HOPES RAISED FOR PEACE ON STRIKE FRONTS

Large Scale Evictions of Sit-Down Strikers Started

CALL PARLEY ON MAJOR DISPUTE

CIO President Hints Unionization Drive To Be Started in Ford Motor Plants

(By Associated Press) Large scale evictions of sit down strikers and the start of a new party in the nation's biggest industrial dispute raised hope today for settlement of several controversies on the strike front.

In a number of disputes employers have made evacuation of their factories and business establishments a prerequisite to negotiations on strikers' demands.

Chicago was free from sit-down strikes for the first time in a month after police dislodged hundreds of workers from plants and stores. Sit-downs also were evicted in several other states.

Prospects of peace in the Chrysler Motor corporation's strike, involving 60,000 workers, brightened after Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan succeeded in arranging a conference at Detroit between Walter Chrysler of the corporation and John Lewis, C. I. O. chairman.

An orderly throng massed in Cadillac square in the heart of Detroit late yesterday at the call of leaders of the United Automobile Workers Union, an affiliate of the C. I. O., which called the Chrysler strike. Its president, Homer Martin, hinted in his speech to the crowd a unionization drive would be started in time to the Ford Motor Corporation.

Larger Tobacco Crop Predicted For 1937

Raleigh, Mar. 24.—(AP)—North Carolina farmers planned on March 1 to reduce their corn slightly and increase their tobacco and potato acreage, the federal state crop reporting announced today, with no figures given for cotton.

The corn crop was indicated at 2,280,000 acres compared with 2,330,000 last year, a cut of three per cent in the state, though the nation is increasing its corn acreage two per cent.

Flue cured tobacco growers indicated they plan to plant eight per cent more land in tobacco, 654,500 acres while the farmers in the whole belt indicated an increase of 10 per cent.

Trouble with tobacco plants because of blue mold and other diseases was noted, but it was pointed out the area of plant beds is probably the largest in the history of the state.

Legislators Decide To Erect Memorials

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—The General Assembly in winding up its work appropriated funds for two memorials — to Laura Spellman Rockefeller and Col. Fred A. Olds — and voted to name the highway bridge between Hyde and Tyrrell counties in honor of Congressman Lindsay C. Warren.

A sum of $10,000 was made available for the Rockefeller memorial in the Great Smoky mountains National Park, provided Tennessee matches the sum. The Rockefellers contributed several million dollars for lands for the park.

Mrs. J. L. Gurganus Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. J. L. Gurganus of Belhel died in a Rocky Mount hospital at 3:30 o'clock this morning after an illness of about three weeks.

Funeral services will be held in the Belhel Methodist church at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the pastor, Rev. W. L. Clegg, in charge.

Mrs. Gurganus was the daughter of the late J. J. and Mrs. Sallie Manning Carson, prominent Pitt county family. She was active in church activities, as well as social and civic circles and was well beloved in her community.

PUBLIC FORUM SET THURSDAY

Dr. Emil Lengyel, forum speaker, will lead the discussion in the High School building here Thursday night. Correspondent for newspapers and magazines, Dr. Lengyel has interviewed Hitler and other prominent European figures.

Dr. Emil Lengyel To Lead Discussion At High School

Dr. Emil Lengyel, noted journalist and author, will conduct the Public Forum to be held in the Greenville High school library tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock on the subject "Can America Stay Out of War?"

The meeting was set for 8:30 o'clock in order to enable citizens to attend union church services being held this week and then get to the forum in time to hear the speaker.

Born in Hungary, Dr. Lengyel after receiving university education was drafted for military service in 1915. In 1916 he was captured by the Russians and taken to a Russian prison camp in Siberia. During the 20 months he was there his hair turned grey at the early age of 20.

Dr. Lengyel spent several months in the famous "death camp" at Tarkoo and was finally exchanged as an invalid in February 1918.

In the latter part of 1928 Dr. Lengyel was graduated from the Royal Hungarian University of Budapest as a doctor of both canon and civil laws.

After his graduation, Dr. Lengyel served as an interpreter and translator in the Hungarian Postmaster General's Office and afterwards joined the editorial staff of "The Eight o'Clock Journal" of Budapest.

Dr. Lengyel came to this country at the end of 1921 and liked it so much that five years later he became an American citizen.

For several years, Dr. Lengyel corresponded with newspapers of France, Germany, Austria, and Hungary in their own languages.

Dr. Lengyel is an author, a journalist and a lecturer. He has written five books, all of which have been reviewed by many world famous newspapers.

Governor Hoey Satisfied With Legislative Session

By J. C. BASKERVILL, Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, March 24.—Gov. Clyde R. Hoey today gave sincere and hearty commendation to the 1937 session of the general assembly which adjourned yesterday after having been in session only 66 legislative days and only 77 calendar days.

He expressed gratification that almost without exception, the assembly had enacted most of his recommendations into law. In fact, the only two specific recommendations made by Governor Hoey which the assembly ignored was his recommendation for the enactment of a reappointment law and for a state-wide referendum on liquor control.

"On the whole, the 1937 session of the general assembly was one of the most constructive and harmonious sessions I have ever seen," Governor Hoey said today. "The members showed most business like and harmonious spirit and did a tremendous amount of work in a comparatively short period of time. They are to be commended. In summing up this session, I would say that the general assembly has been economical without

ITALY OBJECTS TO REPORTS IN BRITISH PRESS

Triple-Threat Menaces Relations Between Nations

CABINET CALLED TO MEET TODAY

Delicate Diplomatic Situation Believed to Be High-Spotted By Formal Protest

London, Mar. 24.—(AP)—The British cabinet was called into session today, faced with a triple-threat menace to continue friendly relations with Italy.

The delicate diplomatic situation was believed to have been high-spotted by a formal protest from the Italian government, stating Premier Mussolini's uncompromising objection to slaps delivered by the British press at the Italian defeat in Spain.

The British attitude, it was said, would be influenced sharply by the tone of the note which was sent to London for consideration by the cabinet today.

The protest, based on press comments on the Insurgent Spanish army's defeat in Guadalajara province, where the Spanish government charged 30,000 Italian troops were fighting, was handed in Rome to British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond, who immediately forwarded the note to London.

KIDNAPER DIES OF OWN HANDS

Accused Man in Argentina's 'Lindy Case' Hangs Self

Buenos Aires, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Jose Gonzales accused in Argentina's "Lindbergh case," hanged himself today in the jail in which he was awaiting trial.

He strung himself from the bars of his cell at Dolores, near Mar del Plata, where he had been held since the police said he confessed the kidnaping and killing of two-year-old Eugenio Iraola.

The baby, son of a rich Argentine cattle man, was found strangling in February 27 in a pig pen on his father's estate where Gonzales had worked.

Already held the peon started to re-enact the crime for officers, but he halted in the middle of it and repudiated his confession.

He had told police a story of how he fed and carried the child a mile and half from the home of the father, Simon Iraola acting on an "unexplainable impulse."

When the party reached the pig pen Gonzales suddenly turned and declared: "Here the story ended. Do you want me to continue this novel? Do you want me to go on with this farce? I will not continue. I took no child!"

WHERE FATAL GAS WAS DRAWN

This exclusive picture shows where New London, Tex., school officials made an unauthorized plug-in on an oil company's waste gas line for free fuel which some believe caused the explosion that killed 453. STATE SOLONS ARTHUR COREY BACK AT HOME GAINS GROUND

1937 General Assembly Shortest Since That of 1929

Raleigh, Mar. 24.—(AP)—North Carolina's law makers returned home today, having finished their biennial task in 77 days—the shortest time since 1929.

The legislature legalized liquor, enacted a social security program, authorized free textbooks for school children and approved the largest budget in the state's history.

The budget called for expenditures of more than $147,000,000 during the 1937-39 biennium. The revenue set-up remained basically unchanged.

The sales tax was removed from nine commodities classed as "necessities," a flat $4 a pump tax was levied on filling stations and the cost of automobile tags was reduced from 40 to 35 cents a car hundred weight.

Senator E. G. Flaegan returned home today after having been in Raleigh most of the time since January attending the General Assembly. While in the legislature Senator Flaegan introduced, fought for and secured passage of a number of important bills.

Chiefly among these was the anti-still machine bill which was passed through the efforts of the senator despite stiff opposition and attempts up until the last minute to have acts enacted to weaken the law.

Senator Flaegan promised the people of Pitt county he would do all in his power to secure passage of an anti-still machine bill and it is conceded that he was responsible for the law.

Although he sponsored a bill fought for a bill to ban theatre "bank nights" the measure was defeated.

Supervisor K.W. Cobb Visits Three Counties

K. W. Cobb, secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and also sales supervisor, already has started his tours of Eastern North Carolina in the interest of the local market.

Yesterday he viewed the outlook for this season in Greene, Duplin and Wayne counties. From now on until the market opens Mr. Cobb will visit various sections in the interest of the Greenville market.

College Students Off For Spring Vacation

The College closed today for a six-day spring vacation and the dormitories are vacated and the campus will be deserted until the students return for the opening of the spring term, which begins on next Wednesday morning March 31. Some of the members of the faculty and staff will be leaving for short Easter trips.

