CONFEREES IN AGREEMENT ON RELIEF FUNDS

Deficiency Bill Expected to be Completed Monday

FLOODED AREAS WILL BE AIDED

Spokesman Declares Understanding Reached on All Major Controversies

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Spokesman for the Senate and House reached an understanding today which they hoped would permit completion of congressional action Monday on the $950,000,000 relief and deficiency bill.

The measure, carrying urgently needed funds for flood victims and unemployed, bogged down two days ago as a result of Senate amendments and conferees named by both branches have been trying to effect a compromise.

Chairman Buchanan (D. Tex.) of the House appropriations committee, one of the conferees, said they had eliminated all but two points of controversy and had reached an understanding on those.

The conferees agreed to recommend the use of departmental funds in connection with congressional investigations to be banned beginning July 1. The Senate had stricken from the bill a House provision which would have prohibited this practice immediately.

Buchanan said they also had agreed to regulation of congressional investigators' salaries by the classification act. The Senate had proposed elimination of the $3,600 limit now applying to such salaries.

Both branches will have opportunity to vote on these adjustments before the measure goes to President Roosevelt.

Contributions To Flood Sufferers Continue Come In

Today's Donations of $11.66 Raise to $4,732.99 Total So Far in Pitt County

Additional contributions of $11.66 today to the Red Cross flood relief fund brought the total contributions in this county to $4,732.99. While no special effort is being put forth at this time to increase the fund any and all contributions are still acceptable.

The first call on Pitt County for funds for relief in the present flood disaster was for $400. A day later the quota was increased to $800 and later the Red Cross announced that the need was so great that quotas must be disregarded and every community should do all that it could in the way of contributions. It pointed out, however, that five times the original amount asked should be the minimum. This would have placed Pitt County's minimum quota at $2,000 which has been more than doubled to date. Today's figures are almost 12 times the original $400 asked of this community.

Only One Case Heard In City Court Today

In the only case tried in City court this morning, Johnnie White, negro, was given 30 days on the roads upon conviction of being drunk and disorderly.

Police officials reported that "everything has been unusually quiet" for the past several days, in remarking on the only one case coming up this morning.

Farmers of Howard County, Missouri, have organized a cooperative association for promotion of rural electrification.

FORCIBLE EJECTION OF STRIKERS THREATENED

Officials of General Motors Corporation have set machinery of the law in motion to eject "sit down" strikers from two plants at Flint, Mich., in event the "sit downers" continue to defy a court injunction, ordering them to vacate. Thousands of spectators are shown gathered at the Fisher Body plant No. 1 to witness the strikers leaving the building. But the men inside decided to continue sitting pending final settlement of negotiations with GMC executives. (Associated Press Photo)

Definite Progress Appears In Efforts To End Strikes

American Vessel Again Sails Sea

San Francisco, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The first strike-bound American merchant ship sailed the Pacific today after three months in which the American flag was scarcely seen on the world's greatest ocean.

The liner, President Hayes, put out from Honolulu at 1:15 a. m. today, Pacific standard time, the first regular sailing of a merchant ship from a Pacific port since the 98-day maritime strike was called.

VESSEL BURNS IN HEAVY SEA

Coast Guard Cutters Hurry to Aid of Two Other Ships

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The crew of a burning schooner, the William A. Morse, was taken aboard the S. S. Tela in heavy seas off Charleston, S. C., early today as coast guard cutters hurried to the aid of two other ships with broken rudders.

Coast guard divisions headquarters here said the Tela reported at 5 a. m. the fire was still raging aboard the schooner, whose home port is listed at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, and it would be a "total loss."

The two freighters, the El Occidente and the S. S. Regal, were drifting with broken rudders in heavy seas running before a North-easter along this section of the Atlantic coast.

The cause of the blaze in the schooner Morse was not known here.

Rural Electrification Row Gets Into Assembly

By J. C. BASKERVILL (Reflector Bureau Writer)
Raleigh, Feb. 6.—The long-smouldering fight between Administrator Morris L. Cooke of the Federal Rural Electrification Administration in Washington and the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority has broken into the general assembly and hence into the open, as a result of the bill introduced in the house by Representative W. E. Penner and C. C. Abernethy of Nash and D. L. (Libby) Ward of Craven, designed to protect county membership corporations and municipally-owned electric systems against privately-owned power companies and by putting them on the same basis with all other public utility companies.

All this bill does is to amend the present laws so that electric membership corporations, such as those financed by the Federal Rural El-

Writ For Arrest of Strikers Issued in Flint, Mich.

(By The Associated Press)
Detroit, Feb. 6.—Conferees seeking an agreement that will permit reopening of all general motors strike-bound plants through the country met in their eighth session today, still apparently deadlocked on the question of union recognition as sole collective bargaining agency in the 20 plants closed by strikes.

There was no official statement of what constituted the stumbling block in the way of a settlement, but the union demand that it be named sole collective bargaining agency was known to have been virtually the only subject discussed so far.

(By Associated Press)
Issuance of a writ for the arrest of six down strikers heightened tension in Flint, Mich., today while conferees at Detroit sought a basis for settlement of the General Motors labor dispute involving 150,000 workers.

Sheriff Thomas Wolcott delayed service of the writ pending advice from Governor Frank Murphy. He asked the governor to decide whether special deputies or national guardsmen should be used in making the arrest.

Flint and other cities affected by the automotive industry strike were heartened by the Governor's report definite progress was being made in the conference between General Motors officials and leaders of the U. A. W. A. union.

Other negotiators worked for the settlement of strikes at widely scattered points. At San Francisco they tried to reach an agreement in several disputes which remained after the prolonged Pacific coast maritime strike ended.

