EASTER HALTS NEGOTIATIONS TO END STRIKE

Chrysler and Lewis Hold Brief Morning Conference

LITTLE CHANGE ON ANY FRONTS

Evacuation of Chrysler Plants Prompts Belief Settlement is In The Offing

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 26.—(AP)—Conferees between the highest officials of the Chrysler Corporation and the United Automobile Workers scheduled to end at noon continued long past that hour today, giving rise to hopes an agreement might be reached today.

Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W. A. who left the conference room for lunch, replied "your guess is as good as mine" to inquiries about the possibility of a settlement.

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 26.—(AP)—Seeking agreements on one issue, sole bargaining recognition, that will enable 60,000 employees to return to work quickly, Walter Chrysler and John Lewis resumed their conference in Governor Frank Murphy's office here today.

A final agreement was not expected in today's short session but Governor Murphy, optimistic since he succeeded in getting the two leaders together, asserted "progress" was being made.

(By Associated Press)
Negotiations for settlement of the Chrysler Motor Corporation strike tapered off today for the Easter week-end with indications an agreement might soon be reached.
Evacuation of Chrysler plants in Detroit by 8,000 sit-down strikers prompted a belief a settlement was in the offing.

A source close to Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan, who brought Walter Chrysler, chairman of the corporation, and John Lewis, C. I. O. leader together, said the dispute could be solved quickly, but speed would be sacrificed in favor of careful evaluation of proposals and counter proposals.

Enrolling Office Handled Huge Job At Session's End

Tremendous Task Carried Out With Accuracy, Speed and Economy in Last Days of Assembly

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, March 25.—Never had the enrolling office been pushed and rushed as it was during the closing days of the general assembly—and as it is still being rushed even yet, Secretary of State Thad Eure said today. But it managed to keep up with its work and to get every bill copied and enrolled for ratification before the general assembly adjourned late Tuesday afternoon.

But to get all of the bills copied and ready for ratification, the 12 stenographers in the office worked all day the last three Sundays, often worked until midnight or even later, and on the last Sunday night before adjournment worked until 5 o'clock Monday morning.

Governor Pleased At General Fund Money

Raleigh, Mar. 26.—(AP)—Governor Hoy smiled and commented reviews of the state are now running more than $7,000,000 ahead of last year's receipts in the general fund with highway money also showing a good gain.

Charred Bodies Of Bus Crash Victims

A chartered bus bound from St. Louis, Mo., to Cincinnati, Ohio, carried 20 roller skating derby contestants to death on Federal Highway No. 50, two miles west of Salem, Ill., when it crashed into a bridge abutment and burst into flames. Some of the victims were burned beyond recognition. Three other passengers were seriously injured. Here are shown some of the charred bodies. (Associated Press Photo.)

EDITOR SLAIN BY OLD RIVAL

Reports Story of His Own Shooting As Last Act

Alturas, Calif., Mar. 26.—(AP)—Killed in what Sheriff John Sharp said today was the climax of a newspaper feud, Claude McCracken, 48-year-old editor, reported the story of his own shooting as his last act.

Harry French, 30, state employee and son of Alturas' rival newspaper publisher, surrendered voluntarily after McCracken was shot down in his home last night as he ate dinner with two young women. French was held on an open charge today.

With five bullets in his body, McCracken was carried to a hospital where his wife was the nurse assigned to care for him. There he dictated a telegram to the Associated Press bureau in San Francisco. It read:

"Tonight about 6:30 Harry French shot Claude L. McCracken, editor of the Modoc Mail, with an automatic pistol. Condition of McCracken serious.

"(Signed) McCracken."
Two hours later he died. French is the son of Bard French, publisher of the long established Alturas weekly Plain Dealer.

"The papers have been battling back and forth on every issue that has come up. Sheriff Sharp said, 'I think the shooting was due to hard feelings aroused by this rivalry.'"

Many Appointive Offices Created By Legislature

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 26.—Never has a single session of the general assembly presented a Governor with a more luscious assortment of appointive jobs to pass around than the 1937 assembly has given to Governor Clyde R. Hoy, those who have been checking over the list agree.

For in addition to the 35 to 40 more or less important appointive positions already in existence which Governor must fill by direct or indirect appointment, the recent session of the general assembly created at least 25 additional appointive positions of which at least ten carry salaries ranging from $4,000 to $7,500 a year. Some of these new positions carry no salary, being on a per diem basis instead.

But they are regarded as being very important in that they carry strong prestige. Altogether, it is estimated that Governor Hoy will have to make between 250 and 300 appointments between now and July 1, when the many appointments of members to the many different boards and commissions are considered.

Insurgent Lines Forced Retreat

Andujar, Spain, Mar. 26.—(AP)—Government troops, preceded by bombing planes, penetrated insurgent Southern lines in fresh attacks today, forcing General Franco's Italian-reinforced legions back five miles from positions outside Pozoblanco.

PLAN TO BURY CRASH VICTIMS

Only Eleven Of 20 Killed in Wreck Identified

Salem, Ill., Mar. 26.—(AP)—Nine charred bodies burned beyond recognition in the motor bus disaster, fatal to 20 persons near here Wednesday today were being prepared for burial in the cool earth of Salem's cemetery.

Announcement of burial plans for the unidentified dead was made by officials of the Transcontinental Roller Derby Association, Inc., after Mayor Mackin of Salem, the owner of the mortuary where 15 of the bodies were taken, said he doubted "if very many more will be identified."

Eleven of the victims are known and three survivors, Dick Thomas, Chicago, the driver; Don Flanery, 18 of Kansas City, and John Crankmore of Miami, Fla., are waiting a fight for their lives in a St. Louis hospital.

Girls' polo games are now played in California, the season culminating in a tournament at Pebble Beach.

LINER CRASHES INTO HILLSIDE

All 13 Occupants of Palatial Liner Are Instantly Killed

Pittsburgh, Mar. 26.—(AP)—Officials of the Transcontinental and Western Air Lines declared today the crash of the liner near Pittsburgh with the loss of 13 lives.

Meanwhile federal, state and county authorities sought a clue to the crash's cause. Russell Young of Washington, first of five aeronautical inspectors of the air corps bureau to reach the scene, searched among the twisted debris of the plane for some explanation of its doom.

Pittsburgh, Mar. 26.—(AP)—The nose dive of a palatial sky liner into a hillside, carrying its 13 occupants to instant death, furnished today another mystery of the airways.

The giant Transcontinental and Western Airlines Silver Bird, nearing the Allegheny county airport for a stop on its journey from Newark to Chicago, dropped like a plummet seven minutes after the sun had set yesterday.

The sky was clear for some 2,400 feet, there was not much wind and a sister ship was cruising a few hundred yards above and behind the twin-motored Douglas C-2 No. 320.

Capt. A. M. Wilkins, wingman home the second ship, turned his head to avoid looking at the doomed liner's final 50-foot drop. He estimated the fatal plunge began about 1,700 feet up and Pilot Lawrence Bohner, a veteran of 10 years' service, had made two complete left turns with his plane's nose pointed straight down.

No General Holiday Planned For Easter

With schools and the colleges already observing Easter vacation something of a holiday spirit prevailed here as the week-end began. No general holiday will be observed here, however, the schools and banks being the only places which have announced time will be taken off. The banks will be closed Monday, while the city schools will remain closed also until Tuesday morning. County schools will not observe a holiday.

Pneumonia Fatal To 17-Year-Old Pitt Boy

LOUIS MORGAN, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Morgan died this morning at one o'clock in Pitt General Hospital from a short illness, of pneumonia.

BIG PROBLEMS AWAIT RETURN OF ROOSEVELT

Sit-Down Strikes To Claim Attention of Executive

SOME SENTIMENT FOR INTERVENT'N

Relief To Be Among First of Legislative Matters to Occupy President's Mind

Washington, Mar. 26.—(AP)—The question of whether the government can do anything about sit-down strikes topped today a stack of public problems awaiting President Roosevelt's return from Georgia.

The President will call Congressional leaders to his office soon after he reaches the capital tomorrow. Aides said he would discuss with them the labor situation, as well as other major questions.

Some sentiment for government action against sit-down strikes developed in floor speeches of Senators and Representatives this week. Senator Vandenberg (R. Mich.) said he hoped the President would make some statement on the subject. Administration leaders pointed out, however, there appeared to be little federal officials could do unless a state asked for assistance.

Relief will be among the first legislative matters to occupy Mr. Roosevelt. Congressmen are waiting for his answer to the question: How much is needed for relief in the next fiscal year.

Some of them hope for a budget balancing cut in expenditures for the needy, but others maintain the federal government must provide more, not less relief.

The President has been studying the relief problem at his Georgia cottage, working on a message he expects to transmit to congress April 10.

One administration objective which has not yet been written into suggested legislation is fixing wage and hour standards.

Most of Mr. Roosevelt's other legislative aims for this session have been included in messages he has sent to congress.

Congress itself was in recess for the Easter week-end. The House adjourned suddenly yesterday to halt criticism by Representative Church (R. Ill.) of Representative Sabath (D. Ill.) whose special committee has been investigating real estate bond holders protective committees.

