CHANCES FADE FOR EFFECTING LEAF COMPACT

Georgia Legislature Refuses to Support Program

KILLS MEASURE FOR ALL STATES

Some Control, However, Possible Thru Cooperation in Soil Conservation

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Chances for a cured tobacco production control through state compacts for 1937 have apparently faded completely, farm leaders said here today.

Some control, however, will be possible if farmers cooperate fully in soil conservation, E. Y. Floyd, N. C. State college tobacco specialist, said.

Action of a Georgia legislative committee in killing a proposed compact measure for that state ended chances for control this year, E. P. Arnold, executive secretary of the State Farm Bureau, said.

The North Carolina compact law, passed recently, is inoperative unless Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia pass similar legislation for five cured tobacco.

"There seems to be nothing we can do about the situation in Georgia," Arnold said. "We plan now to turn to Washington to see if we can get federal aid in crop control."

Floyd said he talked with J. B. Hutson, federal soil conservation director for this region, last night and Hutson had expressed the opinion something might be done for additional federal production control "if the people press for it."

Floyd said he and Hutson agreed there was little chance for compact control this year.

"All farmers will cooperate fully with the soil conservation program and get benefit payments for crop diversification, they will be sitting pretty in the boat if tobacco growers run wild and plant a big crop," Floyd said. "We have records that more than 15,000 farmers attended soil conservation meetings in the last month and such gatherings are being held in each of the 100 counties for thousands of other farmers."

Agriculture Commissioner Kerr Scott said "it is and has been the hope of the department of agriculture that other states would join North Carolina in legislation for the protection of the farmer," but noted Georgia had refused the compact bill.

Applications For Emergency Loans Received In City

Farmers Unable to Borrow From Any Other Source May Get Cash To Purchase Seed

Applications for emergency crop and feed loans for 1937 are now being received at County Agent's office by Miss Dorothy Dixon of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

These loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1937 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock and in no instance may exceed $400.

Farmers are not eligible for these loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Emergency crop and feed loans will not be made by the Farm Credit Administration to standard rehabilitation clients of the Resettlement Administration whose current needs are provided for by Resettlement.

As in the past, the security for these loans will consist of a first lien on the crop financed if the loan is for the production of crops, and if for the purchase of feed for livestock, then a first lien on the livestock to be fed. Landlords, or others having an interest in the crops or the livestock to be fed, will be required to waive their claims in favor of the lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of the approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Columbia, South Carolina.

SMOAK DENIES STATE CHARGE

Contends He Did Not Kill Two Wives and Daughter

Wilmington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Through a two hour cross examination today, Edgar Smoak steadfastly professed his innocence of the state's charges he killed his two wives and daughter to collect insurance.

A procession of his neighbors followed him to the witness stand and said he was a man of good character and that he was kindly toward his 16-year-old daughter, Annie Thelma Smoak, whom the state accused him of poisoning.

Several, however, admitted on cross examination they would not allow their children to go to the Smoak home after Mrs. Genette Harker, 26-year-old widow, came to keep house for Smoak.

Mrs. Harker previously had testified she moved to the Smoak home two weeks after the death of Smoak's second wife and she had "gone out" with Smoak at least once before Mrs. Smoak died.

William Farmer, a member of Smoak's counsel, said the defense planned to rest early in the afternoon, as soon as one or two more witnesses were called.

Suggests Farmers Exercise Caution With Fertilizers

State College Expert Warns That Plant Food in Fertilizer Can Poison Seed

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—The plant food in fertilizer can be a treacherous poison if applied in concentrated doses too close to the seed.

With cotton, for example, best results can be obtained by placing the fertilizer in bands to the side of the rows of seed, said Emerson R. Collins, agronomist at the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

But if the fertilizer is placed under the seed, the powerful chemical action may impair or even completely destroy the germinating ability of the seed, he added.

Since much of the cotton seed this year is low in germinating power, Collins continued, it is especially important that farmers exercise care in placing their fertilizer.

The maximum benefits can be obtained by placing the bands of fertilizer two to three inches to the side of the seed rows and two to three inches below the seed level, he stated.

Collins has prepared a circular, published by the experiment station, that shows the results of experiments in applying fertilizer to cotton and other crops.

Free copies may be obtained by North Carolina farmers who apply to C. B. Williams, head of the agronomy department, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

The publication is entitled Agronomy Information Circular No. 104, "Investigations on the Mechanical Application of Fertilizers for Cotton in North Carolina, with Some Results for Other Crops Obtained in Other States."

STRIKES FELT OVER MOST OF UNITED STATES

More Than 27,000 Workers Left Jobless by Disputes

SERVE AS CHECK ON PRODUCTION

Walkouts or Sitdowns Involve Firms Manufacturing Diversified Products

Strikes at a Glance
Santa Monica, Calif., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Several hundred strikers hold Douglas Aircraft company plant for third day; 5,430 jobs.

Decatur, Ill.—47 sit-downs evacuate Century Wallpaper mills; face contempt citation March 16.

Boston—Hundreds jobless in New England shoe strikes; many firms agree to pay hike.

St. Paul—Strikers picket Northern States Power company plants in St. Paul and Minneapolis; three hundred to five hundred in walkout.

Elgin, Ill.—Six hundred strike at Illinois Watch Case company; plant picketed; nine hundred jobless.

Detroit—Strikers hold dozen factories; Chrysler corporation agrees to consider union demands.

(By Associated Press)

An epidemic of strikes that spread to all sections of the nation held a check on production in scores of industrial and business establishments today.

More than 27,000 workers were made jobless by labor disputes in at least 50 firms.

Strikes broke out or old ones were settled almost hourly. Women, as well as men participated, using both the walkout and picket method and the new sitdown technique.

The strikes involved firms manufacturing such diversified products as airplanes, wall paper, rubber tires, stores, ships, cigars, watches, auto parts, shoes, pens, clothing and jewelry.

The dozen strikes in the Detroit area made that city the "strike capital" of the nation, but the number of workers made idle by the disputes was smaller than in some other cities. Six strikes were settled yesterday.

Pitt County Farmers Ship Number of Hogs

Seventeen Pitt county farmers have just shipped 219 hogs, weighing an average of 219 pounds each at prices ranging from eight and one-half to 10.20 cents, netting a total of $4,598.

The shipment was made through the Pitt County Mutual Exchange and with the cooperation of R. R. Bennett, county farm agent.

Bids were received from packing houses and commission merchants for the day the hogs were to be shipped. The prices were F. O. B. Greenville. Each hog was marked so that those bringing premiums could be designated.

No Clues Available In Nashville Death

Nashville, N. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Working without clues, Nash county officers pursued their investigation today into the death of June Fogleman, 30-year-old farmer whose body was found in a wood near his home with a shotgun wound in the abdomen and a badly bruised head.

Nash Sheriff C. V. Faulkner said evidence pointed clearly to foul play, but said his investigation had produced neither native nor clue so far.

