AUTO WORKERS UNION SEEKING EXPAND POWER

Would Be Sole Bargaining Agency For Chrysler Employees

PLAN APPROACH COMPANY HEADS

Announcement Made of Impending Drives To Unionize Steel and Oil Industries

(By Associated Press) The avowed intention of the United Automobile Workers of America to become the sole bargaining agency for Chrysler Corporation employees shared attention today with announcements of impending drives to unionize the steel and oil industries.

An organizational director of the U. A. W. A., a unit of the Committee for Industrial Organization, announced at a union mass meeting in Detroit last night the group would make overtures to Chrysler officials this week.

Johnny Brophy, executive director of the C. I. O., said its 280 steel union lodges would soon discuss demands on officials of the steel industry.

A campaign to organize the oil fields, said Harvey Fremming, president of the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Wells and Refinery Workers will begin at Houston, Tex., about April 1 with C. I. O. rival, the American Federation of Labor, also would campaign to unionize the oil industry.

The stalemate between some 80 sit-down workers and officials of the Pansteel Metallurgical corporation in North Chicago, Ill., persisted.

Brotherhood Day Provides Subject At Joint Service

Rev. R. C. Grady, Presbyterian Pastor, Delivers Message at Regular Sunday Union Meeting

One of the most appreciated musical contributions to the Sunday evening union services yet given was the quintet rendition of Heyser's "Holy, Holy, Holy," sung last night by Mrs. J. A. Karsnak, Mrs. B. D. Johnston, Mrs. E. W. Griffin, E. O. Parkinson and Prof. Tabor of the college.

The presiding minister was the Rev. Thos. Grant, Methodist church. The Rev. W. A. Ryan, Christian church, read the Scripture and led in prayer, while the sermon was preached by the Rev. R. C. Grady of the Presbyterian church.

The speaker discussed on the subject, "Give Brotherhood First Place!" in connection with the yearly observance of National Brotherhood Day, sponsored by the National Conference of Jews and Christians as one of its projects in arousing better understanding and cooperation among the forces of Catholicism, Protestantism and Judaism in this country.

Stating that though theologically the three groups differ, that "ethically, spiritually, humanly they are one in pursuit of those fundamentals—civil and religious liberties—needed by the human soul," Mr. Grady pointed out that it was ever the emphasis of the prophets and Jesus that acts of worship and professions of religion were shams unless brotherly relationships preceded such.

Reviewing occasions for the giving of offense by Protestants to Jews and Catholics, the speaker made a plea that anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic and anti-Protestant prejudices be left behind for the sake of greater appreciation of the various groups. He stated that there are at least four changes in attitudes that could well be made. "First, get wisdom, knowledge—and with the getting of it, get understanding. Second, recognize the absurdity and the un-Christlike nature of generalizing from specific instances and isolated cases. Third, remember that each human soul has a right to be judged in terms of his worth as an individual, regardless of color and of political and ecclesiastical affiliation. And, let us give the love-emphasis that Jesus gave—in our contacts, too."

The speaker concluded by appealing for joint endeavors against encroachments of violence, disfranchisement of minority groups, military conscription attempts and the growing propaganda to take the United States into the "next war" under the guise of "protecting democracy against dictatorship and fascism."

SUBWAY BUILDER QUESTIONED IN LABOR KILLING

Sampel Rosoff (right), wealthy subway building contractor of New York, was served with a warrant requiring him to appear in New Jersey as a material witness in the slaying of R. Norman Redwood, leader of a "sandhog" union. The action followed his refusal to go to Hackensack, New Jersey voluntarily for questioning. An officer is shown looking at Redwood's body sprawled in his automobile in front of his home in Teaneck, N. J., where gunmen mowed him down with a fusillade of bullets. Authorities attributed the slaying to labor trouble and said they have an affidavit that Rosoff once threatened to kill Redwood if the labor leader pulled a strike on a job of his. SPANISH CIVIL CONFLICT RAGES AS BOTH SIDES REPORT GAINS

FARM BUREAU HEAD AROUSED

Arnold Promises To Fight Opponents of Crop Control

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—(AP)—E. F. Arnold, secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau today, said he had written George Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad at Wilmington that his organization "will use any means available x x x to fight any large corporate interests" opposing crop control legislation.

Cost line officials recently denied the railroad was taking any part whatsoever in the compact matter.

Arnold produced a statement from John Purdon, assistant agricultural and industrial agent of the railroad in Georgia, which Arnold said "makes it clear that Mr. Purdon has intended to fight the bill in the name of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad."

Officers Investigating Robbery In Johnston

Wilson, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Officers of Johnston and Wilson counties investigated today the robbery of the home of John Woodard, 70, Johnston county bachelor of about $3,000 in "old-time" large paper currency Saturday night.

