LOYALS CLAIM VICTORIES ON THREE FRONTS

Reports Made of Dis-satisfaction in Ranks Of Rebel Troops

MANY EXECUTED RESULT OF PLOT

Italian Volunteers Declared to Have Been Shot on Suspicion of Conspiracy

(By Associated Press) Reports of disaffection and executions within the ranks of Spain's Insurgent armies came simultaneously today with government claims of advances on three fronts.

Antipathy to the Italians, who have played an important part in the Insurgent fight to win all Spain, said reports reaching Bayonne, France, caused plotting within the Insurgents' own ranks.

Widespread executions were said to have followed discovery of the plot, which was believed directed not at General Francisco Franco, but against Italian influence in Spain.

Insurgent sources in France emphatically denied the reports as "fantastic." Reliable informants at Bayonne declared, however, it was certain there was serious disaffection among the Insurgents, particularly since the defeat of the Insurgents' army said to have involved thousands of Italians on the Guadalupe front.

Italian volunteers reportedly were executed upon suspicion of implication in a conspiracy at the Southern support of Algeiras. That many more were said to have been directed against the Insurgent administration.

The Spanish government announced new advances on the Guadalupe front, the Cordoba front to the South of Madrid, and the Avila front to the West. Insurgents disputed some of these.

Official sources in London replying to Spanish Insurgent assertions Spanish government vessels were using the British flag to protect themselves declared: "No interference with British shipping on the high seas will be tolerated."

Intensive Studies Provide Methods Check Weed Wilt

Retention of Crops Will Not Save Tobacco From Disease Unless "Carrier Weeds" Destroyed

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Mar. 30.—Rotation of crops will not save tobacco from the dreaded Granville Tobacco Wilt unless "carrier weeds" that are susceptible to the disease are destroyed.

E. G. Moss, superintendent of the State Department of Agriculture, Tobacco Test Farm at Oxford announced today, "Granville Wilt of Tobacco" ranks along with "Blue Mold" as one of the most deadly and destructive diseases of tobacco.

Intensive studies of Granville tobacco wilt are not being conducted at two locations in the Ocracoke area on wilt infested soils.

"The primary studies have been made to find how many host plants—carrier plants—are susceptible to this disease," Mr. Moss explained.

"In making such studies, it has been found that a large number of weeds are hosts to the wilt organism. Therefore, in order to control the wilt it is necessary that fields be kept clear of all of the common weeds."

Weeds are most susceptible as Granville Wilt carriers—those that retain the disease and transmit it to tobacco unless they are destroyed—are: ragweed, stick weed, Jimson weed, cocklebur, croton, horse radish, Spanish nettle, and black nightshade. There are other plants which are susceptible but are not common on tobacco land in the wilt area.

In a count recently made of susceptible weeds in corn fields which were expected to be planted to tobacco this year, it was found that these fields had from 1,100 to 22,000 susceptible weeds per acre.

"In the opinion of our investigators, this offers the explanation why crop rotations have not been successful in controlling wilt," Mr. Moss said. "It is essential that all weeds be kept out of the fields expected to be planted to tobacco."

Steam express trains on the Northern Railway in France may not run at a speed of 81 miles per hour. This is the first time regular steam trains have been allowed to run at this speed in France.

AGREEMENT ON MAJOR STRIKE THOUGHT NEAR

Negotiations Proceed On Chrysler Corporation Dispute

PARLEY ENTERS TWELFTH SESSION

Several Points Referred to as Evidence Agreement Now Appears Imminent

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 30.—(AP)—Informal sources said today Chrysler strike negotiations had progressed to a position where agreement was in sight.

An air of expectancy prevailed in the vicinity of the conference, now in its seventh day with the twelfth session called at 11 a. m.

Little remained, some observers close to the proceedings averred in the composition of differences in the costly dispute, which for more than three weeks has kept 60,000 Chrysler employees idle along with thousands of wage earners in related fields.

Sources close to Governor Frank Murphy made these points in arguing an agreement was imminent: Conferences have continued without interruption; Sit down strikers have been evacuated;

At no time has there been any intimation the conference would blow up.

The principals understand each other and know about how far each will retreat.

The time is psychologically ripe for a meeting of the minds.

PLAN FIGHT ON BRITAIN EYES SOCIAL DISEASE LOCAL STRIKE

Medical Society Endorses County-Wide Campaign

At the last meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society, Dr. L. C. Skinner, a member of the Special State Committee on Venereal Disease Control, offered a motion which was adopted, endorsing the suggestion of the Pitt County Health Officer that the Health Department file a general information in regard to venereal diseases to the public, through the county newspapers.

Dr. Skinner said that he offered this motion in an effort to cooperate with the National and State health officers in the great National and State campaign now being carried on looking to the control of the social diseases.

Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, Pitt County Health Officer, states that there are two venereal disease clinics operated weekly, in Pitt County, one in Greenville, which has been in operation for several years and one in Farmville, which was opened last week. The Greenville Clinic is held at 9 o'clock a. m. every Saturday in the Health Department offices, 215 W. 3rd street; the Farmville Clinic is held at 2 o'clock p. m. every Wednesday at Tom McKinney's Hall, Main street.

All persons unable to afford private treatment are eligible for a blood test followed by treatment, if necessary, without cost, except where the patient is expected to pay twenty-five cents to help defray the cost of the drug.

The Health Officer expressed the hope that all housewives employing cooks, maids, nurses, etc., utilize these clinics where wages justify it.

