PARIS BUSINESS AT STANDSTILL DUE TO STRIKE

Walkout in Protest Against "Fascist Assassinations"

MINOR CLASHES ABOUT CAPITAL

Strong Attack Expected Against Government as Result of Street Battles

Paris, Mar. 18.—(AP)—A general strike of 2,000,000 workers in protest against "Fascist assassinations" they accused of killing of five Leftists in a bloody street riot brought Paris to a standstill today.

For half the day, marked by numerous minor clashes in the city's streets, but no serious disorders, the workers demonstrated their power to enforce demands for destruction of "Fascism" in France.

All factories and most shops, restaurants and offices were closed until noon by the general strike, called by the General Confederation of Workers in protest over the "massacre of Cligny" Tuesday night and early yesterday when armed police charged Communist street barricades in the workers' suburbs outside a Rightist mass meeting.

In the capital, itself, about 1,000,000 workers joined the strike, which until the deadline at 11 a. m. stopped traffic.

So complete was the immobilization of the city the morning session of the Chamber of Deputies was postponed. A strong attack was expected against the government as a result of the street battles at Cligny.

"Some of our colleagues have an hour and a half walk to get here," legislators said in demanding the adjournment.

The sidewalks were crowded with "good-natured" pedestrians forced to walk by the transportation tie-ups, in strange contrast with the usual bustling street scenes.

Steals Automobile And Wrecks It In Trying To Escape

James Wilson, Negro, Held in City Jail on Charge of Stealing Car Owned by Vance Perkins

James Wilson, local Negro who has been employed as delivery boy for local grocery stores on various occasions, is being held in city jail charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to Curtis Perkins.

According to Chief of Police George Clark, the Negro, who was employed by the Independent grocery company at the time, was on a delivery trip when he abandoned his bicycle and stole the automobile. In his effort to get away, he drove the vehicle into the back of Erard's store. He was headed down an alley when the accident took place.

The Negro jumped and ran. Chief Clark said, but was caught and locked in jail. He will be given a preliminary hearing in City court Saturday morning and if probable cause is found will be bound over to Superior court, with the possibility his case will come up in the high court next week.

Chief Clark said the Negro had a reputation for larceny. The officer said the Negro had stolen bicycles and also was suspected of taking packages from parked automobiles.

Aged Woman Dies at Home in Pitt County

Miss Fannie Norris, 74, died at the home of her nephew, Chester Lewis, E. F. D. 4 Greenville, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. She had been in declining health for some time.

Miss Norris was the daughter of the late Ashley and Julia Ann Thomas Norris of Belvoir township. She spent her entire life in the community in which she died.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late home by Rev. C. G. Harris, Free Will Baptist minister of Greenville. Interment followed in the family cemetery near the home. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. B. Council of Nashville and several nieces and nephews.

Twins 'Bean' Squirrels

Weatherford, Okla. (AP)—As good as old-fashioned "bean-shooters" as Dunn men are with rifles are Clint and Clell Weese, 24-year-old twins. Each can knock down a squirrel or jackrabbit at 40 paces, friends say.

Papal Assault On Communism

Purvis Captured By Film Actress

Daring Dan cupid has turned the tables on Melvin Purvis, former G-man who usually got his man, including John Dillinger and many others. Holy Father Issues an Attack on Foe Of Catholic Church

Vatican City, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, condemned communism as "the ruin of family and society" in a lengthy ecclesiastical issue today.

The Holy Father in a vigorous attack on the forces he has fought, even throughout his recent serious illness, declared only the Catholic church can effectively oppose what he termed "the ravage of the anti-God campaign which shakes society to its very foundation."

He devoted several paragraphs to demonstrating how the Catholic religion in the family and in the state was the best equipped agent to combat Communism, which he asserted "will precipitate one and all to ruin and catastrophe."

The Holy Father's declaration said the possibility of "so obviously an erroneous doctrine" securing a widespread foothold was due to "a false ideal of justice and equality which Communism has held out to the masses, promising alleviation of many undeniable abuses and improvement of the condition of poor working men."

He said workmen had followed prophets of the new doctrine, but were unable to see the most serious errors of Communism.

LOYALS CLAIM TELLING BLOW

Spanish Government Defenders Gaining Territory

Madrid, Mar. 18.—(AP)—The Spanish government aerial warriors claimed the whip-hand today in the struggle for air supremacy in the civil war. "The Insurgents haven't a chance," one said.

The clashes of government and insurgent squadrons have been marked by mass attacks of a size unprecedented in modern warfare.

The government claimed a telling blow against General Francisco Franco's Guadalajala salient northeast of Madrid, declaring its planes laid waste two insurgent strongholds.

No Serious Injury In Accident Here Today

A minor wreck occurred at the intersection of Greene and Third streets this morning, but no personal damage was suffered and no arrest was made.

Chief of Police George Clark said a truck driven by Howard Sumrell of Ayden crashed into another small truck operated by Lance Wooten, Negro employee of the Carolina Sales.

According to the officer, Sumrell started to stop for a red light and his foot slipped off the brake and struck the foot accelerator. His truck crashed the red light and ran into the truck operated by Wooten.

Numerous Bills Offered Regarding Liquor Sales

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 18.—Any thought that the liquor question was a dead issue as soon as the County Option bill passed has been dispelled by the frequency with which it has bobbed up again and again in both houses of the General Assembly.

Local bills prohibiting the sale of anything stronger than the purest spring water have been introduced and passed for this town and that church neighborhood and even for whole counties.

Then, of course, there have been nearly two score bills providing for distribution of liquor store profits between cities and counties.

The latest fad in liquor measures are "little loam" bills providing that certain town may hold liquor elections irrespective of the action taken by the county wherein they are located.

So far as can be ascertained in the fuss and confusion of these last legislative days, none of the last category has yet been enacted into law, and it is not likely that any will be.

CHANGES MADE NEUTRAL PACT

Two-Year Limit Placed on Cash, Carry War Purchases

Washington, March 18.—(AP)—The house approved a two-year limit today on a provision in the McReynolds neutrality bill to put shipments of war materials to a fighting nation on a cash-and-carry basis.

By a voice vote, the house agreed to an amendment by Rep. Shanley (D. Conn.) to make the cash and carry system temporary.

Republican support swung in behind his proposal which smoothed out much of the opposition to the most controversial section of the bill.

Meanwhile, a senate judiciary committee witness asserted opponents of the Roosevelt administration have turned the Supreme court into a "smoke screen" behind which they fight the press program.

Leon Green, dean of Northwestern University law school, said he thought Mr. Roosevelt proposal for putting new members on the Supreme court bench should be adopted to get a "fair court."

