SENATE VOTES RETIRE JUDGES AT AGE OF 70

Administration Lined Up to Support Measure

ROOSEVELT TO DELIVER ADDRESS

To Speak on Day Senate Committee Is Scheduled Take Up Court Proposals

Washington, Feb. 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt today announced he would deliver a nationwide radio address on March 9, the date the senate judiciary committee is scheduled to start hearings on the president's judicial plans.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had no idea now what would go into his speech, except it would touch on many problems affecting the state of the nation.

While his program will not come before congress officially until the senate hearings start, a supplemental measure providing for retirement of supreme court justices was passed today in the senate.

The President told reporters congress must do something about stabilizing the soft coal industry this session. He said also some type of low cost housing legislation should be passed.

Administration leaders in the senate had their forces lined up to back the supreme court retirement bill even though it is only supplemental to the President's proposals for general reorganization of the court.

The measure provides for voluntary retirement of justices at the age of 70 with full pay.

New York Lawyer Seeks Brother Of Deceased Citizen

Chief Clerk Asked to Aid in Search For Man Said to Have Come Here 35 Years Ago

Chief George Clark is in receipt of a letter from a Poughkeepsie, New York law firm solidifying his aid in locating Lawson Aldrich, brother of Lester Aldrich, who died in the New York city on September 30.

The letter from Edward K. Haas, attorney for the estate of Lester Aldrich, states the brother of the dead man left Poughkeepsie about 35 years ago and is understood to have come to Greenville.

The attorney asks that he be notified if the man he is seeking to get in touch with is dead and also asks to be informed if he is dead and leaves a widow and any children or other descendants.

When he left New York, the letter says, he was married, his wife's given name being Helen.

A photograph of Mr. Aldrich was enclosed in the letter. If the man is still living he is about 68 or 70 years old. His relatives say that he was about five feet 10 inches in height, his eyes gray, his hair at that time brown and his weight about 165 pounds.

Chief Clark asked that anyone having information regarding the man give it to him so he can pass it on to the attorney for the estate of the dead man.

Beset with Hunger, Workers Stagger From Mine Shaft

'Suicide' Strike Abandoned by 250 Miners After Being Forced to Eat Mule Feed

Pecs, Hungary, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A "suicide" strike of 250 miners collapsed today and the men, half dazed from hunger and many bleeding from wounds suffered in an underground fight, staggered out of the shaft.

Sobbing wives and relatives greeted them. Some of the grim-faced workers, too weak to walk, were carried on the shoulders of their comrades.

One miner said they had eaten the last sack of oats, intended for ponies used for underground hauling, during the two days they remained defiantly in their stronghold.

Each striker, he said, received a handful of the grain twice a day.

SENT TO JAIL AS NAVAL SPY

Farnsworth Is Given From Four To 12 Years on Charges

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—John Farnsworth, former naval lieutenant commander was sentenced today on a charge of conspiring to sell naval secrets to the Japanese.

Sentence was passed by Justice James Proctor in Federal District Court.

Farnsworth had thrown himself upon the mercy of the court by pleading nolo contendere to the charge.

He later asked Justice Proctor to allow him to change that plea to innocent, but the justice refused.

Farnsworth was arrested last July by Justice Department agents who said they had conducted an extensive investigation of his activities.

Alleged Robber Said To Be Native Of Pitt

A white man being held in Petersburg, Va., on a charge of robbing a tax cab driver and also charged with robbery in Rocky Mount who gave his name as Rockolph Smith of this county has no criminal record here, Chief George Clark said today.

Smith, whose home is said to be in the county, was arrested in the Virginia city a few days ago and Rocky Mount officials identified him as the man wanted there for robbery.

While he has no record here, it was stated that he had served a term in Ohio.

House Sets Speed Record In Adopting Amendments

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Feb. 26.—Adoption by the house of the senate amendments to the revenue bill, without sending it to conference, with the result that the bill is expected to pass its second reading today and third reading in an early morning session soon after midnight tonight, sets a new record for speedy action on revenue bills by North Carolina general assemblies. It is the first time in 15 years at least, probably in 20 years, that a house has approved of a revenue bill as passed and amended by the senate without sending it to conference.

In the past three sessions of the general assembly the revenue bill remained in conference anywhere from two to four weeks before the conferees could reach agreements acceptable to both houses.