WAR SHIP DROPS BOMBS ON COAST

Sudden Rebel Sea Sortie Leaves Men, Women and Children Dead, Dying

Madrid, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Insurgent Spanish armies, in the new role of the besieged, dug in to withstand government assault far northeast of the capital today while a sudden insurgent sea sortie left men, women and children dead and dying in a Catalan coastal town.

An insurgent warship was said by reports of a Spanish news agency to have bombarded a place 40 miles north of Valencia early Tuesday. One shell fell into Central Plaza, killing seven and wounding 30, many of them women and children, this report said.

The attacking ship lay 48 miles north of Valencia.

Air attacks predominated in the military actions on the Northern Guadalupe and Jarama river lines, where General Francisco Franco's Insurgents entrenched to withstand a government siege Northeast of the capital.

SEEK ESCAPEE IN WILD CHASE

Armed Officers Pursuing Man Thought Be Bill Payne

Fayetteville, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Six carloads of heavily armed officers and highway patrolmen from Scotland, Harnett, Cumberland and Robeson counties were searching the area between here and Lillington today for Bill Payne, escaped desperado reported seen at Red Springs this morning with two companions.

A Red Springs man, whose name was not known at the sheriff's office here, reported the man answering a description of Payne, who escaped with six others in a daring break from Caledonia prison farm several weeks ago, had sought to block him on the highway apparently with the intention of taking his car.

Officers throughout the area were mobilized quickly and took up the chase at Wagram in Scotland county, where the trio was reported seen in a mud-spattered automobile.

The chase then led through miles of dirt secondary roads in the area between Fort Bragg and Lillington and officers were trying to spread a fan throughout the section.

Mr. Corey has been active in American Legion circles since the first post was organized in North Carolina. He held offices in the Raleigh Post No. 1, the first in the state, and since he moved here has held the highest offices in the local post.

Greenville Legionnaires who attended the Salisbury meeting were Mr. Bundy, Mr. Corey, J. H. Rose and Jack Edwards.

Elbert Stokes Given Term Of Six Months

Elbert Stokes, convicted yesterday afternoon of hit and run driving, but acquitted of manslaughter, in connection with the death last November of David Flowers, was given a six-month sentence by Judge E. H. Cramer this morning.

Other cases disposed of at this morning's session included: Edmund Speight, careless and reckless driving, six months, or pay Flaegan Buys Co. $27.94 and also the costs of court; B. A. Hobbs, driving drunk $50 and costs and license revoked 12 months; M. K. Stokes and G. L. Stokes, transporting whiskey, 12 months each.

Van Spruill, convicted of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill at an earlier session, was sentenced to 12 months on the roads.

Maximum Work Hour Bill Passed With Amendments

By HENRY AVERILL (Reflector Bureau) Raleigh, Mar. 24.—The Maximum Hour bill, in principle limiting employment of males to 55 hours weekly and of females to 48 hours, has become the law of North Carolina, although the measure has been so loaded down with amendments that its original shape is hardly distinguishable.

Its original sponsors are, in general, glad that some sort of a bill was finally passed, though they are admittedly far from satisfied with the law as it was ultimately enacted.

Representative D. Lacy McBryde, Cumberland, who stuck to the bill through its thick and thin and battled right down to the bitter end for its enactment, expressed the tenor of those who favor shorter hours in North Carolina. He said: "I feel that we have accomplished the maximum that could be expected under the present setup in North Carolina. We have, at least, secured recognition of the principle that the workers have a right to be protected from long hours injurious to their health and destructive of their happiness."

CANDIDATE

M. K. Blount today formally announced his candidacy for mayor at the city election May 3. Mr. Blount has served as mayor since November, 1935, under appointment, filling the unexpired term of the late Roy C. Flaegan.

BLOUNT SEEKS RETAIN OFFICE

Announces Candidacy For Mayor at May 3 City Election

M. K. Blount, who has served Greenville as mayor since November, 1935, under appointment, today announced his candidacy for that position at the city election May 3.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Blount declared that he was running on his record and a platform that the city could progress and at the same time maintain an economical government.

"I feel that we can have a progressive city and at the same time an economical government. Our taxes, in spite of various improvements, will not be increased and it is hoped, with sound business principles, can be reduced."

Mayor Blount was appointed by the Board of City Aldermen to fill the unexpired term of the late Mayor Roy C. Flaegan. Shortly after his appointment he was named on the legislative committee of the League of Municipalities and at its annual meeting last summer was chosen as third vice president.

Under his administration legislative bills were enacted extending the limits of the city, establishing civil service and a "little" social security for the city's firemen and policemen. The city was divided into two voting precincts to avoid congestion on election days. A park is being established on the edge of the city on the Washington highway. A city-county armory is rapidly nearing completion. Dickinson avenue was widened and an underpass is being erected at the railroad crossing at the cotton mill.

"I have been instrumental in starting several projects and have others in mind which I would like to see completed," declared the mayor and candidate in announcing he would seek the office for a regular two-year term.

The only other announced candidate for the position is H. H. Duncan, at present mayor pro-tem and a member of the Board of Aldermen.

He further said the shooting was intended apparently to frighten strikers whom he described merely a peaceful strike to obtain shorter hours and higher wages.

Warrants Sworn Out In Lumberton Strike

Lumberton, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Douglas Prevatt, Ada McLean may strikers, swore out assault warrants today against Cliff Taylor and Pearl Thompson, mill employees, after reporting a party of pickets had been sprinkled with shot gun pellets as they sat around a fire before daylight.

Prevatt said the groups of about 10 pickets which he headed escaped more than a few scratches when someone fired from the darkness of the mill yard. He said he and the other pickets ran in the direction of the shot and captured Taylor and Thompson. Prevatt said a shot gun found under a nearby building was identified as belonging to Thompson.

He further said the shooting was intended apparently to frighten strikers whom he described merely a peaceful strike to obtain shorter hours and higher wages.

Employment Service Reports On Salaries

Raleigh, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Mayne Albright, acting director of the state employment service, reported today a check of hourly wages paid 5,027 persons placed by the service during February showed a variation of from $1.56 an hour down to 923 cents an hour.

Albright said persons placed in jobs involving the manufacture of machinery got $1.56 an hour while agriculture workers in the eastern part of the state got as low as 923 cents, with the highest wage in the group 31.2 cents an hour.

Committee Prepared To Effect Blockade

London, Mar. 24.—(AP)—The European "hands off Spain" committee pressing suddenly ahead in counter the threat of continued Italian participation in the civil war tonight removed the last obstacle to a land-sea blockade of Spain by naming 10 key administrators.

The date for placing 1 1/2 international police patrol in full effect on land and sea was left to the advisory board of the international non-intervention committee.

Senate Sources State President Already Has Agreed

DISPUTES HOLD CHIEF INTEREST

Judiciary Committee of Senate Continues Work on Court Reorganization Bill.

Washington, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Informed Senate sources said today President Roosevelt had agreed to meet congressional leaders for a discussion of the sit-down strike situation when he returns from Warm Springs, Ga., this week-end.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, had previously said a crisis was approaching and unless conditions were improved by the week-end he believed "it will be desirable for legislative authorities to confer."

He refused to confirm or deny reports the President already had called such a conference. But it was considered significant on Capitol Hill the President was scheduled to return from Georgia to Washington during the week-end.

On the House side, Representative Dies (D. Texas) said the Rules Committee would hold a hearing next Wednesday on its resolution to investigate sit-down strikes, which already have aroused the ire of many congressional leaders.

The Washington developments came about the time John Lewis, the C. I. O. chief, and Walter Chrysler, the car manufacturer, met with Michigan's Governor Murphy in an effort to settle the Chrysler strike, involving 80,000 persons.

While striking furniture, the senate's chief opponent of congressional, the Senate judiciary committee continued its study of President Roosevelt's court reorganization bill. Harold Dodds, Princeton university president, testified in opposition.

"Temporary maladjustments," he said, "are no excuse for weakening an institution which, even hostile critics must admit, has so well protected the American people from the tyranny of public officials."

Dodds was one of a series of witnesses to appear before the committee against the President's plan.

He said: "I feel that we have accomplished the maximum that could be expected under the present setup in North Carolina. We have, at least, secured recognition of the principle that the workers have a right to be protected from long hours injurious to their health and destructive of their happiness."

"We now have a starting point for further improvements. Any changes in the law at later legislative sessions must almost necessarily be for the better."

The Cumberlander said he has a very personal feeling with respect to working hours, pointing to the fact that he has himself worked 14-hour night shifts in textile mills of Cabarrus county.

"When I was going to school, I worked in mills on shifts that were 14 hours long," he said, "I believe the present measure, inadequate as it is, will be of very positive benefit to thousands of North Carolina workers. We couldn't get all we wanted, but we got something."

So many amendments were added to the bill—either in the House or in the Senate—that it will be some time before a connected idea can be gained of the exact purport of the measure, which will be the law of North Carolina after July 1.

Numerous categories of employees have been excepted from the provision, and numerous exceptions in the number of hours which may be worked in "emergencies" have been made.

GOOD RELIEF of Constipation by a
GOOD LAXATIVE

Many folks get such refreshing relief by taking Black-Draught for constipation that they prefer it to other laxatives and urge their friends to try it. Black-Draught is made of the leaves and roots of plants. It does not disturb digestion but stimulates the lower bowels so that constipation is relieved.

