LIST OF DEAD STANDS AT 330

Stricken Communities in Middle-Western States Push Rehabilitation Plans With Aid of Federal and State Governments

(By Associated Press) Flood waters of the North, unremitting after a $400,000,000 scourge of the Ohio river valley, began a plundering invasion into the heart of the deep South today.

(By Associated Press) The Ohio river valley, assured the worst is past, began reclamation of its flood swept cities and towns today while the South found cheer in predictions it would be saved from the full fury of the Mississippi.

Stricken communities in Middle Western states pushed plans for rehabilitation, aided by state and federal governments, and the care of the homeless. These victims of the disaster numbered 1,000,000. Latest estimates show with $50,000,000 property loss estimates were $400,000,000.

As the crest of the nation's most devastating flood passed slowly down the Ohio, a pick and shovel army of 100,000 men fortified a fertile cotton growing valley in the South against the impact of flood waters which will rush down the Mississippi next week.

Danger points along the 1,000-mile front between Cairo, Ill., and the Gulf of Mexico were at New Madrid, Mo., Hickman, Ky. and Melwood, Ark.

Like a fort in military siege, 4,000 men battled behind a 60-foot wall to save Cairo, Southern Illinois shipping center, from the oncoming flood crest. Most of the city's population had fled to safety.

Several days ago engineers "pulled the stopper" in the great flood valley below Cairo to ease the pressure against the seawall. Last night they dynamited another hole to relieve the pressure on a set back levy near New Madrid, Mo.

As 500 men labored to strengthen the levy near Melwood, Ark., evacuation of 100,000 threatened acres of farmlands was completed.

The big test of the government's billion dollar flood control system along the Mississippi will not come until next week.

Above Cairo the only possible threat to gradual return to normalcy appeared to be the water.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The captain of the coastwise vessel Shawnee wireless last night, saying he had succeeded in extinguishing a raging fire in his number two hold after a fire of several hours during which the dispatched an S. O. S. call.

Carrying 150 passengers and a cargo of fruit and vegetables, the Shawnee, with a crew of 174, was bound from Jacksonville and Miami to New York when her skipper wireless a call from a position off Cape Henry, Va., for aid at 7 a. m.

The City of Birmingham and the coast guard responded. An hour and 20 minutes later the Shawnee advised all ships in the community the fire was under control.

Obiean Finds Badger Upper Sandusky, O. (AP)—A badger, very rare this far south, was trapped by John McQuiston, 17, on the Wyandott county farm recently. The traditional Wisconsin animal is so little known in these parts that McQuiston had trouble identifying it and then was unable to find a fur dealer who could quote a price value on the pelt.

Sans Souci Club

The Sans Souci Book club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. L. Hall on Fourth street. Regardless of the grayness and rain outside the house was bright and fragrant with spring flowers.

The program centered on Southern Speech and Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley spoke interestingly on this subject. She began by saying: "Just as an experiment, a few years ago, Columbia University at the request of the Modern Languages Association of America sent representatives into the South to make records of the speech of the Southern people. Twenty-four speeches on the main streets of several cities were photographed. When records were recorded the reporters were disappointed, saying they saw no difference in their dialect, but the A. Y. press commended the project—the reporters expected the pictures—the same that would be heard on the stage.

"The dialect that is heard on the stage and written in stories is almost always extraordinary in the guise that it has little resemblance to actual dialects. No American is really the prototype of the comic American that will be seen on British and French stage."

She concluded her remarks by recommending this method of recording speech: "It is necessary, I believe, to make phonograph records of current speech. Students of generations to come ought to have the opportunity to hear what we have said. The spoken word cannot exist on the printed page. We should like to hear the speech of the great and generous men who have made our culture. The speech of the South, be it called flat, tense and monotonous, is oh so sweet to the ears of a Southerner. Let us preserve it!"

Unusually delightful refreshments were served.—Reported.

Methodist Students Meet

The first "powwow" meeting of the Methodist students in the College, who have been divided into groups and each group given the name of some Indian tribe with a leader, was held in Austin auditorium last night. They have planned a monthly "get together".

At the meeting last night there was a most interesting and inspiring program conducted by Misses Zoe Anna Davis and Viola Smith, director and president of the College students in the Methodist Sunday School class. The meeting opened with the singing of "The more we get together the happier we'll be." Rev. T. M. Grant, the Methodist pastor, made a talk to them, asking the question: "What do you wish to be?" A short devotional service, led by Miss Lucille Clark, had as its subject, "Awareness."

At the roll call by tribes, the "Chief" and her family were called to the front of the auditorium, and each member was given the symbol of her tribe, and for the tribe having the largest number present there was a prize. The winning was the Tuscarorans whose leader is Miss Bertha Mae Newsome, and the prize was a box of candy hearts—one for each Tuscaroran.

There were 102 students and the three sponsors, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Miss Frances Wahl, and Dr. H. J. McGinnis, who attended the "powwow."

Study Group Meets

The Soviet attitude in international relations was the chief topic for discussion yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the group studying communism and fascism.

It was brought out that authorities differ as to just what the policy of the Soviet government is.