Woodard said he left Saturday afternoon to spend the night with relatives and returned to find his two-room house ransacked.

Officers said the money in $5, $10 and $20 bills, had been hidden in an old bag, a tin bucket and in a mattress.

Some Revolt Threatened Administration Tax Bill

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 22.—Revolt in the Senate last Friday which tossed into the discard the proposed sales tax (excise tax it was labeled in an amendment) on building, plumbing and electrical contractors, did more than merely throw the budget slightly out of balance.

It served notice that the administration forces, led in the revenue fight by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell, are not going to have things all their own way as they did in the House, where they jammed the tax raising measure through with no important amendment.

It may also prove to be the stumbling block to the quick adjournment which has been so optimistically promised and forecast of late.

All these threats are intensified by the size of the majority by which the insurgents sunk the powers that be. Vote on striking out the contractors' (or building material, whichever you choose to call it) tax was 27 to 14, with Senator John Sprunt Hill in the chair and not voting. Inasmuch as the Durham noted had promised to fight

Rebels Claim Capture of Sections of Important Road

(By Associated Press) Spain's civil war raged today from Oviedo, near the Bay of Biscay, where the government troops launched an offensive to Aragon, where Insurgents started a wedge to drive a line to the Mediterranean between Valencia and Barcelona. On the hard-fought Jarama river front, southeast of Madrid, Insurgents reported capture of four and one-half miles of the road to Valencia and said the government-held Guadalaajara highway was under heavy fire. Severance of that road would leave Madrid without a trunk highway exit.

In renewed fighting at Oviedo the government reported dynamite-bombing Asturian miners aided in an attack that netted a foothold in the insurgent-held city.

An insurgent drive in Aragon in an attempt to reach the Mediterranean was reported repulsed by Madrid with 1,000 Insurgents slain. Madrid reports also disputed Insurgent claims to capture of the Valencia highway link.

COURT BATTLE NEARS SENATE

Supplemental Measure Voted Out By Judiciary Group

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A supplemental measure in the President's court reorganization program—legislative providing for voluntary retirement of supreme court justices—moved toward the senate floor today.

The senate judiciary committee voted to report it. The committee also fixed March 9 to start hearing on the President's broader program, providing for appointment of additional justices unless those over 70 retire.

The voluntary retirement bill provides for retirement on full pay at the age of 70.

The house ways and means committee approved today a revised Guffney-Vinson coal control act, designed to stabilize the bituminous coal industry.

The committee deferred reporting the measure to the house until later in the day, but Chairman Dougherty (D. N. C.) said that was a formality.

Wilmington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A. W. Pettit and Clark York, escaped convicts of Caledonia prison farm who were captured here Saturday afternoon will be taken to Raleigh this afternoon. Warden H. H. Honeycutt said today.

The warden and Captain J. W. Harrison of Raleigh arrived here last night, but deferred taking the men until today because of unfavorable weather.

Confronted With Big Job, Congress Seeks Speed Pace

Survey Shows That About Half of Measures Intended for Action This Session Yet To Be Made Public

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The mass of work confronting congress and prospects of much more to come caused administration leaders today to seek a faster pace, lest the session drag into the autumn.

The senate and house proper took it easy, limiting their sessions to the traditional reading of the George Washington's farewell address. Committees and individual legislators in charge of the Roosevelt program, however, had their hands full.

A survey showed the President or his chief lieutenants had made public roughly half of the measures intended for this session. Some of these expected to arouse most controversy have yet to be put in bill form.

While talk at the capital was primarily about the judiciary reorganization proposals, many members turned their attention to other developing issues.

The senate has on its schedule this week the renewal of the reciprocal tariff act, neutrality legislation.

High winds which did little material damage northward from Anderson, S. C., had reached tornadoic force when the storm reached the southern outskirts of Charlotte. It cut an almost straight path for three miles through the city, dipping to demolish some houses and then only ripping projections from others. Power service in almost a third of the city was paralyzed and fallen trees and wires disrupted traffic.

From Charlotte the blow passed on to Concord where a score of uptown buildings were damaged, along with an estimated hundred homes, including that of T. H. Webb, former president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, 51 on the second floor, when the wind carried away his roof without injuring him.

COUNTING COST OF WIND STORM DAMAGE

Charlotte, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Scattered North Carolina communities began counting the costs today of a severe storm which swept up from South Carolina last night, cut a three-mile path through Charlotte and blasted homes in Concord and the Greensboro area.

The blow came right at supper time and many houses were completely demolished. Only three serious injuries were reported, although scores of persons suffered cuts and minor hurts.