BLACK-DRAUGHT
—purely vegetable laxative

The woodwork, book-making, weaving, and clay-modelling of the handicraft classes were on exhibit yesterday in Miss Kate Lewis' classroom. Throughout this term this room has been a workshop where numerous old boxes and other discarded materials, by simple tools and paint combined with ideas, have been transformed into useful and attractive objects. Among these were foot-stools, book-ends, small tables, door-stops, ash-trays, smoking stands, bird-sticks, trussels for flower pots, magazine stands, puzzles and games. Knitting bags and small purses are among the articles made in the weaving unit.

There has been a continuous display throughout the term of these art work of students in other courses both in this classroom and the one next to it. In Miss Dorothy Schneider's room, the designs for posters and samples for lettering have been attracting attention recently.

Clio Book Club
The Clio Book Club was delightfully entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. F. B. Haar, with her mother, Mrs. R. H. Hubbard, of Wilmington, as a guest.

After discussion and completion of several important matters, the new books were distributed, and the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Jack Spain and Mrs. R. B. Starling Jr., whose topics were "Modern American Poets."

Mrs. Spain discussed the life and poems of that "cynical realist"—Carl Sandburg. She brought out the facts of his limited formal education, his struggle to work his way to the top, which undoubtedly gave him the background to portray in his free verse the very "pulse of the American people."

In conclusion, she read several of his poems, including "Chicago," "The Fish Crier" and "Child of the Romans."

Mrs. Starling reviewed the life of the Negro poet, James Langston Hughes. At twenty three—Hughes, after a rapid succession of different occupations, was a bus boy writing poetry for his own amusement. At thirty-five he has two volumes of poetry to his credit but remains still a rover. His poems very distinctly show the rhythm of Negro blues, and concern mostly Harlem and his travels. Mrs. Starling read "Feet of Jesus," "Fire," "Weary Blues" and "Bain Old."

Mrs. Haar, assisted by Mrs. Hubbard, served a tempting salad course.—Reported.

Holy Week at St. Peter's
The days before Easter are full of the greatest significance for humanity. On Thursday, is the anniversary of the Last Supper. It was then that Christ instituted His sacramental presence whereby He would remain among men for all times. On Friday He made the supreme sacrifice for the sins of men and obtained their redemption, through His death on the cross on Calvary. Saturday is the preparation of the greatest feast of the year, Easter Sunday. The memory of these mysteries of God, and the blessings they bring to the human race, have been preserved and are made vital through the liturgy of religion. All during the ages the Catholic Church has brought these sacred days into the lives of her children. The schedule to be observed at the local Catholic Church for Thursday, the Mass will be offered at 7 a. m. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament will be maintained during the day. Devotions and sermon by Father Noonan at 7:30 p. m. God Friday the adoration of the Cross and the Mass of the Presanctified at 7 a. m. Station of the Cross at 2:30 p. m. Services of Watching at the Tomb at 7:30 p. m.

The Mass in preparation for Easter at 8 a. m. Saturday morning. The first Mass on Easter Sunday will be a High Mass at 8:30. The second Mass at 10:30. Visitors are always welcome at any service.

The Message of The Cross
One of the most beautiful of the Lenten cantatas, "The Message of The Cross" will be presented by the Church on tomorrow, Thursday, Church on tomorrow, Thursday, evening at 7:30 o'clock. "The Message of The Cross" is a liturgical cantata with text arrangement by Louis Greene and musical scores by J. Shelton Scott. The arrangement for solo and chorus of mixed voices affords excellent opportunities for effective musical settings for the various settings of the composition interspersed throughout with responsive readings for congregational participation, which make possible the development of the thought theme, "The Message of The Cross" differs from the simple cantata. Instead of being listeners only, in the liturgical cantata the congregation is an active part in the presentation. The alternation of reading and music affords a variety which both maintains interest and increases the solemnity and dramatic effect. As a matter of fact, the music is largely antiphonal and supplementary, serving to illustrate and emphasize the scenes described in the readings.

The liturgical cantata is divided into three parts and five sections: The Message of the Message of Suffering (Gethsemane). The

LIQUOR ISSUE HUGE PROBLEM

Assembly To Be Re-membered for Ac-tion on Whiskey

Raleigh, Mar. 24. (AP)—The General Assembly of 1937, ranked by veteran political observers as one of the outstanding in North Carolina's history, may be remembered more for its action on the liquor problem than for its record appropriations.

Based on the findings of a liquor study commission appointed by Governor Bingham, a county option bill was enacted by the lawmakers.

End of the state's 28-year-old "bone-dry" law was forecast in the hectic closing hours of the 1935 session when 17 counties rushed through local option measures, but it was left for the 1937 legislators to endorse the control plan on a state-wide basis.

Drys paradoxically fought this year for the thing they successfully battled against two years ago—a state-wide referendum. Backs to the wall, they came within three votes of a majority in the referendum plan in the house. The Senate later disapproved the proposal for submission of the proposition to all the registered voters in the state by a margin of ten.

The law provides for the sale and control of alcoholic beverages in North Carolina and permits, without new registration elections in the several counties.

Counties voting wet will be allowed to establish alcoholic beverage control boards which will operate under supervision of the state ABC board. Profits, except for a seven per cent gross tax to be received by the state, will be kept by the counties. The municipalities in some will share.

The chairman of the state board to be named by Governor Hoey will receive an annual salary of $6,000. The board otherwise will be composed of two Governor-appointed members who will receive compensation only on a per diem basis.

Measures stipulating divisions of profit from county stores between counties and municipalities in the event of liquor legalization were introduced by the score during the closing days of the session and most units will be prepared in that respect should the voters approve the control plan.

Sale of beer, wine and other intoxicants was prohibited in two entire counties—Yadon and Mitchell—and in numerous localities by legislation during the session. The local laws do not prohibit, however, the holding of an election on county control should a sufficient percentage of the qualified voters petition for it.

Among the communities declared "dry" by the special laws were Black Mountain, Swannanoa, Little Switzerland, and Lake Junaluska. Many bills were introduced and passed prohibiting sale of alcoholics near specified churches, schools and institutions.

