BACK-TO-WORK MOVEMENT ON IN 10 PLANTS

40,000 General Motors Workers Called to Duties

MAY ENACT LAW REGULATE LABOR

President Revives Talk of Adopting Measures to Enforce Working Standards

Detroit, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Nearly 40,000 employees were called back to work today in 10 Chevrolet plants in Indiana and Michigan which have been closed as a consequence of strikes in other units in General Motors corporation.

Another subsidiary, the Fisher body corporation, has recalled 5,000 more to work in Michigan tomorrow.

Before the world's largest automobile producing company started this back-to-work movement, more than 125,000 of its employees were idle.

Seventeen plants were closed by strikes in them and the company has said it would not reopen them until the dispute is settled.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt brought today the problem of enforcing labor standards by law into the deadlocked General Motors strike picture.

He told reporters he discussed legislation giving maximum hours and minimum wages with labor and business leaders in three conferences yesterday and also touched on proposals which might affect the automobile strike.

One proposal would give the labor department power to subpoena witnesses and documents during strikes to determine causes and make findings of fact.

Secretary Perkins arranged a one-sided conference on the automobile strike today after both she and the President voiced a displeasure at the refusal of Alfred Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors to attend the meeting.

Citizens Invited To Hear Address By Bishop Darst

Convention of Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese For East Carolina Underway Here

An invitation to the general public to attend the mass meeting tonight at 8 o'clock and hear addresses by Bishop Thomas C. Darst and Dr. Arthur H. Sherman of Cincinnati was issued today by the local Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

A large number of delegates and visitors were in the city today for the annual convention of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of East Carolina, for which the local Episcopal church is host.

The program opened at 10 o'clock this morning with the celebration of Holy Communion.

Tomorrow morning there will be the Corporate Communion in St. Paul's church at 7:30, with Bishop Darst as celebrant, assisted by the Rector, Rev. Worth Wicker.

Business of importance will be transacted at the meeting of the convention, beginning at nine o'clock, and all local members of the Auxiliary, in addition to their elected delegates, are urged to attend. They will also have the opportunity of hearing Miss Weatherly and Mr. Wheeler in their accounts of the work being done at the Lake Phelps Mission and at the Thompson Orphanage.

Clothing Store Here Entered By Robbers

Barkers clothing exchange on Dickinson avenue was broken into and robbed last night, police reported this morning, but the robber or robbers have not been apprehended.

In addition to a small amount of clothes, about one dollar in change was taken, it was reported.

Sharp Drop Recorded In Temperature Here

The Tar river here is expected to rise within a week, but has dropped to 12.7 feet this morning from a standstill at 13 feet yesterday.

The temperature in Greenville dropped approximately 40 degrees within a period of less than 24 hours. The mercury was standing at 42 degrees at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Chairman In Need Of Workers In Campaign

Business men, members of women's clubs and others who are able and willing to assist in the campaign to raise flood relief funds are asked to meet with Chairman W. A. Ryan in his study tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Plans will be worked out to make a canvass of the city whereby all persons may be given an opportunity to contribute.

A statement issued by Chairman Ryan today follows:

A telegram received at local Red Cross headquarters late yesterday from Admiral Grayson, President of American Red Cross, reads in part as follows: "Flood suffering has already reached unprecedented proportions. Impossible now name final goal for funds. Only limit must be maximum generosity American people. Call upon all chapters assume full initiative in their respective jurisdictions and mobilize every community resource of personnel and organization to raise promptly largest possible amount. Your goal should be not less than five times quota originally assigned you."

This means that our quota is now a minimum of $2,625. To reach this we must have workers to call upon people of our community who are able to contribute but have not yet done so. As chairman of Flood Relief, I am asking that business men, members of Women's Clubs and others who are able and willing to assist in this work to meet me in my study at the Christian Church, 8th Street near Washington, tomorrow morning, Thursday, at eleven o'clock. A half hour of your time is all that will be needed to assign to you a few names. An hour's time spent in calling will enable us to canvass the necessary prospective donors, provided not less than fifteen persons respond to this call for workers.

To those who have already sent in more than $2,400 I wish to express my sincere thanks for their splendid cooperation. Your prompt and generous sharing in this, our greatest disaster, has been glorious.

Citizens Of Pitt County Continue Give Liberally

Residents from all sections of Pitt county are contributing liberally to the Red Cross flood relief campaign, the total donations at 3 o'clock this afternoon standing at approximately $2,500.

The Farmville community has raised $435, but a list of the contributors was not available today. These will be published later. The amount, however, is added in the day's total.

Bethel residents have contributed $183 and expect to exceed the $250 mark, it was reported from there.

