

BATTLE RAGES OVER CONTROL LABOR UNIONS

End of Week Brings Momentous Developments in Dispute

LEWIS BACKERS GAIN ADVANTAGE

American Federation of Labor Supporters Plan Counter Offensives, However

(By Associated Press) The end of a week of momentous developments in the field of industrial unionization saw a quickening today of the struggle for control of labor.

In the steel industry, the leaders of so-called "company unions" joined the battle, whose major contending forces heretofore had been the American Federation of Labor and John Lewis' C. I. O.

Recognition of the C. I. O.'s sole bargaining agency for its members in the Carnegie-Illinois steel corporation gave Lewis' supporters an early advantage, but their foes quickly mapped a counter offensive.

At Pittsburgh leaders of the corporation's employee representatives drafted plans for combating the C. I. O. intentions to enroll the nation's 550,000 steel workers. A committee was authorized to reorganize the "company union" structure.

Although at odds with the Lewis organization, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declined to attack the C. I. O. through support of the Carnegie-Illinois employee group. He told the latter it must be wholly free from company influence before the American Federation of Labor could recognize it as an ally.

The C. I. O. will meet in Washington Tuesday at the call of Lewis to discuss unionization campaigns in several large industries, among them the textile industry, employing 1,200,000 workers.

Reports of a threatened strike by Pittsburgh workers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company cropped out after a C. I. O. union demanded a 20 per cent wage increase for more than 8,000 employees.

Arrests and sluggings marked a taxi cab drivers' strike in Chicago. Leaders claimed 1,800 Yellow cab drivers and 800 Checker company chauffeurs were on strike for more pay and other concessions. Companies' officials contended about 200 quit work.

An agreement on hours and wages ended sit-down strikes of 150 women clerks in two F. W. Woolworth company five and ten cents Detroit stores.

Officials Of City Decide To Proceed On Two Proposals

Civil Service and Little Social Security to Be Established for Firemen and Policemen

Mayor M. K. Blount, chief of the fire and police department and representatives of the fire and police committees of the Board of Aldermen met at the City Hall this morning and decided to proceed with plans to establish a civil service commission here for members of the two departments and also voted to go ahead with plans of inaugurating a little social security to take care of firemen and policemen.

Bills provided for each have been prepared and, after some slight changes are made, will be sent to Raleigh for introduction in the legislature. Local officials were spurred in their efforts after word was received that no further local bills would be accepted after next Wednesday.

Under the social security bill, provisions were made for a board to exercise control of the fund, to be raised by assessing each regular, full-time fireman and policeman so much of his monthly salary. The city would provide an amount equal to that contributed to the employees.

Under the civil service act, a commission would be named to exercise control over the two city departments. The Board of Aldermen, however, would continue to maintain power to "lay off" men if it is deemed necessary. All complaints against firemen and policemen would be made to the commission and the members of the two departments would air their grievances before the commission.

Black potteries, believed relics of the Shang dynasty (1766 to 1122 B. C.), are being excavated in the city of Hangchow, China.

Anti-Slot Machine Bill Expected To Pass House

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 6.—The air-tight, tamper-proof anti-slot machine bill introduced by Senator Ed G. Flanagan of Greenville, Pitt county, which has already passed the senate, is expected to pass the house also, where it is now on the calendar, since indications are that the house members have no more regard for the "one armed bandits" than do the senators.

Those who have read and studied this bill agree that it is the most drastic anti-slot machine bill that has ever been introduced and that if enacted it will undoubtedly bar every type of gambling slot machine in North Carolina and permit only the operation of coin vending machines which return merchandise, such as chewing gum or cigarettes, when coins are inserted.

Reports here today are that the slot machine lobbyists who have been trying to defeat the bill for several weeks, have virtually given up hope and are conceding that it will pass the house. It is understood that when the bill has passed, they will then try to get through a "sneak bill" to either repeal it or amend it in such a way that most of the slot machines can continue to be operated.

This was the procedure followed in the 1935 session, when a supposedly air-tight anti-slot machine bill was enacted, after which a bill was sent through to amend it, taking all the teeth out of it. It is conceded that it is much easier to get "sneak bills" through the assembly near the close of the session where there is always a flood of local bills with the members in a hurry and anxious to get away.

The Flanagan bill, who some are saying was written by Superior Court Judge M. V. Barnhill of Rocky Mount, provides that "any device" is a slot machine "if it is one that is adapted or may be readily converted into one that is adapted for use in such a way that, as a result of the insertion of any piece of money or coin or other object, operate in such manner that the user may receive any piece of money, credit, allowance or thing of value, or any check, slug, token or memorandum, whether of value or other use, which may be exchanged for money, credit, allowance or anything of value."