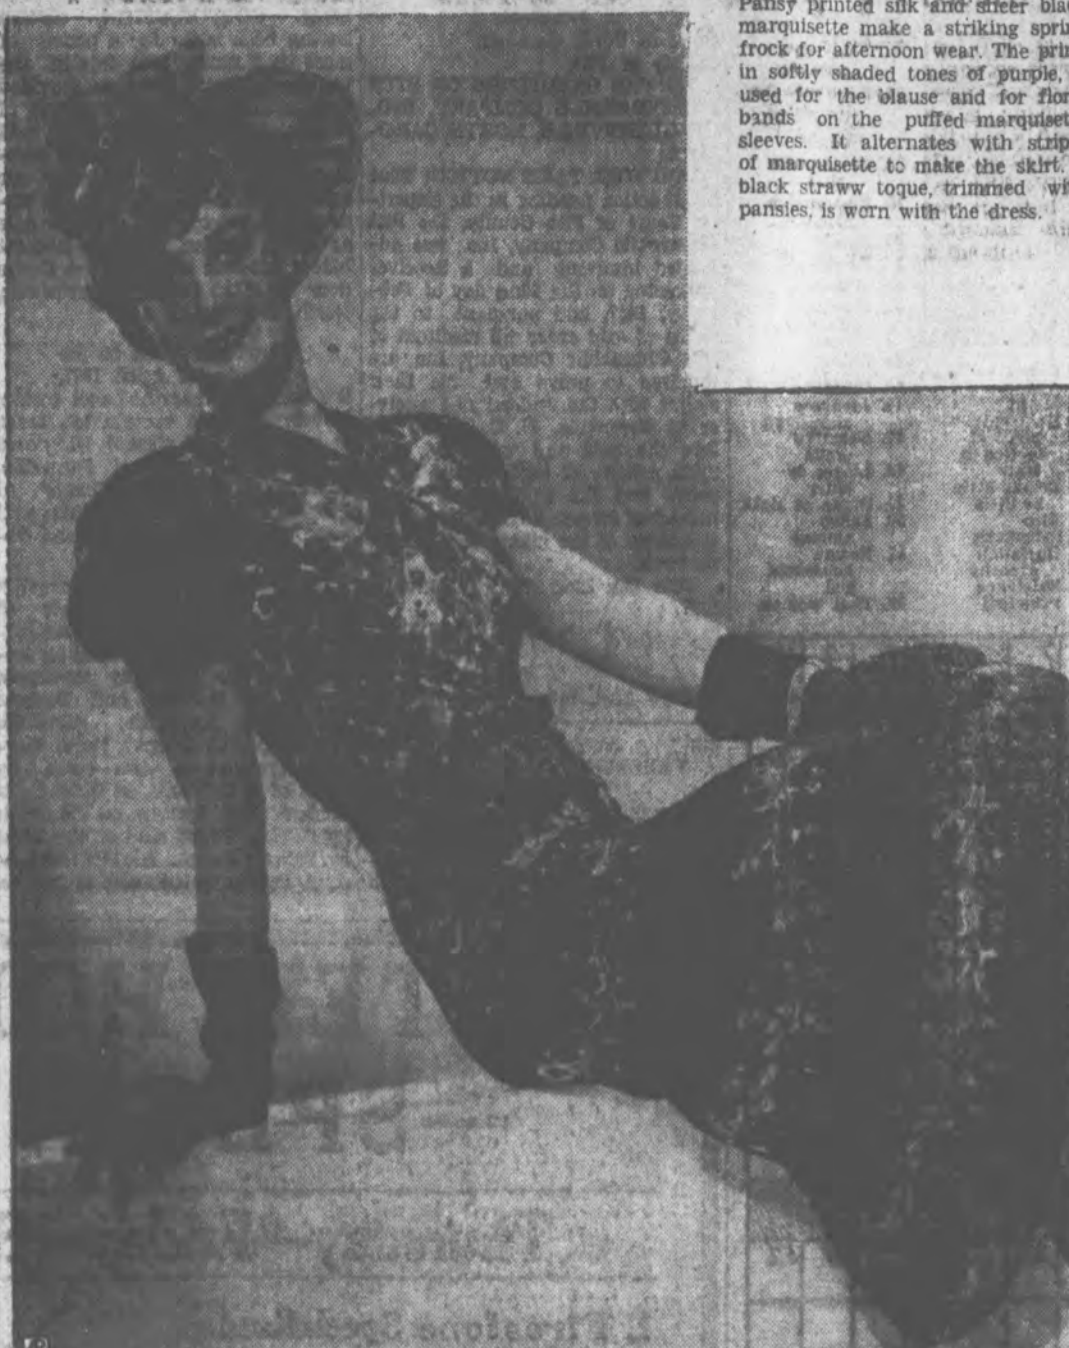

Leaders in the fight for controlled sale of alcoholic beverages were representative Victor Bryant of Durham, chairman of the Ewing-Hughes liquor study commission, and Senator W. B. Rodman of Beaufort, whose county was among the 17 in which the county option plan was approved in 1935. Senator L. A. Martin of Davidson led the dry forces in the upper branch in an unsuccessful struggle to require a state-wide referendum, with Representative B. C. Jones of Swain at the helm of referendum supporters in the House.

Also enacted by the Legislature were measures to encourage the making of wine from North Carolina grapes and other state-grown products, and to clarify and define the laws governing manufacture of beverages containing alcoholic content of from five to 24 per cent.

Fortified wines are distinguished from unfortified products in one of the measures and bottles of vinous beverages are placed in the same category of bottles of beer for taxing purposes.

Sale, distribution and transportation of wine will be under supervision

Printed Silks Used In Spring Frocks

Pansy printed silk and sheer black marquisette make a striking spring frock for afternoon wear. The print, in softly shaded tones of purple, is used for the blouse and for floral bands on the puffed marquisette sleeves. It alternates with stripes of marquisette to make the skirt. that the bill would be of particular benefit to employees of the smaller textile mills, many of whom are working 11 and 12 hour shifts at present. The larger textile mills are operating on shorter work schedules than are provided in the bill, he said.

"But there are many small mills down near my home in Fayetteville which are working their people long hours at small pay," he said.

He pointed out that the provision limiting employment of women to 48 hours weekly meant that textile mills working men and women side by side would be in effect forced to cut the working hours of their male employees to 48 weekly, rather than to the 55 allowed in the bill.

He adverted to reports of the McLean Mill strike at Lumberton and said the Maximum Hour bill would prevent troubles of that sort, where reports are that the employees are working 11 and 12 hours daily, at pay rates of from 10 to 25 cents per hour and with an average pay rate of 20 cents.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By HEMPHREY BOGART (Pinch-hitting for Robin Coons) Hollywood—This is the first time I have ever understudied a newspaper columnist.

Once, several years ago when I was stage manager for William A. Brady, he called on me to pinch-hit for the juvenile. The audience demanded his money back and got it. I offer Robin Coons' readers the same out. Walk, do not run. To your nearest newsboy and shake him: give back your nickel if you are not satisfied.

Caught in Dilemma. The sermon for today, folks, is on the subject of politeness or the lack of it in Hollywood. It is a subject that lacks the immediate box-office appeal of some others that might be dished from the front pages of the newspapers, or even from the sports pages. But it is a subject, none the less, which we have always with us. And now for the sermon:

I've come to the conclusion that you can't be polite, in Hollywood, to the boys and girls above you for fear that they will think you are currying favor.

And you can't be polite to those who aren't as lucky as you are for fear they will call you condescending.

This theory, which can be called the Bogart theory of relativity but probably won't, was arrived at on the set of "Kid Galahad." I had taken a cigaret out of my pocket and was looking for a match when an extra player produced one. It lit and held the flame for me. Then he blushed.

"Sorry," he said, before I could thank him.

I didn't have to ask him why he was sorry. I knew. He was afraid I might think he was asking for something—that I might accuse him mentally of toadying.

No Bootlicker. I feel the same way. If I saw the car, I wouldn't open the door for boss and his wife getting into their limo. That would be the polite thing to do but I'd be afraid they would think I was licking boots.

If I met the boss in a narrow hallway—a hallway so narrow that to men couldn't pass—I would hesitate to step back.

If an extra player need a light, I would hesitate to give it to him unless he asked for it. He might think there was condescension behind the act.

And that ends today's lesson. And there you have the Bogart theory. And you can take it or leave it. It's mine and I love it.

tion of the state ABC board, but its sale will not be registered to liquor stores, hotels, restaurants and cafes will be allowed to sell products if not more than 24 per cent alcoholic content under a "on premises" license and other establishments may distribute on the "off premises" plan.

Control boards in counties voting wet will be three-member commissions elected jointly by the county boards of commissioners, education and health.

Although elections have already been called in some counties, most of the units are reported to be biding their time.

One representative, who asked that his name be withheld, explained the situation in this manner: "The control plan wouldn't have a chance in my county, until at least one adjacent county voted wet and gave my people the opportunity to see how much money it was taking from us."

Another declared, "I'm for control but in my county there are 4,500 people directly in illegal liquor traffic and with the voters they can command I'm afraid a liquor election would never carry."

GOVERNOR HOEY SATISFIED WITH LEGISLATIVE SESSION (Continued from page one) and school children. Other measures which he regards as of unusual importance to the people of the state are those setting up a state-wide probation system for those convicted of first offenses, setting up a state bureau of identification and investigation, the measure reorganizing the state highway and public works commission, the law providing for additional aid to adult education, for more vocational education and others.

"I am firmly convinced that the enactment of the social security program, as a result of which more than $8,000,000 a year will be provided for old age pensions, aid to dependent children, aid for the blind and unemployment insurance, is the most outstanding accomplishment of this general assembly," Governor Hoey said. "It also shows that the general assembly now fully recognizes the responsibility of the state to provide more adequately for the more underprivileged and dependent people in its population. Great good is going to come from this legislation designed to make the last days of the older dependent people happier and more comfortable.

"The law providing for free textbooks in the elementary grades, and which later on will be expanded into the high school grades, is also going to be of great benefit to the parents and to the school children. It will save the parents at least two million dollars a year they have heretofore had to spend for the purchase of textbooks and will assure the children of more efficient instruction by supplying each with the books needed when they are needed. It should greatly reduce the number of failures and repeaters in the public schools."

Governor Hoey also expressed the belief that the law reorganizing and enlarging the state highway commission along district lines, will bring it closer to the people and result in greater satisfaction. He also believes that the manner in which the assembly safeguarded the provision for the diversion of highway funds, that very little if any highway money will have to be diverted.

the bill is that which made the entire measure inoperative as to businesses in which there are eight or less employees.

"This is discrimination of a very bad sort," said Representative McBryde in commenting on the amendment. "I want it made clear that it was not advocated nor supported by those who originally introduced the bill. We fought the amendment."

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield goes back to her 200-year-old house and orchard in Connecticut after nine years in New York. She plans to rent, marry, buy, city-plan, and return to the Manhattan apartment life. Ellen Wilson, Eve's close friend who is out to the weekend, joins her in a walk into the orchard. They meet George Cleveland, Eve's calm, practical neighbor who wants her to stay. He has restored the old Seymour house and takes them over to see it. They find his mother wrestling with an intruder over an oil painting.

Chapter 24
The Crumbling Seymours

Now that her attacker was safely in George's grip—he did not seem a strong man—Mrs. Cleveland went on talking with less terror.

"It's a valuable buy, it's signed, I told you, George, we ought to have police protection—"

"It's mine," said the limp prisoner faintly. "Eve you tell me it's mine."

Eve looked at him more closely, and in spite of the five years that had changed him from a dirty ragged boy to a dirty ragged man, she recognized him.

"It's Lancelot Seymour, Mrs. Cleveland—"

"That's what I was telling you. It's an authentic portrait of old Lancelot Seymour!"

George's face changed to an expression of pity, and he released the shaking youth.

"You don't understand mother. This boy is the descendant and namesake of the man in the picture. I suppose, seeing it, he followed up here to find out about it."

"It's mine," the living Lancelot Seymour said stubbornly, glaring at them. "Let me loose, I won't grab it."

Mrs. Cleveland sat holding the portrait face out, against her knees.

