FDR QUIET ON STALEMATE IN STRIKE CRISIS

Executive Declares Statements Are Not In Order

PARLEY UNABLE SNAP DEADLOCK

Failure of Conferences Has No Noticeable Effect on Auto Strike Centers

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today statements, conversations and headlines were "not in order" in efforts to settle the automobile strike.

The President made his first comment on the sit-down strike in General Motors at his first press conference on his second term.

In response to questions about the stalemate in government efforts to settle the widespread strike, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I have no further news than what you have. Of course, I think that in the interest of peace there comes moments when statements, conversations and headlines are not in order."

In a departure from customary rules of his press conferences, he allowed this statement to be quoted.

Detroit, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The apparent failure of Washington conference to break the deadlock between General Motors corporation and the U. A. W. A. had no noticeable effect on the strike centers today.

Most of the members of the U. A. W. A. board of strategy were in Washington and there was no comment at the union headquarters here.

At Flint, Mich., where sit-down strikers have occupied two General Motors plants since December 30, Robert Travis, union organizer, said:

A statement by General Motors 79 per cent of the employees in 43 plants have protested against interruption in work and signed petitions stating they were satisfied with conditions of employment brought reactions in several union quarters.

Preparing Stage Two Floor Shows At Birthday Ball

Announcement Made Today Of $25 Donation to Committee by Local German Club

The program committee of the Roosevelt Birthday Ball announced today that everything was moving along in good shape for the annual dance to be held here one week from tonight.

The ball will be held at the College Campus building on January 29, although the President's birthday falls on January 30, which is Saturday.

Two complete floor shows will be staged before the evening is turned over to dancing. Each of the floor shows will present different entertainers and different types of programs.

The German club today donated $25 to be used by the organization for aiding crippled children. Seventy per cent of the profits are retained locally to aid children crippled by infantile paralysis or other causes. An orthopedic clinic is held here each month and a large number of cripples whose families are not financially able to provide braces or such for them are helped from the funds raised at the Birthday ball.

The program here is scheduled to get underway at 9 o'clock and officials say there will be no delay in getting started.

Pamlico Woman Dies, Apparently a Suicide

New Bern, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. C. H. Banks, of Pamlico county, died in a hospital here today from the effects of an overdose of sedative powders taken last Saturday.

She was brought here early Sunday and no hope for her recovery had been held until Thursday when she regained consciousness the first time. Death followed shortly after a sudden turn for the worse Thursday night.

RETIRE JURY IN GRAY CASE

Members Unable To Reach Verdict; Mistrial Ordered

Upon declaration by members that they did not think they would be able to reach a verdict, the jury in the case charging T. N. Gray, Stokes farmer, with the murder of Ben Peaden, negro, was discharged and a mistrial ordered.

The jury was given the case about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after the entire day had been consumed in hearing the case and the mistrial was ordered shortly before the noon recess today. The jurors spent the night in the hotel here and returned their deliberations this morning.

They were called into the court room by Judge E. H. Cramer and asked if they thought they would be able to reach a verdict. Declaring that they were of the opinion that they were definitely deadlocked, the judge ordered the mistrial.

Jurors in the case were W. R. Minchew, J. Sam Fleming, Johnnie Dunn, C. W. Eiks, Z. G. Bowers, Meekin McLawhorn, W. A. House, D. J. Branch, H. W. Kemp, J. V. Taylor, J. A. Branch, C. W. Evans.

As the court recessed for lunch today a jury had another case of a white man in connection with the death of a negro.

L. C. Stocks was charged with the hit-and-run slaying of Clinton Cox on the Ayden-Kinston road November 8, 1935. The State charged that Stocks, resident of the Winterville community, struck Cox and failed to stop.

Willie Streeter entered a plea of guilty to breaking and entering and was given an eight-months' sentence.

Snodde Smith entered a guilty plea to possession of illegal whiskey and was sent to the roads for 12 months.

Judge Cramer directed a verdict of not guilty after hearing the evidence in a case charging Bert Dunn with driving drunk.

Calls Troop Meeting Of State Patrolmen

Lieut. Lester Jones announced today that a division meeting of Troop "A" of the State Highway Patrol would be held at Respass barbeque place next Wednesday at noon.

He said only routine matters would be taken up. The division includes 30 counties which are patrolled by 40 officers.

Possible Trade Seen For County Control Advocates

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—The growing opposition from the counties, cities and towns to the proposed state tax on intangibles may become the basis for a compromise with the counties which have and want to keep the county liquor control systems they now have—also the profits—according to rumblings being heard in legislative circles.

The counties most opposed to the state tax on intangibles are for the most part the large Piedmont counties which do not have any liquor stores—that is, legal liquor stores—and which are operating under the Turlington bootlegging system.

BILL PROPOSES STATE ITSELF OPERATE FAIR

Another Provides for Tax Classification Study

BOTH HOUSES IN BRIEF SESSIONS

Lower Branch to Hold Regular Meeting Tomorrow; Senate Follows Old Custom

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Promoted that the state operate the State Fair each year and that Gov. Hoey name a committee to study tax classification hit legislation hoppers today.

The House and Senate meetings were short as members wanted to attend the democratic executive committee session.

Rep. Voger of Mecklenburg proposed to a finance sub-committee on chain stores material increases be made in taxes levied on chains with 75 or more stores in excess of one and representatives of chain groups opposed an increase.

The appropriations group held an afternoon session to hear requests for permanent improvement from several institutions.

Sen. Clark of Edgecombe introduced a bill in the senate to provide for appropriation of up to $25,000 yearly from the emergency and contingency fund to meet any deficit the board of agriculture might incur by operating the fair instead of leasing it.

The board recently adopted a resolution providing for it to operate the fair if the legislature voted it protection against any loss up to $25,000.