The Senate judiciary committee will resume hearings on the court reorganization bill next Tuesday.

National Guard Unit Ready For Inspection

Battery A, 113th Field Artillery, local unit of the National Guard, is preparing for the annual inspection to be held on Friday, April 2.

The inspection will be made by Major Fields, inspector of the South Carolina National Guard. Other high ranking regular army officers will be here and participate in the annual inspection.

The local unit has practiced on two occasions this week and will drill three times next week in order to get everything in tip-top shape. Much of the old equipment has been substituted with new and the equipment, as well as the personnel, was declared by J. H. Waldrop, commanding officer, to be in good shape.

It had been hoped that the armory would be completed in time for the inspection but indications now it will be May before it is finished.

Virginia Man Facing Charge Driving Drunk

Bob Bailey, white man of Virginia, was lodged in the city jail last night and booked on a charge of driving drunk after he had been taken in custody by police officers who declared he was driving his car from one side of the street to the other.

Uncle Of Local Man Dies In Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shuff and daughter, Miss Phyllis, left this afternoon for Pulaski, Va., where they were called on account of the death of Mr. Shuff's uncle, William H. Shuff. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon.

Legislator Turns Sit-Downer

Dr. J. A. Gray, a Republican member of the Missouri House of Representatives, went on a one-man sit-down strike to emphasize his demands that he be informed how many employees are on the legislative payroll. "I'm going to sit until I get a certified list," said the solo who is seen munching a sandwich in the capitol at Jefferson City. (Associated Press Photo.)

COURT SESSION BATTLE LOOMS IS COMPLETED ON NEW JUDGE

Another Term for Trying Criminal Cases April 12

A two weeks' term of Pitt Superior court was completed here today after a large number of cases had been disposed of, leaving the docket in "fairly good shape," according to Solicitor D. M. Clark.

Another term to try criminal cases, a one-week session, will be held the week beginning April 12, two weeks from Monday.

Only one case was tried yesterday afternoon after completion of the Pleasant assault case in which Bernice Aspinwall and Bernard Moore were sentenced to prison for terms of 40 years each for the brutal attack. Tom Leggett, Negro, was acquitted of driving drunk.

Final disposition of other cases not previously reported included: Roy Hardee, non-support of illegitimate child, six months suspended upon condition the defendant pay $50 for use of Cora Harris and also court costs; Rufus, driving reckless, directed verdict of guilty.

A case in which D. T. Cox was charged with embezzlement in connection with the handling of funds entrusted to him as guardian for Elmer Ray Stocks was continued and is expected to be settled out of court. The case was called for trial this morning, but was interrupted by agreement of counsel for both sides.

The University of Oklahoma has 1,291 students this semester, the largest second-semester enrollment in the school's history.

Efforts May Be Made to Halt Elevation of Justice Williams

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—The possibility arose today that opponents of the Roosevelt court bill might try to block the elevation of Judge Robert Williams, of Oklahoma to the Federal Circuit court.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) said Williams' letter to Attorney General Cummings saying he would be willing to retire in less than two years when he reaches 70, raises the question of his qualifications for the post.

Williams, now a district judge, was nominated by the President yesterday to the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals. The White House gave out his letter.

"I disapprove of the letter entirely," Burke said. "Any judge who would write the kind of letter Williams did, raises the question of his qualifications. I would very strongly oppose putting a man on the bench who would say he was going to serve only so long and then get off."

KNOW EACH CHICKEN. POULTRY EXPERT URGES

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Become better acquainted with your chickens individually if you want to make money from your flocks, advises R. B. Thompson, Oklahoma A. and M. college poultry specialist.

By handling the chickens more, Thompson says, the owner learns what each hen is doing to keep the flock on or above the average in health, usefulness and egg production.

Municipalities Of State Plan Home Rule Campaign

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 26.—Municipalities of North Carolina are planning an intensive campaign for "Home Rule" and are hopeful that the 1937 legislature will adopt a Constitutional amendment which will not only enable local government units to attend to their own affairs but will remedy the appalling "local bill" nuisance with which the General Assembly has been afflicted from time immemorial.

Efforts in the late session to do something about this nuisance came to the usual fruitless end. There were bills introduced to amend the Constitution so that local legislation would be abolished—either in committee or upon the floor. In the end there was a commission authorized to study the matter and report between now and the next biennial gathering of the legislative class.

If this commission goes into the matter with any thoroughness at all it will discover that more than half the bills introduced, and an even higher percentage of measures enacted by the Legislature are local measures practically all of which are more properly subjects for local action than for Raleigh legislation.

A breakdown of measures introduced during the 1937 session reveals that of 493 Senate bills introduced 223, or 45.3 per cent were local measures, while over the way in the House of 1,313 bills tossed into the legislative mill no less than 836 or 63.7 per cent were local. Thus, of 1,804 bills introduced no less than 1,059 were local, giving a composite percentage of 58.1 in all.

In the 1935 session the figures were equally striking. There were 649 Senate bills during that long siege, 312, or 48 per cent of them local. There were 1,511 House bills, 928 or 61 per cent of them local, giving a total of 1,240 local bills out of 2,160, or the same 58 per cent in all.

Municipal authorities feel that something should be done to remedy this condition, under which more than half the work of the "state" legislature is legislating for purely local units. It is generally believed, too, that House and Senate members would, in the main, be much better satisfied if they were not compelled to devote so much of their time to the folks "back home," to the detriment of their concentration on statewide measures of importance. As it is, they

BANK CASHIER CONFESSES TO BIG SHORTAGE

Washington Man Reported to Have Taken Responsibility

PLAN TO ISSUE WARRANTS SOON

Shortage of $14,696.25 in Building and Loan and $6,317.51 in Bank

Washington, N. C., Mar. 26.—(AP)—An examination being conducted by examiners of Beaufort county Building and Loan Association and the bank of Washington today disclosed misapplications of money belonging to those institutions.

It was said that W. B. Harding, cashier of the bank and an employee of the Building and Loan Association, had admitted that he was solely responsible for the shortages.

The shortages in the Building Loan Association amount to $14,696.25 and the shortage in the bank $6,317.51.

Officials of the Building and Loan Association and the Bank of Washington stated that neither would suffer any loss as bonds with surety companies covering such losses are held by the two institutions for more than twice the amount of the shortages.

It was said that warrants will be issued for Harding charging him with the misappropriation. He probably will be given a hearing in Recorder's court soon and his case tried at the June term of the Superior court.

Mr. Harding had been connected with the two institutions for more than 20 years.

Williams Said to Be Chief Contender Head Commission

Pasquotank Man Regarded as Leading Candidate for Chairman of State Liquor Board

Raleigh, March 26.—Representative F. Webb Williams of Eimabeth City, author of the "Pasquotank County Liquor Act" of 1935 which made it possible for 17 eastern counties to have county liquor stores and paved the way for the enactment of the state-wide liquor control law by the 1935 general assembly, is regarded as in the forefront among those being mentioned for chairman of the new State Alcoholic Beverages Control Board. For while Governor Clyde R. Hoy has not yet appointed this board or give any indication as to whom he will appoint, it is known that Williams has already been very strongly endorsed to the Governor and that additional endorsements are being received for him almost daily.

In fact, it was learned today that more than 100 members of the 37 general assembly, which has just adjourned, have endorsed Williams for the chairmanship of the new ABC board and that many others over the state have written Governor Hoy in his behalf.

Also an active seeker of the chairmanship of the new liquor control board is W. D. McMillen of Washington, chairman of the New Hanover county liquor control board and generally regarded as one of the most successful county liquor board chairmen in the state. The fact that McMillen has already had almost two years experience in administering county control is regarded as being decidedly in his favor. Reports going the round lately, however, are to the effect that McMillen's boom has not been progressing so well of late and that he does not stand nearly as good a chance of getting the job as Williams. Representative Walter Pele Murphy of Salisbury and Cullen Moore of Lumberton, at first mentioned as possible candidates for the chairmanship, are no longer regarded as even being in the running.

Some here still contend, however, that the name of the man who will be named chairman of the "state ABC board has not even been mentioned in the news reports yet, but his appointment will be a complete surprise—but they surmise no names. Governor Hoy is expected to make this appointment in the near future, since the law is already in effect.

"I'd Never Met The Lady" Oklahoma City, Okla. (AP) — "Have you ever committed a crime involving moral turpitude?" Attorney J. Q. A. Harrod asked a federal court witness.

The witness pondered solemnly, then inquired, "Who's she?"

6:30 P. M.—The Kiwanis club will meet in the Woman's club.

SATURDAY
12:30 P. M.—Miss Laura Smith Fleming will be hostess at luncheon for Miss Maria Garrett, bride-elect.

3:00 P. M.—Miss Kara Lyne Corey will entertain at bridge for Miss Helen White, bride-elect.

Hostess at Dinner
Miss Ann Lee Hooker was a charming hostess at dinner last evening at her home on East Fifth street, honoring her house guest, Miss Mary Hawkes, of York Village, Maine, and Miss Maria Garrett, bride-elect of May.

