MOLEY INSISTS CHANGE WOULD WEAKEN COURT

One-Time Advisor Of President Opposition Witness

COMMITTEE FOR CROP INSURANCE

Roosevelt Tells News Men He Hopes For No New Taxes At This Session

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—A one-time counselor of President Roosevelt advised Senate investigators of the administration's judiciary reorganization bill today...

Both "the authority and prestige" of the tribunal would be shaken, said Raymond Moley, whose counsel was an influential force in the early days of the Roosevelt administration.

Moley, now a magazine editor, told the committee reorganization along lines suggested by the President would mean abandonment of the "American method" of bringing about changes.

While opponents of the Roosevelt court bill had their say before the Senate judiciary committee, another administration proposal ran afoul of difficulties in the House agriculture committee.

There Democratic opposition has forced a delay in Congressional action on the President's farm stipend program.

Warm Springs, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he hoped there would be no new taxes at this session of Congress.

The chief executive made the statement at the second press conference of his vacation here as he sat in his car in front of a press cottage.

He did not expand on the tax observation. It was made in response to a request for comment on the recent statement of Mariner Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the budget should be (Continued on Page Right)

Farmers Desiring To Reap Benefits Urged To Act Now

All Those Who Did Not Take Part In 1936 Soil Conservation Program Should File Work Sheets

Pitt county farmers who did not take part in the 1936 soil conservation program, but who wish to participate this year, are urged to file work sheets...

Those who filed work sheets last year need not file new ones this year, he added. However, if any changes have been made in the size of a grower's farm, or if the grower is operating a different farm this year, he should notify us at once, Bennett said.

The worksheets for farmers taking part in the soil conservation program in 1937 for the first time will show the 1936 acreage of each separate crop and the use that is made of each field on the farm, he said.

Under the program this year, he said, the county office will furnish each farmer with a statement showing the acreage of his crop bases, the number of acres on which payment can be received for diversion, and the amount of soil-building allowance for his farm. This information will be available in a few days.

Farmers are urged to use this information in planning their farming operations so as to fit the program to the needs of their farm and at the same time qualify for all the payments they are eligible to earn, Bennett pointed out.

And the sooner new participants file work sheets, he added, the sooner their county office can supply them with the information needed in planning their farming operations.

Molini Returns from Libyan Tour

Il Duce, although back in Rome one day earlier than scheduled, declared that his return was not influenced by the Spanish war or any other European problem.

ITALY DENIES AIDING REBELS

Says Only Doctors and Nurses Sent Since Agreement

(By Associated Press) Fascists Italy, accused by Spain's government of aiding "an undeclared international war" on the side of the Spanish Insurgents, told Great Britain today the only Italians to land in Spain since an international neutrality accord went into effect were volunteer doctors and nurses.

The answer came as Il Duce, back from his Libyan tour, gave Fascist celebrants a strident defense of Italy's empire building in the face of Anglican puppet criticism.

Italy's flat denial of reports thousands of Italian troops had landed at Cadiz March 5, 13 days after Italy and 26 other nations agreed to stop sending men to Spain, was in reply to urgent British inquiries. The diplomatic exchange, however, did not go into the presence of Italian fighters on the Madrid-Guadalajara front in Spain, presumably moved there before the international volunteer ban went into effect.

In Rome Il Duce declared neither the Spanish war nor other European problems caused his return one day early from Libya.

French foreign office officials, however, were said to have contacted British officials in the apparent conviction Mussolini's return was connected with the defeat of the Insurgents' Italian-reinforced army on Madrid's Guadalajara front.

The non-intervention committee recessed in London after wrangling developed over a proposal to recall all foreign fighters now in Spain.

Northeast of Madrid Spain's government troops pressed their pursuit of the retreating insurgent armies.

Some Observers Predict Doughton-Reynolds Race

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 23.—Much interest is being shown here in the well authenticated report that Congressman Robert L. Doughton will shortly announce as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate in 1938, against Senator Robert R. Reynolds.

When Congressman Doughton was here Friday and Saturday of last week a good many of the politically minded immediately started to wonder if he was not sounding out sentiment with regard to his possible candidacy for the senate.

Over the week end it has definitely been learned that Congressman Doughton came to Raleigh for the express purpose of conferring with certain members of the general assembly and with several state officials with regard to whether or not he should become a candidate for the senate in 1938.

It has also been learned that Mr. Doughton received much encouragement from most of those with whom he conferred and that he has already virtually decided to seek a seat in the senate instead of in the house of representatives, where he

CHRYSLER AND JOHN L. LEWIS AGREE CONFER

Meeting Is Arranged For Wednesday by Governor Murphy

STRIKERS INCUR ADDED CENSURE

Number of City and State Officials Condemn Technique Used by Sit-Downers

Lansing, Mich. Mar. 23.—(AP)—Governor Frank Murphy announced today a conference would be held here Wednesday between Walter Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler corporation, and John Lewis, head of the C. I. O.

Although formal replies from his invitations to the conference have not been received, it was understood the Governor had assurance both Chrysler and Lewis would attend the meeting.

Widespread manifestation of the sit-down strike technique incurred the censure of a growing number of city and state officials today.

At Chicago law enforcement officials invoked a 75-year-old law to dislodge more than 1,000 sit-down strikers from three establishments.

Governor A. B. Chandler of Kentucky joined Mayor Neville Miller of Louisville in a statement warning sit-down strikes unlawful and warning sit-downers will be evicted, reclusively governors of Illinois, New Jersey and Connecticut had condemned the sit-down strikers.

At Detroit leaders of the United Automobile Workers Union coupled a call for a huge mass meeting near the county building with the assertion they were not "buffing" about a projected city-wide automotive strike.

The walkout was planned as a protest against police eviction of sit-down strikers.

More than 5,000 sit-downers continued to defy a court order to evacuate Chrysler Motor corporation plants while union and company representatives sought to settle the strike involving 60,000 Chrysler employees.

Wyatt M'Gowan Dies At Daughter's Home

Wyatt M'Gowan, 69, was found dead in bed about 2:30 o'clock this morning, probably dying of a heart attack, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. E. Smith, who lives one mile west of Greenville.

Mr. M'Gowan was well known throughout Pitt county. He was a noted fiddler, taking many first prizes at conventions in this section.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at three o'clock at the late home by Rev. W. G. Innis, Free Will Baptist minister of the Cox Mill section.

Burial was in the Henry Jordan Williams grave yard beside his wife who died last year.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Spencer Haddock, Mrs. John Ogeary; one son, Lonnie M'Gowan, all of Pitt county; two brothers, Ernest M'Gowan of Greenville and Warren M'Gowan, of Richmond, Va.; fifteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Taxes on 42,120.290 packs of playing cards were paid to the government for 1936. The previous year there were 42,527,021 packs.

BUT NOBODY WAS HURT MUCH!

A split rail caused this spectacular wreck of an Atlanta Birmingham & Coast train near Union City, Ga., but there was only one minor casualty. The locomotive nose-dived and partially buried itself in the earth, leaving six boxcars in crazy-quilt fashion along the track.

RESUME WORK TEXAS CLOSES IN ONE PLANT MORE SCHOOLS

Another Lumberton Mill Continues Inactive, However

Lumberton, N. C., Mar. 23.—(AP)—Operations were resumed in the weave room of the Jennings cotton mill here after a suspension during part of the night when a group of 25 weavers and loom fixers struck for shorter hours and higher wages.

One of them, who refused to allow use of his name, claimed the men had been working 12 hour shifts without time off for lunch and were being paid 24 to 26 cents an hour and were demanding 30.

A few members of the day shift refused to work this morning, but a sufficient force was on time to operate the room.

Meanwhile the Ada McLean mill in West Lumberton, which normally employs about 175 workers, remained idle after yesterday's strike by a part of the force.

Commerce Measure To Aid N. C. Fishery

Washington, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Representative Lindsay Warren of Washington, N. C., said today he expected the House to pass the commerce supply bill carrying a $25,000 appropriation for improvements at the Denton, N. C. fish hatchery before nightfall.

The measure also included a $45,000 appropriation for shad propagation.