Rep. Uzzell offered the tax commission measure. It suggested a nine-member commission to study tax classification as allowed under a new constitutional amendment.

The house voted to consider regular business tomorrow, but the senate reverted to old custom and adjourned to consider local bills tomorrow and not meet on Monday until night.

WOULD CHANGE ELECTION LAW

Committee Favors Holding Primaries On Tuesdays

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive committee voted unanimously this afternoon to seek election law changes to hold primaries held on Tuesdays instead of Saturdays in North Carolina.

Slowly the state group worked through a long list of recommendations of a sub-committee on election laws.

Selection of a state vice-chairman was sidetracked. Miss Ethel Parker, of Gatesville, claimed 67 pledged votes for the place, but Mrs. W. B. Murphy, of Snow Hill, is conducting a vigorous fight.

The group approved other recommendations of its sub-committee as follows:

To create new regulations and machinery for handling rotation agreements in senatorial districts of more than one county; to require county party chairmen to resign when they seek elective office; not to establish permanent party headquarters here; to seek election law changes to limit hours of voting between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. instead of between sunrise and sunset; hold (Continued on page six)

Health Campaign Planned For Pitt

J. H. Moore of Mississippi, But a Native Tar Heel, Named to Fill Vacant Position of Sanitary Inspector for Pitt County

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today announced that a new sanitary inspector was expected here February 1 to fill the office vacant since last August and at the same time disclosed that an intensive sanitation campaign would be inaugurated within the immediate future.

J. H. Moore, native of North Carolina, but who has been working with the Mississippi State Health department in recent years, is the inspector named to fill the position vacated by J. P. Stowe, who accepted the post of city inspector last August 15.

The new inspector comes to this county highly recommended by his immediate superiors and also by officials of the Mississippi and North Carolina Boards of Health. He has been serving as district supervisor and his duties have included training sanitary inspectors. "I have had and is capable of doing commendable work," wrote his superior in Mississippi, who also expressed regret at his leaving.

Mr. Moore, who came here recently for an interview, said that he wanted to move back to this state. His home is in Burgaw.

Dr. Ennett declared that he was "very favorably impressed" with the new man, and that the sanitary inspection service which has been handicapped since the office of inspector has been vacant will be resumed on an extensive scale.

Shortly after the arrival of Mr. Moore, the county Health department will inaugurate a campaign which it is expected ultimately will result in a much better program whereby adequate reporting and permanent recording of certain sanitation activities will be made for future use.

The department will begin making records as to sanitation conditions on each premise in the county. The process, of course, will be slow, but officials will make records of individual homes whenever they have occasion to visit a family. In addition, they probably will make

LEGISLATIVE CHAFF and CHATTER

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 22.—Many have asked, but nobody has answered yet, the question propounded in the Senate Wednesday by Durham's John Sprunt Hill. Speaking against precipitate action to appropriate $600,000 for school buses he queried: "Whose fault is it that the buses have worn out all at once?"

Most impressive statement of the appeal for more funds made to the appropriations committee by Cressy K. Proctor, superintendent of the Oxford orphanage was this: "Not a single child from the Oxford orphanage has ever been convicted of a major crime in North Carolina."

Even the hard-boiled committee (and they have to be hardboiled to keep from spending many times as much money as the state can collect) joined in the applause.

RECORD FLOOD PREDICTED FOR MIDDLE-WEST

Ohio River Already Standing at 70-Foot Level

WHOLE VILLAGES THREATENED

Ten States Contribute to National Refugee Total of More Than 80,000 Persons

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Ohio river reached a stage of 70 feet today and Meteorologist W. C. Deveraux predicted the greatest flood on record for Cincinnati and lower river points. He predicted a probable crest between 71 and 73 feet at Cincinnati tonight or Saturday.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The rampaging Ohio river threatened to engulf whole cities and villages today as it beat back lowland defenders along the thousand miles of the nation's most critical flood front.

It poured through a broken levee at Lawrenceburg, Ind., driving 7,000 residents to higher ground. It ripped a half mile gap in earthen levees to Portsmouth, Ohio, climbed the city's 60 foot flood wall and filled one section with water seven feet deep. City officials previously had flooded the business and industrial districts purposely to save a million dollar seawall. Some 13,000 of Portsmouth's 50,000 dwellers fled to hill tops.

The Ohio's waters barred more than 50,000 from their homes in Ohio and 15,000 in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Missouri contributed to an estimated national refugee total of 80,000 in 10 flood-battered states. Evacuees menaced other homes in Louisiana and Mississippi.

The number of known flood deaths stood at nine, including three in Illinois, two in Ohio and West Virginia, one each in Mississippi and Pennsylvania. At least 25 persons leaped safely to shallow water when a ferry boat sank at Portsmouth.

MAY OPERATE TANNERY HERE

Group of Business Men Lend Support To Proposal

A new industry with an annual payroll of $300,000 may begin operation in Greenville within the near future, it was revealed here today following a meeting of representatives of a tannery and a number of Greenville business men.

Today's meeting followed a discussion of the project at a called meeting of the Board of Aldermen last night, at which time the proposed new industry was outlined.

Negotiations are underway for the leasing of property for the tannery and a number of business men are preparing to make arrangements whereby they can put a proposition up to the management of the firm considering erecting a plant in this city.

It was stated that the plant would employ approximately 300 people who would make their home here permanently. It also was pointed out that the proposal is not a "fly-by-night" idea, but that the tannery would locate here with the (Continued on page six)

UNABLE CHECK REBEL ATTACK

Socialist Airmen Attempt to Break Lines Five Times

(By Associated Press) Socialist airmen five times today tried to break the lines of Madrid's Fascist besiegers.

Squadrons of government planes dropped tons of bombs on Fascist lines South and West of the beleaguered capital while infantrymen were capturing a strategic hill dominating the Northwestern battle zone.