Additional donations were received from the Grimesland community today. Residents there expect to exceed a final total of $150. A drive is being made in each grade of the school there, with a report to be made Friday.

Teachers and students of the Greenville white city schools have contributed so far $178.67, with more possible to come.

Early next week the Pitt theatre will give a midnight show with the entire proceeds going to the Red Cross relief fund. All employees of the theatre will give their services without charge and the theatre will defray all expenses of the performance so that all receipts from the show can go to the fund.

ACT ON LABOR IS SANCTIONED BY COMMITTEE

Proposes Ratification of Child Labor Amendment

LIQUOR HEARING DUE TOMORROW

Bill Introduced To Prohibit Subordinates From Compensating Officials

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The House got a favorable committee report on a resolution to ratify the Federal child labor amendment as legislative attention centered on committees.

The House constitutional amendments group voted to approve the ratification resolution in line with recommendations of President Roosevelt. Governor Hoey has not stated his position.

The joint finance group met this morning to start acting on reports of subcommittees engaged in redrafting controversial sections of the tax bill for 1937-39, dealing with sales, chain store, chain filling station, intangible and other levies.

The appropriations committee continued work on turning down requests for funds above the budget recommendations.

Tonight the joint agriculture group will act on a subcommittee's report on the tobacco compact bill to limit production.

Tomorrow afternoon the first public hearing on state-wide liquor proposals will be held.

Representative Aycock of Warren introduced a bill prohibiting officials of the state and its subdivisions from recovering compensation from subordinates and another to provide for removal of local officials for misconduct, corruption, malfeasance, intoxication, and upon conviction of a felony.

The House voted 53 to 51 to recall a bill to reapportion House membership from the committee on senatorial districts and placed it on the calendar. Representative Fenner, of Nash, whose county would lose a representative under the bill, led the fight for recall.

'No Error' Found By High Court In Death Sentences

Two Men Convicted of Criminal Assault Lose Appeals to North Carolina Supreme Court

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Two men sentenced to die for criminal assault lost appeals to the State supreme court today.

Chief Justice W. P. Stacy wrote the opinion finding "no error" in the conviction in Forsyth county last September of William Jackson, a negro preacher, for criminal attacking a nine-year-old girl.

The other condemned man, Raymond Early, alias Dummy, was sentenced in Yadkin county. His attorneys contended his infirmities led to judicial error in arraignment of the man.

"It is not contended that the defendant because of his infirmities was incapable of understanding the nature of the crime with which he was charged," Associate Justice George Connor wrote in the opinion.

The court adjourned its fall term sine die at 11:15 and will convene its spring term on February 2.

GRAF ZEPPPELIN'S NEW NAVIGATOR AMERICAN-BORN

Friedrichshafen — (AP)—Airship Graf Zeppelin has a new chief navigating engineer, American-born August Groezinger, the first German to have flown one million kilometers in the same aircraft.

Groezinger, 45, was born of German parents at Stronach, Mich., but was taken back to the Fatherland when he was four. He joined the Friedrichshafen airship construction plant in 1908.

Groezinger is the proud possessor of the City of New York medal commemorating the LZ 126's first flight to Lakehurst in 1926. He also holds a Japanese decoration on the ship's round-the-world flight, and the Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin medal.

Get His Wish—Pins

Hassayampa, Ariz.—(AP)—Frank P. Smothers got tired of waiting three days for the daily paper to reach his remote ranch, so he arranged for airplane pilots to drop them off. The first delivery, dropped 700 feet from the house, which he thought was poor marksmanship. The second got within 500 feet. The third crashed through one of his window panes.

OHIO RIVER SPRAWLED OVER 1,000-MILE GRAVEYARD OF VILLAGES AND FARM LANDS

WATERS REACH HIGHER MARKS

Army of Homeless Is Swelled to 750,000; Death Toll Standing at 142 Known Dead With Hundreds Reported Missing in Nation's Worst Tragedy Since World War

(By Associated Press)

The sullen flood waters of the Ohio river sprawling over a 1,000-mile graveyard of almost buried towns, villages and farm lands flooded on to threatened new heights of disaster today in America's greatest emergency since the World War.

With the army of homeless swelled to 750,000, the toll of known dead by drowning reached 142—hundreds more were missing—and estimates of property damages soared far beyond the $300,000,000 mark, completely overshadowing the havoc of the 1927 Mississippi river disaster.

Snow, hunger and pestilence wrote a black picture of human misery. At Louisville, Ky., Health Commissioner Dr. Hugh Leavell, said at least 200 victims had died of disease, attributed directly to flood conditions.