J. R. Simmons was badly hurt when his house at the Charlotte dog pound, together with all pound structure was blown completely away.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Casstevens were injured when their store-filling station near Greensboro was overturned and burned.

WATER HIGHER AT VICKSBURG WILL EXPLAIN FEDERAL PLAN

Backwaters Force Additional Hundreds To Leave Homes

New Orleans, Feb. 22.—The Mississippi continued to "pile up" in the vicinity of Vicksburg today while the lower valley waited patiently for the flood burden to enter the Gulf of Mexico.

Back waters from tributaries unable to discharge in the swollen river drove additional hundreds from homes in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Rains aggravated the spread of the back waters from four rivers in Louisiana and three in Mississippi.

Red Cross workers at Belmont and Yazoo city, Miss., cared for refugees arriving from sections of five counties covered by the overflow.

Firemen Called Out By False Fire Alarm

Firemen were called out late Saturday night by a false alarm which came in from the box at Twelfth street and the railroad crossing.

The call came at about 11 o'clock, but when the firemen arrived at the scene they found no fire.

Weighing Station Put In Operation East Of Farmville

All Trucks and Trailers Passing Point Seven Miles From City To Be Halted and Weighed

All trucks and trailers passing a point seven miles East of Farmville between 4 o'clock this afternoon and midnight will be halted and the vehicles weighed.

The project is being carried out by the United States Bureau of Federal roads, with the cooperation of the State Highway patrol. It was explained, however, by Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the division of the patrol with headquarters here, that the purpose was not to make arrests, but to take a census on the weights of trucks, the data to be for use by the Federal road bureau.

Two patrolmen will be located at the weighing station to aid the federal men and to direct traffic and prevent any congestion because of the program.

This is only one of the many weighing stations in North Carolina and the other 47 states. Another will be established near Chocowinity tomorrow, according to the schedule.

J. E. Winslow To Deliver Talks in Peanut Belt Areas

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—(AP)—E. F. Arnold, executive secretary, said today J. E. Winslow, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, would explain President Roosevelt's farm program at four public meetings in the peanut belt this week.

Winslow, Arnold said, attended another conference of farm leaders with President Roosevelt in Washington today.

The meetings will be held in Scotland Neck, Thursday afternoon; Tarboro, Thursday night; Winton, Friday afternoon; and Jackson, Friday night. All farmers are invited. Arnold said, especially peanut growers in counties adjacent to those in which the meetings are to be held.

Social Security Program Embodies Ten Divisions

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 22.—The Federal Social Security program is so broad and covers so many different groups and provisions that the average person finds it as hard as solving a jigsaw puzzle to make heads or tails of the whole matter.

For those to whom the publication is available, a full and detailed explanation of the program can be found in the February number of "North Carolina Labor and Industry," the monthly bulletin of the North Carolina Department of Labor.

According to this publication, the main divisions may be termed the A. B. C.'s of the Social Security Program, though there are no less than ten divisions in all.

The A stands for Assistance, the B for Benefits and the C for Compensation, each of these being features of some phases of the program.

Assistance is old-age assistance, which is administered by the Social Security board in Washington, and which will be administered in North Carolina by the N. C. Welfare Department and director.

Funds will come one-half from the federal government, one-quarter from the state and one-quarter from counties. Maximum benefits of $30 per month, based on need, will be paid to eligibles who must be 65 years and over, who have lived in the state one year and 4 years of the preceding 9 years. Benefits will first be available July 1, 1937.

Benefits are Old-Age Benefits, a form of old age insurance handed entirely by the federal government. Funds will be from money paid into the federal treasury, beginning January 1, 1937, by employers and employees.

Minimum benefits under this form of insurance will be $10 per month with an $85 maximum, to be paid to eligibles 65 years old and over who have been employed in some five different calendar years after December 31, 1936, and prior to attaining the age of 65. These benefits will be first available on January 1, 1942.

Compensation is unemployment. This will be administered by the North Carolina Unemployment commission. Funds come from sums (Continued on page two)

SEES PASSAGE OF ROAD BOND

Senator Halstead Expects Bill Providing Issue To Pass

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—Passage of his bill authorizing a bond issue for improvement of secondary roads of the state is confidently expected by Senator W. I. Halstead, of South Mills.

His bill has been set as a special order of business for the Senate's session Wednesday. The Camden Senator will make a final explanation of his bill and an appeal for public support by going on the air Tuesday night over the Raleigh radio station.

The measure calls for a bond issue of $25,000,000 to be used wholly in construction of secondary roads of the state, under direction of the highway department.

When it was first introduced rather early in the session there were few who gave it more than an outside chance of enactment, but a tide of sentiment seems to have run in its favor and impartial commentators, as well as Senator Halstead, are now predicting its passage in the Senate, at least. These same observers are conceding it a better than fair chance in the House.