The chief report of the hour indicated that, though Russia wishes peace for herself, she would be glad to see capitalistic countries at war with each other, bleeding the capitalistic system white.

Her reasoning, according to this, would be that with the government in power weakened, the communist party in each country would rise to seize the power there. Then Russia herself would extend aid of every type to establish a communistic government.

Another source cited insisted that Russia wishes peace for all countries, because she feels that continued war would make a good life hopeless for this generation, even if it permitted the establishment of world communism.

There seemed to be complete agreement, however, on the fact that Russia feels world communism must come finally. Stalin seems to hold that the success of the experiment in Russia will bring the rest of the world to communism. But if that will not be led by example, they must be made to accede by violent means, by real "world revolution."

Also, it seemed evident that Russia's policy calls for taking advantage of every opportunity to foment discontent with governments and institutions now in power in capitalistic countries.

At the next meeting, the background of Italian fascism will be studied, along with the man behind it.

The group is being directed by Miss Laura Rose, A. A. U. W. International Relations Committee Chairman.—Reported.

TRUSTEES DUE FOR HOT MESS

University Board To Meet in Raleigh Tomorrow

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—The board of trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina will have as their main item of business to deal with a mess of hot potatoes to deal with when it meets here tomorrow as it has ever had in the form of the Coach Hank Anderson and local self-government controversy which is expected to take up most of the time in this meeting, most observers here agree today.

For back of those who are interested only in settling the Hank Anderson controversy and who are primarily interested in securing "home rule" for athletics at State College, are the anti-Frank Graham members of the board who would be glad to go much farther and oust Graham entirely as president of the Greater University, it is generally conceded.

Accordingly, the meeting of the board of trustees here tomorrow may turn out to be a momentous one, since far more is involved than whether Coach Bertly W. Anderson has or has not been re-elected as head football coach at State College for the coming year. For while the trustees are going to have to decide the Anderson question one way or the other, unless it wants the general assembly to decide it for them, the fundamental issue before the board is the question of how much authority President Frank Graham now has and shall have in the future over the various units of the consolidated university, it is agreed.

Some of the members of the board of trustees are very frank in saying they agree with the State and Women's College alumni, students and faculty members who are insisting that these units should have the right of local self-government in scholastic as well as in athletic matters, but for the fact that any curtailment of his authority over these units might endanger consolidation. For having gone this far in bringing about consolidation, most of the members of the board of trustees do not want to do anything or see anything done that might jeopardize the full realization of consolidation. This is especially true among alumni of State College on the board, who feel that as matters now stand, State College has much more to gain from a continuation of the consolidation program than any of the other units.

The advocates of "home rule" for the various units, however, maintain that there is nothing in their "local self government" program for both athletics and scholastic matters which will in any way interfere with the continuation of the consolidation program. All they are asking, they point out, is that the administrative dean and faculty of each unit be given the right to administer their affairs locally, so that they can hire and fire coaches, professors or instructors without dictation or veto by the president of the Greater University.

They maintain that the Dean of Administration at State College, for instance, together with the faculty, knows a great deal more about conditions at State than does President Graham, who spends most of his time in Chapel Hill, and that hence the president should have only advisory powers over the units outside of Chapel Hill.

No one knows how the controversy is going to come out, however, or what the board of trustees will do. Some think the board will uphold the State College Athletic Council, which re-elected Anderson coach for another year, on the grounds that President Graham exceeded his authority in refusing to approve the new contract offered him by the council.

Others believe the trustees will uphold Graham in this particular instance, but that it may decide to grant "home rule" to State and the Women's College in the future or at least to trim President Graham's authority down somewhat so that the various units will enjoy greater autonomy. Some think that the anti-Graham and anti-consolidation group may make another effort to oust Graham entirely as president of the Greater University. But most observers doubt if any move of this sort is made and are confident that if it is made, it will be defeated. For in spite of opposition from several sources, indications are that President Graham still rates high with a majority of the board of trustees and even higher with the public at large.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT IS PURELY VEGETABLE"

—What Does That Mean?

A great many things can cause constipation and there are many remedies to relieve it, but possibly none more popular than the "vegetable" laxatives.

Among these, Black-Draught is outstanding. In its manufacture, leaves of a certain plant are used, and the roots of certain others. These are dried so that they will keep without preservatives... no other chemical change from the way they grew in "Mother Nature's medicine garden." By their being finely ground, the digestive system extracts the active medicine right where it is needed. Constipation is relieved.

Black-Draught is so economical that a 25-cent package averages upward of 25 doses.

WOULD EXTEND FISH PROGRAM

Results of Restocking Rivers Declared Satisfactory

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Highly successful in restocking several sections of eastern North Carolina rivers with warm water game fish species last year, the stream propagation plan will be continued this year, J. D. Chalk, Commissioner of Game and Inland Fisheries, announced today.

Initiated in 1936, this stream propagation plan brought about the closing of valuable spawning areas in the Lumber, New Trent, Little Alligator, Black and Northeast Cape Fear rivers, and also an area in Lake Waccamaw near its outlet into the Waccamaw river. Through the spring to the fall of last year, fishing was not permitted in these closed areas.

