

The Flood Sufferers Need Your Assistance. Make Your Contribution Now.

With 350,000 persons already homeless as a result of the floods in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and surrounding territory, every available relief agency is being taxed to the limit and the wholehearted support of citizens throughout the nation is necessary if suffering in the flood area is to be held to the minimum. Each report from the area brings news of further disaster and it appears that the end is not yet in sight. Saturday morning the local chapter of the American Red Cross received a request from national headquarters that this community raise $400 immediately for use in flood relief work. The request for this sum was based on the needs of Friday night's survey and since that time the situation has grown worse, making it possible that even more than the first quota may be asked (Continued on Editorial Page)

CONGRESSMEN HOLDING UP ON BIG PROBLEMS

Hesitant to Grapple with Session's Knotty Duties

CONGRESS NOW IN FOURTH WEEK

More Definite Recommendations From President Awaited By New Dealers

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Congress, entering its fourth week, showed a distinct hesitance today to grapple with the session's major problems, particularly the wage and hour issue without more definite recommendations from President Roosevelt.

The Chief Executive talked in general terms about his program in his annual message and in his inaugural address. If he has worked out his proposals in detail he has not informed his congressional chieftains.

Republican House members will meet tonight to map the minority's program.

Since the administration program has not been outlined, they will define their discussions to basic questions.

The Senate has met 10 hours in three weeks and the House little more. Many committees have not held a session.

On the wage and hour issue many members forecast no final action would be taken until the Supreme Court ruled on the constitutionality of the Wagner labor law.

Senator O'Mahoney (D. Wyoming) stepped out today with hearings on his proposal to require federal charters for corporations operating in inter-state commerce. He has received no encouragement from the White House.

The Senate was in recess today, but Speaker Bankhead said the House would consider the $50,000,000 crop production loan bill. It would enable farmers unable to get loans from private sources to borrow for seed and crop production.

The House is expected to take up tomorrow President Roosevelt's request for $780,000,000 to continue relief until June 30.

Episcopal Church Leaders To Speak On Program Here

Diocesan Convention of Woman's Auxiliary to Be Held in Greenville This Week

The Diocesan Convention of the Woman's Auxiliary will bring to Greenville this week several widely recognized leaders in the Episcopal Church throughout the United States.

The Right Reverend Thomas C. Darst, D. D., well known here as the Bishop of East Carolina, is also President of the Province of Seewanee (composed of nine Southern states), was originator of the Bishop's Crusade and Chairman of that church-wide movement, and has served on numerous committees with representatives of other communions. Mrs. Fred L. Outland who, as president of the Woman's Auxiliary in this diocese for the past five years, has done a most constructive piece of work, is also chairman of the National Committee on Women's Work of the Forward Movement which is nationwide in its scope of activities.

The "Living Church," a leading periodical of the Episcopal church published in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in its selection of leaders for the year, has cited Mrs. Outland as one of the three outstanding women in the Episcopal church in the United States.

The Reverend Arthur H. Sherman, D. D., S. T. D., of Cincinnati, now on the staff of the Forward Movement Commission, is in demand as a speaker throughout the country and is recognized as one with a vital message. Dr. Sherman's long and varied experience as a missionary in China furnished a valuable background for the several books he has published on Christianity in the Orient. Perhaps his best known book is "Christ and the Modern World."

MDIVANI HELD ON CONSPIRACY

Brother of Marrying Princes Linked With Soviet Plot

Moscow, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Bydy Mdivani, identified by Soviet officers as the brother of the "marrying Mdivanis" was arrested today after having been implicated as a conspirator with 17 ousted communist officials on trial on treason charges.

Mdivani, a former Soviet commercial attache at Paris and known as a disciple of Leon Trotsky before the now banished Bolshevik fell from favor was said to be a prisoner at Tiflis, Ga.

Georgia republic is in the union of Soviet Socialist Republic, where in Tsarist days the Mdivani family were princes of the realm.