Negro Held in Lenoir For Shooting Officer

Kinston, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Lenoir county officers announced today D. Best, 56, Negro, had been arrested and charged with shooting Hyman Adams, Pitt county constable, at a still last Christmas Eve. Adams is reported in a critical condition yet from his wounds.

Hudson Boy Breaks Limb While Playing

Ashley Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hudson, suffered a broken arm over the week-end, but is out and attending school.

FUTURE FARM CROPS MAY BE TAILOR-MADE

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—"Tailor-made" crops, super baby beets, batteries of silos, television and autogiros will play a part in the farm of the future in the opinion of Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the Nebraska agricultural college.

He visualizes those conveniences for the average farmer in 1962.

Soil conservation will be commonplace, he says, and the university will become a radio distribution plant sending unlimited knowledge throughout the year.

It cost the government $144 for each $100 of revenue it collected in 1935, as compared with $117 in 1934.

N. C. ASSEMBLY READY TO END 1937 SESSION

Clocks Stopped as Enrolling Office Hurries It's Task

BOTH BRANCHES FORCED RECESS

Official Legislative Records to Set Down Adjournment at the Noon Hour Today

Raleigh, Mar. 23.—(AP)—The 1937 general assembly adjourned under its enrolling office with another batch of new laws today and formal postponement of sine die adjournment until 4 o'clock or later this afternoon.

After the senate and house had sent close to 40 more measures to the enrolling office, the house recessed until 4 o'clock as the senate worked out.

Clocks in the halls were stopped before noon and the official legislative records will record adjournment was taken at noon unless a new resolution is adopted changing the hour.

Conferences committees worked to compromise differences between the house and senate on a bill to permit issuance of new negotiable bonds for revenue producing public works programs and on an omnibus measure naming county boards of education due to differences on members for Currituck and Brunswick counties.

Early in the afternoon the senate adopted the conference report on the bond bill and then recessed until 3:45.

The bill to limit work hours in industry, with many exceptions to 55 a week for men and 48 for women was ratified into law, as was a bill to permit state participation in the 1938 New York World's fair and one to name a new wing at the Western North Carolina tubercular hospital the "Clarke Graveley" wing for the wife of Senator Graveley of Nash.

Extremes cautioned prevented the area, especially after Gordon Hawley, chief engineer of the State Fire Insurance department, told a military court of inquiry yesterday he had located another school in the vicinity of cancer by escaping gas.

"A test a few hours ago," Hawley told the investigators, at the Carlisle school near here showed gas was escaping underneath the place at the rate of 720 cubic feet a day, all of which makes the occasion all the more ominous.

Aged Grifton Widow Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. Josephine Tucker, 65, widow of Calvin J. Tucker, died at 1 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. S. Chapman of Grifton.

Mrs. Tucker was injured a year or so ago and never fully recovered from the effects of the accident.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chapman, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with Rev. Jack Rountree, Episcopal rector of Kings- ton, burial will follow in the Grifton cemetery near Grifton.

Mrs. Tucker, a native of the Grifton community, was long active in the St. John's Episcopal church. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ned McLawhorn and Mrs. Chapman; one brother, W. B. Quinerly of Ayden and several grandchildren.

1937 Legislative Session One Of The Most Unusual

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 23.—One of the most unusual and business-like legislative sessions ever held in North Carolina came to a close here today.

The general assembly was in session 68 legislative days—only six more than the period during which members receive pay—while the members were here for 77 calendar days—making it the shortest session in more than a decade.

During these 68 legislative days, the assembly has made appropriations totaling approximately $79,000,000 for the first year and $73,000,000 for the second year—the largest appropriations any legislative session has ever authorized. It has also levied taxes which the finance committee and Department of revenue regard as sufficient to produce the revenue to meet the appropriations.

The 1937 session of the general assembly is not as noteworthy for what it has done as for the state of mind and attitude of its members and the manner in which it has done its work and the harmony and good feeling which prevailed. It has not only been the business-like session which any one

Accuses Roosevelt Using Party Whip

West Virginia's youthful senator, Rush Holt (D. West Va.) said today President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley are "cracking the party whip" for the President's court reorganization plan.

He said in a prepared address "the report has gone abroad throughout the land that recognition and patronage will be taken from the members of the house and senate of the congress simply because they dare to differ with the President and Mr. Farley on this great question."

Holt spoke under the auspices of the North Carolina political union, non-party student organization at the University of North Carolina, in answer to an address by Farley, Democratic National Chairman, before the union two weeks ago.

The young senator said Farley, in his Chapel Hill speech, and the President, in his victory dinner address, appealed for support of the court plan on partisan ground.

If the Democratic national convention had proposed reorganization of the supreme court, Holt said, the measure might be accepted as a party verdict.

But this was not attempted and it is too late now to speak of the matter when the matter was not discussed," he said. "When the position taken to change that the court would be tampered with by members of the Democratic campaign staff were quick to deny such a move."

He quoted Chairman Henry Ashurst (D. Ark.) of the senate judiciary committee as denying before the election last November "the unjust criticism" President Roosevelt intended to increase the Supreme court membership.

"The President and Mr. Farley, by cracking the party whip on the subject, are not appealing to the wisdom of the proposal, but to the force that they desire to possess to push it through," Holt said.

Despite Sarcasm, Cherry Described As Entirely Fair

Speaker Declared To Be Combination of Top Sergeant and Cowboy in Handling Representatives

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 23.—Speaker Robert Gregg Cherry of Gastonia is almost unanimously regarded as the most unique and outstanding character of this general assembly—and as its chief pepper upper.

And while he has used a combination of top sergeant and western cowboy tactics in keeping the house in line and at work, having frequently lashed members into silence with biting sarcasm stinging wise cracks, now that it is all over, some of the members, he "rode" their worst are now most laud in their praise of him as a presiding officer.

Still others who were inclined to object when Speaker Cherry sunk his spurs into the House and pressed it on to greater and greater speed, are now rejoicing at his hard riding tactics and realize that the session would not have ended in 68 legislative days but for his cowboy leadership.

No one can say, however, that Speaker Cherry was not always fair or that he ever cut off debate when the speaker had something to say that really had definite bearing on the bill or subject under discussion. But it is agreed that Speaker Cherry was a terror to the "freshmen" members, that he had an aversion to speeches made for the benefit of the voters "back in my county" and that he effectively cured many members who came here with a bad case of foot-and-mouth disease but who had nothing the matter with their feet.

There was less silliness speech-making and talking for public consumption in the house this session than any one can remember. As long as a member kept his remarks directed to a particular bill and its provisions, he got along all right. But just as soon as he started to wander, the gavel would bang and the speaker would boom:

"The gentleman is making a very profound speech on a very important subject."

SENATOR HOLT IN ATTACK ON COURT REFORM

Declares Roosevelt and Farley Using Party Whip

DELIVERS SPEECH AT CHAPEL HILL

Young West Virginia Senator Answers Recent Address By Chairman Farley

Chapel Hill, Mar. 23.—(AP)—Senator Rush Holt (D. West Va.) said today President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley are "cracking the party whip" for the President's court reorganization plan.

He said in a prepared address "the report has gone abroad throughout the land that recognition and patronage will be taken from the members of the house and senate of the congress simply because they dare to differ with the President and Mr. Farley on this great question."

ASSAULT CASE IS POSTPONED

Hit-Run Case Against Elbert Stokes Completed

Jury finds Stokes guilty.

The trial of Bernard Moore and Bernice Aspinwall, two young white men charged with the brutal attack on G. Lem Pleasant the night of December 28, last, was postponed today until Thursday morning.

The trial was scheduled to have been called this morning. A manslaughter case against Elbert Stokes, which was started yesterday, was not completed until 7 o'clock this afternoon. Following a conference between Solicitor D. M. Clark, Chief of Police G. A. Clark and Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, it was decided to defer the attack hearing two days.

Chief Clark, father-in-law of Mr. Pleasant, said the latter was not physically able to come to court today, but thought he would be able later in the week. He was described as being in a nervous, excited condition, following a slight relapse during the week-end.