"The results have been highly satisfactory not only by our Game Protectors who have watched developments closely, but by many well-known fishermen in these areas," Commissioner Chalk stated. "In fact, we are so pleased at the effectiveness of the work and the improved conditions in these waters, as well as with the splendid cooperation given by sportsmen interested in the experiment, we have decided to expand the program this year to include spawning areas in other rivers.

"By following out this type of natural fish culture work, it will be possible to relieve the burden upon the state warm water hatchery near Fayetteville, and will permit the planting of the major portion of its output in the waters where artificial stocking is a necessity," Mr. Chalk pointed out.

In 1936, nine closed areas totaling about 75 miles or more in extent were maintained under the stream propagation plan. Commissioner Chalk expressed the desire to create sixteen such areas throughout the eastern part of the state in 1937.

VOLGER MOVES ARE REJECTED

Proposal to Tax Municipal Power Plants Is Defeated

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—The proposal made by Representative James B. Vogler of Charlotte to bring the municipal power companies and distribution systems in the state under the franchise tax section of the revenue bill, also his chain store tax amendment, fell by the wayside in the meeting of the joint finance committee here Wednesday.

Representative Vogler withdrew his amendment to tax municipally owned power companies when it became clear that under the state constitution as now interpreted, the state does not have authority to tax these companies.

The chain store tax plan favored by Vogler, which would have imposed a much heavier tax upon chain stores owned and controlled by out-of-state corporations than on those owned and controlled within the state, and admittedly aimed at the big national chains, was overwhelmingly voted down by the committee after it had listened to the plan as presented by a subcommittee. It was the belief of most of the members of the committee who voted against the Vogler chain stores tax plan that it was also unconstitutional and that its approval and enactment would have endangered the present chain stores tax plan. As a result of this action by the committee, the belief is that the finance committee will now retain the chain stores tax virtually as now written and as recommended by the budget commission.

Under the present law, if there are five stores in a chain, the license tax is $50 for each store; if there are from five to eight stores, the tax is $70 per store; for 9 to 12 stores, $80 each, and so on, up to a tax of $200 for each store between 101 and 201 stores and of $225 on each store in a chain of more than 201 stores.

$10,000 Needed To Farm Logan, Utah. (AP)—A capital investment of $10,000 or more is necessary to assure a farmer a reasonably satisfactory income.

A tabulation of farm record books at the Utah State Agricultural college showed that of 784 owner-operators, 592 received a return of $600 a year or less. Seventy per cent of the latter had an investment of less than $10,000.

POLICE JUDGE IS 'CHAMP' FLOWER WEARER

Marysville, Kan. (AP)—Marysville's No. 1 flower man is Police Judge J. B. Robinson.

He has worn a flower in his coat lapel everyday for 60 years.

Judge Robinson, 86, said he started the custom when he lived at Hoag, Neb., and "I don't suppose I've missed 25 days in all that time."

Committee Standing Pat Following Liquor Hearing

By HENRY AVERILL (Reflector Bureau Writer) Raleigh, Jan. 29.—For several hours Thursday afternoon the hall of the House echoed to the thunders of prohibition oratory. During this period advocates of a state-wide referendum advanced the same arguments which have marked every prohibition fight since the Year One.

At the opening of the hearing the membership of House Judiciary Committee Number One repeatedly stood 18 to 6 against a state-wide referendum on the liquor question.

At the conclusion of the hearing when the last word had been said and the last plea made for the "women of this great state" best estimates were that the membership of House Judiciary Committee stood 18 to 6 against a state-wide referendum on the liquor question.

Opponents of the Hutchins bill—the measure technically under discussion—presented but one speaker. Roy T. Cox, chairman of the board of commissioners of Pitt County.

Proponents of the bill, field marshalled by Cale K. Burgess, generalissimo of the United Drvs., sent a series of well-known speakers into action, the list including prominent ministers, women and educators. All these were heard with rapt attention by a crowd which taxed the capacity of both floor and gallery and which was obviously a "dry" crowd in the main. Every speaker was greeted with prolonged applause and most of them were interrupted repeatedly with cheers for their "hallelujah" arguments.

Boiled down the refrain of the dry chorus consisted of the argument that liquor is an evil and should be outlawed.

Even Mr. Cox, sole foe of the bill to speak, opened and closed his remarks with endorsement of the proposition that liquor is, in the words of Governor Hoey, "Public Enemy Number 1," but while the dry speakers utterly ignored any argument on the success or failure of previous experiments in prohibition, the Pitt county chairman flatly gave his opinion that county liquor stores have improved temperance conditions in his county. He mentioned the fact that he has been a lifelong dry and that he even voted against establishment of the county stores.

"But a few of us, together with the bootlegging element, could only muster the short end of a 3 to 1 vote," he said.

In closing his appeal to the committee to adopt in principle the report of the Bryant Liquor Commission, Mr. Cox asked that "You do not class me as a wet."