Strike Foes Hold Private Session

Detroit, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Disclosure today that William Knudsen and John Lewis met secretly in Governor Frank Murphy's apartment for an intermittent exchange of views last night heightened a belief progress was being made toward settlement of the paralyzing General Motors strike, now in its 39th day.

Lewis, head of the C. I. O., is directing the strike of the United Automobile Workers of America.

PLAN OBSERVE 'SCOUT WEEK'

Local Youths to Join in Celebrating Anniversary

Pitt county Boy Scouts will join with others in America next week in observing the twenty-seventh anniversary of the organization.

All Scouts and Cub Scouts of Greenville have been asked to meet in the basement of the Methodist church at 5-15 o'clock Monday afternoon for the purpose of hearing the radio address by President Roosevelt.

Mayor M. K. Blount issued the following proclamation on the eve of the anniversary:

The Boy Scouts of America, incorporated February 8, 1910, and chartered by Congress June 15, 1916, have during the past twenty-seven years rendered notable service to the nation. They have done effective work in this community and throughout the country. During the World War their efforts on behalf of Liberty Loan and War Savings campaigns and other measures were outstanding. In time of distress from flood, hurricane, tornado and other disasters they have organized the effectiveness of organized boy service. During the period of economic stress through which the country has just passed, they contributed in many ways to the relief of suffering, and they have rendered noteworthy service in the flood areas this year.

SENATE READY BEGIN DEBATE BENEFIT BILL

Upper House Votes Adopt Committee Amendments

HOUSE ALSO HAS REGULAR SESSION

Lower Branch of General Assembly to Meet at Noon Monday; Senate 8 P. M.

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The Senate adopted committee amendments to the administration and child aid bill today, but did not start debate on the measure.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to prohibit sale and use of fireworks in Buncombe county and to exempt Transylvania county from the primary law.

Senator Johnston of Buncombe introduced three measures to change methods of extradition of fugitives, to amend the law on "fresh pursuit" and provide cooperation between law enforcement agencies of this and adjoining states, and to set up machinery to force persons in other states to appear as witnesses in criminal actions in this state when summoned.

As the Senate was adopting its public welfare committee report on the old age and child welfare proposal, Representative Cooper of Cherokee announced he had found "considerable backing" in the House for his proposal to require the state and federal government to finance the entire program.

The committee bill, backed by Governor Hoey, calls for counties to pay one-fourth of the old age assistance benefits and one-third of the child aid costs.

Seventeen senators met for 20 minutes and 27 representatives for 24 minutes. The House meets at noon Monday and the Senate at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Christian Youth To Be Subject Of Evening Services

Program Announced For Joint Meeting in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Tomorrow Night

The union service at the Methodist church tomorrow evening at 7:30 will be built around the theme of the United Youth movement, "Christian Youth Building a New World." The local young people's groups are part of this Canadian-American Christian youth movement, which includes the major Protestant denominations.

J. H. Rose, chairman of the music committee for the union services, announces that a special number, "Song of Hope," will be sung by the local high school's mixed chorus of fifty voices. Members of Greenville's Boy Scout troops will serve as ushers for this service.

Participating churches in these union night services, now beginning their second month, are the Jarvis Memorial Methodist, Eighth Street Christian, Memorial Baptist, Emmanuel Baptist, Presbyterian and St. Paul's Episcopal.

Deputies Sheriff Make Two Arrests On Liquor Charges

Thirty Gallons of Bootleg Whiskey Discovered by Officers at Home of Walter Coward

Two white men were arrested following liquor raids yesterday by members of Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst's office. A quantity of bootleg whiskey was discovered at both places.

Walter Coward, who lives on the Farmville highway, was arrested after deputies discovered 30 gallons of bootleg whiskey.

The Cedar Inn filling station was the other place raided and a man by the name of Allen was charged with being the owner of the contraband liquor. Five gallons was found at the station.

The two defendants are out on bond. Their cases are expected to come up for trial in the term of County court next Tuesday.

General Assembly Ready To Start On Home Stretch

Numerous Controversial Legislative Problems Solved During Past Week; Early Adjournment Seen as Possibility

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The General Assembly cleared its major hurdles this week and started down the home stretch with money and liquor problems as the principal remaining obstacles.

The House killed by 58 to 47 a measure to ratify a proposed federal constitutional child labor amendment but a Senate committee still held the McKee bill for state supervision of child workers. The McKee measure has the approval of Governor Hoey and the State Department of Labor.

Two tobacco compact bills were passed. One authorizing North Carolina to enter into compacts with other tobacco-growing states, was fired upon in the House on the grounds it did not protect the "little man" and contained loop-holes. The House vote was 91 to 11. The measure passed the Senate unanimously on Friday, a supplementary bill, creating the right of appeal and challenge was passed by the legislature under suspension of rules. Proponents of the original bill had agreed with advocates of the supplementary instrument not to contest either action in the Senate.

Prohibitionists of the state, whose request for a state-wide referendum was denied by House judiciary number one, rallied their forces in preparation for a march on Raleigh next Thursday when Senate judiciary number one will consider a substitute to provide county option. The measure passed the House 61-51.

A state referendum measure, under rules, cannot be considered again this session unless requested by two-thirds of the membership of the House.

The finance committee expects a revenue of $750,000 from the retail of whiskey—emanating from a seven per cent tax.

Representative Hanford of Alabama dropped in a bill to allow the state to enter the distilling and distributing business to supply counties voting liquor stores.

The social security bill, a thorn to the finance committee got favorable report of the joint welfare committee and was slated for "easy riding" through both halls. The counties would pay one-fourth, the state one-fourth and the federal government one-half under old age benefits but under child aid, the federal government, the state and the county each would pay one-third. A petitioner would have the right of appeal. The committee made it clear that the money to be paid would not be a "pension."

