FIRING HALTS EASTER TRUCE IN CIVIL WAR

General Attacks Signalled on Well Separated Fronts

DEFENSE ARMIES THREATEN AVILA

Spanish Insurgents Lending Efforts to Stop Reverses on Guadalajara Front

On Spanish Battlefronts, March 29.—(AP)—The crash of cannonade and the fierce crackle of rifle fire broke an Easter truce of fatigue today and signalled general attacks on well separated fronts by Government and insurgent armies of Spain.

Moving in a 36-mile arrow-head salient, Government armies from the historic Escorial Heights, West of Madrid, menaced Vila, vital insurgent headquarters. Big Government field guns on the mountains, only 15 miles away boomed dully. It was disclosed the Government troops had moved swiftly and silently into their positions while the insurgents were lending their efforts to stop their reverses in the Guadalajara front, to the North-east.

To the South, near Pozoblanco, a mobile screen of Moorish troops screened a two-sided insurgent advance on some rich mercury and coal mining lands. Observers saw the signals for the push as they were relayed from mountain top to mountain top. Then the Moors, followed by fascist infantrymen, deployed "skirmishes," surged ahead to resume the insurgent assault which had been interrupted only for days on the Pozoblanco sector—directed at the Government-held Aldana mines.

Local Supervisor Issues Report On N. Y. A. Activities

J. K. McLawhorn Describes Work Being Carried On In Pitt County by Federal-State Agency

J. K. McLawhorn, supervisor of the National Youth Administration for several counties in this area, today issued a statement in which he described activities being carried on by the agency in this county.

The statement follows: The National Youth Administration employs approximately sixty youths in Pitt County. These youths, between eighteen and twenty-five years of age, are working in twelve work units, arranged to cover the entire county. Each unit specializes in a different type of work. Their training consists of actual association and work in public offices, libraries, manual art classes in the several schools, beautification of public grounds and supervision of recreational activities of small children in the different communities.

Each youth is placed in the work best suited for his or her qualifications and is paid by the National Youth Administration for sixty hours work each month. These placements are very carefully watched and if the youth shows a great amount of improvement along any particular line, it is very possible he or she will be placed in private employment in some office or business house. It is through these methods that many are able to obtain training, heretofore lacking, that will enable them to make a livelihood for themselves in the future.

The organization carefully studies each youth's problem as it is presented, and every effort is made to improve them financially and morally in order to make of them better citizens in the future. Many local youths have been aided through the cooperation of the Supervisor and interested citizens, and we anticipate greater interest on the part of the citizens, and more youths aided in the program outlined for the next few months.

This Young Boy Has Faith In Policemen

Leonard Ernest, Jr., young Greenville boy, probably has high regard for the Greenville police force.

This morning the youth stood out in front of the headquarters while one of his friends went in and reported that his pal's bicycle was missing, but he was too timid to report it to police. Chief G. A. Clark had Leonard come in and showed him a bicycle some member of the force had found. The bicycle belonged to Leonard, who rode off with a smile on his face and, no doubt, a high regard for policemen.

SHIP WINS IN FIGHT AT SEA

Stricken Freighter Volunteer Proceeds Toward Kobo

San Francisco, Mar. 29.—(AP)—The stricken freighter Volunteer, with 39 aboard, apparently was winning its fight early today against a leaky hull and defective pumps, radio messages indicated.

Mackay radio reported a message from the liner Empress Of Canada at 3 a. m., saying the Volunteer was trying to make Kobo under its own power. The message said the British motor ship Fresno City, which sped 240 miles under forced draft to the aid of the volunteer, had resumed its course to Los Angeles.

A Japanese freighter was reported standing by the Volunteer, which carried a crew of 37 and two passengers. The first message in nearly 24 hours to be received by Globe wireless from the passenger liner President Harrison read: "Volunteer proceeding slowly to Kobo."

Several Cases Heard In City Court Today

Elwood Gwaltney was fined $5 and costs in City court this morning on a charge of exceeding the speed limit. The charge grew out of a wreck at the intersection of Tenth and Washington streets earlier in the morning.