Included in the long list of speakers for the referendum were Mrs. W. T. Bickett, widow of former Governor Bickett; Mrs. Lindsay, Charlotte, state president of the W. O. T. U.; and Dr. W. L. Potat, president-meritus of Wake Forest and a leader of the Baptists of this State.

They pointed to the homes ruined and the lives wrecked by liquor and urged that the liquor question be put to a state-wide vote.

They argued that a state-wide referendum is the only true method of determining the feeling of the people of North Carolina and asserted that there is neither logic nor precedent for allowing each county to determine for itself

EVIDENCE OF JAMESTOWN DRINKING HABITS IS FOUND

Jamestown Island, Va. (AP)—From the rubbish heaps of the past, federal technicians are excavating objects which they say vividly demonstrate the emphasis placed upon the drinking tradition by the doughty Jamestown settlers in their more care-free moments when they sought relief from the dangers lurking in the wilderness.

The most delicate goblets of the Venetian type demonstrate the fact that much of the elegance and refinement known at home were transplanted to the forest primeval, says Worth Bailey, museum technician of the Colonial National Historical Park.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS: A shot crashes through Anne Phelps' studio. Bigelow, the young American from Paris, finds Anne and Karsanokoff, the glamorous dancer, staring at the corpse of Count Vronski who was blackmailing Anne with love letters.

Chapter 22 Questions By Hagedorn

CHIEF Inspector Hagedorn was a big man with a pair of sharp blue eyes that missed nothing and a bland face schooled to conceal the activities of his alert mind.

"May I have a few words with you, Miss Phelps?" he asked smoothly, rising as they came in.

Bigelow sized him up with a quick glance, thinking to himself, "A dangerous opponent."

"Certainly," responded Anne, and was annoyed at the slight tremor in her voice.

"If it's not convenient, now," said Hagedorn, eyeing Bigelow, "my time will do. It's not a matter of great importance."

"That's all right," said Anne, with a smile, "now's as good a time as any. Come in, won't you? This is Mr. Bigelow—Chief Inspector Hagedorn."

The two men shook hands, regarding each other appraisingly. Hagedorn's grip was like a trap closing, but it met a grip equally firm.

They followed Anne into the drawing room to find Mrs. Phelps escorted there in her big chair by the fire, reading the evening paper.

"Chief Inspector Hagedorn—my mother," said Anne as she advanced. "But don't be alarmed, darling. I'm not arrested—yet."

"Nothing ever surprises me any more," murmured Mrs. Phelps, looking up at the officer over her glasses.

Hagedorn bowed formally. "It's only a few questions I have to put to the young lady, Ma'am," he explained. "A mere matter of red tape. Nothing at all."

"Have a drink then before you begin," said Anne, ringing. "Which do you prefer, cocktails or whiskey?"

"Thank you, Miss," said he. "I'm not used to cocktails. I don't know would I take kindly to them or no."

"A good safe drink," said Hagedorn, nodding at the old lady who opened her eyes but said nothing.

Answers By Bigelow ANNE gave the order to Walters who came in response to her ring.

night on earth—almost to the moment of his death. "What was the moment of his death?" asked Bigelow, curiously, before Anne could answer.

Hagedorn glanced at him. "The medical examiner fixes it between one and two o'clock, as nearly as he can figure it."

"Really?" cried Anne. "I was certainly with him until about that time. We all were. Mr. Bigelow and Madame Karsanokoff, too, you know. We were all dining together."

"So I understand. And you all left the restaurant together. But before that, Count Vronski asked a number of people to come on to your studio for a party?"

"That's right," began Anne. "Count Vronski," explained Bigelow, "was feeling very gay and he asked Miss Phelps if she didn't think it would be fun to continue the party—to celebrate Madame Karsanokoff's arrival in America—and Miss Phelps offered in the use of the studio."

"Yes, that was it," added Anne. "But you had no sooner reached the studio, I am told, than Count Vronski left again?"

"Yes," said Anne. "He'd been drinking a good deal, you see. I put in Bigelow, and he was restless and he didn't like waiting about. It was rather a let-down, after the restaurant. So he thought he'd go back and fetch some of the guests himself."

"Thank you," said Hagedorn, "but it was Miss Phelps' answers to my questions I wanted."

"Sorry, I thought you only wanted to get at the truth," Hagedorn assured him, "in my own way."

"Good," said Bigelow, lighting his pipe.

"What Did Vronski Say?" HAGEDORN'S eyes wandered from him back to Anne. "How long after you arrived at the studio would you say Count Vronski left?" he asked.

Ann wrinkled her white brow as though in an effort to think. "We don't know exactly," explained Bigelow. "You see, he started to telephone out for some food to be sent in and Miss Phelps went into the kitchen with me to look for glasses and liquor. And while we were doing that, Count Vronski left. When we came back he was gone."

"That was how it was," added Anne, nodding.

"He didn't come and tell you he was going?"

"No," answered Anne. "He told Madame Karsanokoff," said Bigelow. "She told us."

Hagedorn looked at him. "I see. And then, instead of coming back with the guests, he telephoned—?"

"Yes," answered Anne. "When would that have been?"