The home was attractively decorated in roses, daffodils and sweet peas.

The table was beautifully appointed, covered with an embroidered cloth, and centered with a crystal bowl of pink roses, white and lavender sweet peas, flanked by candles in crystal holders. Only candle-light was used for the dinner hour.

A delicious course dinner was served to Miss Hawkes, Miss Garrett, Miss Mary Shaw Robeson, Miss Mattie Moe Gaylord, Miss Ruth Horns, Miss Kathryn Ratledge, Miss Marjorie Savage, Miss Lourene Skinner, Miss Kathryn Tyson, Miss Laura Smith Fleming, Mrs. William Barbre and Miss Hooker.

After coffee, Miss Hawkes presented a bag, and Miss Garrett an antique vase as reminders of this lovely affair.

Entertain at Waffle Supper
Complimenting Miss Mary Hawkes of York Village, Maine, and Miss Ann Lee Hooker, who is at home from Boston, Mass., for the Spring holidays, Miss Marjorie Savage and Miss Mary Shaw Robeson were hostesses at a very delightful waffle supper Wednesday evening.

Attention German Club Members
There will be a special called meeting of the German club in Sheppard Memorial library on Monday afternoon at 2:15. All members are urged to be present.

Sunrise Service
There will be a Union Sunrise Service Sunday morning at 6:30 at the Immanuel Baptist church.

Easter at Presbyterian Church
The musical program for this service will conform to the spirit of Easter throughout. The service will begin at five minutes to eleven o'clock, with the stately devotional number entitled "The Sacred March to the Holy Grail" (from opera Parsifal by Wagner.) In this dignified number, the theme is announced by the bells, followed by toll choruses, while the bells continue to toll throughout, to be followed by sweet harmonies of angel voices gradually dying away in the distance with the bells faintly heard afar off.

To appreciate the full meaning and beauty of this great composition, the congregation should be in their seats promptly at five minutes to eleven o'clock.

Mrs. Dink James will sing "The Resurrection," by Shelley. The bells will also be featured in this number.

The choir will sing "In Joseph's Lovely Garden," by Dickinson.

The offertory is a quiet "Tone Poem" with an appealing strain that cannot fail to create a devotional frame of mind.

Mr. Mullberger is organist and choir director.

Pre-School Child Study Course
The fifth lesson in the series of discussion of the Pre-School Child, led by Miss Schnopp of the Greenville High School faculty, was the problem of control devices—cooperation and consideration of others. It was forcefully brought out that often parents have an exaggerated concern for their child. These symptoms should be watched but not with a great deal of fear. Often these are only a maladjustment and should try to be adjusted. It is well to reward and praise the child but rewards are often overdone, but praise helps to keep the machinery of the family well oiled. When an undesirable habit is recognized by the parent, this should be overcome before it becomes fixed. The underlying cause should be removed by arousing the child's desire to overcome this; help him to forget this habit by removing temptations, as far as practical and have his health checked.

This series of discussions is proving most interesting and helpful and anyone interested is invited to the class, held each Tuesday morning in the Greenville High School practice house.

Class Room Teachers' Association
The Class Room Teachers' Association held a very enthusiastic meeting Monday afternoon, March 22, at the High School. Miss Willie Ruby Blackburn, president of the association, with the thirty members present, worked together in a harmonious and cooperative manner.

The aims of this group are, namely:

Smith-Wright
Mr. and Mrs. Martin LeRoy Wright announce the marriage of their niece Miss Ruth Wright to Mr. Eugene T. Smith on Friday, March twenty-sixth. One thousand nine hundred thirty-seven Greenville, North Carolina.

This morning at ten o'clock the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright on East Fourth street was the scene of a pretty wedding when their niece, Miss Ruth Wright, and Eugene T. Smith, were married in the presence of relatives.

The home was attractively decorated. The bride descended the stairway and was met at the foot of the steps by the bridegroom. In the living room the Reverend W. H. Brunson, pastor of the Christian Church of Ayden, performed the ceremony before an altar banked with ferns, Easter lilies, pink roses and sweet peas. Lighted with candles in silver holders.

The bride wore a becoming dress of South American rose crepe, made with bolero jacket. Her accessories were brown and she wore a shoulderette of tulle and roses.

Mrs. Smith, a pretty and attractive young woman, is the daughter of the late D. L. Wright and of the late Mrs. Dora Whitt Wright, of Guilford county. She graduated from the School of Nursing of the Morehead City Hospital and took post-graduate work in Providence, R. I. She was formerly a member of the nursing staff of Pitt General Hospital, this city, and for some time has been on the nursing staff of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Mr. Smith, a prominent young business man of Ayden, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith, of that city. He was educated at Oak Ridge Military Academy and Duke University, Durham.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Ayden.

Smith-Nelson
Mr. and Mrs. John Fenner Nelson announce the marriage of their daughter Lillah Glenn to Mr. Clinton Johnston Smith on Friday, the twenty-sixth of March.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-seven Greenville, North Carolina.

Miss Lillah Glenn Nelson and Mr. Clinton Johnston Smith were married today at high noon in the Eighth Street Christian church, with Reverend William A. Ryan, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride wore a becoming model of St. James rose with blending accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of tulle and roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Smith is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Nelson. She received an A. B. degree at East Carolina Teachers College, and has taught in the schools in Littleton and Fremont. At present she is a member of the Goldsboro faculty.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. J. R. Wallert, of Littleton, N. C. He received his B. S. degree at Wake Forest College and is connected with Montgomery, Ward & Co. in Goldsboro.

The couple will be at home at 404 South Williams street, Goldsboro.

Will Return This Evening
B. D. Johnston, manager of Cobern's Shoes, Inc., will return this evening from Lynchburg, Va., where he has been to the factory to buy shoes.

FLORIDA GIRL QUEEN OF CAGERS

SEES BRIGHTER ROAD OUTLOOK

First, to sponsor the Northeastern District Association of Class Room Teachers' dinner, which will be in Greenville next fall; second, to affiliate with the National Education Association in order to keep abreast of educational growth and needs; third, to sponsor a membership drive among all the teachers who are interested in active participation and membership; fourth, to sponsor an annual dinner and having as its guests an outstanding speaker. This dinner will be to foster professional growth and social unity.

One of the most concerned parts of the meeting was the discussion of the "Harrison-Black-Fleisher bill." This is a Federal aid bill and is now before the House committee in Washington. Should this bill pass the Congress, it will give North Carolina about three million dollars additional money this year. All members volunteered to supplement their efforts in getting this bill passed, by informing their senators and congressmen to support this measure.—Reported.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—At Mr. William K. Howard's open fireplace the other gray morning your correspondent received cheering hospitality and coffee, but was plunged none the less into depressing reflection.

Your correspondent—hereinafter labeled I—had seen Mr. Howard's first English-made film, "Fire Over England," a fine piece of work. And in talking it over with its director, I derived little comfort either for myself or for Celina, Ohio, as to the ways of these British when they tackle an item of British history.

What always confuses me in these films, however admirable they are otherwise, is the careless way the characters bandy each other with historical names and illusions. They cannot wait for the credit titles to fade; before the screen is resounding with casual references to plots being hatched by Lord This, Sir That, and the Duke of What-Not.

Concessions to Celina
Sitting there, untutored, and helpless, I always feel baffled and hopeless and put upon. The feeling lasts until several sequences later when some faintly familiar name like Queen Elizabeth or Shakespeare, is heard. By that time, of course, it doesn't matter anyway because the story somehow has swung clear of its ominous beginnings and has become, however grand its manner, cozily boy-meet-girl.

When Mr. Howard was informed of this personal dilemma, he brought out his own misgivings on that score but produced no hope for the future. He said that, surprised as he was by people's steeped in Elizabethan lore, he had frequently expressed an objection: "Yes, but will they understand that in Celina, Ohio?" He had raised the question so often, indeed, that it became a jocular catchword about the lot.

The English associates were very obliging, he said, and they did make concessions to Celina, and me, but in the main, well—

And here Mr. Howard, although asleep was still in his eye and he was still in canary yellow pajamas and robe, paused considerably to soften the blow with more coffee.

England, he proceeded, makes its pictures primarily for the British market, and British audiences understand those references. It is all so much hokey, what you hear about the "threat" of English films to Hollywood. Why, the British studios are happy enough to set their pictures seen here, but they can and do make sufficient profit on British showings alone. Consider Gracie Fields, highest paid of stars, whose films never play in America.

"A threat to Hollywood?" he said. "No matter how fine the English pictures may become, Hollywood always controls distribution—and there is the answer."

And as for Celina and me, we'll have to struggle along the best we can.

are constantly being nagged at from their home ballrooms to increase the salary of this official, or to pass a law prohibiting this thing or that thing or the other thing.

In the past the usual efforts to obtain relief have been in the form of a Constitutional amendment which simply prohibits the legislators from legislating on purely local matters. This, in the opinion of many, has been a rule too inflexible and leaving too much "No-Man's Land" in the field of legislation.