As provided in a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last November, the assembly increased the membership of the State Supreme court from five to seven. The present court was said

COURT REFORM PLAN STUDIED

Tuesday Set for First Congressional Consideration

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A House committee today set Tuesday for first congressional consideration of President Roosevelt's history-making court reform plan.

His tempestuous reception foretold a bitter battle on Capitol Hill.

"We'll take their baby and look at it," said Chairman Summers (D. Tex.) of the judiciary committee.

He added two phases of the judicial reorganization program, those dealing with retirement of Supreme court justices and intervention of the government when constitutional questions were involved had started on their way to congress "before all this hell broke loose."

While stunned, Democratic leaders predicted an eventual, if hard won, victory and pledges of support outnumbered protests. Senators Van Nuys (D. Ind.) and Burke (D. Neb.) said they would ask the Senate judiciary group to invite Supreme court justices to testify.

The justices themselves continued tight lipped silence. Chief Justice Hughes sent word through his secretary he would have nothing to say.

In the midst of the tumult aroused by the proposal to revamp the judiciary, Mr. Roosevelt discussed with congressional leaders his earlier recommendations for reorganizing the executive branch of the government.

For years bees swarmed in the porch posts at the home of Mrs. Ora Adams of Maplehill, Kas. A farmer who took down the posts recently found them stored with more than 100 pounds of honey.

Revenue Bill Far Short; Income Tax Boost Likely

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—The revenue and appropriations bills are still out of balance by at least 1,363,000, on the basis of the most optimistic estimates made by the committee chairman, while the more conservative estimates indicate that the finance committees still need to find $2,500,000 more revenue than they now have in sight to make the revenue bill balance with the appropriations measure, on the basis of the budget recommendations.

FLOOD WATERS AT STANDSTILL ON MISSISSIPPI

Slow Recession Of Crests Halted At Cairo, Illinois

RESCUERS WORK TO BOOST LEVEES

Seventy WPA Workers Reported Ill, Hampering Work of Strengthening Walls

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 6.—(AP)—An increased volume of flood water coming out of the upper Mississippi river almost checked to a standstill today the slow recession of crest waters at Cairo, Ill.

Overcast skies and rising temperatures, Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Reibold, district engineer, said, brought a threat of rain in the Mississippi district, where the crest of the all-time high flood headed slowly today.

Maintenance crews worked feverishly to lighten and strengthen the levees fighting sand boils and seepage along the levee line battle front.

A fresh outcropping of boils in the new sub-levee area west of Dundee, Miss., caused a speeding up of pumping operations.

Sickness hampered work on strengthening Reelfoot lake levee, where more than 70 WPA workers were reported ill from disinjury from drinking river water. A battle to prevent an outcropping of diseases was underway all over the flood zone.

Confidence persisted the crests now rasping like tops, ultimately would pass into the Gulf of Mexico without further major damage, but the flood fighters admitted a severe storm any time in the next few days could precipitate a grave crisis.

Meanwhile additional fatalities pushed to 400 the deaths charged to the flood, while swift recession of the Ohio cut into the total of 1,000,000 refugees by sending thousands back to their sodden homes.

Attempt Is Made To Locate Poison In Woman's Body

Solicitor Burney Announces Body of Mrs. Annie Mason Smoak Examined at Duke University

Wilmington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Solicitor John Burney announced today he had examined the body of Mrs. Annie Mason Smoak, who died 18 months before her husband was indicted on a charge of poisoning his 15-year-old daughter.

The husband, Edgar Smoak, already is scheduled to be tried February 22 in connection with the death of his daughter, Annie Telma, which was ascribed to poison by Dr. Haywood Taylor, toxicologist at Duke hospital in Durham.

Burne said the viscera of Mrs. Annie Smoak, second wife of the railroad carpenter's helper, was sent to Dr. Taylor for examination after an autopsy.

He said the condition of the body, which was buried in July, 1935, made the task difficult, but Dr. Taylor believed traces of poison, if present, would not disappear in less than two years.

To Show Picture On Effects Of Alcohol

A picture depicting the evil effects of the use of alcohol and also a short picture on Diphtheria will be shown to the Grimestand school children and patrons in the school auditorium at 7:30 on Monday evening, February 8th. Hon. Dink James will be present and give a short talk on what the County Control Board and the State Department of Education is attempting to do in regard to liquor control. There will be no admission charges and the public is urged to attend. The program will last approximately one hour.

TOURISTS LIKE TO TRY PRIME MINISTER'S CHAIR

London (AP)—Tourists from the British provinces, the Dominions, America and other places are taking advantage of parliament's summer vacation to visit the house of commons and sit in the seats of Britain's legislators. As many as 17,000 have visited the house in one day.

Some stand up and pretend to address the house. They go a little red in the face when someone eyes them. Others simply seem highly pleased to be in such surroundings. Many is not hard to guess, look with relief to the day when they will get home and tell neighbors and friends that they sat in the prime minister's chair.

Washington - It is just as well that constituents of house members do not see them too often as the floor their sheeplike decisions might enflame doubts about the high purpose inspiring them.

The house is confronted with the handicap of great numbers and has adopted the shouting of eyes and noses, the standing vote and the teller vote as means of avoiding time-consuming roll calls, each of which eats up nearly an hour.

But frequently in deciding even an amendment to a bill the house will employ all of the first three, and occasionally will be forced to the further delay of a roll call of its 435 members after all.

Twice within a half hour's debate on the $885,000,000 deficiency bill the house lumbered through the voice vote, the standing vote and the teller vote to dispose of a single amendment.

The teller vote arouses spectators to the most candid remarks about the house's legislative processes.

