on automobile driver's license and stopped a car which he found to contain 25 five-gallon glass jugs of whiskey.

The white man arrested gave his name as Hubert Mynard of Durham and a driver's license found in the car bore out this identification. He told officers he was just married yesterday. Officers said he was well-known as a rum-runner throughout this section of the state.

The negro gave the name of Carl Thompson.

Patrolman Smith made the arrests unaided. The car was driven to the city and the whiskey unloaded and the car ordered held. (Continued on page two)

LEGISLATIVE CHAFF and CHATTER

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—Opponents of the diversion of highway revenue to any other purpose than roads, at first very happy because they believed Governor Clyde R. Hoyer had come out against diversion in his inaugural speech, are now all hot and bothered. For instead of opposing diversion of $1,000,000 a year, Governor Hoyer really came out in favor of the diversion of $2,100,000 a year by applying the "sales tax principle" to the highway revenues.

This became ever more apparent when the budget revenue and appropriations bills were made public, in which provision is made for the mandatory transfer of $2,100,000 a year from the highway to the general fund.

Those "in the know" here are convinced that Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell succeeded in slipping one over on the anti-diversionists by persuading both Governor Hoyer and the Advisory Budget Commission that the taking of $2,100,000 a year from the highway fund and putting it in the general fund is not "diversion" but merely taking what the general fund is entitled to by applying the sales tax to gasoline sales, on which the public has already paid a state sales tax of 6 cents a gallon. Indications are, however, that Commissioner Maxwell is not going to have such an easy time to make many members of the general assembly believe this is not diversion, even if he does call it by a different name.

Some of the bankers in the general assembly are already getting a little bit of a "stomach ache" over the proposal to levy a tax of one-tenth of one per cent on money in banks. They are afraid that some of their big depositors will draw out their money and put it into a form that will not be taxed, or put it in banks in other states. The counties are also preparing to fight this proposal vigorously, contending that the state is preparing to further invade their field and deprive them of additional sources of revenue.

W. Kerr Scott, new Commissioner of Agriculture, is floundering out that being a new state official is no bed of roses, especially when there is a Budget Bureau to deal with in addition to job hunters and supporters who must be "taken care" of. It is understood that Scott is still engaged in a verbal wrestling match (Continued on page five)

The criminal court calendar for the term beginning Monday morning, with Judge E. H. Cranmer presiding, was released today by Solicitor D. M. Clark.

The calendar does not list the case against Bernard Moore and Bernice Aspinwall, charged with the brutal attack on G. Lem Pleasant, but it was indicated today it might be tried as there was a possibility the victim would be ready to take the stand by the latter part of week after next. The court is for two weeks.

Bill To Issue Road Bonds Attract Wide Attention

By J. C. BASKERVILLE (Reflector Bureau Writer)

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—The bill calling for a new state bond issue of $25,000,000, to be used exclusively on the secondary or county roads of the state, introduced by Senator W. I. Halstead of Elizabeth City and Camden county is causing much interest in legislative and state circles here today.

The reaction among a good many members of both houses of the general assembly is that the state should pay off more of its present bonded road debt before authorizing any more bonds. They pointed out that something like $89,000,000 of road bonds authorized between 1921 and 1927 still remain to be paid off and that approximately $5,000,000 a year of the highway revenue is still being used to make payments on these bonds.

Others point out that there are 48,000 miles of roads in the secondary or county road system and that $25,000,000 would hardly be a drop in the bucket towards providing even the cheapest type of surfacing for these roads.

"I am inclined to the position that the state should wait at least two more years before issuing any more bonds for roads," Senator John Sprunt Hill of Durham and a member of the original State Highway commission said, in commenting on the Halstead bill. "For as much as I favor good roads and the building of as many miles of good roads as we possibly can, I also favor the reduction of our road debt as rapidly as possible."