Until Thursday night it was expected by a good many observers that the house would refuse to agree either to the sales tax on meals, as imposed by the senate, or to the exemptions to the building materials tax also inserted by the senate. But as leaders circulated

BATTALION OF LOYAL TROOPS IS WIPED OUT

Entire Unit Reported Annihilated by Insurgents

MOWED DOWN IN FRONT'L ATTACK

Russia and Portugal Resign From International Non-Intervention Agreement

(By Associated Press) Annihilation of a entire battalion of Madrid militiamen. Insurgent officers declared today, wiped out a government offensive on the Western border of the capital.

They said the government infantrymen were mowed down by machine gun fire and hand grenades as line after line surged against insurgent barricades in a frontal attack near a bridge.

Russia and Portugal resigned from the projected six power patrol intended, starting March 6, to prevent men and munitions from reaching Spanish combatants. Their action, apparently by agreement, left only France, Great Britain, Italy and Germany to enforce the international non-intervention agreement.

Informed sources said the withdrawal was not expected to affect the patrol plan. Portugal reserved the right to re-enter the naval blockade if Russia does.

The hand-to-hand struggle for Oviedo spread into the ancient sewers of the devastated city, as advised from Bayonne reported.

The besieged insurgent garrison was said to have entrenched itself in the sewers and to have gained respite from a grueling back-to-the-wall battle which lasted nearly a week.

Mercury Drops To 20 Degrees; No New Record

The opinion that last night was the coldest here of the winter was freely expressed, but was wrong by one degree.

The mercury dropped to 20 degrees last night, the coldest in some time, but one degree higher than the low of the winter.

A number of residents complained of frozen water pipes this morning.

By 8 o'clock it had risen to 23, but a sharp wind sent chills through those who braved the outdoors.

The river here is standing at about 11 and one-half feet, far above normal, but short by three feet of flood stage. It was rising slightly, but not enough to cause any concern.

House Sets Speed Record In Adopting Amendments

among house members Thursday night sounding out sentiment. It became increasingly apparent that the house was willing to accept both of these changes without argument, as well as the many other minor changes made in the bill in the senate, most of them of a clarifying nature. So it was that Chairman Victor S. Bryant of the house finance committee decided to try to get house concurrence in the senate amendments without sending the revenue bill to conference.

and he did. There were a good many speeches—mostly for home consumption—by those still opposed to putting the sales tax back on means and against the sales tax in general, by those who had opposed it all along. But these again were in the minority.

The result was that when the time came to vote, the majority in favor of concurring in the senate amendments was so large that the minority did not even call for a roll-call vote, the amendments being approved on first reading by a viva voce vote. The bill is expected to pass second and third readings with even less difficulty.

Defense Delivers Pickens And Hill Closing Argument In Smoak Hearing

Accused Man Delinated as Both Kind, Provident Father and Murderer For Insurance

Wilmington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Edgar Smoak was delinated as both a kind, provident father beset by circumstances and as a poisoner who collected insurance on his wives and daughter before they were buried in arguments to the jury today.

The defendant, a 39-year-old railroad carpenter's helper sat unemotionally through the opening statement of one of his lawyers, William Farmer, and the address of Solicitor John Burney, Smoak chief counsel. Clayton Grant, made the closing defense argument this afternoon.

Smoak is on trial charged with the first degree murder in the alleged poison death of his 16-year-old daughter, Annie Thalma, but the state claims he also fed poison to his two wives to collect on insurance policies he carried on their lives.

PROPOSED TAX ON TELEPHONE FIRMS ARGUED

Southern Bell And Carolina Officials Oppose Bill

BLOUNT FAVORS SUGGESTED LEVY

Act Would Allow Cities in State to Collect Tax on Telephone Exchanges

Raleigh, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Telephone companies operating in North Carolina protested today against a proposed one per cent franchise tax for the benefit of municipalities and railroad employees fought a measure to permit operation of oil pipe line companies in the state at a senate committee hearing.

No action was taken on the measures.

W. E. Duncan of Charlotte, Carolina manager for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company, argued against the measure to allow towns to tax telephone company receipts at one per cent. He said his company paid $781,030 in taxes in this state last year, equivalent to $9.34 on each of the $3,000 telephones in use. "If the taxes go up," Duncan warned, "rates must go up."

J. R. Porter of Tarboro, of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph company presented similar figures for his firm.

Senator Flanagan of Pitt said cities now get nothing from telephone companies in taxes, though the companies got valuable franchises. Mayor M. K. Blount of Greenville also urged approval of the bill, saying some Virginia towns got up to three per cent in taxes from telephone companies. Blount said the companies tore up streets and ruined trees and yet paid no taxes to remunerate the cities.

Roosevelt Talk Probably Include Court Proposals

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he would make a nationwide radio talk the night of March 9 on the status of the nation. It is expected by White House officials to include a discussion of his court reorganization program.