Seawell Talked For Post On Supreme Court Bench

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Attorney General A. E. F. Seawell may be appointed as one of the two new members of the State Supreme Court sometime in June, in which event Hubert E. Oliv of Lexington, campaign manager for Governor Clyde R. Hoey in his primary campaign, will probably be appointed Attorney General to fill the unexpired term left vacant by Mr. Seawell's elevation to the Supreme Court bench, according to the political prognosticators here who keep their ears to the ground in an effort to figure out what Governor Hoey is going to do and who is going to appoint to the several judicial positions he has the power to fill.

It is also believed that he will appoint J. Wallace Winborne, state Democratic Executive Committee chairman, as the other new member of the Supreme court from the west, as most of the politically minded here seem to get that Winborne is almost sure to get one of these appointments.

DELAY FEARED FOR BLOCKADE

Meanwhile Severe Fighting Rages on Spanish Fronts

(By Associated Press)

Delay in effecting a neutrality blockade of the Spanish civil war was forecast at London today.

In Spain severe fighting raged from the Madrid front, especially in the Jarama river sector to the town of Oviedo, near the Bay of Biscay.

French objections to details of a land patrol and Russia's to her part of a sea patrol complicated the picture as six powers gathered for a neutrality sub-committee meeting in London. An "act of God" shelling of the British warship Royal Oak off Valencia Tuesday prevented the possibility of other such incidents when the powers try to patrol Spain to keep foreign men and arms out.

Although a full blockade was believed impossible by the deadline March 6, some hope was expressed that, gradually increasing it to full, a modified plan could be effected by the end of the agreement.

Government troops fought to gain the heights of a hill dominating the road from Madrid to Valencia. Madrid officials set insurgent dead in one phase of the battle for the hill at 2,500.

NEGUS LEADER PUT TO DEATH

Ras Desta Demtu Is Captured by Italian Forces

Addis Ababa, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Haile Selassie and last of the Ethiopian chiefs to dispute Italian occupation, has been captured and executed, an official communique announced today.

He was killed yesterday immediately after an Italian scouting party seized him in the mountain region West of the lakes stretching south of Addis Ababa.

The fascist soldiers surprised the Ras with a few followers. There was quick exchange of shots and then capture. His death was interpreted in informed circles as marking the removal of the final vestige organized resistance to Italy's colonization of Haile Selassie's former domain. Colonial authorities believed Ras' forces were the only sizable opposition to Italian rule.

Last Friday 3,000 of Ras' followers battled four Italian columns South of Addis Ababa at the moment hand grenades were hurled at Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, viceroy of Ethiopia, in the capital.

Act Would Reduce Revocation Limit On Drunk Drivers

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Representatives J. C. Hobbs and Thomas E. Cooper of New Hanover county, have introduced a bill which would have the effect of cutting in half the period of revocation of driver's licenses for offenses such as driving while drunk, in cases where no damage was done by the driver.

Under present law revocation is for a period of one year in all cases of first offense. The Hobbs-Cooper act provides that the driver's license shall be restored after six months "where there has been only a technical violation of the Driver's License act, no damage having been done by said driver and the same is the first offense and six months having elapsed since the suspension of said license."

The act further provides that restoration shall be made in the above cases "upon recommendation of the selector and trial judge."

The effect, observers agree, would be that practically every license revoked in cases where there is no damage would be restored after six months.

Many observers familiar with New Hanover court records see a close connection between the bill offered by the two representatives and the revocation of the license of Leon Futrelle, Wilmington druggist, whose license was suspended July 3, 1936, after his conviction in recorder's court of drunken driving.

These observers point out that Mr. Futrelle would without doubt be one of the first beneficiaries of the proposed act, as the conditions for restoration set out in the bill are exactly applicable to his case.

Survey Discloses That 83 Per Cent Of Scales Wrong

Inaccuracies in Heavy Duty Devices Range From 3,700 to 10 Pounds on Six-Ton Load

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Eighty-three per cent of the heavy duty scales in North Carolina were found to be inaccurate and condemned by the Department of Agriculture Weights and Measures division following a survey by the division in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Standards during the past 30 days.

Inaccuracies ranged from 3,700 pounds to ten pounds on a 6-ton load in the 35 counties into which the 38,000 - pound scale - testing truck was taken. The scale-testing unit, with personnel, was loaned to the division to make the survey January 4.

C. D. Baucum, head of the division of weights and measures, after compiling statistics and determining the results of the survey conducted throughout the state, said that "if 83 per cent deficiency is indicated on heavy duty scales in 35 counties taken at random, we must reasonably assume the percentage approximates the general condition throughout the state."

Heavy duty scales are used to weigh coal, grain, and other materials and products requiring accurate weight determination.

Mr. Baucum pointed out that the scale-testing truck, loaned by the Federal Bureau of Standards, "afforded the Department of Agriculture its first opportunity to test heavy-duty scales." The test-truck was furnished to the state upon request of the weights and measures division and North Carolina is the second state to obtain the device from the federal government.

North Carolina does not have facilities for testing heavy duty scales. "The correction of these scales will save the manufacturers and consumers thousands of dollars," Mr. Baucum said.

The largest error in weight was found on a scale tested for 12,000 pounds, which registered 15,700 pounds, revealing an error of 2,700 pounds.

"However," Mr. Baucum said, "in every instance the owner of the inaccurate scale showed an anxious disposition to get his scale repaired and in correct condition."

C. L. Yates, state inspector of the division, accompanied the truck on the test-tour.

HOUSE AGREES ON CHANGES IN REVENUE BILL

Votes Overwhelmingly to Accept Senate Amendments

LEVY ON MEALS STILL RETAINED

Decision Comes As Somewhat of a Surprise to Many Legislative Observers

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The House, by an overwhelming oral vote, accepted Senate amendments to the $76,000,000 biennial general fund revenue bill this afternoon.

The House must now pass the amended revenue act on roll call votes tomorrow and Saturday. Leaders outlined plans to complete action on it shortly after midnight Friday.

House acceptance of the Senate changes, especially a three percent tax on meals which the Democratic party pledged to remove, came as somewhat of a surprise.

More than an hour was spent in debate after Representative Bryant moved for concurrence.

Most of the opposition centered on the tax on meals.

If the measure completes its readings in the House in its present form, it will levy new taxes on intangibles, gifts and wines. It will continue the three percent sales tax except on basic foods and renewable present taxes, without change.

The senate worked slowly on the appropriations bill, boosting allotments to the North Carolina sanatorium about $18,000 then recessed to continue deliberations tonight.

Representative Bryant, house financial chairman, explained each one of the 41 senate tax changes in detail.

The house passed revenue proposals, he said, lacked about $800,000 of meeting estimated general fund expenditures for 1937-38.

Senate changes cut the gap to about $300,000 by reductions in taxes on building materials and chain filling stations, to reduce the estimated total by $475,000, and an addition of $800,000 by a three percent tax on meals.

The act further provides that restoration shall be made in the above cases "upon recommendation of the selector and trial judge."