In the campaign to be conducted by the local units it will be sought to adopt an amendment which will provide:

(1) That all legislation affecting counties, cities and towns shall be general in nature and shall apply to all units.

(2) That legislation applying to individual units may be passed, provided such legislation is optional in nature and will become effective only when approved by vote of the unit affected.

(3) Which sets forth clearly and in detail the general powers which every municipal body in the state shall enjoy.

Sponsors of this amendment believe it would have a very salutary effect and would advance the cause of scientific and efficient local government. In addition, they think it would enable legislators to concentrate on statewide legislation and would thereby insure better laws for the state as a whole.

Grange Organization Secures New Members

The Beaver Dam Grange had an open meeting in the Arthur school building Monday night.

A musical program was put on by the school children and others, led by Mrs. Bruce Strickland.

Short addresses were made by Mark H. Smith, assistant County agent, C. D. Griggs and Master P. M. McLawhorn.

Rev. P. A. Keller, representing the State Grange, was present and spoke on organization and cooperation.

He showed necessity of farmers being organized for their own protection.

Some ten or twelve applications were received.

DATE SET FOR MUSIC COURSE

Program Is Designed For Beginners And Advanced Students

Chapel Hill, Mar. 26.—Plans for an All-State High School Music Course at the University of North Carolina from June 10 to July 27, a six-week period, were announced here today by Prof. Earl A. Secum, who will direct the program.

The faculty will comprise eight well known teachers in music, including four members of the University faculty.

The purpose is to provide "an opportunity for boys and girls of high school age to combine an intensive course of study with healthful recreation."

The course will be held under the auspices of the University Music Department and Extension Division.

The program is designed for advanced band and orchestra work for players of considerable experience; and also for beginning band and orchestra for students with little or no instrumental training. In addition students will receive individual lessons in their principal instrument and instruction in music theory, appreciation, and chamber music. Sectional rehearsals will be held regularly with training in wood-wind, brass, and string ensembles.

Enrollment is open to properly qualified students in any accredited high school, and 1937 high school graduates.

Public concerts will be given by the group at regular intervals throughout the summer session and weekly student recitals will also be held.

Sports and recreation have an important place on the program. Members of the staff will supervise and direct appropriate participation in many activities including: swimming, baseball, basketball, volleyball, archery, biking, and golf.

Under special arrangements the University library will be open to members of the group.

Members of the faculty will include: Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the University Department of Music; Earl A. Secum, assistant professor of Music and director of the course; Walter H. Block, supervisor of instrumental music, Flint Public Schools, Flint, Michigan; J. Harris Mitchell, supervisor of instrumental music, Durham Public School; Herbert R. Hageman, supervisor of instrumental music, Greensboro Public Schools; Elizabeth Wilson Mitchell, instrumental teacher, Durham Public Schools; Albin Piktus and Charles M. SHIFT IS MADE TO CASH CROPS

Increase of 8 Per Cent Estimated for Flue-Cured Weed

Raleigh, Mar. 26.—The total acreage to be planted to crops in North Carolina in 1937 shows very little change from that harvested in 1936 according to reports received from growers by the Federal and State Cooperative Crop Reporting Service as of March 24.

However, there is a decided shift in intentions on certain food and feed crops to the major cash crops. Farmers' early intentions are carried out. With substantial decreases in the corn and sweet potato acreage, no change in hays and oats, there is a considerable increase in tobacco, peanuts, Irish potatoes, cowpeas and soy beans. Obviously, the favorable prices received for certain crops last year are showing effects on planting intentions for 1937.

The first three months of 1937 were generally unfavorable for farm work in North Carolina, due to continued rainfall preventing field work. While the winter was the warmest on record—in contrast to one of the coldest on record a year ago—the mild conditions had their unfavorable influences. Unusually early blooming of plants and the germination of seed (like lespedeza, tobacco, etc.) encountered water damage from frosts. As of March 24, the conditions were appreciably ahead of the usual as far as plant development was concerned, but farm work was necessarily delayed, although not quite as much as a month ago.

Corn is the principal crop in North Carolina, occupying about one-third of the total crop land. Farmers report a 3 per cent less acreage intended this year, which evidently reflects a shift in acreage to more attractive cash crops. For the United States as a whole, however, a 3 per cent increase is shown. This is quite natural in view of last year's drought conditions in the Middle West which seriously shortened the corn crop.

Next in importance is tobacco, which brought unusually favorable prices in North Carolina last year. The flue-cured planting intentions are for an 8 per cent increase in this state as compared with a 10 per cent increase for the Nation's flue-cured belt. The Old Belt shows a 7 per cent increase, and the eastern New Belt something over 8 per cent. It is understood that considerable trouble is being experienced in the plant beds. The first difficulty encountered was the too rapid development of plants in the bed; the second was continued rains and cold snaps. Present reported damage of blue mold, especially in Type 13, are receiving considerable notice. Frost or larvae damage to plant beds have often been reported. Very probably all of these are exaggerated, in as much as most of these are complained of each year. The area of plant beds is probably the largest in the history.

SAFETY LAWS STILL INTACT

$50 Fine for Driving Drunk Continues in Effect

Raleigh, March 26.—The state drivers' license law, enacted by the 1935 general assembly, was not tampered with at all by the 1937 session and remains exactly as enacted two years ago. Some two or three bills were introduced to change the method of revoking or

A CANDID TALK ED McGRADY Has A New Setup To Remedy The Sit-Down Situation

1 "Let's try something new," says smiling Ed McGrady, 62, the Labor department's ace trouble-shooter. "The cause of 46 per cent of labor trouble is recognition of unions...."

2 "Recognize them and you sweep out 46 per cent of your trouble. When trouble comes, have a law that gets employers and employees definitely across the table from each other...."

3 "And bar strikes pending the intervention of a mediating board. Work the board until each avenue to settlement is closed, or a final settlement is reached. Then...."

4 "If settlement fails, spring your big shot. Let the investigating board publicize the facts. That's the final weapon. But it should not be used until you have to use it."

suspending licenses, but none of these were ever enacted.

The law fixing the penalty for drunken driving still remains unchanged, the penalty still being a minimum fine of $50 and the revocation of the driver's license of the person convicted of drunken driving for one year. A bill was introduced having the approval of Director Arthur Fulk of the highway safety division, fixing the minimum fine for drunken driving at $100 for the first offense and $200 for the second offense, in addition to the provision for the revocation of the license of the driver for one year. But the general assembly regarded this penalty as being too severe.

"The committee which considered the bill felt that if the minimum fine for drunken driving should be in excess of $50 it might bring about a larger number acquittals instead of more convictions," Director Fulk said today. "It also felt that since it is now mandatory for the license of every person convicted of drunken driving to be revoked for one year, that this revocation is a much greater punishment than any fine of $100 or even more. Accordingly, the committee recommended that the penalties remain unchanged."

As a result of the closer and closer check being kept upon all drivers who have been convicted of drunken driving and whose licenses have been revoked, making it more and more difficult for them to drive a car and "get by" with it, the revocation of drivers licenses has already become the most dreaded part of the penalty for drunken driving. Director Fulk said. Many drivers have no fear of a $50 or even a $100 fine, but they do fear the of their right to drive their cars for one year, Fulk maintains.

MAN TO TRAVEL 110,000 MILES FOR SHEEPSKIN

Sedalia, Mo. (AP)—Preston Sumner has traveled 85,000 miles in less than six years as a commuting college student.

By the time he receives his degree in electrical engineering from the University of Missouri in 1938 he will have traveled 110,000 miles in quest of an education.

Sumner, employed by a telephone company here from 4 p. m. until midnight, attended Central Missouri Teachers' college at Warrensburg, 30 miles west of here, for four years. Now in his second year at the university, he makes the 72-mile trip to Columbia and returns here in a week.

Sumner is driving his first motor car since his college career began. He figures his sheepskin will represent $4,500 in transportation and incidental costs.

Arthritis and Arthritis

Like headache, arthritis may be due to various causes, some of major importance. What can or should be done for the arthritis depends upon its nature and causes.

Arthritis may be due to tuberculosis, gout, the venereal diseases, rheumatic infection or injuries.

Seventy per cent of all joint diseases (arthritis) however, fall into two major groups; osteo and rheumatoid arthritis. The latter group is more important, for it includes those cases in which the victims suffer much pain and crippling.

Osteoarthritis differs radically from rheumatoid arthritis in general symptoms, in the course of the disease, and in treatment. Osteoarthritis may be considered a premature aging of the joints. But this does not imply that the sufferer has grown old before his time. The condition is usually restricted to the joints. Otherwise he, or more often she, for the condition is more common among women, is quite likely to be in good physical condition.

The typical patient may be pictured as a woman between 45 and 50, well nourished, and leading an active life. Gradually she has become aware of pains about the knees, hips and spine. These are the weight bearing joints. Frequently, too, the fingers may be involved. The affected joints have become swollen and knobby. The pain is not severe and tends to decrease with time.

Such a patient is not likely to suffer much or to become disabled.