Although the President warned newspaper men at a press conference not to go out on a limb in predicting an address on the court issue, there were well founded indications he would touch on that subject.

The speech will be for one half hour beginning at 10:30 (EST). Three radio companies will broadcast it.

Two Controversial Bills May Slow Adjournment

By J. C. BASKERVILL (Reflector Bureau Writer)

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—The old age pensions bill and the school machinery act are the biggest hurdles in the path of the general assembly in its race for an early adjournment and a number of legislative toes are likely to be stubbed and some shins skinned before these two bills are enacted, a good many of the veteran political observers here agree.

The house is already in open revolt against the administration sponsored old age pensions bill, which passed the senate with only one vote cast against it, largely because a number of house members, including Chairman D. L. Ward of the appropriations committee, are opposed to the provisions which would saddle $2,000,000 a year of the cost of the pensions and children's aid upon the counties.

A good many are inclined to believe that a lot of this opposition is in the nature of face-saving "back home," especially since most of the house members voted for the sales tax in the revenue bill. So in order to "get right" with the county commissioners and property owners back in their home counties, indications are that the house is going to fret and fume, buck and snort for at least week over the "unfairness" of putting one-fourth the cost of old age pensions on the taxpayers back in the counties. In the end, however, the house is expected to pass the bill pretty much as it passed the senate, with the retention of the provision under which the counties will pay one-fourth the cost of old age pensions and one-third the cost of the aid to dependent children. But politics is politics and some of those who are being accused of being too pro-administration and too anxious to follow "suggestions" from the Governor's office, must put on their show for the benefit of the taxpayers "back home," a good many observers agree.

Both the senate and the house may run into an even more troublesome hornets' nest when the reach consideration of the school machinery act, if State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin, Secretary J. B. Warren of the North Carolina Education Association and the lobbyists for the county and city superintendents make

House to Complete Action Tonight On Senate Amended Tax Raising Act

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Senate passed the record $145,000,000 biennial appropriations bill this afternoon and returned it to the House for concurrence on amendments.

No record vote was taken as the rules were suspended to pass the measure.

Funds for the State's experiment station were reduced from $36,675 annually to $26,350 before the vote. A few minutes later House members approved the State's biggest general fund tax bill by a 90 to 5 vote on second reading and planned to enact it into law shortly after midnight.

The proposal is estimated to raise about $76,000,000 for the 1937-39 biennium.

Voting against the measure were Barnes of Wilson, Davis of Hyde, McBryde of Cumberland, Wilson of Forsyth and Hayes of Surry.

The Senate added $13,500 annually to the funds for the State Normal here on motion of Senator Clark of Edgecombe, head of the board of directors for the institution. Clark said the money would allow 18.5 cents per day instead of 14 cents a day for food for each inmate.

Senators passed without amendment the bill to provide an appropriation of $15,500 for buildings for the North Carolina College for Negroes at Durham after Senator Gold of Guilford withdrew a proposal of his own.

Four representatives introduced a measure to increase taxes on beer and wine bottlers and dealers, and Senator Ratcliff of Forsyth introduced one to relieve banks of the collection of the new tax on intangibles in the revenue act.

The Senate sent the $1,992,000 permanent improvement bill back to the finance committee.

The Senate public utilities committee favorably reported this afternoon the bill to permit oil pipe line companies to operate in North Carolina.

The committee deferred action on a measure to allow cities to levy a one per cent franchise tax on telephone companies.

SENDS UP BILL ON INSURANCE

Would Have State Insure Its Own School Buildings

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Feb. 25.—Supt. Ingram of Randolph has introduced a bill to authorize and provide for the establishment of a state fund for the purpose of insuring all public school property in North Carolina against loss by fire, tornado, lightning, hail and inherent explosion.

The bill would "set up a scientific procedure for the entire state," according to its author. Procedure now practiced, he contends "lag far behind those of other phases of school administration. While a uniform system of education has been developed for the whole state, each county and city school board has been a law to follow its own inclinations concerning policies for insuring the building under its jurisdiction."

Specifically the bill would appropriate $100,000 for the establishment of the North Carolina School Insurance Fund to be administered by the State School Commission and to be repaid out of future premium payments.

Local boards of education would insure all public school property at from seventy to ninety percent of a valuation fixed by, and at rates determined by, the State Commission, such rates to be comparable with stock company rates. If premiums are not paid after sixty days notice, the Commission would deduct them from State funds allocated the local unit in default.

When the fund reaches $1,000,000 the Commission may adjust rates to stabilize the fund at from a million to a million and a half, or it may continue original rates and use excess over a million to purchase new school buses.