Portugal, long fearful such civil strife would spread through the entire Iberian peninsula, blamed two days of terrorist bombings on international agitators and said the "Spanish Reds" had previous knowledge bombs would explode in Portugal's public buildings, including the war and education ministries.

The insurgent headquarters at San Sebastian added a threat to the complicated European situation, announcing the Fascist's fleet in Biscay Bay had been ordered to halt and inspect any vessels encountered in waters controlled by insurgents.

Germany meanwhile made ready to reply to the British note demanding a ban on foreign volunteers. The note, being put in final form, will be favorable in tone, but will make no detailed commitments.

Three Negroes Held On Larceny Charges

Three negroes who are alleged to have been entering a warehouse containing corn, peas and other such produce here for a week or so were arrested early this morning and placed in jail to await a hearing in City court tomorrow morning on charges of larceny.

The three, Buddy Carr, James Carr and Willie Blow, are charged with having stolen shelled corn belonging to E. G. Flanagan and George Cherry. Officers said 13 bags were stolen last night, but that they recovered eight of them.

STRIKE HOLDS ATTENTION OF CAPITAL CITY

Walkouts Vie With Congressional Developments

TANGLE PLAGUES HOUSE LEADERS

Extension of R. F. C. Lending Powers Is Held Up By Parliamentary Difficulty

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Strikes that have fastened a stranglehold on the automobile industry, shared capital interest today with congressional developments.

President Roosevelt said at a press conference he had learned of new developments in the strike situation, but added, "Of course I think that in the interest of peace, there comes moments when statements, conversations and headlines are not in order."

Assistant Secretary of State Francis Sayre told the House Ways and Means committee extension of the administration's reciprocal trade policies was essential to restoring world economy and establishment of peace. Chairman Doughton (D-NC) predicted "little trouble" in getting the extension through the House.

The Senate Social and Civil Liberties committee received an affidavit that one recruiter of labor spies for the National Metal Trade Association had posed as a government officer investigating sabotage in order to get men.

A new parliamentary tangle plagued administration house leaders trying to push through legislation extending the reconstruction finance corporation's lending powers until June 30, 1939. Speaker Bankhead said it might be impossible to get the bill to the White House before night.

Bankhead said leaders would press for final action today on a $50,000,000 crop production loan fund.

Carolina Is Visited By Sunshine Rays After Much Rain

Overburdened Rivers Given Short Respite, But More Rains Are Forecast For Tomorrow

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sunshine over the drainage basin in the Roanoke, Neuse, Cape Fear and Tar rivers checked floods in the streams today, but the weather bureau here forecast "more rain tomorrow."

At Weldon the Roanoke topped 41 feet in depth this morning, rising slowly with a crest at about 42 feet predicted tomorrow. Bank level is 31 feet.

The state prison division said the state made conditions at Calender's prison farm in Halifax county "vertical," but hope was held the large dyke protecting farm lands from the river would hold despite its sorry condition.

The Neuse reached a stage at 14.2 feet at Smithfield and the Cape Fear at 23.1 at Fayetteville, was rising very slowly and was near its crest. Both were barely in flood.

The Tar was near the bank level stage in most of its course.

Unable to Find Cause Of Statesville Death

Statesville, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The death of a 20-year-old bride of two months, whose 15-month-old body was found in a 60-foot well, baffled authorities today.

Both State And Counties Blamed In Row On Busses

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—The real "insider" of the school bus situation is that both the state and the counties have been to blame for not providing enough school buses, with the superintendents and teacher partly to blame for the state failing to provide enough money for enough school buses, those familiar with facts and the background of the school bus muddle readily agree.

The state is to blame for not providing enough buses in the past general assemblies because in the past general assemblies have consistently refused to appropriate as much money as has been requested by the State School Commission and which it has said absolutely needed to retire old, worn out and unsafe school buses from service.

The county superintendents, boards of education and boards of county commissioners have been to blame for the over-crowding of school buses because of their failure to buy new buses whenever any increase in the school population required additional buses. For under the law, it is the duty of the school boards and county commissioners to provide any new buses that may be needed because of any increase in school population.

The school teachers and superintendents, also the North Carolina Education Association, have been partly, if not very largely, to blame for the lack of state funds with which to buy new buses for replacements, also for the failure of counties to supply new buses when it was their job to supply them, because of the insistence of the teachers that every dollar that (Continued on page six)

Returns From Inauguration
At least some of the College students attending the presidential inauguration Wednesday found the ceremony and parade impressive, as they became part of thousands crowded along Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues. From under a veritable sea of umbrellas, they saw the President and Vice-President take their oaths of office, heard the President make his inaugural address, and then, the sight which made every heart swell with pride, the President riding at the head of the parade in an open car in the downpour of rain waving his hat in response to cheers, because, he said, if the on-lookers could take it, so could he.

A. A. U. W. Study Group
That the moving purpose of communism is to give the masses a better chance in life, and that communism differs from democracy chiefly in considering legitimate any means of gaining this end, were brought out yesterday afternoon in the study group being carried on under the direction of the A. A. U. W.

To gain the desired end, Lenin thought existing governments and social organizations must be smashed, and an entirely new social order be developed, because any group taking over the government as it existed would soon become an "owning group."

In the new order, the state controls all means of making profit, and the plan and hope are that all citizens shall become "hired employees of the State."

The careful and thorough organization of the party was brought out with its adult group, who guide and prepare the 5,000,000 young people in the youth group, with its young people working with the pioneers (high school age) and octoberists (children) to develop future members of the party.

Almost yearly the party is put- ed of all who have not shown themselves zealous in the cause. The contempt of the bolsheviks for all democratic procedures is epitomized in the dictatorship of Stalin, whose word is law, though there exists a committee whose business it is "to proceed against members" of the party; under their displeasure even Stalin, theoretically at least, might fall if he relaxed too much in his principles.