Evening Services Conducted Sunday Widely Attended

Largest Crowd Yet on Hand For Joint Meeting at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church

The largest crowd yet to attend a Sunday evening union service here gathered at Jarvis Memorial Methodist church last night, heard the sermon and joined in the services with song and prayer.

Rev. J. R. Potts, who preached the sermon, had for his text: "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?"—Matthew 27:22.

The minister painted a word picture for the congregation, showing Christ at the last supper in that upper room in Jerusalem, in the Garden of Gethsemane, where He communed with His Father, His disciples asleep, His agonizing prayer, His thrilling words, "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt," the mob led by Judas Iscariot, the arrest, the mock trial, the sentence to the cross.

The preacher dwelt at some length upon the two scenes of Christ before Pilate and then Pilate before Christ. "In the first scene," said he, "The Son of God stood before a Roman Pontifex for judgment. The embodiment of purity face to face with depravity incarnate. One, the representative of justice, Godliness, upright living; the other a cruel, unjust, inhuman tyrant. Stainless innocence before flagrant guilt. Infinite Mercy before atrocious cruelty."

"In the second scene Pilate stood before Christ," said the speaker. "Pilate now stands where Innocence holds sway, where truth which he tried to bury in the grave rises and witnesses against him, and points her fingers at his conscience, once dead, but now aroused. He stands before a throne where Justice holds the scepter. He must account for his earthly life before the judgment bar of God."

In conclusion the minister said: "The scenes of Christ before Pilate and Pilate before Christ has been presented because it is a true picture in life today. The question: 'What shall I do with Jesus?' is a question which gives expression to Life's greatest problem. Pilate had no interest in Jesus, and yet he was compelled to make a decision. So it is today. Every man must make a decision and his destiny depends upon what he decides."

TAXES REMAIN BIGGEST TASK OF ASSEMBLY

Legislators Gather For Fourth Week of Session

HEARINGS HELD BY COMMITTEES

Neither House Scheduled for Day-Time Work, But Various Groups at Work

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Taxes, the number one problem of the general assembly, continued to hold the spotlight today as legislators gathered for the fourth week of the session.

Neither house meets until tonight, but sub-committees met to continue their studies of various tax proposals and objections to them laid before the joint finance committees.

The full finance committee, confronted with prospective record appropriations and a party pledge to modify the sales tax, will not meet until tomorrow.

The sales tax sub-group met preparatory to making its final report. The intangibles sub-committee will meet this afternoon. The chain store tax sub-committee will meet tonight.

The joint appropriations committee, which have heard requests to boost record budget commission recommendations of $70,000,000 annually by $6,000,000, not including a requested $5,000,000 for permanent improvements, will begin executive sessions tomorrow.

Besides the finance and revenue groups, the other committees will be busy during the week.

House judiciary number one will hold a public hearing Thursday on the various liquor bills proposed during the session.

The senate constitutional amendments committee will take up tomorrow a proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

The joint agriculture committee will resume consideration tonight of the tobacco compact bill which would permit North Carolina to enter into agreements with other states to curb production.

FLOOD WATERS CONTINUE TO RISE LEAVING DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

FLOOD WATER SUBMERGES VAST AREA IN LOUISVILLE

The worst flood in the history of Kentucky sent the Ohio river into a wide area of Louisville. The wholesale district was almost completely submerged. The water was not quite so deep in other sections of the city but 6,000 residents were driven from their homes, schools were closed and the fresh water supply was threatened. This picture shows one industrial district with the tops of houses barely above the water's surface. (Associated Press Photo)

FEDERAL FUND TO BE SOUGHT

Congress to Be Asked To Make Appropriation

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Government leaders tackled today the huge task of raising millions for relief in the flooded Ohio Valley.

The White House said WPA and Red Cross funds would take care of the situation and that an appropriation would be requested when the extent of the needs became known.

The national resources board turned over to the President the most comprehensive study of the nation's rivers ever made. It is designed in part to prevent such floods as that in the Ohio Valley.

The House received a deficiency relief appropriations bill recommending an outlay of $599,717,018.

President Roosevelt named John Page of Nevada to be commissioner of reclamation. Page had been acting commissioner.