Erwin's law does not require school boards in North Carolina to insure school property. Mr. Ingram points out, although it seems to be a universal practice in all the counties. The system of insurance, however, is very haphazard and without any uniformity of pattern, he says, there being a great variation in the amount of coverage carried and the method of allocating business to the various insurance companies.

This latter feature Mr. Ingram believes is largely responsible for many of the faults of the present system.

Under the present system superintendents and board of education are forced to place more emphasis on trying to divide the business among the city and county insurance agencies in such a manner as to avoid criticism than is placed upon attempting to secure the soundest protection by giving the business to the most reliable companies," he said.

"State insurance and state supervision, setting up a scientific procedure for the entire state, is the proper solution."

In addition to this phase, Mr. Ingram contends that the fire insurance for public school property in North Carolina costs more than it should.

According to figures compiled from a recapitulation of reports from county and city superintendents for the five-year period from 1929 to 1932, North Carolina spent far more for insurance premiums than was collected for losses. Figures for the seven years, 1927 to 1934, show that $1,235,396.82 was spent in premiums, while only $998,646.59 was received in losses and refunds. Consequently a total of $236,749.03 more was spent for premiums than was received for losses and refunds. Mr. Ingram contends a great saving could be made by having the state set up its own insurance fund and insuring its own public school property.

Washington — You have to skip the news, sport and society pages and delve into the financial columns to discover the full part played by Marriner S. Eccles in shaping the government's financial policy.

This slim-lined banker came into the New Deal picture as governor of the Federal Reserve board. He had ideas for taking some of the sting out of depression, present and future, while not pretending a cure.

It was summarized in the term "budget financing." The scheme, stripped of many ramifications, was to let the budget yaw out of balance in depression while federal spending helped protect the unfortunate. Interest rates should be driven down to invite legitimate investment at the earliest possible moment.

On the upswing, the budget should be drawn to a balance and enough picked off by taxes both to help break the boom and to offset the excess of spending during the depression.

He told the house banking committee, however, that he believes it unnecessary to reverse the trend of the interest rate and push it up to help check any excess recovery movement. And on that position he is one of the most controversial men of government economics.

He contended that insurance companies and other "institutional investors" were complaining that the government policy of financing at low interest rates (the treasury average now is well below three percent) was dangerous. The danger, as they see it, lies in the possibility that interest on long-term securities, such as bonds, ultimately will prove so unattractive that investment institutions will dump some of their bonds and put the money into the more speculative market.

The effect of that, if continued unchecked, might be to skyrocket the stock market and at the same time so damage the bond market that more and more institutional investors would be crowded out of long-term bond securities into the stock market — an upward spiral that takes the breath of people who remember 1929 and 1932.

But, says Eccles to the house committee, that is in part the reason for locking up excess bank reserves by increasing reserve requirements $1,500,000,000 a while back. Simply it is to prevent liquidation of an excessive number of long-term investments the money from which might drift into the stock market.

their fight to get control of the State School Commission.

For while it is generally conceded that the school forces have decided not to make any effort to abolish the School Commission, as they have sought to do without success for the last three sessions of the assembly, indications are they are going to make a tremendous effort to change the law so that Superintendent Erwin instead of Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton will be both the chairman and executive secretary.

Reports are already going the rounds to the effect that Supt. Erwin has the promise of 72 votes in the house for his plan and that he has assured the school forces backing his plan that Governor Hoey will appoint only those "suggested" by Erwin to membership on the State School Commission, thus giving Supt. Erwin and the State Department of Public Instruction, which in turn is dominated by and dictated to by the group of superintendents who run the North Carolina Education Association, almost complete control of the State School Commission.

This will mean that this same group will also have complete control of the allotment and spending of the school appropriation of almost $25,000,000 a year. Most political observers are convinced that the real reason and virtually the only reason Supt. Erwin wants to be chairman and secretary of the School Commission and "reorganize" it, is so that the school forces can get control of the spending of the school appropriation.

They point out that any elective state official who can get almost a vote to spend $25,000,000 a year can build up a political machine which should be able to keep him in office indefinitely.

But indications are that even if Governor Hoey goes to bat for Superintendent Erwin and his plan to get control of the school appropriation by getting control of the State School Commission, the general assembly may buck both. Both houses have already bucked the Governor with regard to the sales tax on meals, despite the fact that he opposed this tax both in his campaign and in his inaugural address.

Both houses have already bucked Supt. Erwin and the N. C. Education Association in their demands for a 20 per cent increase in salaries for teachers, giving them a ten per cent increase instead. Both houses also bucked the Governor and the "administration bloc" on highway and diversion.