This is about how the machinery works: The speaker puts the question to the house: "Aye," shout those in favor, "No," answer those opposed, and from the volume of racket the speaker decides what has happened. Technically there is room for mistakes, although in recent years the disposition of the house to do what is asked of it has made most of the voice votes one-sided.

But the next step, taken at the request of a single member, might well settle all doubt. The members voting yes and no are asked to stand separately while counted.

Still if there happen to be 20 who wish to fuff up the works they may do so by asking a teller or "sheep pen" vote to follow the standing vote. That step and the resulting carnival inevitably stir the gallery to titters and prompts the members to locker-room conduct.

Massed in front of the speaker's stand, the members are fed down a house aisle, one at a time, while the results of their hard-thinking are counted, eyes first, noses next. Frivolous as sheep, they pat each other across the beam ends as they file through the counting gate. Inevitably they arrive at the same result as in the standing vote, although, to be sure, a call for a teller vote sends pages scurrying through the lobbies to bring in the stragglers.

Efforts to reward the Negro vote with anti-lynching legislation are evident in a flood of bills already this session to bring about substitution of "due process of law" for the mob.

Nine anti-lynching bills were introduced in the house in two days, others already were in and more are coming. Yet that does not promise much. Early last session anti-lynching legislation was filibustered to death by Southern senators and inquiry now discloses few minds have changed.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 29 Penetrating Lorna's Hideout TOPPY was dressed in tweed plus-fours, woolen stockings and stout boots; a leather jacket that had a slide fastener in front was strained to span her ample hips; a canary colored scarf was knotted at her throat and she had on soiled woolen gloves. She looked enormous in her strange apparel. A truly awestruck sight. But if Bigelow was astonished when he recognized her, Topsy was speechless as she recognized him.

married at the moment decides to seek solitude, don't ask why." She unlocked the front door and ushered them into the kitchen, "Better come into the kitchen," she said, looking about her. "I haven't there's dusting here, but the kitchen is clean and warm."

Chapter 29 Penetrating Lorna's Hideout

"Oh," said Bigelow dismally, "hope I didn't startle you. I rang the gate bell ever so many times, but nothing happened."

"It doesn't ring," growled Topsy. "Where in God's name did you come from, anyway, and what brings you here?"

"I came with Anne. She's waiting outside the gates in the car."

"But how did you get in?" "Climbed the wall." He smiled at her pleasantly.

"But why for God's sake?" "But why tell you all about it. If you'll let me have the key, I'll go and unlock the gates and she can drive in."

"Oh, can she?" repeated Topsy grimly. "You're most polite but I can see quite plainly I have no choice in the matter, now that you know I am here. Laugh if you like. I've seen myself in the glass so I know how I look. But I find this a very practical costume for bringing in wood for the fires and other necessary chores. It belonged to the recent owner—Mr. Cornelius Hewitt—who, by the grace of God, bulged in all the right places. Right for me, I mean, of course. . . . Just a minute and I'll go out with you and speak to Anne. You've got to know to know how to handle that gate."

She crossed to the table, opened a drawer and after fishing about for a moment, found the key.

"Come along," she said, closing the door carefully behind her. They crunched along the driveway side by side. Topsy was silent, frowning, deep in thought, and Bigelow did not interrupt her meditations. Anne saw them through the gate and called and waved excitedly.

"How in the name of God," cried Topsy, "did you get the idea of looking for me here? I've never stayed here before in my life and with ordinary luck I'll never stay here again! And why were you so anxious to find me?"

"To reach Lorna," explained Anne, through the gate.

"Lorna?" repeated Topsy vaguely.

"Lorna Dryden. Isn't she here with you?" cried Anne.

"No, of course not. Whatever put that in your head? Isn't she in town?" asked Topsy curiously.

Anne stared at her in dismay. "Open the gates," she begged. "We can't go on talking like this!"

Topsy unlocked them. Bigelow opened them, and Anne drove in. "Close them again, please," ordered Topsy. "It probably hasn't occurred to you, but I came here to be undisturbed. And she locked the gates again decisively.

"It sounds marvelous," said Bigelow, misheavily. "We'd stay to luncheon, if we were urged. There seems to be plenty."

"I don't think you'd like it," responded Topsy discouragingly. "I'm sure we would," Anne assured her.

Topsy turned to look at them witheringly. And at that instant the door opened and a girl came in—a very pretty dark girl in a milk coat.

Topsy: Lamenta Her Lot BIGELOW turned to astonishment to stare at the girl advanced rather uncertainly. Anne cried, "Lorna—" and went to meet her and they kissed. Meanwhile, Topsy was crying out wrathfully.

"Well, I'm so and so! You make a swear yourself 'red in the face that you're not here and I know nothing whatever about you, and then walk in quite calmly and make a liar out of me!"

"Sorry, darling," cried Lorna penitently, advancing to perch on the edge of the kitchen table. "Naturally, I didn't mean you to lie to Anne; I'd no idea she'd come looking for me. But when the banging came at the door and you peeped out between the slats, you said all you could see was a strange young man. Her eyes flashed to Bigelow.

"Mr. Bigelow—Mrs. Dryden," said Topsy with a wave of the big wooden soup spoon. "I didn't recognize you through the slit in the shutter—that's all I meant when I called you strange!"

"I hope so," murmured Bigelow, smiling.

"So of course I said 'Say I'm not here,'" added Lorna, after nodding at Bigelow to acknowledge the introduction. "Give me a cigarette."

Anne held out her case, and Topsy continued pouring and serving the drinks. As Bigelow struck a match, Topsy went on grumblingly, "I may be wrong, but it seems to me our people's friends aren't always letting them in for things! This is the first time she's deigned to get out of bed since we arrived here! I've had to carry her meals up to her. She finds the house cold—which I only to be expected when you stop to think it's been shut up for years. But she would come here! I'd never have dreamed of it! And she wouldn't wear Cornelius's clothes. Setty, I assure you, didn't leave anything of hers behind her."