It is generally believed that Senator Halstead's bill was largely inspired by the statement made by Governor Clyde R. Hoyer in his message in which he urged that more attention be paid to the secondary or county roads. But since the 48,000 miles of county roads carry only from 10 to 15 per cent of the traffic in the state, with the state system carrying from 85 (Continued on page five)

M'NUTT URGES STATE SOLONS HAVE COURAGE

Advised to Make Needed Changes in Government

LITTLE BUSINESS IN LEGISLATURE

Open Hearing Called For January 21 To Consider Two Whiskey Bills

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Paul McNutt, former governor of Indiana, urged North Carolina's legislators today to "have courage to make needed changes in the system of representative government."

Speaking to a joint session of the Legislature, McNutt said reforms in local governments should be made to coordinate activities and definitely assign executive responsibility.

The Legislature did little business before the joint session. Representative Dellinger, of Gaston, introduced a bill to establish a state orphanage, providing for a $1,000,000 bond issue to finance its construction at a site to be chosen by a committee appointed by the governor.

Representative Blount, of Beaufort, chairman of House Judiciary Committee No. 1, called for a public hearing in the hall of the House the afternoon of January 21 on the two liquor bills.

Representative Lumpkin, of Franklin, called the House committee on constitutional amendments, to hold a public hearing next Thursday night on a resolution proposing ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

A similar Senate hearing will be held January 22.

The Legislature decided to consider only local bills; at perfunctory sessions tomorrow, the Senate will meet Monday afternoon and the House at 1 o'clock.

The Legislature gave McNutt and Governor Hoyer an ovation as they entered the hall of the House.

Hoyer paid tribute to McNutt's work as "educator, lawyer, soldier and statesman."

McNutt told the assembly, "public opinion is the only successful check on poor government," and warned "poor public officials are too costly."

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Dr. Iago Goldston

Osteomyelitis literally means an inflammation of the bone marrow, but more commonly it is in fact an inflammation of the various elements of the bone structure, the marrow portion included. The disease in its acute form is essentially one of the childhood period. From the viewpoint of mortality and of resultant crippling, it is one of outstanding importance.

Fundamentally osteomyelitis is a local involvement of bone tissue consequent to a generalized bacterial infection. It not infrequently follows in the wake of some other infectious disease such as furunculosis, carbuncles, superficial wounds, infections about the hand, the hands, the teeth, tonsils, sinuses, disease of the middle ear, infection of the kidney.

Injury, such as a blow, a wrench or a twist, is at times contributory to the development of osteomyelitis.

The long bones, those of the leg, thigh and upper and lower arm portions, are most frequently affected. However, practically any bone in the body may be involved. In general it is believed that the closer the osteomyelitis is to the center of the body, and particularly when near to or involving the head, the more the condition threatens life.

The disease may develop slowly and insidiously, or it may "come on" suddenly. The first symptoms may be a chill or convulsion, followed by vomiting, fever and pain in the affected bone near a joint. Swelling, local pain and tenderness, frequently point to the site of involvement. The child may develop a sudden inability or sudden unwillingness to move or to use the affected limb.

These symptoms may readily be erroneously attributed to such other conditions as gastric upset, arthritis, rheumatic fever, or even rickets. But in the presence of local bone or joint pain with tenderness on pressure and the evidence of toxemia as witnessed in a rise in temperature, an increase in pulse, and the signs of malaise (the child looks and behaves as if it were markedly sick) one must bear in mind the possibility of osteomyelitis, particularly if the child has previously suffered an infectious disease.

Proper and prompt treatment of osteomyelitis radically contributes to the shortening of the illness period and toward the reduction of the hazards of serious complications. In suspected osteomyelitis X-ray of the bones involved is desirable, but the X-ray does not always adequately reveal the condition, and the physician must frequently depend upon other clinical signs and symptoms for diagnosis.

Communism Versus Fascism
A number of people interested in international questions met at the College, Austin building, Wednesday afternoon, to hear the opening program of a series on Communism Versus Fascism, which the A. A. U. W. is inaugurating.

Miss Laura Rose, leader of the group, gave a careful explanation of the background of the present Russian government. She told of the desperately ignorant and poverty-stricken mass of land-hungry peasants—80 per cent of the total population—and made clear the characteristics of the three men whose names have been most closely connected with the experiment in government.