"Oh, poor Lance," Eve said under her breath, looking from the picture to the boy in the dirty brown sweater and torn, shapeless trousers.

The gentleman in the portrait had a doctor's gown slung back from his erect, slim-cad shoulders; under the turbaned bowing wig gleamed keen, deep-set eyes that had the same shape and setting as his descendant's. A scroll was on his lace ruffled knees, behind him was a pattern of stiff shrubs. The thin, long, arrogant face was wise and capable.

"Granddad gambled it away one night when he was drunk," Lance said, reaching a dirty hand to it. "We never knew where it got to. It's mine. You ain't no right to it—"

"Oh, Lance," Eve said placidly, going up to the boy and putting her hand on his arm, "it ain't yours now. It's been sold a half-dozen times since then. And if you had it you haven't anywhere to put it." She remembered the tumble-down shack the Seymours lived in now. Uncle Henry had told her where it was. She knew, too, that the drunken, half-witted father of the ragged crew would only sell it and throw away the money as he must have thrown away the money he had received from the Cleavelands.

Lance's vacant, lantern-jawed face darkened. "It's his namesake, I'm the eldest son. Nobody hasn't no right to it except me."

George put an end to the scene by speaking with a sharp authority the poor boy seemed to recognize.

"Come, Seymour, your ancestor wouldn't have frightened a lady this way. You mustn't either. Go on now. The picture won't run away, it's going to be hung where it always belonged. I'll come down and talk things over with you about it."

He shepherded the boy out. Eve, standing at the window, saw the stooped, shuffling figure going miserably away, and turned to George impulsively with, "Can't you do anything?"

He was as moved as she.

"I'll try, I promise you, Eve," he said.

"These dreadful natives," Mrs. Cleveland said.

Eve was on the verge of answering sharply. "We are dreadful, I admit, when she saw George's distressed face, and said instead, "I'm afraid it's time we went back, Ellen."

They Married Fools

MRS. CLEVELAND and Miti had collected themselves by now, began to be cordial and hospitable and asked the girls to say for luncheon. But Eve, without even a look at the restored spacious loveliness of the house, gathered her guest to depart. Mrs. Cleveland managed to get in a word about the lacquer cabinet as they went, but Eve was in no mood to sell anybody lacquer cabinets.

George went with them. He followed them again through the orchard path.

"How on earth did the Seymours manage to run to seed so completely?" he asked of Eve's shoulders. She was interested enough to turn and say, "Uncle Henry knows, if anybody does."

Uncle Henry was plowing up the vegetable bed. Interrogated, he stopped and leaned on the plow George had lent him.

He said, "Well some might say 'twas the hand of God. My grandfather said it was being too high-headed. The Seymour men lived too hard, for one thing, drink and cards as well as book learning. And they had a queer streak that couldn't bear to marry anything but fools they could look down on, or cousins, as being the only kind good enough for Seymours. And when you marry fools for eight generations, and half of them your own kin, my grandfater said, you breed fools. Guess he was right."

"But, oh, can't anything be done for poor Lance?" Eve said.

"The price I paid for the place, tumble-down as it was, ought to have bought them a decent waterfront farm," George said with a worried frown. "I wonder if it would help to pay the boy something for the picture?"

"Not with a drunken numskull like Looche Seymour for a father. I remember when he got your money. It was scattered in six weeks and nobody the better but the barkeepers. Son, you can't improve the world, no more than Eve can. Gettin the Seymours into institutions is about all anybody can do, and they wouldn't be happy there."

And from there the talk branched to the village history Uncle Henry had had up in the "bar chamber," which he promised to show George that evening.

Ellen finally drove into town that afternoon with Miti—and, Eve learned later, Mrs. Cleveland. For George came over that night after supper, accompanied by his father.

The important father, the chairman of Northern Street, on whose say-so hung the new publicity department that Denny might get if Miti cooked; that, like the House that Jack built, meant that Eve and Denny could get married.

A Game Of Chess

THE two men slipped into the old parlor as quietly as if they were country neighbors, after the introductions.

"Mother's nerves slipped under her after the fracas," George explained, "so she bolted with Mrs. Power for New York. Dad and I sort of rattled around alone over there. I said I thought you wouldn't mind it he came along. He wants to scratch up a game of chess if possible."

"George says you play chess, Featherstone," Mr. Cleveland said, sitting down across from the Featherstones, who were together on the love seat before the fire. There wasn't anything to be afraid of about him, because he was simply, as Eve had noticed the first time she met him, George grown 30 years older; the same keen blue eyes, the same slow effortless way, the same genuine simplicity. But the last man on earth you would expect to be lured by Miti!

Eve watched him as Peter, who played a good game of chess, hailed joyously this chance and the two settled down to it. A fatherly type; what George would be if he married the wrong girl; curiously patient about his wife in the manner of kindly American men, having shifted his emotions to his business.

She continued to watch him, with increasing liking, through the evening while George dug up village histories and stories of township transplantations from Uncle Henry in his history of the Civil war. It was a friendly, homely sort of evening there in the long lamp-lighted parlors, with the hearth fire and the center table, the absorbed chess players, and child sprawled over his book.

There was already a delightful feel to the long old rooms of friendliness and home. Peter had hung the curtains for Eve, while she was out that morning, as a delightful surprise, and spurred by the hope of possessing the north end of the attic when it was empty, worked like a beaver at getting it cleaned up. Eve recognized with pleasure the two graceful bicycles, Sheraton window seats in their faded silks, rep, inlaid, curved; he must, she saw, have got Uncle Henry's help with the eight-legged old carved sofa. Though the furnace was on, a fire snapped pleasantly, and Peter's artistic soul had seen to it again that tall candles stood, not only on the mantel, but in both candelabra of the gilt girandole.

Marilyn was warm enough to have draped her long thinness in a shaded chiffon hostess frock, and bound her straight Dutch-cut hair with a gilt band. Peter was white-shirted and white-trousered, early as it was. They looked like a country-house party on the stage. Eve decided, a little amused over her own and George's unchanged rough woollens. George was in his tweeds, knickerbockers and coat, and woolen pullover; and she hadn't changed her blue sweater and skirt, or done anything, indeed, except brush down her bright rings of hair and set them hastily with her fingers, use powder and lipstick quickly after a hasty wash.

It was a comfortable sort of evening; homely and easy and laughing. At its end Eve felt as if she had known the other three forever. She felt at peace. All it needed was Denny's laughing presence to make it perfect. She wanted him suddenly and acutely; and it came to her that all this Miti business was silly. Why shouldn't she herself, speak of Denny to this kindly slow-voiced man, sitting over by the fire, so boyishly intent on his chessmen? Not tonight, perhaps, but next time he came.

(Copyright, 1937, Margaret Widdeemer)

Denny phones Eve excitedly, tomorrow—he's to get a better job.

the judges will follow this precedent for increasing sentences for such offenders we believe it will have its effect in keeping so many cases from coming up to the higher court from the county court.

Priests for farm products in Missouri in January touched a new 5-year-top for that month, according to a Bureau of Agriculture Economics report.

Several months ago Judge Paul Frizzelle doubled the road sentence of a man who had been found guilty on a whiskey selling charge in the lower court and appealed the case to the superior court. Last week a similar case appealed from the lower court came up before Judge E. H. Cranmer in superior court here and he likewise doubled the sentence when the defendant was found guilty by the higher court. This business of getting greater sentences by appealing to the higher court is going to have a tendency to stop such appeals. Of course every person is entitled to a fair and impartial trial and should get it when he comes into court, but there are too many obviously guilty persons appealing their cases to the higher court hoping to delay final judgment until the case wears itself out and they escape punishment. ONLY ONE WPA BILL ENACTED

Single Measure After Being 'Pickled and Mortified'

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Mar. 24—So "pickled and mortified" as one of its original supporters expressed it, as to turn friends into foes and foes into friends, one so-called Ickes bill (the Revenue Bond bill) has been allowed to become a law.

In words of one syllable the bill will let municipalities issue revenue bonds for revenue-producing undertakings provided they do not compete with private enterprise.

Its original sponsors now assert that the bill is entirely unsatisfactory to federal WPA officials, that no funds can be expected from the federal government as grants in aid, and that it has been so re-written at the behest of "special interests" that it is not only worthless, but is positively dangerous as a possible restriction on now-existing powers of municipalities to engage in revenue-producing enterprises.

It was passed in the Senate by the votes of those who originally opposed it and over the vigorous efforts of its original advocates. A roll call resulted in a 22-22 tie and Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton voted for the measure to break the deadlock.

The original bill provided that counties, cities and town might issue revenue bonds for revenue-producing undertakings upon a majority vote of members of their governing bodies present; that these governmental units might engage in these undertakings "within and without" their territorial limits; and that there should be no liability on the unit except upon the bonds themselves.

The municipalities would be authorized under the original bill to engage in the power business, erecting dams, etc. any distance from their limits. This drew the undying opposition of the power interests.

Every amendment, written into the bill is directly to the advantage of the power interests.

The first amendment confines municipalities to operation of revenue undertakings within their limits and within territory "contiguous thereto," a vague and almost meaningless definition which is a wide open invitation to special interests to carry into any effort by a municipality to build a power line, or an airport, or a waterworks or any other project outside its limits, opponents of the amended bill believe.