A large crowd had gathered here for the trial. Many of the seats in the court room were filled during the lunch hour by spectators who forsook their lunch in order to be assured of good seats. By the time court re-convened after the lunch hour, practically every seat in the room was filled.

Moore, a resident of this county, and Aspinwall, a native of Georgia, are charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and with robbery with firearms. They are alleged to have held up, beaten and shot Mr. Pleasant on a side road where he had taken them in his taxi at their direction. After the attack they drove off in his automobile.

The case charging Elbert Stokes, a county white man, with hit-and-run driving and manslaughter in connection with the death last November 14 of David W. Flowers was completed this afternoon after more than one full day had been devoted to the trial.

BAILEY FORCES BRYANT LEADS STILL PEEVED FOR 1939 JOB

Friends of Senator Durham Representative Irked Over Second Victory Dinner

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 23.—Friends of Senator Josiah W. Bailey here are still peeved at those who decided to hold the second Victory Dinner to correct the "Sad Tydings" affair and are insisting that the second dinner was more or less of an insult to Senator Bailey as well as to Senator Tydings who had been selected by Senator Bailey to be the principal speaker at the first Victory Dinner.

Those who attended the second Victory Dinner are convinced that both Senator Bailey and his friends should be extremely grateful to National Committeeman A. D. (Lou) Folger, Chairman R. L. McMillan of the second victory dinner committee, S. Brown Shepherd, Jr., president of the Wake County Young Democrats Club and the others who decided to hold the second dinner, instead of criticizing them.

For the point out that this dinner acted as a blow-off valve for the indignation stirred up against Senator Bailey by the first dinner. One of Senator Bailey's closest political advisers here is reported to have admitted that if the second victory dinner had not been held, more of smaller dinners would have been held over the state, also that most of these would probably have become out-and-out anti-Bailey meetings.

In fact, those who know the inside background of the second dinner here agree that if Chairman Folger and his assistants had not handled this dinner with the greatest of skill and allowed to opportunity for any one not on the program to speak, that the slightest slip might have turned it into a rip-roaring anti-Bailey demonstration. Consequently, they maintain that this dinner was so handled that it has actually eased the tension of feeling against Senator Bailey and that those who backed it really did Bailey a favor by holding it. But if the Baileyites continue to be critical of the second dinner and those who sponsored, the feeling which has largely subsided my flare up against more intense than before, a good many believe.

ONE IN 100,000 MOVIE EXTRAS REACH STARDOM Hollywood. (AP)—The chances of a movie extra winning fame as a star are—one in 100,000!

Only 13 lucky extras of 1,300,000 who registered with the Central casting bureau here have advanced to stardom. Yet daily the casting office is besieged by between 35,000 and 50,000 extras.

The 13 who graduated into top star rating from the ranks are Janet Gaynor, Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Frances Dee, Carole Lombard, Ann Dvorak, Randolph Scott, Sally Eilers, Edwina Booth, Raquel Torres, Adrienne Ames, Karen Morley and Gary Cooper.

The figures were compiled by a film company producing "A Star Is Born," which has as its theme the rise of a movie extra to stardom.

HORTON HELPS END ASSEMBLY

Senators Forced To Confine Remarks to Question

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 23.—Instead of ending today this session of the North Carolina General Assembly might very well have gone on for as long as April or May, had it not been for the firm hand with which Lieutenant Governor Wilkins P. Horton ruled the Senate and the diligence with which he held the members' noses to the legislative grindstone.

With none of the blustering, belaboring, wise-cracking qualities of Speaker Greg Cherry, the serious-faced, saturnine Chatham county product was just as dictatorial, just as peremptory and just as much a "slave driver" as the House's boss across the Rountana.

There was never the slightest hesitation on the part of the Lieutenant Governor. When he was called up to make a ruling, he made it and made it in such a manner that everybody knew there was no use disputing about it.

When members began to speak endlessly and aimlessly, the Senate's presiding officer frequently recalled them to the straight and narrow path of relevancy.

When it was proposed to take an unusually long recess, the Lieutenant Governor was ever ready to call attention to the fact that there was business to be tended to.

When committees lagged in reporting bills referred to them, they were firmly reminded that they were given bills for the purpose of getting them acted on and not to "sit upon and hatch."

Without Lieutenant Governor Horton ruled without the slightest display of passion or prejudice. He talked and acted calmly and dispassionately, but he got things done.

ASSAULT CASE IS POSTPONED (Continued from page one) before the luncheon recess, leaving only the charge by Judge E. H. Cramer before the case was given the jurors. The jury did not return immediately with its verdict.

Flowers of near Raleigh, was killed as a result of an accident a few miles from this city near the O. K. filling station. The State charges the Flowers car was wrecked as the result of a collision with one driven by the defendant. The defense contends that Stokes' car did not strike the Flowers car.

Upon motion of Solicitor D. M.

Clark, the jury took time out this morning to go to the scene of the wreck.

While the jury was out, a number of other cases were disposed of. A case charging Pearlle Thomas and Frank Brown with trespass, etc., was remanded to Ayden Recorder's court for final disposition.

Getrude Green withdrew her appeal from the Ayden court and accepted the judgment in a case charging her with operating a disorderly house.

Roscoe Wainwright entered a plea of guilty to larceny of a watch and was given 60 days on the roads.

Young Jenkins entered a plea of guilty of assault and judgment was suspended upon payment of the court costs and a doctor's bill incurred by the prosecuting witness.

Van Sprull was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, but sentence was not passed immediately.

Jordon Wilson entered a plea of guilty both to driving careless and to driving a car after his license had been revoked. He was fined $50 and costs in the former and was given a suspended sentence upon payment of the costs and further provision that he not drive a car for 12 months in the latter.

PIT WELFARE OFFICER BUSY

K. T. Futrell Issues Statement Describing Activities

K. T. Futrell, Pitt county welfare officer, today issued a statement in which he described the various activities being carried on in his office at the present time.

THE STATEMENT FOLLOWS IN FULL:
C. C. C.—A total of 125 applications have been received for the Civilian Conservation Corp since the last enrollment, January 9th. Pitt County has a quota for April 7th of 16 white enrollees and 2 colored. Applicants are accepted on the basis of need of the family. No person is allowed to re-enter who did not receive an honorable discharge or who has been out for a period of one year.

SOCIAL SECURITY—It is unnecessary for old people to apply for assistance under Social Security. Checks for making applications will probably not be prepared and sent to county units before June 1. When applications are made for old-age assistance and aid to dependent children, investigation will follow to establish eligibility. After this has been established, the County Welfare Board will make recommendations to the Board of County Commissioners. When passed by this group, it goes to the State Board at Raleigh for final action.

CHILD PLACEMENTS—The Juvenile Court has for placement a two-month-old baby and a two-year-old boy. Interested parties are requested to either phone or write for application.

T. B. COTTAGES—The National Youth Administration, through Manual Art classes, are building cottages in Pitt County to be used toward isolating incurable tuberculosis patients. Three cottages have already been completed and are now occupied, with two more under construction. Plans are going forward to build as many as are needed.

W. P. A.—Eligibility for WPA is based on the need of the family applying for work. The family has to be of relief status and the income less than the expenses. If there is one member of the family making more money than the security wages set by WPA, then the family is not considered eligible for the work and will not be referred.

REFUSE ALTER ELECTION LAW
General Assembly Continues to Frown On Most Reforms

Raleigh, March 22—(AP)—The 1937 general assembly, as did many of its immediate predecessors, frowned on nearly all state-wide bills to make election and primary law changes even though some bore endorsement of the state democratic committee and Governor Hoey.

PAROLEE—Of the 46 adult parolees in Pitt County who make and file monthly reports, giving an account of their behavior and industry, 28 have reported during March. Under the new and revised parole system a close check is made on every parolee each month.

Hat Variety
New York (AP)—Here's an Easter bonnet which can be worn with two frocks. It's a wide-brimmed green, baker's. When a cluster of dull orange cornflowers with brown centers is fastened to the front of the crown, the hat goes with a pale yellow print in green, brown and orange. A large pink rose may be substituted for the corn flowers to transform the hat so that it may be worn with a dull rose afternoon dress. The stem of the rose is long enough to wind around the crown.