Senator Bell of Mecklenburg led the opposition, saying he thought it allowed a man to act as judge in his own cause when he served as a legislator when determining funds for institutions which he helped direct. Senators Pittman of Lee, Hill of Durham and Graveley of Nash favored the bill, saying they thought it was a help to the legislators to have members who knew institutional problems.

The senators did not reach the free textbook bill for final passage before they adjourned until Monday night.

BRITONS BEGIN TO FEEL EFFECT OF ARMS PLAN

Gigantic Program Threatens Hamper Normal Industry

BOOST REQUIRED IN INCOME LEVY

Co-Ordination Minister Suggests Some Private Orders Be Held up Three Years

London, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Britain's $7,500,000,000 rearmament program promised today not only to nick taxable incomes by an extra 1.2 per cent, but threatened to hamper normal industrial production for three years.

The five year program of perfecting war defenses, with its prospective inroads into supplies of steel and other materials, would take precedent over regular peace-time industry, Sir Thomas Inskip, defense coordination minister, suggested.

"It would be no bad thing," he declared in a speech last night, "if some orders were postponed two or three years while contractors are busy on the government program."

The airplane industry, for example, is so busy with government orders even now it is not trying to meet private ones.

Meanwhile the English tax payer gradually was learning the full import of the arm program as it promises to affect his purse and labor troubles continued to harass the government's attempts to catch up with a rearming Europe.

District Meeting Of U.D.C. Set For Here On March 10

Mrs. John Huske Anderson, State President, Scheduled to Deliver Feature Address

The annual meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy of the Eleventh district will be held here Wednesday, March 10, with the sessions scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock in the Memorial Baptist church.

An address by Mrs. John Huske Anderson of Raleigh, state president of the organization, is scheduled as a feature of the one-day meeting.

The tentative program also calls for speeches by Mrs. J. W. Parker of Farmville, chairman of the state publicity committee, and Mrs. Claudius McGowan of Plymouth, state recorder of crosses.

Mrs. W. B. Herring of Greenville is district director and will preside over the sessions. Mrs. E. W. Harvey, president of the local chapter, the George B. Singletary unit, will serve as secretary during the proceedings.

Daughters of the Confederacy are expected here from Farmville, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Middlesex, Spring Hope and Wilson. Mrs. Herring said she expected some 150 women to attend the sessions.

Following the morning session, the local chapter will entertain at luncheon at the Episcopal parish. The meeting will be resumed in the afternoon.

Cooley Plans Reveal Stand On Court Row

Washington, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Representative Harold D. Cooley, Nashville, N. C., said today he would announce his stand on President Roosevelt's judiciary program in an address on the house floor Monday.

Only three other members of the state's house delegation of 11 have announced their position on the proposal. Representatives Frank Hancock of Oxford and Zebulon Weaver of Asheville favor it. Representatives A. L. Bulwinkle of Gastonia is opposing it.

Stroke Proves Fatal To Railroad Official

Charlotte, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Edgar Thomson, President of the Piedmont and Northern Railway and the Durham and Southern Railway, died here today. The 69-year-old railway executive had been critically ill since February 22 when he suffered a stroke of paralysis in his office.

A native of Cleveland county, Thomson started his railroad career in 1890 as an agent-operator at Earl for the Charleston, Cincinnati and Chicago railroad. After working in Blacksburg and Gaffney, S. C., he abandoned railroading temporarily to manage the Gaffney carpet manufacturing company. In 1903 he returned to his former occupation as an employee of the Seaboard Air Line railroad company at Atlanta. He became president of the Durham and Southern on the death of B. N. Duke, who had held that post. Three years ago he was elected president of the Piedmont and Northern.

General Assembly On Final Stretch

School and Revenue Machinery Acts, Highway Finance and Reorganization Measures Remain To Be Hurdled, However

Raleigh, Mar. 6.—(AP)—The North Carolina General Assembly hurdled social security and free textbook problems this week, but school and revenue machinery acts and highway finance and reorganization bills still must be enacted.

Rushing toward sine die adjournment, which leaders persisted would come between March 13 and 20, legislators continued their record breaking speed.

Senators late yesterday adopted a resolution calling for sine die adjournment March 18.

The house refused to exempt counties from making contributions to the $16,000,000 biennial social security program for the aged and indigent children, they made clarifying changes and returned the measure to the senate for concurrence in amendments.

Senators in committee opposed the textbooks to provide a $1,500,000 bond issue for free texts for elementary pupils. But, like the house on social security, finally came around to the administration view and sent the measure speeding toward enactment.

Highway questions played a big part in the weeks' deliberations and will hold the spotlight again next week.