Bert Anderson, Negro, was fined $10 and costs upon conviction of drunkenness. Hugh Styron was bound over to County court under bond of $200 on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of whiskey. The charge grew out of a wreck in the city in which no one was injured.

Willie Corey, Negro, was bound over to County court under bond of $300 on a whiskey charge.

Farmville Negro Held In Shooting Scrape

Coy Farmer, Farmville Negro, is being held under $200 bond, charged with shooting "another" Negro, Napoleon Atkinson, yesterday. Atkinson is in Pitt General hospital, but his condition is not considered serious. Chief of Police Pittman of Farmville said Atkinson went into a cafe operated by Farmer and threatened the operator, who in turn shot Atkinson.

John Lewis Takes up Cause of 400,000 Miners In New York; Negotiations Slated to Proceed on Detroit Automobile Tie-Up

New York, Mar. 29.—(AP)—John Lewis today called William Green's condemnation of sit-down strikes "characteristically cowardly and contemptible."

(By Associated Press) John Lewis, key figure in the Chrysler corporation strike, swung today to another front in his campaign to impel the growth of the C. I. O.

While negotiations for settlement of Detroit's three weeks' old automobile tie-up were slated to proceed tonight, the portly C. I. O. leader took up the cause of 400,000 soft coal miners in New York.

It was felt by parties to the deadlock which holds the threat of strike on Thursday, Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers for 16 years, would help compose the differences of miners and operators. The miners seek a 15 per cent

QUESTION MAN ABOUT DEATHS ATTY. GENERAL IS CRITICISED

Inspectors Investigating Easter-Eve Triple Slaying

New York, Mar. 29.—(AP)—Police Inspectors Thomas Tunney and Rudolph McLaughlin, investigating the Easter Eve triple slaying of Pretty Evronia Gedeon, 20-year-old artist's model, her mother and a man roomer, took into custody for questioning today a man identified by them only as "Louis" or "Freney."

Tunney, a brother of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, said the man was taken in a tenement house at 223 East 53rd street, quarters directly across the street from where Miss Gedeon and mother, Mrs. Mary Gedeon, 54, operated a furnished rooming house until last December.

A gymnasium, band house and cafeteria served the little group of 200 pupils and 19 teachers in place of the destroyed high school, once commodious main unit of the $1,000,000 campus that oil built.

Ecru, Miss., Students Strike For Teachers

Ecru, Miss., Mar. 29.—(AP)—About 123 high school students walked out today on a strike after four teachers who said they were far behind in their pay failed to report for their classes.

P. O. Skiles, superintendent, said there "has been some misunderstanding about finance." "This matter will be taken care of."

Cry Of Unconstitutional On New Tax 'Exemptions'

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 29.—The cry now being raised that the "exemptions" allowed in the new taxes on intangibles are unconstitutional appear to many lawyers and laymen as more or less far fetched.

Chief instigator of the "unconstitutional" outcry is John L. Skinner, Warren County, who is executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners. The very word "exemption" is anathema to Mr. Skinner and his outburst against the intangibles has occasioned no surprise in any quarter. It would have been really surprising if he had not started some such hullabaloo, despite the fact that he said last fall the Constitutional amendment on the subject was a "blank check" giving the Assembly full authority to do whatever it wished.

Whatever merit there may be in Mr. Skinner's theorem will have to be decided by reference to the amendment adopted last fall in connection with the tax and exemption provisions left unchanged in the Constitution. The matter is being studied by the attorney general's office and it is likely that Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell will have something to say in the near future.

Meanwhile there is nothing to prevent unofficial law suits or even, ambitious laymen from expressing their "horseback" or "popeyed" opinions regarding the matter and the consensus of these of the record decisions seem to indicate.