Portrait Hat
London (AP)—The Duchess of Gloucester recently wore a "Reynolds" hat at an exhibition featuring portraits of Sir Joshua Reynolds. The hat, similar in shape to that worn by the tenth Earl of Eglinton in none of the portraits displayed, resembling a circular Scottish bonnet of black velvet. It was trimmed with a band of emerald velvet and a "cockade" of flowers—in contrast to the feathers perched on the earl's bonnet.

Evening Headdress
Paris (AP)—A visored jockey cap trimmed with black algerets is among the newer evening headdresses. Another up-to-the-minute headgear is a spray of royal blue algerets shaped like a crown.

FARLEY CAN LIST VARIED EXPERIENCES WHEN HE STARTS HUNTING FOR A JOB

LOBBYIST
Postmaster General Farley, faced with the prospect of leaving the cabinet to recoup personal finances, can cite to prospective employers wide official acquaintanceship and a convincing manner.

ADMINISTRATOR
What Jim desires most of all is to succeed Lehman as New York's governor in 1939. Standing him in good stead, if he does, will be administrative experience gained in running the postal service.

BANKER
Through postal savings, with its more than a billion in deposits, Jim has had practical experience in banking. He could qualify as a business man, claiming the first surplus in the history of the postal service. He also understands philately, transportation, crime detection.

SALESMAN
Jim sold gypsum, was a building contractor before joining New Deal forces. But he wants "something more" now than selling.

A magistrate in Tshasen, China, forbade school or government kitchens in the city to serve three meals a day. The food saved was to be used for national defense.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
By virtue of a power of sale contained in that certain mortgage executed by Lam Lovitt and wife, Alice A. Lovitt to William House dated the 30th day of March, 1923 which appears of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book A-15 at page 40 the undersigned will, on Thursday, the 6th day of April, 1937, at 12 o'clock noon expose to public sale before the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real property, to wit:

Lying and being in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands formerly known as the J. J. Cannon lands, Charlie King lands and others, and being the same land upon which Lam Lovitt and wife, formerly resided, containing 47 acres, more or less.
This sale will be made by reason of the default in the payment of the indebtedness secured in the above mortgage, and by reason of the former bid having been raised.
This the 23rd day of March, 1937.

We Are In The Easter Parade
Flowers and Easter are synonymous, but just like fashions in clothing, fashions in flowers change with each succeeding season.
What flowers will the smartly dressed woman wear in this year's Easter Parade? She has a wide choice in both color and texture of the flowers she will use to adorn her Easter ensemble.
A Corsage from the Greenville Floral Company is the last word in originality and good taste.

Yours for a colorful Easter
Following Mother Nature's inspiration, we've launched a crusade for color: color in your frocks... color in your suits... color in your accessories... even color on your toes. Not a mad scramble of color, but the skillful blending of grey and thistle or the sharp contrast of black and beige. We believe you'll love these colorful new things — for Spring and for Easter!

SLOT MACHINE ACT SUSTAINED

House Kills Effort To Re-Legalize 'One-Arm Bandits'

By HENRY AVERILL (Reflector Bureau Writer)

Raleigh, March 22.—Ingenuous slot machine men are probably engaging in the deepest kind of study over how to nullify the will of the legislature expressed again Saturday when the House roared down an effort to re-legalize the "one-armed bandits" which will be definitely outlawed after June 30 by the Flanagan anti-slot machine bill passed by both branches last week.

The death blow to the slots came in the form of a motion to table the last-minute "sneak" bill introduced by Representative 'Pete' Murphy of Rowan, which cleverly concealed its real purpose under a captain indicating it was intended to "prohibit" something.

The tabling motion came from Representative Thomas of Harnett and was adopted by a volume of "Ayes" which was so convincing that no division was demanded by proponents of the Murphy bill.

Mr. Murphy spoke feelingly for his bill, denying it was "iniquitous" and terming it "salutary." He stressed the fact that the Flanagan bill will result in the loss of something like $400,000 in revenue, and in closing pleaded with the representatives to support him on the grounds of his long service to the legislature, dating back as far as 1897.

Opponents of the bill, including W. E. Fenner of Nash, scored it as an attempt to muddy the judicial waters just as was done two years ago when a similar last-minute so-called "clarifying" measure nullified completely a bill similar to the Flanagan act.

References were made to the powerful lobby supporting the slot machines.

References were made to the powerful lobby supporting the slot machines.

Tabling of the Murphy bill means death for any further efforts to resurrect the slots at this session and it now remains to be seen whether the "Flanagan" law will really kill a "racket" which has had more lives than a dozen cats.

In the "nifty nineties," most of the United States senators wore Prince Alberts. The frock coat was a symbol of statesmanship and a beard was the mark of a man of maturity and substance.

Traffic fatalities so far for 1937 have been much greater than for the same period last year, indicating that this year will surpass all others in the number of traffic fatalities unless something is done to curb carelessness and reckless driving on the streets and highways. It is quite noticeable that reports on the year's accidents so far show practically none have been attributed to defects or faults in the automobiles. The accidents were the result of carelessness on the part of human beings and it is this human element that must be dealt with if automobile fatalities are to be lessened. Unless the human being can be taught to protect himself and others from the dangers of the highways then it will be necessary to build the automobiles so that they cannot be driven at speeds beyond the bounds of safety.

With the Moore-Aspinwall trial set for Thursday this community awaits the sentence the two men must receive from the bench. The crime of these men in assaulting and robbing Lem Pleasant and inflicting permanent injury on him deserves even more punishment than the law will allow in view of the circumstances but this community will not be satisfied if the criminals fail to receive the limit of years permitted by law as punishment for their crime. Of course they cannot be sent to their death because Pleasant did not die, but it was not their fault that he did not die, for they left him on the roadside believing him to be dead. Inflicting injuries that leave a man totally blind and otherwise permanently injured is just about as mean as killing him. Moore and Aspinwall will receive no sympathy from the people of this community.

First there is a leisurely breakfast at a swank clubhouse just out of sight and hearing of the duck pond. Then the fun begins. From blinds a couple of hundred yards from the pond the hunters may see thousands of ducks feeding in comparative peace on corn and rice showered into the water daily for months preceding the hunting season. The hunters have no guns.

At a signal a peon touches off a whole armada of guns ranged along one side of the pond and trained upon the ducks on the water. Hundreds of them never rise. But the flocks which do are met by another volley from an armada aimed to catch them when they are just clearing the water.

That is the end of the hunt. The birds are gathered by boatloads. In U. S. Too.

But the crime against wildlife is no less in the United States, for commercial hunters on Chesapeake Bay have the system worked down to an equally fine point. They have a similar battery along the shore overlooking shallow water to which ducks have been lured by months of feeding. A dozen sections of one-inch water pipe, loaded with powder and shot can beat down a hundred ducks at a blast.

An even better trick is to load an eight-foot section of three-inch water pipe with shot, shingle nails or what have you, mount it on a boat, cannon fashion, and in the dark of the moon float up to a flock of ducks and let go.

There is a mass of law against marketing wild game but plenty of fine eating places, supplied by these market hunters, will turn out a wild duck diner and fancy prices for sportive folk who find it easier to buy duck than hunt it.

And neither the Mexican nor United States method of mass murdering of ducks will be much hindered by treaties as long as that kind of demand continues.

Washington Daybook

By Prissie Grover

Washington.—The United States and Mexico have signed a new migratory bird conservation treaty, and if it does any real good, sportsmen on both sides will be surprised as well as delighted.

A year ago a friend of ours returned from a prolonged stay in Mexico and being a scatter gunner of sorts he soured no end on the way the Mexicans treated the great game of duck shooting.

Our informant was invited to a duck hunt in the vicinity of Mexico City and stirred bellows of laughter among his sports-minded Mexican friends by appearing in the style of dress to which American ducks are accustomed. Then he was let in on how the duck is hunted there.