The second amendment throws further obstacles in the path of any municipality so inconsiderate of the great power interests as to attempt to give its citizens cheaper power through municipal plants. It provides that before any municipality shall be permitted to engage in any enterprise competing with a private business, it must secure a certificate of convenience and necessity from the utility commission.

A third amendment requires that bonds issued under provisions of the act must have the approval of the Local Government Commission in Raleigh.

A fourth amendment limits any liability of the city to the enterprise being conducted by it. In other words should any municipality engage in an unprofitable undertaking would be against the property actually used in that enterprise. The bondholders would have no right to proceed against or recover from any other assets of the municipality.

An amendment which would have made it almost impossible to tell whether or not the bonds were legally issued, was adopted by the Senate, but finally stricken out when the House declined to confer and a conference committee was appointed.

BIOLOGIST FINDS BUG-EATING PLANT

Kingsville, Tex. (AP)—Dr. J. C. Cross, head of the biology department at the Texas College of Arts and Industries, has found a bug-eating plant.

He identifies the plant as the drosera, or sundew. It is very small, seldom having a leaf spread of more than two inches, and grows to a height of two or three inches. The leaves are covered with viscid feelers or stickers that hold

Experts Breed Wheat That May Lick Winter

By PAUL D. S. SHOEMAKER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

PURDUE, Ind. (AP)—Seeking to develop an exceptionally hardy breed of soft winter wheat, agronomists at Purdue university believe that after "creating" 14,000 different strains their goal is "within grasp."

Dr. G. H. Cutler, assistant chief of agronomy, settled back in his office chair and described the painstaking efforts to breed a strain which will withstand the sudden winter temperature changes of Indiana and similar areas. The wheat is desired by millers specializing in pastry and cake flour.

Dr. Cutler withheld announcement of when seed of the new strain would be available for farm planting, but experiments, he said, have progressed to where success is assured.

Winter a Killer
Need for a soft winter wheat which would withstand winter weather became evident when a 15-year average indicated that one acre in every 11 planted was lost through winter killing. Often this represented the difference between a profit and loss to the grower.

Cross breeding was started under the direction of Dr. Cutler in 1930. It was a laborious undertaking, involving not only careful culture, but an elaborate catalogue record of each strain, 10,000 of which already have been discarded.

Dr. Cutler realized he had a job before him. To wait for seasonal weather changes for the experiments after crossing would take too long. He had a university green house at his disposal, where spring, summer and winter weather could be simulated. He needed to produce near zero and sub-zero temperatures to which small wheat plants could be subjected.

Uses Refrigerator
For this purpose, a "winter weather" refrigerator was constructed inside the green house. With this he and Dr. W. W. Worzella were able to carry on their experiments irrespective of the weather outside.

Rows of young wheat plants in shallow wooden trays, each row a different strain, went into the "winter weather." Those able to withstand the "freeze" of perhaps three below zero won tags entitling them to grow to maturity and produce seed for possible future crossing. Less hardy plants went into the discard.

Field Tests
One strain might show exceptional resistance to cold but poor yield. Another might have a fine yield but a tendency to fall over in wind after heading. A cross of these two would be made, and so on. Next come field tests under natural growing conditions.

The wheat plant is self-pollinating, and crossing of strains is a comparatively simple operation. A short time before the pistils are ready to shed pollen they are removed from the flowers on a plant to be crossed. The flowers are then covered with a small paper sack. When the pollen from the other side of the cross is ready, it is removed and placed in the flowers from which the pistils were taken.

WILL HOGS EAT HAY? YES, AND SOFT COAL, TOO

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—Do hogs eat hay? Professor L. A. Weaver of the Missouri College of Agriculture says he would like to settle the question once and for all that they do.

The animal husbandry professor explains, the hogs may eat starchy at times, however, and demand that nice leafy legume hay be clipped up for them before they eat it. "Legume hay is an essential part of feeding hogs, especially if they are fastened up in a dry pen," Professor Weaver says. "And while on the subject," he adds, "raisers should throw in hog rations a quantity of bone meal and salt. It supplies phosphorus and calcium. "When hogs don't get these valuable substances they sometimes eat soft coal. There's no excuse for hogs to eat good bituminous coal."

Corn belt farmers prefer a lighter, more compact work horse with lots of "get up and go," says Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America.

GASOLINE BILL MOTORIST AID

Auto Owners to Save Millions Through Inspection Law

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 24.—Better inspection of gasoline and closer restrictions on its bootlegging are expected to save North Carolina motorists millions of dollars now that the General Assembly has finally enacted into the law of the state the Gasoline Inspection measure sponsored by members of the Gasoline commission which made a thorough study of the entire question.

About the only feature of the bill to be stricken out was the provision for establishment of Ports of Entry on all highways entering North Carolina in order that tests of all gasoline coming into the state might be made.

Passage of the bill was a distinct victory over the tremendously powerful "Oil" lobby, which worked day in and day out to secure its defeat. At one stage of the legislative proceedings the measure was actually beaten on a House vote, but that was when the unpopular Ports of Entry provision was still in it, and a motion to reconsider prevailed. Thereafter the Port part was stricken out and the bill passed.

The bill sets a Gasoline Inspection division within the Department of Revenue, a feature which caused strong opposition from the Weights and Measures division of the Department of Agriculture. Kerr Scott, the Agriculture head, "laid off" the bill, but C. D. Batocum, of the W. and M. division, lobbied incessantly against it.

The measure tightens up present regulations regarding inspection of gasoline, provisions which have been out of date for years, supporters of the bill declare. Among other features it makes the gasoline filling station operation liable along with the wholesaler and distributor if the gasoline does not measure up to state specifications.

SCHOOLS GIVEN LARGER FUNDS

Many Changes in Set-Up Made by 1937 Legislature

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—North Carolina's public school program will be financed by approximately $60,000,000 during the 1937-38 biennium as a result of legislation enacted by the general assembly.

Taking cognizance of Governor Hoey's insinuation recommendations, the law-makers provided $1,500,000 for purchase of free textbooks for elementary school children. Purchase of the texts, however, is not mandatory but left to the discretion of state officials.

Students in high schools will continue renting their text books.

Superintendents, principals and classroom teachers will receive a flat increase of ten per cent over 1935-37 figures and the state school commission, under the Hoey-approved reorganization program, will be composed of representatives from each congressional district.

The administration set-up will not be materially changed, the law makers having refused a move to make the state superintendent of public instruction chairman of the school commission. The superintendent will, however, be an active member of the board as well as ex-officio chairman, and will be on the new executive committee.

The lieutenant-governor will remain chairman of the body and most authority will continue to be vested in the secretary, Governor Hoey will make the appointments from the 11 congressional districts to complete the set-up.

The executive committee of the commission will be composed of the lieutenant-governor, the state treasurer, the superintendent of public instruction and two board members to be selected.

Action by the house defeated the movement to make the state superintendent chairman of the commission and thus place directly under his supervision the annual expenditures of about $25,000,000. Offered as an amendment to the original bill by Representative J. S. Moore of Pitt and given a favorable report by the house education committee, the proposal was summarily rejected by the lower branch.

Also written into the school machinery act is a provision that routing of school buses shall be completed by the state commission not less than 30 days before the opening of a school, dissatisfied boards of education would have the right of appeal.

Election for supplementary funds to increase the school term from eight months to nine would be restricted to administrative charter districts or counties and teachers would have to apply for re-election, rather than be re-elected automatically unless otherwise notified, under the measure.

The House appropriations committee rejected a request from the class room teachers association to restore salaries to the peak 1929 level in the event a sufficient surplus was in the general fund at the close of the fiscal year.

Both legislative branches voted early in the session for an emergency $600,000 measure to replace worn school buses, and a plan to promote safety for children transported by school buses was adopted. Under it the maximum speed for a bus would be 35 miles an hour and safety glass would be required.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