First: That it would be very difficult to get the matter before the Supreme court, assuming the so-called exemptions to be unconstitutional. Second: That they are not unconstitutional and that the Supreme Court will so decide if the matter ever gets before it. On the first conclusion the point is made that no taxpayer who is taxed on his money in the bank could be heard to complain that $100 of his deposit has not been taxed. That would be an obvious absurdity. Then there is a line of court decisions that no taxpayer who has no money to be taxed can complain that his taxes on other property will be raised by the exemptions because the effect on such a taxpayer would be so insignificant as to give him no standing in court as a complainant. The old law maxim or "de minimis lex non curat" is applicable, these decisions say, meaning in plain English that the law will not concern itself with trifles. Obviously the effect of exempting some small sum in each class of intangibles would have only an entirely negligible effect on the taxes to be paid by Taxpayer. (Continued on page two)

TEN LIVES LOST ON HIGHWAYS OF STATE

Five Persons Killed At Charlotte Grade Crossing

Charlotte, Mar. 29.—(AP)—Ten lives were lost on North Carolina highways over the Easter week-end, a checkup showed today.

Five persons were killed in a grade-crossing on the edge of Charlotte. The victims were Robert Clarkson, a textile worker, and his son, Bryce; Mrs. Gertrude Walker and her son, Joe; and L. D. Hawley, a neighbor.

James H. Jett, 54, was killed and his wife seriously injured when an automobile hit them on a Charlotte street. Miss Letha Brunson, 23, was killed and three others were injured in a wreck at Wallace.

Charles Padgett, 64, was struck by a truck at Statesville and died. Carbon monoxide fumes killed Riley Harper, six, in a car at New Bern. Harry Baker, a Negro, was struck and killed at a crossing at Rocky Mount.

Nine persons were injured in traffic mishaps in the Winston-Salem area as thousands gathered there for the Easter Moravian services.

Butler, with John McDonough of Boston, was a co-receiver for the Hosiery Mills corporation, of which he had been president.

Butler served as chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1924 and managed President Calvin Coolidge's campaign at that time. He was appointed United States Senator from Massachusetts November 13, 1914 for the term ending in 1936.

NEW DEAL ACTS HELD VALID BY HIGH TRIBUNAL

Principle of State Regulating Wages Women Affirmed

FRAZIER - LEMKE MEASURE UPHELD

Supreme Court Also Declares Railway Labor Act To Be Constitutional

Washington, March 29.—(AP)—The Supreme court upheld two major acts of the Roosevelt administration today and affirmed the principle of minimum wages for women.

Reversing its previous stand on the question of state control of minimum wages, the high tribunal upheld the constitutionality of the Washington law establishing minimum wages for women.

It also upheld the validity of the railway labor act, and Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage acts.

The high court unanimously upheld the railway labor act, requiring railroads to engage in collective bargaining with their workmen in an effort to settle industrial disputes.

Justice Stone delivered the unanimous opinion, which was studied by administration leaders for possible indications of what the court's views would be on the Wagner Labor Relations act.

The decision was delivered in a case brought by the Virginia Railway Company against a group of its employees who belong to the American Federation of Labor.

The tribunal affirmed a recent court opinion directing the railroad to engage in collective bargaining.

"The peaceable settlement of labor controversies especially where they may seriously impair the ability of an interstate carrier to perform its service to the public is a matter of public concern," Stone said.

In a second opinion, the court reversed a previous decision and upheld constitutionality of the Washington law establishing minimum wages for women.

This five to four decision was delivered by Chief Justice Hughes. (Continued on page four)

Attorney General Ruling Supported By Supreme Court

Seawell and Associates Declared Right in Decision on Herford County Case

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 29.—Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell and his associates in the attorney-general's office must be chuckling to themselves over the recent United States Supreme court decision in the case of L. J. Lawrence vs. John A. Shaw and other members of the Herford county Board of Commissioners, although of course they can't come out openly and grinningly tell the Superior and Supreme courts of North Carolina "I told you so."

Reason for this restrained mirth lies in the fact that Chief Justice Hughes and the other eight "Old Men" have confirmed an opinion of the attorney-general's office, given in 1930, and have overruled the opinions of Superior Court Judge E. H. Cramer and of the North Carolina Supreme Court as written by "Connor, J." as the law reports have it.

In everyday language here's what happened. The attorney-general's office rendered an advisory opinion that money in bank to the credit of a World War Veteran and which is the proceeds of payment of federal compensation is not taxable by the county or by any other governmental agency. Judges Cramer and Connor held otherwise. The highest U. S. tribunal backed the attorney general.