Twenty more bodies found floating in the streets of Louisville lay in the morgue today.

As the flood waters momentarily paused in their four-day rise, by record-breaking heights, in the Ohio river valley, army engineers at Cairo, Ill., directed the labors of 1,000 volunteers hastily throwing a three-foot earthen bulwark on top of the 60-foot wall against the oncoming assault of the Ohio's crest.

Below Cairo is the line of approach residents of Tiptonville, Tenn., and New Madrid, Mo., were told to evacuate the river side region at once.

At Memphis the Mississippi rose to within two feet of an all-time high.

Louisville fought flood, fire and disease with three-fourths of the city under water. Three separate fires added about $750,000 to the damage already placed in excess of $100,000,000 in unofficial estimates.

Cincinnati watched hopefully as the river inched from the high stage which had halted its power and water plants, spread fire, privation and the threat of disease.

The mass movement of refugees from flood stricken cities in Indiana gained impetus as Evansville and other cities prepared for the crest expected within 48 hours. More than 75,000 had been driven from their homes.

Begin Decorating Campus Building For Birthday Ball

Cake Weighing 30 Pounds to Be Auctioned Off At Dance Here Friday Night

Billy Nesbit, chairman of the ball room committee, and his corps of assistants today began decorating the Campus building at East Carolina Teachers college for the Roosevelt birthday ball to be held Friday night.

Nesbit, display and advertising manager of Blount-Harvey company, is being aided in the task by the Junior Woman's club of the city.

Additional funds will be raised by the event through the sale of a 40-pound birthday cake presented by Morton's bakery. The cake will be auctioned off at the ball and the proceeds added to the fund. The cake is on display at the Pitt theater.

Seventy percent of the profits derived from the dance and floor show will be retained locally for the aid of cripples. The remaining 30 per cent will be sent to the Warm Springs foundation, organized to combat infantile paralysis.

Tickets for spectators as well as dancers, are on sale at drug stores and smoke shops in Greenville and at centrally located places at other towns in the county.

Two complete floor shows will be offered as added entertainment features of the ball.

O. L. Ansler, principal of Boy's high school of Decatur Ga., received his degree from the North Georgia college at Dalton, Ga., in 1912, while serving with the U. S. infantry in the trenches in France.

Prepare Mass Evacuation Mississippi River Valley

HOUSE GRANTS FLOOD RELIEF

Senate Enactment Is Only Major Business Pending at Present

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Speedy Senate enactment of the $700,000,000 flood relief bill is the only major business remaining before Congress this week.

Administration leaders pushed the measure through the House in one sitting yesterday without a roll call.

Democrats composing four-fifths of the membership, defeated a Republican attempt to pare the fund to $500,000,000 and a Farmer-Labor effort to boost it to $1,040,000,000.

The Senate appropriations group agreed to give the bill prompt consideration. The relief fund, first designated to pay WPA costs to July 1, is only one item among its deficiency appropriations.

It provides for $95,000,000 for the CCC, $6,000,000 for federal land banks because of lower interest rate on farm mortgage and $1,672,000 to finish air conditioning the capital and office buildings.

Accuses Japanese With Attempting To Infect Trains

Confessed Trotskyist Plotter Admits Plot to Wreck Trains Fatal to 63 Persons

Moscow, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Ivan Kuznetsov, former Soviet Southern railway chief on trial as a confessed Trotskyist plotter, testified today 63 persons had been killed in "household" of train wrecks which he organized and accused a Japanese "Mr. X" of planning to infect Russian troop trains with badly deadly germs.

Kuznetsov twice identified "Mr. X" as a Japanese agent who, he said, was a transport expert in Moscow and who formerly served in London.

Only One Case Tried At City Court Term

Only one case was tried in City court this morning, that of a white woman found drunk on the streets.

The woman, Helen Jackson, was ordered sent to the State Farm colony at Kinston.

To Move All Persons Along 1,000 Mile Stretch

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The army high command anticipating a much more serious flood in the Mississippi than already has occurred in the Ohio, prepared today to evacuate all persons living near the mighty stream from Cairo, Ill. to New Orleans.

Preliminary arrangements already worked out call for the evacuation of all persons living within 50 miles of either side of the Mississippi over the more than 1,000 mile stretch.

Thirty-five thousand motor trucks already have been mobilized to be used with railroad flat cars to move the population along the lower Mississippi to higher ground.

Secretary Woodring said headquarters for the mass evacuation would be established at Jackson, Miss.

Tar Heel Charged With Robbery Of Taxi Cab Driver

Alleged to Have Participated in Kidnapping and Hold-Up in Louisiana Town

Ruston La., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Officers held two men here today while they investigated the alleged kidnapping and robbery of W. S. Roberts, Ruston taxi driver.