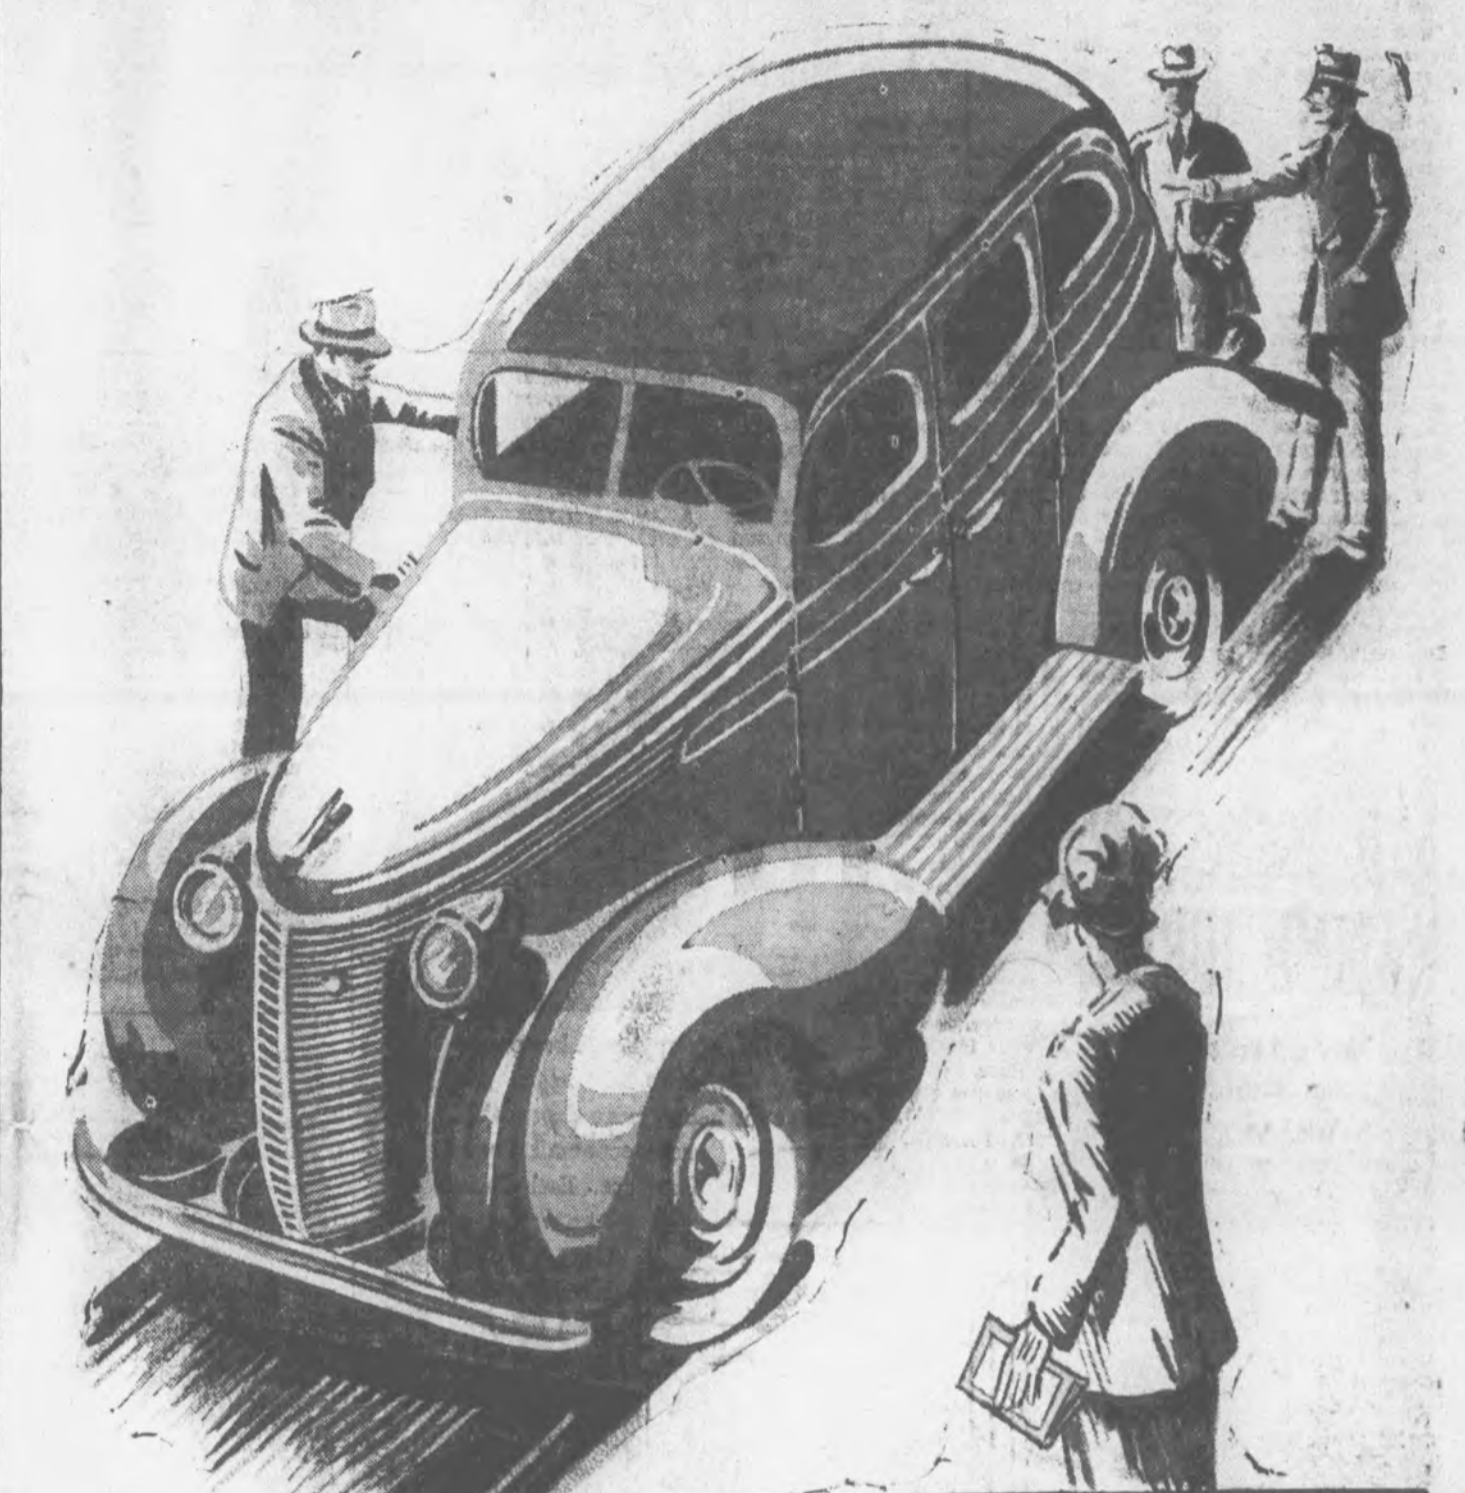

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical: only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

'BALDHEADED' SOIL MAKES FARMERS BALDHEADED
Brookings, S. D. (AP)—South Dakota farmers have something else to worry about now—bald-headed soil.

That was the way Prof. J. G. Hutton, in charge of soil investigations at the state college, described the thinness of topsoil on slopes of many areas in eastern South Dakota.

In many places, he said, hilltops are growing "bald" rapidly as the topsoil is carried away by the rapid runoff of rainwater. He recommended contour farming to combat the "baldness."

The 926 motor deaths on Missouri streets and highways in 1936 set a record exceeded only in two previous years of the state's history.

GIRLS IN WIN TO END SEASON

Greenville Defeats Grimesland in Double Header

The high school girls closed their basket ball season Tuesday night with a double-header with Grimesland. The Greenville girls came out victorious in both games.

The first game, between Grimesland's first team and the Greenville Juniors started off very close. The score at the half was 11-10. In the second half, however, the Greenville Juniors came back with a long run ahead, winning the game by a score of 22 to 14. Leading the Junior team, Marjorie Sugg scored high with 12 points, followed by Frances Clark with 6 points. Myra Blount and Rose Collie also scored for the Juniors. Nancy Roberts, Lula Mae Whitehurst and Virginia Cox, local guards, succeeded very well in keeping the ball at the other end of the court. Louise Elks scored high for Grimesland with 10 points, followed by Adams with 4 points. The defeated guards played a fast defensive game.

The second game was played between the Greenville Freshmen and part of Grimesland's first and second teams. The Freshmen kept the lead during the entire game, coming out victorious by the score of 36 to 10. Betty Tyson led her team to victory with 18 points. Jane Scoville ranked second with 12 points. Joy Flanagan and Peggy West scored 4 and 2 points respectively. No faster playing has been seen on the local court this year than was done by the Freshmen guards, Jane Harrison, Elizabeth Wells and Doris Roberts. Louise Elks led Grimesland's team with 7 points. The Grimesland guards, although defeated, played a nice game.

A. H. JOHNSTON NAMED JURIST

Appointed to Superior Court Bench By Governor Hoey

Raleigh, March 24.—(Reflector Bureau)—Senator A. Hall Johnston, of Asheville has been appointed a Superior Court Judge by Governor Clyde R. Hoey to succeed Judge P. A. McElroy, who has resigned effective as of Saturday. The appointment of Senator Johnston was announced Tuesday afternoon immediately after the general assembly adjourned. But several hours before adjournment and before the appointment was officially announced by the Governor, the report was going the rounds in both the house and senate that Senator Johnston either had been or would be appointed and he was being congratulated by his many friends.

Judge Johnston will thus become the resident Superior Court Judge in the Nineteenth Judicial District, his home district. He was a member of the 1935 senate and in the session just closed was elected President Pro Tempore of the senate, ranking next to the Lieutenant Governor. He was regarded as being very close to Governor Hoey and in many cases acted as his spokesman. In the 1935 session Senator Johnston was also regarded as being a strong administration supporter.

The resignation of Judge McElroy and the appointment of Senator Johnston to succeed him is giving rise to speculation as to whether there may not be another resignation by a Superior Court Judge in the near future and another vacancy to fill, in addition to the new judge the Governor must appoint for the newly created Twenty-first district, created by this general assembly effective July 1st.