The effect, observers agree, would be that practically every license revoked in cases where there is no damage would be restored after six months.

Many observers familiar with New Hanover court records see a close connection between the bill offered by the two representatives and the revocation of the license of Leon Futrelle, Wilmington druggist, whose license was suspended July 3, 1936, after his conviction in recorder's court of drunken driving.

These observers point out that Mr. Futrelle would without doubt be one of the first beneficiaries of the proposed act, as the conditions for restoration set out in the bill are exactly applicable to his case.

Seawell Talked For Post On Supreme Court Bench

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Attorney General A. E. F. Seawell may be appointed as one of the two new members of the State Supreme Court sometime in June, in which event Hubert E. Oliv of Lexington, campaign manager for Governor Clyde R. Hoey in his primary campaign, will probably be appointed Attorney General to fill the unexpired term left vacant by Mr. Seawell's elevation to the Supreme Court bench, according to the political prognosticators here who keep their ears to the ground in an effort to figure out what Governor Hoey is going to do and who is going to appoint to the several judicial positions he has the power to fill.

It is also believed that he will appoint J. Wallace Winborne, state Democratic Executive Committee chairman, as the other new member of the Supreme court from the west, as most of the politically minded here seem to get that Winborne is almost sure to get one of these appointments.

W. D. Hackney Succumbs to Injuries Suffered 10 Days Ago When Struck by Truck

Wilson, Feb. 25.—(AP)—W. D. Hackney, whose name was once familiar throughout the South as the builder of Hackney farm wagons, died here today, the victim of a motor truck injury.

The 70-year-old retired manufacturer was knocked down on a street here ten days ago and suffered a fractured skull. M. L. Williamson, operator of the truck, was held under $500 bond.

The funeral will be Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home.

CAMDEN SONS MAKING GOOD

Four Natives of Little County Now in General Assembly

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Camden is one of the smallest counties of North Carolina, but despite its less than 5,000 population it has four "Native Sons" in the legislature, providing not only its own representation, but that of neighboring Pasquotank as well.

Its own delegation is composed of youthful H. V. Leary, of Old Trap, in the House and Senator W. I. Halstead, South Mills, who sits for the First District in the upper branch.

Camden "products," since transplanted to Pasquotank, who hold legislative seats are Webb Williams of the House, and Senator Jerry J. Fughes, Elizabeth City, from the Second Senatorial District.

A fifth Camdenite by birth and "raising" who has been seen around the legislative halls about as much as the members is Cale K. Burgess, generalissimo of the dry forces which sustained such a signal defeat in the current session. Some who are bragging about the quarter of solons from Camden are doing more apologizing than boasting about Mr. Burgess.

But back to the legislators. Young

Mr. Leary has had little to say on the floor, but has done his share of committee work. A first term, he says he believes he can do more for his county by keeping his mouth shut and learning the legislative ropes thoroughly than he can by "popping off" on every occasion.

Mr. Williams is a veteran of the House. He like Mr. Leary, isn't given to perfunctory bursts of oratory, but is concededly one of the strongest members. His inactivity is widespread.

Senator Halstead has been in the limelight with his bill to issue bonds to build secondary roads and his efforts to reduce the sales tax rate to 2 per cent.

Senator Hughes is chairman of the Library committee. He has made few remarks on the floor, but has attended to business with the best of them.

COEDS BEGIN PLANS FOR SECOND MAY DAY AT UNC

Other committeemen include Janine Britt, of Marion, in charge of plans for the pageant; Helen Pritchard, Asheville, finances; Smith, Chapel Hill, music; Christine Maynard, Kinston, dances; Mary Lindsay, St. Pauls, costumes; Virginia Byrd, Deal, N. J., court dresses; Nancy Schaller, Winston-Salem, scenery; Nell Booker, Chapel Hill, posters and programs; and Ruth Crowell, Newton, publicity.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Chapter One

Lovers Go To Luncheon

EVE MANNERSFIELD leaned back from her desk alongside the great plate-glass windows. She thrust her brown-gold curls behind her ears, and rapturously contemplated the gorgeous bonfire of all her bridges.

She tried to fix her mind on an uncompleted sheet of neat honeymoon arithmetic, but she was too excited. Next week Herndon and Co. would be short one of their most promising young publicity assistants. It was also her next-to-last week in the tiny apartment where she had spent three hard-working, hard-playing New York years. There had been two before that in a hall bedroom.

In exactly 14 days she and Denny Carter would be unbelievably, magnificently honeymooning their way round the world.

Denny had landed his new job as publicity man for the Southern Star Line. From April first he would be the head of the house, and she would be one more of the pretty idle brides in rough seagoing coats or smart southern sport clothes, forgetting diligently all she had ever known about layouts. It would be heaven.

Dear boyish Denny, with his long, slim body, his slanting blue-green eyes like a sleepy cat's, his slow southern voice and his quick southern pride! He'd hated so her making more money than he did; her having a cubicle of her own, while his desk was among the others out on the floor. And small blame to him. It was nice for a man to be that way.

She was so deep in her thoughts, which were a kaleidoscope of the silk bathing suit in Lester's window, the

"Not only love you, but have one of my own. Then I needn't bother to have any dinner to speak of tonight I want to do some digging in the apartment."

Eve smiled across at him. She loved it all; the warm smoky dusky restaurant, with its content, murmuring pairs all about her, its rich deep colors, vague on the walls, its eager little tacit waiters, the laughing noise from the bar; above all, Denny's big hand with the fair down on its frankly clasping hers across the table, and Denny's adoring long eyes holding her eyes fast. The waiter broke the perfect moment, bringing their order. They tried to eat, but they didn't get far. Eve had merely cut her nice little steak, and Denny's oval dish of potatoes-gratin sat there, its smoking rough brown surface broken by his nervous fork, when he spoke, a little shyly.

"You'll Be The Perfect Wife"

"WHEN we come back we must go apartment hunting. I thought perhaps we might even get it in before we left, so long as you're leaving Saturday."

Eve made herself speak very practically and soberly: "When's your lease up, yours and Dick's?"

"Leave, which? We haven't any, it's a monthly arrangement as best as our humble condition, and the landlord grateful at that."

"Oh, that makes things perfect. We can do practically anything, because mine's up the first of the month."

"And that's quite close. We're free as air." They shook hands excitedly over the potatoes. "Waiter, get us a paper, won't you?"

The waiter, smiling paternally, presented them with a paper.

Eve and Denny laughed in the crowded noontime New York street. People turned to look at them, both so tall and fair and gay, and so obviously on top of the world.

problem of a new suitcase versus another evening frock, and Denny's own laughing voice and last gay kiss the night before, that she jumped at the warm feel of his hand on her shoulder.

"Hurry, my own darling angel!" he said, stooping to kiss her. "Let's go to lunch and plan like the devil."