Lenin she described as a member of the small nobility who saw in capitalism the incarnation of evil, and was devoted to the idea of world revolution.

Trotsky, son of a small farmer, was also a very extreme communist. He held that every other nation rot communist was a deadly enemy. He is now, of course, in exile.

Stalin, the present dictator, less extreme, seems to believe that Russian Communism may convert the rest of the world by example rather than by force.

Readings on the nature of communism and its bearing on international relations, were suggested by Miss Rose for the following meeting.—Reported.

Greenville Mayor To Make Address At League Session

M. K. Blount on Program For Talk on Highlights of Legislative Aims For This Session

A draft of a proposed new law on tax collections and foreclosures will be presented and explained by Clem B. Holding, city attorney for Raleigh, member of a League committee which was named last summer to draw up a simplified and enforceable law designed to replace the present laws and eliminate conflicts.

Mayor George Iseley of Raleigh, present of the League of Municipalities, said there today plans for the conference and banquet, at which members of the General Assembly will be guests, has been completed. He expects more than 150 municipal officials to attend.

At 6:30 o'clock the banquet will get underway in the main ballroom of the Sir Walter with Mayor Iseley presiding. He will introduce Governor Hoey, who will serve as toastmaster.

MORE LIQUOR BILLS COMING

At Least Two, Probably Four, Certain to Be Introduced

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Jan. 15.—At least two, and probably four, more liquor bills are certain to be introduced in the legislature within the next few days, coming on the heels of the proposal of Alamance's Ed R. Hanford, started on its course in the House yesterday.

Indications are that all will be started in the House, although Senator R. L. Coburn, of Williamston, is known to be preparing a draft which seems likely to come in, by way of his House colleagues from Martin county, Hugh Horton.

Authorship of the other bills is still in some doubt, but Sam Blount, chairman of Judiciary Committee No. 1 which will study all liquor bills, is said to be considering a bill of his own.

All the new bills are looked for from control advocates, as the dries are believed to be staking all their hopes on the referendum plan of Mrs. Charles J. Hutchins, Yancey, introduced Wednesday.

Sure defeat for this plan, however, is seen by every control supporter and the consensus of experienced observers is that it has the slimmest chance of obtaining a majority in either house.

Not much more chance is conceded the Hanford plan. It is felt in most quarters that its provision to put the State of North Carolina in the liquor making business is too flimsy a pill for most legislators to swallow. Few of them are bold enough to face aroused dry opposition on this point, these quarters hold although most of them admit privately that if there are to be liquor stores in the state it would be highly profitable both to the state and to farmers who raw materials would be used to have state distilleries.

Originally the controllers hoped to be able to do all their compromising and negotiating off the floor and even out of committee rooms, but the inability of all shades of opinion to unite under one banner and the speed of the referendumites in getting their bill under way seem to have upset these first plans.

It now appears that the control men will try to get as many plans as possible into the House committee and then endeavor to pick the best parts of each and combine them into the final measure they will support.

The rock on which they may come to grief is the extent to which the state shall charge in the control and profits of liquor sales.

Ever those representatives from counties now having liquor stores have come to the conclusion there is bound to be some state control, and many of them are now practically insisting on some degree of it. Webb Williams, of Pasquotank, who fathered the bill exempting all the now-wet counties except New Hanover, is a fine example of this type. He is now as insistent on state control as anyone.

ROAD BACKERS WOULD RELAX DRIVER'S LAW

Hoey's Declaration Favors Reduction in Tag Costs

Raleigh, Jan. 14.—Most of the recommendations made by Governor Clyde R. Hoey with regard to the highways of the state, with the possible exception of his recommendation for the reorganization of the State Highway and Public Works Commission on a district basis, are disappointing to the advocates of more and better roads, according to comment heard the past few days.

For while Governor Hoey did urge that more attention be paid to construction and maintenance of its county roads, totaling some 48,000 miles, he at the same time advocated a further reduction in the cost of automobile license plates, thus virtually cutting off the possibility of any further revenue which might be used on the county roads, it is being pointed out.