"Well—" began Anne, looking helplessly at Bigelow. "Perhaps an hour later. Maybe even more," stated Bigelow. "I didn't look at my watch."

LEGISLATIVE CHAFF and CHATTER

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—The counties of North Carolina could collect thousands of dollars in taxes on tangible personal property, which they do not now receive, if it were not for the law exempting $300 of personal property from taxation.

Duplin county will not get the "protection from persons under the influence of alcoholic beverages" which Representative C. E. Quinn asked in a recent bill.

Due and proper recognition of Speaker Gregg Cherry's outstanding ability to conduct the business of the House without missing one stroke in his masterly mastication of "chawing" tobacco was given in recent presentation ceremonies staged principally by Wake's Clarence E. Mitchell.

Under terms of a bill proposed by the Wake printer some time ago the Speaker was authorized to accept gifts not forbidden by North Carolina's general law.

In response to Speaker Cherry's proddings, House Committees Wednesday reported on more than half a hundred measures which had been before them for quite a spell—or which had rested in the principal clerk's office instead of going before the committees.

has a voluminous brief case filled with protests against the levy. One correspondent, a small merchant, describes the sales tax as "Hell-born, hell-bred, hell-bent and, I hope, hell-bound."

It is believed that the various travel bureaus, bus companies, railroads and even steamship companies would cooperate in providing special round trip tickets and tours which would include and cover the entire state, while hundreds of thousands of persons would come in their own cars and spend anywhere from a week to a month or more learning about North Carolina and why it is the finest state in the country in which to live, play or work.

At any rate Governor Hoey is already interested in this plan, as are Chairman Lee L. Gravelly of the Senate Committee on Conservation and Development and Chairman F. Webb Williams of the house conservation committee, also Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the Conservation Department. Watch them.

When Bub Miller of McEllensville, S. C., goes hunting, he leaves bird dogs at home and takes his pet cat which he says retrieves birds and rabbits better than a dog.

Consideration Given To Progressive Exposition

By J. C. BASKERVILL (Reflector Bureau Writer)

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—A national and even world-wide exposition in which North Carolina itself will be the chief attraction and which would bring visitors into every section of the state instead of to a mere man-made exposition grounds located at one single point, is being seriously considered both by Governor Clyde R. Hoey and the various committees which are considering the exposition, as suggested by Governor Hoey in his inaugural address, it was learned here today.

It has also been almost definitely decided that this North Carolina Exposition, if held at all, will have to be held during the spring, summer and fall of 1938, in order to avoid a conflict with the New York City World's Fair, and the San Francisco Exposition, both scheduled for the 1939 season.

While there are some who favor a single, centralized state exposition, to be located and operated in a single locality, similar to the Texas Centennial in Dallas last year, it is being pointed out that there is not a city in North Carolina large enough and with sufficient hotel accommodations, to care for the people who would attend such an exposition.

It is also being pointed out that there is no one location or city in the state which is representative of the entire state with the result that no national or world exposition typical of North Carolina as a whole can be located in a single locality.

Another big difficulty sure to arise, it is already conceded, is the bitter fight sure to result as soon as a suggestion is made to locate the exposition in any one particular place, since each section or city will think it has the ideal spot for such an exposition and will be sure to fight any proposal to locate it anywhere else.

As a result, regular inter-sectional, Kilkenny cat fights are expected to result just as soon as any definite proposal to locate the exposition in one particular spot is made.

It is generally conceded already that if a bill should be offered to locate the exposition in Asheville, for instance, that an immediate howl would arise from Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Raleigh, Wilmington, Manteo and other places, each claiming that it should be located there and the general assembly would at once become the scene of as bitter a sectional fight as has ever witnessed.

The outcome probably would be no exposition at all, since it would be impossible to get a majority for no one locality—and there would be no funds.

But the all-North Carolina Exposition plan, under which the exposition would continue by progressive stages from Asheville to Hendersonville, then on to Charlotte, High Point, Greensboro, then up to Winston-Salem, on to Raleigh, Wilmington, Morehead City, Manteo and Elizabeth City, with a more or less miniature exposition in each of these places featuring the products, resources and activities of the territory immediately surrounding them, would obviate most, if not all, of the objections being voiced to a one locality exposition, it is pointed out.

Each of the cities and localities on the exposition "circuit" could prepare exhibits, programs, pageants and entertainment features which would play up their particular section and make it appear attractive to the thousands of visitors who would come to this "See All North Carolina" Exposition.

NOTICE OF SUMMONS AND WARRANT OF ATTACHMENT North Carolina, Pitt County. In the Superior Court. G. E. Cherry vs. Carr Brothers Peanut Company, Inc., J. W. Carr, W. W. Carr and A. G. Whichard.