In 1930 L. J. Lawrence, guardian for Harry Newsome, an incompetent war veteran, secured the ruling from the attorney general, and for five years no taxes were levied or levied against the veteran's bank account. In 1935 the board of commissioners caused to be listed and assessed full taxes for the five years preceding Lawrence paid the taxes under protest, and brought an action to recover, the case coming before the courts on an agreed statement of facts. The Supreme Court ruling resulted after the guardian had lost in the lower and highest state courts.

It was specifically stated, however, in the U. S. opinion that the result would have been otherwise had the money been converted into some form of investment in the veteran or his guardian. In that case it would have been taxable.

NOT TOLERATED IN NORTH CAROLINA

Governor Hoy made it clear in his radio address Saturday night that no sit-down strikes would be tolerated in North Carolina.

Summing up the situation the governor said:

"It might not be amiss to restate the rights and obligations of all classes of our citizenship. Under the law, labor has a right to bargain collectively, to petition, to strike if it so elects, to picket peacefully. Labor likewise has the right to work and the right not to be interfered with in that right to work."

"The right to quit work and the right to work are both sacred and every citizen has the right to exercise his choice without fear, without molestation, and without intimidation."

"Sit-down strikes are unlawful and cannot be tolerated in North Carolina. We are a people believing in law and order, and no man or set of men has the right to take charge of the property of others and hold it against the will of the owner. Men would have no more right to sit down in a mill and refuse to vacate than an employer would have to go into a labor union hall and refuse to let the unionists hold a meeting."

There would be just as much sense and reason in a person moving his family into the home of another and refusing to leave as there is in the present popular tactics of workers in some of the industrial states where workers are sitting down in the plants of their employers and refusing to move out. No one would wish to take away the legitimate rights of any worker, likewise the rights of the property owner are entitled to the same protection. The government can and should put an end to this strike business that prevents a laborer from working regardless of his own wishes in the matter and endangers the property of the employer and upsets the whole economic situation of the sections of the country affected by the strikes.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Official Washington and the calmer heads among labor would like mighty well to see an end to the sit-down but nobody has advanced any remedy except to grant all the labor requests for more money or less work. And that idea, carried to its ultimate fruition, official Washington more.

EVE'S ORCHARD

MARGARET WIDDEMER SYNOPSIS: Eve Manningfield goes back to her 200-year-old house and orchard in Connecticut after five years in New York. She plans to marry pop, big-brother Denny and return to Manhattan. Uncle Henry, an old family friend, and the penniless Featherstones, with their serious young son Judge, move in with Eve. Her cousin, practical neighbor, George Cleveland, who loves her, comes over evenings with his steel magnate father, Denny, for a weekend and is invited to stay in the house with Mr. Cleveland from whom he hopes to get a help job.

Chapter 28 Mitz's Motives

WELL, Denny said, drawing a long breath and stretching, "I feel as if I'd been playing contract with Santa Claus!"

"Oh, Denny, then—" Eve began eagerly. But Marilyn, still avid, interrupted.

"Denny, tell us more about Mitz's taking a place at Southampton. Is she really going to? Maybe she'll ask us all for weekends!"

Denny glanced at Eve resignedly. The Featherstones amiably oblivious in their interest in the outside world, had no intention of leaving the lovers alone.

"Oh, all right," he said. "Tomorrow morning I've whisked to Denny as they said goodnight, lingering in the hall outside Denny's room.

They had scarcely taken time to talk of anything but love.

They had breakfast alone, in their sweaters out on the back porch in the May sunshine. The air was sharply sweet; the green lawn stretched beyond them, glittering with dew-stared cobwebs. Above at the end rose the budding orchard. They had scarcely taken time yet to talk of anything but love. Presently they heard Marilyn's window closed above their heads; on this day of all days she was getting up, hungry for more talk!

"Come on to the orchard!" Eve said, laughing.

They ran out hand-in-hand. She laughed and threw back her head, looking around her. "Don't you love it, Denny?"

She had been telling him excitedly about the white French lilacs, and another nearby rose-colored kind, rediscovered among the purple ones on each side the tall portico they had just passed; and that the lilacs-of-the-valley had spread so that they were having to root some up and throw them away.