With the philosophy, the meth- ods of work, and the party organi- zation thus made clear, the group will discuss next week the bearing of the Russian experiment on the world, and will begin the exor- ciation of the background for the present Italian government. Miss Laura Rose, leader of the group, presided.—Reported.

Bach, "Allegra," by Miss Pauline Nelson, and Chopin's "Minute Waltz" by Miss Elizabeth Tolson.

West Greenville P. T. A.
On Wednesday afternoon of this week, the Parent-Teacher Association of West Greenville held their January meeting at the school.

On arriving the mothers were invited to Miss Kittrell's third grade class room where her pupils were waiting to entertain them with a most interesting and original program. The class room was adorned with bright colored drawings which were interpreted by the pupils who created them, and gave in picture form the history of transportation, beginning with the earliest methods down to our present day facilities.

Those interested in manual training had several projects on display. The most outstanding being a very modern airplane.

The musically inclined rendered several selections on self-made instruments which added greatly to the program as a whole. This program was conducted entirely by the children, and practically every child in the class participated. It is the first of a series of programs planned for the purpose to give the individuals of each class an opportunity to express what particular unit of work has meant to them. About fifty mothers were present and extended Miss Kittrell and her pupils a rising vote of thanks.

At the close of the program, a short business meeting followed, presided over by the President, Mrs. Herman Dunean. After the usual routine of business, "The Moving Picture Guide" for the week was read, and our organization went on record with other civic and religious organizations as supporting "The Better Moving Picture Movement." No further business coming up the meeting adjourned.

Miss Lillian Purvis grade won the prize for having the most mothers present.

Talks To Parents
By Brude Peters, Church

EQUALITY
Reading descriptions of the households of New England three generations ago, one is struck again and again by the freedom and democracy of family life.

In the average household of any breeding, there was no tyranny of old or young. Children were given their share of free expression with due deference granted to the wider experience of maturity. There was no self-consciousness about it. No one started a movement for the freeing of children from oppressive parents. Psychology was still in its infancy, and Child Culture had not been invented.

Possibly because children were not yet put under the microscope and regarded as a separate species, they had more of a chance to be individuals. And because fathers and mothers were busy at work of some importance, whether farming, manufacture, teaching, or running the house, the children regarded them as individuals, instead of cogs in the machinery of child welfare.

We of this generation are inclined to look back with scorn at the dark ages when children were accepted as necessary gifts of God, and permitted to grow in any which way. Out of that, however, came men and women of world renown.

From babyhood up, the child was an integral part of family life. He took part in its duties, shared its pleasures and was a separate entity with likes and dislikes, and personal tastes and peculiarities.

Today much is given to children as a group, and little or nothing is asked of them in return. Children and parents both have lost instinctively as a result. There can be no exchange of thought between different species, which is what the older and younger generations have become.

Questions That Some Folks Ask About Cardui
Benefit for Mal-Nutrition
Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them to overcome mal-nutrition and to ease many of the functional pains of menstruation.

What is meant by helping to overcome malnutrition? Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "bitters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices—to improve digestion—so there is a craving for sufficient food for the body's needs, and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. This food, of course, brings the additional strength, but Cardui serves as the means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.

Man About Manhattan
New York, Jan. 22.—Poring through old news, one estimates 1936, Stephen Vincent Benet—his short story, "The Blood of the Martyrs," was tops for the year. You read it recently in the Sunday Evening Post, the one about the scientist who got the "pump" and ended his days in a concentration camp. He was resurrected, temporarily, and given a chance to play Judas to himself. If you remember, but he declined, with thanks.

At the same time, in the newspapers, you read of the German scientist who was similarly exiled, a real life figure he was, winner of the Nobel Peace Award. The tag-line to his story isn't known! At least not yet. For sheer story-telling, Benet's tale was a jolting bulls-eye. For timeliness, it braced simultaneously with one of the big news stories of the year.

John Hyde Preston—No writer ever was driven to literary achievements by an impulse more honest.

He is the author of "1776," which deals rather bluntly with certain phases of the Revolutionary war. Always fascinated by the subject, Preston read every book on it that exists. But they bored him. So he wrote one to suit himself.

Max Schmeling—He gets the pain because he achieved the most stunning upset in a decade of competitive sport. And provided the most hysterical four seconds of the pugilistic year. You remember, he dropped Joe Louis on the seat of his satin pants. This first knock-down lasted just four ticks of the time-keeper's watch. But it left the sports world rocking for weeks.

Jim Farley—The promise of "The O'ed Testament haven't a thing on you!" his was the wife Virginia Carter Glass sent Ross Jim after the election. Said Farley: "The President will carry everything except Utah and Vermont." They laughed when Jim sat down to this piano. But their laughs turned to cheers when the numbers were up. Actual count: Roosevelt, 27; Farley, 17; Ford, 17; Mc Farley, do you see horses, too?

Margaret Mitchell—She is a Georgian and is one inch less than five feet tall. But, little people sometimes throw the longest shadows. As witness "Gone with the Wind," which is still going like the wind. What is the answer? Eyes wide, Miss Mitchell says, "Why, Ah just simply can't understand it!" That's all right, honey. You just keep those fingers crossed.

Then there are palms for Robert E. Sherwood, because his "Tovarich" is the best adaptation of the year. Gypsy Rose Lee, because she demonstrated that salesmanship is more important than the ability to sing or act or dance. And Life magazine, because it contains the most fascinating pictures you will find anywhere.

You are entitled to disagree with these awards, if you like. They are merely a personal listing of reasons why the year just ended was important.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood. — Every other movie actor in town has the insidious affliction of "telephonitis."

Let the victim of this malady (or joyous habit, depending on your point of view) get within ten feet of a dial and his fingers begin to itch.