"Right with you!" she said blithely. She stood up and began setting herself in order. Even the raw light of the floor-to-ceiling Madison avenue windows could find no flaw in her freshness. She had a mannequin's tall, narrow, boneless figure. Her tweed suit with its blue twin sweaters, its funny, brown leather beads, was so smartly worn that only a salesman could have guessed how little the whole outfit cost. She pulled a low tweed hat over the gold-brown mop that made piquant her wide-spaced slanted brows and wide-set hazel eyes. She fended Denny off from another kiss, reddened her smiling, generous mouth, snatched her bag and gloves and was with him.

"Almost through with the old dump," Denny said as they crossed the long room with its rows of desks, and passed out into the tiny waiting room with its scattered books and bright-framed "originals," its waiting artists and writers, self-conscious in the tall Jacobean armchairs against the paneled walls.

"I love it here," Eve said impulsively. "It's like home, I'm almost sorry I resigned."

"M'm," Denny was not enthusiastic. "Just a royer at heart? Or longing for the planter's life of Virginia?"

He shook his head, silent, till they got outside. Then he squeezed her elbow closer as they walked; he was never near her long without touching her in some way. "Just down a bit."

Both So Fair and Gay

EVE never much minded Denny's "downs"—they were so little-boyish that cooking them away rather amused her. Eve herself rarely had causeless moods of depression, she liked life. She had a job she enjoyed, she had lots of friends she adored, she was pretty and popular, and best of all, Denny and she were in love and going to be married and going on a trip.

"Even if there was trouble, there'd be nothing to do about it but to help the ones you can and not brood about the ones you can't," she pointed out to Denny.

He laughed at her earnestness, gay

"We must be sure to get a place with a cross-draft, and good closets," Eve said.

"By George, Eve, you'll be the perfect wife; you sound domestic already."

"I always was domestic," Eve said. "I was brought up in the Connecticut farming country—how often must I tell you? I helped with the housework and my aunt's home-baking business that kept off the wolf in a genteel fashion, till I went to Smith. Only one year, darling, but don't forget to be impressed."

"Everything about you impresses me to the bone," he said, staring adoringly at her—the hat at the smart angle, the lips with their lipstick matched to her nails, the pretty arrogant face that laughed at him. "You're more of the city than the city itself. It's one of the things I love you for. Precious, sure you don't mind checking the great career and all that, just to go sailing with your Denny?"

"Idiot! I'm not one of these old-fashioned girls that want self-expression! I'm going to swim and play ring-toss and lie on deck and look at attractive strangers under my eyelashes, and do everything languorous I've ever read about in the glamor advertisements. I've been earning my living ever since Auntie Lina died, at the beginning of my sophomore year. You can just earn it for me, now, you old cave man. Besides—I'm rather for you, Denny."

It she had a feeling in her heart that she wasn't always going to be able to keep her hands off his work, this was not the time to say so. The two of them would be a grand combination, she thought secretly, and what did it matter if Den got the credit? All the better, poor darling, after having to stand a sweetheart who was ahead of him on the ladder.

"Tell you what," Denny said suddenly. "Let's throw a party tonight and tell the world our dark secret!"

"They've mostly guessed it," said Eve. "But grand!"

"Let's make a list of who we'll call up."

Denny fell to scribbling and frowning. But Eve, digging in her bag for her notebook and pen, discovered also her morning mail, which she had snatched up on the way out and forgotten till now.

Eve sets the stage for her party, tomorrow.

BRIDE, 13, PROCLAIMS MARRIAGE A SUCCESS

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSEWORK
William Rudd contributes to the smooth functioning of the household by helping his 13-year-old bride with the supper dishes.

Vallejo, Calif. (AP)—Florence Hill Rudd, a bride at 13, is already a success as a housekeeper. Her 22-year-old husband, William Rudd, is making good at his job, too. Rudd vouches for his wife. Rudd's employer, a lumber firm here, speaks for him.

Florence, awaiting the arrival of her first baby next April, makes it unanimous. She says her marriage is a complete success. Rudd met his bride when she was 12, through family connections.

Her mother and a sister-in-law accompanied the couple. Four days later, the newlyweds had some qualms and told an operative of the juvenile court what they'd done.

"The lady said it was terrible but since we were already married she guessed there was nothing she could do about it," Florence said. "She said she wished she could have stopped us in time. The Rudds, who have the blessings of both their parents, have lived quietly here for months without attracting special attention."

Miriam Winslow's Quintet
One of the most beautiful and artistic dance groups before the public today is Miriam Winslow's quintet, composed of Miss Winslow herself and four young women who do marvelous ensemble dancing.

Miriam Winslow is a great solo dancer, and others in the group have made enviable reputations for themselves. They have appeared on the stage repeatedly in New York and the other big cities that are centers for high class attractions.

They are in great demand on entertainment programs sponsored by colleges and universities. Among the most popular attractions in the entertainment programs offered by the College have been the dance programs.

Literature Department
Tuesday afternoon Mrs. P. G. Dennis was hostess to the Literature Department of the Woman's club. After a brief business session, Mrs. K. T. Futrell presented the paper of the afternoon, the subject of which was: "Life of Washington." Mrs. Futrell very ably contrasted the two books: "Life of Washington" by Weems, and "Life of Washington" by Hughes, the former written at the beginning of the 19th century and the latter in the 20th century.

Weems portrays Washington as a deity; Hughes portrays him as a human being. As a god Washington is a woeful failure; as a man a great success.

At the close of the program Mrs. Dennis, assisted by Mrs. Home, served hot coffee, cake and confections to club members and Mrs. Herbert Lane, special guest for the afternoon—Reported.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week the Parent-Teacher Association of West Greenville held their regular monthly meeting at the school.

A program on "Safety" was the second of a series planned to develop the creative ability of the child and was beautifully conducted and presented by the pupils of Miss Fullilove's first grade. "Safety" was the predominating thought, and was convincingly illustrated by drawings of the story of "The Three Little Pigs," and safety charts which included rules to govern the safety of the child in their daily walk of life.

We were delighted to welcome Rev. T. McM. Grant, who gave a most inspirational talk on "Organization Work." Rev. Grant stated that "the first essential in organization work was to know your organization, and create a pleasant atmosphere in which to work." In applying this to P.-T. A. work, it is necessary for parents to know their children's teachers and teachers to know their pupils. "People

GETS DROUGHT RELIEF FROM COAL PIT

McAlester, Okla. (AP)—An abandoned coal strip pit on his farm turned out to be fine drought relief for A. R. Lee, Pittsburgh county farmer.

During last summer's record drought he decided he could make use of the 18 feet of water standing in the pit. He hooked up an 8-horse engine to a 5-inch centrifugal pump and successfully irrigated an acre and a half of green beans, an acre of tomatoes and an acre and a half of melons.

His set-up is ready for use next summer—if there should be another drought.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood — The years, contrary to the movie title, are not so long. It was only ten of them ago that Kay Francis was in a four-line role on Broadway, doubling also as understudy. Stars were Kay Johnson and James Remick, and also in the cast were Douglass Montgomery, Chester Morris and Sylvia Sydney.