The bill's author said Saturday that he will offer an amendment which will keep the bond issue within the Constitutional limitations—which would permit an issue of $10,000,000 in the first year of the biennium and $12,000,000 in the second.

It is thought that the anti-diversion fight in both Houses had at least a slight influence on the fate of the secondary road bond issue, largely because it centered attention upon the condition of the non-arterial highways of the state. Speaker after speaker termed their condition "terrible."

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with Rev. A. H. Butler of Falcom in charge. Burial will follow in the Bethel cemetery.

He is survived by his wife; three sons, R. R. and Carey Whitehurst of Bethel; and E. L. Whitehurst of Parmelee; four daughters, Mrs. B. S. CHANGES FOR REVENUE BILL ARE APPROVED

One Proposal Would Levy Tax on Building Material

OTHER INVOLVES CHAIN STATIONS

Amendment to Substitute Two Per Cent Exemptionless Tax Up For Debate

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Governor Hoy said two "material" amendments to the biennial revenue bill would be offered the senate this afternoon when it again takes up the $75,000,000 general fund tax measure for 1937-39.

One, Hoy said, proposed a three per cent tax on all building materials sold or used in the state except lumber, brick and crushed stone.

The other would replace the proposed chain filling station tax, which is in a graduated scale, and would levy $4 per gasoline pump and tax on each filling station.

Oil companies, Hoy said, opposed the chain filling station tax on the grounds it would force the station to come under social security program requirements if it is held valid.

Senator Webb, of Lenoir, and Representative Bryant, of Durham, chairman of the legislative finance committee, along with Senator Rodman, of Beaufort, Revenue Commissioner A. J. Maxwell and Harry McMullan, assistant attorney general, conferred with the Governor at length on the proposed changes.

Last week senators struck out a three percent tax on all building material, which had been approved by the House.

The enrolling office expressed doubt the coming session would be ready for ratification before tonight. The measure will become law after it is signed by the presiding officers of the house and senate, either tonight or tomorrow.

In addition to the two revenue amendments approved by the Governor, senators will resume arguments on a motion to strike out the three per cent sales tax with basic foods exempted and substitute a two per cent exemptionless in its stead.

Representative Ward, of Craven, saying he heartily opposed making counties bearing one-fourth of the cost of the old age assistance program, called a meeting of the house appropriations committee for tomorrow morning to study the senate-passed bill.

The house finance committee called a public hearing for Wednesday afternoon on the Bryant bill to enable cities to carry out slum clearance and other PWA building projects.

Before the legislature adjourns it would do well to take some steps toward adopting a reasonable automobile speed limit for the highways as a safety measure. The great majority of our accidents are the result of too much speed and most everyone is aware that the great majority of motorists on our highways drive faster than is within the bounds of safety.

The story is going the rounds here that one day last week a first grade boy came to one of the city schools so drunk that he did not know what he was doing. It is said that under questioning the boy stated that the liquor had been given him by his father. Of course there are legions of citizens who shudder at the mention of the old-time whipping post but putting one into use with this father as the subject for punishment would be appropriate in this case.

SOME REVOLT THREATENED ADMINISTRATION TAX BILL

(Continued from page 6a) but at that time Governor Hoy called upon his friends in the Legislature to redeem the campaign and platform pledge. It was then that Commissioner Maxwell came forward with the suggested tax on building contractors, a plan which his opponents now contend he carried in his pocket for a couple of weeks before springing it at the last minute.

At that time Mr. Maxwell publicly stated that the building material tax would just about replace the tax on meals. As figures he said the meal tax had brought in $363,000 for the past year, while he estimated that the material tax would raise about $300,000 annually. But Friday he surprised the senators who had previously heard this statement by asserting that if the building material tax were stricken out, the budget would be thrown $750,000 out of balance. So far there has been no intelligent reconciliation of these very different statements made by the same man at different times.

All ages are eligible, with an employment requirement of previous employment with an employer working eight or more months. Benefits will first be available January 1, 1938.

There are six other divisions—(1) Aid to the Blind; (2) Maternal and Child Health; (3) Crippled Children; (4) Child Welfare Service; (5) Vocational Rehabilitation; and (6) Public Health Service. Each of these half dozen divisions is now in operation and North Carolina is either presently participating in benefits or there are now pending in the legislature bills which, if passed, will insure North Carolina's participation.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 42. An Early Ride in The Park. Madge was crowded as usual and as usual, there was a table for her. Madge arrived with her chair before they had actually settled down. "That woman," she said sadly, "may be no angel, but she flies. Were you there? Did you see it? And I mean that last costume of jade and pearls never originated in any mortal mind. If I had known she was going to be like that, I would never have let Arthur go. Because we all know what Arthur is but he is a man, after all, and he's been satisfied with me up to now, but I suppose he has his little dreams and aspirations just like anybody else and it's no time of life for me to be going to Reno. My only consolation is that Arthur isn't likely to appeal to her. Have you heard about the baroness—she has taken to her bed?" "Yes—poor thing," said Anne. "Complete collapse, I believe."