He told the committee the majority of the Supreme court has "assumed an attitude of intolerance and had displayed an intemperance toward much of the legislation it reviews."

While the hearing progresses, some congressional leaders turned their attention temporarily from reorganizing the court to speculate on its action on major legislation pending before it.

Speaker Bankhead expressed hope there would be an early decision on the Wagner labor relations act. That, he said, would clear the way for attack on the "very serious economic situation" resulting from sit-down strikes.

The senate was in recess. The 40-hour week for postal employees will cost Uncle Sam $35,000,000 a year.

'CONFIDENTIALLY, SENATOR ...'

President William Green (left) of the American Federation of Labor judiciary didn't intend for the official stenographer for the senate judiciary committee to record this confidential conversation with Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), as he testified in support of President Roosevelt's court reform program. Green pleaded for periodic changes in the personnel of the Supreme Court "to bring to the court men fresh from life." (Associated Press Photo.)

DEATH CLAIMS NUMBER CASES LAST VETERAN IN HIGH COURT

Hardy J. Stokes Last of Civil War Soldiers in Pitt

Hardy J. Stokes, age 96, died last night at 10:45 o'clock at his home in Chocoll township. He had been in failing health for the past year.

Mr. Stokes was the last remaining veteran of the Civil war in Pitt County. He volunteered his services to the southern cause at the beginning of the war and served the entire four years without being wounded.

He was captured during the last few months of the war and was held prisoner near New Bern for some time. After his release he returned to his home in Pitt county where he has made his home since.

He was a prosperous farmer and a highly esteemed citizen. Final rites will be held from the late home Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Roberts, assisted by Elder Luther Joyner, Primitive Baptist ministers. Burial will be made beside his late wife who preceded him to the grave nine years ago.

Mr. Stokes is survived by four sons, J. T. Stokes, Norfolk, Va.; J. P. Stokes, Kinston; N. T. and H. M. Stokes, Greenville; R. F. D.; one daughter, Mrs. Mittle Bright of the home. Twenty-four grandchildren and 45 great-grandchildren.

Active pallbearers will be: T. H. Branch, C. W. Williams, Oscar Kerman, M. K. Porter, Cliff Stokes, J. B. Stokes.

Honorary: G. S. Porter, J. B. Tucker, L. W. Tucker, J. Raymond Tucker, N. H. Beppard, H. H. Porter, W. H. Porter, J. S. Porter, J. A. Porter, C. A. Porter, Theodosy Porter, Elbert T. Porter, C. H. Mills, Ernest McGowan, G. H. Rowse.

College Trustees In Winter Session Here

Members of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina Teachers College held their regular winter meeting here today and discussed a number of routine matters.

Supt. of Public Instruction Clyde Erwin, chairman ex-officio of the board, was among those here dropping his activities in Raleigh to come here for the meeting.

Others attending were Mrs. Charles M. Johnson and A. B. Andrews of Raleigh, Henry Clay Bridgers of Tarboro, Mrs. W. C. Murphy of Snow Hill and P. C. Harding, Mrs. Charles S. Forbes and R. R. Taylor of Greenville, E. G. Flanagan, another local member of the board, who is representing Pitt county in the State Senate, was unable to be here.

Flying Laboratory Lands Honolulu

Amelia Earhart Gets Good Start on Globe Circling Flight

Honolulu, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart landed her globe girdling flying laboratory at Wheeler Field at 8:29 a. m. Pacific standard time today (11:29 a. m. est.) completing her 2,400 mile over-water hop from Oakland, Calif. in less than 16 hours.

The flight was the fastest ever made in the westerly direction. The record made by the Hawaii clipper last December was 16 hours, 53 minutes.

The tangle-headed aviatrix, accompanied by three male aids, reported at 4 a. m. Pacific standard time, nearly 12 hours after her take-off here, a position 630 miles from Honolulu.

Overtaken and left behind by Miss Earhart and her companions were two great trans-Pacific flying boats. One is destined to Australia to carve an American air route, the other bound for Manila, already linked to the United States by an American commercial air line.

In clear weather, 8,000 feet above the quiet ocean, the twin-motor "flying laboratory" sped along, apparently without effort, under Miss Earhart's piloting.

"Everything O. K.," she would radio headquarters.

Bride Beats Ban Wedded Tutors

Mrs. Janelle Wise Elliot (above), pretty bride of Oxford, Miss., has won her fight against a ban on the employment of married teachers in the University high school in that city. MAN HELD FOR FATAL WRECK

Alonzo Dail, Farmer, Faces Charge Of Manslaughter

Alonzo Dail, farmer of near Littlefield, is facing a charge of manslaughter and driving drunk as the result of a wreck about 6:30 o'clock last night near Centerville in which Oldie Sanders, Negro, was fatally wounded.

The Negro died in the hospital about 7 o'clock this morning. He was on a cart load of wood when the wreck occurred and death was said to have been caused by an injury received when a stick of the wood was driven into the lower part of his body. He also suffered a compound fracture of the leg.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehead, who investigated the wreck, said he was holding Dail in jail, but added he expected to set bond, probably at $3,000, during the day.

Sheriff Whitehead said Dail was in a drunken condition to such an extent he had not gotten out of the car when officers arrived. Wiley McLawhorn, who was with Dail, was also said by the sheriff to have been in a drunken condition. The two men were understood to have been returning from a fishing trip.

According to the officer, the white man drove his automobile into the rear of the cart loaded with wood.

Former Assemblyman Dies in Rocky Mount

Rocky Mount, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Frank Cherry, 71, secretary of the North Carolina State Farmers Alliance, president of a local tobacco warehouse company and former representative to the General Assembly from Edgecombe county, died at his home here early today after an illness of several days.

Funeral services will be conducted here at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with interment here.

Highway Reorganization Seen As Waynick Victory

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 18.—Passage of the bill reorganizing the State Highway and Public Works Commission in virtually the same form as it passed the house and with only one minor senate amendment is regarded in most circles here as a decided victory for Chairman Capus M. Waynick and as a smashing defeat for State Auditor George Ross Pou and the forces which were trying to make Pou an ex-officio member of the new highway commission.

For the bill had been amended in the senate roads committee so that the State Auditor, the State Treasurer and the Governor would be ex-officio members of the new eleven member commission, swelling the total membership to 14.

But this amendment was not in the bill when it was reported into the senate Tuesday night and when information was given Wednesday morning, having been removed by the same committee that put it in.

It was reported in which after an extended hearing in which Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the present highway commission and his friends went to bat in opposition to the amendment. Neither Governor Clyde R. Hoey nor State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson wanted to be made ex-officio members of the commission, and the committee was so informed. But it is generally agreed that Pou made a very strong fight for this amendment and had some of the best politicians and lobbyists in the state working for him, including some of the highway contractors known to be unfriendly to Chairman Waynick and the present commission.