The defendants in the above entitled action, Carr Brothers Peanut Company, Inc., J. W. Carr and W. W. Carr, will take notice that an action as above entitled has been commenced in the Superior Court of Pitt County, N. C., and that a summons in the above entitled action was issued against said defendants on the 9th day of December, 1936, by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, and a complaint duly verified, was filed on said day asking judgment against said defendants in the sum of $347.97 for an account of labor performed for said defendants and for peanuts sold them, for a part of which they gave their check, which is worthless or it is not been paid. And the defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, N. C., on the 8th day of February, 1937, or within 20 days thereafter, and answer or demur to the complaint of the plaintiff, or the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

And the said defendants, Carr Brothers Peanut Company, Inc., J. W. Carr and W. W. Carr will further take notice that attachment proceedings were started and brought in the above entitled action on the commencement of said action and a writ of attachment issued against all of the defendants in the above entitled action returnable to the January Term of the Superior Court of Pitt County, commencing on the 11th day of January, 1937; and that said writ of attachment has been served on the defendant, A. G. Whichard and a McKay trailer levied on, attached and taken from the said A. G. Whichard, the property of said defendants, for the purpose of having the same condemned and sold and the proceeds of the same applied to the payment or part payment of the claim of the plaintiff herein, and the said defendant will further take notice that they are required to appear in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, N. C., on the 8th day of February, 1937, or within 20 days thereafter, and file answer and show cause, if any they have, why said attachment should not be declared valid and why said McKay trailer should not be condemned and sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of the claim of the plaintiff, which claim will be reduced to a judgment.

This the 7th day of January, 1937. J. F. HARRINGTON, Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County. Julius Brown, Atty. for Plaintiff. 1-8 11aw 4kws

STATE WILL NOT OPERATE FAIR

Senate Committee Refuses to Approve Suggestion

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 27.—The State of North Carolina will not undertake to operate its own state fair for at least another two years yet, but will continue to have it operated under lease, as for the past four years, as a result of the refusal of the senate appropriations committee to approve the bill sponsored by Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott for an appropriation of $25,000 a year to the State Department of Agriculture with which to operate the state fair. The committee refused to report the bill favorably by a vote of 7 to 5, after considerable debate on the bill Tuesday afternoon.

This means that the five-year contract and lease which the North Carolina Fair Operating company now has on the State Fair and which has four more years to run, will continue for two more years at least and that Norman Y. Chambliss of Rocky Mount and George Hamid of New York, who are the North Carolina Fair Operating company, will continue to operate the State Fair in 1937 and 1938. Under this contract and lease, the company guarantees the state $5,000 a year and a percentage of the profits over this figure. This past year, the state received $10,000 net profits from the fair, while Chambliss and Hamid actually lost about $1,000 on the fair, as a result of one rainy day which reduced the gate receipts enough to reduce what seemed to be chances for big profits into an actual loss for them. But the state got its $10,000 anyway.

Commissioner Scott wanted the state to resume operation of the State Fair, but the board of agriculture refused to undertake it without a state appropriation of $25,000 a year, to guarantee the board members against any personal liability in case the fair should not make expenses. Before the state board of agriculture decided to lease the fair four years ago, when former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus put his foot down and refused to pour any more state money into the State Fair, the fair cost the state from $10,000 to $20,000 a year more than it took in from it.

The fight against the Scott bill was led in the committee by Senator L. L. Graveley of Rocky Mount.

WANTS SETTLE LIQUOR ISSUE

Governor Hoey Anxious for Problem to Be Disposed Of Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Although Governor Clyde R. Hoey is keeping silent in seven or even nine different languages with regard to the fight over the liquor question, there are indications that he and his staff are very anxious for the general assembly to dispose of the liquor control matter as quickly as possible.

The principal reason for this, of course, is that the liquor question is going to seriously impede all other legislation, including the appropriations and revenue bills, until after it is disposed of, partly because the finance committees are going to wait and see what kind of a liquor bill is passed if any, before completing work on their new tax bill.

But another reason for this desire for speed in settling the liquor issue, is understood to be the fact that the Governor is being literally deluged with letters from ministers, W. C. T. U. members, and all sorts and many downright "cranks", urging him to oppose any and all liquor bills, and that from one to two stenographers are being kept busy much of the time replying to these letters.

The facts are, of course, that Governor Hoey has little if nothing to do with any liquor bills which have been or may be introduced, but that the fate of these bills rests almost entirely in the hands of the committees to which they have been referred and in the hands of the general assembly itself. For the governor of North Carolina has no veto power—the only Governor in the United States which does not have it. So if the general assembly decides to pass a liquor control bill, it can do so regardless of the Governor's views or feelings with regard to it.

If those who have been and still are writing to Governor Hoey with regard to the liquor question would write to the members of the committee considering the liquor bills, they might do some good. As it is, all they are doing is to cause the Governor and his staff a lot more work by giving them hundreds of additional letters to answer each day.

F. D. R.'s New Bodyguard Inherits No. One Place In The Official Family

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — (AP) — As the President's new bodyguard, a Massachusetts state trooper has inherited a place in the official family closer to Mr. Roosevelt than any of the other members. Thomas E. Qualters' duty will be to guard the life of the nation's chief executive 24 hours a day. But if he follows the example of his late predecessor, broad-shouldered, fun-loving Gus Gennerich, who died suddenly in Buenos Aires during the President's visit, Qualters will do much more than that for F. D. R.