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 22.—Dodging more agilely than a star halfback in a broken field, the Senate has escaped a vote on the House-passed resolution endorsing President Roosevelt's court proposals.

The measure has swung in and out of committee more often than a swinging door swings in and out of a bar room, and apparently is just as far from being acted upon as when it was introduced.

The nearest approach to a vote so far has been a standing division on a motion by Senator Archie Gay, of Northampton, to take the resolution from the calendar committee and place it on the calendar for consideration by the entire Senate.

This motion lost, 19 to 12, with some Senators who have signed their names in the famous "Black Book" of Roy Lawrence, president of the state Federation of Labor, among the majority.

Competent observers are still of the opinion that the Senate will continue to sidestep the issue, although they are likewise of the opinion that the resolution would pass were it possible to bring about an out-and-out show down and a record vote.

The Senators, however, are politicians and in the main have all the politician's well known aversion to taking hold of the hot end of any stick. Large numbers of them feel that they have little to gain and everything perhaps, to lose by taking a stand on the Roosevelt plan.

Incidentally, Mr. Lawrence is still going around getting names signed in his book, the signers thereby putting themselves on record in favor of the court program of the President. The labor leader said that numerous Senators have not yet been approached, but that more than three-quarters of those who have been approached, have signed the book. He said only four have refused pointblank to autograph the pages.

"I'm not naming any of them," he said, "but one is from Forsyth." M. Lawrence is from Forsyth. So is Senator H. M. Ratcliff.

Local Girls To Play Grimesland Tonight

The high school girls will close their basketball season Tuesday night with a doubleheader with Grimesland.

The first game will start at 7:30 with the Greenville juniors, winners of the tournament, playing Grimesland's varsity. The second game will be between the Greenville freshmen winners-up in the tournament, and Grimesland's second team.

Grimesland's team entered the Pitt County Tournament held in Greenville and proved themselves very good. Although the Greenville juniors have lost several valuable players, they are expected to put up a stiff fight and the game holds prospects of fast playing. The second game will be likewise as exciting. The freshmen, although handicapped by being short, are very fast and stick with the ball.

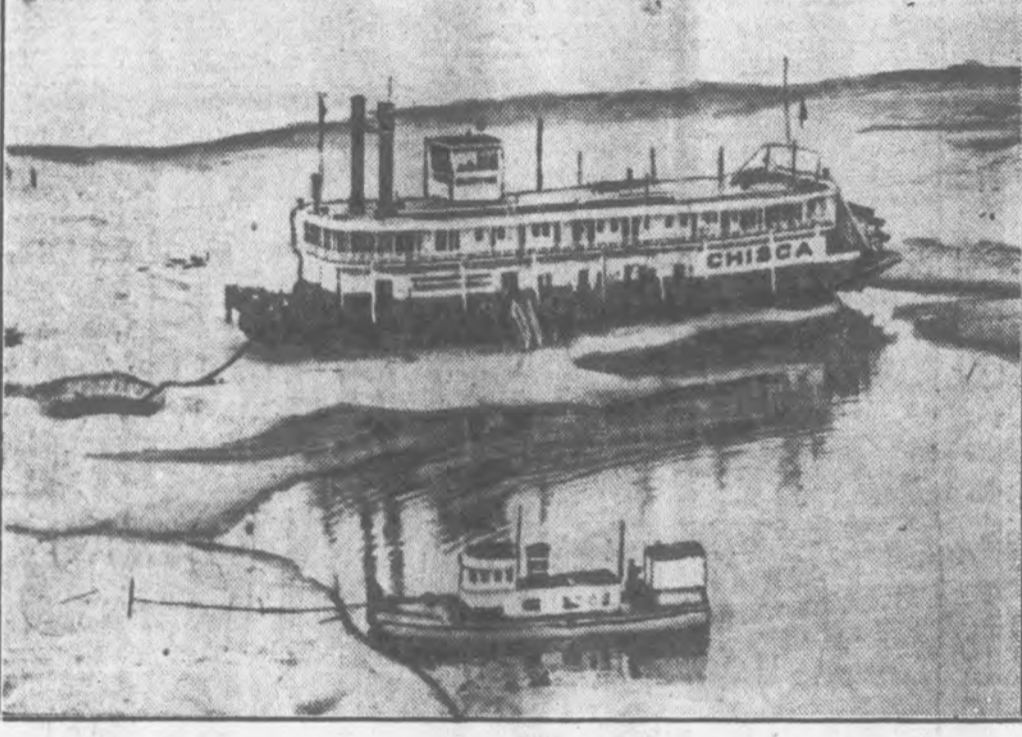

The games should be good and a large crowd is expected.

Georgians Back Court Plan In Novel Election

An overwhelming majority of votes—1,092 to 174—was cast in favor of President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan in the nation's first test election held in Randolph county, Georgia. Citizens throughout the county expressed their preference for or against the proposal in the novel balloting. Headed by Justice of the Peace J. S. Sharley (right foreground), voters are seen eagerly depositing their ballots. (Associated Press Photo)

Mississippi Fell Too Rapidly For This Boat

Here's a most conclusive sign that flood danger is over along the lower Mississippi river. When he finally started going down, the "Father of Waters" fell too rapidly for the United States army engineers' towboat Chisca and she was stranded high and dry on a sandbar near Peter's Landing, Ark. Recovering The Dead From School Explosion

This pathetic picture shows relief workers bringing the body of a boy from the ruins of the New London, Texas, Consolidated school which was wrecked by a strange explosion. The youth was one of 425 whose bodies were found soon after the blast. School authorities at first believed 670 pupils and teachers were killed. EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Manserfield goes back to her 200-year-old house and orchard in Connecticut after five years in New York. She plans to rent, marry gay, city-bred Denny and return to Manhattan apartment life. Uncle Henry, an old family friend, moves in to help Eve run the place. Peter the penniless artist, his languid wife Marglin and their serious young son Judge come to board, promising to pay later. George Cleveland, Eve's cousin, practical neighbor, wants her for his wife, but she loves absent Denny who phones from town.

Chapter 23

'As For George—'

"THIS anybody I know—might it be Miss Manserfield?"

The gay voice—the loving lightness that was the very Denny, the southern accent coming more clearly, as it always did, over the telephone.

"It might be, I suppose it is still you, even after hours on the train last night—"

"As much as it can be with you in Connecticut. Oh, Eve, I've missed you so, every minute from the time I left you till now, that it's simply horrible. You mustn't be all these hideous miles off. I can't stand it. Love me? Say so quick!"

Eve shut the doors and said, "I love you. Right along. . . Darling, any news?"

"Yes—the office is simply sick with you. They end every sentence with 'Eve' were only here! They keep asking me about your resigning. I'll be awning up why you did in a minute now, I hope!"

"Oh, Denny, has anything broken?"

"Sweet, there hasn't been time. But I'm dining with Mitz Wednesday and she's going to work on old Cleveland in between, and then promise him. And then do you and I go out and celebrate high, wide and handsome!"

"Forty cents for five more minutes," said the color voice of Operator before Eve could answer. She told Denny hastily not to spend any more money, came back to Ellen in the kitchen to find Judge arranging a tray for his parents with a deftness that suggested practice.

"Yep, I always got their breakfast if they were awake before I went to school," he answered Ellen's question, and walked out soberly with his heavy tray. Eve and Ellen had heard the Featherstones, often enough, laughing over Judge's domestic behavior, but till now they hadn't realized it was anything but a joke.

"Well, I suppose it doesn't hurt him," Ellen said uneasily.

"He's so willing," Eve said. "Uncle Henry has rather taken him over, I think, I remember Aunt Lina saying once he was born with a talent for child-rearing."

'He's Brilliant'

"EVE, let's go out!" Ellen said suddenly. "I have to get an early afternoon train, and I simply will not waste this grand fresh air. You've been in the house moving furniture and getting meals ever since you came, you can't deny it."

"I feel like a million gold dollars," said Eve, "but I'll be with you."

They pulled on coats and dragged benches over their ears.