In the middle of a busy day the President signed a measure extending until June 30, 1939, his authority to reduce the gold content of the dollar and protect it in international exchanges through use of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

SEVEN TEXAS GOVERNORS SERVE IN TWO YEARS

Austin, Tex. (AP)—Texas is pondering a claim to some sort of record in number of governors within a two-year period.

Seven persons have served as chief executive since January 1, 1935. They were Former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, Gov. James V. Allred, Lt. Gov. Walter P. Woodall and State Senators Ken M. Rosen, Wilbourne B. Collier, John S. Redditt and Tom DeBerry.

A principal reason for the numerous "governors" was that the occupant of the position of president pro tempore of the senate change so often. A different senator is named for each session of the legislature and each period between sessions. Four legislative sessions have been held during the current biennium.

Allred did not succeed Mrs. Ferguson until after January 1, 1935. On four occasions, both he and the lieutenant governor have been out of the state at the same time, leaving the governor's job to the president pro tem of the senate.

Several Persons Drowned In Florida Bus Tragedy

Thirty-One Aboard Tamiami Trail Tours Bus When Vehicle Hurdles From Highway Into Stream; 12 Reported Dead

Miami, Fla., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Nearly a score of persons drowned today when a large motor bus left the Tamiami trail in the Florida everglades and toppled into a canal paralleling the highway.

The bus company, Tamiami Trail Tours, Inc., said 31 persons were aboard the westbound bus which left here for Fort Myers and Tampa on the Florida west coast. First reports indicated 12 survived although several were seriously injured.

Robert Singleton, Negro porter, said those who lost their lives were trapped within the coach in 12 or 15 feet of water.

He said he broke a window in the one corner of the bus and crawled out. Then, he said, he helped all he could to get out through this one exit.

Ambulances and police rescue squads rushed to the scene, 30 miles west of here. Passing motorists aided in recovering the victims.

Singleton said the right front wheel broke, the big bus lurched from side to side, rolled over twice and toppled into the deep canal.

Only one corner of the bus remained above water.

MAN WINS STORK RACE OVER AUTO CRASH

Greenville, O. (AP)—A mere automobile accident couldn't keep Frank Miley of Gettysburg from winning a race with the stork.

The auto he was driving behind one taking Mrs. Miley to a hospital was stopped by a collision. Undaunted despite severe lacerations "dumbed a ride" and reached the hospital in time to greet his newly-born son.

Greenville citizens, always ready and willing to do their part in such a crisis, already have started contributing to the cause. Rev. W. A. Ryan, who has handled similar campaigns in the past, has accepted the post of chairman for the Local Red Cross.

In the Bethel community Mrs. W. C. Batham has accepted the place as drive chairman and will accept contributions in that section for the chapter here.

Stokes and Congleton of Stokes this morning shipped more than 100 pair of new shoes to Red Cross headquarters for distribution among the needy. This afternoon a general order will be issued to all railroad agents throughout the country to accept packages of clothing and supplies for free shipment to Red Cross headquarters in the flood areas.

Anyone wishing to make a donation can do so through Chairman Ryan, Wyatt Brown, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross or The Reflector.

FLOOD RELIEF DRIVE OPENED

Urgent Appeal Made Here For Cash Donations

Urgent appeals for funds and clothing were issued here today by local Red Cross officials as word came that the list of homeless as a result of rampaging flood waters was increasing hourly.

National headquarters advised Chairman Wyatt Brown by telephone this morning that while clothing and supplies were needed and acceptable, that the greatest need from the outlying points at this time was cash contributions to aid in the relief work.

The original quota set for Greenville was $400, but word of this goal was received Saturday and since then hundreds of thousands of persons have been left homeless and destitute.

ASK CONGRESS AID REFUGEES

More Than 500,000 Persons Are Already Homeless and Official Death Toll Stands at 60 as Rampaging Waters Inundate Ohio River Valley and Head Toward New Fields

(By Associated Press)
The White House announced today that Congress would be asked to assume relief costs in the nation's flood area, where at least 10 states counted a mounting list of some 60 known dead and half a million jobless.