Treatment for this condition will include weight reduction, if the patient is at all overweight, rest for the joints involved and for the body as a whole, and physical therapy including heat and massage. The drugs used will be few, and principally aspirin.

The patient must conserve her joints by placing as little strain upon them as possible. Prolonged rest is not, seemingly, respon-

EVE'S ORCHARD
 By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfeld goes back to her 200-year-old home and orchard in Connecticut after five years in New York. She plans to rent, Harry Gray, city-bred Denny and return to Manhattan. "Uncle" Henry moves in to help her run the place. Then come Peter the penniless artist, his languid wife Marilyn and their serious young son Judge. Eve's neighbor, calm, practical George Cleveland, who loves her, comes over with his father every day. One day George tells her the visiting artist said Eve had given up the idea of renting Eve's home this excitedly.

Chapter 25
 Placid Evenings
 MRS. MORTON, trim and tense in her small glass-fronted office beyond the post office and the grocery, said in dismay.

"Mrs. Featherstone said so. She was out walking and I met her. She said we were all too happy there to want to rent. I supposed you thought it would be as easy to go on with the old business you are in."

Eve turned to George. "There must be some mistake. She said 'I'—" But she said it she knew that Marilyn's and George's mistake might have made that mistake possible.

"I'm terribly sorry," Mrs. Morton said. "It's a shame, and with the rent season almost over, but I'll do everything I possibly can to rent it for you."

Marilyn, lying among her pillows and papers, with the breakfast tray still across her knees and the rose satin wrap Molly De Peyster had given her huddled about her, was first uncomprehending and then in an agony of penitence.

"Oh, darling," she murmured, "what a horrible thing to do to you. I never dreamed it could make the least bit of difference. And when I said to you, didn't you love our being here, and wouldn't you rather we kept on like this all summer, you said you were so glad we liked it and wished we could and I thought that meant you didn't want to rent."

Marilyn was too horrified and miserable for Eve to do anything but say, "Well, there's nothing to be done now; it may rent still."

Peter was more horrified than Eve. He even volunteered to go low-brow and do some book covers.

That ought to help. And Uncle Henry says Judge ought to have more pleasure. I'll buy him a bicycle and give you the rest for extra rent," said Peter generously.

Uncle Henry and Peter and George held a council of war with Eve that night in Uncle Henry's end of the parlors. She felt one of her recurrent waves of guilt about concealing her intention of marrying Denny as soon as he came back. But she mustn't talk about it, it wasn't certain. And when they did marry, now that the country weather was getting more heavenly every day, Denny would probably just settle in here with her till fall; he liked the Featherstones well enough.

So she said nothing to their assurances that with the help of Peter's money and Uncle Henry's greenstuffs they could carry on well.

"And with Denny's help," she said irrelevantly to herself, "we could afford a tennis club membership."

Seeing her so bright-eyed and flushed and content, George Cleveland and Henry De Remer smiled at each other, bridge or anagrams.

Bridge Or Anagrams
 MARYLIN called to Peter lovingly from the fire in the front room. "Darling, here's darling Daddy Cleveland simply champing for his chest!"

The older Cleveland, sitting near her with his usual air of having all the time in the world, smiled benignly at Marilyn, stretched in her chair with an arm around her little boy. Peter smiled and crossed to get the chessmen. Judge got up and went into the back room to Uncle Henry. The group had settled into its accustomed evening routine.

For routine it had come to be, a settled evening arrangement of understood placid comfort. Both Cleverlands seemed domestically inclined men. Mrs. Cleveland had tired of the country after a week of rain and was still obstinately at the Park avenue apartment. Her son was busy with his orchard and small fruits; her husband was a fanatic golfer, and his favorite club within driving distance of George's house. So he played chess with Peter the three weekend nights and George, drifting in with him, read the papers, or did mathematics about genetics on the round table where Uncle Henry and Judge carried on games of checkers or hunted for stations on Eve's little radio. Both father and son behaved in general as if this were where they most liked to be.

"At home my wife always retires after dinner unless we're doing something social," Mr. Cleveland said apologetically. "I don't know when George and I have had so much solid comfort as sitting round here. Hope we aren't overdoing it."

Everybody assured them sincerely that they were not.

personnel of the new bureau of identification and investigation. It is believed that the head of this division, if and when created, will get a salary of at least $5,000 a year and possibly $6,000, while the division heads under him would get between $3,500 and $4,500 a year.

In addition to the new positions already enumerated, the assembly has authorized the appointment of an additional Assistant Attorney General at an expected salary of at least $5,000 a year and created a new judicial district—the Twenty-first, to be composed of Caswell, Rockingham, Stokes and Surry counties, calling for the appointment of a new Superior Court Judge at a salary of $8,050 a year and of a new solicitor at a salary of $5,000 a year, the salaries of all solicitors having been increased from $4,500 to $5,000 a year. In addition to this, the Governor still has authority to appoint three more special judges any time they may be needed, at salaries of $8,050 a year each.

But this is not all. For in accordance with the amendment to the state constitution as adopted in the general election last November, the general assembly provided for the appointment by the Governor of two more Associate Justices of the State Supreme Court, on or before July 1, 1937. Each of these new justices will receive a salary of $8,000 a year.

At the present time the Governor has a vacancy to fill caused by the death of Wiley H. Pittman, Director of the Division of Purchase and Contract, and who had only been in this position for about three months, having been appointed to succeed A. S. Brower, who resigned in December to become executive secretary of the Duke University endowment.

The list of appointments which the Governor has to make on existing boards and commissions and in already established departments, might be continued indefinitely.

STRONG LOBBY MEETS DEFEAT

Every Effort to Weaken Anti-Slot Machine Act Is Repulsed

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Mar. 26.—Certainly the most persistent, and perhaps the most powerful, lobby in attendance at the legislature met complete defeat with the repulse of every effort to weaken or nullify the Flanagan Anti-Slot Machine bill passed about a week before sine die adjournment.

No stone was left unturned by the Slot lobbyists. Two last-minute bills were introduced in the hope that they might be passed and thereby the situation might be so muddled as to prevent law enforcement. Every member of the Senate and every member of the House was subjected to an intense barrage of persuasion and appeal.

Senator Ed Flanagan, of Greenville, who authored the bill which it is hoped will effectively outlaw the "one-armed bandits" in North Carolina after June 30, reported he has reason to believe he was shadowed constantly from the minute he introduced his bill in the Senate. The Pitt law maker also expressed the opinion that the telephone line to his room was tapped.

He said he is unable to prove that either of these things was done by the Slot-Machine lobby, but he freely expressed that opinion.

On the very last day of the session, a bill was introduced and actually passed by the Senate which its opponents say, would have made ineffective the drastic Flanagan act. In debate it was stated that three slot machine lobbyists were even then standing in the alcove back of the Speaker's desk. To the dying moment of the Senate a Slot-lobbyist was observed in the hall, and less than ten minutes before the final gavel fell he said "Not yet" in reply to a question if he was beaten.

Despite these tremendous efforts, however, the slots were doomed by a legislature which had made up its mind to stop what many believed to be plain, unadorned "swindling" of the state's people by operators of mechanically "stocked" devices.

"I use extra NV SULPHATE OF POTASH around my tobacco," says L. O. MOSELEY, of Kinston, N. C. "This gives me a total of about 9% potash in my tobacco fertilizer. This produces a smoother, brighter leaf that holds on the plant long enough to acquire a silky texture which means extra dollars on the warehouse floor. I am sold on extra potash. When I can get a friend to give it a fair trial, I feel that I have done him a favor, the results of which he can see."

"Cotton Bolls Open Wide With White, Fluffy Lint"

"I had a six-acre cotton field which had been abandoned because of rust," continues Mr. Moseley. "Three years ago I gave each acre 100 pounds of top-dresser made with soda and kainit in equal parts. I made 9 bales on the six acres, but some of the top bolls were rusty and the leaves looked rusty. The second year I changed my top-dresser to equal parts of nitrate of soda and muriate of potash to get more potash. All the bolls opened wide and turned out a fluffy, white lint that brought a premium of $7.50 per bale. My return per acre was 976 pounds of lint, which brought $146.40 and 49 bushels of planting seed which sold for $73.50. Think of growing fancy planting seed on old rusty abandoned cotton land."

THERE IS A BIG BARGAIN in every fertilizer price list this year. Figure it out for yourself. Compare the cost of 1,000 pounds of 3-8-8 with the cost of 1,000 pounds of 3-8-5. Usually six pounds of tobacco will pay the difference. The 18% more actual plant food that 3-8-8 contains is probably the cheapest fertilizer you can buy.

But don't buy 3-8-8 simply because it is a bargain, buy it because it is a better-balanced tobacco fertilizer. Remember, tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Farmers, who have been using low-potash fertilizer, discover that the extra potash in 3-8-8 is just the thing their tobacco needs to produce extra yields and extra quality.

You too have something to look forward to when you change to 3-8-8. Full-grained, high-quality tobacco gives more pounds than thin, tissue-paper leaf or light, trashy leaf. When you produce 1,000 pounds of tobacco per acre, an extra cent per pound due to extra quality will pay the extra cost of 3-8-8 many times over. And 3-8-8 not only improves the quality of your tobacco, it also greatly increases yields.