And if the Superintendent and the school politicians try to put over their plan for getting control of the school money and its spending, even with the aid of Governor Hoey, indications are that they are going to be knocked for a loop. For this assembly is believed to be just as much opposed to turn over the spending of $25,000,000 a year of school money to a commission of handpicked school people as pre-vious sessions have been. It is agreed, however, that Supt. Erwin and his backers can cause a lot of trouble and undoubtedly cause serious delay in the present trend toward early adjournment if they decide to make a serious fight to get control of the school commission.

There are indications, however, that Supt. Erwin and the N. C. Education Association will not have the support of the classroom teachers in this move. For a good many of the teachers see in this effort to get control of the school appropriation of almost $25,000,000 a year a move to change the method of allotting it and fear that if this is done, the salaries of the superintendents and principals would be heavily increased—at the expense of the classroom teachers. At the present time approximately 63 per cent of the entire school appropriation goes to pay teachers' salaries. But if Supt. Erwin and the State Department of Public Instruction, admittedly dominated by the superintendents, should get control of the allocation and spending of the school money, the teachers might get as much as they are now getting, even though the school appropriation might be increased. It is pointed out.

So indications are that the house and senate still have some big scraps that are going to take plenty of time still before they adjournment is still rather indefinite.

NITROGEN                      PHOSPHORIC ACID                      POTASH

the better-balanced fertilizer for BRIGHT TOBACCO?

Some farmers never know what a fine crop of bright tobacco their land will produce because they never try using enough NV POTASH. Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Yet it very often receives the same low-potash fertilizer year after year. When yields and quality suffer, many things are blamed, when this is often simply due to potash starvation.

Are you sure your bright tobacco gets enough NV POTASH? Many farmers have been content with low-potash fertilizers until they tried using 3-8-8 MADE WITH NV POTASH. They found that the small extra cost of the extra potash in 3-8-8 was their best-paying fertilizer investment, returning greatly increased yields of better quality tobacco.

Full-grained, high-quality tobacco gives more pounds than thin, tissue-paper leaf or light trashy leaf. When you produce 1,000 pounds of tobacco per acre, an extra cent per pound due to extra quality will pay the extra cost of 3-8-8 many times over.

It costs little to try 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. Usually only about six pounds of average tobacco per acre will pay the difference between 1,000 pounds of 3-8-8 and 1,000 pounds of 3-8-5. Farmers who try 3-8-8 keep on using it because it costs little and pays big!

Your fertilizer man knows the importance of plenty of potash in tobacco fertilizer. That's why he has 3-8-8 on sale. Tell him you want to try using more NV POTASH this year. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER MADE WITH NV POTASH—the mixture that contains so much extra-profit-producing plantfood at such low extra cost. Your tobacco will thank you with YIELDS + QUALITY.

Fundamentals of Methodism
An informal discussion based on the book "Fundamentals of Methodism," written by the late Bishop Johnson, was the feature of the regular meeting of the Methodist Student Association at the College last night.

"Sing-Song," led by Miss Zoe Ann Davis, Methodist student worker, opened the program and got it well under way.

Roll call by tribes, which followed the devotional, led by Miss Eleanor Ruth Hardy, was very interesting because the students were anxious to see which tribe had the largest attendance. There was competition for the prize since Miss Hardy's tribe, the Minnesotas, although they had 100 per cent attendance, was a small tribe, and Miss Bertha Mae Newsome's tribe, the Tuncaras, a large tribe, had 25 out of 25 present, so the prize, a large bouquet of yellow jonquils, was equally divided among the members of these two winning tribes.

The last half of the program was devoted to a discussion in which questions as "What, as a Methodist, do I believe and practice?" were considered by the 100 students present.

Guests present were Miss Davis, Miss Frances Wahl and Mrs. J. H. Manning, advisors of the group.

Talks To Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
For the intellectually or artistically inclined woman, house work and baby-tending offer a special problem. Of course if there is a large enough income the problem is easily solved, for servants and nurses can be engaged to do routine work, leaving the mother free to follow her own interests. But if there is no money for such services, and the mother does not wish to go out and take a job, there is a good deal of adjustment to be done if her life is to be full and satisfactory.

Black-Draught High
In Quality Without Being High in Price
Black-Draught is "easy to pay for" because it is so economically packaged and so reliable.

But as to quality, there's nothing "cheap" about it. For instance, its principal active ingredient is the leaves of a certain species of plant that are brought 10,000 miles from where they grow to the factory where the medicine is made. These leaves from far, far away, help to give Black-Draught its well-known "laxative reliability." They could not be left out, or substituted, without real loss of good medicinal quality.