A good many believe that the resignation of Judge Walter L. Small of the First Judicial District, Ellizabeth City, who has been ill for a number of weeks, may materialize at any time. In the event Judge Small should resign, indications are that Solicitor Herbert L. Leary of that same district will have strong backing for the appointment, also that Representative Sam M. Blount of Washington, in Beaufort county, will be urged for the appointment by his friends and those who are favoring the appointment of younger judges to the Superior Court bench.

HUNTS TURKEYS IN HER OWN BACK YARD

Ava, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Fred Spurlock did her turkey hunting in her own back yard.

Noticing that two wild gobblers had been coming regularly to the tame turkeys in her poultry yard, she borrowed a shotgun and lay in wait.

The first day she fired and missed. The next day she threw a rock—and missed. The third day she missed again with the shotgun.

The fourth day she pulled both triggers and bagged an 18-pound gobbler.

BEAN BEETLES OFFER THREAT

Causing Much Alarm Throughout State's Peach Belt

Raleigh, Mar. 24.—Japanese Beetles are now recognized as a "serious threat" to North Carolina's $2-700,000 peach crop, C. H. Brannon, State Department of Agriculture entomologist, announced today. Returning from Richmond, Va., where he conferred with United States Department of Agriculture officials and Virginia experts, the State Entomologist announced that "the yield of the beetle traps this summer will determine whether North Carolina will be placed under federal quarantine."

Mr. Brannon, pointing out that North Carolina is now maintaining its own quarantine, said that efforts will be re-doubled next month to determine the extent of Japanese Beetle infestation.

Plans are to scatter 10,000 beetle traps over the state beginning next month. Only 7,000 traps were employed last year.

"The Japanese Beetle is a deadly enemy of the peach," Mr. Brannon said. "And unless control methods are adopted, the damage this beetle can do will run into thousands of dollars."

He pointed out that sprays to combat the beetle are "very expensive," but that "once the insect has gained a foothold, it is imperative that sprays be used on the trees and methods to kill the larvae in the ground be adopted."

The Japanese Beetle is also recognized as a serious threat to shade trees and "some 200 other plants in North Carolina."

Quarantines are now in force in the vicinities of Salisbury, Greensboro, and Winston-Salem.

Mr. Brannon said that if ten beetles are found in the traps, scattered over a wide area, North Carolina will undoubtedly be placed under federal quarantine. When a quarantine is declared, all plants and plant products to be shipped to a non-quarantine area must be inspected by State or Federal authorities.

MANY SAFETY BILLS KILLED

Highway Measures Had Hard Time In 1937 Legislature

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—Highway safety measures, except those dealing with the highway patrol, found tough going in the 1937 legislature.

Provision to increase the highway patrol, with the number of men to be added being left open, was made.

In much-amended form the legislature in its closing days enacted a law to require examination of school bus drivers and safety measures but it repeatedly turned down proposals for adult drivers.

The biennial measures to relieve automobile owners of liability for damages suffered by non-paying guests in accidents were killed, as they have been in recent session. Also defeated was a bill to bar dependent relatives from suing for damages.

Bills which died included measures to: require all automobile owners to carry liability insurance; set up a state fund for automobile accident insurance; prohibit sale of gasoline to intoxicated motorists; limit the speed of highways to 45 miles an hour; provide the whipping post for persons convicted a second time of drunken driving; limit the hours of drivers of commercial vehicles; require semi-annual inspection of all motor vehicles; and prohibit one vehicle from passing another going in the same direction in a school zone.

Some counties got through bills prohibiting gasoline sales to intoxicated motorists.

BRONX 'GHOST' ARRESTED!

Arresting a skeleton is a bit outside the realm of Policeman John Harten's duties. But regulations require that all prisoners be booked—and Officer Harten is not one to violate the rules. The bony "offender" was found near the Bronx Park botanical gardens in New York. Police believe it was used by a medical school. Note the "prisoner's" thumb screw "crown." (Associated Press Photo)

SAM M. BLOUNT IN FOREFRONT

Beaufort County Representative Legislative Leader

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 24.—During early stages of the legislative session Sam M. Blount, Washington, was much in the forefront of the Assembly picture by reason of his chairmanship of House Judiciary Committee No. 1, the group to which liquor legislation was referred.

In the dying days of the same session, the Gentleman from Beaufort was almost as prominent in the role of "watchman" for efforts to revive bills laid peacefully to rest on the unfavorable calendar by adverse committee reports.

Mr. Blount wasn't nearly so successful in these latter efforts as he was in securing enactment of the state's County Option Liquor law, but he was consistency itself, rising time after time to plead with his colleagues not to bring back for endless discussion bills which had already received committee consideration and which had been found wanting in some respect.

The "courtesy" so freely — almost recklessly — extended fellow-member in the matter of local measures was just too much for "Smiling Sam," as he is called by some news writers; and it is distinctly possible that the Washingtonian won a degree of undeserved unpopularity by his opposition.

Yet it is generally conceded that he plays a valuable role and that he stopped many ill-advised and half-baked measures from becoming the law of the state. When the full history of the session is written he will take high rank among the Representatives.

His handling of the vexatious liquor problem was hard-boiled and distinctly vexatious to the "dry" cohorts, but his methods proved sound in that they undoubtedly aided in settling the question in much less time than any observers thought possible.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Mar. 24.—(AP)—Traders stepped carefully in today's stock market as they awaited outcome of the Chrysler-Lewis conference.

Overnight buying orders put the list up fractions to a point or more at the start in fairly active dealings. Light profit selling reduced or cancelled extreme advance later and near the fourth hour trends were defiant.

Bonds improved and rubber and copper futures bounded upward on heavy foreign demand.

State Commission To Handle Liquor To Be Set Up Soon

Governor Hoey Expected to Start Making Appointments Provided by Assembly in Few Weeks

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 24.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey expects to start making appointments to the State Liquor Commission in a few weeks, he indicated today.

"Now that the general assembly has adjourned, I expect to concentrate on these various appointive positions created by it and to announce my appointments as rapidly as possible," Governor Hoey said today.

"Since the state-wide liquor control law is already in effect, I shall probably announce my selection of the chairman and the two part-time members of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Board among the first appointments I shall make. I hope to reach a decision with regard to these appointments early in April.

Governor Hoey declined to give any intimation, however, as to who he expects to name chairman of the ABC board or as the two members of the board.

Since the new highway commission reorganization law goes into effect May 1, the Governor must appoint the eleven new members of the commission, including a new chairman, before that date. He indicated he would probably announce his new highway commission appointments about the last week in April. The new law provides for the appointment of ten members of the State Highway and Public Works Commission and one member from the state as a whole, to be the chairman, the ten members to be so selected that each will represent a district. These districts are to be set up by the new commission when it meets. But the Governor is expected to have most of the say-so as to how these districts shall be defined.

The Governor must also appoint a Director of Old Age Assistance, who will be in direct charge of the administration of the old age pension law, as well as make other lesser appointments. Before July 1st he must appoint two additional Supreme Court judges, an additional Superior Court judge or reappoint numerous department and division heads.

Assembly Refuses To Allow Billboards Advertise Liquor

Only Benefit Reaped by Drys, However, in Efforts to Prohibit All Whiskey Advertisements

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Mar. 24.—Efforts of 'drys' to prohibit all sorts of liquor advertising in North Carolina have ended with little to show for them except enactment of a law to prohibit "displays" of advertising of "hard liquors," which means in effect that there shall be no billboard advertisements of whiskey and other distilled liquors along the state's highways; nor "sky writing" advertising by airplanes, nor by other ingenious "display" methods.

As a matter of fact the billboard advertising was already illegal under the County Option act, Section 17 thereof specifically prohibiting this form of advertising.

Under the County Option act radio broadcasts originating in the state are likewise prohibited insofar as they advertise "intoxicating beverages" as defined by the act.

In short, advertising of hard liquor must be confined almost exclusively to newspaper advertising if it is to be legal in North Carolina and there is a section (No. 19) of the County Option law which gives county boards power to restrict and prohibit even that form.

The section reads:
"The several county boards, by and with the consent and approval of the State board, shall have power to make such other rules and regulations as will prevent and tend to prevent advertisement of intoxicating beverages otherwise than as expressly prohibited herein and to publish such rules and regulations and to make effective measures to enforce the same."

Heel Contrast
New York (AP)—Even heels are reflecting the 1937 tendency for color contrast. Cherry-red heels accompany shoes of navy blue kid. They match a red purse carried with a navy blue coat. The latter is worn over a cherry-red print dress. Red hand-stitching accents the navy blue gloves worn with the outfit.

Give-Green And Black
Paris (AP)—Both the Grand Duchess Boris of Russia and the Countess Gahard de Bern of France have chosen the same green trimmed afternoon ensemble from Molyneux. The black angora wool dress is slit in front to show an under-dress of olive-green crepe and is tied around the waist with an olive-green sash. Green crepe also faces the inside of the black angora jacket. The jacket is three quarter length and has a collar and cuffs of black astrakhan.

HAT-SNATCH GANG TAKES LID OFF CHINA

Shanghai, China (AP)—Many Shanghaianders have had to give up wearing hats for about three weeks. A gang of hat snatchers worked with such efficiency that those who had not lost their hats were afraid to wear them. Pedestrians and bus and street car passengers were victimized.

After about three weeks the snatchers were caught. Police are holding a number of assorted hats waiting for owners to claim them.