The two were listed as Alvin Parker, 18, of Fayetteville, N. C., and George Morgan, 25, of Garden City, Texas.

Sheriff Bryan Thaxpen of Lincoln Parish said Parker and Morgan were arrested at Vicksburg, Miss., after a brush with police.

He said two men abducted Roberts, took him to a ferry in a nearby parish and robbed him of $12.

Legion's Legislative Committee To Meet

J. H. Rose, chairman of the State Department of the American Legion's legislative committee, has called a meeting in Raleigh tonight to take up proposed legislation.

Proposals of the Legion will be mapped and made ready for presentation in the General Assembly. Chief among these is a bill asking that orphans of all soldiers who died while in their country's service be allowed to attend any state institution without paying tuition. There are 246 orphans eligible for free tuition under the proposed bill.

In 1905 a railroad engineer was dismissed for whipping his locomotive to "make it go faster" through Cullman, Ala.

Arrests in Philadelphia totaled nearly 30,000 less in 1936 than in 1935, the police bureau reports. The 1936 figure was 105,163.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED

With the number of homeless as a result of the floods in the states along the Ohio, Cumberland and Mississippi rivers now above 700,000 the need for more contributions to the flood relief funds grows and people of Pitt county like other sections of the country are called upon to give to their limit for the relief of the flood sufferers.

The first quota of $400 asked of this county has been multiplied five times and this amount will aid in taking care of only immediate needs without regard to further disaster that the rivers might cause as they journey toward the sea.

To date the citizens of this community have been most generous in their contributions, approximately $2,000 having been raised up to noon today, but there are still a great many people in this community who have not yet donated to the relief fund, and we appeal to them to lose no time in sending in their contributions.

Every cent that can be raised is going to be needed and we are sure that the citizens of Pitt county want to and will do their part in providing relief for the flood sufferers.

Don't wait for someone to visit you to solicit your contribution. The need is urgent and the quicker you act the sooner your contribution can be used in the work now being carried on in the flood area.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — If the President is searching for revolutionary legislation to press through congress he is overlooking a good bet in the Goldsborough bill.

Representative Thomas Alan Goldsborough of Maryland, a large, blond, balding person, arose during one of those lulls in the house when lengthy speeches are allowed. He had things on his mind. He proposed an inverted sales tax.

Unconvinced as the house was to such public speaking, it sat bolt upright. At the mere mention of sales tax the house hecklers' rise. Those are fighting words. But this was an inverted sales tax.

Like the street peddler who first lures customers to his stand by operating a miniature clothes wringer that prints dollar bills, Goldsborough just mentioned "inverted sales tax" and then went into his song and dance. He read extracts from authorities ancient and modern to prove that what the country needs most is more money controlled by its people and less by its banks. The inverted sales tax was part of the way.

Under an inverted sales tax, Goldsborough explained, you don't pay a tax, you get one. He proposed starting it at 25 per cent. For every dollar you spend, you get a 25 per cent take-off. Actually it wouldn't work out exactly that way. The retailer instead would be required to cut the price 25 per cent, then go to the bank with a "statement as to how much these bills totaled. He would collect actual cash from the bank and the banker could claim a corresponding amount from the United States

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: Count Vronski, who is blackmailing Anne Phelps with a packet of love letters, is shot to death in her studio. Only Anne, Bigelow, the young American from Paris, and Karsanokoff, the glamorous dancer, are in the apartment. They hide the body in a cupboard during a gay party, then Bigelow and Dr. Austrelitz, the psychologist, remove it to Vronski's apartment. Police arrest Thorne Dryden, a young millionaire who hated Vronski, but refuses to talk. Dryden says Austrelitz and Bigelow taking Vronski home, his lawyer says.

Chapter 20

Lorna Dryden Vanishes

AUSTRELITZ rose and began to pace the floor of his consulting room thoughtfully. The nurse with the surnam hark knocked on the door, opened it and looked in.

"Miss Phelps is here to see you, doctor," she said. "She says it is important."

"Miss Phelps?" cried Bigelow, in astonishment.

"Show her in, please," said Austrelitz.

"But I only just left her at her door," said Bigelow, as the nurse withdrew.

"Something new has turned up," said Austrelitz. "I presume you mentioned you were coming here?"

"Yes."

Anne came in, obviously laboring under some excitement.

"I thought you'd still be here," she said to Bigelow, and then turned to smile at the doctor, "and that it might be a good idea for us all to talk this over together. I've just come from the Drydens'. And Lorna has disappeared."