He calls attention to an article in the "News and Observer" of March the 26th in which the State Health Officer states that the recent Legislature passed a law requiring "all domestic servants to have a physical examination."

He also says that syphilis is no respecter of persons; that the high as well as the low should go to their physician for a blood test. It is estimated that there are today 300,000 cases of syphilis in North Carolina.

When treated early, about 90 per cent can be cured but the percentage of cures gradually diminishes as treatment is delayed. Plainly there is danger in delay.

CHARGES JUDGE ACCEPTED FEE DURING TENURE

Statement Made Before House Investigating Body

OFFICER HEARD ON COURT ROW

Clerk Declares Court Decides All Cases During Term in Which Submitted

Washington, Mar. 30.—(AP)—Representative Kelly (D. Ill.) told the House today Federal Judge John P. Barnes of Chicago received a $35,000 fee from the Chicago Title and trust company while sitting on the bench.

A special House committee, which has been investigating real estate bond holders' protective committees said Representative O'Malley (D. Wis.) knew about the fee.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, O'Malley said, had handed a large number of real estate reorganization cases in Chicago, most of which "had their way before certain Federal judges."

A member of the committee, O'Malley had risen to demand it and Chairman Sobath (D. Ill.) against charges raised against them in the House Thursday by Representative Chicago (R. Ill.).

Meanwhile a Supreme court officer advised the Senate judiciary committee the court decides all cases in the term in which they are submitted.

The information, from Court Clerk Charles Cropper, reached the committee, studying President Roosevelt's plan for reorganizing the tribunal just a day after the court had experienced one of its heaviest opinion sessions in months.

Cropper's letter, which recommended tabulations showing a total of 697 cases disposed of last year, told the committee the carrying over of cases from terms to terms disappeared in 1935. Since, he said, the court has decided all cases entered or submitted and has carried none under advisement, into a subsequent term.

Soon after the committee started its session the White House announced Raymond Stevens of New Hampshire had resigned from the tariff commission to "take an active part" in the campaign for court reorganization.

Another development on the court front occurred when the Justice Department expressed regret Senator Holt (D. West Va.) had interpreted its action in a judicial appointment as a patronage move to gain support for the President's court bill.

Elsewhere in the capital congressmen were busy with a variety of farm legislation.

Crop insurance was the subject of debate in the Senate and a House committee studying tenancy had a "showdown" session planned.

Warns Imposters Collecting Funds In Other States

Fake Agents Reported to Be Securing Fees For Work in Recovering Processing Taxes

Raleigh, March 30.—Reports of imposters in other States collecting money from farmers and other people under the pretension that they were Agricultural Adjustment Administration agents have been received by E. Y. Floyd, of State College.

The "fake agents" were reported to be collecting fees for work they said they would do in recovering money paid out in processing taxes under the AAA program for 1933, 1934 and 1935, Floyd said.

Although he has heard no reports of such imposters in this State, Floyd issued a warning that farmers and others should beware of any person who may attempt to collect a fee for such work on the grounds that they are official AAA representatives.

The AAA has no such agents, Floyd declared, and it is not sending any men around to collect fees for services rendered.

Any money used to pay committeemen or otherwise defray expenses of administering the soil-conservation program in each county will be deducted from the farmers' payments before the checks are distributed, he added.

Under provisions of the program, the local administration expenses, amounting to around three, four, or five per cent of the payments made to farmers, are to be deducted from the farmer's check.

First Church of Christ, Scientist
"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 28th.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 90:1—"Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I know that whatever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which has been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past." (Ecc. 3:14, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The spiritual reality is the scientific fact in all things. The spiritual man and the whole universe, is harmonious and is the ideal of Truth. Spiritual facts are not inverted; the opposite discord, which bears no resemblance to spirituality, is not real. The only evidence of this inversion is obtained from suppositional error, which affords no proof of God, Spirit, or of the spiritual creation. Material sense defines all things materially, and has a finite sense of the infinite."—(Page 207).

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS
Hollywood—Some of the movie lilies persist in biting the hand that feeds them.

Considering how even the prettier actresses are dependent on make-up magic, it is remarkable how a few of them believe they know more about the art than its professional practitioners.

I was reminded of the fact by a story on Marlene Dietrich, told by a make-up artist who turned down the job of working with her on a recent picture. It seems that Marlene's fingers begin to fidget, figuratively, as soon as she sees an eyebrow pencil. She likes not only to work on her own brows, producing the weird, slanting effects noted in her films, but on this occasion she tried to alter the brows of another star after the make-up man had finished his work.

Marlene called on her friend Merle Oberon and decided the Oberon brows were not applied artistically enough. And Dietrich picked up a pencil and was about to start in when the make-up artist gently but firmly intervened.

"Oh," said Marlene, "I was just going to improve them!"

"Miss Dietrich," he said, "I never try to do your acting for you—and I don't need any help on make-up."

Hopkins accompanied him here. Several people from Red Oak attended the Easter service at Arthur Christian church last Sunday night. The service was very beautiful and impressive.

FLOYD SPEAKS AT CIVIC CLUB

Declares Soil Conservation Program New Cooperation Plan

Declaring that there was new cooperation from the farmers in the soil conservation program, E. Y. Floyd, administrator and supervisor of the soil conservation allotment and domestic act in North Carolina, presented before the weekly meeting of the Rotary club a short summary and discussion of the proposed changes to help stabilize prices for tobacco growers.

"The willingness of the people to cooperate with the government in a farm program is graphically shown by the fact that already 60 to 70 per cent have signed up their soil conservation worksheets for 1937," he declared.