"New Topsy—" put in Lorna, grinning. But Topsy was not to be so easily silenced.

"And mind you, I foresaw all this. I'm not an idiot! I tried to reason with her before we left town, but no—we mustn't stop to pack anything! I did manage to throw in a hot-water bottle, thank God, and this liquor! And by a miracle, my cook had just ordered in a supply of food stuffs so we just dumped the lot into the back of the car. Otherwise, I suppose we'd have starved. Do I or don't I have the damndest friends?"

"Do stop raving, there's a dear," drawled Lorna. "Anne and I have got really important things to say to each other."

Topsy snorted and, having distributed the drinks, sat down and lighted a cigarette.

"Now," said Lorna, turning to Anne and crossing her legs to be more comfortable. As the milk coat parted, Bigelow observed that she was wearing a flame colored evening-wrap and slippers to match. She was a pretty little thing, with dark eyes, that had a way of opening wide, a three-cornered mouth, that never quite closed, and distracting dimples. Her nails were the same shade as her lip rouge and her truck.

"Tell me," she breathed, "how you came to think of looking here for me? I thought no one would ever dream of this place! I suppose you missed Topsy?"

FLORIDA YOUTHS BECOME REAL POLICEMEN Pensacola, Fla. (AP)—Pensacola youths have the opportunity of realizing ambitions to be a policeman without waiting to "grow up." In a move to curb a "growing criminal" tendency among youngsters, the Pensacola police department and the Pensacola trade school collaborated in organizing a junior police department and an honor court to try juvenile offenders. The department membership comprises boys under 16 who passed examinations. The policemen were required to take the oath administered regular policemen and they wear uniforms. The 12 youths making highest marks in the examination were enthroned as members of the honor court and hear cases brought before them by the junior "cops."

Prizes and refreshments were donated by club members.

Mrs. T. A. Person Hostess

On Friday afternoon Mrs. T. A. Person was hostess to the George B. Singletary Chapter U. D. C.

Good cheer and merriment pervaded the atmosphere.

The educational work of the organization received much attention, reports showing that the General and State Divisions support a thousand scholarships with total investments aggregating half million dollars. The North Carolina Division maintains fifteen scholarships besides those given by districts and chapters. Our most valued scholarship is the Jefferson Davis, worth $200, open only to High School Seniors, and good at the University of North Carolina, State College at Raleigh, and N. C. C. W. at Greensboro. One does not have to be a descendant of a Confederate veteran to compete for this scholarship.

The Norman V. Randolph Relief Fund was represented, and the treasurer directed to send the chapter's quota. This fund is for old ladies living in distant places where there is no organization of this kind. North Carolina has five on the list of beneficiaries.

An inspiring tribute to Mrs. E. A. Bradsher, who passed away on the 27th of December, was read by Mrs. T. A. Person as follows:

"Coming to Greenville in 1928 to accept a position of honor and trust at East Carolina Teachers College, Mrs. E. A. Bradsher, tenderly known to loved ones and intimate friends as Mrs. Mamie G. Bradsher, soon made for herself a warm place in the heart of the entire community. Soon after her arrival here, she transferred her membership in the United Daughters of the Confederacy from Roxboro to the George B. Singletary chapter of Greenville.

"Since that day her service of love and loyalty to the organization has been such as to greatly endear her to the chapter.

"It is not our purpose to eulogize our friend; she was too modest to desire it, and too good to heed it.

but rather for our own sakes than hers, we pause for a moment to strengthen ourselves in those qualities which we saw clearly revealed in her.

"Descending from a long and noble family line she had her roots deep in the past. She loved old things, she cherished old friendships. She clung tenaciously to what had been in her life and years of service continued to add a rich retrospect. She loved the past, yet she did not live merely looking at the past. Her face was always forward, her glance was always upward, with an unflinching faith in the divine goodness of God.

"She was strong. There was a pioneer's strength in womanhood. One needed but to come into her presence to feel the power of will that shone in her eye, and was accentuated in her speech. She was a woman of deep conviction, and whenever any moral issue was at stake, one did not have to inquire as to her attitude, but knew instinctively that the side which she made for human welfare was where she stood.

"She had great courage—the kind which we call fortitude, which can lose loved ones without losing one's nerve, which can suffer and not surrender. But her strength was blended with a winsome tenderness, lovable, possessing a reverent regard for the personalities of others, in the home, community, church and other organizations to which she belonged.

"On December 27th, 1936, at her daughter's home in Raleigh, she passed away, leaving those whom she loved to join those whom she loved long since and lost awhile. The George B. Singletary chapter, U. D. C., feels an aching loneliness at her going. The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord, for he hath given so much more than he hath taken away. He gave us this life nurtured in a Christian home, reared into beautiful womanhood, rounded into loving motherhood, ripened into years of action, endearing service. Only the physical has been taken from us. The memories, the influence, the love all remain, to be our heritage through the years until that day when the broken circles of earth are reunited in the eternal circles of the spirit."

All committees were appointed to handle the district meeting which convenes here the 10th of March. Mrs. John Huske Anderson of Raleigh will be guest speaker. Those who know Mrs. Anderson always delight to hear her.

February 3 being the anniversary of Sidney Lanier. Mrs. E. W. Harvey gave a most interesting sketch of his life.

Besides chapter members present Mrs. J. W. Kirkpatrick and Miss Abiah Person of Wake Forest added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Person, served a tempting plate with Russian tea.—Reported.