"Disappeared?" cried Austrelitz interestedly. Bigelow merely stared.

"Yes," said Anne, taking the chair the doctor indicated. "I'll tell you all I know about it. After you left me I glanced at Bigelow—"I thought I would run over and see Lorna. She's been on my mind ever since I heard the news this morning—and we're very old friends—and I thought I would just run in and say what I could to comfort her and ask if there was anything I could do. I thought I could do that without arousing any suspicions."

Both men nodded swiftly. Anne went on. "But when I got there, I found a police officer—Chief Inspector Hagedorn—questioning the servants. He was standing just behind the butler when the door opened, so I hadn't a chance to retreat even if I had thought of it, which I didn't. It seemed to me a splendid opportunity to find out what I could—perhaps what the police are thinking—and planning. So I opened my eyes wide as a simple maid. He seemed rather that he might be opening his eyes wide and acting artless, too, so I was on my guard."

She smiled. Austrelitz smiled back at her approvingly.

"Well—" urged Bigelow impatiently.

"Well—he begged me most politely to walk in and proceeded to question me. He learned that Lorna and I had been children together, and that I knew Dryden intimately and couldn't believe he could be capable of such a crime, and that I was sure if he had done it, he'd say so at once. And that I knew Vronski very well and had no idea why he and Dryden had quarreled—if they had quarreled. You can imagine the course I pursued. Then he wanted a list of Lorna's family and friends and I told him to look in the Blue Book for she knew everybody, of course."

"But that line of inquiry puzzled me, so I asked a few questions, declaring my anxiety to help him in any way that I could. And he told me that shortly after her husband's arrest, Lorna had put on her coat and gone out, without saying a word to anyone—and she hasn't come back. Naturally, the police weren't watching her for they had had no reason to anticipate that she would vanish like this. And there were a lot of questions they wanted to ask her. And they can't imagine why she should have run away, because a wife can't be compelled to testify against her husband. But she's gone, without even a night gown or tooth brush. And her two suits and her grandmother in Connecticut all swear they haven't seen her and have no idea where she is. . . . Now what do you make of that?"

"Could a Fifth Person?"

THERE was an instant's silence as both men thought over her story. "And it most extraordinary," said Austrelitz at last. "Most."

"So did I," said Anne. "Lorna has never been the type to avoid publicity. And I should have expected her to ask in the same light, now, and give me some explanation. And she had been able to get in unseen and unheard."

"Besides, according to his story, she was already killed," pointed out Bigelow. "One would assume that he would have used his own gun, since he had brought it for that purpose."

had that stopped too. A credit commission would handle that job. We could go on endlessly about this bill. Mr. Goldsborough could, too.

But there is another equally important bill before the congress, to streamline federal executions. Since 1790 it has been the federal custom to hang its condemned men. A new bill, introduced by Senator Ashurst of Arizona at the request of the justice department, would permit execution of federal prisoners in the manner in use by the state where the crime was committed.

One of the prompting incidents back of the measure was the necessity for building a scaffold in Arizona recently to hang an Indian while a business-like, nearby lethal gas chamber was idle.

LEGISLATIVE CHAFF and CHATTER

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Jan. 27.—So, body has the "work" program of the House slipped that Speaker Gregg Cherry publicly called attention of committees to the fact that more than 60 bills had been introduced and were resting peacefully in the office of the principal clerk with no action by the committees supposed to study them.

"Committee chairmen must get them out of the clerk's office, at least. Then if they don't do anything about the bills they won't be cluttering up the office, at any rate," said the Speaker in effect.

North Carolina diverts 6.82 per cent of its highway funds to other purposes, according to "The Motorist Girds for War," an article in Scribner's Magazine for December. This against a diversion percentage of 15.54 for the entire United States, the article claims.

A table accompanying the article gives North Carolina total diversion as $1,797,482 out of total motor vehicle receipts of $25,701,227.

These figures, however, are disputed by a great many of the legislators here in Raleigh who claim that there is no diversion of highway funds in this state.

To read the article cited above (it's written by Wilburn Cartwright, member of Congress from Oklahoma and chairman of the House Committee on Roads) the United States is still wallowing in the mud.

"Only 373,000 miles of America's 3,669,000 miles of roads are improved with any kind of surface," it says.

Certainly North Carolina ranks well above the average, then, in this respect.

Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell has a high regard for the bargaining ability of the organizations representing cities and counties of the state.

"I've tried to do a bit of 'hoss trading' with them," he told the intangibles sub-committee. "But they're much better hoss traders than I am."