The House passed and sent to the Senate the measure backed by Governor Hoey to reorganize the Highway Commission, cut the state into ten districts and let the Governor name the commissioners and chairmen. A Senate roads subcommittee proposed making the Lieutenant-Governor the chairman, but the full committee did not act on the measure.

As the week ended the House was engaged in work on the proposal to reduce automobile license tag rates from 40 to 30 cents per hundred weight, with a $6 minimum instead of $8. The bill would increase license fees of heavy trucks and rewrite many motor vehicle laws.

The Senate finally passed and sent to the House a bill to permit issuance of $5,000,000 worth of bonds for secondary road improvements after rejecting the measure when it called for $10,000,000 in bonds. It originally provided for $25,000,000.

The House received a proposed new constitutional amendment to prohibit highway fund diversion (Continued on page two)

Six Highway Fatalities In Section During Month

Only six persons were killed in highway accidents during February, an increase of one over the number of fatalities during January, but far below the average for the year.

The six deaths resulted from 102 accidents, in which an additional 45 persons were injured. During January the State Highway patrol investigated 71 accidents, in which 43 persons were injured and five killed.

A total of 725 arrests were made during the month, 66 of them were for driving drunk. These figures compared with 754 arrests in January, 63 of which were for driving drunk.

Activities of the highway patrolmen in February resulted in 706 guilty verdicts and only 10 acquittals. Sentences totalling three years and five months were meted out. Fines amounted to $8,624.92 and costs, $4,225.54. The value of property recovered was stated at $5,634.25 and the revenue collected was listed at $4,283.25, for grand total of $23,767.96.

The 40 officers, working in 34 counties, spent a total of 13,773 hours on duty, traveling 103,578 miles and using 656 pints of oil and 3,615 gallons of gasoline. Forty-three days were missed on account of sickness.

During February the force examined 1,417 applicants for driver's license, issuing 1,364.

Other activities of the patrolmen included: vehicles inspected, 3,772; equipment tickets issued, 16; warnings issued, 1,232; courtesies extended, 482; cars recovered, seven; vehicles stored, 34; vehicles weighed 110, with two found overloaded; complaints investigated, 250; citations issued, 342.

Divorce Bans Are Lowered

Raleigh, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Senators today enacted into law a bill to permit divorces in North Carolina on the grounds of two years of separation whether or not the separation is by mutual agreement.

Under the present law only the injured party can sue for divorce, except in cases of mutual agreement.

The upper division wrangled for more than an hour on a house-passed measure to permit legislators to serve as trustees of the University of North Carolina, then amended it to apply to trustees and directors of all state institutions and returned it to the house for concurrence.

Senator Bell of Mecklenburg led the opposition, saying he thought it allowed a man to act as judge in his own cause when he served as a legislator when determining funds for institutions which he helped direct. Senators Pittman of Lee, Hill of Durham and Graveley of Nash favored the bill, saying they thought it was a help to the legislators to have members who knew institutional problems.

MANY PERSONS THOUGHT DEAD IN AIR RAIDS

Spanish Government-Held City of Aranjuez is Attacked

BOMBS FALL IN OTHER SECTIONS

Madrid Residents Given Fright When Insurgent Planes Zoom Overhead

Madrid, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Many persons were believed dead today in the government-held city of Aranjuez after a night of terror in which insurgent planes, making repeated visits, dropped more than 50 bombs.

The attacks on Aranjuez, which started at the dinner hour last night and lasted intermittently until after 2 a. m. today, were the most severe of a series in a broad semi-circle of insurgent air raids on the Central Spanish front.

Aided by a star-studded sky, the bombing squadron dropped explosives with telling accuracy onto spot 15 miles West of Madrid; another 15 miles to the East; one 50 miles to the Southeast on the Valencia highway, and other points near Madrid and the Valencia highway.

Precise figures on the casualties at Aranjuez were not immediately available.

Madrid itself was given a fright when the insurgent war planes zoomed overhead early in the evening, but the planes sped off without bombing the city.

Charge White Man With Maintaining Illegal Machine

Irvin Elks, Filling Station Operator, Bound Over to County Court on Slot Machine Charge

Irvin Elks, operator of a filling station at the corner of Washington and Fourth streets was bound over to County court under bond of $200 following a preliminary hearing in City court this morning on a charge of maintaining a slot machine.

The device was one for playing "Black Jack." Chief Clark said the machine was strictly illegal as it took a player's money and offered nothing in return. A slot was on the side marked "gum", but Chief Clark said no gum was delivered when the machine was played.

It was the first case here involving slot machines in a number of months. Only one other case has been tried since the drive was made here following a mass meeting in the court house in protest against the devices.

The case probably will come up for trial in Tuesday's session of County court. Elks posted bond and was freed pending the trial. The case was the only one tried at this morning's session of police court.