Mr. Floyd paid tribute to the Farm Bureau for their fight for State compact legislation.

He presented three different plans that are now under consideration for the stabilization of tobacco market prices. Each one would be a part of the program of soil conservation and would guarantee the participation by all tobacco growers in the United States in it.

Following his presentation, members of the club and a number of the prominent farmers of the county joined in a round table discussion of the proposed programs.

The meeting was in charge of the Rural Urban Committee and Haywood Dall and J. E. Winslow, president of the Farm Bureau, introduced the speaker.

Among the guests attending the meeting were W. I. Bissett, Roy Cox, Bruce Suggs, Paul Davenport, A. L. Woolard, E. F. Arnold, John Thorne and Earl Treathan.

President J. B. Kittrell announced that the Robersonville Rotary club which was sponsored by the Greenville club would be granted Charter No. 4100 at their meeting Friday night of this week. Many of the members of the local club are expecting to attend this charter meeting.

Carl Adams won the attendance booster prize given by J. H. Waldrop.

The quech was effective, he reports. Simone Simon may be more tractable now (she has blamed her early displays of temperament on a desire to impress Hollywood) but her introduction to the 20th Century paint- and - powder department was scarcely happy.

New to the lot, she was sent to the head man, Ernie Westmore, for preliminary work. So within five minutes she was telling him how it could be done, and how terrible she thought his method was. In the end she tore out, in a fury, vowing she would carry her case to Zanuck. Telling Westmore about make-up is like telling Culbertson about bridge, so I wasn't surprised, on my next visit, to see Ernie still in his old haunts.

Beauty and not-so-pretties alike generally are sensible of the debts to make-up and want it done by experts. Most of them are continually experimenting toward improvements. Jeanette MacDonald first was annoyed and later grateful to a critic who said unkind things of her mouth. She changed her lip make-up and it made a difference. Joan Crawford, who affected a thick, squarish lip for "Rain," wisely abandoned it. Jean Harlow's change from platinum blonde was her own idea, but effected only after tests.

The make-up men don't, mind, in fact enjoy having players raise questions and make suggestions for changes. What makes them see red (and not mere rouge, either) is the player who wants to take over the whole job.

Lon Chaney was the only star who did that, and he was entitled to be the exception. Akim Tamiroff, the Russian actor of many "faces," used to operate a school of make-up in New York, but in Hollywood he leaves it mainly to the artists. Like Paul Muni, who works hard at his make-ups, Tamiroff suggests and lets the artist execute the idea.

Symphony in Grey
Paris. (AP)—A new tailored outfit launched for the post-Easter season was a symphony in grey. Its jacket was in checked grey wool. The skirt was of a plain grey wool in a darker shade. The lighter grey was repeated in a felt sports hat cut on swanky lines and a crepe blouse with long bishop sleeves.

Frock is Feathered
Paris. (AP)—Feathery touches highlight an afternoon frock of black chiffon. A large gold feather fastens the belt, which is reflected in the gold feather motif done in an over-all pattern of open-work embroidery.

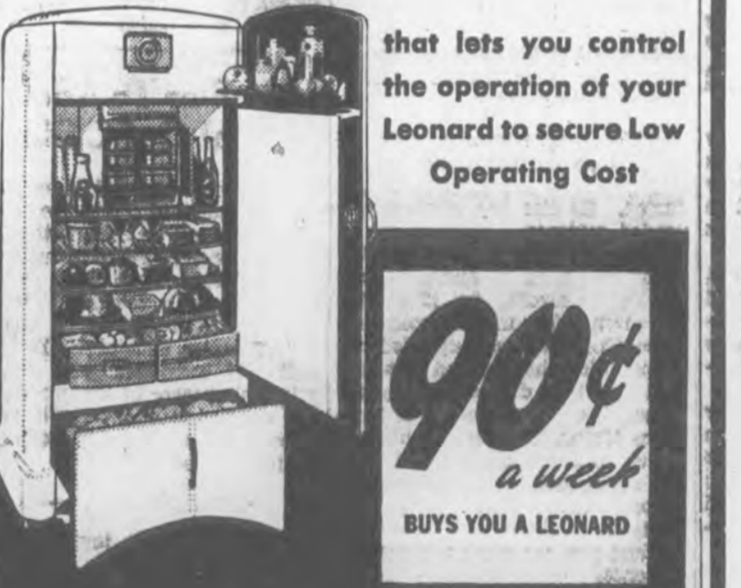

Calots Popular
New York. (AP)—Calots, those close-fitting caps that had their origin in the skull caps worn by monks, promise to be popular during the coming season. Many of them have all-around veils. Others are accented with perky bunches of flowers at the front.

DUKE LAW JOURNAL IN DEMAND ABROAD

Durham, Mar. 30—The distinctive system of law in this country ordinarily prevents circulation of American legal periodicals in other countries. Nevertheless Law and Contemporary Problems, the quarterly of the Duke university school of law, has regular subscribers in Europe, South America, and Africa. Through orders for single copies it has reached the other continents.

England leads the list of foreign subscribers, the British museum in London and the Bodleian library at Oxford university being included in this group. Other institutions which receive the periodical regularly include the International Labor Office in Geneva, Switzerland, the South African Institute of Race Relations in Johannesburg, South Africa, and the College of Advocates in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

HERE'S PERFECT WIFE IN TALL CORN STATE

Ames, Ia. (AP)—What kind of wives do the Iowa farm boys want? A questionnaire circulated at the University of Iowa recently tells the story. The boys "insisted" their future wives come from the farm, that they do not smoke, that they be "not bad looking," that they be able to play bridge, dance, be good pals and good sports. The majority chose brunettes.