"About time, if you ask by opinion," said Madge. "What she thought that man had, no man's got. But she was the type to go off the deep end over someone. If she'd lived all her life in China, it would be some Chinese. My money says she'll be mad about her doctor about the time she's able to sit up and take nourishment. And any woman that lets herself get come ca about a doctor has no imagination and is unworthy of sympathy or respect. "All due apologies to you, Dr. Austrelitz, but you know as well as I do what my poor Arthur is willing to accept as an interesting palor is just a bilious attack to you! Mysterious shadows under the eyes mean sluggish kidneys and divine incomprehensible moods indicate a torpid liver or starved nerves. Can you conceive, Anne, of trying to infatuate a man who is mechanically noting what isn't working properly inside you? I can not!"

She rose as Austrelitz laughed. "Here comes Mirabelle—with her usual harem escort, including that fat slug Tuttle. No more harm in him than in a cobra. . . See you some more." She trailed away, signalling to the waiter to bring her chair. "No sign of Karsanokoff yet," sighed Anne. "I'll watch. You two go and dance," suggested Austrelitz. "I come to these places so seldom, it amuses me to look about and observe the various types."

"Dance?" asked Bigelow. "I suppose so," said Anne. "May as well go on keeping up appearances." "Is It Not Fantastic?" They went to dance and Austrelitz slipped away to telephone the Carleton; but Karsanokoff had not yet come in. He telephoned twice more at half-hour intervals, and the third time, he succeeded in reaching her. She spoke, however, as though someone were there listening to what she said: "I am so tired. I will speak to you tomorrow, eh? . . . A stupid policeman came to the theater with a taxi driver—even more stupid—declaring that I was the woman in the mink coat who went to that Vronski's apartment on the night that he was murdered—I can you imagine it—who had only just met the man and had no idea in this world where he lived! . . . Is it not fantastic?" "Fantastic," agreed Austrelitz. "Did he want to search your rooms or was he satisfied with your denial?" "After much argument, they went away," answered Karsanokoff. "I think to collect further proofs or perhaps a search warrant—God only knows. But for tonight at least, I am free of them. And I am fatigued, I can tell you. I will not speak any more, now, but tomorrow, you shall hear from me, Goodby."

Legislative Chaff and Chatter

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—Advocates of the bill to make adult education a part of the public school system of North Carolina are pointing to the fact that this state ranks next to lowest in white literacy. They cite the figures—236,000 absolute illiterates and 500,000 near-illiterates—as a fine argument for the $50,000 appropriation asked.

The matter is now in the hands of the appropriations committee.

"Uncle Willie" Clark's senate agriculture committee is working hard to bring out some kind of a bill which will provide means of educating farm folks in the kind of fertilizer they buy. The veteran Edgemole legislator is sure there is only a very small percentage of folks who know what they are getting when they buy fertilizer.

On all sides the comment is heard that the current legislature is less inclined to "partying" than any other of recent years. Despite the fact that it has sunk prohibition without trace, its members are probably the driest personally in a long span.

"North Carolina Labor and Industry" monthly publication of the Department of Labor, has just been released for February. Principal story is the resignation of Mrs. May Thompson Evans, director of the N. C. State Employment Service.

The bill aimed at turning Republican Madison county over to the Democrats has been favorably reported by the House committee on cities, counties and towns, but it is likely to meet rough going in both House and Senate, where there are numerous Democrats who believe in local self-government.

These solons feel that if they do violence to that principle for the sake of partisan prejudice, it may not be long before the same course is pursued against minority factions of the dominant party.

The plea for local self-government comes with a bit of bad grace from the Republicans, however, most observers agree, because every one of the G. O. P. delegation voted against county option as applied to the liquor question.

This column gave credit to the wrong Dellinger the other day. It was Tom Dellinger, Republican representative from Avery county, who took the pikes to the movies, and not Dave Dellinger, stalwart Democrat from Gaston.

The error came from the fact that the initials of the two men are "dear sons," as the lawyers say—that is, you can't tell "tother from which" when they are spoken. Gaston Dellinger is D. P., Avery Dellinger is T. P.

PEACE ACTION

(From World Peaceways, Member Organization of E. P. C.)
The most powerful man in America!