As a result, most of those who have been following the course of this under-cover fight to make Pou a member of the new highway commission, are convinced that the proposal to make the Governor and State Treasurer members of it also was largely a smoke screen to help make Pou a member. Several of those backing this change felt certain.

SET UP BOARD HEAR DISPUTES

Chrysler Strikers Are Still Ignoring Injunction

Labor at a Glance New conciliation board affords possibility for handling Chrysler strike as union ignores injunction.

Corporation's next step undetermined; continues negotiations with U. A. W. A.

Conference called by Michigan governor drafts procedure for voluntary mediation, conciliation and arbitration of labor conflicts.

Detroit mayor and head of new labor adjustment board to confer. Chrysler and other automotive strikes leaves more than 90,000 workers idle.

Detroit, Mar. 18.—(AP)—The creation of a civic board to conciliate labor disputes offered a possible recourse today for settling the strike in the Chrysler automotive plants held by sit-downers defying a circuit court injunction for the second day.

The board was the first tangible outgrowth of a conference which ended a one-day session last night with the drafting of plans for mediating, conciliating and arbitrating existing or threatened differences between employers and employees.

Dr. Diederick Seidenburg, executive dean of the University of Detroit, was appointed chairman of the Detroit conciliatory board at the end of the meeting and was to confer with Mayor Frank Couzens at the City Hall.

House Turns Down Senate Changes Inserted in Bill

VOTE TO ACCEPT MACHINERY ACT

Senators Debate, But Refuse to Revive Bill to Abolish Theatre "Bank Nights"

Raleigh, Mar. 18.—(AP)—The house refused this afternoon to concur in the senate changes setting automobile license prices at a higher level that voted by the representatives.

The senate amended the highway finance and code act to levy a $7 minimum with a rate of 35 cents per 100 pounds, while the house approved a $5 minimum with a 30 cents rate. Now the minimum is $8 and the rate 40 cents.

A conference committee consisting of Senators Sparker of Stokes and Ballentine of Wake and Representatives Johnston of Iredell, Uzell of Rowan and Blount of Beaufort, was appointed to try to iron out the differences.

The action might result in prolonging the session, leaders said but nevertheless the steady grind continued with plans being made to adjourn sine die not later than Monday or Tuesday.

Representative quickly occurred in senate amendments to the important school machinery act, under which counties levy and collect taxes and ordered it enrolled for ratification.

The senate passed, with only two minor changes, the $2,440,000 permanent improvement bill and returned it to the house for concurrence.

Senators concurred in House amendments to the measure creating a state real estate commission with 65 counties included.

Senators debated at length over the proposal of Senator Phelan of Pitt to revive a bill to prohibit bank or cash nights at theatre and finally declined to revive it.

President Horton of the senate said adjournment Saturday night was possible, but he added he thought it more likely the session would end Monday or Tuesday.

Mrs. R. Hymann Dies in Miami, Fla. Result Pneumonia

Final Funeral Arrangements Yet to Be Completed, But Burial to Be in Cherry Hill Cemetery

Mrs. R. Hymann, resident of this city up until about two years ago when she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. John P. Lynch of Erwin, died in Miami, Fla., at 9 o'clock this morning following an illness with pneumonia. Mrs. Hymann had been visiting a son, T. O'H. Dupree when she was stricken with the fatal illness.

Final funeral arrangements had not been completed today, but it was announced that the body would be returned to Erwin late tomorrow afternoon where services will be held Saturday. The body then will be brought here for interment in Cherry Hill cemetery, by the side of her first husband, Joseph A. Dupree.

Prior to her marriage to the late Mr. Dupree, she was Miss Judith Duane Boothe of Murfreesboro. Immediately after her marriage she moved here with her husband and resided here until the time she went to live with her daughter in Erwin.

Some time after the death of her first husband, she was married to R. Hymann, who survives her. The one daughter, Mrs. Lynch, and three sons, T. O'H. Dupree of Miami, Alvin D. Dupree of Columbia, S. C., and William B. Dupree of Petersburg, Va., all children by Mrs. Hymann's first marriage, and a number of grandchildren also survive.

Local Man Manager Tarboro Newspaper

Autrey Shackelford of this city assumed charge as managing editor of the Daily Southerner at Tarboro there yesterday.

Shackelford had previously been associated with his father, Robert G. Shackelford, in the newspaper business for a number of years. He was associated with him in publication of the Edenton Daily News and a chain of weekly newspapers in the Edenton area and later of the Maplewood News and Millboro News.

He succeeds Bertram H. Brown, managing editor of the Southerner since August, 1934, who left Tarboro to become a member of the staff of the Greensboro Record.

Round Table Meeting

Mrs. Howard McGinnis was a delightful hostess to the Round Table at her home on Tuesday afternoon. Guests were Mrs. J. L. Lewis, Mrs. E. L. Henderson and Mrs. Julius Eldridge.

Upon arrival Mrs. Herbert ReBarker and Mrs. E. L. Henderson assisted the hostess in serving a salad course, which carried out the colors of St. Patrick.

After the installation of new officers the program committee presented Mrs. Milton White who discussed "Process of China Making" to carry forward the year's study of science in everyday life.

Mrs. White first gave the history of early china, relating the process, materials and designs used. The Chinese being the first to use clay in making the most exquisite porcelain, furnished the name of china for this most wonderful art. The Japanese were taught the process of china making by the Chinese, and today there is no more beautiful china than that made by them. The history of the willow pattern plate was sketched, followed by the beautiful poetry portraying the love story which inspired the lovely design. Most interesting was the description of the methods of moulding, burning, heating, cooling, glazing, decorating and other intricate things necessary to be done to produce china as well as the influence of peoples as reflected on their designs. She traced the history and development on down through the Wedgwood designs to the present day modern designs, one of them being lace edges with the single large flower or cluster as decorations.

Mrs. White added to her discussion a display of old china brought by herself and other members which dates back over two hundred years. These precious heirlooms, exquisite in design, were discussed by those to whom they belonged.

Mrs. C. T. Munford gave interesting current events—a pathetic one concerning the intense rivalry in war-conscious nations over birth rates, babies being counted as war material, and one featuring a new development of rubber being made out of garbage. — Reported.

Choirs to Meet

The Junior and adult choirs of the Presbyterian church will meet for practice Friday afternoon at five o'clock.

Series of Bible Talks

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church wishes to invite the people of Greenville to hear a series of talks on "Personal Witnessing" given by Mrs. Askew, who is the Bible teacher sent out by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church.