Sub-committee members wanted to know why Guilford county lists only $6,000,000 in intangibles while Forsyth, with the same approximate wealth, puts $15,000,000 on the books annually.

the more inclined they are to vote for some plan whereby the state can tap this fruitful source. Too, the counties are almost as sorely pressed as the state and the law makers are ever mindful of the folks "back home" and anxious to give them a life whenever possible.

As a result advocates of county and of state control are growing more and more easy to reconcile, and it now seems likely that there will be little difficulty in their getting together on some plan whereby the state will receive a large slice of the "heavy sugar" produced by liquor stores.

Even the controversy over taxation of intangibles may be settled amicably through the liquor question, with the counties being allowed to retain the levies they now collect on solvent credits and the like in return for support of a heavier state share in liquor revenues.

On the dry side, there has appeared a clear-cut difference of opinion over the question of providing a machinery act for the sale of liquor in the event a referendum should result in a "wet" majority in the state. Uncompromising friends of prohibition are not prepared to yield one iota and insist they will vote for nothing except submission to the people of the state of the simple question — which they artfully word — of liquor or no liquor.

Others who are dry mostly because they think their counties would vote that way, insist that any referendum bill should include a system of liquor control in the event of a wet victory. This class, too, feels that the more liberable this control system were made, the better chance it would have to dry to win on the main issue.

All these views are likely to get public airing Thursday afternoon when the first public liquor hearing is held.

Everybody knows that liquor does yield a big revenue and the more certain legislators think of that fact.

Every day since the legislature convened here for its opening session it has become clearer and clearer to all concerned that the law makers are facing a herculean task to raise money enough to take care of the vastly increased spending recommended by the Budget Commission and now that institutions are seeking $11,000,000 more than the $70,000,000 recommended in the budget, the task has become even more difficult.

It follows, then, that anything which will bring in revenue in certain to get careful and painstaking attention with the legislators already favorably inclined toward it because of its revenue-raising possibilities.

And so, despite the fact that controllers have tried to keep the "profit motive" in the background of the liquor fight, there is no question but that this feature is becoming paramount in the minds of many.

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Jan. 27.—The proposal to give all school teachers full pay for all holidays, including Saturdays, Christmas, Easter and Thanksgiving holidays, as provided in the bill introduced in the house by Representative E. A. Patton of Macon county, would be equivalent to paying the teachers nine months pay for eight months school work and would increase the state's school outlay by at least $2,500,000 a year, it was printed out here today by those who have been looking into the cost of this plan.

At the present time, school teachers are paid on the basis of eight months of 20 working days each or for 160 days of actual teaching in a total of 240 or elapsed days, including Sundays — or in some cases, of more than 240 elapsed days — depending upon the number of length of the Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter and other vacations. Some of the teachers believe they should be paid for this elapsed time instead of merely for the actual number of days they spend in the classroom and that they should get pay for nine months even though they teach for only eight months. They maintain that the other state employees get their pay right along, including the time off for Christmas and other vacations.

What the teachers apparently overlook is the fact that the state has just so much money available with which to pay teachers, with the result that it makes no difference to the state whether it pays

PUBLIC FORUM IS EXPLAINED

U. S. Commissioner of Education Makes Statement

The Public Forum, a project for adult civic education which will begin operation in February in Pitt and six other Eastern North Carolina counties, was explained today in a statement released by J. W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, through Ray Armstrong, administrator.

The object and aims of the project were outlined in the statement, which follows in full:

I eagerly greet every move toward public affairs forums, whether on the part of school authorities, civic or religious bodies, or citizens' committees.

The Seven County Public Forum, which will start their programs on the first week in February will be operated by your local public education agencies with the aid of Federal support and the active cooperation and sponsorship of the U. S. Office of Education.

The main question for our day is not unemployment, economic recovery or even war. There are major problems. But the main question is: Under what conditions shall we seek the solutions of our problems. Shall these conditions be those of the modern dictatorships?

The answer, I think is: not if we can vitalize democracy and make it work reasonably well. This means that we must create facilities for free and fearless discussion and study of the vital issues which face the mass of adults.

The aim of the forums is to stimulate intelligent, democratic, and full discussion of all important aspects of our common problems. The successful practice of democracy requires that every man stand up for the right as he sees it, speak his mind, share his views with others, and listen with tolerance to the freest expression of opinion by his fellow citizens.

I conceive of such education concerning public affairs as fundamental to the defense of our cherished ideals of American democracy. The enemy of democracy is civic ignorance. To the cause of making America safe for democracy through education, I call on all the forces of good citizenship. Let us aim at full, free, careful, organized, and professionally and impartially managed public discussion of national, state and local affairs. That is education for democracy.