The day was bright and fresh, and warm for the time of year. The snow was melting in the orchard, but the muddy walking didn't matter with galoshes, and the smell of the freshening earth and the warmth of the sun. The girls went single file through the winding path between the thick old gnarled trunks. Presently they came to a stone wall. Beyond it lay more trees and there were rough steps.

"This is George's, after this, isn't it?" Ellen asked. "Think he'll mind if we trespass?"

"Considering that I found him trespassing all over my orchard and cutting little samples of it to do pomology things with, I should think not," Eve said. She felt a little shy of George. Living even for a few weeks next to a man you have just refused to marry, and on whose father depends your lover's next job, is a bit embarrassing. But naturally she couldn't say that to Ellen.

"He's pretty fine," Ellen said. "Dependable, and kind, and brilliant—"

"Brilliant?"

"Didn't you know he stood practically at the top of his profession, young as he is?"

"No, how would I? How did you?"

"Asked," said Ellen, with a smile.

"So you think he has all the virtues?" Eve teased. Brilliant! To her brilliance was Denny's quick, gay talk, Denny's handling of any situation; Denny, like a Noel Coward hero, only handsomer. She laughed as she mounted the stones after Ellen.

"Believe me," Ellen said firmly, alighting between two pear trees and looking up at her with a hand on each, "when you've been on the stage since 16 you like 'em to have virtues!" Eve leaped down in turn; her bright curts fluttered, her clear voice rang.

"Well, as for George—"

"As for George?" said George himself, advancing toward them with the usual armful of twigs and sheepskin gloves. His bright blue eyes were as steady, his wind-burned face as impassive as always.

"It was compliments," Eve said, laughing in spite of herself. "What on earth are you doing?"

"Grafting," said George. He dusted his gloves and added, "Come on over and see the house. Mother's done wonders on it, really."

Eve remembered it as the heart-breaking wreck of what had been in the eighteenth century a more beautiful house than her own; fine old furniture and portraits, all scattered or broken. The two girls went with him down through the Seymour orchard, and back through what had been a long, green pleasure, and was now going to be again. The place even thus early showed that a clever hand had been landscaping it after its original eighteenth-century fashion. The only change was that George had used the brook which had watered orchard and lawn to make a swimming pool, among a clump of trees.

"Oh, you must let us use this," Ellen said, "when it gets warm enough."

"Surest thing you know," George said, standing with one leather-legged foot on the cement parapet. He went on explaining to Ellen, hanging on his words, about gravity flow, and how much of the old land they'd managed to get back from the township for its back taxes. He seemed less like a man who had said last night he was deeply in love than anything she could imagine. Eve decided he had been swept by some crazy impulse.

He went on showing them the improvements he had made. The old fountain, dug out of an outhouse and put together from its marble wreck of the oak avenue, having its gaps filled up where the Seymours had laid trees die or cut them for firewood. The traces of an old maze, even, on the far side of the pleasure, which he had nearly recreated.

Struggle For A Painting

"YOU'VE done wonders!" Eve said impulsively.

He flushed a little, as if her praise meant a good deal to him. "I suppose I was born out of due time," he said. "Mother is always saying so. It seems to me the most exciting thing on earth to recreate things that were meant to be fine and have nearly been lost or broken. These old trees, for instance. There are almost unique varieties of shrubs and fruit-bearing trees here. Somebody in the place's history must have been an amateur of orchards and gardens. It was a crime to let the place be wrecked as it has been."

"Oh, Uncle Henry De Remer can tell you about that," Eve said as they neared the house, stately among its lawns, sound with its freshly shored foundations of reddened bricks. "The first owner was a friend of John Evelyn's, and Evelyn kept sending him out rare specimens after he came here. Gardens and varieties of fruits and flowers were a fad of that day, weren't they?"

George nodded. "They got a lot of stuff from France and Italy. It says so in the diary. Odd that some of these things should have lasted here in Connecticut when they'd died out in England—what's that?"

They were at the front door by now. It was closed, of course, but one of the long French windows that Eve remembered as smashed and boarded over, glazed now and painted white, was ajar, and a man's rough voice was shouting from within. George sprang inside, followed by the girls. In the middle of the parquet floor Mrs. Cleveland, with a strength nobody would have expected from her limp frame, was struggling with a tall thin man in ragged clothing.

George jerked him aside. "Here, what does this mean?"

Mrs. Cleveland bent over and dragged an oil painting up from the floor. Apparently they had been struggling over it. She had it fast, as she dropped into a chair. She panted: "This man's a thief, George. Tell him, Mrs. Power."

Mitz, who had been crouched against the wall, straightened up now on her high heels and said, "It was perfectly terrible." She caught her breath. "I nearly fainted away."

George took a firmer grip of the limp frightened lad and said impatiently, "All right, what's this about?"

His mother got her breath, cast a scornful glance at the terrified Mitz and said: "We just got back from a long drive. I'd been told about this painting that was supposed to be the portrait of the man who built this house. So I got up early and we drove to the antique shop that had it; away off in Torrington it was! And I bought it. Naturally, on the way back I stopped at the post office. And this tramp must have seen it in the car and followed us. He came in and began to shout that it was his and he had to have it!"

George's father comes to Eve's for a game of chess, tomorrow.

Ever since the session opened way back in January, Senator Bell has maintained a faithful guard, spying out every attempt to "raid" the state's treasury. He has risen to his feet at least a half-hundred times to protest against someone's effort to get an appropriation for this purpose, or that purpose or the other purpose. He has not always been successful. Often his not-so-economically minded colleagues have run roughshod over his recommendations, but he has proved his consistency right down to the end.

As head of the pending group he states' institutions and agencies within the limits of budget commission recommendations. He has never yielded the fraction of an inch and whatever increases were made were made over his opposition.

He has the courage of his conviction—a fact which he proved by casting the lone Senate vote against the Social Security act. Others might express doubts as to the amounts to be expended, but none

IN AGREEMENT ON SCHOOL ACT

House and Senate Finally Agree On Amendments

Raleigh, Mar. 22.—The house and senate are at last in complete agreement on the school machinery act and it will become law as soon as it can be engrossed and ratified. But this agreement was not reached by the conference committee until late Saturday afternoon, the house remaining in session until almost 3 o'clock waiting for the conference committee to agree and make its report.

The house finally agreed to all of the senate amendments, with a few minor changes. It at first objected to the amendments providing for the creation of an executive committee composed of the Lieutenant Governor, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the State Treasurer and three other members of the State School Commission, to act for the commission when it is not in session, but eventually agreed to this change, since it was recommended by Governor Hoy. The house also at first objected to the senate amendment which related to the routing of buses and made the subject to the approval of the county boards. The senate receded from this amendment and agreed to accept the change proposed by the house committee providing for the routing of the buses by the school commission, but with a provision under which the county boards may appeal to the executive committee of the school commission if they are not satisfied with the bus routes as set out by the commission. A provision was also agreed to requiring the school commission to fix bus routes and make them public 30 days before school opens in all the counties.

A strong effort was made in the house to remove the amendment added by the senate to Section 14, prohibiting supplementary tax elections except in county or city administrative districts. As passed by the house, Section 14 would have permitted any school district with a population of 1,000 or more school children, to become a special tax district and levy supplemental taxes for a ninth month, a twelfth grade or to increase teachers' salaries. But the senate conference committee refused to recede from this amendment.

but "Jim" Bell dared brand the whole plan as unsound and unsafe. He is the hardest man in the legislature to interview and is the "bete noir" of news men, whom he threatens with courtesy, but against whom he throws up an impenetrable defense of pretended ignorance. His favorite reply to any question "I haven't heard about that. I don't know anything about it. If he were as ignorant as he sometimes pretends to be he would permanently wear a dunce cap.

Eight Historical Sites Designated To Place Markers

Spots Scattered From Chatham and Orange Counties in Central Part of State to Extreme West.

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Mar. 22.—Eight new sites for markers to commemorate lives of prominent figures and events in the history of North Carolina have been selected and legends written for each. R. Bruce Etheridge, director of the Department of Conservation and Development, announced today.

The new markers will be scattered from Chatham and Orange counties in the central part of the State to Swain County in the extreme west. More than 100 plates for which texts have previously been prepared are scattered geographically over the State from the Atlantic ocean to the Tennessee border.