Little Theatre Players

The Little Theatre Players of Rocky Mount made a conquest of their audience at the College last night with a superb performance of "She Stoops to Conquer." It was an all-round excellent production, with none of the ear-marks of amateur efforts and was characterized by good acting, excellent staging, and professional tempo.

The gorgeous costumes of the eighteenth century not only produced rich stage effects but were worn with an air that showed that the actors caught the true spirit of the age.

The play was well cast, each actor well fitted to the part played. Mrs. Betty Brown Skeels as Mrs. Hardcastle and Leon Barton as Mr. Hardcastle, both of whom showed they were veterans of the stage, caught the interest of the audience at the very first and held it to the end. Cy Eason in his interpretation of Tony Lumpkin added a serious touch that kept character from being a mere buffoon. Mrs. James Bunn Dowdy who as president is one of the moving spirits among the players, was a sprightly and attractive Kate Hardcastle. Miss Claude Aycock was a beautiful and charming Constance Neville. Sam Whitehead as Mr. Hastings was truly an eighteenth century macaroni and for that captivated the college girls as much as the eighteenth century ladies.

W. J. Adams, Jr. played well the difficult part of the dual personality of young Marlow. James Egleson played the two roles of the Landlord and Sir Charles Maitlow equally well. Miss Frances Walker was good as the demure maid. All the minor characters gave good support. Most of the stage hands donned their costumes and appeared before the footlights in minor parts such as the servants and country fellows.

The players are indeed fortunate in having Archie Amos as their able director, and the play itself is sufficient proof of his ability. The stage staff responsible for work behind scenes was as follows: Scenery: Isaac Murphrey and Mansfield Christian, assisted by O. D. Andrews, B. Warren, Jr., Haywood Taylor, Nelson L. Large, Bo. by Williams and P. G. Cobb, Jr.; Lighting: Isaac Murphrey and Mansfield Christian; Costumes: Mrs. Frank Walker, Miss Laura Boice, and Miss Elizabeth Whithead; Properties: Mrs. Sydney Gardner and Mrs. Julian Whitehurst; Make-up: C. M. Edson and Sam Whitehead. The business manager is W. J. Adams, Jr.

While there is a large membership of associate members who support the cause, there has always been a smaller group of active members interested in the actual production of plays. They have regular monthly meetings, write original plays, and give studio programs, in which they produce plays illustrating their study.

The only time these players have ever entered the North Carolina drama contest was in 1931 and they won first place, with the play "Drums of Oude." This year they will again enter the contest and will present "She Stoops to Conquer" by Eugene O'Neill. Their plays for the public this year are "Whistling in the Dark," and three one-act plays, "She Stoops to Conquer" was their chief play last year and was presented at the College by the special request of the Entertainment Committee.

Mulholland The Magician

The world renowned magician and wonder worker, John Mulholland, will give an entertainment at the College next Thursday night, Feb. 11, in the Robert H. Wright auditorium. He will tell the story of magic and magicians and perform some of his most unusual feats of magic. He is master of both Western and Oriental magic.

He is a member and officer of The Society of American Magicians, and a member of associations of magicians in Europe and the Orient. He is author of many articles and books, among them "Quicker Than the Eye" and "Magic in the Making."

Popular prices for admission will give the people of Greenville a good chance to see and hear this well known wizard.

To Observe Youth Sunday

In many churches throughout the United States Sunday, February 7th, will be observed as Christian Youth Sunday. It is the anniversary of the birthday of the Christian Endeavor Movement which was the first effort to organize Protestant youth for Christian service. During recent years the idea of Christian Endeavor Day has enlarged sufficiently to include all Christian Youth organizations in the observance of Christian Youth Day.

At the eleven o'clock service in the Christian church, Charles Briley, President of the Youth Interest Group, will speak for the Young People's division.

At 6:45 p. m. the Intermediate C. E. will be led by Peggy Rose Smith and the Youth Interest Group under the leadership of William Miller Burks will have a follow-up of the United Youth discussion held last Sunday on Sunday Movies. On Friday night a birthday party will be held at the church.

Young people, their parents and teachers are expected at the morning service; young people for their Sunday night meetings and the party.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY READY TO START ON HOME STRETCH (Continued from page one) to be too small to expedite the numerous matters facing it.

The important money committee prepared to release their bills. Approximately $75,750,000 must be raised for the biennium—exclusive of the agricultural and highway and public works funds. The finance committee, meeting again Tuesday, must find a way of raising an additional $1,750,000 as its present bill would net only $77,000,000 for the biennium. A. J. Maxwell, commissioner of revenue, said he did not consider the variation "very large" and that the finance bill should be sent to the House floor next week. Similar hopes are held for the appropriations measure, carrying provisions for old age benefits and child aid.

The finance bill, carrying new series on wines, gifts and intangibles, has been considered by the committee little more than three weeks. The intangibles measure was redrafted to allow counties and cities 50 per cent of the revenue, the remainder going to the state, the collecting agency. The state is expected to receive $1,000,000 annually from this section.

A seven per cent tax would be levied on incomes in excess of $10,000 a year, though a constitutional amendment allowing a maximum tax of 10 per cent was voted last year.

The machinery bill will be considered when the finance bill is taken to the floor, leaders said. The house, by a close vote killed a bill to prevent the sale of fireworks in the state. A heated debate preceded the action.

A measure hit the Senate hopper to reduce license fees for motor vehicles to half the present rate and provide that a sum equal to the new rate be paid into the state treasury for each vehicle to set up a state liability insurance fund.

The fund would be administered by a three man "highway relief commission" appointed by the governor. If the fund could not pay a claim granted by the commission, the owner of any vehicle held liable for accident would be required to make up the difference. If payment were not made in 90 days, the driver's license would be cancelled.