Your fertilizer man knows the importance of plenty of potash in tobacco fertilizer. That's why he has 3-8-8 on sale. Tell him you want to try using more NV POTASH this year. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER MADE WITH NV POTASH—the mixture that so many successful growers swear by. Your tobacco will thank you with YIELDS+QUALITY.

FOR COTTON: NV POTASH PREVENTS COTTON RUST, helps control Wilt and produces vigorous, healthy plants with less shedding, larger bolls that are easier to pick and better yields of uniform, high-quality lint. Use fertilizer containing 8 to 10% at planting; or top-dress with 200 pounds of NV KAINIT per acre, or 100 pounds of NV MURIATE, or a nitrogen-potash, mixed-goods top-dresser containing plenty of genuine NV POTASH. It Pays!

ODUS M. MULL MAY GET POST

Slated to Enter Hoey Administration in Some Capacity

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 26.—Where and when will Odus M. Mull of Shelby enter into the scheme of things in the Hoey administration?

This question is being asked more and more often behind the scenes here in connection with the speculation as to who will be appointed to what and why. For there are a good many who are convinced that Odus M. Mull is slated for one of the more choice appointments at the disposal of Governor Clyde R. Hoey, despite the fact that Governor Hoey has so far limited an oyster better than has any Governor in years with regard to his forthcoming appointments.

Yet those who are always digging around back of the scenes in an effort to find out what the Governor is going to do before he does it, are convinced that in the back of his head, Governor Hoey has from the first planned to bring Odus Mull to Raleigh to assist him and to become his unofficial "eyes and ears" in the administration of the affairs of the state.

Most of the speculation heard so far is to the effect that Mull seems to be more in line for the post of Assistant Director of the Budget than anything else, despite the fact that Frank L. Dunlap is at present holding this office. But those who have figured the situation out in advance for the Governor, point out the following facts:

1. In the closing days of the general assembly a bill was passed making Dunlap acting director of the Division of Purchase and Contract, pending the appointment of a full-time director, and that it would be very simple for the Governor to quietly suggest to Dunlap that he would like to take charge of this division.

2. The salaries of these two jobs are just about on a par, and could be easily adjusted, since the Governor is Director of the Budget and hence can fix the salaries of appointive officers at almost any figure he may desire.

3. That there has been considerable dissatisfaction among heads of the various state departments and institutions with Dunlap's "reign" in the Budget Bureau on the grounds that he has been too penny-pinching and even more autocratic than Henry Burke, his predecessor.

4. That some maintain Dunlap has been more interested in building up a surplus than in seeing that the inmates of many of the institutions were adequately provided for or in seeing that more adequate salaries were paid.

It is further being pointed out that it is very essential for a Governor to have an Assistant Director of the Budget who is close to him personally and politically and in sympathy with his ideas. For the Assistant Director is, to all intents and purposes, the actual director of the budget, in that Governors are usually too busy with other things to pay very close attention to the budget there. He is hence compelled to circumstances to turn most of the actual work over to the assistant director. As a result, the assistant director actually is a sort of assistant Governor, as far as the state's fiscal affairs are concerned. He comes in much closer contact with department and division heads and even with employees than does the Governor, especially since the Assistant Director of the Budget is also the state's personnel officer, following the recommendation of the personnel division with the budget bureau.

Accordingly, the post of Assistant Director of the Budget is regarded as the ideal appointment for the man upon whom the Governor expects to rely most for advice and counsel, especially if the Governor wants this man to become his other "eyes and ears" and to act as a pressure valvule. And if Odus Mull is to become the most favored appointee of this administration—a sort of unofficial "Crown Prince" and one-man "Brain Trust"—he should by all means be appointed Assistant Director of the Budget, many observers here agree. Mull's long experience in the business world as the executive head of several silk and cotton mills in Shelby, makes him well fitted to handle the financial end of the budget job, while his long experience in politics has also fitted him to handle the political end of it, observers point out. So watch for Mull.

WOULD EXPAND SAND FIXATION

Passage of Stock Law in Currituck Permits Project

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 25.—Passage of a law to extend the statewide stock law to certain parts of Currituck county will enable the Department of Conservation and Development to extend still further a "sand fixation" program already making great progress in eastern coastal sections.

The program, in which 900 men are employed, is not widely known throughout the state, but it is of

Chicago Police Unseat Sit-Down Strikers

Armed with warrants based on an old law against the withholding of property from the owners, Chicago police swung into action and removed hundreds of sit-down strikers from two factories and a store. Except for some grumbling, the sit-downers vacated without resistance. Officers are seen wading into a plant while strikers came out with hands high in the air. (Associated Press Photo) great importance to the barren, wind-swept sand-dune section of Dare, Tyrrell, Hyde and Currituck.

More than a little has been published about erosion of eastern beaches by the ocean's tides and currents, but there is probably as much or more damage done by the erosion caused by gales sweeping in from the sea over the dunes. It is this latter damage which the "sand fixation" program is designed to remedy.

First step in the program is to erect barriers (built something in the nature of close picket fences) against which the sand blown by winds may pile up something like snow drifts against country fences. Then grass is planted on these sand "drifts" as a starter and once the grass has taken root, the planting of trees is the next step.

On many of the long, barren, denuded coastal sections of north-east North Carolina this program is in full swing from Ocracoke north to the shores of Currituck.

It was planned to extend the program northward, but it was found that it would be useless so long as stock is permitted to run at large and devour the carefully planted grass as fast as it comes up. Hence the necessity of extending the stock law to Currituck and the resultant advantages to the "sand fixation" program.

PRIEST QUIZZED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Shortly after the nude body of Mrs. Lillian Householder of Medina, Ohio, was found in a lonely cabin near Greensburg, Pa., police announced they had questioned a man they identified as the Rev. Edward A. Haley, a priest of Canton, Ohio, who appeared at the mysterious death scene. The Rev. Haley is shown with Mrs. Householder. Authorities quoted him as saying she had been doing secretarial work for him. (Associated Press Photo)

SCHLITZ in "STEINIES" A Treat in Old-Time Taste

TREAT yourself today to Schlitz in "Steinie" Brown Bottles. You will instantly recognize that Schlitz is different... finer... more delicious and satisfying. It brings back memories of mellow, old-time beer in old stone steins.

Old-day brewmasters labored day and night to catch this subtle flavor peak. Schlitz brews it uniformly, winter or summer, into every drop by Precise Enzyme Control. At a cost of millions of dollars Schlitz, through research and development, has made the ancient art of brewing scientific and accurate.

Enjoy Schlitz today in the new "Steinie" Brown Bottles... familiar, Tall Brown Bottles... or Cap-Sealed Cans. Each brings you Schlitz, with health benefits of Sunshine Vitamin D.

Schlitz "Steinie" Brown Bottles are compact—light in weight—easy to carry—take less space in your refrigerator. Contents same as regular bottle.

You don't have to cultivate a taste for Schlitz... you will like it on first acquaintance... and ever after.

NORTH CAROLINIANS IN NATION'S CAPITAL

By PAUL BARKLEY

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—O. Max Gardner, governor of North Carolina during the depression years, is now the head of a thriving Washington law firm.

When he retired as governor in 1933, he announced he was leaving behind the public life in which he had figured off and on since young manhood—a career that saw him a legislator and lieutenant governor before he became the state's chief executive.

Gardner came to Washington at the beginning of the Roosevelt administration, organized his law firm and established it as one of the more important in the nation's capital.

Clients include textile, aviation and shipping interests. His associates include Fred Morrison, who was secretary of the state tax commission during Gardner's administration as governor.

Reports emanate from Washington occasionally that Gardner is still a power in North Carolina

FARLEY NAMED TO HEAD TEAM

To Manage Local Entry in Coastal Plain League

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Greenville Baseball club which this year will operate as a Class D professional club in the eight-club Coastal Plain league, Boland Farley was chosen manager. Mr. Farley managed the club both in 1935 and 1936.

The playing season will begin on Monday, May 10 and close the latter part of August. It is expected that all of the clubs which comprise the Coastal Plain league last year will again hold franchises.

President G. V. Smith, of the Greenville club, stated yesterday that there would be a meeting of officials of the various clubs next week to adopt a schedule, which will be submitted at that time.

"Although Greenville is not as yet affiliated with any of the major league clubs as a 'farm,' we do not anticipate any trouble in getting first-class material for the club," Mr. Smith stated. "Inquiry was made, in this connection, of the Philadelphia Athletics, but Manager Mack stated that his organization had all the 'farms' they could use this year. However, inquiry has been made of several others and we may yet be lined up with some club of the majors or top-notch minors."

Two Forestry Courses Listed at Duke School

Durham, Mar. 25.—Two forestry courses will be offered to Duke university summer school students for the first time during the coming session, according to Dr. Holland Holton, director of the summer school, who is issuing the school catalogue this week.

Prof. Francis X. Schumacher, a new member of the forestry staff, will be in charge of one of the courses.