When it comes to telephoning, some of the stars can't take it but they can certainly dish it out. To penetrate the privacy of a stellar dressing room a phoner may have to beat down ten intermediaries with arguments, and then may be told that Miss Fluffy Ruffles is on vacation in Timbuktu. But when dear Fluffy wants a "line" she gets it faster than a censored kiss.

There's a good reason, of course, for those difficulties in telephoning stars. It's the same reason that justifies their unlisted numbers. It's hours. Stars could easily spend 25 hours a day answering fannish phone calls, but if they did they would have no time for pictures and then they would have no fans.

At home, on the set, in dressing rooms, in restaurants, the telephone dials whirl under stellar fingers. Business, romance, domesticity, shopping, babies and "just visiting" account for the multiplicity of calls. Telephone time for many stars averages an hour and a half a day, for a dozen calls "out" and a dozen "in."

Dick Powell, who attends to business, recording and radio details that crop up during his movie working day, has made as high as 36 telephonic trips in one day, by actual count. Now that he's working on loan to 20th Century - Fox, and Joan Blondell is at Warner Bros., his average may jump. Joan's telephoning instincts take form in frequent calls home to check on Norman Scott Barnes, her young son. Louise Fazenda is another constant child-checker-upper.

Franchot Tone had Joan Crawford's portable dressing room equipped with a telephone, and Joan uses it for shopping, telling cook what to have for dinner, and generally arranging her day.

The boy who takes around the plug-in telephone from table to table in the studio restaurant is a literal table-hopper. At Metro, only commissary where the meal-disturber can get right into your soup, Robert Taylor, Clark Gable and James Stewart get the most calls (most of the stars lunch in their dressing suits). When Taylor, Gable or Stewart is on the line, romantic gossip figure that Barbara Stanwyck, Carole Lombard or Virginia Bruce is on the other end.

Romance thrives on the studio switchboard. Jeanette MacDonald while in New York called Gene Raymond twice daily. Once upon a time a New York-to-Hollywood call was cause for excitement, but now you have to talk from London to Paris to stir up any interest among the studio operators.

And even then you don't get much of a flutter—because the girls know that "telephonitis" is incurable, and will show its symptoms regardless of distances.

CORNELL ALUMNI TO MEET AT UNC SATURDAY NIGHT

Chapel Hill, Jan. 21.—A meeting of Cornell University alumni will be held in Graham Memorial at the University of North Carolina Saturday evening, January 23, at 8 o'clock. It was announced today by Dr. W. E. Caldwell of the History Department, a Cornell graduate, who is in charge of arrangements.

A feature of the meeting will be the showing of moving pictures of the Cornell campus and the football team which is coached by Carl O. Snavely, former Carolina coach. Ray Ashbery and Creed Fulton, both of Cornell University, will be present and will present the films. All Cornell alumni in the state are invited to be present.

JOHNNY MIZE DEMANDS A RAISE

Recalling that he slammed out 19 homeruns and batted .329 in 126 games last season, Johnny Mize, the St. Louis Cardinals' sensational rookie, now sends out the call for a raise in pay. He didn't say how much, but he made it plain the pay envelope must be right much thicker. Johnny is spending the winter at his home in Demorest, Ga., where we see him helping at his brother's filling station. (Associated Press Photo)

Budget Revenue Measure Already $3,000,000 Short

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The appropriations and revenue bills are already $3,000,000 out of balance, and were when they were presented to the general assembly by the advisory budget commission, it was admitted today by Chairman D. L. Ward of the house appropriations committee.

For while on first glance the bills seems to balance, the reason for this is that the advisory budget commission balanced the two bills by using approximately $3,000,000 from the credit balance or surplus which will be left this year and by diverting $2,100,000 a year from the highway fund to the general fund.

Consequently, the budget revenue bill, including the new taxes on wine and intoxicants, lacks $3,000,000 a year of raising enough revenue to meet the recommended appropriations of approximately $37,000,000 the first and $38,000,000 the second year of the new biennium—and these figures do not take into consideration an estimated $3,000,000 a year additional needed to provide for old age pensions and other social security activities not contained in the budget set-up.

And if the $2,100,000 a year which the budget commission recommends be diverted from the highway to the general fund, should be eliminated by the anti-diversionists, the appropriations bill would now be $5,000,000 in excess of the revenue which will be supplied by the revenue bill as it now stands.

Thus after almost three weeks of work by the appropriations and finance committees, the score stands: New revenue found to date: none. Additional appropriations asked: from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 more than the revenue now in sight.

The big job of the appropriations committee is to see that none of the appropriations are increased beyond the figures recommended by the advisory budget commission, unless it becomes evident that the finance committees can find new taxes that will produce anywhere from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 more than the revenue bill will produce as it now stands, Ward said.

It is generally agreed in legislative circles that in addition to providing revenue to take care of a general fund appropriations bill of between $37,000,000 and $38,000,000 a year, the assembly will have to find ways and means of raising at least $3,000,000 a year more for old age pensions, since Governor Clyde R. Hoey is committed to providing the entire social security program in North Carolina. Thus in order to make the appropriations and revenue bills actually balance, without recourse to the surplus, which may or may not be as large as now estimated, the revenue bill will have to yield at least $6,000,000 more than it now gives promise of yielding and will have to be increased to $8,000,000 more if the diversion of $2,100,000 from the highway fund is eliminated.

But if the appropriations are increased any beyond the figures recommended by the advisory budget commission—the appropriations committee has already listened to requests for $1,500,000 more than the budget commission recommends—the amount of new revenue needed will have to be still further increased it is generally agreed.