The time for the meetings, which will be held at the church, will be Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock and Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Easter Dance

The Towne club will give its second annual Easter dance on Thursday evening, March 25 in the high school gym. The German club of this city is invited to take part in the dance and numbers of invitations will be sent to out of town guests. Music for the dance will be furnished by Jack Wardlaw and his orchestra.

Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. James S. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Grisham Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Hogan Gaskins, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Northrop, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Shackell, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hadley.

Dr. ReBarker Honored

Dr. Herbert ReBarker was made a member last night of the Tau chapter of Phi Sigma Pi, the national men's education honor society at their meeting in the of the College.

In response, after having been notified of his election to membership, Dr. ReBarker made an excellent talk in which he gave some wholesome advice on what the teacher must do if he is going to take his profession seriously.

Class in Raleigh

The College class in North Carolina History, with their teacher, Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, is spending the day in Raleigh visiting places where they will find rich material on the history of the state, and visiting points of historic interest.

Arrangements had been made ahead with the Secretary of the Historical Commission for inspection of the work done there. They planned to spend some time in the Hall of History, the Museum and the State Library, also.

They will have an opportunity to see history in the making, also, as they will see the Legislature at work.

Science Club To Be Host

The Science club of the College will be host to the Science teachers in Eastern North Carolina, on "Science Club Day," to be observed about the middle of the Spring term. Dr. H. A. Web, head of the Chemistry Department of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., has accepted the invitation to deliver an address on the subject of "Enriching High School Science." He will also conduct an open forum. At their club meeting on Tuesday night the committees reported that they would soon be ready to announce the other special features of the program and plans for exhibits.

The program at this meeting was devoted to the subject of physics. Miss Fannie Brewer, the vice-president of the club, presented the

She classed among the greatest of these: Archimedes, Bacon, Torricelli, Pascal, Boyle, and Newton.

Plans were also presented for the staging of a carnival on April 9th, and the club was assured this would have everything one could expect of a carnival such as a parade, fortune-telling, clowns, and the crowning of a beauty queen.

Birthday Dinner

On Sunday evening, Mrs. W. H. Woolard, Miss Mary Woolard and William Woolard delightfully entertained at dinner, in celebration of the birthday of Mr. Woolard.

The home throughout was attractively decorated in colorful spring flowers.

The table was centered with a pretty birthday cake. A delicious three-course dinner was served to the following cashiers of the Guaranty Bank & Trust Company and its branches: J. H. Waldrop, Frank Patrick, Greenville; N. G. Small, Elizabeth City; Harry Gurganus, Washington; S. C. Ives, Bethel; Virgil Whitehurst, Snow Hill; D. V. Clayton, Williamston and J. E. Edwards, Belhaven.

meeting with Mrs. L. C. Arthur. Mrs. Hassell introduced the guest speaker, Dr. H. J. McGinnis. His handling of the subject, "The March of Time," was both interesting and unique. He paid tribute to preceding generations that have passed to us a world better than they found it. The march of time was depicted in two ways, first by a poem and second by a letter.

The cleverly written imaginary letter gave news to a Puritan ancestor of what government, science and invention have done for America since his day.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, served a delicious salad course.

Guests for the afternoon were Dr. H. J. McGinnis, Mrs. F. W. Brown, Mrs. W. S. Brown, Mrs. T. N. Ennett and Mrs. W. A. Ryan.—Reported.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield goes back to her 200-year-old home and orchard in Connecticut after working years in New York. She plans to rent, marry, give, and return to Manhattan apartment life. But she tends to stay in her beloved old home, where Uncle Henry, an old family friend, moves in to help her. The place, Peter, the artist, and his wife, Marilyn, with their serious joking son, Judge, join the ménage à quatre. Quiet, practical George Cleveland, who lives nearby, tells Eve he loves her.

Chapter 19
Friends? Yes, Damn It!
"Oh, George—there is somebody else!"
He was silent at that for a moment. Then he said haltingly: "Eve, I know this is inexcusable, but it means—well, everything to me. You haven't made up the other fellow just to shut me off."
"No, I haven't. There are reasons why we have not let it be an actual engagement now," Eve explained. "We aren't in a position to afford to marry, and you know—you keep it quiet till you can tell people when you're going to."
"I'm sorry—but it's real—there is somebody—she said incoherently."
"There would be I suppose, with a girl like you." He was a little whiter. He stood up. After a moment he spoke again with some effort. "Well, be neighbors will you go? It may be a week or months—your plan, I mean, we'll go on the principle that it hasn't happened, and we're darn good friends, and I'm on my way upstairs to help Uncle Henry put up an extra bed or two for the Featherstones."
"He smiled for the first time—"I like you, too much to have us stop liking each other because I wanted us to love each other. Promise!"
She drew a long sigh of relief.
"Oh, I George, thank you! It's selfish, but we're friends!"
"Yes," said George impatiently, "damn it, that was the talk-off."
A late ray of the sunset glinted across his head where he stood in line with the window, and turned his thick sandy hair bright. It suddenly occurred to Eve that he had unquestionably been a red-haired little boy, which meant that under what she considered his stolidity must somewhere be temper and sensitiveness. Somehow she liked him better for the flash of crimson.
"Now I'll go and Uncle Henry in the garret," he said with his usual manner, and walked out of the room in the direction of the attic stairs.
Eve sat still a moment longer to pull herself together. Then she remembered Ellen and the Featherstones and the necessity for supper.

George stood up. "We'll go on the principle that it hasn't happened and we're darn good friends."

Candles On The Mantel
MARYLIN all alone and half asleep, was still curled in the big old sleepy-hollow chair that had been the last thing brought down from the attic, a chair that really belonged in the second floor. The room was warm, after the chill of the halls, for somebody had piled the big hearth high again with logs. Candles burned on the mantelpiece. Peter, probably Peter was sweet about things like that, small luxurious attentions; he always remembered to renew your candles for you and push ash trays near and stand ready with your coal held. He waited on his Marilyn as devotedly after 13 years of matrimony as he had when they married.
Eve knelt down by the fire, warming her hands.
"Where's everybody?" she asked. Marilyn yawned, stretching her body like a long thin kitten.
"Hello, Eve! Peter always has a nap about this time. Judge is out same-the man who has made North Carolina from cut-throat competition. Opponents contend it puts the consuming public at the mercy of big manufacturing concerns. Senator A. Hall Johnston, of Buncombe, called the bill "the worst breeder of monopoly ever brought before the legislature."

Those who favor its enactment believe it will prevent chain stores from using "below cost" prices on trade marked articles as "loss leaders" in an effort to get people into their stores and freeze out small merchants.
Those who opposed the bill contended it means nothing more or less than authority to big concerns to fix the price of an article worth perhaps a quarter at any price they choose—a dollar for instance.