Who is he? You and I. Our friends. Our neighbors. In other words, Mr. Average Citizen.

The only trouble is, he frequently fails to realize his own strength. He allows himself to be bullied, led, and tricked, and when he realizes it, is inclined to say: "But what can I do about it?"

Take, for instance, this absurd business of war. He doesn't want war. He doesn't want to give up his job, leave his life and youngsters, live like an animal in the trenches and be shot at like an animal by Average Citizens of another country.

Yet he does all this. He fights wars created by far-from-Average Citizens who do not give up their jobs, do not leave their wives and youngsters, do not get shot at.

Peace is something to fight for; war is something to fight against. So, Mr. Average Citizen, wield that tremendous power of yours! Let linguistic politicians, big navy lobbyists, war-fomenting papers, feel the might of your wrath!

Things To Do
Citizens can do something:

1. Find out the peace program laid down by the church or civic club to which you belong, and work to make it articulate and effective.

2. For immediate action, cooperate with the Emergency Peace Campaign.

Miss Fields at Vesper Service
"Victorious Living", written by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, was reviewed at the College Y. W. C. A. Vesper services by Miss Frances Fields, Presbyterian Student Worker, last night.

The life of Dr. Jones, she said, was aglow of the Gospel teachings, and "Victorious Living" was a reply to a letter he received asking him how one could acquire that inner peace one hears so much about. Prayer, which is a practice of God, he gives as one of the essentials.

Miss Fields then read several thoughts from his book, among which are: "In searching for a victorious living, begin with a search of God"; "In order to find God, one must give up oneself and follow Christ, the Savior"; "Life that is lived off the surface roots instead of the depths is not fully and truly lived"; "Out of the calm come the forces that shape the world".

A quiet, "I've Anchored My Soul" was sung by Misses Edna Marie Perry, Frances Curran, Catherine Cheek and Madeline Eaker.

EXPRESS FEAR FOR DEADLOCK

Revenue Bill May Prevent Mid-March Adjournment

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—If the senate continues to throw monkey wrenches and brick-bats into the revenue bill again this week as it did last week when it put the bill on a to-bogged and gave it a shove down hill during which some $1,500,000 a year in revenue was removed and only about $750,000 put back, the outlook is for another deadlock between the senate and house that may wreck all plans for an early adjournment and keep the general assembly in session well into April.

Unless the senate takes a hitch or two in its belt when it meets here again this afternoon and decided to back-track on some of the things it did last Friday when it adopted amendments removing millions of dollars from the revenue bill as non-essential as if it were smoking game, the chances are for plenty of trouble ahead and a long and possibly bitter session, most observers here agree.

When the senate meets here again this afternoon and tonight to resume its wrecking of the revenue bill as passed by the house, the bill will be at least $1,500,000 out of balance with the appropriations bill, those who have been studying the two bills over the week-end agree. And if the senate continues in the direction it was headed last week when Senator E. V. Webb, chairman of the senate finance committee, adjourned hurriedly until Monday afternoon, to prevent the further gutting of the revenue bill, the prospects are that several million dollars more in revenue will be removed from it. For indications late Friday afternoon were that the senate was on the verge of adopting a 3 per cent sales tax rate instead of the 3 per cent rate enacted by the house, which would reduce the revenue from the bill by another $1,500,000 a year and throw the bill $3,000,000 a year out of balance. It is also being predicted that the gasoline and oil companies are sure of getting the chain filling station tax either removed or lowered, which will reduce the revenue from the bill by at least another $1,500,000 a year and throw it some $1,500,000 a year out of balance.

What threw the revenue and appropriations bills so badly out of balance was the removal by the senate of the 3 per cent sales tax on building materials, as imposed by the house, although it restored the sales tax on meals to make up for part of this loss. But Commissioner of Revenue Maxwell estimated that the tax on building materials would bring in at least $1,500,000 and the sales tax on meals would yield only about $625,000. So with the bill already about $500,000 out of balance as passed by the house, the prevailing belief is that it is easily $1,500,000 out of balance now.

As amendment after amendment was adopted Friday and the revenue from the bill battered down lower and lower, a veteran of numerous other sessions went to Chairman Webb of the finance committee and urged him to move for an adjournment if he wanted to have any bill left at all. For the members of the senate were tired and "red" and had gotten to the point where they didn't give a darn whether the bill balanced or not, and Senator W. I. Halstead of Elizabeth City was hammering away harder and harder for his amendment to reduce the sales tax to 2 per cent.