There are about 14,000 federally licensed airplane pilots and more than 8,000 licensed airplane mechanics in the United States.

W. KERR SCOTT CAME OUT O. K.

New Agriculture Commissioner Fared Well in 1937

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 27—W. Kerr Scott, commissioner of agriculture, fared fairly well in the late session of the General Assembly, despite the fact that his very drastic reorganization of his department even before he took office had made him a number of political enemies.

The commissioner, who has been virulently assailed by a large part of the press and public, probably did no more than anyone else would have done in the same circumstances, but he did it promptly, openly and just on the eve of a legislative session. Those he fired had friends and they and their friends made the welkin ring with their cries of anguish.

And so, considering all this, the commissioner did very well with his legislative program, although the solons did bow their backs and refuse to make an appropriation to pay any deficit should the state take over management of the State Fair, and although they did not display any great delight in raising Mr. Scott's pay, something they finally did with more or less obvious reluctance.

To begin with the commissioner finally won his raise in pay—not all that was asked for, but a $500 boost from $4,500 to $5,000 annually.

Then he succeeded in getting the legislature to adopt a bill which he sponsored increasing membership of the board of agriculture from five to ten members. There were hints that Mr. Scott was "packing" the board, but the plan prevailed despite this opposition.

Mr. Scott succeeded, too, in getting a "clarifying bill" passed which puts the hiring and firing in his department up to the board rather than in the hands of the commissioner, something Mr. Scott himself proposed after he had finished making all the changes he desired. All in all, he has reason to be well pleased.

Increase In Auto Licenses Seen As Prosperity Sign

More Than 497,000 Plates Sold In State Up to Last Friday; Figure Far Above That of 1936

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Mar. 28—Increased sales of automobile tags up to Easter indicates perhaps even more clearly than did the tremendous income tax payments of mid-March that Prosperity has come from around the corner. Up to Good Friday the motor vehicle division of the Department of Revenue had sold more than 497,000 license tags, a figure far above any year up to the same time and approximately 100,000 more than were sold during entire years during the depression.

Experts consider sale of auto tags and returns from gasoline taxes as infallible barometers of prosperity. They are even better indices than income tax returns because they are continuing and continuous while the income yield come in but once a year.

Indications now are that the sale of auto tags will reach a total during 1937 never previously reached by the state. Early issuance of the tags is especially significant because it indicates that the people have ready money to spend. The average person who owns a low priced car and does not use it for essential business purposes is always prone to put off buying his tag until he has the cash on hand which he can spare from other expenditures. Issue of so many tags, too, is a sure sign that the garage business, the sale of gasoline, oil and other motor necessities and accessories will be active and on the increase. As a result of the increased tag sale and of the big income tax payments, observers are now inclining to the belief that the final returns will show that estimates of the amount to be produced by the recently enacted Revenue bill will be larger than had been anticipated.

CHILDREN'S HOME EXPERTS TO ATTEND SUMMER COURSE

Durham, March 30—In co-operation with the Tri-State conference of orphanage workers, the Duke university summer school will operate a three weeks' school for the in-service training of teachers and personnel employees of the children's homes and orphanages of Georgia and the Carolinas beginning July 26. The school's program will consist of a regular 90-minute period daily in mental hygiene of the child, a 60-minute lecture period daily, followed by open forum discussions on problems connected with child welfare, social service, and institutional administration. The evening lectures will be of broad cultural interest.

THE SLAUGHTER CONTINUES

Highway deaths in North Carolina during the week ended reached a total of 15 with an equal number of seriously injured. When all the facts are learned it will probably be revealed that the great majority of these deaths were the result of too much speed or carelessness and recklessness. Several deaths were the result of a train-automobile crash at Charlotte. Others were the result of collisions, some were the result of hit-and-run driving, and one was the result of a car striking a 7-year-old child who had alighted from a school bus, dragging the child nearly 150 feet down the highway. All told 15 lives snuffed out upon the altar of speed, recklessness and carelessness. The ever-increasing slaughter on our highways is a disgrace to a civilized nation. Not until motorists begin to use common sense in their driving will the dangers of sudden death on our highways be decreased.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York — Today I went prospecting for a real story but came back with only a lot of small talk. Do you mind?
Eleanor Goodrich is Walter Hampden's niece, and they have these things in common: both detest answering telephones, and neither can remain away from the theater. . . . Peggy Fears' idea of a satisfactory confession is a saucer containing three large scoops of peach ice cream. Morton Rowe says he's studied voice under 39 teachers, but he may be kidding. . . . He used to be the fastest Linotype in the world.
There's the nucleus of a fine pet shop on Broadway if one wanted to get around to the theaters and collect them. . . . There's a duck, a dog, two kittens, and a horse. . . . However, a grocery store would be more practical. . . . Think of the hams and the sour grapes you could get.
Helen Gleason reports finding a truck driver who takes his little four-year-old daughter around with him all day. Her mother works, so she has to spend her time with papa. . . . However, papa always asks the customer if he minds. . . . He's never yet found one who does.
The thing that impresses you about Billy Rose is his leaping wit.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD!