In substance the bill permits manufacturers of trade-marked articles to set a minimum resale price on their products.
Proponents of the bill assert it will protect the "small merchant,

Senator Lee L. Gravelly, who battled the bill bitterly, asked:

School Insurance Program Defeated When Act Tabled

Main Portion of Plan Killed by Effective Lobbying Campaign by Insurance Companies

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 18.—A grandiose school insurance program of Senator Henry Ingram, of Randolph, ended in exactly nothing Wednesday, when the Senate tabled on the sponsor's own motion, a bill to provide for regular appraisals of school buildings.
The bill acted upon was in itself only the last vestige of a comprehensive scheme which embraced the state's setting up its own insurance fund and insuring all school property without giving any of the business to commercial insurance companies.

The main portion of the plan was beaten by an extremely effective and intensive campaign by the big insurance lobby which is always in evidence around the legislature.
The "rear guard," so to speak, was crushed largely by opposition based upon the idea that the proposed plan would be too favorable to the insurance companies and that it would increase the cost to the county and district school boards.

And so the Randolph county lawmaker's big idea collapsed when caught between both pro and anti-insurance company votes.

The state insurance plan never saw daylight after being referred to a committee. The measure which provided that there should be a regular appraisal of all school buildings and property every two years by a board composed of the chairman of the county commissioners, the clerk of the board of education, the county superintendent of education and a contractor employed for the occasion. It further provided that every building should thereafter be insured for not less than 50 per cent nor more than 90 per cent of its appraised value. Mr. Ingram contended that at present there is no provision in law that school buildings must be insured.

FIFT REPRESENTATIVE HAS A WORD OF PRAISE FOR FICKLEN ARTHUR

In their recent discussion relative to the proposed extension of the boundaries of the City of Greenville there was, of course, an argument on both sides. Mr. Ficklen Arthur felt very strongly that certain portions of his property should not be included in the new boundaries. He appeared before the Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns and argued his point calmly and forcibly. He made quite a good impression on this committee, so much so, in fact, that later in the day he had been able to induce a member of the House to offer an amendment which might have thrown the entire bill into a most unfavorable position. When this matter was clearly presented to Mr. Arthur by Senator Flanagan and myself, he acted so considerately and kindly that we were both much impressed by his splendid attitude. He agreed to recall his amendment altogether, thus leaving the bill in an unopposed position on the floor of the House.

This action of Mr. Arthur was so fine that I feel that it deserves proper commendation. I am therefore pleased to give it publicity.

J. S. MOORE.

Legislative Chaff and Chatter

Raleigh, Mar. 18.—Oscillation of the House between its desire to adjourn sine die and its habit of accommodating every member by yielding to him on his local matters has finally got under the skin of Representative D. P. Taylor of Alleghany, whose voice is seldom lifted in debate, but who always gets close and respectful attention when he does speak.

Tuesday night the House had occupied something like 45 minutes in taking local bills off the unfavorable calendar and putting them on the favorable list. Eventually the argument turned to a public measure that Representative Tom Cooper, of New Hanover, was trying to revive. On and on dragged the discussions.

Finally up rose the oldest member of the body, Mr. Taylor to remark: "For God's sake let's get something done, we're doing nothing but kill time and devil and daily and mess."

Then he sat down, and it was noticeable that from then on the House pace quickened.

Representative R. E. Sentelle, Brunswick, launched into a long vigorous and high-flown oration in support of the bill to pay to state employees the salaries withheld in 1933. He described the plight of the poor employees in heart-rending terms. He pleaded with the House that the state should "keep its contract" with its employees.

Interrupting for a question, Representative Victor Bryant asked what the bill would cost the state. Mr. Sentelle didn't know. It was just another example of the lack of solid information back of most legislative orations.

Often the title of a bill should be amended as well "as the subject matter, if the caption is to have any real relation to the amended text.

For example the Senate recently passed a bill captioned: "A Bill to Provide Old Age Security for Old and Incapacitated Teachers, etc."

But the text, after complete emasculation in committee, does nothing but propose an investigation of five members who may, or may not, depending upon how industrious the members feel, report to the next General Assembly.

Libby Ward, presiding in the House, took obvious delight in getting more or less even with Speaker Cherry who has so often "dressed down" legislators who were interfering with orderly processes of the House.

Mr. Cherry, resting his throat for a while, was in a seat on the floor while the Craven representative was wielding the gavel. The Speaker decided he'd engage in a neighborly little chat with the occupant of the next seat.

"The Gentleman from Gaston will keep quiet," boomed Mr. Ward, to the great delight of all members present.

Representative R. H. Underwood, of Hertford, has gained the name of "Bill Killer" in the House. The only times he has risen during the session have been to move that "The bill and all amendments do now lie upon the table." He has been almost uniformly successful, too. In one of his many "sides" Speaker Gregg Cherry recently remarked that the "Gentleman from Hertford has accomplished more good than any member of this House."

In which sentiment many neutral observers heartily concur.

The Senate played a somewhat ironic joke on Senator Lee L. Gravely Wednesday.

The Nash Senator's bill providing an appropriation of $7,500 for publishing a "North Carolina Guide" from material compiled by the WPA writers project was up for consideration; when up jumped Senator Ardie Gay, Northampton, with an amendment providing that the money should be taken from the $850,000 appropriation recently made for advertising the state through a systematic advertising campaign.

Senator Gravely fathered that bill, too. He didn't want to see the $7,500 charged against it, but he couldn't put up more than a formal resistance; and so the Senate adopted the Gay amendment.

Representative Dave Dellinger's eggs didn't get any fresher lying on the Senate table.

Last Saturday the Senate tabled the Gaston scone's bill grading eggs according to freshness and surrounding their sale with certain rites and formalities.

Wednesday Senator Separk, likewise a Gastonian, moved to take the bill from the table, but the egg wouldn't hatch, the Senate voting 19 to 17 not to revive the measure.

The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse. The Legislature labored long and hard over election law reform and wrought forth a very small mouse, indeed, in the form of a law providing that the polls at all primary elections shall be opened from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. All other wishes of the Democratic party, expressed through its executive committee, were disregarded; all its recommendations tossed disdainfully into the waste basket. Didn't Cicero start one of his famed orations "How long will you abuse our patience?" a quarry many North Carolina voters are likely to be seriously asking before long.

tain that since the amendment also made the Governor a member of the commission, there would be little trouble in getting it adopted.

Two things caused this amendment to miss fire, however, it is agreed among observers here today. One was the realization on the part of the senate committee that it would be setting a dangerous precedent if it put any elected state officials on the commission, even as ex-officio members, since it might be possible for these elected officials to use their positions on the commission to perpetuate themselves in office.