THOMAS E. QUALTERS Roosevelt's New Guard

He must accompany the President on all his trips in and out of Washington. On motor tours his place is in the front seat of the President's car and he is the first to alight and proffer his arm to the chief executive. He must accompany the President in his daily swim in the White House pool. (And, incidentally, he must be a good swimmer. Mr. Roosevelt likes to play water polo and delights in wrestling a companion around in the water — "even drown you," as Gennerich used to say.) For his services, he will receive a secret service salary estimated at $4,000 a year.

He might be called on—as was Gennerich—to personally shield the President from bodily harm in such instances as when Zangara fired at Mr. Roosevelt in Miami. He also might be called on to punch a crank occasionally.

MOTORING SWIMMING HANDSHAKING Eternal vigilance for the President's safety and comfort is the task of Franklin D. Roosevelt's bodyguard. When the President goes riding, the guard occupies the front seat. When the President takes a plunge, the guard often accompanies him in the White House pool. When the President appears in public, the guard is by his side.

ACT ON LABOR GAINS GROUND

Tide Turns Toward Ratification of Amendment

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Results of the intensive drive for ratification of the federal Child Labor amendment are apparent here on all sides and since the favorable report of the house committee on Constitutional Amendments was brought in there is an undercurrent of opinion that the measure isn't as hopelessly outnumbered in the legislature as has been heretofore at the action of the house group of which Willie Lee Lumpkin, Franklin's extremely liberal representative, is chairman as the best they had hoped for was a "without prejudice" report which would send the ratification resolution to the floor for debate.

Action of the committee, twice deferred by opponents of the resolution, was quick and decisive and was taken on motion of Cherokee's dashing "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, who proposed the favorable report as a substitute for Dave Dellinger's motion to report unfavorably, which in turn was a substitute for a motion to report without prejudice.

EXPLAINS DUTY OF GEOLOGIST

No Duplication Between Office and Mine Inspector

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Not only is there no duplication between the functions of the State Geologist of the Department of Conservation and Development and the State Mine Inspector of the Department of Labor, but the work of these two officials is decidedly different. State Geologist H. J. Bryan explained today, taking complaints of a mining party on the subject.

The law creating the old State Geologist's office and the Department of Conservation and Development regarding to Mr. Bryan says that the State Geologist shall investigate mineral deposits to determine the economic possibilities. The law creating the Department of Labor says that the Mine Inspector shall inspect the mining properties to determine the safety conditions of the men employed and to see that the safety laws are observed.

Counties To Get Portion Of Levy On Intangibles

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—When the legislature gets around to enactment of the revenue bill there will be a provision therein for levying the new taxes proposed on intangibles, but the counties and municipalities are going to get a large slice of these taxes—probably more money than they are now collecting from these sources.

The split, in all probability, will be sixty per cent to the local governmental unit and forty per cent to the state. That's the proportion which Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell has incorporated in a proposed new section, regarding intangibles. It is the proposition J. L. Sumner, secretary of the N. C. Association of County Commissioners, has said will be satisfactory, if the legislature will "lay off" the proposed exemption of $1,000 homes and will appoint a commission to study the whole matter of classification and exemption.

To begin with, the budget revenues all segregated all intangible taxes for use in maintaining the public schools of the state, but that was an immediate roar of protest from cities and counties and it has now become obvious that there must be a compromise somewhere between the two extremes.

Proposed In Legislature Court Probation System

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 28.—North Carolina's busy legislature will have another problem (nearly so far as state procedure is concerned) thrust upon it as the result of adoption by the North Carolina Conference for Social Service of a resolution advocating a system of adult probation in the courts of the state.

Flood water in sections of the business district at Nashville, Tenn., failed to stop this business man's visit to the corner mailbox. But he was barely in time, for he lost in the box tucked only a few inches of being covered. (Associated Press Photo)

ASKS FARMERS SUPPORT PLAN

Backing Sought For Proposed Child Labor Amendment

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 27.—Advocates of ratification of the Federal Child Labor amendment are growing more and more optimistic of their chances of success as a result of the intensive drive they have staged in the last ten days.

They are relying more, perhaps, on the recent appeal to farmers by Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, than on any other single factor except the acknowledged potency of President Roosevelt's plea for ratification.

Proposed In Legislature Court Probation System

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 28.—North Carolina's busy legislature will have another problem (nearly so far as state procedure is concerned) thrust upon it as the result of adoption by the North Carolina Conference for Social Service of a resolution advocating a system of adult probation in the courts of the state.

Principles of probation will be included in a bill soon to be introduced at the instance of the Conference's legislative committee. Text of the resolution was brief, but to the point. It reads: "Resolved that the North Carolina Conference for Social Security hereby approves the principles of adult probation in the respective courts of the state and urges the Legislature to consider measures to make such probation service available."

the same parcel of land that was conveyed to J. S. Fleming and wife (the latter now being dead) by that deed from G. S. Mooring and wife, recorded in Book R-10, at page 147, of said Registry.