Brother Local Woman Is Claimed by Death

Word was received here today of the death of Hugh McGee of Drew, Miss., who died in the Veterans hospital at Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. McGee was a brother of Mrs. W. D. Tucker of Greenville. Funeral services were held in Drew this afternoon.

Many Legislators Donate Day's Salary to McDonald

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, March 6.—Many members of the general assembly, forgetting all past political differences, are joining in the movement launched in the house yesterday to give one day's pay to a fund which will be sent to Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem, now in the Forsyth county tubercular hospital. Dr. McDonald was taken to the hospital here just a week ago, as a result of relapse following influenza, where it was found that one lung had a tubercular infection. He was taken from here to the Forsyth county sanitarium three days ago where the doctors say he will have to remain in for at least six months.

More than 20 members of the House have already signed the letter which directs State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson to send one day's pay of the undersigned members, amounting to $10 each, to Dr. McDonald. The first members of the House to sign the letter were Representatives Victor S. Bryant of Durham and Oscar G. Barker, also of Durham, both of whom served with Dr. McDonald in the 1935 session of the House.

"Several of us talked the matter over and decided that this was as little as we could do—also that the amount collected would probably help out in the paying of hospital expenses," Rep. Barker said. "For while not all of us agreed with Dr. McDonald in all his political views, all of us who served with him and knew him learned to love and admire him. He was both a hard fighter and a good loser and we deeply regret his present misfortune in having to go to a hospital for at least six months."

Following his defeat for the nomination for Governor in the Democratic primaries last summer, Dr. McDonald entered the law school at Chapel Hill and had been making an excellent record there as a "student." After the general assembly convened here, he came over to Raleigh almost every night to be with old friends and to advise with his faction. He was ill with influenza here for several days, got out too soon and then had the relapse which sent him to the hospital.

WORKERS OUT PROJECT HERE

'Sit-Down' Strikers Leave Site When So Ordered

What appeared early this morning to be a sit-down strike on the part of one white man and several Negroes employed on the Post Office extension project, evidently turned out to be nothing out of the ordinary.

Johnnie Wilson, and several Negroes went to their places as usual this morning, but refused to begin their duties mixing and pouring cement. They remained on the Post Office grounds for the time being.

About mid-morning the inspector told them to move off the grounds and they immediately complied with the request.

Wilson and the Negroes had previously expressed their intention to "hold their ground" until put off by force. When asked to move off the Post Office grounds, however, they did so promptly, but lingered just off the premises.

Wilson said they were not striking so much for higher pay, but that they objected to the treatment they were receiving at the (Continued on page two)

Meeting Set Tonight On Extending Limits

All Greenville citizens interested in the proposal to extend the city limits are invited to be present at a meeting at the City Hall tonight.

Members of the Board of Aldermen, as well as Pitt county's legislative representatives are expected to be present at the meeting.

The meeting was suggested by Senator E. G. Flanagan after he had been requested to introduce the measure.

Local White Man Injured By Negro Friday Afternoon

Officers Seeking Alfred Braxton on Charge of Shooting Moody Williams Yesterday

Officers today were on the watch for Alfred Braxton, Negro, said to be about 21 years old, following the shooting yesterday afternoon of Moody Williams.

Mr. Williams was shot in the hand, the bullet from the revolver striking his wrist and entering his hand. The bullet was removed and he was said to be recovering from the wound.

Chief of Police George Clark said he understood Braxton fired three or four times at Mr. Williams, only one shot taking effect. The shooting was said to have been the result of a previous argument between the white man and Negro.

Immediately after the shooting, the Negro fled from the Independent grocery store, where the shooting took place, and left on a bicycle. Although officers began a search for him, the Negro continued to elude them and had not been apprehended this morning.

Chief Clark said he had never had any previous trouble with Braxton. He declared he expected to "pick him up" shortly.

TOWNS SEEKING SHARE PROFITS FROM WHISKEY

Mayors of Several Municipalities Join in Move

CLAIM CONTROL BIG OBJECTIVE

Contend Profits From Legal Liquor Stores Not Intended to Reduce Taxes

Organized efforts on the part of officials of several Pitt county towns are underway to secure a portion of the profits derived from the legal sale of liquor to be used in law enforcement.

Mayors of Greenville, Ayden, Farmville and Grifton met here this week and discussed such a plan. When contacted today three of them expressed the opinion the towns were due a part of the profits, declaring that the various towns were burdened with much of the law enforcement activities.

Mayor Ivan Bissette said there was some opposition to the proposal in his town and a meeting of city officials had been called for Monday night, at which time the board would decide whether to go on record in favor of such a plan.