The play returns to mind because Irving Rapper, who directed, now is serving time as a Hollywood dialogue director. That is, he translates for the actors what Director Michael Curtiz, who is frequently more enthusiastic than intelligible, wants them to say. Rapper, after his apprenticeship, probably will be a director himself.

As I understand it, Rapper might have been out here long ago had not Hollywood looked with suspicion and fear upon his association with Gilbert Miller in the theater. Anything connected with Miller was likely to be on the "artistic" side, and Hollywood — the — business is not so sure of "art." At any rate, Rapper was available to Hollywood a long time before Hollywood cared to throw out a line and land him. What turned the trick (although Rapper the diplomat may deny it) was that some producer happened to thumb through a scrapbook and read clippings on the aforementioned play. The title thereof was reassuring — almost, it might be said, right up the Hollywood alley. The title was "Crime."

In the film, "Talent So-U," which spotlights Hollywood again, they have built a set to represent the reception office of a movie studio. The reason being that the studio's own reception room was too plain to conform to the average fan's idea of what such a cubicle should be.

The set is velvet draped and gilded, with ornate furniture and its walls adorned by five huge framed pictures of "Apex Pictures" handsome star. The caption: "Separately proclaimed that this is the idol with his dog, with his house, with his pipe, with his book, and alone."

Mrs. Adams Entertains
Having as honor guests Miss Katherine Utley, bride-elect, and Mrs. David H. Bland, Jr., of Goldsboro, a recent bride, Mrs. John Adams, Jr. was gracious hostess to members of her bridge club and a few additional guests yesterday afternoon.

Jambouls and spira in graceful arrangement made a pretty background for the three tables of bridge. Following the game the hostess served a tempting salad course.

An attractive prize was given Mrs. M. Wilkerson for high score. The honor guests, Miss Utley and Mrs. Bland, were rememored with Postora vase.

T. E. L. Class Meeting
Mrs. H. C. Haynes assisted by Mrs. G. W. Willard delightfully entertained the T. E. L. Class of Immanuel Baptist church. Following the devotional, business and reports from various committees were taken up. The Class president presented each one with a valentine and requested that they be read. Some were very sentimental, while others were very laughable. A social hour was enjoyed while refreshments were served, carrying out the Valentine and George Washington motif. The meeting was well attended.

Our Corset Directress Brings New "Midriff" Control from The Gossard Clinic

You've had princess lines and sleek dresses before, but our corset authority brings an entirely new conception of the word FITTED. London's neat suit and Paris' dresses are often skin-tight above the waist. The "midriff" is no longer kindly concealed. A concave line must sweep up smoothly from indented waist to high, rounded bosom. There must be a neat, straight back to match.

Mrs. Mary Moore Dunn, our corsetiere, has returned from the Gossard School of Instruction where she was trained in selecting and adjusting the proper garment for each figure, and invites you to come in and consult her on your problems.

When dogs bark there's usually a reason

Now there's NO REASON why your feet should hurt — EVEN IN NEW SHOES

If your feet tire easily — if you have to "break in" shoes a little at a time — you will be thankful to the inventor of Crosby Square Flexible Shoes. Now (unless you have an advanced foot ailment requiring a physician's care), you can get relief and real comfort.

You don't have to wait — you step right out in these remarkable shoes the first day, and they feel like old house slippers. They give live support that tones up your foot muscles and keeps them young.

There is no trick about this new idea. It is a basically different way of building a shoe — exclusive and patented. No stiff steel shank, as in ordinary shoes, to cramp and deaden your arch — but 100% sewed construction from toe to heel, so the shoe can "walk with your foot."

Let us demonstrate.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN
 BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 45
A Diamond For Anne

AUSTRELTZ and Bigelow parted at the door and took separate taxis as they were going different ways. Bigelow went back to his hotel to have a bath and change.

And as he lay in his warm tub, he thought about Paris. No use pretending otherwise, he did look upon it as home. He doubted that he could ever settle down anywhere else, now. He had found New York beautiful and exciting and stimulating and interesting, and he had enjoyed his visit enormously. But it had been only a visit. He hadn't ever felt as though he had come home. He had grown up in the long years that he had been away and had come to look upon America as a strange country, in consequence. It wasn't his fault nor the fault of America; things had just happened that way.

The question was, would France seem the same to him when he went back? Wouldn't he miss Anne's companionship unbearably? But if he asked her to go back with him and she agreed, could she be happy there?

And would she agree? The way she had swiftly changed the subject in the park when he was speaking of her in Paris inclined him to doubt. Of course, he had never made love to her—not in so many words—not in the usual state, uttered phrases—but somehow they had slipped into a sweet sort of affectionate understanding. Or so he had thought. He knew that he had come to love her because life had become unthinkable without her. But had she come to love him? Or had she just accepted him as a kind of cousin and as a cousin admitted him into that sweet intimacy?

Bigelow Books Passage

HE dressed and wandered out into the street, conscious of a lack of objective and a sense of loneliness. He looked into shop windows.

When he came to a shipping office, he went in and inquired about accommodations and discussed sailings. He had not really made any definite plans before he went in there, but when he came out he had made reservations.

At one o'clock he telephoned to see if Anne was awake, and learned from Walters that she had gone out to lunch with Philip Whiteaway. He launched himself solemnly at Savoy, where the food was really something like French food.

Afterward, he went to look at diamond rings. He thought it most likely that he would marry Philip White-

If eighteen cars were parked in a line beside the road you would be sure that you had sufficient distance between them and an approaching car before you started to pass. Passing a car running at 40 miles an hour takes the same distance as passing the 18 cars parked in a row. Think of this the next time you start to pass a car traveling along the highway.

While the city forces are working on the traffic lights we believe they will find an improvement if the lights are so timed as to allow a little longer period of the amber light. The lights are timed so fast now that a person starting across the street on a green light finds himself or herself caught in the middle of the street with the signal changed for traffic to travel in the opposite direction. We believe just a little attention and study in the way of proper timing of these lights will bring about a great improvement.

Legislative Chaff and Chatter

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The House had its five hundredth bill introduced on Tuesday. It was dropped in by Representative E. A. Shuberry of Greene county. It provided for naming the town of Walstonburg.

North Carolina's rule of negligence as applied to cases in which "guest" or "gratis" passenger is injured in an automobile accident will remain as in the past, as a result of House action to table a bill providing there must be "gross or wanton" negligence on the part of the driver before any such passenger can recover.

The proposal was scored from many sources as a measure designed to enable insurance companies to avoid payment of damages.

Proponents answered that the "gross or wanton" negligence rule is in effect, by statute, in more than twenty states and by court interpretation in six others.

Post-mortems on the defeat of the bill to pack Madison county's board of commissioners with Democrats reveals a general impression that Representative R. A. Patton of Macon, lost whatever chance he had of reopening the matter when he appealed to eastern Democrats on the grounds that the worst nominated Governors Ehringhaus and Hoy in the primaries of 1932 and 1936.