The second was the fact that the highway commission pays the State Auditor's office some $2,500 a year to audit the highway department's books, and that it would hardly look right for the State Auditor to audit the books of a commission of which he was a member. These were two banana peelings on which the amendment slipped up—and out of the bill.

Another thing that helped to eliminate the amendment from the bill, which would have made Pou a member of the commission, was the recollection by those who approve of the present commission of how close Pou and his friends came to easing former Chairman E. B. Jeffress out as chairman and putting Pou in during the summer of 1933 in the first year of the Ehringhaus administration, when Pou was already assistant chairman in charge of the prison division, it is generally agreed.

The groundwork for this coup was laid during the session of the 1933 general assembly and it not only had the backing of many members of the general assembly, but of most of the same contractors, road materials, men and road machinery salesmen and manufacturers which were then fighting Chairman Jeffress almost as bitterly as they have been fighting Chairman Wayne. Those who know the inside of this story know that they had the skids all greased for Jeffress and everything all ready to shunt Pou in as chairman, when Senator John Sprunt Hill and a few others got wind of it and spoiled the party.

It is also generally agreed that ever since, this same group of contractors, materials men, politicians and former and some present employees of the prison division, have been trying to figure out some way to get Pou back in some position where he would have something to do with the highway and prison set-up. It was a great blow to them when Pou resigned from the highway department to run for congress, especially when Jeffress became incapacitated soon after that since they now believe that if Pou had stayed on where he was, he would now be chairman of the commission. But the next best thing was to get Pou on the commission as an ex-officio member by legislative enactment, so he could have something to say about jobs, patronage and so forth, they evidently figured. But the banana peels spoiled their plans.

 says Luckies are "tops" with his throat

"Years ago, as an ambitious young actor, I was impressed how well my throat liked Luckies and how well they suited my idea of a perfect cigarette. That impression still stands. In my recent tour of 'Hamlet', with its many performances each week and the attendant tax on my throat, I have been convinced anew that this light smoke is both delightful to my taste and the 'top' cigarette for an actor's throat."

Leslie Howard

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Howard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Freshman Girls Lose First Tourney Game

The freshmen of the high school lost a game to the juniors in one of the best games of the girls' basketball tournament Wednesday afternoon.

It was the first game the freshmen had lost and was a very fast one. The final score was 23 to 18 and to the end the game was very exciting. Rose Collier and Frances Clark led the victors with 8 points each, closely followed by Marjorie Sugg with 7 points. Dorothy Merritt, Nancy Roberts and Lita Mae Whitcomb, junior guards, proved themselves valuable to their team. Lenora, for her excellent team work, scored 11 points. Joy Flanagan and Jane Scoville also scored. Although their team was defeated the freshmen guards Doris Roberts, Elizabeth Wells and Jane Harrison played a fast defensive game.

The freshmen and juniors will meet Thursday night at 7:30 for the championship. It is expected to be one of the fastest games of the

Sport Slants

By PAP

The most trying test in all sports for man and beast—the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England—continues to gain popularity. This despite the fact that charges of cruelty to horses and to riders have been leveled against the famous race.

True, a jockey was killed on the Aintree course in 1932—but not in the Grand National. And this at Aintree since Jockey James Wynne died in the Grand National 33 years ago.

Steeplechasing is supposed to have had its origin in Ireland about 1750, although there were cross-country hunting matches under the Stuarts in England. The first steeplechases were simply wild races across the countryside, toward the steeple of some distant church.

The first Grand National was loosely conducted. Spectators followed contestants over the course, sometimes engaging in steeplechases of their own and often interfering with the races.

Early rules show the loose character of the race: "No rider may open a gate or ride through a gateway, or more than 100 yards along any road, footpath or driftway."

There was a wide choice of route over the same general course. A fence or hedge might be taken at any point within 100 yards.

Year by year the course was narrowed to approximately 50 yards. Jumps were definitely established. The Aintree layout is fenced like a park, while the hedges at the jumps are carefully built to required heights each year.

The Aintree course consists of 2 circuits, which cover 4 miles, 385 yards, with 16 jumps, all but two of which are taken twice. For the dash to the finish line, on the second swing-around, two of the most dangerous and spectacular leaps are eliminated.

There seems to be a revival of steeplechasing racing in the U. S. Perhaps the recent importation of 36 French jumpers, distributed at random among 36 American sportsmen, had something to do with it. Anyway, the National Steeplechase and Hunts association is elated over indications that several leading owners plan to add to their stables of jumpers.

The Sportsman

By Larry Banes

The groundhog (or woodchuck) is getting long deserved recognition as a home-builder for other animals.

Until the nation became game conscious scant attention was paid the groundhog, except in a humorous way, and that because of its rather ragged reputation as a weather forecaster.

At present it is killed in all seasons.

"The importance of this animal is the scheme of conservation is little appreciated," says a Missouri fish and game department bulletin. "It is one of the greatest home-builders and cover-makers for other mammals that we have. It has been discovered recently that the groundhog digs over 80 per cent of our fur animal dens."

"In periods of extreme cold weather rabbits use old ground hog dens and thousands are thus saved from freezing to death. Other animals known to use abandoned dens are the skunk, opossum, mink, fox and, in some cases, raccoons.

"Why shouldn't we conserve our groundhog a little more and thus provide more cover and more game? The animal has many natural enemies aside from man and needs protection because of the great service it renders."

The flesh of young groundhogs usually is well flavored and if it is properly prepared makes good eating.

SENATORS BAN LICENSE BILL

Refuse Force Liquor Purchasers to Secure Permit

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 18.—Sudden death came to the bill by Senator Henry L. Ingram of Asheville which would have required every person within the state who desired to buy liquor in a county liquor store, to first purchase a license at a cost of $1 a year—and to require all from outside the state to also purchase these licenses.

Following a bitter denunciation of the bill by Senator John Sprunt Hill of Durham, in which he characterized it as a measure which would "increase lying and hypocrisy in the buying of liquor"—the very thing we have been trying to get away from through the establishment of liquor stores, the senate tabled the bill with a roar of "aves."

Not only would the bill, if enacted, have created tremendous resentment among all classes, but it would have been a boon to the bootleggers, in the opinion of Senator Ed G. Flanagan of Greenville, one of the first to oppose it. He maintained that the public generally would resent having to pay out $1 for a buyer's license before being able to buy any liquor, and that as a result it would set the bootleggers back up in business again, in that those who could not or would not buy these licenses would start patronizing the bootleggers again. As the debate progressed more and more members of the senate came over to this point of view, with the result that Senator Ingram towards the last was just about the only one in the senate favoring his bill.