Eight hours a day will be spent by students enrolled in each course. Forest surveying will be taught by Prof. William Mangum, the course being the application of plane surveying to forestry problems. Professor Schumacher will teach forest measurement, consisting of field studies in methods of measuring the contents and growth of trees and forest stands.

The course in forest surveying will be for three weeks, beginning June 26. The other course will be for four weeks, beginning July 17.

Dr. Holton announces the dates of the three Duke summer terms. The first will be from June 9 to July 20, the second from July 1 to August 11, and the third from July 21 to August 31.

A number of widely known visiting professors will augment members of the regular university faculty on the summer school teaching staff. Already there have been many inquiries concerning the coming summer term. Dr. Holton states. Last year there were 3,053 registrations in the Duke summer schools.

For consideration in the home is the backbone of successful family living.

Get Down to Breakfast
Getting down to breakfast on time—fully dressed and with something besides a grouchy disposition—really isn't so difficult once the habit has been established.

Cigarette Problem.
Teaching everybody to answer the family telephone politely and take messages carefully makes it much easier for all concerned. (A convenient memorandum and pencils will help.)

From the youngest member of the menage right up through and including the two heads of the house it ought to be thoroughly understood that being polite to all guests in the house is a not-to-be-violated rule. That goes for Ginny Zels—who comes to see nine-year-old Anna Marie Bundy—just as much as it does for Mama and Papa Bundy's guests.

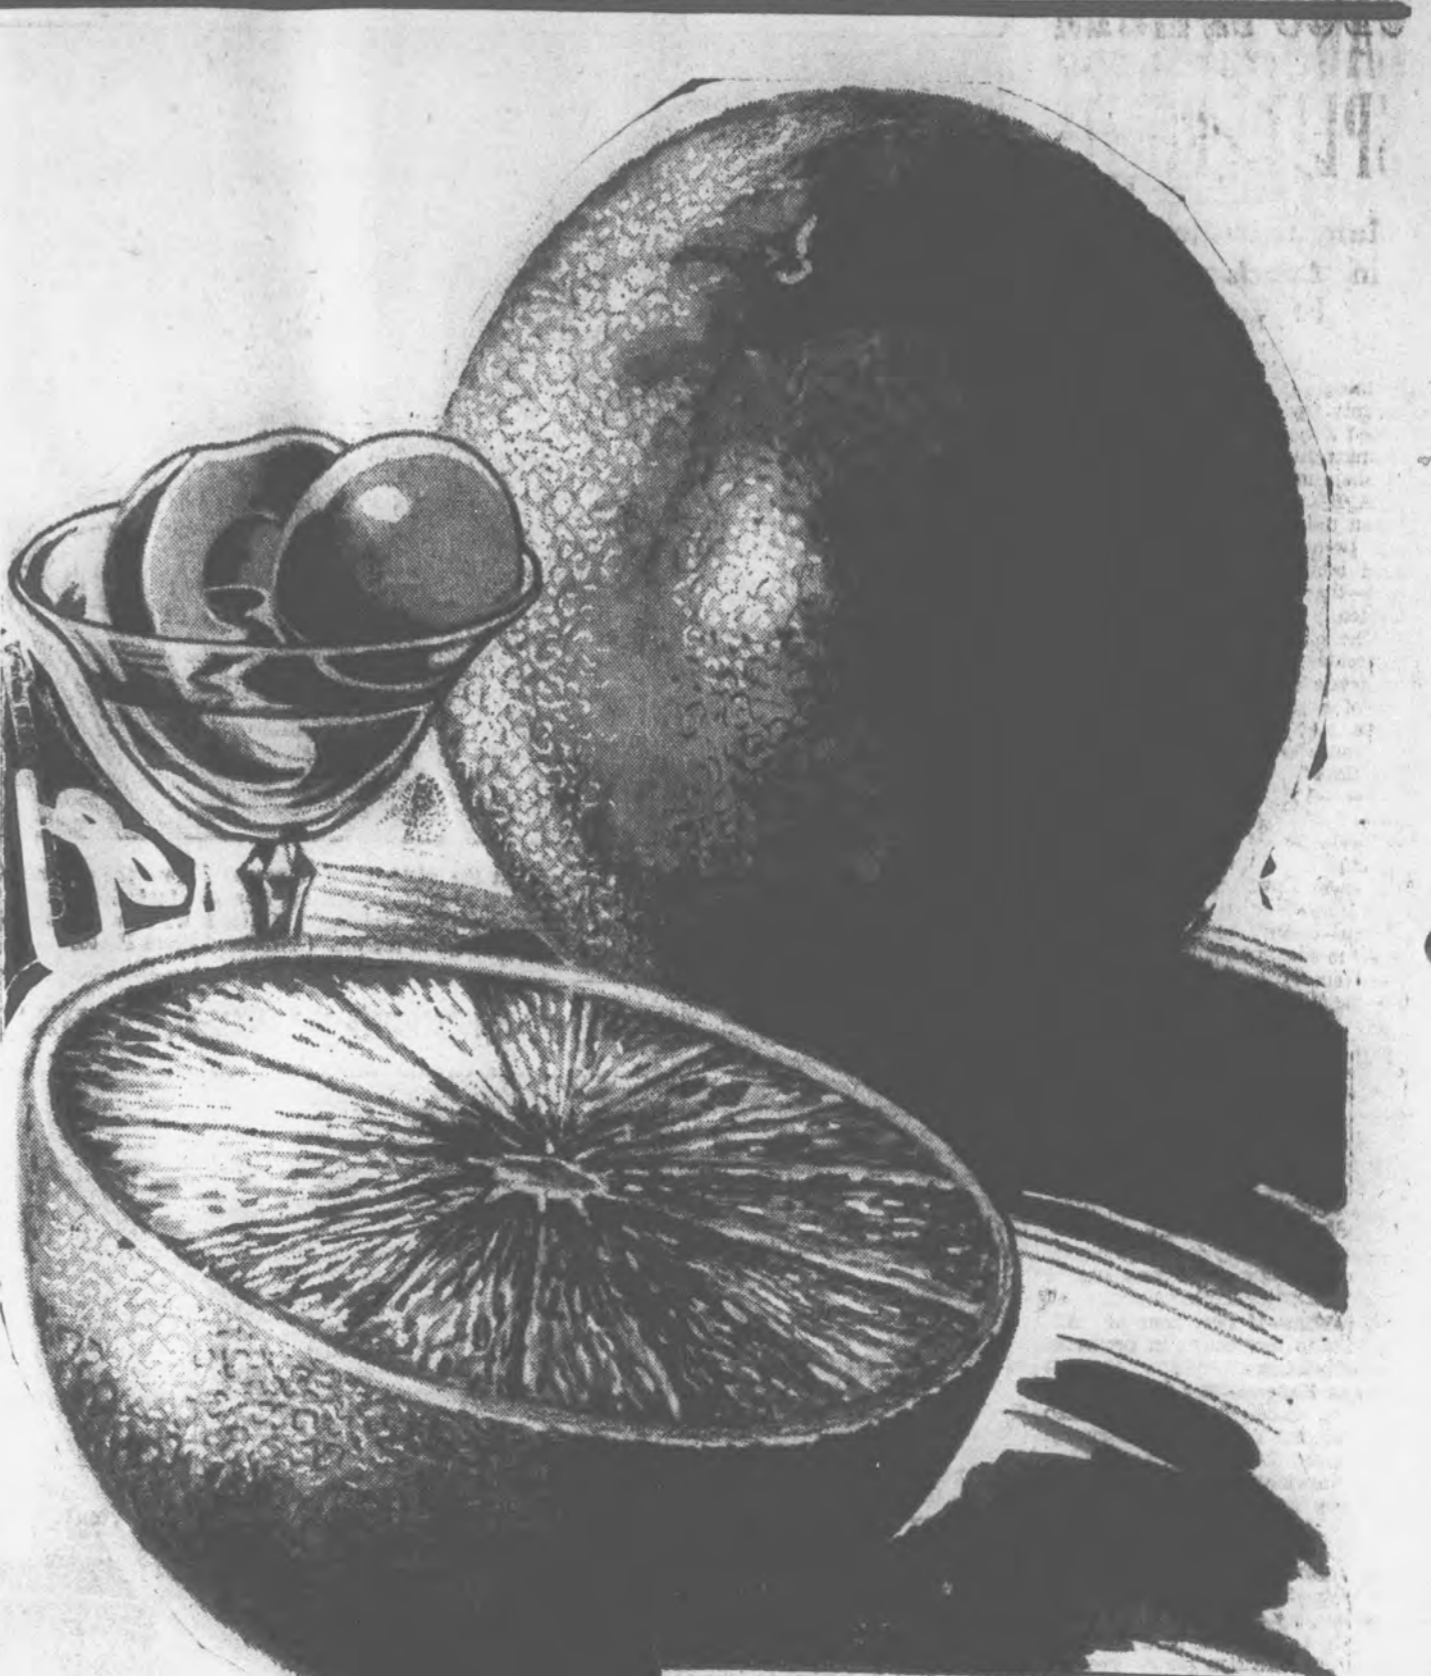

Resting cigarettes on the ash trays meant to hold them—and not burning holes in the living room furniture or casually dumping the remains into soiled dishes—is something which requires just a dash of extra thoughtfulness on the part of the head of the house.