So far as is known, not a single suggestion has been received from Gov. Clyde R. Hoey as to where or how new revenue can be obtained, although he has made recommendations for new expenditures amounting to at least $5,000,000 a year. His recommendations for a reduction in automobile license

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN
 BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 43
An Early Ride in the Park

MADGE'S was crowded as usual and a mob was storming the gates. But as usual, there was a table for Anna. Madge arrived with her chair before they had actually settled down.

"That woman," she said sadly, "may be no angel; but she did love me. Were you there? Did you see it? And I mean that last costume of jade and pearls never originated in any mortal mind. I had known she was going to be like that, I would never have let Arthur go. Because we all know what Arthur is but he is a man, after all, and he's been satisfied with me up to now. But I suppose he has his little dreams and aspirations just like anybody else and it's no time of mine to be going to Reno. My only consolation is that Arthur isn't likely to appeal to her. . . . Have you heard about the baroness—she has taken to her bed?"

"Yes—poor thing," said Anna. "Complete collapse, I believe."

"About time, if you ask my opinion," said Madge. "What she thought that man had, no man's got. But she was the type to get off the deep end over someone. If she'd lived all her life in China, it would be some Chinese. My money says she'll be mad about her doctor about the time she's able to sit up and take nourishment. And any woman that lets herself get come as about a doctor has no imagination and is unworthy of sympathy or respect."

"All due apologies to you, Dr. Australia, but you know as well as I do what my poor Arthur is willing to accept as an interesting pallor is just a bilious attack to you! Mysterious shadows under the eyes mean sluggish kidneys and divinely incomprehensible moods indicate a torpid liver or starved nerves. Can you conceive, Anna, of trying to infatuate a man who is mechanically noting what isn't working properly inside you? I can not!"

She rose as Australia laughed.

"Here comes Mirabelle—with her usual harem escort, including that fat slug Tuttle. No more harm to him than in a cobra. . . . See you some more." She trailed away, signaling to the waiter to bring her chair.

"No sign of Karsanokoff yet," sighed Anna.

"I'll watch you two go and dance," suggested Australia. "I come to these places so seldom, it amuses me to look about and observe the various types."

"Dance?" said Madge.

"I suppose so," said Anna. "May as well go on keeping up appearances."

"Is it not fantastic?"

"They went to dance and Australia slipped away to telephone the Carlton; but Karsanokoff had not yet come in. He telephoned twice more at half-hour intervals, and the third time, he succeeded in reaching her. She spoke, however, as though someone were there listening to what she said:

"I am so tired. I will speak to you tomorrow, eh? . . . A stupid policeman came to the theater with a lead driver—even more stupid—declaring that I was the woman in the milk vat who went to the Vreank's apartment on the night that he was murdered—I can't imagine it—who had only just met the man and had no idea in this world where he lived! . . . Is it not fantastic?"

"Fantastic," agreed Australia. "Did he want to search your rooms or was he satisfied with your denial?"

"After much argument, they went away," answered Karsanokoff. "I think to collect further proofs or perhaps a search warrant—God only knows. But for tonight at least, I am free of them. And I am fatigued, I can tell you. I will not speak any more, now, but tomorrow, you shall hear from me, Goodby."

"Goodby," answered Australia.

He reported to the others what Karsanokoff had said. "I think she means to stand firm. I think of the taxi driver's story and that she will be prepared for a search warrant. At least, I tried to warn her of that possibility. In any case, we have done all we can, now, and can only wait to see what happens."

"Will all this ever end?" asked Anna. "I never realized what a peaceful life I had until this began."

Bigelow paid the check. "Nothing to be gained by hanging on here," he said.

They waved to Madge as they went out. . . .

The ringing of his telephone aroused Bigelow at a quarter to eight the next morning. He reached for the receiver eagerly and called, "Hello!" rather crossly and in a hoarse voice unlike his own. Anna's soft laugh sounded.

"Curse me if you like," she answered meekly, "but I've had to call any major measure that went through quite so speedily."

Mecklenburg's Mercer J. Blankenship explains his political creed thus:

"All my life I've had to try to make one dollar do the work of two usually get only one dollar value two. In politics it seems the poorer two spent. I'd like to see the political dollar bring a dollar in returns."

Everybody seems determined to capitalize on the reduction of automobile license tag issue. No less than half a dozen such measures have already been introduced and the end is not yet.

As soon as the appropriations committee got around to study of the public schools, Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, eminent philosopher, teacher, law-student and politician, bobbed up in Raleigh. Quite by coincidence and not my design—perhaps.

Can't let the temporary lull in firing along the liquor front give the impression that there's any appreciable letup in the undercover activities of both sides—refer-

RECEIVER'S SALE OF COTTON MILL PROPERTY LOCATED NEAR GREENVILLE, N. C.

North Carolina, Pitt County. In the Superior Court. Greenville Spinners, Incorporated, vs. Greenville Cotton Mills, Incorporated.

Notice of Sale

By virtue of authority vested in me by that decree of His Honor, J. Paul Prizzelle, Resident Judge of the Fifth Judicial District, made and entered in the above entitled action on December 28, 1936, I shall offer for sale to the highest bidder for

For the first 10 months of 1936 postal receipts at Raleigh, N. C., showed a gain of $54,577 over the same period of 1935. Postmaster Carl Williamson reported.

Indications that the General Assembly may send a special committee to Greenville to study the needs for a men's dormitory at East Carolina Teachers College is gratifying to those who are interested in seeing the college get this dormitory. Those in close touch with the situation realize the necessity of provision being made at the college to take care of men students and they are confident that if a legislative committee comes to this city and gets the facts first hand the committee will recommend that the dormitory be provided.

Again we call your attention to the President's Birthday Ball to be held here next Friday night, Jan. 29. This annual ball is a Pitt county affair in celebration of the birthday of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the funds derived from the ball are used to give aid to sufferers from infantile paralysis and other crippled children. Seventy per cent of the proceeds are used right here in our own county and the funds derived from previous balls have meant much to the crippled children of this county. Even if you do not dance you would enjoy attending the ball for there will be entertainment for all. Your buying a ticket to the President's Birthday Ball will aid some child now crippled to walk or dance at some future date. We urge you to buy one of more tickets to the birthday ball.