For a good, purely vegetable laxative, insist on Black-Draught. About 25 doses in each 25-cent package.

Legislative Chaff and Chatter

Raleigh, Feb. 26.—The Constitutional Amendment commission has declared in favor of giving North Carolina's governor the veto power. This state is the only one which does not let its chief executive exercise some form of check upon legislative action.

It's a very good bet that Governor Clyde R. Hoey is glad he didn't have that sort of power when the County Option liquor bill was passed by this legislature. Personally dry as brick dust the governor would have been on the W. K. "spot" for fair.

The palm for frankness is hereby awarded Mrs. E. L. McKee, on the basis of the following incident: The lady from Jackson was discussing the sales tax on meals, party platforms and several other things, when up rose Senator W. B. Rodman.

"Will the lady yield to the Senator from Beaufort," intoned Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton, presiding.

"Well, it always bothers me to be interrupted," snapped Mrs. McKee. Senator Rodman subsided very hurriedly and was his face red?

The legislature's Edenton session will not be held on February 27 as was planned by Representative Jack White, of Chowan, author of the resolution. No definite date has now been set, although March 6th has been tentatively discussed.

Henry Stevens, former National Commander of the American Legion, was in Raleigh Wednesday in the interest of the Legion's program for educational assistance to orphans of veterans.

He took occasion to proclaim to all who would listen to him, however, that the Duplin county Victory Dinner on March 4th, of which he is in charge, is going to be a very outstanding event. In fact, if Henry is to be believed, it's going to be the dinner of the lot, with not even the statewide affair in Raleigh on March 3rd to compare with it.

Discussion of the Revenue and Appropriations bills has put the Senate far behind in its consideration of the public bill calendar. On Thursday no less than 29 measures, including some of great statewide importance and some of a highly controversial nature, were awaiting disposal when the Senate resolved itself into a committee of the whole for further consideration of the spending bill.

Early birds are already out in search of the proverbial "worm"—in this case a place on the reorganized highway commission if and when the reorganization bill shall have become a law.

From Wilmington - by - the-Sea came J. H. Hinton, formerly a county commissioner of New Hanover, accompanied by J. O. Carr, U. S. District attorney.

No announcement was made by them that Mr. Hinton is a candidate out of the grapevine has it that Mr. Carr, a really big political gun so far as New Hanover is concerned, is vigorously boosting to that end.

Thursday Senator J. A. Bell, chairman of Appropriations, threatened to "open up the whole bill" if more amendments were pressed. It brought no letup in the flood of amendments, however, and to date the Mecklenburger hasn't made good on his threat.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: In two weeks Eve Mannersfield and Denny Carter, a slim, proud southerner, will be honeymooning their way around the world, no longer on the payroll of Herndon's advertising company. Denny has just landed a publicity job with the Southern Star Line. Eve has already resigned her job. In gay spirits, they go to lunch and "plan like the devil." Denny suggests throwing a party tonight to "tell the world our secret." As they start to list their guests, Eve finds her unopened mail in her bag.

Chapter Two Getting Up The Party READING the first letter, Eve made a little annoyed sound. "Oh, dear two of my precious free days before I go to glory!" "Matter, sweet? They want you to stay and break in a new girl?"

"Mercy, no, they're taking Miss Hare on again, and she knows all the ropes. It's the tenant of the old Connecticut house, Mrs. Jennings. You remember, I told you. She fell from heaven after Aunt Lina died, and wanted to carry on the business. So Mrs. Morton, the real estate agent, stored my furniture in the attic for me, and Mrs. Morton says the place is in a state. "Oh, tell her to hire cleaners or plow it under, or something or I'll tell you what, we'll take the old rattletrap and drive out Saturday. Then I won't miss a day of you."

"Swell." She dismissed that, and they went on planning the party until Eve cried: "Heaven, Den, it's two o'clock! We don't want to leave a bad impression even if we are both quitting. . . Have you told them?" He shook his head. "I knew if we both resigned at once they'd smell a mouse about our getting married, and we'd be ragged to death. A week's enough for them to take up a collection for the wedding present."

"Bright boy!" They hurried the waiter and hurried out, laughing at nothing at all; the sharp bright March air tingling on their faces as they came up from the smoky room. "Where'll we have the party?" "Oh, my place—it's bigger," Eve said, "and then I can get Ellen down to help me with the canapes."

"All right, I'll get Bill Gregory to come with his guitar." They were a couple of eager children planning the first of a long series of good times together. Eve dived into her cubicle and went to work again with a magnificent verve made of black coffee and happiness. She worked till one of the errand-girls put in her head to say that it was after closing time.