Most of the good roads advocates are convinced that there has not been any great demand for a decrease in the cost of automobile license plates in North Carolina and that there would not have been any, if Governor Hoey had not mentioned this in his inaugural address.

They also point out that the revenue coming from the gasoline tax and the automobile tax at present is sufficient only to provide about the same amount for road maintenance as has been available the past two years, with the result that if license costs are reduced will be less. This means, in turn, that less revenue will be available for the maintenance and betterment of the county roads than in the past.

"While I am heartily in favor of providing more and better maintenance for the county roads and am in full agreement with Governor Hoey on that point, he virtually check-mated this recommendation when he urged a reduction in license tag costs," a member of the general assembly said today.

Legislator From Dry County Backs Control Of Liquor

Cherokee House Member Comes Out For County Control Plan in Preference to Referendum

Raleigh, Jan. 15.—Cherokee's Harry Cooper says his county is 5 to 1 dry. He says, too, that his wife is everlastingly after him to vote for a statewide referendum. But, he declares, he will fight for a county-option plan of liquor control and will line up against any effort to force a statewide vote.

"I can't control my county's vote and I never have been able to control my wife's opinion or vote, but for me, I feel that each county should have the right to decide this matter for itself, so I'm going to vote for county control," he said.

Mr. Cooper gained more than a little notoriety, if not fame, early in the session by tossing into the House hopper a series of bills making Cherokee county one of the most "wide open" in the state. He called for Sunday movies, Sunday baseball, prize fights, hunting and fishing without license. The House voted him the first two, but clamped down when he appeared with the last batch, sending the measures to committee.

Mr. Cooper said there are "at least 750" bootleggers in Cherokee county.

"And that's one reason why it will vote so dry," he added. He expressed confidence that the legislature will vote for some kind of liquor control and will refuse to call a statewide referendum. He frankly fears that a statewide vote would be dry.

"You just can't beat a three-way combination of preachers, bootleggers and Republicans," he said, making it clear, however, that he did not mean to imply any open alliance between these diverse groups. "But the preachers are dry for principle, the bootleggers for profit and the Republicans for politics," he said.

ROAD BACKERS WOULD RELAX DRIVER'S LAW

Bill Introduced To Bar Revocations Until After Trial

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 14.—The bill introduced in the Senate Tuesday by Senator W. I. Halstead of Elizabeth City and Camden county, which would make it impossible for the Department of Revenue and Highway Safety Division to revoke the driving license of North Carolina drivers arrested and convicted for driving drunk in other states until they had been given a judicial hearing in North Carolina, is arousing considerable interest here today, for two reasons.

The first of these is that it is regarded as tending to undermine the provisions of the 1935 drivers license law, under which the license of a driver is automatically revoked for one year when convicted of drunken driving, regardless of whether he is convicted in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, or any other state.

If the Halstead bill should pass, it would make it possible for North Carolina car drivers to get drunk and drive cars in Virginia, South Carolina and other states, even be convicted there and still retain their driving licenses in North Carolina, since the provision for a second judicial hearing in this state is regarded as being little more than a subterfuge. The bill is retroactive, and would restore the driving license of all those convicted in other states without a hearing here.

The second reason for the interest in this bill is the speculation as to whether there is any connection between this measure and the M. Bland Simpson case in Elizabeth City. Simpson, a lawyer in Elizabeth City, was convicted in a Norfolk, Va., court on May 12, 1936 of driving while drunk. When notice of this conviction reached the Highway Safety Division in June, it revoked Simpson's license and sent him the usual notification.

When he failed to send in his driver's license, a highway patrolman was sent to take it up. Simpson again refused to turn over his driving license and obtained a restraining order prohibiting the highway patrol and highway safety division from taking it from him. When the hearing was held on the restraining order, the Judge held with the Department of Revenue and against Simpson and he was required to relinquish his driver's permit under the revocation extending to May 12, 1937.