Always standing when the older members of the family or their visitors come into the room... teaching Ernest, Jr., to pull his sister's chair out at the dinner table... instructing sister to pause long enough to say hello to company in her rush through the living room to get her skates in the kitchen—all of these little considerations should be "musts" in every family etiquette routine.

Mediterranean breeds of poultry, including most of the smaller types of chickens, differ considerably from most others in the age at which they feather out.

Dr. Henry G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. and M. college, has been mentioned as a candidate for the Oklahoma governorship.

Here's More Than "Bread and Butter" Business for Food Stores!

Preparing three meals is the housewife's daily duty. But kinds and quality of food served depend upon the dollars.

Each month, Greenville families spend $65,083.00 for foodstuffs. Compare this with $22,249.00—the amount expended by the same number of average families in North Carolina. In this classification of business—Greenville's extra buying-power is $42,834.00 per month, or $514,008.00 per year.

This means money for the necessities—plus demand for the dainties. Feature complete food assortments in your newspaper advertisements. You'll receive substantial orders for the extras as well as the ordinaries.

Help the housewife—by making new menu suggestions for delicious, nutritious meals. Your store is the point of sale—but most shopping lists are prepared at home—from your newspaper.

This is the third advertisement in a series to inform advertisers on Greenville's Buying-Power in business. Read and keep these advertisements.

Annual retail sales in Greenville exceed $6,021,978. In the state of North Carolina, the average amount is $1,343,335.00 for the same number of people.

Let Reflector advertising build more than "bread and butter" business. In this city of super-sales, there's ample funds for the better things of life.

PLEASED WITH NEW N. C. LAWS

Conservation Department Officials Are Satisfied

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, March 26.—Officials of the Department of Conservation & Development are well pleased with legislation enacted by the General Assembly as it affects their department.

Both Director Bruce Etheridge and Assistant to the Director Paul Kelly, in summarizing the work of the just-departed solons were obviously satisfied with the general results obtained, though there were minor matters in which the department is interested and which did not get the favorable action hoped for.

Principal reason for satisfaction is, of course, the quarter million dollar appropriation for advertising North Carolina during the next biennium. Department officials realize that this program will entail a great deal of extra work for them but they feel it will result in great good to the state and will pay for itself many times over in industries and tourists attracted. Definite and concrete plans for putting the program into effect have not yet been completed.

A second bit of legislation which was very pleasing to the department was the appropriation of funds with which to purchase a new patrol boat and this brings North Carolina's "navy" up to a point of reasonable efficiency. The new craft will be invaluable, officials believe, in establishing a patrol which will effectively keep "foreign" trawlers outside the three-mile limit and thus protect the commercial fishing interests of the state, which are seriously threatened by trawler interference with the migration of fish.

The Department views with satisfaction, too, the generally successful repulse of efforts to weaken the state-wide game and fish laws by local legislation permitting exempt-a definite appropriation for North Carolina's participation in the New York World's Fair of 1939 was a bit disappointing to the department, its official said, but the bill authorizing a commission to look into the matter and to finance a North Carolina building at the Fair by sale of space is looked upon as having more than bare possibilities.

Mr. Etheridge expressed the opinion that employment of a wide-awake active "salesman" would result in North Carolina's being well represented and its advantages well displayed at the Fair. He pointed out that there are any number of large industries and businesses in the state which would probably be glad of the opportunity to purchase space in a North Carolina building. He expressed the hope that this can be accomplished.

A new forest fire prevention act, which will be effective in the sixty counties which co-operate with the state forestry division, is also looked upon by the department as an advance. This bill makes it unlawful "to start or cause to be started any fire in any of the areas of woodlands under the State Forest Service, or within five hundred feet of any such protected area, between April 1 and June 15, or between October 15 and December 1, without first obtaining from the State Forester or one of his agents, a permit." No charge will be made for the permit.

The Department was satisfied, too, with statutes enabling it to acquire additional land for Morrow Mountain State Park and to purchase Smith's Island, in Brunswick county, at a tax sale if funds are available.

An epidemic in 1932 piled up from 8,000 to 10,000 dead ducks to the mile along the shore of Great Salt Lake for a distance of six miles.

Gradual exhaustion of underground well water has caused 20,000 acres of land to be abandoned in California's upper San Joaquin valley.

Talks To Parents

AIRING THE TODDLER

The problem of airing the children recurs with terrible monotony. Every day the baby carriage must be hauled out and prepared as if for a journey, the toddler must be elaborately dressed and supplied with a toy, and the procession starts.

Just getting everyone ready takes half an hour. There are so many clothes to put on, and the carriage coverings are so elaborate and require so much adjusting.

But why should they be? The extra coverlid usually is not for warmth, but for looks. The baby's clothes are not all necessary; some are only for show. And the two-year-old's play is sadly hampered by the care which he must take of his best coat and hat.

It is surprising how much trouble some women will take, to impress their neighbors. Apparently their whole life is lived according to the standards of others. What does the opinion of Mrs. Jones next door really matter? She does not have to do the work of keeping the pink carriage cover and the frill bonnet and the pale blue coat and hat clean. If she did, she would not have so much time to spend watching her neighbors.

The daily walk is not a parade nor a party. It should, as far as possible, be easy and pleasant for both mother and children. Clothes and carriage robes should be clean and whole and very practical. An extra layer, which is only for show and must be put away and taken out with care, simply adds one unnecessary chore to the "musts".

The toddler should have a suit which is easy to put on and off and which allows him freedom to romp and play to his heart's content, with no anxious looks or admonitions from his mother. Such simplification would save hours every week.

Plant specialists at the cotton breeding experiment station at Florence, S. C. made more than 9,200 cross breedings last year.

Breeding troubles, lowered production and difficulty in raising cotton were more evident in the winter following a dry year.

EFFORTS FAIL TO OUST HOOD

Banking Commissioner Again Withstands Attacks

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, March 26.—Opponents of Gurney P. Hood state commissioner banks, failed in their efforts to pry him loose from his job, just as they did two years ago, but they never let up in their fight on the man who has the almost unanimous support of the state's banks and who is given much credit for the manner in which most of North Carolina's closed banks have been able to re-open or pay off to a large extent.

Not satisfied with rushing defeat in committee early in the session, hostile lawmakers made a last minute effort to "get" Mr. Hood with bills abolishing his department or transferring its functions to some other state agency to such an extent that he would be left with no authority over anything.

Among the banks and bankers there is a widespread belief that every one of these attempts against the commissioner are inspired by the Branch company, with head offices in Wilson.

Certainly Representative Troy T. Barnes, of Wilson, has played a leading role in the attacks on the banking set-up.

Other representatives who aided Mr. Barnes include Bob Patton, of Macon county, and T. C. Stone, of Rockingham.

Mr. Patton, like Mr. Barnes, was an early introducer of a bill which would have made Mr. Hood "null and void."

At a hearing before the House Banks and Banking committee, representatives of almost every bank in the state protested against any change in the present banking set-up of the state and re-affirmed their faith in the honesty and ability of Mr. Hood. After Messrs. Barnes and Patton had been heard, the committee unanimously voted down both bills.

The last minute bills were quickly and overwhelmingly beaten.

Thieves Fore and Aft
Toledo, O. (AP)—Bernard Gode was robbed so frequently when he parked his car in a garage, that he decided to leave the car in front of the house. He tied two large lanterns, front and rear to avoid any "no-lights" parking tickets. Someone stole both lanterns the very first night.

Step up, brother, TO THE HEAD OF THE CLASS!

SOMEONE has to set the pace—why shouldn't it be you? You've got what it takes to own the bellwether car of the year—and this Buick is what it takes to make you leading citizen!

Look at it! The clean, lean, lithe lines tell of power to make your heart beat faster. Sit in it! It sets you up like extra money in the bank, just to feel this solid, stable, steady, fine-steel mass beneath you!

Touch the treadle! You loose the power of an engine that knows no equal, size for size, anywhere in the world!

What'll this handsome traveler do? Bless you, anything you ask, but the big thing is: what'll it do to you? It'll put you at the head of the class—but front in smart style, out front as a smart buyer!

For with all the power of its oil-cushioned valve-in-head straight-eight engine—with all its size and roominess and smartness and firm, safe roadability—it carries the lowest price tag ever hung on a Buick to put it easily within your reach.

Step in to see your nearest Buick dealer and step up to the head of the class before summer starts.

LOWEST PRICE EVER ON A BUICK 4-DOOR SEDAN!
Today's price for a Buick 4-door sedan is the lowest in Buick history—and you get longer wheelbase—greater power—valve-in-head thrill—straight-eight smoothness—roomier body—safety glass all around—bigger luggage compartment—and immeasurably greater performance, comfort and style! See your dealer for low delivered prices, and see what a Buick really is, compared to the average size outside the lowest price field.