Senator Ingram is still convinced the theory of his bill is good, in that it would prevent the issuance of licenses, and hence the purchase of liquor, by confirmed drunkards, drunken drivers, bootleggers, and those unable to prove sufficient character to obtain license cards. But after it was all over, Senator Ingram admitted that it might still be possible for this class to buy liquor from bootleggers.

CHILDREN DESIGN FABRIC FOR FROCKS

Frocks made from printed fabrics designed by children are being presented here by Blount-Harvey.

The creative imagination of childhood has been given free rein in these new fabrics. The printed patterns were chosen from designs submitted by several thousand children in a contest sponsored by the What's magazine, a popular juvenile publication edited by young Billy White and his friends.

The fabric contest grew out of the enthusiasm shown by stamp collectors for the stamps exhibited at the International Stamp Show. It seems the youthful editors and subscribers long had been designing their own whimsical stamps. When asked to present some of their handiwork at the show, they gained wide public attention and now many of their stamps are in collections in all parts of the world.

The next step was creating patterns for dress materials, at the suggestion of pattern manufacturers. The enthusiastic response was overwhelming. Youthful artistic interpretations of favorite games such as jackstone, tic-tac-toe and diabolo were submitted. Every toy and childish fancy was cleverly depicted. From this assortment fifteen patterns were chosen.

One intriguing series included in the patterns has been based on a game as old as childhood, "Dive for Sees." One of these shows a frivolous bee carrying a spelling book. The most unusual, however, is a subject which only a child would think of transcribing into a dress fabric. It is a realistic portrayal of bacon and eggs!

Under the supervising eye of Betty White, juvenile radio star and sister of the What's editor, and a staff of her contemporaries, the printed fabrics have been made into dress styles which children like to wear for school and play. They are sized for toddlers and school children up to 16 years of age.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington, — Consider the plight of almost a Senator William H. Smithers, Democrat, of New Jersey. He was elected both to the state senate and the United States senate. Yet he can not come to the United States senate because his vote is needed in Trenton where the late senate is split, 11 Republicans, 10 Democrats. Democrats are coalescing one Republican seat and if they win that they will control the legislature, the assembly already being Democratic. As it stands, the Republicans control about everything since Governor Hoffman is a Republican.

What arouses senatorial chuckles here is that Smithers gets only $500 for his whole state senate term and is losing $633 a month in United States senate salary. He doesn't like that so much.

J. N. "Ding" Darling, the cartoonist, who detested pressure groups while chief of the biological survey, is forming one of his own in hopes of providing the more abundant life for ducks.

Darling waits every year for the onset of the duck season, not to hunt, but to dash off his annual cartoon depicting the modern sportsman. It usually comes in two panels. The first depicts the old days, when ducks were many and hunters few. The second panel year after year has become more vitriolic. It shows one post-bagged duck, wild eyed and desperate, flying in to the massed guns of a thousand hunters.

But it was as ink drying in the wilderness for the duck hunters filled their bags from scant flocks, farmers confined to drain swamps, gun makers turned out inspired weapons and the drought hit time and again.

Darling got his real chance when President Roosevelt named him head of the biological survey. Like an administrative comet, he gingered up the game warden service, put across the dollar duck stamp to finance bird refuges and made hunters limit their guns to three shells capacity.

Then he learned about pressure groups. This Don Quixote of the duck ponds wanted to stop the draining of swamps. Farmers and mosquito-bitten citizens hampered him there. To protect upland game birds he sought limitation of grazing on the public domain. Stockmen batted him there. He got WPA money for bird preserves but other hands got more.

So he left the department to form a pressure group of his own. The

EFFORTS MADE HALT EROSION

Seedlings Planted by Resettlement Administration

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 18.—More than 65,000,000 seedlings have already been planted in the reforestation program of the Resettlement Administration and 50,000,000 more will go into the ground this spring on land use adjustment projects over the country, Associate Regional Director James M. Gray said today. Mr. Gray is in charge of Resettlement land use projects in the five states of Region 4.

North Carolina leads all other states in the extent of this activity, he revealed. Plantings in this state by June, 1937, are expected to total 20,500,000 trees. Tennessee is second with a total of 14,250,000 trees already planted or scheduled for planting by June.

The Resettlement Administration has a large nursery located on the Sandhills project, a land use demonstration area of 60,000 acres near Southern-Pine and Hoffman, at which 40,000,000 seedlings, mainly pine and shipment locust, are awaiting replanting in eleven southern states. Other large nurseries are on Natchez Trace Forest project, 45,000-acre land use development near Lexington, Tenn., and Collins Forest and Game Reservation, 50,000-acre project near Princeton, Ky. These nurseries are now being enlarged to produce the seedlings that will be used for future plantings.

The trees being planted on seriously eroded land and unproductive areas purchased by the Resettlement Administration to show how such areas may be returned to uses for which they are adapted, such as forestry, recreation and game conservation. In all, about 9,000,000 acres of such land have been acquired by Resettlement, of which approximately 450,000 acres are located in the five states of Region 4.

"The planting of these trees, we believe, will help check erosion, will help storage of moisture where it is badly needed and will play its part in future flood prevention in some sections," Mr. Gray said.

first major step was the meeting called for March 1 in St. Louis to which he invited sportsmen's organizations, women's clubs, the Audubon society, etc. The slogan is: "Ducks can't vote, but you can."

How's Your Health?

By Dr. Iago Galdston

SIMPLIFYING PSYCHIATRY
Despite the fact that many psychiatric terms are being used in everyday language, the average person has but a thin and oft-times erroneous idea of psychiatry itself. To many it is a mysterious practice. The psychiatrist is frequently pictured as a shaven Svengali, who, if lacking a piercing eye, certainly has an all-knowing intellect, and an esoteric knowledge of the mysteries.

The psychiatric patient, too, is frequently pictured as one - if not always insane, certainly always queer. Actually it's otherwise. Psychiatry is no more mysterious than the science of immunology, though it be granted both are sufficiently involved. Psychiatrists are by and large common mortals, distinguishable from the rest by some special knowledge of the motives and mechanisms of human behavior.

Psychiatric patients, save those who suffer from the more serious forms of mental disease, differ but little and oft-times are not to be distinguished from those treated for organic diseases.

Good psychiatry is very frequently practiced by those who hold themselves out to be only general practitioners. And many patients served by such physicians carry away a small prescription in their pocket and a large dose of psychotherapy in their person. They see the prescription; of the other they may be but vaguely aware. Frequently their parting comment is: "I feel better already."

But this incidental practice of psychiatry little exploits the rich possibilities of psychotherapy. Most of us know that when something is wrong with us constitutionally, we should see a doctor. Few of us appreciate that when we are afflicted mentally or emotionally, we also should go to see a doctor. The doctor need not be a specialist, a psychiatrist. It is best to begin with one's family physician. If the case requires more expert help than he can render, he will refer the individual to a specialist.