She flushed and laughed, walking with him down the gravel path that was bordered with daffodils, past the garlanded June roses. Beyond the strawberry bed, past the tangle of berry vines, three rough wooden steps took them presently to the narrow path between the thick-growing wide-budding trees.

"But Not For Our Sort!" THEY had climbed the steps and were in the midst of the orchard path before he answered, and then it was seriously. He stopped. His arms closed round her as they stood among the leafing trees in a little clearing, the warm sun on their shoulders.

"I'd like it well enough as a background to the Cleveland's sort of life; riding horses and country clubs and hunt breakfasts and games. But not for our sort of people. Nothing but God's country! Well, people like us have to have the pleasures we can afford, and we can only find them in cities."

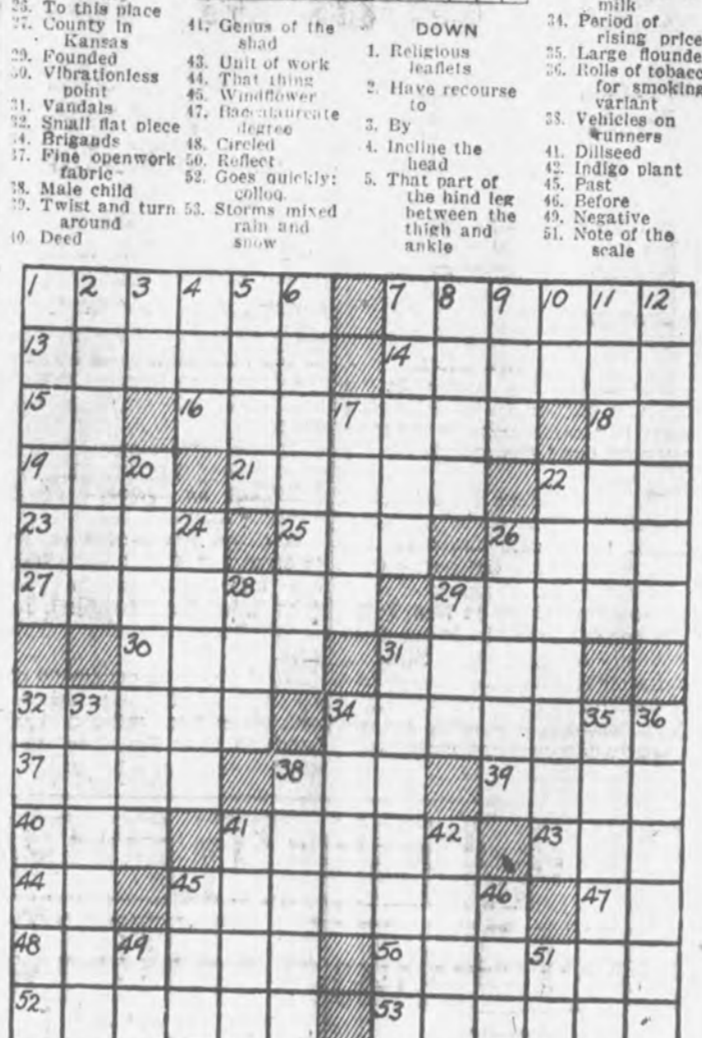

He was speaking more seriously than usual, her gay Denny. He hadn't talked much, ever, of his early life, but what little he had said had given a pretty clear picture—a gay spoiled lad with an indulgent mother; Virginia country-house; some sort of financial crash, or it may merely have been that the money had come to an end; the mother remarrying, a man some ten years older than Denny, and even those deeply sympathetic with labor, including a large portion of the public, are becoming as bored and annoyed by sit-downs as they once were at flag-pole sitters.

Prices Counteract. The idea of higher wages is not upsetting here as a general thing and not a few business men have felt labor was entitled to a bigger bite of the industrial pie. But Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board bluntly protested that taxes and congress shuddered almost to a man. The chief unbalancing feature of the budget, relief, drew from Eccles only that he did not favor balancing it at the expense of those needing relief. And what's the picture there? Harry Hopkins, the WPA administrator, said 1937 would find 6,500,000 unemployed. "Indeed," he said, "it is conceivable that industrial production might level off or go into a decline, in which case the unemployment problem would be correspondingly larger."