Deepening rivers, menaced by heavy rains in their sources and tributaries, pushed threats of new disasters toward many communities.

With the metropolises of Cincinnati and Louisville heaviest sufferers, the Red Cross asked the nation to contribute $4,000,000 at once for relief, augmented by appropriations from various legislatures.

Flooded reservoirs continued to feed the Mississippi in its course toward the Gulf, rather than of a major rise southwest of Tennessee should the rain persist.

Record river stages studied the rampaging Ohio all along its course from West Virginia through Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky, to Illinois. The Monongahela and Allegheny rivers were rising again from their mountain watershed in Pennsylvania, Missouri, Arkansas, and Tennessee counted heavy losses from rising temperatures of both the Ohio and the Mississippi. Minor floods threatened other states.

Cincinnati's 750,000 residents were gripped again by a water famine and a new threat to their health. Authorities feared water might be available only 15 or 20 minutes each day with inoperative and the reservoir supply dwindling.

This menace followed in the wake of a $1,500,000 fire, worst in Cincinnati's history. Blazing oil tanks made the danger of a new fire ever present. Flames broke out again this morning, but were subdued.

(By Associated Press)
Heavy rains beating down on the mountain water sheds of Pennsylvania and West Virginia brought a threat of still higher water today to Ohio river valley dwellers beset by flood, fire, hunger and disease. (Continued on Page Four)

Expect Report On Road Adjustments By February 10th

Fact Finding Commission to Recommend Course For Legislators on Road Refunds

Information at hand would indicate that the Fact Finding Commission in connection with the Road Board Adjustment campaign, will make its report to the Legislature on or about February 10th, according to a statement given out by Judge Guy Elliott, Chairman of the Steering Committee representing these counties, this week.

The representatives from these respective counties will await the report of this Commission with a great deal of interest because whatever is done by this legislature with reference to the refund to the various counties will be reflected in the tax set-up in these counties for several years to come. Honorable Carl L. Bailey of Plymouth is chairman of the Fact Finding Commission and it is reported that his Commission will meet in Raleigh for a final session during the current week, at which time the report of the Commission report will be formulated for the Governor to be transmitted to the legislature at his pleasure.

Twenty-five counties have appointed a Steering Committee for the purpose of seeing this movement through the 1937 General Assembly. The further activities of the Committee will be determined by the final report which the Fact Finding Commission will make after its meeting in Raleigh this week.

THE FLOOD SUFFERERS NEED YOUR ASSISTANCE! (Continued from Page 1) of this community. Year in and year out our immediate section of the country has been blessed by escaping serious disasters and it is up to us to do our part by giving of our means to bring aid to suffering in stricken sections. There will probably be half a million or more persons homeless before this flood is over and we are sure that our people who have been fortunate to escape such disasters and hardships will gladly share what they have with these sufferers. The matter is urgent and there should be no delay in making your contributions to the flood relief fund. Send or bring your donations to this office, or to Wyatt Brown, local Red Cross chairman.

Make your plans to attend the President's Birthday Ball at the College here Friday night. Good entertainment is provided for all whether or not they desire to dance, and the funds derived from the ball will be used to aid the crippled children of this county. With nearly 10,000 automobile drivers' licenses already revoked in this state, it is evident that a real effort is being made to rid our highways of drunken drivers or habitually reckless drivers. A driver's license is not so hard to obtain but if you are a reckless driver or if you drink and undertake to drive while in an intoxicated condition, you will find it mighty easy to lose your license.