Mayor Bruce Bure of Ayden, however, said there is no doubt as to how the citizens of his town felt on the question. "We feel that the burden of law enforcement, or the greater portion of it, is falling on the towns, while the county is getting all the profits." He said he was in favor of his town getting a percentage of the profits based on population, or if this suggestion is not complied with, the town should be provided with a special officer.

"I am interested in control—city profits," he said, adding that he understood this was the object of the liquor law under which the county is operating.

Mayor Lewis of Farmville also expressed ideas along this same line. He said he was trying to "see how my folks feel about the matter and so far every person I have contacted feels that we should get some of the money to carry on law enforcement measures." He also expressed a hope that some way could be worked out whereby his town could secure the services of a special liquor law enforcement officer, out of profits derived from the sale of liquor. He, too, declared that it was his opinion that the profits were primarily for law enforcement purposes.

Mayor M. K. Blount of Greenville, in pointing out his stand, said the profits should not be used for producing taxes, but for control and law enforcement. It was pointed out that the various departments of the county were put to extra expense because of the liquor stores located in their limits.

Under the proposed division of the profits, the cities and towns would get approximately 25 per cent and the county 75 per cent. Mayor Blount said this was about the way the population of the county was divided.

Mr. Blount took into consideration the argument advanced that a reduction in county taxes brought about by profits from the liquor store would benefit town dwellers, as well as rural citizens. He reiterated that the primary purpose of (Continued on page two)

EVE'S ORCHARD
 By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Moving back to her old home in Connecticut after five years of work and play in New York, Eve Mannersfield finds the last tenants have left it in rather bad shape. The spirit of her first old Aunt Lina, who raised her there, pervades the seventeenth century farmhouse. At first, Eve is lonely and depressed without her gay, slim, proud Denny—their marriage plans had crashed when his promised new job fell through. But memories of Aunt Lina buck up Eve. She eats a cold supper by candlelight and feels better.

Chapter Nine
 Callers In The Night

IT WAS too chilly to do anything but go to bed and read. And suppose Mrs. Jennings had taken the bedroom set as well as French leave?

But Eve found it, the narrow maple bed with its bureau and lightstand and all in the big bare room, and did not inquire too curiously into its state. She was marooned here; better make the desert island as comfortable as possible. It was never till you had collected lots of goats and coconuts that the rescuing liner hove in sight in the stories. When you have lived in a tiny apartment for five years, a 12-room house in the chilly dark is terrifying. She made up the bed with rugs. She shivered into her pajamas and—ut her kimono on top of them, wishing it was wool. She set two candles on the lightstand by the bed, and assembled all the magazines a reckless Denny had heaped on her at Grand Central.

There were no shades. She lay and watched stars over the crest of the Seymour house, as she watched them when she was small.

She intended to read till all the candles were used up, but she went under not much later than eight o'clock.

She was awakened by a prolonged thundering noise. For a moment she did not know where she was. . . through her sleep she supposed it was a truck, and tried not to wake. The noise went on. Presently it coarsened her sleep and became unmistakably a determined person pounding on her front door. For a moment she was frightened; she was a girl alone in a big house, and it might be anything! And then it struck her, sitting up under the dusty-smelling rug in her blue silk kimono, that robbers and gangsters did not use front doors, nor bang on them with such frantic insistence. She looked at her wrist watch, and it was only 11. Oh, joy, perhaps the rest of her things, the piano and radio and table!

She pulled on her coat and shoes and went courageously downstairs with her lighted candle. She put the chain on the front door, and opened it. Through the crack, she could see two men with flashlights, and for a moment she was deadly frightened. And gangsters were well-dressed, everybody said.

"What do you want?" she asked tremulously. She peered at them and held up her candle; and then thought she was crazy. For of all the people on earth, the foremost man was Mizzi Power's beau George, whom she had last seen bidding her a most conventional and mannerly good night in her own apartment. He was in a cap and a green leather windbreaker, but she stared through the crack again and made sure—it was George. She knew the intent bright blue eyes in the square white-burned face, and the heavy, squared shoulders, even before he answered her.

Stern Questioning

WE SAW a light here, and came to see—"he began in his slow deep voice with his English intonation. She was so relieved that she laughed aloud as she pulled the chain off the door. Mizzi, of course! Mizzi had taken a notion to drive out here at this crazy hour and bring her party!

"Why, come in," she said. "I thought you were a gangster. I've been moving, so I went to bed at eight. Is Mizzi there?"

"Mizzi?" said George, who seemed even more surprised than she had been. . . He stammered a little. "Why—Mrs. Power, you mean? No, I don't know anything about her—"

He came in and stood there, still in some surprise, staring about him in the candlelight at the wide shadowy hall and the litter of suitcases and half-united bundles on the floor. His eyes returned to Eve, sleep-flushed, tousled and smiling in her big coat held tight round her, obviously over night things, with her candle held high. He colored under his weather-beaten skin and stopped short as the man behind him spoke sharply.