He overlooked the fact that many—perhaps a majority—of the representatives of the East still don't think that was any great achievement on the part of the West.

As one Easterner remarked, off the record, in regard to the Ehringhaus-Hoy angle: "Just another reason why I'm against 'em."

That habit is a force almost impossible to break is illustrated by the fact that no less than four lawyers, speaking at one public hearing, addressed a House committee as "Gentlemen of the Jury," and one of them opened his remarks with "If it please the Court."

Members of the legislature have been circled with a pamphlet authored by one Franz H. Krebs, a northerner who spends his vacation to be personally as dry as the Sahara and that's exactly the kind of man most folks want for state board chairman.

Leaders for the two new Supreme court vacancies appear to be Judge V. Barnhill, Rocky Mount, and Wallace Winborne.

The average weekly allowance to the boys is $3.50, for the girls, $4.

EXPECT FIGHT ON LOAN BILL

Backers Declare Proposal Is Anti-Loan Shark Measure

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Feb. 25.—One of the hottest fights so far witnessed on the floor of the house is expected to develop this afternoon when the small loans bank bill, introduced by Representative R. T. Pickens of High Point, comes up for action. For more than two weeks now, lobbyists for the industrial banks and for the "loan sharks" have been working against the bill and have been trying to convince members of the general assembly that it is a "loan shark" bill because it permits the making of loans at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent per month.

Within the last week or so the industrial banks have also enlisted the aid of most of the other banks in the state in fighting it and this morning the opponents of the bill were confident they had it beaten.

But the proponents of the bill, including the State Federation of Labor and those favorable to labor, who have been working for the bill, believe there is a good chance for the bill to pass the house today and that if it passes the house, it will also get by the senate. They maintain that the bill is not generally understood and that it has been grossly misrepresented.

"The bill was drawn and introduced in order to help the laboring man and the man of moderate means who needs to borrow from $10 to $100 from time to time, but who cannot borrow from commercial banks or even from industrial banks," Roy R. Lawrence, president of the N. C. Federation of Labor said today. "For very few of the commercial banks will make any loans for less than $200 or $300, and then only on collateral, while most of the industrial banks object to making loans for less than $100—and then require two other indorsers. Incidentally, the industrial banks really charge 15 per cent interest and boost this to 20 per cent or more, if they can force their borrowers to add the insurance feature."

"So this small loans bill is designed to help the people of moderate and small incomes to borrow money in small amounts at a reasonable rate of interest and thus save them from having to go to loan sharks, who charge anywhere from 240 per cent to 3,000 per cent interest. For while the opponents of this small loan bill maintain it would permit the charging of 42 per cent interest per year, this is not true, since the rate of 3 1-2 per cent a month is charged only on the unpaid balance due. Accordingly, the maximum interest collectable under this bill would be 22 per cent per year—or only 2 per cent more than most of the industrial banks charge."

At the present time 28 states have small loans laws, similar to the one proposed in the Pickens bill. Woodrow Wilson advocated such a law when he was Governor of New Jersey, and it was passed. President Roosevelt, when Governor of New York, advocated a similar bill and secured its passage. These small loans banks are working satisfactorily in all of the 28 states which have them, reports indicate, since they make it possible for people of small means to borrow small sums

A Plain Gold One, Too

ANNE nodded and folded the paper in her lap. "I suppose the doctor can show her statement to the police, now, and Dryden will be released and Lorna can come back..."

"Yes," said Bigelow.

"And everything will go on as before—except that Vronski won't be here."

"Yes," agreed Bigelow. "Even I am planning to take myself off."

"Oh! She did not lock up. When?"

"Two weeks from today. I booked quite a large suite—on the chance that you might like to take this—and come with me." He produced the diamond.

"No girl could refuse that!" gasped Anne, staring at it. "But would it be quite proper for me to go—with just that—even if we are almost cousins? Shouldn't there be a plain gold one to go with it—a kind of guard?"

"Yes," said Bigelow, producing that.

"She took them both into her hands and held them tight. He lifted her up into his arms, and kissed her."

NOTICE OF SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE

Under and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in that certain mortgage executed by W. H. Coward and wife, Clara Coward, to S. O. Worthington on the 2nd day of January, 1929, recorded in the public Registry of Pitt County in Book N-17 at page 50, and in the Public Registry of Craven County in Book 285, page 196, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured and the owner thereof having duly called upon said mortgagee to exercise such powers of sale, the undersigned mortgagee will offer for sale for cash at public auction before the court house door in Greenville, N. C., Pitt County, on Wednesday, at a reasonable rate of interest without having to patronize loan sharks.

One of the arguments used against this bill here has been that it would make it possible for these banks to garnishee the wages of borrowers, so that the grocers and other merchants could not collect from borrowers. But this is not the case, according to Pickens and Lawrence. The bill provides that not more than 10 per cent of a person's wages can be garnished, while merchants may garnishee wages up to 100 per cent for the payment of bills.

The industrial banks of the state, in opposing the bill, maintain that they are adequately serving the needs of the state for small loans. But the records of the banking department show that there are only 33 industrial banks in the entire state, and that these are located in only 18 counties. On the other hand there are 67 known "loan shark" offices doing business in the state, with probably more than 100 others doing business in back rooms and cowering from 250 to 3,000 per cent on loans. One lawyer who appeared before the house committee in opposition to this bill admitted he represented three loan shark concerns whose minimum charges were 240 per cent on their loans, on the grounds that this bill would put them out of business.

Proponents of the bill believe that when all the house members understand the bill and its purpose, that it will pass.

PACED TO BE OUT IN FRONT but priced with the sixes!

You drive a big bargain when you pilot this stunning Buick Special down the road! It's a real in-head straight-eight—priced only slightly higher than the average six outside the lowest price field.

LOWEST PRICE EVER ON A BUICK 4-DOOR SEDAN!

Today's price for a Buick 4-door sedan is the lowest in all Buick history—and you get longer wheelbase—greater power—valve-in-head thrust—straight-eight smoothness—roomier body—safety glass all around—bigger luggage compartment—and immeasurably greater performance, comfort and style! See your dealer for low delivered prices, and see what a buy Buick really is, compared to the average six outside the lowest price field.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

CARWISE you're out in front when you take your comfortable place behind this Buick SPECIAL's wheel—under its bonnet is not merely an eight, but an oil-cushioned valve-in-head straight-eight, which means the ablest of them all!

It will show fleet heels to any highway challenger except another Buick—yet the unbelievable thing is not this gorgeous car's performance, but its price. Big, handsome, smartly styled as it is, it costs close to the sixes that it so easily out-performs.

This four-door sedan pictured here actually costs less delivered, than some cars with two fewer cylinders and less efficient engine design.

Even when you average all the sixes outside of the lowest price field, you find little more than a dollar-a-week difference the first year and after that it's velvet.

Count just the mechanical differences—torque-tube drive, valve-in-head engine design, double-end stabilization, Aerobat carburetion, a whole carful of such features—and that dollar-plus added each week to the easy payments begins to pale into no burden at all.