THE BIRTHDAY BALL
 The funds derived from past President Birthday Balls in this city are proving a great asset to the crippled children of this county and it is to be hoped that when the ball is held on the 29th of this month hundreds of people from all over Pitt County will attend it. More elaborate plans than ever are being made for the birthday ball this year and those who attend will be assured an evening of real entertainment in addition to the opportunity of sharing in the work of aiding crippled children of this county. Make your plans now to attend the President's Birthday Ball here on Friday night, January 29. Even if you find that you can't attend you can well afford to buy a ticket, realizing the good purpose for which the funds derived from the ball are to be used.

NOT NEEDED
 Says a letter to the editor: "I wish you would write an editorial defining patriotism. It amazes me that otherwise intelligent people frequently regard peace efforts as unpatriotic." Patriotism does not have to be re-defined. The trouble is that too often its real meaning is not remembered. Webster's New International Dictionary defines the word as "love of country; devotion to the welfare of one's country; the virtues and actions of a patriot." Under such a definition no one acts with truer patriotism than one who seeks to save his country and his countrymen from the terrible futility of war. Unfortunately, however, our history books have been too much concerned with battles and too little concerned with the important advances of peace. And some altogether honest citizens have come to associate the flag with war and patriotism with international bloodshed. But, unfortunately, too, through the whole history of America there have been men who did not hesitate to wave the flag over self-interest, and to denigrate as "Americanism" only such action as suited their pleasure and their profits. But there is nothing new about this. Long ago Dr. Samuel Johnson in his famous dictionary defined patriotism as "the first refuge of a scoundrel" and before and since then some strange things have masqueraded under the old word "patriotism." The truth, of course, is that patriotism has no more to do with war than with peace, save as we have come to learn that no country ever in the long run profits by war. The patriot is the man who serves his country. True enough he may lay down his life for it in battle. But no less a patriot is he who lives for his country a lifetime of constructive service in the pursuits of peace.—News and Observer.

Telephonitis
 Filmom's Hard Hit By Contagious Dial Disease

An incurable malady has all Hollywood in its grip—telephonitis. Although they take all manner of precautions to keep persons from calling them, once the stars are near a phone their dialing finger gets an uncontrollable itch—and many of them average an hour and a half a day on the line. For example:

JAMES STEWART . . . can't overcome telephonitis even when at lunch. An attendant plugs in the phone at his table and he's off.

JOAN CRAWFORD . . . does everything from shopping to contacting her husband, Franchot Tone, on the phone in her portable dressing room.

MICKEY ROONEY . . . shows that even the young luminaries are not immune as he shouts into the wall phone at his studio.

ELISSA LANDI . . . another victim of the dialing disease, gets a far-away look in her eyes as she glues her ear to the receiver.

CLARK GABLE . . . has it bad, too, but instead of a dressing room phone he uses an extension set—with a 50-foot cord.

STRONG METHODS PROVIDED FOR COLLECTING NEW TAXES

(Continued from page one) pay off when these become due there isn't much the tax gatherers can do about it, but under the new plan nobody is going to be able to call on the law to help them collect unless he also renders collection of the tax inevitable.

It is provided that in any action to collect on any evidence of debt, whether by way of mortgage or otherwise, the complainant must allege or offer proof that the taxes on such evidences of debt have been paid, or the complainant must aver he is willing that the taxes be paid out of first collection on the debt. So if anyone desires aid of the law to help him collect, he must pay off or guarantee payment.

Collection of taxes on shares of stocks, bonds of corporations, and similar securities, needed no special provisions to help collection as they are usually a matter of record and can be checked up without vast difficulty. Accounts receivable, too, are in the same category.

Which leaves only money on hand as the only one of the new taxes for which there seems to be no special collection method.

And here even the doughty Mr. Maxwell hasn't yet devised an iron-clad gap plan, for there is still no known method of locking into every sock to see whether its crammed with currency.