The locations and the texts for the eight new markers are as follows:

Archibald Debow Murphey, Orange County: "Champion of a new State through public schools, canals, roads, 1777-1832. Grave 50 yards west."

Captain Johnston Blakeley, Chatham County: "After many victories, War of 1812, was lost at sea with his sloop Wasp. Lived at 'Rockrest' 3 miles east."

Flora MacDonald, Richmond County: "Scottish heroine. Lived in North Carolina, 1774-79. Loyalist in the Revolution. Her home stood 3/4 mile northeast."

Fort Defiance, Caldwell County: "Home of Wm. Lenoir, leader in Revolution and public affairs, built 1768-92 on site of frontier Fort Defiance, 4 1/2 miles east."

Waldensians, Burke County: "A religious body, dating from the middle ages. A group from the Cottian Alps founded the town of Waldese, 1893."

Quaker Meadows, Burke County: "Frontier rendezvous, estate of Joseph and Chas. McDowell, officers in Kings Mountain campaign, public leaders."

Pleasant Gardens, McDowell County: "Home of Joseph McDowell, Indian fighter, hero of Kings Mountain."

Teal, Swain County: "Cherokee brave, surrendered to General Scott to be shot near here, 1838. That remnant of tribe might remain in North Carolina."

Sites for the markers and legends are prepared under the direction of the State Historical Commission with the advice of historians from the so-called "Big Five" Colleges of North Carolina. The State Highway and Public Works Commission cooperates in the program by providing the funds and erecting the plates. The conservation department handles the business details, distribution, and other features of the project.

Dr. Burton R. Morley, professor of economics at the University of Alabama, says the minimum number of workers to be protected by unemployment compensation in Alabama is 216,000.

Senator J. A. Bell 'Watch Dog' Over State's Treasury

Mecklenburg Sedan Has Maintained Faithful Guard Over State's Finance Throughout Session

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Mar. 22.—Each legislature has its "watchdog of the treasury" and in the current Assembly this distinction goes to Senator James Andrew Bell, without serious competition unless it comes from youthful Libby Ward, over on the House side. Certainly the Mecklenburg sedan easily qualifies as the "Cerberus" of the Senate.

His position as chairman of the appropriations committee naturally thrusts the white haired, slow spoken, deliberate lawyer into the middle of fiscal affairs and perhaps added something to his natural bent toward economy and conservatism in spending.

Ever since the session opened way back in January, Senator Bell has maintained a faithful guard, spying out every attempt to "raid" the state's treasury. He has risen to his feet at least a half-hundred times to protest against someone's effort to get an appropriation for this purpose, or that purpose or the other purpose. Rotarians Hear Address by Lieut. Commissioner Hoe

By BILLY NISSET (Club Reporter)

Forty-eight years ago in India I found the country I love. The response of the people to any one who had come to serve with heart and hands was wonderful," declared Lieut. Commissioner Edgar Hoe of the Salvation Army as he spoke to the Rotarians at their weekly meeting last evening.

Lieut. Commissioner Hoe has been an officer of the Salvation Army for 48 years, 25 of which he has spent in India. Formerly of London, England, he is now retired and lives in London, Canada.

To give some idea of what the Salvation Army is doing, he said during the past years it had striven to remove the blot from India, those 60,000 people, hungry-eyed, beggars who are of the lowest caste, the "untouchables."

"Their only hope has been Christianity and though suppressed by generations of ignorance and slavery they have made amazing strides.

"An example I have seen it in the village into which I first went. This village was filled with 'devil worship,' the people were ignorant. Their only chance was the education and knowledge the Army could give them. The headman of the village knowing this, came over to Salvation and fought for their souls.

"Twenty years later on a visit to this same village I found cleanliness where had once been dirt, a school house where there had once been a temple for 'devil worship.' The old head was still there, grey headed now, and he greeted me warmly. The people met that evening in the open air with their bibles and psalm books under their arms—and I was thankful I had had a little part in this transformation."

Lieut. Commissioner Hoe pointed out that now the Salvation Army had three large hospitals in India and thirteen smaller dispensaries which were doing a great service to the people of India.

He also told of the work among the criminal tribes of India—those tribes who have criminal tendencies handed down from generation to generation. A transformation has taken place there, he asserted. The Army has built up there among robbers, thieves and even murderers a case of something better.

Lieut. Commissioner Hoe concluded his talk with the reading of a legend of India—an Indian's interpretation of the birth of man and woman.

Capt. C. P. Bates of the Salvation Army was in charge of the program and introduced Lieut. Commissioner Hoe to the club.

President J. B. Kittrell called attention to the fact that this year only six clubs in the United States had sponsored the founding of two new clubs and Greenville was one of the six. He hinted that the Greenville club may sponsor another if plans work out, thereby giving this club an enviable record for the year.

President Kittrell further stated he wanted as nearly as possible a 100 per cent attendance in Robersonville, Friday night, April 2 when the Robersonville club, which was sponsored by Greenville, will be granted its charter.

Rev. T. McM. Grant won the booster attendance prize given by Ollie Van Nortwick, Jr.

J. B. Euz and Grady Dixon of the Ayden Rotary club were visitors and J. Ray Martin a guest of the club at last night's meeting.

WIN ON EVERY FISCAL POLICY

Administration Victorious On Money Matters

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Mar. 23.—No administration in the memory of veteran observers has exercised as complete control over the fiscal measures enacted by a legislature as has the governmental group headed by Governor Clyde R. Hoey.

The Revenue bill as passed contained practically everything the Hoey administration stood for, a virtually nothing it opposed.

It was a complete, smashing victory and perhaps the strangest feature is the fact that in only one or two instances was the Administration's strangle hold in danger of being broken. On two issues—diversion of highway funds and levy of a tax upon building materials—the opposition was so strong that so-called "compromises" were made but in both cases the "compromises" gave the Governor and his friends all the fruits of complete victory and hardly contained even "face-savers" for the opposition.

The Administration started out with a Revenue bill containing the sales tax with as few exemptions as possible as one of its objectives.

The Revenue bill as passed continues the sales tax in full force and effect, exempting only ten staple necessities from its provisions. The Administration's old setback on this front was final refusal of the Assembly to exempt meals from the sales tax, and there are plenty of people who feel that Governor Hoey and his sides had their tongues in their cheeks when they insisted on carrying out the Democratic state platform which in words and figures specifically called for the exemption of meals.

The Administration aimed to prevent any increases in franchise or income taxes on corporations. There are no such increases in the Revenue bill.

The Administration opposed homestead exemptions and increase of income taxes on individuals without a previous study of these matters by commissions. Governor Hoey recommended these commissions in his inaugural address.

In the Revenue bill there is only a one per cent increase in income tax rates on individuals, a slight "hike" endorsed and suggested by the Administration. Efforts to insert a moderate $300 homestead exemption in the tax machinery bill were defeated by both houses.

The Administration proposed that the counties shall bear a part of Social Security costs.

The Social Security bill, as enacted, places the cost equally on state and counties, with the Federal government contributing as much as the two units combined.

The Administration proposed new taxes on intangibles and proposed tentatively that they be segregated for state purposes.

As enacted the taxes on intangibles are exactly those backed by the Administration, although the funds collected thereby are to be divided equally between the state and the counties or municipalities within which they are collected. This was entirely satisfactory to the Administration.

The Administration proposed a seven per cent gross tax on liquor.

STATE ENACTS HEALTH BILLS

Sanitation Measures Claimed Widespread Attention

Raleigh, March 23.—(AP)—Health measures took attention in the 1937 general assembly and many laws governing sanitary conditions such as in ice cream, bedding, shellfish, dairy, meat market and abattoir concerns, had amendments enacted which proponents said would improve conditions.

Dr. T. W. M. Long, the Senator from Halifax, introduced a number of the bills as chairman of the Senate health committee.

The Senate refused to pass a measure to require inoculation of all infants against diphtheria.

Measures changing laws governing practice of osteopathy, optometry, chiropractic, and pharmacy were enacted. The barbers license law was made state-wide.