"What is it, George, hitch-hikers bunking? Young woman, don't you know you could be arrested for this sort of thing?"

that its purpose is represented as a bill "to promote temperance by encouraging the use of light wines as opposed to the use of distilled liquor" and to encourage agriculture in the state by stimulating the growing of grapes and fruits, also that it would prohibit the sale of any wines not manufactured in North Carolina, or at least give special preference to these wines.

GOLD RUSH COMING

Gillette Wyo. (AP)—There probably will be another gold rush out Pumpkin Buttes way.

Mrs. Iva Frye of Gillette bought a chicken that came from a farmer there and when she opened it found a gold nugget. A jeweler appraised it at $136. Mrs. Frye paid 50 cents for the chicken.

Several years ago a similar incident started a gold rush at the buttes.

board, but gave a "without prejudice" report to one to abolish the capital punishment. Another committee pulled a bill to allow municipalities to kill a one per cent franchise tax on telephone companies.

Legislative Chaff and Chatter

Raleigh, Mar. 6.—Formal ratification of the Appropriations bill, providing money for expenditures of approximately $79,030,000 in the next biennium, was announced in the House Friday by Speaker Gregg Cherry, who interrupted Representative Sentele's vocal opposition to the gasoline inspection measure, to inform members.

"I'll yield if you aren't going to turn a bear loose on me," said Representative R. E. Sentele to Representative George E. Davis during a speech on the commercial fisheries license and tax bill.

The Brunswick member was referring to Dr. Davis' bill regarding the killing of bears in Hyde county, a measure which his sponsor had much trouble getting out of committee and onto the floor.

Once past the carrier of Representative Libby Ward's substitute, the Social Security bill had the smoothest kind of sailing in the House. It passed third reading on a roll call, 97 to 1, with only Republican Representative John Brewster Grant, of Mocksville, standing firm against it. Democratic Davis of Hyde paired with Mrs. Charles Hutchins, the lady from Yancey, against the bill.

A compilation of the new jobs—most of them of the real juicy plum variety—created by this legislature would be most interesting and would no doubt startle the people of the state, except for the fact that the people of the state are seldom really startled unless somebody keeps yelling continuously in their collective ear.

Representatives Mercer J. Blankenship, J. B. Volger and E. L. Mayhew, all of Mecklenburg, usually render the motto of the Three Musketeers in peculiarly different fashion as "Every man for himself and the Devil for the hindmost"; but at last they are "all for one, and one for all." They have introduced collectively and with complete concord a bill to divide liquor profits from A. B. C. stores in Charlotte—if, when and as the Mecklenburgers vote for these stores—half to the city and half to the county.

Representative W. E. Fenner, Nash, made a vigorous speech Friday for the gasoline inspection measure which was set back by a veto in the House. He confessed he knew little about it, but based his support on the character of the men composing the gasoline commission which investigated the industry before drawing the measure. Off the floor he remarked, "Whenever I see all the lobbyists of the big oil companies in action, button holding legislators on every side, I know the bill they are opposing is a good one. That's one reason I was for the gasoline inspection bill."

Examination of the roll call votes of this year's House will probably show that Representative George E. Davis, of Hyde, is the champion "opposer" of the House.

Of course there have been numerous bills to which there was no opposition whatever, but it is probable that every time there has been as many as one to vote, Mr. Davis was in the negative.

All of which led one wag to remark of the Hyde county squire that "He's 'agin the plan of Salvation."

WORKERS QUIT PROJECT HERE

(Continued from page one) hands of the foreman said to be William Morrison. The foreman in question was not on the grounds this morning, but was returning by noon. He said he was paying little attention to the "strike" adding he could get plenty of men to work. He said the men were not supposed to work Saturday afternoon and were not on the grounds when he arrived.

TOWNS SEEKING SHARE PROFITS FROM WHISKEY

(Continued from page one) the act was not to reduce taxes, but add that if this was considered that city residents have to pay two taxes—city and county—and the people living in the county were not subjected to a city tax.

MISS JENKINS ETC SPEAKER

(Continued from page one) Miss Jenkins says there was not even time to get out the historic pad, much less to get up a speech, but she gave offhand as much information as she could give in the fifteen minutes allotted, selecting the items she thought would be most interesting to the students.