BILL TO ISSUE ROAD BONDS ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

(Continued from page one) to 90 per cent of the traffic, a good many observers here feel that if the state is going to authorize another road bond issue of $25,000,000 it should be used in rebuilding some of the old roads on the state highway system 10 and 15 years ago and in modernizing the state highway system. There are hundreds of miles on the state highway system which are so nearly worn out that it is almost impossible to maintain them with the result that much of the money spent in trying to maintain these old roads is a most being wasted.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 10 'We're All Guilty Now' BIGELOW drew out his case and offered Anne a cigarette—took one himself and lighted them. "Steady on," he said quietly. "They don't know and they won't know."

In the studio, more guests had arrived. A red-haired girl sat on the edge of the piano.

"But—was it wise to—take this way? What are we going to do when they go? Can we trust Madame Karsanokoff?"

"I think so," answered Bigelow. "But—we know so little about her. "Still—she's in this with us. We're all guilty, now—accessories if nothing more."

"Karsanokoff came to the door. "This isn't wise," she said gravely. "Whispering in corners looks like conspiracies. And we don't want to arouse anyone's suspicions—in any way."

"Right," said Bigelow. Karsanokoff smilingly slipped her arm through Anne's and they left him. He picked up the telephone receiver and called Austrelitz's number.

"I've been in bed for several hours," answered the doctor. "It must be after two o'clock. What is it? Is anything wrong?"

"Yes, that's why I called you," said Bigelow. There was a pause. "Am I to understand that you cannot speak frankly from where you are?" asked the doctor, taking his cue promptly.

"Exactly." "What do you want me to do, then? Come to you or wait up for you here?" "Come to a party," answered Bigelow. "It's at Anne Phelps' studio. I'll give you the address if you've got a pencil handy."

"Just a moment. You're not drunk, are you?" asked Austrelitz. "No, I wish I were." "Very well. Give me the address." Bigelow gave it to him.

tem, would be of little help to the people living on the county roads, since then they would have good roads only until they got to the main state highways, with bad roads from then on. For the state highway system of 10,000 miles is the backbone of the entire highway system, all of the other 40,000 miles of roads being merely feeders into the state system with the result that if the state system should go to pieces, the other roads would be of little value, no matter how good they might be.

Accordingly, the opinion of a majority of the good roads advocates here is that Senator Halstead has the cart before his horse, and that the thing to do, if a new bond issue is authorized, is to spend it on bringing the state system up-to-date, which in turn would make it possible to use a much larger portion of the state maintenance funds on the county system. This would result in the building up of

"Shall I bring my emergency kit?" asked Austrelitz. "No, it's too late for that," said Bigelow. "Oh!" Austrelitz was evidently thinking that over, gravely. "But, you might come in your own car," said Bigelow. "You drive your car, don't you?"

"Sometimes I will tonight, in any case. Be there as quickly as I can make it," he promised. "Good!" cried Bigelow and hung up....

The Cupboard Door

In the studio, more guests had arrived. The piano was being gaily under Buddy Burton's deft fingers. A red-haired girl in a green frock sat on the edge of the piano, singing, but only a few groups around her were listening to her song. The rest were chattering at the work table where the food was laid out, or talking in corners. Some had strayed down the hall to the kitchen and were collected there.

As Bigelow stood looking about him, a heavy-set man tried the cupboard door. For an instant, Bigelow held his breath; then he realized the man was a stranger in the studio, too, and had made a mistake. Chet Harrison seized his arm and ushered him away.

In the loud clamor that filled the room, Mirabelle Barney hailed Bigelow. "Anne tells me you've just arrived from Paris," she cried. "Did you ever—I go over every summer. Haven't missed a year since I don't know when! Paris is my second home. And Biarritz—I do you know Biarritz?"

"Yes, very well," answered Bigelow. "Well, there you ever—I've had a cubana there for six years. I just adore the casino. It's such fun to win money, isn't it? Do you know the Talley's?"

"... somewhere near Washington Square?" boomed a deep voice back of Bigelow. "... and I said," cried a treble voice. "You expect a good deal for your orchids, don't you?"

A Call For Karsanokoff BIGELOW wandered on. The red-haired girl had stopped singing for the moment but she was still perched on top of the piano talking to a little group of men. Burton, behind her, was playing mechanically and talking to a tall thin girl who sat on the bench beside him. Karsanokoff was curled up on the couch that had almost daunted Mrs. Kane and seemed to be absorbed in the crowd around her. Near the fireplace, Anne stood talking to a rather dignified looking woman in black. She had gray hair—bobbed—and a friendly, crinkly face.