Legislative Chaff and Chatter (Continued from page one) Constitutional Amendments was ready to take a vote on the resolution to ratify the Federal Child Labor amendment Friday noon. It was called to the attention of Chairman Willie Lee Lumpkin that Representative "Pat" Murphy, Rowan, and Representative Dellinger, Gaston, wanted to hear on the subject and could not be present. So the chairman obligingly delayed the voting until Wednesday immediately after the regular session of the House. Mr. Dellinger, an avowed foe of ratification, had been on the House floor not five minutes previously. Despite general opinion that ratification will be defeated, there now seems a strong likelihood that the House committee will report the resolution "without prejudice" and thus put the issue squarely on the floor.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Count Vronski, who is blackmailing Anne Phelps with a blackletter of love letters, is shot to death in her study. Only Anne, Bigelow, the young American from Paris, and Karsanoff, the glamorous dancer, are in the apartment. They hide the body in a cupboard, as a party is imminent. Later Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, remove the corpse to Vronski's apartment. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, a young millionaire who hated Vronski. His lawyer, Strong, tells Bigelow that Dryden saw him and Austrelitz taking Vronski home.

Chapter 18 In A Tight Place BIGELOW carefully buttered a bit of roll. He had been dreading this conclusion. It meant that he and Austrelitz would eventually have to account to the police for their movements in connection with Vronski. For Dryden's word could easily be corroborated by the patrolman who had also seen them. They would have to fall back on the explanation that Vronski was a patient of the doctor's and had been waiting at the doctor's house very drunk when they returned there after the party. It was a pretty thin tale and not very plausible but at least it did not jeopardize Anne.

"Can You Prove That?" BIGELOW looked up speculatively to find the lawyer's keen eyes fixed on his face. But Bigelow's expression told him nothing. "Can you prove that?" "I can't now, I will be able to before I'm through," declared Strong, his jaws working. "For the present, I've enough to go on to be satisfied myself that it's true." "I wonder what you have to go one?" murmured Bigelow. "For one thing, the statement of the medical examiner that Vronski died between one and two o'clock." "As nearly as he was able to estimate," added Bigelow. "He is willing to swear that death occurred well before four o'clock in any case. And you did not bring Vronski home until 20 minutes past five. Moreover, Dryden states that you and Dr. Austrelitz dragged him from the car into his hallway. And when Dryden knocked on the door a few minutes later, you ignored the summons and would not open the door. Why, Mr. Bigelow, if Vronski was not already dead and you were not afraid of being discovered there with his body?"

"If I was there—remember I admit nothing," said Bigelow, "but if I was there as Dryden says, and if Dryden knocked—it's possible that I did not hear him." "He says not," said Strong. "He says he knocked sharply—three times. Then he went back to the area-way and watched you and Dr. Austrelitz drive away. And then he went across and knocked again. But there was still no reply. So eventually he went away. He thought at the time that Vronski was merely drunk. He did not realize the truth until next day." "What he believes to be the truth," said Bigelow. "What we are going to prove is the truth," said Strong. "And when we do, Mr. Bigelow, you'd better have a plausible story ready and a few unimpeachable witnesses lined up to swear to it. That's all I've got to say to you. Good-by." "Drop in again," answered Bigelow pleasantly. The lawyer took up his hat and coat and slammed out. As the door closed, Bigelow's calm vanished and he sat staring before him with frowning, anxious eyes. They were in a mess, he and Austrelitz; no gaining what Dryden would certainly give the police his story and the patrolman who had also seen them delivering Vronski to the apartment would corroborate it. After that, they would naturally seek out himself and Austrelitz and begin to ask questions. A flat denial would scarcely carry conviction. Should they perjure themselves and swear that Vronski was alive when they left him at half past five or thereabouts? The medical evidence declared that he had died before four. But if they admitted that, they would be called upon to explain how they came to be in possession of Vronski's dead body. And how could they do that and keep Anne clear?

He held his head distractedly for a moment, trying to think. Then he shook it violently, deciding the matter must wait until he could talk it out quietly with Austrelitz later. And he went back to the bedroom to finish dressing. Men In Lorna's Life ANNE had on a lounging suit of heavy silk suggested by the tailor's uniform. It was flattering, and she looked very young in it. "Dr. Austrelitz telephoned me before I was awake and ordered me not to say or do anything," she cried, "and I'm half frantic! We must do something for poor Thorne Dryden. But what can we do without implicating ourselves?" "Nothing," answered Bigelow. "Do you know him very well?" "Rather. Lorna Dryden is one of my closest friends. You remember—she was to have lunched with me yesterday and called it off. I suppose this was brewing even then. Isn't it fantastic that he should have picked on just that night to go after Vronski?" "Fantastic," agreed Bigelow. "But what sort of damn fool is he, in any case, to advertise his intentions the way he did? He's got only himself to thank for his present predicament. The police couldn't help finding the trail he blazed."