The date of the ratification of the bill, March 8, 1907 considered the actual birthday of the school, was selected as the day to be known as "Founders' Day." Therefore Monday will be the thirtieth birthday of the school. She told something of the fight for the bill and read from the first charter the sections stating the purpose of the school and the instructions about the selection of the location. The latter section reads as follows: "That said school shall be located by the State Board of Education at such a place in Eastern North Carolina as they may deem proper, and shall be located in or near that town offering the largest financial aid, having due regard to desirability and suitability for the location of said school."

She called the roll of towns that entered into that historic competition and told the students, many of whom were from these towns, why Greenville got the school and why the others fell out of the race. She said Greenville staked its chances on the item "largest financial aid" while the others offered inducements that they felt came under the items "desirability and suitability." She told them the story of the gift from the town and Pitt county of $100,000 and the bond issue. Then the bonds were retired only last year.

She called attention to the three portraits at the entrance of Austin auditorium, those of J. L. Fleming, W. H. Ragsdale and Governor Jarvis, and told something of the part of these "founders" had in the fight for the school but she said there were others not only in Greenville but in other places in the state who could be counted among the founders.

She rapidly gave the high spots of the days before the school opened—the first meeting of the Board of Trustees on Dec. 31, 1907, the selection of the site, the letting of contracts, the breaking of the ground on July 2, 1908, the election of the president and faculty, on up to the opening, closing by telling them that October 5, the date of the opening was the date for reminiscences about the early days so another begins there. She referred to the fact that four of the ten members of the faculty who were here for the opening and one other who came before the end of the year, were still in the faculty.

Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, chairman of the Chapel committee introduced Miss Jenkins as one who perhaps knew more of the history of the College from start to finish than any other member of the faculty because she has been interested in collecting this material.

Tweedles The three act play to be presented by the Senior-Normal class of E. C. T. C., on next Friday evening, March 12, is a very popular comedy by two of the best and most popular authors of the century, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, and was a Broadway success with Cornelia Otis Skinner as a member of the cast.

The setting is in an antique shop in the home of the Tweedle family, the oldest native family at a New England seaside resort.

The plot hinges on a love affair between a daughter of a Tweedle and a son of an aristocratic family summering in the resort. Each family vies with the other in family pride. However, they fall to break up the match, for the dreamy young son suddenly wakes up to discover that everyone is a "Tweedle."

This play is full of amusing situations and clever lines. An antiquity shop on a sea terrace facing the sea makes a very attractive setting. The play is being directed and well cast.

Memorial Baptist Society The Woman's Missionary Society of Memorial Baptist church will meet on Monday afternoon at 3:30 at the church.

Circle No. 3, Mrs. W. L. Hall, chairman, will be in charge of the program.

In Memoriam James L. Anderson The Tobacco Board of Trade of Greenville, N. C., wishes to pay loving tribute to James L. Anderson, one of its faithful members, who departed this life for the life beyond early on the morning of March 2nd, 1937.

His winsome, gentle personality won its way into the hearts of all who knew him. To know him was to love him.

Fitting it was that he was laid to rest in Cherry Hill cemetery on the evening of March 3, 1937, under a bountiful Spring sunshine, which was so characteristic of the life that he had lived. He was a friend to man.

Let copies of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy to the Daily Reflector for publication, and a copy sent to the family.

S. B. CURRIN, W. Z. MORTON, Committee.

Mr. Hashinger will lead the discussion Tuesday night at Pactolus. No meetings are scheduled in the county for Wednesday night.

On Thursday night Rev. John Barclay will speak in the Greenville high school; Mr. Hashinger at Fountain and Miss Elsie Larson at Grimesland.

D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools, speaking on behalf of the Board of Education, declared that the Public Forums were providing a great service throughout the county. If you wish you can start them in pots and plant in the open later. They need sunshine. To be sure they are free from thrips before planting, put them in paper bags and sprinkle naphthalene flakes among them. Do this a week before you set them out, leaving them in a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees. Prune the rose bushes severely just before they bloom, leaving the best buds and the strongest canes. Climbers should be pruned just after they bloom.

SILVER LINING SEEN IN TALK

Tydings Address Is Likely to Result in FDR Support

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 6.—Every cloud seems to have its silver lining, with the result that many now believe that the speech made here at the so-called "Victory Dinner" by Senator Edward T. Tydings of Maryland which turned out to be little more than a bitter attack upon both President Roosevelt and all "New Deal" Democrats, was one of the best things that could have happened.

It has crystallized sentiment definitely in favor of the President and his program in almost every section of the state and shown that the bulk of the Democrats in North Carolina are definitely "Rooseveltian Democrats" instead of "Liberty League Democrats," most observers here are pointing out today. It has also stirred up the long smoldering sentiment against Senator Josiah William Bailey because of his continued opposition to President Roosevelt and his court program, to the boiling-point.