and utter absorption in his work. . . . Ed Wynn has worn the same pair of shoes 35 years — but only while going through his act. He never puts them on without first throwing dirt at them. . . . Not that he's superstitious; he just thinks something awful will happen to him if he doesn't.
Gracie Allen confesses she first met George Burns back stage in a Hoboken theater while visiting there. "Which is reason enough," she says, "why nobody should ever go to Hoboken." . . . For some inexplicable reason that long the old "Florodora" sextet used to sing keeps running through my mind. . . . I never saw the original sextet, but another one was introduced way back in 1920. . . . Tell Me, Pretty Maiden, and it included Bama (there's an odd name), Sykes, Dorothy Leeds, Fay Evelyn, Mirial Lodge, Beatrice Swanson and Marcelle Swanson. . . . The only one of these girls I've seen since then was Marcelle, walking down Broadway one night about six years ago.
Add Cornelians: A scarlet Darwin tulip has been named for Katharine Cornell. . . . Furthermore, she's guiding a new summer cottage on an island off the New England coast. . . . There's a society in New York composed of child actors, and Claire Howard, a lot of seven, is its president. . . . She's the little girl who plays with Miss Cornell in "The Wingless Victory". . . . Oh, yes, the name of this society is The Lambkins.
If there's a word assiduously avoided by writers of radio copy, it's "risky". . . . Even when read by the most meticulous actors it has a rasping sibilance. . . . Then there's the actress, a very good actress, who has this justifiable complaint: . . . she's so tiny she can never hope for leading parts.
Such a silly pity!

Evans-Hughes' letter had little competition. . . . Moreover, crowds at the hearings had almost petered out in the final days of testimony for court change. . . . Greeting the opposition witnesses on the first day was the beginning of a series of imposing audiences loosed on Washington by the advent of the Easter holiday. . . . And nothing happened to snatch the play from the Hughes letter or the testimony of widely known Raymond Moley.
Like Father . . . Young James Roosevelt spoke on the radio the other night in defense of the court plan. . . . Both the speech and his voice sounded much like his father's fireside chat. . . . One of the busiest persons in support of the proposed court reform is William Denman of San Francisco, a 1935 appointee to the Ninth (Pacific coast) circuit court of appeals.
Close friends credit him with helping to formulate the plan in the first place, and he has remained in Washington for weeks with more than one western member of congress reporting a visit.

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt needs a big break if he is to even his front page score. . . . Two times recently his "big moments" have been all but obscured by tremendous news developments that took away from him the front page play.
First was on the occasion of his recent trip to South America. There he had one day of triumph upon his arrival at Buenos Aires with nothing to diminish the publicity and the mass effect for peace he hoped his trip would inspire.
But one day only was his. King Edward abdicated and the flight of the Israelites across the Red sea couldn't have held space against that.
Then came the senate judiciary hearing on the Supreme bill. Save for Attorney General Cuminings the witnesses lined up by the defense were not especially imposing although unquestionably learned and sincere. . . . Nevertheless, Judge Ferdinand Pecora of New York, widely known for his conduct of the banking and security investigation, was riding high for a good play of supporting testimony. . . . But during the very hour of his appearance before the committee Amelia Earhart cracked up her plane in Honolulu. That routed Pecora.

How's Your Health?
By Dr. Iago Galdston
Psychiatry Can Help
The average person hesitates to consult a psychiatrist or even to turn to his own familiar family physician with his mental and emotional problems. Parents are equally hesitant to consult a mental hygienist about their children.
To do so seems to imply the acceptance of the stigma of incompetence, for themselves or their children. They seem to feel that in turning to others for psychiatric help they openly confess their inability to manage their own lives.
Who among us can manage his own life? Do we not turn to the mechanics for help in the care of our automobiles, our watches, our electrical appliances and other apparatus? Are we considered incompetent for that? Do we not draw upon the lawyer's special knowledge of legal matters?
For that matter, isn't all of life interdependent? Could any human being really manage his own life without the aid of others?
It can be argued clearly and convincingly that he who calls upon the psychiatrist for help in the solution of a difficult emotional and mental problem, shows a better capacity to "manage his life" than the person who, overrating his competence, muddles along without expert help.
The subject is not, however, purely academic. It has some very serious and practical implications. Mental and emotional disorders, like those with which we are more intimately acquainted in the realm of physical disease may, if untreated, increase in severity.

Taken in hand early, treated adequately and promptly, most psychologic disturbances may be corrected. Allowed to go on unchecked, undiagnosed and untreated, they progress in severity and complexity, until when finally brought to treatment, they tax the resources of the therapists and can yield only middling results.
Few persons appreciate the services which their doctors can render them in this field. Even though untrained in the specialty of psychiatry, most physicians gather from their experience an insight into the common emotional and mental problems of the average persons. And, though most worried and harassed individuals believe their problems unique, the vast majority are commonplace.
"Talk it over with your doctor" is good counsel. If he can't help you, he can at least tell you where help is to be had.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER.

Chapter 20
Ellen Bares Her Heart

GEORGE backed down a ladder behind a tree a little way ahead of Denny and Eve, and stood squarely in their path in his leather working clothes, a handful of twigs in his hands. "You can't help hearing your own name, you know?" His face was a little rigid. But he spoke with his ordinary slow steadiness. "Would you feel it was going over Mrs. Power's head, Carter, if I gave you a hand up with my father?"

"Good lord, Cleveland, no!" Denny's face was radiant. "Grateful as a pup. All I'd ask would be a chance to show him my credentials, experience, have a chance to talk to him or his employment manager."

"All right, I'll see that you talk to him when he gets back from his match this afternoon."

"Cleveland, you're a prince! I'll dash off to my room and dig over my folder 'til I find a bit. I say, you don't know—well, if you were listening I guess you do—what this means to Eve and me!"

"Yes, I do," said George. He stood quite still, facing Eve, while Denny ran fleetly like a joyous small boy back to the house.