The hope is that today, after two days of rest, the senators will be able to think and see things more

Would Remember Alamo

Washington (AP)—Representative Maverick, Texas Democrat, has introduced a bill in congress authorizing the coinage of a special issue of 50-cent pieces commemorating the fall of the Alamo. The coins, of which 20,000 would be minted, would be issued and sold through the Alamo mission chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

clearly and realize that they must find a dollar of new revenue for every dollar of revenue they remove from the money bill.

Three principal reasons are given for the tendency of the senate to disregard the revenue bill as passed by the house, tear it to pieces and rewrite it. One is the feeling of superiority on the part of the senate as compared with the house, since there is no doubt that senators as a rule regard themselves as feeling very superior to house members—and this feeling is deliberately encouraged and fed by the lobbyists.

A second reason is that few of the senators follow the proceedings of the house or of the finance committee, with the result that they know very little about what has already been done or what ideas or plans have already been presented and discarded. As a result, most of the steps already taken in the finance committee and in the house have to be retraced all over again in the senate.

A third reason—in this session especially—is the lack of leadership in the senate. Neither Senator Webb, chairman of the senate finance committee or Senator Bell, chairman of the appropriations committee, have the drive and generalship needed to drive their bill through, most observers agree, and cannot compare with Chairman Victor S. Bryant and Libby Ward who manages the bills in the house.

TITLE BATTLE ON MARCH 2ND

Date Set for Greenville - High Point Chapel Hill Tilt

Chapel Hill, N. C. Feb. 22.—Eastern and Western Class A and B champions will clash here on Tuesday, March 2, in a feature twin bill program, according to E. L. Rankin, Secretary of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association.

High Point clinched honor in the Western Class A division last week by turning back Greensboro, its foremost threat to title honor. 22-17, Greenville earned its way to the final round two weeks ago by nosing Durham, leading other contenders, 22-21.

Although the Class B finalists haven't as yet been determined, play this week will go through the semi-final and final stages. The four leading Eastern teams are Elizabeth City, No. 1 District champ; Richlands, No. 2 District leader; Lafayette, No. 3 pace-setter, and West End, No. 4 winner.

Elizabeth City and Richlands will engage each other tonight at Elizabeth City, while West End and Lafayette will battle on neutral territory, Pinehurst, Tuesday night. In the event Elizabeth City wins, the State Class B title game will be held at Wilson on the following Wednesday night. Otherwise Salisbury will be the site of the final game.

Heading the Western cage parade are three teams: Pilot Mountain, Spencer and Paw Creek. This week's schedule has not yet been announced. The Western championship will be decided sometime the latter part of the week.

The Eastern and Western Class A regular schedules will be brought to a close this week. In the East, Wilson and Raleigh play at Raleigh Tuesday while Durham moves over to the Capital City for a return contest with Raleigh Friday night. The final engagement in the West is between Winston-Salem and Charlotte in the Queen City Friday night.

Results of last week's game in the West: Charlotte 25, Salisbury 16; High Point 22, Winston-Salem 17; Greensboro, 29, Gastonia 23; High Point 33, Winston-Salem 21. In the only Eastern contest Wilson beat Raleigh 25-18. A previously scheduled game between Raleigh and Greenville Friday night was cancelled by mutual agreement.

The Class A standings:

Improving the secondary roads, and the only concrete proposal so far offered has been Senator Halstead's measure.

In the minds of a good many legislators it is not a question of whether the bond issue is the proper method of constructing secondary roads, but of whether the state can afford any construction at all along those lines.

These solons concede that a bond issue is the only practical method of getting any construction. They point out that ordinary receipts of the Highway department are no more than sufficient to meet the present "must" requirements, much less to think of more road buildings.

"To begin with, we have to meet a heavy debt service," said one Representative. "Then we have to match federal funds in order to get through highway construction on certain routes. Then there is maintenance of through highways, to say nothing of any new construction in that category. Add to that the fact that we must maintain the secondary roads already built and we are faced with the stern fact that there's no money left to build any new secondary roads."

"That being the case," he continued, "There is no way on earth we can build more secondary roads except with proceeds of a bond issue, and so we are brought face to face with the question whether we can afford any more construction or not."

Senator Halstead contends the state can and ought to. That's the question which will be decided by the vote on his bond issue bill.

GASTON SOLON WINS PRAISES

Has Little to Say, But Makes Fine Representative

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—He hasn't made a speech on the floor this session. He probably will not, as he is more than a little scornful of those who "waste the House's time." Yet Representative David J. Dellinger, one of the gentlemen from Gaston as Speaker Greg Chery calls him, is doing a good job at representing the textile center county.

Certainly he knows the legislative ropes as few of his colleagues do, and he has a way about him that exerts considerable influence on his more-vocative but perhaps less powerful members.