Just get in a Buick—give yourself over to a real thrill for ten or fifteen minutes—you'll forget about price entirely! You can afford it—because it's priced down with the sixes, so why be content with any lesser car?

GREAT RECORD IS SET BY HIGHS

Basket Ball Season Most Successful In Athletic History

By BERT MOYE
The Greenville High school basketball team, under the able coaching of Reynolds May, closed its 1937 season on last Friday with a decisive win over the George Washington High school of Danville, Va. with one of the most brilliant seasons in which a local team has accomplished.

The Greenville quint went through the entire season with a record of only two games, those being to the Wake Forest Fresh. In the seven Class A conference games in which they participated this season the locals scored a total of 184 points, while their opponents scored 111 points.

The Greenville quint in going through this brilliant season became the champions of Class A Conference play in Eastern North Carolina, and on next Tuesday night, March 2, will journey to Chapel Hill to play High Point for the Class A championship of North Carolina. This marks the first time in the history of basketball at the Greenville High school that a team has competed in the state championship race.

Following the game at Chapel Hill on next Tuesday night the Greenville quint have been invited by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce to play in a pre-tournament game with the quint from South Carolina, who wins that championship in that state. The club has not yet been definitely decided on by the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce. While in Raleigh they will be the guests of this group and will also be their guests during the opening day of the Southern Basketball tournament which opens on Thursday afternoon.

For those who have followed the season closely with the Greenville quint for those who would like a record of their achievements for this season, I have listed below the record for the season just closed.

Greenville 49, New Bern 24; Greenville 44, *Wilson 21; Greenville 16, New Bern 8; Greenville 45, *Rocky Mount 24; Greenville 19, Wake Forest Fresh 39; Greenville 49, Kingston 13; Greenville 21, *Wilson 19; Greenville 25, *Durham 21; Greenville 19, *Rocky Mount 17; Greenville 30, Danville Hgbs 27; Greenville 22, *Durham 21; Greenville 39, Washington 12; Greenville 33, *Raleigh 9; Greenville 20, Wake Forest Fresh 25; Greenville 21, *Wilmington 11; Greenville 47, Danville Hgbs, 24.

Greenville totals 493; Op. 315. Note:—Those games marked with an asterisk denote Class A Conference games played by the Greenville quint in the championship for Eastern North Carolina. Also note that the Greenville have scored a total of 493 points this season, while their opponents have scored 315 points.

Brother teams in 6-day bike racing are not new. John and Menus Bedell teamed up and so did Theodore and Henry Wynsdau, Otto and Walter Nickel and Marcel and Rene Boogman. But the latest "brother act" of Peden and Peden threatens to surpass the records of all the others.

William (Torchy) Peden and brother Douglas will ride as a team in the grind at Madison Square Garden. It will not be their first experience as mates. They showed to advantage in the recent Buffalo grind, romping off with first money after a garrison finish in which they stole a lap on the field in the final ten minutes. It was their first tandem victory. Now they are anxious to continue as partners.

One Man Was Better
Torchy Peden, the flaming red-head, is well known to the bike world. He boasts the greatest record of any rider in North America. He has won 28 races. Only one rider, Peter Van Kempen of Holland, now retired, has won more—29. Torchy finished second 15 times, third five times and fourth ten.

The big Canadian is confident that with brother Doug he will die Van Kempen's mark—and beat it. Torchy tutored his brother several years. Doug is not small—210 pounds and he stands 6-1. But 230-pound Torchy dwarfs him. In

STRICT LABOR LAWS PLANNED

Action On Two Proposals Expected to be Taken Up Soon

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Action of two important items of labor legislation will be taken up soon, and almost simultaneously, in both houses and Senate, as two bills sponsored by labor were reported from committee yesterday — the McKee Child Labor law in the Senate and the McHenry-Uzzell Maximum Hour law in the House.

Both have been changed from the form in which their sponsors handed them up, but both retain enough of their original provisions to muster support from labor and other organizations interested in so-called "labor" legislation.

The McKee bill marks up the Child Labor age two years to 16 and 18 for children from 16 to 18 in the zone now occupied by those from 14 to 16. It is claimed by its supporters to be the answer of opponents of the federal Child Labor amendment, who proclaimed during debate on that measure that they favored strict regulation of Child Labor by the state.

It has lost some of the more stringent of its original provisions, but it still goes far enough to be accepted as a "minimum" by labor.

The Maximum Hour bill is notable for the fact that it recognizes the principle that hours of labor bear a relationship to the health, morals and welfare of the people. It is the first North Carolina measure ever to contain such a statement.

In general it provides that no employer shall employ a female person more than 48 hours in one week or more than 9 hours in one day nor more than six days in any period of 7. It limits employment of males to 55 hours in one week, ten hours in one day, and 12 consecutive days in any period of 14. There are numerous exemptions including agricultural occupations, professions, clerks, commercial travelers, commercial fishermen, and retail druggists.

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

A number of small portable ovens are now on the market for "top of stove" cooking. They are especially suitable for the small family, for saving fuel and for use when a large oven is not available.

Handle woolen blankets carefully so as not to break the fibers in them. Sudden changes in the temperature of the water in which they are being washed will cause them to shrink. It is best to wash and rinse them in waters of the same temperature.

To remove a slight iron scorch mark from white clothes rub the scorched area lightly with peroxide. Then rinse it thoroughly in cold water. Peroxide removes the color from colored clothes, however.

Punches and fruit beverages improve upon standing. Place them in covered jars and store them in the refrigerator for at least 24 hours. A tart beverage is also more refreshing than a thick syrupy one.

A beaten egg added to cream soup gives a good consistency and added nutrition. Beat the egg in a cup or a small bowl. Add a small amount of hot soup. When it is well blended pour the mixture into the rest of the soup. Be careful to cook the mixture just long enough—since it will curdle if it is overcooked.

An oven meal is often a fuel saver if foods are selected which require the same temperature in cooking. Although such a meal necessitates a longer cooking period not only may the whole meal be cooked at the same time but a number of foods may also be served for meals to follow. It is a good idea to list such menus in a notebook and refer to it from time to time.

SEAWELL TALKED FOR POST ON SUPREME COURT BENCH

(Continued from page 6-10) and their friends and the attorneys and their friends over whether the new appointees "come from the bench or from the bar." The friends of the judges are insisting that the new appointees should come from the bench, while the supporters of the attorney candidates maintain that the two new justices should come from the bar. If Governor Hoey should now appoint Seawell and Winborne to the two new positions on the Supreme Court, both would be far from the bar, since neither have ever been judges. It is agreed that these two appointments would undoubtedly bring a growl, if not a howl, from the judges and their friends who are convinced that all or most of the Supreme Court judges should be selected from those who have already served as judges in the lower courts. On the other hand, the appointment of two attorneys instead of two judges can be depended upon to win strong approval from thousands of lawyers who believe that the new justices should come from the ranks of practicing attorneys rather than from the bench.