Inviting Dillard SHE came out to find only one light going; that of stout eyeglassed Dillard Betz. He was lingering at his desk; working at another futile play, probably. It was said that he had once had a play on Broadway for a week; it was true that ever since then he had gone around in an atmosphere of slightly alcoholic self-pity.

Moved by sudden sympathy for him, she stopped and said: "Den and I got up a party today. Want to come? My place this evening around nine." He peered through his thick lenses and began, "Half-promised Kit Cornell I'd drop in—" "Oh dear—she'd forgotten how Den hated that line—half camouflage and half insistence on being coaxed, he called it. If it wasn't Kit Cornell, it was Lynn Fontanne or Noel Coward when plausible, according to Denny. But Denny wouldn't mind tonight, they were both too happy. It was awful, having to pretend like that.

How's Your Health?

By Dr. Iago Goldston

Sore Muscles When muscles are sore, no matter what the cause may be, warmth, massage, liniment and rest will yield beneficial results. But if prevention of recurrence and permanent relief are desired, the cause of the muscular soreness must be defined and, where possible, eliminated.

Stiff and sore muscles are technically called fibrositis. In this condition there is an exudation, that is, an escape of fluids, usually serum, into the muscle tissues and into the tendons and ligaments. On careful examination of the affected muscles with the finger tips, small nodules may be felt within the muscles proper and around their attachments to the bony structures.

The fibrositis causes aching pains, often severe. The pain becomes worse when the involved muscles are stretched.

The common causes of fibrositis are chill, injury, fatigue and infection. When all the muscles of the body ache, or as one is likely to say, "ache all over," it is a "general fibrositis." In such a case we must look for some focus of infection as its probable source. Diseased tonsils, diseased teeth of sinus infection may be responsible for the periodic appearance of generalized fibrositis.

Chill will cause fibrositis of muscles that are on stretch and also when it operates for a long time on muscles that are fatigued. Thus, a tired man asleep in a draft or in cool air may fall an easy victim. Acute or chronic fatigue, bad posture, work that requires much bending, faulty position when asleep, violent physical exercise at the end of the day when the muscles are already tired, may bring on fibrositis.

Lumbago is a form of fibrositis. Occasionally the muscles between the ribs become affected. In this condition the symptoms resemble those of pleurisy. The essential treatment of fibrositis is local. Massage is of value. This should be administered gently at first, more vigorously later. Massage should be followed by complete rest and warmth.

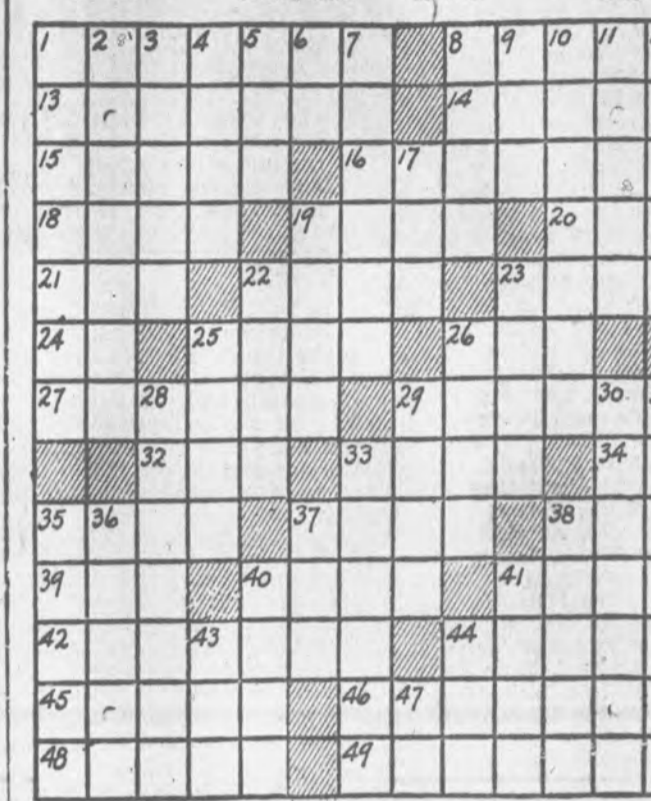

Symptomatic treatment is, however, not enough. The underlying cause of the fibrositis should be sought and eliminated.