The question might, some believe, be raised by a board of county commissioners who might seek a "declaratory judgment" without formal action, but even in that case there would have to be some real question at issue.

But over and above the question of how the issue could be raised is the contention that the Constitutional amendment clearly gives the legislature the right to exempt any part, or all for that matter, of any class of property from taxation, with the sole restraint upon it must be "just and equitable" in its exercise of the taxing power and that taxes, if any are imposed, must be "uniform" within each classification.

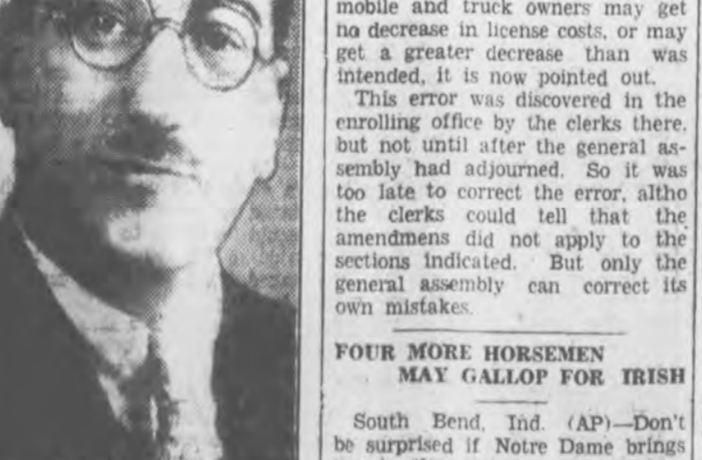

Under this view the whole constitutional provision reading exemptions is in effect repealed and rendered null and void.

The language of the taxation amendment is: "The power of taxation shall be exercised in a just and equitable

Senator Smith Plays He's Boy Again At 72

COTTON ED 'RENEW'S' HIS YOUTH Bending to let Lillie Mae Garrett 'leap the frog,' 72-year-old Senator E. D. Smith launches his youth 'renewal program' at Greenville, S. C.

Greenville, S. C. — Baseball spring training in the south brought the original swat king back to the diamond to knock a few around.

Here is Senator E. D. ("Cotton Ed") Smith—a wallper and portside flinger 60 years ago on Lynchburg pasture diamonds.

His dark ones won him games; his slugging lasting fame in the Lynchburg section.

When he stepped up to the plate? "A homer nearly every time," recalls the 72-year-old South Carolinian, one of the oldest U. S. senators.

And could he take it atfield? "Took it straight," boasts Cotton Ed. "No gloves, no masks, no pads." He held up a bunned finger.

"Mark of my indulgence in the game, my boy."

"Spirit Never Ages" Smith unburdened himself of problems in Washington to come here and "renew" his youth.

While he was doing it he was guest of honor at the Southern textile basketball tournament.

His day of fun and frolic ran the gamut from letting pretty girls "leap-the-frog" over him, to swatting the ball and scooping up hot grounders.

"One never grows old emotionally and in spirit," declares Smith. "And I might say mentally."

In his day the broad-shouldered legislator, who is beginning his 29th consecutive year as Senator, was an all round athlete.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your food which has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shook, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation.

CHINA USES MOVIES TO TEACH ILLITERATES

Nanking, China (AP) — Movies will provide education for China's illiterate country people. With the help of the national government, eighty units will travel throughout the country. Each will be assigned a district which it will cover once a month. Four pictures will be shown at each town for a very small cost to the individual. Scientific subjects will be emphasized with world geography, which is expected to foster an understanding of international relations.

SHAKESPEARE CENTER PLANNED IN LONDON

London (AP) — A great Shakespearean center in London is the goal of the new Globe-Mermaid Association of England and America. It hopes to rebuild Shakespeare's old Globe Theater, destroyed by fire in June, 1613, and the Mermaid Tavern, originally in Bread street, and much frequented at its time by Shakespeare and his friends, and to found an Elizabethan library and museum. The project will cost at least $1,250,000, with the buildings to be constructed on the Surrey Embankment, in the heart of London's Shakespeare Land.