The legislature passed a measure providing the appointment of a seven-member commission by the governor to study the needs for more office space and to report to the legislature within 15 days after appointment.

Another bill would allow one-year separation as grounds for divorce instead of the present two-year requirement.

A measure to give immunity to newspapermen where efforts are made to force them to reveal confidential information was killed in committee.

Roosevelt who is their Honorary President will address by radio a message to all the Boy Scouts on February 8th and I trust citizens of this City will attend his message. Boy Scouts of this City will represent us at the National Scout Jamboree to be held in Washington, D. C., next June 30th to July 9th and I shall strive, with the cooperation of my fellow citizens, to arrange suitable ceremonies at their departure and return.

Therefore, I, M. K. Blount, Mayor of the City of Greenville, do hereby recommend that the citizens of this City observe this Boy Scout week for the purpose of strengthening the work of the Boy Scouts of America.

I earnestly recommend that our civic organizations, our churches and our schools cooperate in carrying out a program for a definite recognition of the effective service rendered by the Boy Scouts of America, in order that the work of the Boy Scout Program may be extended to a larger proportion of the boyhood of this City.

The Boy Scout Movement offers unusual opportunity for volunteer service. It needs men to serve in various capacities as leaders of boys. I hope that all who can, through the organizations with which they are connected, enlist for such personal service. Anything that is done to increase the effectiveness of the Boy Scouts of America will be a genuine contribution to the welfare of this City, the State, and the Nation.

JUNIORS LOSE BY BIG SCORE

Local Team Defeated By Durham Juniors 45 to 14

By JOHN DAVID BRIDGERS Staff Writer

Playing a return game with the Durham Junior High School team the local team was defeated by a score of 45 to 14 in the Greenville High School Auditorium. Although the final score was much to the favor of the Junior Bull Dogs the local team held the score to 12 to 5 in favor of the winners during the first half, but under the onslaught of the Durham cagers the Greensies' defense cracked during the second half.

Cates led the winners by turning in 14 points.

The locals were led by Carl Whitehurst who tallied 7 times. Larry James also played a good game for the locals.

After the Junior game the Class B department of the varsity played the Stokes High School team, and won by a score of 16 to 5.

Gaskins was high for the locals with 4 points, while Fleming of the Greensies scored all the points for his team.

LOCAL LASSIES TRIM KINSTON

Greenville High Girls Gain First Win Of Season

The lassies of Greenville High returned from Kinston last night with the first victory of the season at a score of 22-16.

The local basketball team were rather puzzled with a highly polished court, but with strong determination they won.

At the half, the score was tied 8-8, but soon after the Greensies picked up the lead and held it through the rest of the game. Clark and Tyson led the locals with 8 points each. Sugg scoring six. A good defensive game was played by Weiland, Merritt, and Simpson.

Nunn for Kinston, was high scorer, tallying 19 points.

Miss Mial, local coach, stated that she was planning on the team to win the game in Washington, Tuesday night also.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ROW GETS INTO ASSEMBLY

from getting rural electric service because these county membership corporations followed the advice of Mr. Cooke and refused to get a certificate of convenience and necessity instead of following our advice and that of the Utilities Commission.

The Fenner-Abernethy-Ward bill is now back in the house committee on public utilities, of which Rep. Robert Rouse of Kinston is chairman, although the bill was considered by the committee and reported favorably. Rep. Fenner said he wanted the bill sent back for further hearing so that any one opposed to the bill, including Administrator Cooke, could be heard. It is being hoped that Mr. Cooke will come down to oppose the bill, but no one here thinks he has nerve enough to come down from Washington for the hearing.

Administrator Cooke is either completely ignorant of the intent and purpose of the bill or is deliberately misrepresenting it, judging from his telegram to Chairman Rouse of the committee and statement to The News Observer. In both his telegrams and statement to The News Observer, Cooke maintained that the bill was a step to put rural electrification cooperatives under the "control" of the State Utilities Commission and intimate that it was a "power company" designed to curb and injure organization of rural cooperatives.

But these are not the facts at all. The bill gives the Utilities Commission no control over the cooperatives with regard to rates or supervision, such as it exercises over private power companies. It merely provides that such cooperatives must obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity, which when obtained guarantees them against any competition or encroachment from private power companies. In fact, it does just the opposite from what Cooke and The News and Observer story says it does. The bill was drafted by the Attorney General, was advocated by the State Rural Electrification Authority and the State Utilities Commission as a measure that would protect rural electric cooperatives. It is definitely known that none of the public utilities companies kne anything about the bill until it was introduced.

Accordingly, the fight is not a fight between Administrator Cooke and the power companies in North Carolina, as he would make it appear, but a fight between Cooke and two legally constituted agencies of the state of North Carolina and its officials—the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority and the State Utilities Commission, it is generally agreed here.

The real reason Administrator Cooke is injecting himself into this matter and trying to defeat a bill advocated by two state agencies, is because he has been openly defying these two agencies for more than two years and refusing to recognize North Carolina laws in the organization of county electric membership corporations financed with Federal money loaned by the REA in Washington. It is pointed out by those here who are familiar with the facts. Another reason is that Administrator Cooke has so far been unable to dictate to North Carolina and the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority, as he has sought to do, and has become increasingly peeved, if not actually jealous, because the NCREA has succeeded in getting 2,656 miles of rural electric lines built in North Carolina without any help from the Federal REA, which so far has built only 20 miles of lines in the state. Although, 5,556 miles of rural electric lines have been built or authorized in North Carolina since the creation of the NCREA of which only 1,119 miles have been authorized and only 20 miles built by the REA in Washington.