Gas, Gas All the Time, Can't Eat or Sleep "The gas in my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better." -Mrs. Jas. Miller, Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months. Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and constipation. All Leading Druggists

Ree Leef says Its quicker because it's liquid... CAPUDINE FOR HEADACHE Just take two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in little water. Almost before you realize it the headache has eased away and you are comfortable again. Pleasant to take. No narcotics. Equally effective for neuralgia and other pains due to functional causes.

BLACK-DRAUGHT For Clean System Helps To Prevent Sickness One of the advantages of Black-Draught is that, if it is taken at the first disagreeable feeling of constipation, one or two doses usually brings relief. Prompt relief, such as that, is well worth while. Constipation is too dangerous to be neglected. "A clean system for health" plan has saved thousands of people much useless sickness. They keep a package of Black-Draught in the family medicine cabinet and take this purely vegetable laxative at the first sign of constipation. They say the relief it brings is mighty hard to beat. Find out, by trying it, why so many people prefer Black-Draught when it comes to buying a laxative.

Activities of The Woman's Club Although the Woman's Club held no regular meetings during the months of December and January, efficient work was carried on by the various committees.

The Welfare department, headed by Mrs. Hortense Moye and ably assisted by Mrs. E. L. Hensler and Mrs. Ed Harvey, held in December a community Christmas tree on the lawn of the late Mayor R. C. Flanagan, in honor of him. On this occasion, seventy-five white children received presents and fruit, and, in addition, forty-three colored children benefited similarly by the distribution of presents and fruits through Prof. Epps. Six families, besides, received baskets of staple food supplies at Christmas time and magazine subscriptions were sent to the Stonevale Jackson Traiping School, Samaread and the Farm Colony for Women, Kinston.

In December the Garden club was also active, a committee from which judged the lighted hedges during the holidays. In the interest of further beautifying the town, two plots, where the old Atlantic Coast Line station stood, have been planted. This work was planned and supervised by Mrs. R. C. Deal and Mrs. W. E. Hooker. The shrubs were given by the town.

Since this is a legislative year, the club is planning to sponsor effective legislation for the benefit of this community. Mrs. Alex Viola has been appointed chairman of the legislative committee.

In the interest of better "movies" for the community, Mrs. Carper Lorb has been appointed motion picture chairman of the club. This committee has just begun to function and is endorsing recommendations for patronage of the better "movie." There appears weekly in the daily paper an estimate of the pictures being shown at the local theatres during the week. It is hoped that the public will use this guide.—Mrs. W. C. Harris, club reporter.

College Vesper Service "The Christian Use of Time" was the subject of an inspiring message brought to the college students, at the Y. W. C. A. Vesper Services last night. The speaker was Miss Catharine Wallace, president of the Association, instead of a guest speaker from a distance.

Time is a universal gift, she said, but it is as one makes it. She cited Abraham, Luther, George Washington and other great leaders of the past and present as men who spent their time in doing things for the enrichment of the world. She gave Jesus as the greatest Christian of all times, and told something of his life from the time of his boyhood when he led the life of any normal lad of his age, through manhood and his gift to the world. He had close contacts with human beings, she stated, and went about doing his father's business, preaching, teaching and healing; but he also found time for his own solitary meditations and the service of others.

A person she said, "Can only give of his best when he has developed that best," and she closed advising the students to use their time as God would have them use it, in the service of others.

Miss Madeline Eakes sang a solo, "One Day."

First Church of Christ, Scientist "Truth" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 24, 1937.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 103:5. "The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and O ye earth, the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distill as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb; and as the showers upon the grass; because I will publish the name of the Lord; ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect; for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he." (Deut. 32:1-4).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "Material sense never helps mortals to understand Spirit, God. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity. The various contradictions of the Science of Mind by the material senses do not change the unseen Truth, which remains forever intact." (Page 481).