Third: Beginning at the head of Hunting Run Canal, at the road and runs thence N. 50 1/2 deg. W. 35-88-100 chains to G. T. House's corner; thence with House's line N. 3 1/2 deg. E. 15 chains to the corner; thence with the line of the E. B. Moore tract N. 2 1/2 deg. W. 17 5-100 chains to Whichard's corner; thence with Whichard's line S. 43 1/2 deg. E. 77 45-100 chains to the corner; thence N. 23 deg. E. 14 87-100 chains to J. S. Fleming's corner; thence with Fleming's line, S. 58 1/2 deg. E. 25 chains to the corner; thence S. 4 1/2 deg. W. 13 67-100 chains to the corner; thence S. 86 deg. E. 18 88-100 chains to the corner of Susan A. Mooring's line; thence S. 4 deg. W. with Susan A. Mooring's line 29 33-100 chains to the corner, thence with said Mooring's line S. 58 1/2 deg. W. 7 10-100 chains; thence S. 70 deg. W. 6 40-100 chains to said Mooring's corner in the canal; thence up the canal to the beginning, and containing 201 1-3 acres, and being Lot No. 5 in the Division of the lands of the late G. M. Mooring, which was conveyed by deed from J. S. Fleming and A. W. Baker, executors of the Will of the late G. M. Mooring, to J. L. Perkins by deed, bearing date December 9, 1916, and being the same parcel of land conveyed to the said J. S. Fleming by J. L. Perkins and wife by that deed recorded in Book V-11, at page 359, of the Pitt County Registry.

Said three tracts of land being three of the tracts ordered to be sold by the judgment above referred to, and the same as are described in the pleadings filed in the above entitled action, and the same conveyed in that deed of trust from J. S. Fleming et al. to Jas. E. Gay, Jr., Trustee, recorded in Book S-18, at page 12 of the Pitt County Registry.

A deposit of 10 per cent of the amount of each successful bid will be required at said sale of the purchasers, and upon failure of any successful bidder to make such deposit, said tract of land will thereupon be immediately re-offered for sale, and said land is subject to confirmation by the court.

This, January 27, 1937. S. J. EVERETT, ALBION DUNN, Commissioners.

ALARMED OVER COUNTIES MAY LOW BRACKETS FALL IN LINE

Merchants Oppose Starting Tax On 15-Cent Sales

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—Merchants throughout the state are taking real alarm at the proposal to raise the lowest sales tax bracket from ten to fifteen cents, and an intensive campaign to defeat such a move is already under way.

It has been the idea of some legislators that the sales tax can be made more palatable to the people at large if it were fixed so that there would be no tax at all on purchases of ten cents and if the lowest taxable sale were made a fifteen cent one but this idea has met with nothing except open hostility and opposition among the men who sell their wares to the public and who thereby learn just exactly what the people really think of the sales tax.

The feeling that exists generally was well expressed before a joint session of house and senate revenue committees by J. P. Stowe, Charlotte druggist and legislative chairman of the North Carolina retail druggists association.

Mr. Stowe pointed out that nobody will pay what he called an "accumulative tax", that is nobody will pay a tax on the purchase of ten or a hundred five-cent articles when one five-cent article is free from the tax. He contended the same thing would be true of any number of ten-cent articles if the lower bracket were raised to 15 cents.

Such a raising of the minimum taxable bracket would cost retail druggists one and a half per cent, he estimated.

As for a "token" system, with fractional currency in one form or another, Mr. Stowe was very decided in his views that this would be nothing but a "nuisance" and that it would result in even greater difficulty in collecting the tax and even more loss to the merchants.

CHAIN STORES NOT YET SAFE

Taxes on Group Establishments May Be Boosted as Yet

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—Chain stores in North Carolina are not yet free from prospects of increased taxation, action of the revenue committee in refusing to adopt a schedule of levies proposed by Representative J. B. Volger to the contrary notwithstanding.

On every foot and in every nook and cranny the harassed legislators, particularly those on the revenue-raising committee, are looking for sources to tap, and it is generally agreed that they are not going to overlook the tapping chance offered by the chains.

Loop hole for further study of the matter and for increased chain store taxes was left open by the Revenue committee's action early in its sittings when it was agreed that action taken by the group in any section would be tentative only until the final draft of the bill is drawn and ready for adoption as a whole.

Which means that whenever sufficient pressure is brought the committee is at perfect liberty to act one day and reverse itself completely the following if it so pleases.

Representative Volger's schedule of levies, admittedly no more drastic than those in effect in numerous other states, was overwhelmingly beaten—4 to 1 in sub-committee and almost unanimously in the committee as a whole—but they are very likely to bob up again, perhaps in slightly moderated form, later in the session; for most observers are of the opinion that the committee is going to be forced to desperate measures before it reports out a bill raising sufficient revenue to meet the spending spree contemplated in the budget recommendations and sought to be made even greater by innumerable requests (totalling $11,000,000) for appropriations not recommended in the budget.

for any person separated for two years or more to obtain a divorce, regardless of any separation agreement. We feel that those who separate without any agreement are entitled to the same rights as those who have such agreements.

Rep. Uzzell, with his colleague, Rep. Walter Murphy, introduced a bill to provide for the election of all township officials in Rowan county.