"May I present Mr. Bigelow?"—the Baroness Dormstatt, said Anne. On that one, you would want the boys to help you out if you had just pulled a chestnut like this.

Even Representative Tom Cooper of Wilmington, one of the chief anti-side of the liquor control forces, was caught napping when Rep. Ed. R. Hanford of Alamance county tested in his liquor control bill Thursday.

"I didn't know a thing about it," he said.

This is the job from which Scott ousted William H. Richardson some weeks ago and which he has since offered to five different men.

Another reason Scott is reported having difficulty in finding a new publicly director to take Richardson's place, in addition to his inability to get the salary up to the figure desired, is that several of the newspaper men to whom the job has been offered are somewhat wary of the "social insecurity" of the position. Because of the peculiar pressure $2,400 seems to take in looking employees out of the department virtually without notice, a good many are coming to the conclusion that jobs in the Department of Agriculture, even at $3,500 a year, are at the time being highly undesirable.

LEADERS PUSH NEW PROGRAM

heard evidence designed to link the forcing of a former University of Alabama instructor with the Giant Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company of Birmingham.

Before the labor relations board, Elmer Maloy of Duquesne, Pa., said he had made as much as $105 extra for his work as an employee representative of the Carnegie, Ill., steel company.

At the White House President Roosevelt disclosed informal negotiations were underway with Canada looking to the calling of a formal conference on a new St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

YUMA'S NEW 'MARRYING JUSTICE' TO SPEED UP SERVICE FOR ELOPERS

HELL DO IT Ed Winn, horse-trading constable of Yuma, Ariz., is laying aside his guns for the Bible to become the new 'marrying justice' of the peace in the Mecca for Hollywood elopers.

Constable Ed Winn, who exchanges his gun for a Bible to succeed Earl A. Freeman as "marrying justice" of the peace, has a head full of plans for speeding up things.

His program calls for moving his residence from the outskirts into the middle of Yuma, and burning the lights all night as a guide to elopers.

Yuma, Ariz. (AP)—This western Gretta Green is starting the new year with "right now" service for altar-bound Hollywood couples, fleeing California's "gin" marriage law.

Constable Ed Winn, who exchanges his gun for a Bible to succeed Earl A. Freeman as "marrying justice" of the peace, has a head full of plans for speeding up things.

His program calls for moving his residence from the outskirts into the middle of Yuma, and burning the lights all night as a guide to elopers.

No Waits

"These folks who want to get married in a hurry and go to the expense of chartering an airplane to bring them to Arizona aren't going to hunt all over a strange town for a justice of the peace," Winn says.

The easy-going, horse-trading former Texan plans to be ready at all hours. Through years of experience as a peace officer, he has learned to awaken easily and clothe himself quickly—there'll be no long waits on his front porch, he promises.

Some nights Yuma's thriving wedding business brings as many as 20 couples knocking at the doors of the justice.