PEACE ACTION (To gain Peace—find an enemy! That may sound like an odd way to search for peace. Think back, however, to the emotion that swept the American people during the World War. Americans in general felt that there was a cause to which everything else must give way, a cause worth sacrificing greatly for. They were a part of the great surge of emotion that drew all Americans together as brothers in a common suffering to reach a common goal. Thus, even in the midst of war, they felt a sense of inner peace.

If we can only dramatize—make real and visible to all—the great enemy all men are now facing in poverty and disease, we can draw all men together as comrades in the fight against the common enemy.

That is, Peace can and must turn the human urge to struggle and sacrifice for something greater than self, to battlefronts of human suffering everywhere. Here the Frenchman and the German, the Italian and the Russian must press forward side by side if any are to win, with their guns trained not on each other, but on ignorance, poverty, disease, and crime.

Peace must point out the enemy against which all can unite and feel the calm which comes from struggles, without the experience of actual physical warfare.

Suggested by "Wanted: An Enemy"—News and Observer, January 5.

GROUP BEHIND PRESENT RULE

State Committee Stands by Absentee Ballot Law

By HENRY AVERILL, Reflector Bureau Writer) Raleigh, Jan. 25.—Action of the state Democratic executive committee in standing by the absentee ballot practically as the law stands now, brought comment of varied sorts from prominent Democrats who were willing to discuss the matter.

Apparently there was little or no change in the attitude of anyone. Those who prior to the committee meeting were opposed to the absentee ballot were vigorous in their opinion that the action of the committee will have serious repercussions and that the party will be hurt as a result. On the other hand, those who fought and won the battle of ballots were naturally jubilant and were satisfied that no harm will come of their actions.

There was no mistaking the feeling of the committee, the vote wasn't even close. Issue was first joined on a proposal to adopt the recommendation of a sub-committee which proposed to tighten certain provisions of the absentee ballot law, notably by permitting delivery of absentee ballots only to the applicant or to a close relative or by mail and by requiring a voter who is sick to furnish a physician's certificate with his application. W. E. Harrison, of Richmond county, moved as a substitute that the absentee ballot be abolished altogether, but his motion met with quick and decisive defeat, a resounding roar of "No" drowning out a scattered chorus of "Ayes."

Then Senator Carl Bailey, of Plymouth, offered amendments which restored the law about absentee voting to almost exactly the same status under the present statutes.

These amendments were so overwhelmingly adopted on a voice vote that no one even called for a division or a roll call.

Democratic party on record as favoring retention of the present system of absentee voting, despite the storm of protest which has followed every Democratic primary of recent years. The really surprising feature of the executive committee meeting was the feeble showing made by advocates of abolition of the present system. It had been thought that a large percentage—perhaps a majority—of eastern members would favor changes, at least.

After the session Mr. Harrison expressed the opinion that there will be increased agitation on the subject and predicted that eventually the Democratic party will be forced to repeal the absentee ballot law. It is thought that the committee's action spells the doom of current efforts to secure passage of legislation limiting or abolishing absentee voting. The very first measure introduced in the current House session was a bill by Franklin's Willie Lee Lumpkin to abolish absentee voting.

Nash Car Sales Here Show Sharp Advance

More Nash automobiles have been shipped to the Greenville area since October 1, 1936 than were shipped during the first eight months of 1936. It was announced today by the Sugg Motor Company, Nash distributor in Greenville. Public acceptance of the 1937 Nash LaFayette lines has been so wide-spread that the three factories of the Nash Motors division of the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation have been kept working at capacity since the introduction of the new models last fall, the announcement said. A large bank of orders still remain unfulfilled. With the year just starting there already have been shipped here more Nash Ambassadors and Nash LaFayette '40's than during the first eight months of 1936. And with satisfied owners spreading the story of Nash quality, orders continue to pour in, indicating the greatest Nash sales for many years. A large number of dealers have joined the Nash organization since the introduction of the current models, attracted by the great public interest in the new Nash lines.