"She threw her hands out, crying 'Oh, George, you're wonderful!'"

But he moved a little away from her, and she saw that his face was pale under the sunburn.

"I'm not wonderful," he said. "But I can't stand it any more. If I can't have you myself, I don't want you where I can see you all the time. I thought I could last night. I found out I couldn't. I was going to ask you again this morning. Make sure one way or the other. It was our sitting there together, with the old man and the kid, you singing to me, a sort of dreadful heavenly imitation of our being married and happy. That was why I got out so early."

"I can't move a three-year-long experiment. But I can hurry up your marriage. You'll be back in your city life. In time I'll get over you, I hope and even marry somebody else."

"Eve, do you mind going now?"

In spite of her happiness, Eve found that there were tears streaming down her face as she turned and went back along the orchard path.

Denny Gets The Job

DENNY came back radiant from his interview. He said, holding her in his arms in the hall that night, with the station taxi chugging impatiently at the foot of the drive. "It's almost clinched, darling. Thank you for rowing me. If we hadn't stopped under that tree to fight over Mitzl—"

"Phone me the minute you know!"

"Practically calling you up now!" He turned at the door for a last kiss and a hurried, laughing, "Darling, don't get too far gone on the gambrel roofs and strawberry bed! If all goes well, you're marrying a night-club life!"

With a final violent embrace he was off, leaving Eve laughing at him a little, but puzzled a little too. Didn't he want her to be happy out here? Or had she shown too little interest in New York things, and too much in what she had been doing? New York did seem far away.

But then any place did where you weren't.

And then Judge ran around from the side of the house shouting to her that the most wonderful thing was going to happen: Uncle Henry said that he knew where there was a fady pig with a lot of little pigs, and there was one called a runt he could get for Judge.

"And there's a pig pen way off by the barn back of the orchard, and it can eat what we leave, only Uncle Henry says you're the mistress here, and I have to ask you—"

"Well, you had to be interested in that! Though she knew that if it had gone so far as Uncle Henry's suggestions, the pig was practically a Mannersfield pig this minute."

She went about the rest of that day and all the next in a daze of hopeful excitement. Ellen Walton came out Monday morning. She was through in New York, she said quickly. She had other plans. Eve could scarcely pay attention; every nerve was strained toward the telephone bell. Finally at 7:30 it rang.

"Darling, I've got it!"

After they had talked themselves out to the tune of a dollar's worth of raptures, Eve hung up. She looked around in wild excitement for someone to tell it to. Everybody was out but Ellen, whom she ran to earth in her bedroom, walking up and down with her brown head bowed, muttering a part she was learning from a blue-covered book in her hand. Eve threw her arms around her.

"Ellen, Ellen, Denny has his job with Northern Steel! We'll be marrying and living happy ever after by the middle of June! Isn't it heavenly?"

Ellen laid her "side" carefully on the tall maple chest by the window. She said in a queerly cold voice, "Yes, it's wonderful."

Eve stared at her. Could it be that she cared for Denny? But that was crazy. As she watched, Ellen suddenly threw herself across the bed sobbing, her hands clutching the counterpane.

"I can't stand it," she panted. "I'll die. My heart's breaking. You and Marilyn happy with your men, and I have nothing! Eve, Eve, I want George so I could die I can't go on living if I don't have him!"

Eve threw her arms around her friend, leaning over her on the bed. She did not know what to do or say to this Ellen, this passionate, agonized girl she had never known.

"Oh, darling, don't cry so!" was all she could say. But Ellen went on sobbing and talking against Eve's shoulder.

"I'd move heaven and earth to marry him. He's the best, dearest, finest man I ever knew. Not that I've known many." She sat up suddenly and dried her eyes, speaking fiercely.

"I've taken a job with a little summer stock company at Sharon, near his golf club, to get a chance to be close to him. If I drive over here and stay with you as much as I can, I'll be close to him weekends too. If a girl loves a man enough—if she tries hard enough—she gets him. I've seen. I'll be the best wife on earth to him. I worship him. . . he must love me. . . he shall. Oh, George, George."

She began to sob again. Eve held her tight. After a while she quieted. "I didn't mean to break over," she said, "but I had to tell you. Help me, Eve."

Eve held her tight. . . . George! And yet George had said he wanted to get over caring. Men often married on the rebound, she knew. And she would have her two best friends together. She wouldn't lose George this way.

"I'll do everything I can," she said eagerly. "I'm sure it will end right."

"Do you think so?" Ellen said breathlessly. "Oh, my God, I've never had anything I wanted before! I must have this!"

Eve shivered in the face of this naked passion. Shivered again when Ellen, neat, controlled, steady, said her quiet goodbyes next day to George among the rest. She knew now what was under the cool control.

Mitzl's House Guit

EVE and Denny agreed that, all things considered, it wouldn't be fair to Mitzl to let her down about the Southampton real estate hunt.

"I feel so happy now that I'd help the lowest mouse to steal crumbs," Eve said down the telephone that they both used extravagantly now.

"I do," Denny said fervently. "But the weekend after the Southampton business I'll be out. My Lord, woman, it's a wonder we remember what each other looks like. I come out then—and we plan—and we execute!"

"The barbarian lover!"

"All of that," said Denny's voice, passionate even across the wires "Oh, damn, sweet, wouldn't it be grand if I was hunting for a Southampton summer place for us? Why on earth does Mitzl have to have everything we want?"

"She probably thinks we have everything she wants." Eve's voice was gay and contented. Bright sunshine and Denny's job handed—what more could anybody desire? She went singing away from the telephone.