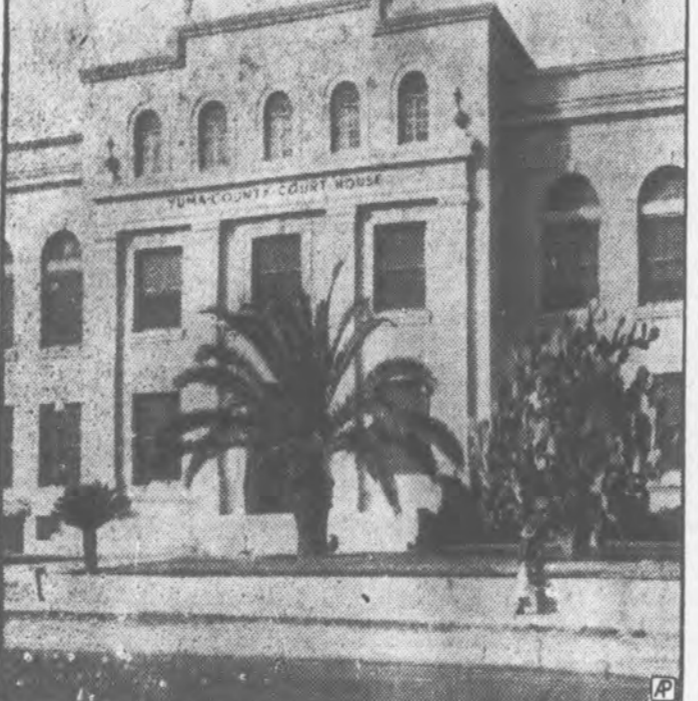

Freeman, who is retiring after "splicing an estimated 25,000 couples, says a decade of this sort of life has made his hair gray and broken his health.

Gentleman's Agreement

Recent late night-time visitors to the hotel of John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie, who arrived at midnight, were surprised when Justice Freeman, 1899, the knot tied

HE DID IT Earl A. Freeman, recalling with the aid of a picture the day he kissed Jack Oakie's bride, is leaving the justiceship after marrying an estimated 25,000 couples in 10 years.

WHERE IT'S DONE The justice performs the ceremony in this modest courthouse building in sun-baked Yuma.

It's a Good Business.

Freeman, who plans to practice law and help run his wife's dairy, says he will still be available to any couples he has married, should they need a divorce. But he added that "more than 99 per cent" of his marriages have been successful.

Marriage is a business in Yuma—a mighty good one, the citizens admit. About 6,000 licenses are issued annually—which would average about one to each person in town.

Although Yuma is one of the hottest spots in the nation, it gets its quota of Cupid's victims even during the summer. The hotels are air-conditioned and count it a poor day when the bridal suites are not occupied.

A common sight at the airport are chartered planes from California, where the law requires a three-day notice to wed.

Winn doesn't anticipate much trouble getting used to so many marriages, even though a lot of his customers will be "mighty important people." He has been watching Freeman for four years and has "picked up a lot of pointers."

He is pleased with his new job but not excited. His election came about through a "gentleman's agreement," Freeman, deciding not to seek re-election, supported Winn.

Winn says marriages will be conducted "on the same high level." The fee will remain the same, "customarily" $5. Movie stars usually pay more, but seldom above $25. On this basis, it is estimated the office has paid Freeman about $150,000 in marriage fees alone.

CUSTOMERS Recent elopers from Hollywood were John Barrymore, who looked a trifle pop-eyed, and Elaine Barrie, who was smiling broadly, as they boarded a chartered plane for Yuma.

ADDITIONAL CLUES IN MATTSON CASE ARE INVESTIGATED

about six miles December 27, the night 10-year-old Charles was seized for the $29,000 ransom his physician father tried in vain to pay.

At San Jose, Calif., a former Seattle woman told Sheriff George L. Hayes was the man to whom she rented a cottage near Seattle two months ago. Hayes is wanted for questioning by the Mattson investigators.

blamed the other with shooting their victim.

Chief Clark quoted Moore as saying that he and Aspinwall had originally plan to hold up and attack Ray Moore, but that Aspinwall feared he was a relative of Moore and decided against him. The two next considered Charles McGowan as a victim, but this plan was dropped and a taxi driver was decided on as their victim.

Moore said that another taxi firm was called, but for some reason did not come and a call was put in for Mr. Pleasant's taxi.

He was quoted as saying that he and Aspinwall intended to attack the driver, rob him of what money he had and drive off in the car, going to Florida. He said they intended to rob filling stations en route to secure money and gasoline.

After Mr. Pleasant was attacked and left, apparently for dead, the two young men drove to Aspinwall's rooming house here, picked up his grip and drove to Dunn. They became frightened there and abandoned the car and the two did not see each other again until they met in the Wilson jail today.

Chief Clark said Moore was the more fearless of the pair, but described Aspinwall as a "mean coward." He said of the latter: "Of all the criminals I ever have seen, he is the easiest lying."