If plans presented today to a group of local business men materialize, Greenville may get a new industry that will mean several hundred thousand dollars additional payrolls here annually. At this stage, of course, the coming of the industry is an uncertainty but at least the local group has gone far enough to invite officials of the company to visit Greenville, look over the community and furnish further details and data as to requirements for establishing the plant here. More industries with regular payrolls would mean much to the business life of this community and if the proposal now under consideration is found to be sound, local business men should make every effort to have the company locate here.

PENSIONS BILL IS PRESENTED

Barker of Durham Offers Measure in Lower House

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—Opposition to the thought that Old Age Assistance is a "Dole" or "Charity" is behind the Old Age Assistance bill introduced yesterday in the House of Representatives by Geo. G. Barker.

The measure, Mr. Barker said, has full endorsement of the "Old Age Pension Clubs," a unit of which is in existence in practically every county in North Carolina.

It is essentially different from the bill already in the House hopper and from the Administration's proposed bill, in that it does not provide for use of existing agencies in its administration and in that it puts the entire burden of providing assistance upon the state.

The bill in brief provides for Old Age Assistance to those over 65 who are in need and who have been residents of the state for at least five of the nine years next preceding the date of their application. A maximum of $15 monthly payment is provided, except for Confederate veterans and widows of veterans, for whom a maximum of $30 monthly is provided.

The bill creates a state Old Age Assistance commission of five members, who shall serve for 6 years. Only the chairman would be a full time man. He would receive $3,000 annually.

The state commission would appoint a Director in every county of the state, whose duty it would be to receive and pass upon every application for assistance. Appeal to the state commission is provided for those whose applications are rejected in the county.

ANOTHER CUP FOR PATTY BERG

Patty Berg, the sensational girl-golfer from Minneapolis, won the 1937 Augusta Women Titleholders' tournament on the strength of a 240 score for 54 holes—three strokes lower than that of Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta. OPPOSE BOOST IN AUTO TAGS

Solons From Rural Counties Fighting Reduction

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—Opposition to any further reduction in automobile license tag prices is increasing among members of the general assembly from rural counties, despite the fact that more and more bills are being introduced to reduce the cost of licenses.

The reason for this is that more and more members of the general assembly are becoming convinced that the chances for getting any additional highway money for use on the secondary roads will be reduced to zero if the cost of license tags is further reduced.

A the present time all of the revenue derived from the gasoline tax is required to take care of the debt service, amounting to $5,000,000 a year of the maintenance of the state system and the highway department and the amount needed to match Federal Aid grants for new construction, with the result that whatever is available for secondary or county road maintenance comes from the revenue from the sale of automobile licenses. If the cost of automobile licenses is reduced, this will reduce the amount available for secondary road maintenance by an equal amount, it is pointed out.

Five or six bills have already been introduced in the house or senate to reduce in the house or senate, while one bill just introduced in the senate would reduce the license fees on all trucks 50 per cent, provided the trucks are not driven outside the county in which they are licensed.

It is estimated that a reduction of 50 per cent in passenger car licenses alone would reduce the highway revenue about $3,000,000 a year and thus reduce the amount available for maintenance and construction of secondary or county roads, by $3,000,000 a year, which is about the amount now being spent on them, according to estimates obtained from the highway commission today.

SEEK PROTECT N. C. CHILDREN

Act Designed as Substitute for Labor Amendment

Raleigh, Jan. 22—The Child Labor law introduced in the Senate Thursday is designed to give North Carolina's children adequate protection whether or not the federal Child Labor amendment is adopted, in the opinion of Mrs. E. L. McKee, only woman member of the upper house.

Frankly skeptical of the amendment's advantages and convinced it has little or no chance to be ratified in North Carolina, Mrs. McKee is attempting to put the state in the list of those which have enacted the most enlightened and humane laws on the subject of employment of minors.

It differs from the present North Carolina law principally in that it raises the minimum age for employment from 14 to 16; yet it retains the same provisions which permit youngsters to distribute newspapers, periodicals and do certain other types of work outside school hours.

Children from 14 to 16 are too young to be employed in industry," said Mrs. McKee, "and this bill is designed to protect them."

She expressed the opinion that the great majority of industrial employers in the state are in sympathy with child labor legislation of the sort she proposes and predicted that the measure will pass the Senate without a great show of opposition.

Loan Association To Hold Meeting Here Next Monday

Stockholders of Pitt National Farm Loan Association to Gather at Court House

The Federal Land Bank of Columbia will be represented at the annual meeting of the stockholders of Pitt National Farm Loan Association by Julius R. Clarke, vice president and secretary of the bank, and T. M. Baker, Assistant Secretary, on Monday in the Court House.

These two officials are outstanding in their services to the bank in upholding its policies. It is hoped that stockholders, through Pitt National Farm Loan Association, directly of the bank, and of the Land Bank Commission will attend this meeting, hear these men and learn more of the bank, its activities and purposes.

The Federal Land Bank of Columbia has made through Pitt National Farm Loan Association long term loans aggregating $161,600. These loans now bear interest at a rate of 3 1/2 per cent per annum with curtailment of 5 per cent of principal per annum. In addition to the association loans, the bank has made through this association direct loans aggregating $12,000 at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent per annum and a curtailment of principal of 5 per cent per annum.

And, in addition to these loans, the Land Bank Commissioner has made loans through this association aggregating $317,120 at an interest rate of 5 per cent per annum with 10 per cent annual curtailment of principal. Through this association directly and indirectly, 279 loans to farmers in the aggregate amount of $52,230 have been made. To this date there has been no loss to the bank on any of these loans. This statement is based on information given by F. M. Wooten, Secretary-Treasurer of the association.