Denny managed to dash out the Friday morning following, just to have a few hours with her before he drove with Mitzl on her quest for a summer place.

"Let's tell the Featherstones—and Mitzl—and the world!" he said impetuously. "Tell 'em I worship you, and I've got a grand job, and I'm coming out next week with a ring in my pocket!"

TEACHERS SET START SEASON

Pirates To Play First Game Of Year Here Wednesday

By R. O. MOYE

The East Carolina Teachers College Pirates will open their 1937 baseball season here on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, playing High Point College in the opening game at the College diamond. They will also meet High Point again on Thursday and Lenoir College on Friday of this week.

At present the Pirates are going through intensive practice, under the direction of Coach "Bo" Farley in preparation for the opening games. Practices during the past week have been held both in the morning and afternoon.

The Pirates have been working out every day since Coach Farley first issued the call on March 10th. Prospects now are that the Pirates will be well supplied with pitchers throughout the season. Bill Holland, southpaw, last year's Pirates star hurler and voted one of the best mound aces into the Coastal Plain League, is expected to set the pace. Ed Wells, is also a holdover from last year, and will probably see action frequently. "Duke" Tharrington, Kelly Martin, Roebuck and Cain, are all new men and are candidates for the pitching position.

This far, Shelton, has been working at shortstop, Ridenhour at second base, Stone at third base, and Ferebee, number one catcher. The first base position is still unfilled with Best and Wilkerson both seeking the assignment.

"Hoot" Gibson is the only regular outfielder held over from last year, but there are nine new candidates trying for outfield berths. These are: Hartsell, Noe, Pittman, Pratt, James, Harris, Archie Martin, Venter and Williams. Otis Powell, a freshman from Danville High, will play in either the outfield or infield, this has not been definitely settled by Coach Farley.

Coach "Bo" Farley's nine have booked so far this season a total of 17 games, with several games still pending. The Pirates will play a total of eight home games and nine games away from home. The complete schedule is as follows:

March 31—High Point College here; April 1, High Point College here; April 2, Lenoir College here; April 7, Presbyterian Junior College here; April 8, Atlantic Christian College here; April 9, Campbell College here; April 10, Atlantic Christian College there;

Parker To Stick With A's

Duke's All-American Prefers Baseball

By J. P. McKNIGHT

Mexico City (AP)—Football mide Clarence (Ace) Parker famous—but he likes baseball better.

Duke university's 1936 all-America backfield star has put off getting his college degree to try out for Connie Mack's 1937 Philadelphia Athletics.

He has been shaping up nicely, too, down here under the hot Mexican sun, and were it not for the brilliant Wally Moses who recently came to terms, Parker might well play right field for the Macks this season.

Even so, it seems likely Parker's name will adorn the Athletics' roster, for Mack, building for the future, likes the 24-year-old collegian's looks.

"I'll take baseball over football any time," the soft-spoken lad from Portsmouth, Va., said as he made ready to take his cut in batting practice.

"When Mr. Mack offered me the chance to take this training trip with the team, it didn't take me long to decide to drop my books. I'll go back to Duke to finish up next winter."

While Moses held out for more money Parker got his opportunity to play with the regulars in exhibition games down here.

The result was quickly evident in his increased self-confidence. Fast on his feet, quick of reaction, sure of muscular coordination, the southerner covered acres of territory in right field, riled unerring throws to the infield and ran bases to Mr. Mack's entire satisfaction.

He had, in the earlier stages of training, one weakness: He hit too often at wide-high balls.

Two fellow Duke products—First-Baseman "Chubby" Dean and Third-Baseman Bill Werber—got to work on him, however, with the result that Ace has been looking ten over to better purpose.

HORNSBY:

One-Time Swat King May Try Comeback; Puts Self At Cleanup In Exhibition

By FELIX McKNIGHT

San Antonio, Tex. (AP)—Can Rogers Hornsby, bulky and forty, do a mild comeback this year?

Around the St. Louis Browns' training camp, where the aging "Rajah of Swat" takes his regular turn in the batting cage, that's a question players and fans alike are asking.

"I might play," sharply admits the Brownie manager. "Don't know yet."

He doesn't trust himself, however, and at his own request three "old heads" at the game will serve a sly jury in his case. They are Coach Charley O'Leary, Scout Charles Stis and Jim Bottomley, first-sacker and coach. They will report at the end of the spring season as to whether they believe the one-time batting king of the National League is fit for much duty.

President Don Barnes, believing Hornsby to be a drawing card, told him: "The club would like to have you in the lineup as much as possible."

One who believes the old second-baseman, who led the National league six years without a break from 1920 through '25, is still capable of holding his head up in any company is his brother, Everett (Pep) Hornsby, a Brownie scout.

Hornsby is slower, to be sure, but his batting eye is still keen. He cracked sharp liners to all corners of the field and even cleared distant palings with several lusty blasts.

In the first exhibition game, he calmly listed himself at third base and announced he would play the full nine innings against the Minneapolis Millers of the American association. Furthermore, he put himself down in the cleanup position.

Brother Everett reminisced a bit and recalled the day, 24 years ago, when he persuaded the management of the Dallas club of the Texas league to give his 17-year-old brother a try-out.

"The second-basing days of Otto to Jordan, Dallas manager, were numbered at that time," said Everett, "and he gave way to Rogers. Otto would start the games, play awhile and send Rogers in."

Brother Everett also revealed that Bill Killifer, old-time Texas leaguer and once battery mate of Grover Cleveland Alexander, taught Rogers his hitting technique. It worked. Today he holds an all-time hitting average of .369.