A commission was authorized to study the state's need for a four-year medical school.

A measure to allow Forsyth county officials to compel persons suspected of having tuberculosis to undergo examinations and treatment if necessary failed to pass, as did bills to tighten restrictions on hypnotic drugs, require physical examinations for domestic servants, and physical fitness for males applying for marriage licenses.

CAROLINIAN WINS $150,000!

The Administration proposed to divert approximately $4,000,000 from the highway funds under guise of collecting the "sales tax on gasoline." On this issue insurgents once had the upper hand, but let up long enough to give the powers-that-be a breathing spell and when the returns were in all they had gained was a paper pledge that diversion would not be resorted to "unless necessary."

The Administration stirred up a hornet's nest by proposing to levy a 3 per cent tax on all building material used by contractors. Again it appeared to be in danger of losing, but adroit maneuvering of the floor once more saved its hide, with a resulting "compromise" which levied the tax on more than half the building material transactions of the state.

funds and facilities.

Some of the strongest and most determined efforts to push appropriations even higher came from member who had never been identified with the McDonald forces and who have been among those regarded as very close to the administration. The only thing which kept the assembly from boosting appropriations still higher was the inability to find any additional revenue.

The speed of the assembly, as a result of which it has done more in 66 legislative days than previous sessions have done in from 100 to 120 days, is due primarily to the firm, if not actually stern leadership in both houses. In the first place, Speaker R. Gregg Cherry and Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton selected committee chairman they knew were capable and who could be depended upon to hold the noses of their committee members to the grindstone and make them work—but still make the members like it. There never have been any committee chairmen who ram-rodged things through as did Victor Bryant of the house finance committee, Libby Ward of the house appropriations committee, and Senators E. V. Webb and James A. Bell, chairman of the senate finance and appropriations committees, respectively.

But the ones who deserve the most credit for the speed made in this session are Speaker Cherry and Lieutenant Governor Horton, the engineers of the legislative double headers, who never hesitated to keep their throats wide open, and Governor Clyde R. Hoey who acted as fireman and chief trouble shooter. If it had not been for Governor Hoey piling on the fuel and keeping the steam up throughout the session, Engineers Horton and Cherry could never have succeeded in maintaining the pressure and by not allowing any breakdown or hot-boxes to occur, they kept the legislative machinery running smoothly and efficiently throughout the entire session.

Another thing that added greatly to the speed of this session, was the absence of factionalism and of any selfish or obstructive "bloes" such as have existed in almost all previous sessions. There was fine teamwork and good sportsmanship through the session.

Doughton actually announces as a candidate.

Other members of the house and senate expressed much the same view when questioned. Another member of the senate from the eastern part of the state expressed the opinion that if Doughton became a candidate against Reynolds, he would get very strong support from the eastern counties, in that most of the liberal Democrats as well as most of the conservatives would support Doughton.

"The people in my county and surrounding counties like the fine records Mr. Doughton has made as chairman of the ways and means committee and the manner in which he has stood back of President Roosevelt," this senator said. "They know he has the welfare of the common people at heart."

Friends of Senator Reynolds point out, however, that he has been supporting the President consistently, is at present backing the President's supreme court reorganization plans, which Senator Bailey is opposing, and that Senator Reynolds now rates higher at the White House and in Washington generally than at any time since he entered the senate.

As a result, they maintain he is in a better position to defend himself in the 1938 campaign than ever before and do not believe that even Rep. Doughton can defeat him. They agree, however, that Doughton would undoubtedly be the most dangerous opponent he could have. But the friends of Senator Reynolds are convinced that "Kissing Bob" with his remarkable personality and his phenomenal ability to turn anything and everything that happens to his advantage—especially the kissing of movie stars—will be able to win out, even if "Farmer Bob" does run against him.

WHY STAY IN THE "ALL THREE" CLASS?

THIS GREAT BIG NASH NOW JUST A FEW DOLLARS MORE

There's no reason to put up with "small car" limitations... When you can get this great big car for so little more

● With better times returning... thousands want to get out of the "little car" class. Nash saw this coming. Built a BIGGER car, priced it low. Look at the size of that car in the picture. It's the new Nash LaFayette "400". A great big Six—with a 117-inch wheelbase—much bigger than any of the "all three" cars—you'll be astonished to find how little more it costs. A dollar or so extra on your monthly payments will probably get you out of the "small car" class—in most places. The Nash Ambassador Six is a luxurious 121-inch wheelbase car. It's as big as cars priced even $200 higher. The Nash Ambassador Eight—a great big 125-inch wheelbase car—actually compares in size with cars selling for $100 and $200 more. Nash gives you MORE for your money. See Nash—and SAVE!

NEW EASY BUDGET PLAN! Ask about the convenient terms and low rates available through the Nash C. I. T. Budget Plan. You can pay as little as $25 a month on your time payments in most places. Automatic Cruising Gear available on all Nash models at slight extra cost.

*FOR AS LITTLE AS $1 OR $2 A MONTH EXTRA YOU CAN GET OUT OF THE "ALL THREE" CLASS

A check-up recently made in ten representative cities shows that the Nash LaFayette "400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk DELIVERS for just a FEW dollars more than the similarly equipped 4-Door sedans of the "All Three" small cars. In many places, the SLIGHT price difference is just $1 or $2 a month extra on your time payments.

Fine Arts Festival To Be Held In April

The Woman's Club will hold its third annual Fine Arts Festival at the club house during the month of April. Tentative plans provide for a four-day festival, beginning April 22nd and lasting through the 25th, which will comprise many unique attractions.

Special efforts are being made this year to have something new and different in both program features and in exhibits, looking toward a bigger and a finer festival in every way than the two preceding ones.

As usual this event, the most important project of the club work during the entire year, promises to attract many out-of-town people and is to be given, as heretofore, free of charge to the people of the community.

The doors of the club house will be thrown open to the public at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, April 22nd. An interesting program is being arranged for this time which promises to attract large numbers.

Miss Rebecca Watson Wins Coveted Office

Miss Rebecca Watson, of Jonesboro, was elected president of the Girls' Student Government Association of East Carolina Teachers College to serve for the next year. The election was held by secret ballot the last Monday of the winter term, March 22, from nominations posted two weeks beforehand.

The other officers for the girls' S. C. A. that have been elected are Miss Joyce Harrell, of Hertford, vice-president; Miss Marian Ried, of Elizabeth City, treasurer. The new president and vice-president and the out going president of the girls' S. G. A. Miss Elizabeth Dixon Johnson, of Goldsboro, are the delegates who will represent E. C. T. C. at the annual meeting of the National Intercollegiate Student Federal Association to be held in Spartanburg, S. C. during the Easter vacation.

Milk utensils should be protected from contamination during the period between washing and subsequent use.

PROF. SAYS MANKIND CAN BREED ARISTOTLES

Houston (AP)—Selective reproduction, says Dr. Edgar A. Altenburg, assistant professor of biology at Rice Institute, perhaps could lead to cables with the talents of Aristotle and the strong moral nature of Socrates. "The task that confronts the student of heredity," he says, "is to learn what is inherited and how it is inherited. The task of society is to eliminate the bad and spread the good. This can be done through selective reproduction. If it is done, perhaps all people will be born with the talents of Aristotle and the strong nature of Socrates. "Through an accumulation of bad traits in the human race, most people today have one or more annoying weaknesses which interfere with the fullest enjoyment of life. Hereditary deformities are caused by changes in the germ plasma known as 'mutations.' All traits arise through the process of mutation. Most mutations are bad."

Miriam Hopkins says:
"My throat welcomes Luckies—my favorite cigarette for 5 years"

"Luckies have been my favorite cigarette for about 5 years. They're a light smoke that sensitive throats welcome. Of the many trends that sweep through Hollywood, one of the longest lasting has been the preference for Luckies. I once asked a 'property' man—who supplies cigarettes to the actors—what the favorite is. He answered by opening up a box containing cigarettes. They were all Luckies."

THE FINEST TOBACCO—
"THE CREAM OF THE CROP"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Hopkins verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