So the fight over the Fenner bill is in no sense a fight between the Federal Rural Electrification Administration and the private power companies, as Cooke and the News and Observer would make it appear, but is in reality a fight between Cooke and the state of North Carolina as to whether the general assembly and the state agencies it created shall make the laws of the state, or whether its laws shall be dictated by a minor Federal bureaucrat who is the head of a minor Federal division in Washington.

It is no secret here today that Chairman Rouse and the members of his committee also Representatives Fenner and Ward are not at all pleased Mr. Cooke's injection of himself in what they consider a purely state matter. It is being predicted that the bill will again be reported favorably and that it will pass by a good majority.

REVENUE BILL FAR SHORT INCOME TAX BOOST LIKELY

with the possible exception of the public schools, and that it will seriously retard if not cripple many state departments and divisions if they are reduced. In fact, most observers feel that some of the appropriations are more likely to be increased than reduced and that these increases, together with any supplementary appropriations which may be authorized, are likely to increase from the average of $37,500,000 a year as recommended in the budget bill to at least $38,000,000 a year for each year of the biennium, without the amount needed for old age pensions and aid to dependent children.

When the $2,000,000 a year needed to pay the state's share of old age pensions and aid to dependent children is added to this total—and this is on the assumption that the counties will have to pay $2,000,000 a year of this old age pensions and children's aid expense—the total appropriations needed, on the basis of the very lowest estimates, is right at $40,000,000 a year. It is agreed. Of this total, more than 60 per cent or approximately $24,500,000 a year will go to the public schools, leaving less than 40 per cent for all the other state departments, institutions and activities, including old age pensions and children's aid, although the appropriation for school is even then about $2,500,000 less than the amount the school fees are demanding.

But the revenue bill as it now stands, including the use of half of the expected surplus of $3,000,000 at the end of this year and the diversion of $2,100,000 a year from the highway to the general fund, as compared with the diversion of only $1,000,000 a year in previous years, will not yield more than $37,500,000 a year, on the basis of conservative estimates made by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell and members of the committee. Even the most optimistic estimates of the revenue yield from the bill as it now stands, including the expected revenue from the liquor tax, amount to only $38,637,000 a year, still $1,363,000 short of the amount needed to make the revenue bill balance with the appropriations.

The expected revenue from the revenue bill as it now stands, on the basis of conservative estimates, is based on the assumption that the 1935 revenue bill will bring in $36,000,000 this year. To this amount is then added $1,100,000 a year, representing the additional recommended diversion from the highway fund, $750,000 a year as the new income from the tax on intangibles, $650,000 a year as the estimated revenue from the proposed sales tax of 7 per cent on liquor sales, and $1,500,000 a year from the surplus. This makes a total of $39,000,000. But it is then necessary to subtract at least $1,500,000 from this total of $39,000,000 in order to adjust the loss in the revenue which will result from the restoration of the exemptions in the sales tax. In fact, it is generally agreed that the state will actually lose $2,500,000 a year as a result of restoring the sales tax exemptions, but that increased business and higher prices will recoup half of this loss, so that the state actually will not lose more than $1,500,000 a year through the exemptions. This deduction of $1,500,000 from the expected total of $39,000,000 leaves only $37,500,000 of actual revenue with which to meet appropriations of $40,000,000—a difference of $2,500,000.

The above figures in tabular form are as follows:

Present revenue from 1935 revenue bill	$35,000,000.
Half of expected surplus	$1,500,000.
Additional highway diversion	$1,100,000.
Revenue from intangibles	$750,000.
Revenue from liquor tax	$650,000.
Total	$39,000,000.
Less loss from sales tax exemptions	$1,500,000.
Total net revenue in sight	$37,500,000.

There are those, however, including Chairman Victor S. Bryant of the house finance committee and Chairman E. V. Webb of the senate committee, who believe the above estimates are too low and who feel that with business continuing on the upgrade, as well as prices and incomes, that the state's revenue from the 1935 Revenue Act at the end of the present fiscal year will be at least $36,000,000 instead of $35,000,000. These also believe and liquor tax will be great-ly and that the yield from the intangibles as to the yield of the present revenue bill are about as follows:

Yield of 1935 revenue bill	$36,000,000.
Half of surplus	$1,500,000.
Additional highway diversion	$1,100,000.
Yield from intangibles tax	$750,000.
Yield from 7 per cent liquor tax	$750,000.
Total	$40,137,000.
Less loss from sales tax exemptions	$1,500,000.
Total net revenue in sight	$38,637,000.

These figures show that the finance committees still have between $1,363,000 and $2,500,000 still to raise in some manner before they can get the revenue bill to balance with the appropriations bill, almost all observers here now agree. But no one knows where they will get it.

WARD AROUSED BY TEACHERS

Telegram Says Teachers Ready to Demand Hearing

Relector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—The groups of school teachers in Durham who sent Chairman D. L. (Libby) Ward almost identical telegrams declaring that the "teachers of the state are ready to act unless granted a 20 per cent before the administrators receive any raise" and "demanding" a hearing before the appropriations committee, did not help their cause any, in the opinion of house members and other observers.

Chairman Ward, rising to a point of personal privilege, read the telegrams to the house and pointed out that not only had the committee already extended a hearing to the school forces, including the teachers, but that it was ready and willing at all times to extend hearings to any one.

Chairman Ward maintained that it was not necessary for the teachers to "demand" anything of his committee, that it was always open to them or any one else and that he resented the implication that either he or the committee had been or would be "unfair" to any one. He said they would be given a hearing at any time they asked for one, in addition to the one already given them through State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin.

What really happened is that both the teachers and Chairman Ward do not fully understand the situation. What the teachers were protesting against was the granting of any additional increases in pay to superintendents and principals unless and until the teachers are given further increases. At the present times the "administrators", which means the superintendents and principals get an average of at least two-and one-half times as much pay as the teachers.