Encouraged Over Plans To Secure Boys' Dormitory

Special Legislative Committee Expected to Come Here to Investigate Feasibility

President Meadows returned from Raleigh greatly encouraged because of the spirit in which his request for a boys' dormitory was received at the public hearing before the joint committee of the General Assembly last night.

A special committee of the legislature will come to Greenville soon to determine whether or not they should recommend a boys' dormitory, and Dr. Meadows believes that this shows "that something definite was gained, Senator E. G. Branagan also spoke in behalf of the College, making a strong plea for the boys' dormitory. The amount already recommended for this College for the coming biennium Dr. Meadows says, is more than that allotted to any other state educational institution in proportion to the amount asked for, and that shows a friendly spirit, he thinks.

Among those on the committee to which Dr. Meadows presented his request for additional funds for the College, were the Governor, the director of the budget, and members appointed by the State Council. Preceding Dr. Meadows in the hearing were President Graham and other representatives from the University of North Carolina and those from Western State Teachers College, Oulowhise.

Warden Explains Changes in Rules On Inland Fishing

State Divided Into Two Zones, Dividing Point Being at Dare-Hyde County Line

A memorandum from the division of game and inland fisheries of the State Department of Conservation and Development to the local county protector was received here today setting forth changes in rules and regulations in regard to fishing.

It stated that it shall be unlawful for any person to set fish traps, seines or baskets or to take or kill fish in any of the waters of North Carolina designated as inland fishing waters by any means other than hook and line, rod and reel or by casting.

It provides further that shad and herring may be taken with skin or gill nets of not less size bar than one and one-half inches on Friday and Saturday of each week between January 20 and April 15 in a number of counties including Pitt.

The memorandum also provides that catfish, carp, suckers and gar may be taken by seine under supervision of the county game and fish protector from certain muddy waters designated by the Department of Conservation and Development during July and August.

The State was divided into two zones, the dividing point being Long Shoal, which is situated off the point where Dare and Hyde counties meet in the Pamlico Sound. All waters north of this line and extending north to waters north of this line were classified in the northern zone; likewise, all waters south of this line were classified in the southern zone. The season set for gill nets in the northern zone was from February 5 to May 1 and in the southern zone from January 20 to April 15. These dates are inclusive.

BOTH STATE AND COUNTIES BLANNED IN ROW ON BUSES

could be found spent to increase their salaries, rather than to buy new school buses.

Two years ago both State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde R. Erwin and the State School Commission told the appropriations committee that at least 1,000 old school buses should be retired from service before the beginning of the 1935-36 school year. They pointed out that there were at least 2,000 buses in use at that time purchased before the State School Commission and Division of Purchase and Contract developed and insisted upon safety bodies and reinforced body construction and that many of these buses had been in use since 1915, were worn out and unsafe and should be retired.

But the teachers and superintendents were so interested in getting their salaries increased and applying so much pressure to the general assembly to get their pay boosted, while virtually no one said anything about the need for new buses to get the children to school so the teachers could teach them, that the requests of the School Commission were virtually ignored. As a result, the teachers got the larger appropriation for salaries, but the appropriation for school buses was cut to $400,000 a year, or less than half the amount that was actually needed.

As a result, the school commission has been able to supply only about 900 new buses in two years, when it should have replaced 900 the first year at least, 900 the second year. This is also the reason why so many school buses have gone to pieces during the last few months.

For the counties are now operating—or trying to operate—at least 1,000 buses now which should have been replaced during the past two years. In addition, the school transportation system needs at least 500 new buses which the counties should have purchased in order to relieve congestion and overcrowding of buses.

For in any county where either the superintendent or the school patrons complain of overcrowded buses, the fault is that of the county superintendent, the county school board and of the county commissioners. A majority of the counties have observed the law and provided the additional buses needed. But in others, where the officials have taken the position it was the duty of the state to supply the new buses regardless of the law and if they stirred up enough talk they could force the state to buy them anyway, the buses have become badly overcrowded. In some counties, superintendents have apparently sought what ever extra funds they could get from the county commissioners to supplement teachers salaries rather than to supply new buses to relieve congestion.

When the school people get as interested in buses as they are in higher salaries, there will be more buses, but not before, is the belief here.

tangibles. The 17 counties already having liquor control and liquor stores naturally do not like this idea and want to keep all their revenue for themselves.

Most of these counties would lose very little county revenue as a result of the imposition of a state tax on intangibles.

But the big Piedmont and western counties which are going to hold out for a state liquor control bill, with the state getting some of the profits or no liquor at all, almost have the whip-hand. For they can join with the "bone dries" at almost any time and pass a bill closing all the county liquor stores in the 17 "wet" counties, if they refuse to play ball.

SOLID MAHOGANY
STRAIGHT 100 PROOF
The label on mahogany furniture should tell you whether it's solid or veneered (thin layer of mahogany over layers of other woods).

TWO THINGS TO LOOK FOR ON A WHISKEY LABEL

1. The type of whiskey... blend or straight
2. The "proof"...

These statements on the label are dependable guides to the kind of whiskey you want.

The words "straight whiskey" on a label tell you that here is a bottle of "all whiskey" and "all one kind of whiskey." The "proof" printed on the label tells you the strength of the whiskey.

On a bottle of Old Mr. Boston Straight Whiskey these two things mean extra value for your money. It's 100 proof... full strength. And when you taste it you find it's tops in silky smoothness and full, rich flavor because its higher proof delivers more whiskey taste.

When you buy whiskey, get your full money's worth. Remember... you need so much less of this whiskey in a highball that you get at least two extra highballs from every bottle. Ask for Old Mr. Boston 100 Proof Straight Whiskey.