INLAID LINOLEUM STRAIGHT 100 PROOF TWO THINGS TO LOOK FOR ON A WHISKEY LABEL 1. The type of whiskey... blend or straight 2. The "proof"... These statements on the label are dependable guides to the kind of whiskey you want. Do you like your taste "straight"? Then pick a straight whiskey. It's "all whiskey and all one kind of whiskey." While you're about it, why not get your full money's worth of straight whiskey? Look for the "proof"... the measure of strength and, hence, a measure of value. Just remember to ask for "Old Mr. Boston." It's full 100 proof. Worth remembering because its higher proof delivers more whiskey taste. Extra economical because it takes less to make a full-flavored highball... enough less to give you at least two extra highballs to every bottle. Buy a bottle of Old Mr. Boston 100 Proof Straight Whiskey tonight, and enjoy the extra pleasure of recalling how little you paid for so much solid whiskey value. OLD MR. ## ROBERTSON'S TOBACCO FERTILIZERS CONTAIN 10 INGREDIENTS

Use these non-acid forming fertilizers if you want to grow more of the higher-priced grades of tobacco. The nitrogen in many forms derived from rich fish scrap, packing-house products and nitrate mines. The potash is supplied in three different forms—Sulphate of Potash, Muriate of Potash to give body, and weight, and Sulphate of Potash Magnesia to prevent frog-eye and sand-drown. These ingredients supply all the usual elements plus many extra needed minerals. Into every bag goes large quantities of magnesia. They are non-acid forming, cannot sour your soil.

Robertson's Tobacco Mixtures contain half organic nitrogen and half mineral nitrogen (proven best by test).

Gentlemen:—
This is the beginning of my 23rd year using ROBERTSON'S fertilizer. For 22 years I have used it under all my crops and I take pleasure in stating that I have never known a disappointment from its use. Varying weather conditions, good years and bad, I can always depend on ROBERTSON'S doing its full duty. Truly, it is a "proven" fertilizer. Yours very truly,

Proposes Abolish Bible Kissing In Courts Of State

Bill Introduced by Wilson of Forsyth Would Do Away With Old Familiar Ritual

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Feb. 26.—No longer will the old familiar ritual of swearing a witness in North Carolina end with a parrot-like drone of "So he'p you God kiss the book," if a bill introduced in the House by Representative Virgil Wilson, of Forsyth, is enacted into law.

His measure, which simply eliminates the necessity for kissing the Bible in taking oaths, has been referred to Judiciary Committee No. 1 and will probably be quickly acted upon by that group.

The author and proponents of the bill contend that it will do away with a moth-eaten ceremonial which has come to mean just exactly nothing at all, as well as to eliminate a practice which is positively dangerous from a sanitary point of view.

They point out that there is grave danger of contracting all manner of contagious diseases from the practice of kissing books, which, no matter how sacred their inner content may be, are notoriously filthy on the outside. They are realists enough to contend that the Word within is no protection whatever against the Germ without.

How's Your Health—

Plastic Surgery

Plastic surgery is a specialty which has developed under a cloud of disparagement. To many, plastic surgery is only the frivolous application of an ancient art for the beautification of those scarred by time and wear. Face lifting and wrinkle removing are the services they credit to plastic surgery.

This view is enormous. Plastic surgery has an important function. In its best form, it is reconstructive surgery, making amends for the failures of nature, or undoing the injuries and deformities inflicted by accidents.

Even as a beautifier, plastic surgery has a valuable service to render, for sometimes a distorted lip, a malformed nose or bat ears may subject the sufferer to great psychologic suffering.

Plastic surgery yields excellent results in the treatment of those suffering from certain congenital defects. A cleft palate or a cleft lip (harelip) not only is a stigma upon the sufferer, but frequently interferes with his speech development and with the physiology of his nose and throat. Skillfully applied, plastic surgery can reconstruct the defective palate and can unite the parts of the cleft lip, leaving only an imperceptible scar.

Plastic surgery is useful in removing disfiguring moles, port wine marks, and other forms of prominent skin blemishes. Congenital or other malformations of the hands, such as webbed fingers, can be treated effectively by plastic surgery. It is even possible to reconstruct missing digits.

Undoubtedly the most common need for plastic or reconstructive surgery arises today from the numerous automobile and industrial accidents. Here disfiguring scars and destroyed skin call for skillful reconstructive surgery.

Unfortunately, plastic surgery is undertaken at times by individuals not trained in medicine or surgery. While they may not undertake radical procedures, they do practice "face peeling" and hair removal by electrolysis and frequently undertake to remove moles and warts electrically or by applying caustic substances.

Needless to say, such practices are extremely dangerous. The individual who really needs plastic surgery should consult his own physician who, if the new warrants it, will direct the patient to a competent surgeon in this field.

The mere fact that the corrective procedure is to be undertaken for sthetic rather than health reasons is no warrant for going to an unskilled practitioner.