It may be that he just happens to be on the winning side of almost every question, but there are those who feel that his being on a side often helps it be the winning one. And with the exception of the liquor referendum and reapportionment issues, Mr. Dellinger has been almost uniformly in the majority list.

His haircut and his habitual silence in the House are at direct loggerheads. His flogging locks give him the appearance of an old-school orator. His actions belie his looks.

The only times he holds forth are those occasions when he relieves the House reading clerk. And in this post he is right at home for he was reading clerk for a dozen years—1915 to 1925 and again in 1927.

His legislative experience dates back to 1909 when he was clerk of the finance committee. In 1913 he was a member. In 1925 he was again chosen by the voters as their representative. He served in the extra session of 1913.

Thursday afternoon he took all the House pages to the movies. That's the kind of regular fellow he is.

tion and the Summers bill for voluntary retirement of supreme court justices with full pay at 70.

Awaiting committee action in both branches were the proposed reorganization of the executive departments, the $5,000,000,000 Public Works plan and the suggested policies to offset droughts, aid farm tenants, insure crops and dispose of power to be generated at Bonnerville dam in Oregon.

Future recommendations by the President, some of which may be made this week, were expected to cover:

Minimum wages and maximum hours in industry.

Voluntary trade agreements by industries, allowing some relaxation of the anti-trust laws.

And "ever-normal granary" plan for agriculture.

Re-institution of the sugar processing tax.

Broadening of the social security act.

A slum clearance, low cost housing program.

Another relief deficiency appropriation.

Possibly a tax on foreign investments in this country.

Some form of unemployment census.

And ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

BOOTLEGGERS USE GARBAGE IN WHISKEY

Columbus, O. (AP)—Bootleg whiskey sold here which analysis disclosed contained anything from garbage to carbolic acid has roused state and city officials to the point where they have issued emphatic warnings to the public to confine purchases to legal liquor.

The low quality of homemade whiskey "horridly" Dr. John H. J. Upham, president of the American Medical association and dean of medicine at Ohio State university. He warned against the multitude of injuries such concoctions inflict on the human body.

Columbus police said they found that most of the bootleg liquor was made in Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo from garbage and beet sugar.

Child Labor Foes Seek Legislation To Protect Youth

Insist More Strenuous Laws Needed To Check Trend Toward Greater Employment of Children

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 22.—While opponents of child labor do not contend that North Carolina now exploits its youngsters as was the case a decade or so ago, they do insist that more stringent laws are needed to check the present trend toward greater and greater employment of children in industry.

Statistics from the state department of labor show that there were only 504 children under 16 years old who received permits to fill full time jobs during the fiscal year 1935-36, but these statistics also show that this comparatively small figure was an increase of more than 700 per cent over the preceding year when only 64 such permits were granted.

Many fear that child labor will continue to increase unless laws are now enacted to prevent such a consummation, because employment records for the past dozen years show that child labor fluctuates with increases and decreases in industrial production and prosperity.

There is, therefore, grounds for belief that with a period of prospective prosperity there is also a period of prospective increase in child labor and a resulting necessity for legislation to prevent it.

The labor department records show that child labor was definitely on the increase until the NRA virtually wiped it out.

Now that the Blue Eagle can no longer spread its protecting wings

DANVILLE HIGH HERE TONIGHT

Final Home Contest To Be Played At 7:30 O'Clock

Tonight at 7:30 the Green Phantoms will ring down the curtain for the 1937 basketball season by engaging the strong George Washington High school of Danville, Va. at the local gym.

This will be the locals final home appearance, but they still have two remaining games; the state championship game with High Point on March 2, at Chapel Hill, and a preliminary game to the Southern Conference tournament on March 3rd.

The game tonight should be one of the best of the entire season. The Greens defeated Danville 30 to 27 two weeks ago on the latter's court, and the G. W. Cardinals will be out seeking revenge in tonight's encounter. Fans will want to watch Earl Wynn flashy Cardinal forward who has averaged 16 points per game. Tom Parrish will be the boy to try to stop him.

Officials of the High school are expecting one of the largest crowds of the season to witness the contest.

In addition to the game being a stand-out attraction, it is hoped that all basketball lovers of this city will be present for the purpose of giving the boys a big send-off before they play for the state championship. The game will start promptly at 7:30.

OLDEST DRIVER TELLS HOW HE AVOIDS WRECK

Pueblo, Colo., (AP)—Ninety-one-year-old Frank Benham, who has driven an automobile 100,000 miles without an accident, says that if you want to avoid collisions, "keep your feet near the brakes."

State automobile license officials say Benham is the oldest licensed automobile driver in Colorado and probably one of the oldest in the nation.

"I made my first U-turn on a street recently," he says. "I wouldn't have done it, but the state auto license examiner made me do it when I took my driving test."