WASHINGTON WOMEN

By SIGRID ARNE (AP Feature Service Writer) Washington.—It is Cora Rubin's slate-blue eyes and faint smile that people meet when they dash into the office of Senator William E. Borah, Idaho, who with a brand-new plan to save the world.

Ten-to-one they tell Miss Rubin instead, and she passes the plan on to the senator in a condensed form, because he can't see all people read all letters or take all the phone calls that have come his way since he became the senate's outstanding man on foreign relations. She's a champion "putter-offer."

29 Years On Job. Miss Rubin "got a job and kept it" 29 years ago. Borah had just come to congress. She was a fresh-faced, efficient young woman with a business-college diploma who had been hired as a stenographer. Since 1908 she has swung between Washington and Boise.

In late years her mother comes with her. Once Miss Rubin became so curious about events in Russia that she took a trip over for a look-see. But that's about the only time she has left the job in three decades.

She is the dean of senatorial secretaries. She was one of the few women in senatorial offices when she came here, and she still is one of the few serving as office managers for senators. She has a staff of five, two of them men.

Doesn't Smoke. Her first job each day is to go over the mail. She sorts it into six boxes; one for farmers and ranchers back home, one for veterans' troubles, one for the league of nations, and so on. All day long her staff phones or calls personally on government departments to answer that mail.

No lunch for Miss Rubin. No cigars. No minutes out for gossip with other secretaries. No relaxing sport on Sunday. She's almost as much a "lone wolf" as her employer.

She smiles down at her 150 pounds, five feet six, and asks, "Well, do I look undernourished, even if I have no lunches?"

Dresses Conservatively. When the senator is active in a senate fight, she listens from the gallery so she can run the office without asking too many questions. The fight over the league of nations was the high-point in Washington life for her.

Her pink-and-white, triangular face is soft and feminine. She usually is dressed in something dark

SCOUTS ENJOY BIG WEEK-END

Boys of Stokes and Pactolus Join In Camping Trip

The Boy Scout Troops of Stokes and Pactolus held a joint week-end camp at the Stokes Scout cabin at Sheppards Mill, beginning Friday afternoon and closing Sunday morning.

The Camp had a three fold purpose. The first and main purpose was to train the Scouts for advancement in rank. The second was to train them for the Council Camporee that is to be held in Rocky Mount on April 30th and May 1st. This Camporee will be the same as the one held in Greenville last year. The third purpose of the camp was to train the Scouts to camp together in Troop and Patrol organization in preparation for the National Jamboree to be held in Washington, D. C. from June 30th to July 9th. Over twenty-five thousand Scouts from all parts of the world are expected to be in attendance at the Jamboree.

The camp opened with First Aid instruction period Friday afternoon, later there was the provisional Troop and Patrol organization, then supper which was followed by star study and a campfire program with Patrol Stunts, story telling, and songs. Taps at 9:30. All the Scouts took bird and nature hike at 5:30 Saturday morning and after breakfast at 7:00 inspection and instruction in Second and First Class requirements were begun. Most of the day was taken up with instruction since that was the prime purpose of the camp with the exception of a mass game period in the afternoon and the Board of Review that began at 5:00. A Court of Honor was held after supper at which time the following advancements were recognized. Promotions to Second Class were received by Jessie Gray, Reginald Gray and Benjamin James of Troop 48, Stokes and Dewitt Barnhill, and Larry Hodges of Troop 78, Pactolus. Promotions to First Class were received by Owen Moss and Mark McGlohon of Troop 48, Stokes. Merit Badges were received by Billie Hardison, Jack Clark and D. B. Taylor in First Aid to Animals, and by Jack Clark, G. H. Roebuck, and D. B. Taylor in Personal Health.

The camp staff were Ralph H. Mozo, Asst. Scout Executive, acting Camp Director, W. R. Hardison, D. B. Taylor, Marvin Barnhill, and Richard Barnhill, Senior Staff members, Kenneth Henderson, of Troop 30 Greenville, and Jack Clark, Billie Hardison, and G. H. Roebuck, of Troop 48 Stokes were on the Junior staff.

The members of the Court of Honor that was held Saturday night were J. E. Whichard, chairman, Coy L. Forbes and J. K. Barnhill members.