Financial Stringency Aid To Liquor Control Plan

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Entering as it does into every activity and action of the legislature, the pressing necessity of finding more revenue to meet increasing expenditures has become a factor favoring the advocacy of control of liquor in their battle against the drys who would retain the prohibition system in North Carolina.

At the same time that this need for money has driven state and county controllers much closer together, a rift has appeared in the heretofore solid ranks of the drys, this coming about from differences of opinion over the line of strategy to be followed in their efforts to bring about a statewide referendum and thereby, they hope, outlaw the liquor stores now operated in 17 counties.

Every day since the legislature convened here for its opening session it has become clearer and clearer to all concerned that the law makers are facing a herculean task to raise money enough to take care of the vastly increased spending recommended by the Budget Commission and now that institutions are seeking $11,000,000 more than the $70,000,000 recommended in the budget, the task has become even more difficult.

It follows, then, that anything which will bring in revenue in certain to get careful and painstaking attention with the legislators already favorably inclined toward it because of its revenue-raising possibilities.

And so, despite the fact that controllers have tried to keep the "profit motive" in the background of the liquor fight, there is no question but that this feature is becoming paramount in the minds of many.

Everybody knows that liquor does yield a big revenue and the more certain legislators think of that fact.

Eliminating Dryden

Bigelow and Anne stared at him. Both colored guiltily, but their eyes were shining as they turned again to regard each other.

"But you behaved as if you were guilty—" cried Anne, protestingly.

"I didn't," declared Bigelow emphatically. "I couldn't have. But I certainly thought you did."

"You both behaved," smiled Austrelitz, "as if each thought the other was guilty. You were doing your best to shield each other. It was quite charming."

Once again, they blushed, although they laughed a little.

"You see we couldn't be sure," explained Anne, "because I had admitted that I hated Vronski and he had offered to deal with him for me. And I had gone into the bathroom. But there was another entrance to the studio from there, through the bedroom. Just as there was a way in from the kitchen through the hall."

"I thought Anne must have done it on account of the gun," said Bigelow, a little inclined to defend his position. "She could easily have got it from the bed-side table on her way through the bedroom, you see—whereas how would Karsanokoff have known it was there?"

"She couldn't have," admitted Anne. "And you couldn't have, either. That fact has been puzzling me all along."

"Are you certain that Vronski was actually killed with your automatic?" asked Austrelitz.

"Yes, certain," answered Anne. "I recognized it at once."

"And there was one bullet fired from it. I examined it before I disposed of it," said Bigelow.

"It's a baffling problem," admitted Austrelitz. "Karsanokoff wouldn't have known where to find it, suppose Dryden were to find it. Suppose he had been able to get in unseen and unheard."

"Besides, according to his story, she was already killed," pointed out Bigelow. "One would assume that he would have used his own gun, since he had brought it for that purpose."

had that stopped too. A credit commission would handle that job. We could go on endlessly about this bill. Mr. Goldsborough could, too.

But there is another equally important bill before the congress, to streamline federal executions. Since 1790 it has been the federal custom to hang its condemned men. A new bill, introduced by Senator Ashurst of Arizona at the request of the justice department, would permit execution of federal prisoners in the manner in use by the state where the crime was committed.

them in eight monthly installments, nine instalments or even twelve. But that the total will be the same regardless of what method is used, it is pointed out.

Very few here believe the general assembly will consider giving the teachers an extra month's pay unless it also requires them to work another month for it. It is pay, and there is very little chance of the legislature setting up a nine months' school term any time soon, most observers agree.

The belief in most circles here is that the teachers would rather get their pay in eight installments instead of nine, as long as the total would be the same.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Motion Pictures of Today
"Motion Pictures of Today," with emphasis on sound and technicolor, was the subject of a program at a very interesting meeting of the College Science club last night.

The explanation of what's new in sound in motion pictures, Prunrose Carpenter made exceedingly interesting by using blackboard diagrams of a modern sound system, showing how sound travels from the stage and is later heard on the screen.

Technicolor, from its cruder state in prehistoric times up to its height in movies today, was presented by Miss Ona Cochran.

Miss Fannie Brewer, who had charge of the program, called attention in her introductory remarks to other special features of the movies.

Christian Pastor To Speak Tonight On Peace Action

Rev. W. A. Ryan to Lead Discussion on Various Aspects of Subject at Fourth Meeting

The fourth of the discussion group meetings of the Greenville Council for Peace Action will meet in the High School library tonight at 8:30.