Use these non-acid forming fertilizers if you want to grow more of the higher-priced grades of tobacco. The nitrogen is in many forms derived from rich fish scrap, packing-house products and nitrate mines. The potash is supplied in three different forms—Sulphate of Potash, Muriate of Potash to give body and weight, and Sulphate of Potash Magnesia to prevent frog-eyes and sand-drown. These ingredients supply all the usual elements plus many extra needed minerals. Into every bag goes large quantities of magnesia. They are non-acid forming, cannot sour your soil.

SCHOOLS LOSE AT ALL TURNS

Forces Defeated in Efforts to Loosen Machinery Bill

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 18.—The school forces as represented by the North Carolina Education Association and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde R. Erwin, have been beaten at almost every angle in their fight to loosen up the school machinery act, observers here agree.

The result is that the act will remain virtually as it now is, although lighter in some respects than the 1935 act. It passed third reading in the senate yesterday and is now in the house for concurrence in the senate amendments.

The school forces suffered their first big defeat in the house when it refused to consider the school machinery bill brought out by the handpicked committee on education understood to have been written by Supt. Erwin and Secretary Jule B. Warren of the N. C. Education Association, and sent it to the house finance committee for revision.

This committee at once changed Section 2, which would have made Supt. Erwin chairman of the State School Commission, instead of the Lieutenant Governor, also have made him personnel officer for the entire commission. This section, most observers agree, would have given Erwin and the school forces almost complete control of the school commission and its personnel, also over the allotting and spending of the school appropriation of almost $25,000,000 a year. The house did leave in the bill, however, the section permitting any districts with a school population of 1,000 children or more to become standing up for anybody or anything he takes a notion to defend, nor has he any great respect for committee authority or leadership.

Tuesday night he wanted two of his local bills taken from the calendar committee and put on the calendar for action:

"I don't know that any committee has the right to kill my local bills," he said.

And a bit later he heatedly defended the right of Republican Representative Jenkins, of Graham county, to legislate for his own county even to the extent of repealing the absentee ballot law:

"I think a good Republican is better than a sorry Democrat any day," he shouted. "The people of Graham county sent Tom Jenkins down here and he's got a right to legislate for them. I know him, and he's a fine fellow and every inch a gentleman."

A bit earlier he was explaining a bill which would deprive the police and jailer of Murphy of fees in addition to salaries. He mentioned the fact that the police arrested "Forty-two of our men" on election night, and said "even the city attorney has been looked up." When a member somewhat facetiously interrupted to query "I just want to know if the Gentleman from Cherokee has been there, too," Mr. Cooper snapped back:

"I've been in there four times." And that ended the heckling on that particular subject.

Replying to a legal question regarding another bill he answered:

"This bill doesn't mean like it sounds."

If you use 1,000 pounds of fertilizer per acre, this large amount of extra plant food costs you only about six pounds of average tobacco per acre. Leading North Carolina tobacco growers have found that the extra potash purchased at such low extra cost in 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER returns greatly increased yields of better quality tobacco. Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Potash is the quality-producing element in tobacco fertilizer. Tobacco is a potash-loving crop. Farmers who change to 3-8-8 usually find it just the thing their tobacco has been needing to pay them extra cash. Have you been missing something by not using more potash? Give 3-8-8 a trial this year. The extra potash it contains costs little and pays big!

S. E. HOWARD, R. F. D. 3, Kinston, N. C., says: "My tobacco did not have a fair season but 3-8-8 showed itself a good fertilizer. I want plenty of potash, especially where tobacco follows tobacco. I know it pays."

R. E. BLAND, R. F. D. 1, Kinston, N. C., says: "I have used 3-8-8 FERTILIZER on my tobacco with good results and I think that 8% potash is necessary and better than anything less. On the floor I got the most money for the high-potash tobacco."

N. V. POTASH EXPORT MY., Inc., Royster Building, NORFOLK, VA.

FOR COTTON: To help your cotton prevent rust, control wilt and produce vigorous, healthy plants with less shedding, larger bolls that are easier to pick and better yields of uniform, high-quality lint—USE 3-8-8 COTTON FERTILIZER.

When you buy straight potash or potash in mixed fertilizer, it pays to make sure you get genuine NV POTASH—the same potash that has helped Southern farmers to produce better crops for more than 50 years.

Cities Unique Feature Education Conference

Chapel Hill, Mar. 18.—Three unique features of the Conference on Education for Democracy to be held at the Woman's College at Greensboro on Friday and Saturday of this week should make it of special interest and value, according to Dean Francis F. Bradshaw, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Dean Bradshaw, in a statement today, pointed out that the program which is being held under the auspices of the Southeastern section of the Progressive Education Association, "consists exclusively of reports of projects, all now actually under way in North Carolina, which the Committee believes to be valuable enrichments of educational opportunity."

"Each of these projects," he said, "is to be reported not by those responsible but by competent observers who have visited the project and looked at it objectively."

"Although sessions of the Conference are designated for the elementary, secondary, and college levels, the membership representing all three levels will sit together throughout the three sessions."

"The Program Committee believes this unique plan will result in more vital, objective, and advanced thinking about the ways of varying education in North Carolina to meet the peculiar needs of individual students and differing communities. Standardization without such creative adjustment is not education for democracy."

Senator Nye to Speak At University Friday

Chapel Hill, Mar. 18.—Three prominent political speakers will appear before University audiences in Memorial Hall here during the coming week. They are Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, of munitions investigation fame; Senator Rush D. Holt, of West Virginia, the nation's youngest senator; and Ex-Governor Eugene Tamm, of Georgia.

All three speakers will be sponsored here by the Carolina Political Union, a non-partisan student organization which has brought a number of prominent figures to the campus, among them Colonel Frank Knox, Republican candidate for the vice-presidency in the last election, and Senator Millard T. Tydings of Maryland, who was principal speaker at North Carolina's first Victory Dinner.

Senator Nye will speak on "Preparedness for Peace" Friday night, March 19, at 8:30 o'clock. He will be entertained by members of the Political Union preceding his address.

Senator Holt's address will be broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up at 2 o'clock Tuesday, March 23. He will speak against President Roosevelt's Supreme court program.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Mar. 18.—(AP)—Traders lightened their holdings in today's stock market as labor controversies spread and inflationary warnings stemmed the life of buying optimism.

The sell-off embraced virtually all parts of the list, with the exception of utilities and losses of three or more points were well distributed near the fourth hour. The ticker tape was frequently late during the morning proceedings but caught in the afternoon.

With the set back in stocks, United States government securities took a turn for the better and a number retrieved portions of their recent declines. Corporate bonds were lower. Commodities were mixed.