It is readily agreed that the appointment of Seawell to the Supreme Court would pave the way beautifully for the appointment of Olive as Attorney General and thus make it possible for the Governor to hand out very desirable plums to

Man About Manhattan
By George Tucker

By GEORGE TUCKER
New York.—The other morning about 6 o'clock a gallant whose business is photography and art leaped out of bed and excitedly jangled the telephone. His house was on fire.

He became aware of this when a lady in pajamas and fur coat pounded on his door and yelled, "Get up! Get up!" Then she galloped off, like a modern Paul Revere, spreading the news from door to door.
Well, it wasn't such of a fire, as fires in New York go, because the flames were confined to a single apartment. But some extremely

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeye)

Now Showing—"That's A Lot of Bull!"

By E. C. SEGAR

Judicious and amusing things happened. It just goes to show you how people react to danger in New York.

Now back to the last on the telephone: When the operator answered, she swore it seemed like several hours before she finally said, "Number, please!" he yelled to her, "There's a fire, get the fire department!"
To his stupefaction she simply replied, "What's the number? Don't you know the fire department's number? Why don't you look it up in the telephone book?"
"Great catfish!" he shrieked. "It's a fire! Don't you understand! Get me the fire station. Get ANY fire station!"
"Oh," tried the now startled operator. "Well, why didn't you say so?"

Having put through this call, our hero dragged on his britches and plunged headlong down the stairs. For a moment, he says, he first knew the meaning of panic. The stairway was glutted with rolling banks of smoke. He couldn't tell whether he was dashing into solid flame or fresh air.

Fortunately it was air, and as he charged into the sweet ozone, a grunting fireman yelled, "Hey, Buddy, where do you think you're going—to a fire!"
Brought back to sanity by this calming influence, he decided to stand around and take in the sights.

Just then a frantic citizen came dashing out of the apartment, clutching some object which he fancied he was saving from the flames. Not until he was on the sidewalk did he realize what it was. Then he broke into a sheepish grin. The one thing he had "saved" was a pair of ice skates.

Present, too, was the lady in pajamas and fur coat who had spread the alarm. She was laughing at her own sad plight. "What will I wear to the office today?" she roared. "And just think, I have an appointment with Mrs. Roosevelt. The President's lady will be surprised if she sees me looking like this!"

Quite incidentally, this lady was Mrs. Flagg, Jr., whose husband is the only brother of James Montgomery Flagg, the artist. She breathed a prodigious sigh when told that nothing in the cellar would be damaged. Dozens of James Montgomery Flagg's canvases were stored there.

"Mercy Trek" Saves Life
Halifax, N. S. (AP)—A "mercy trek" of 58 miles through rain-drenched woodland was made by Murdock Slausenwhite, who walked that distance here to summon a doctor for a stricken lumberman. The physician was unable to return with him, so Slausenwhite took the medicine and walked back with it alone. The patient recovered.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

Washington—Imagine the embarrassment of Republican members of the Kansas delegation when Alfred Landon headed eastward with a pocketful of type-written dynamite on the Supreme Court issue that he intended to let loose before a New York audience.

Now the Kansas Republicans have been trying to preserve at least a semblance of non-partisanship on the Supreme Court issue.

Full of Dynamite.

And here came Landon loaded for bear. Members of the Kansas delegation saw the speech. Their hair upended. Mr. Landon, still a little nettled by his treatment last November 3, had written a scolding indictment of Mr. Roosevelt's scheme of court revision.

He went back into the campaign period for a springboard from which to launch his attack. He recalled that on Oct. 29, speaking in Madison Square Garden, he said:

"And what are the intentions of the President with respect to the Constitution? Does he believe changes are required. If so, will an amendment be submitted to the people, or will he attempt to get around the Constitution by tampering with the Supreme Court. The answer is: No one can be sure."

Pulls His Punch

Well, it developed that Mr. Landon thought so, but here he had an invitation, many months old, to deliver a speech on Lincoln's birthday in New York and he didn't want to be found skirting the issues of the day. He let them know that if he had been out in Kansas where it would not look as if he had gone out of his way to take a swipe at the President, he certainly would have given that speech.

But it turned out he was agreeable to modifying it. He took out every mention of the court and his hearers were left to make what they could of a 500-word remnant in which the stoutest words were that the issues before the country were too big for partisanship. "The whole future of the country is involved. Upon these issues I have strong convictions, but I shall not avail myself of this occasion to discuss them further."

The Kansas delegation came back to Washington breathing easier.

Aviation enthusiasts here say its simplicity of operation and comparative safety will make it an ideal device for training student pilots.

AQUARIUM COLLECTORS BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Aquarium collectors, equipped with traps, glass bottomed buckets and water periscopes, have arrived from the north to "bring back alive" odd and strange tropic fish for northerners to see. Most of their catches are made in shallow water where their traps, baited with fish and meat, are placed along the reefs at depths of from five to 30 feet. Fish caught in greater depths, they say, usually are of little value since the pressure change in bringing them to the surface is injurious to them. The waters around Miami, Key Largo, Key West and the Bahamas are favorite spots for specimen hunters.

"WINGLESS VICTORY" TO BE READ BY MRS. HOLMES

Chapel Hill, Feb. 25.—"Wingless Victory," by Maxwell Anderson, one of the season's most popular current Broadway productions, starring Katharine Cornell, will be read by Mrs. Urban T. Holmes Sunday evening, February 28, at 8:30 o'clock in the Playmakers Theatre. Dramatist Anderson is the author of three successes now playing on Broadway. In addition to "Wingless Victory," his other two plays are "High Tor," and "The Masque of Kings," both of which have received the praise of critics. "Wingless Victory" is the story of the marriage of an Eastern princess and a New England sea captain and the consequent reaction of New England villagers.

We present a "close-up" of a world-famous Jersey cow, Stockwell's April Pogis of High Pastures—"April" for short. She made a world's record over all breeds—3217 lbs. butter fat in 3 lactation periods within 3 1/2 years, each under Class A. A. with an average test of 6.46%. No Jersey farm in the world has ever bred, raised and tested her equal. The pastures are full of Jersey cows—but there's only one "April." She's the empress—a hundred times more valuable than the rank and file of Jerseys—because Mother Nature gave her everything—a perfect natural balance of all the needed elements. So she eclipses all the others. Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda is another example of Nature's balance of many different elements. Just as Nature favored "April," she favored Natural Chilean. To this nitrogen fertilizer she gave a natural balance of vital elements—the so-called vital impurities in her own wise blend. That's why Natural Chilean is more than just quick-acting nitrogen. That's why it is such an effective food for your crops.

Cary Grant says: "a light smoke rates aces high with my throat"

"Luckies have been my cigarette for five years now. I rate them a 4 star cigarette. They're always good to the throat, and taste so much better than other cigarettes that it seems to me this 'Toasting' process is a swell idea. Yes, a light smoke like Luckies rates aces high with both my throat and taste."

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke. Mr. Grant verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