A large contribution to the success of this camp was the well planned and splendidly prepared food that was served. This was given by the parents of the twenty-five Scouts that were in attendance.

PEACE ACTION

The Lord's Prayer (A Commentary by ERASMUS —d. 1536)

Let us imagine we hear a soldier among these fighting Christians, saying the Lord's Prayer. "Our Father," says he, O hardened wretch, can you call him Father when you are just going to cut your brother's throat? "Hallowed be thy name." How can the name of God be more impiously unhallowed than by mutual bloody murder among you his sons? "Thy kingdom come." Do you pray for the coming of his kingdom, while you are endeavoring to establish an earthly despotism by spilling the blood of God's sons and subjects? "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." His will in heaven is for peace, but you are now meditating war. Dare you say to your Father in heaven, "Give us

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Mar. 29—(AP)—While there were a few prominent stock market gainers today, trends were largely indefinite in exceptionally slow trading.
The tickers tape came to a virtual stop around noon as traders considered possibility of the supreme court handing down a decision on the Warner labor act. Upholdings of the railway labor law brought no immediate selling of the carrier. The pace continued slow near the fourth hour.
Corporation bonds were moderately improved.

NEW DEAL ACTS HELD VALID BY THE SUPREME COURT

Justice Sutherland delivered a dissenting opinion in which he was joined by Justices VanDevaanter, McReynolds and Butler.

Hughes concluded his opinion by referring to a decision 14 years ago holding unconstitutional a minimum wage act for women in the District of Columbia.

The court held constitutional also the revised Frazier-Lemke act, authorizing a three-year moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures.

Justice Brandeis delivered the unanimous decision of the court and said the provisions of the involved legislation make "no reasonable modification of the mortgagee's rights and hence are valid."

It was Brandeis who delivered the unanimous decision two years ago holding the original Frazier-Lemke act, granting a five-year moratorium unconstitutional on the grounds it took property without due process of law.

Also held constitutional were provisions of the 1934 fire-arms act requiring dealers to register with the collector of internal revenue and pay a special tax of $200 a year.

The federal government was victorious also in its efforts to punish George W. Norris, Broken Bow, Nebraska, grocer, for perjury growing out of his 1930 primary campaign against the veteran Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska.

At 2:25 p. m. the court, which had been delivering opinions since noon, recessed until 3 p. m. when it was announced it would continue delivering decisions. This action was regarded by officials as a rarely used, but not unusual step in procedure.

Sport Slants

-By PAP

If you think of Dizzy Dean when you think of National league pitchers, you won't be surprised that, for almost 15 years, no National twirler ever slipped into a managerial seat until Burleigh Grimes came along.

Returning to his old stomping grounds in Brooklyn, Burleigh is the first ex-hurler to guide a National club since Fred Mitchell handled the Boston Braves. At that, Mitchell wasn't exactly a pitcher. He started as a twirler, but — no sensation — he wound up as a big mitt man.

Mitchell had led the Chicago Cubs to a pennant (in 1918) before he took over the Braves. He is the only former major pitcher ever to drive a National club to a flag.

But there have been several other hurlers who had flings at managing in the senior circuit. Jack Coombs bossed the Phillies in '21. The late Christy Mathewson bossed the Cincinnati Reds for a couple of seasons until ill health forced him to turn over the command to Pat Moran. Matty did well. He'd raised the Reds from the cellar position in 1916 to third in 1918. Moran won a pennant with the team that Matty had built. Bill Terry started as a pitcher, hurling from 1914 to 1922. But he left the mound before he got to the big time. Herry moved over to first base when he went to Toledo in the American association. He's been at first ever since — for 15 years — and his pitching activities are almost forgotten.

The last hurler to lead an American league team was Walter Johnson. Johnson managed Washington before taking over the Cleveland club, from which he was bounced.

While pitcher-managers are rare, catcher-managers are common. Johnson gave way at Cleveland to Catcher Steve O'Neil. There are three other big mitt men bossing big leagues: Connie Mack, the Philadelphia A's dean of major major managers; Mickey Cochran, Detroit Tigers; and, in the National, Jimmy Wilson of Phillies.