Rev. W. A. Ryan will open the discussion with a resume of the preceding discussions. There will follow a general discussion of the various aspects of the subject of neutrality which have been presented. Since so many sides of the question have been presented, ranging from one extreme to another, tonight's discussion should prove to be interesting.

Those who attended last week's meeting were enthusiastic about Dr. Lackland's presentation. Equipped with an apparently inexhaustible fund of information, a fine sense of humor, and thorough interest in his subject, Dr. Lackland brought to our discussion not only a new voice but a voice which expressed a dynamic personality, throwing itself wholeheartedly into the task at hand.

The undivided attention which his audience gave him indicated an intense interest, not only in the subject, but also in the guest speaker. His address at the High School the following morning was received enthusiastically by both faculty members and students. A letter received by the Council chairman stated that no speaker in recent years had so impressed the students.

These discussions are open to all interested persons. Sponsors welcome all persons interested in peace, whether or not they wish to become members of the Council. Meeting opens promptly at 8:30; half hour for presentation of subject; half hour for discussion.

CONQUERING CANCER FEATURE OF "MARCH OF TIME" AT PITT

Once again the March of Time comes out with an entertaining and enlightening issue, as an added feature opening Thursday at the Pitt Theatre. One of the subjects, "Conquering Cancer," is a courageous step forward in the U. S. cinema, for it marks the first time that a picture of such vitally important subject matter has been released for public consumption. Edited with authority and good taste, "Conquering Cancer" is a frank discussion of this dreaded disease and of the concentrated crusade against it. Also included are "Vacations in Winter," a broad view of America's changing holiday habits, and "The Mormon Church," which reveals an ecclesiastical experiment in unemployment relief.

Question About CARDUI

Periodical Pains
"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?"

Each dose of Cardui contains a purely vegetable sedative and antispasmodic—that is, a pain-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve the ordinary functional pains of menstruation) with a beneficial plant extract, not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others.

Cardui is purely vegetable, liquid in form, and comes in 9-ounce bottles, with full directions for use. Try it! Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Nine Pitt Students Enrolled At W. F. C.

Wake Forest, Jan. 27.—Nine Pitt county men are among the 1,000 students enrolled at Wake Forest college this season, a check-up here this week revealed.

Of this number, five hail from Ayden, two from Farmville, and two from Greenville. There are three freshmen in the group, while two each are enrolled in the senior, junior, and sophomore classes. They are as follows:

Ayden—B. E. Garris, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Garris; W. M. Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Jolly; L. B. Kinlaw, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kinlaw; J. M. Mcselay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mcselay; and A. M. Mumford, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mumford.

Farmville—L. F. Liles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marly Liles; and W. G. McAdams, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McAdams.

Greenville—W. C. Clark, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Clark; and Joseph Smith, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith.

The two seniors are Jolly and Mumford; the juniors, McAdams and Smith; the sophomores, Garris and Liles; and the freshmen are Mcselay, Kinlaw and Clark.

These men are taking prominent parts in extra curricular activities at the Baptist institution. Jolly is president of the Pan-Hellenic or Inter-fraternity council. Mumford is the newly-elected captain of next year's football team. Clark blows the trombone in the 70-piece Wake Forest band.

SEES BARRIER TO ROAD BONDS

Debt Limitation Amendment May Prevent Issue

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—The recently enacted amendment providing that neither the state nor any of its subdivisions may issue bonds in any one year amounting to more than two-thirds of the amount by which their bonded debt was reduced the preceding year, may make it impossible for the state to issue any bonds for additional highway purposes.

Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission is inclined to the view, however, that if the amendment is strictly interpreted as applying only to the preceding year instead of the biennium, that it will prohibit the issuing of more than $10,000,000 worth of new highway bonds in any one year, unless the bonds are serial bonds.

Chinese government officers failing to abide by regulations requiring use of native products are liable to discontinuance of their operating appropriations.

The TVA is producing super-phosphate fertilizers two to five times more powerful than those now in general use.

Enjoy moderate and sensible living... and-you'll never feel your age

Avoid late hours, rich foods, overstrain, worry... If you drink, choose the form of whiskey that is best for you. Use it with judgment.

How can you tell about whiskey kindness? Maybe the 5740 individual records now in our files will help you. They represent 41 days of research work by a world-famous psychologist who observed the four-to-hour effects of normal amounts of Seagram's Crown Whiskies on a group of average men.

He found that their minds, muscles, sleep, and appetite were not appreciably affected the following day.

Follow this welcome guide to whiskey kindness. Chances are that the moderate drinking of a fine blended whiskey such as Seagram's Five or Seven Crown will affect you no more than it did these average men. Then, you, too, will prefer: Crowns for kindness, and for rich, mellow taste.