For it is now generally known and admitted that it was Senator Bailey who selected Senator Tydings to be the principal speaker at the Victory Dinner, while some are even saying that Senator Bailey wrote part of the anti-New Deal speech which Tydings made at the dinner, in which he did not mention President Roosevelt by name a single time.

One of the most immediate things expected to result from the Tydings speech is the introduction and passage of a resolution by the general assembly endorsing President Roosevelt's stand in favor of enlarging the U. S. Supreme court, a good many observers here agree. For while "the book" containing the names of all the members of the general assembly has been circulating among members for two weeks now, in which members have been asked to sign their names in endorsing the President's court proposals, there has been very little sentiment in favor of a joint resolution commending the President's program and calling upon the members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress to support it.

Those opposed to the resolution of this nature have been certain so far that they had it headed off. But indications now are a resolution in favor of the President will go through both houses with little or no opposition, especially since the South Carolina general assembly has adopted such a resolution. Such a resolution, of course, would be a slap at Senator Bailey and the Congressmen who so far have been only lukewarm towards the President's proposals.

Another beneficial result of the Tydings speech his regarded as being the decision by National Committee Lon Folger and his committee to hold another "Victory Dinner" which will be definitely pro-Rooseveltian in flavor, with a real "New Deal" Democrats as a speaker, in the Memorial Auditorium the night of March 12 in an effort to erase the memory and effects of the first Victory Dinner.

pression. These taxes and licenses were slashed approximately in half by laws enacted in 1933 and 1935. Stern opposition was offered by some of the members from several counties—notably by C. W. Atan, Tyrrell and George E. Davis, Hyde. They contended that the bill proposes to tax deep sea and ocean fishermen whom the legislature of North Carolina has nothing to do, and further that the rates of taxes levied in the bill are too high for the fishermen who will have to pay them.

Mr. Sentelle, the bill's author, and Representative Fred R. Seelye, Carteret, said in rebuttal that the bill is aimed largely to enable the fisheries department to protect North Carolina's fishermen from competition of out-of-the-state boats. At present, they pointed out, the department has not sufficient funds to make even a pretense of enforcing its regulations in waters well within the three-mile limit.

It was pointed out, too, that authorization of a $25,000 for purchase of a second boat for the department is pending and that the increased taxes in the Sentelle bill would provide funds for operation of this second unit of the state's "navy."

Funds To Operate Navy Provided In Sentelle Measure

Increased Taxes on Commercial Fishermen Would Supply Money For State's One-Boat "Navy"

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 6.—Funds for operation of the North Carolina "navy"—which at present consists of one boat—will be provided by taxes raised through a bill adopted in the House Friday after a brisk but futile skirmish by opponents of the measure.

The bill, introduced by Representative R. E. Sentelle, Brunswick, in effect restores the schedule of licenses and taxes on commercial fishermen and upon the implements of their trade and their catches, which prevailed prior to the de-

ALLOW GEISHA SET UP GUILD

Japanese Girl Entertainers Victorious in Sit-Down Strike

Osaka, Japan, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Three hundred gaily-clad Geisha entertainers in Osaka's bright lighted cages—ended their eight-day sit-down strike today with recognition of their right to form a Geisha guild. The striking girls, who spent more than a week of self-immolation in a Buddhist mountain temple, accepted a compromise agreement which police had labored to affect throughout the night. Their main demand, a guild of their own organization, was granted by harassed Osaka employers. Osaka's gay amusement quarter immediately plunged into plans for a gala welcome tonight when the victorious maidens resume their singing, dancing and entertaining for the tired business men of industrial Osaka.

DISGUSTED FARMER PLANTS WHEAT, NOT CORN

Pleasant Hill, Mo. (AP)—For the first time in 34 years one Missouri farmer isn't going to lie awake nights worrying whether next year will be a good one for growing corn.

For W. R. Warner, who has planted corn every year since he began farming in 1902, is turning his 320 acres over to wheat, timothy and lespedeza. His corn crops for the last three years were burned away by drought.

Catholic Anniversary Service
On Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, St. Gabriel's Catholic church for the Colored, Fifth Street and Tyson avenue, will be the scene of a very impressive ceremony. Just a year ago this church was solemnly dedicated by the Rt. Rev. Wm. J. Haley, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese, here in North Carolina. On Sunday afternoon, a class of twenty-two will be formally received into the congregation, receiving the Sacrament of Baptism. Rev. Father Maurice, Pastor, will administer the Sacrament.

Rev. Mark Mosenlin, pastor of the Colored Church in Washington, N. C., will preach the sermon. The Catholic Colored Children's Choir, of the Mother of Mercy School, in Washington, will furnish the music for the solemn occasion.

This ceremony had been originally scheduled for last Sunday but due to the inclement weather, was postponed.

A very cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to attend.