"Killifer used to say he taught Rogers how to hit and when he and Alexander, as a battery, met up with him in later years, they couldn't get him out," laughed Everett. "Alexander always said Rogers was the one man he couldn't fool—the best hitter he ever faced."

Bill Killifer later served under himself down in the cleanup position.

Hornsby as a St. Louis Cardinal coach.

Last season, records reveal, Hornsby hit an even 400 and fielded 1,000 in the few games in which he appeared.

His legs aren't as springy and his breath come sniffs after a trip around the ankles but Hornsby can still hit the ball. He can be listed as an ap lairng manager, they're certain.

PRICE OF HOGS EXPECTED RISE

Large Stock on Hand But Fewer Being Slaughtered

Raleigh, March 30.—Hog prices are expected to hold up well through the spring, then rise to a higher level in the summer.

Large stocks of pork and lard are in cold storage, said H. W. Taylor, extension swine specialist at State College, but fewer hogs are being slaughtered.

According to a report from the federal bureau of agricultural economics, the supply of corn in the western corn belt was 40 per cent less on January 1 this year than it was on the same date in 1935.

Any increase in hog production in this region, Taylor stated, will be dependent upon the return of corn production to something like a normal level.

But even though an average or a better than average corn crop is produced this year, he continued, it is unlikely that hog production will approach levels comparable with the 1928-1933 average.

The number of hogs in the western corn belt on January 1 was estimated at 14,250,000 head, the smallest in years. The total in all the North Central States was 26,475,000 head, only a few more than on January 1, 1935.

This means that the market for North Carolina hogs should hold up well, with good prospects of a rise in prices this summer, Taylor added.

SEEKS TO TRAIN SUPPLY OF APPRENTICES

Washington, (AP)—Secretary Perkins has asked — thus far in vain — for funds to help provide a permanent but not too large supply of young plumbers and other apprentices in the mechanical trades.

To cope with the shortage of apprentices caused by employers' failure to take on young workers in the depression, the labor secretary wants to take over the apprentice training section of the National Youth Administration and make it a permanent part of the labor department.

Congress, however, has said "no" for the time being.

Ramifications Evident In Highway Job Contest

Reflects: Bureau

Raleigh, Mar. 30.—New ramifications are appearing in connection with the tremendous under-cover contest for the chairmanship of the reorganized State Highway and Public Works Commission indicating that while this is purely a state agency, at least one of the state's senators and one of its Congressmen are intensely interested in this post. According to reports going the rounds here today, both Senator Josiah W. Bailey and Congressman Robert L. Doughton are greatly interested in who will be named the new chairman of the new commission — and for divergent reasons. It is understood that Senator Bailey would be very greatly pleased if Governor Clyde R. Hoey should name some one known to be a member of the "Bailey organization" as chairman, so the Senator might be able to "take care" of some of the faithful who have so far been provided with jobs in the Works Progress Administration and other Federal agencies but who are in danger of being "liquidated" along with the agencies around July 1. It is also understood that Congressman Doughton would like to see some one named chairman of the new commission who could be of assistance to him if he should decide to run against Senator Robert R. Reynolds in the primary next year.

These two factors are regarded as being very largely responsible for the revival in the boom for George W. Coan, at present State WPA Administrator, a Bailey appointee and regarded as being a strong Bailey organization man, for the chairmanship of the new State Highway and Public Works Commission. It is understood that the Coan candidacy has the full and complete blessing of Senator Bailey and the Bailey organization, especially since it is generally reported that the Bailey patronage powers have been very drastically curtailed in Washington as a result of his opposition to the President's Supreme court reorganization plan. It is no secret that for many weeks now various employees of the Works Progress Administration have been carrying on a quiet but persistent campaign in favor of the appointment of Coan as chairman of the reorganized highway commission, despite the fact that employees of Federal agencies are not supposed to take any part in politics, especially state politics.

This campaign is understood to have increased during the past week with the sending of letters to most of the mayors of cities and towns in the state, asking them to endorse and support Coan for the chairmanship of the highway commission, according to word going the rounds today. These letters are reported to have given the impression that Capus M. Waynick, present chairman of the highway commission, is not under consideration for reappointment by Governor Hoey, although the Governor so far has not made any statement to this effect. It may or may not be significant that the mayors of the various cities and towns have to go to Mr. Coan to get WPA projects they want approved.

A good many were inclined to doubt the reports when first heard that Congressman Doughton had any interest in the chairmanship of the highway commission or in having Coan named its new chairman. But the report is persisting to the extent that more and more credence is being given to it. The reason for Doughton's interest in Coan's candidacy is said to be that he has been convinced Coan is an excellent vote getter and could throw very strong support from the entire highway department back of his candidacy, should he decide to become a candidate for the U. S. Senate against Senator Reynolds. There is no denying the fact that Doughton is toying with the idea of opposing Reynolds next year and many are already convinced that he will undoubtedly seek Reynolds' seat in the senate.

Those who know Governor Hoey, however, know that he is not the sort inclined to accept suggestions with regard to his own appointments and purely state matters from members of Congress, especially if personal political angles are involved. Nor is it believed that Governor Hoey would consider for a moment any plan which might tend to make a political counter of the highway commission for the benefit of any one. Some think Coan, Bailey and Doughton have over played their hands.

Girdle of Porcelain Beads.

PARIS (AP)—New girdles for evening wear are made of many strands of small porcelain beads twisted together. Vionnet uses light blue beads to girdle an evening dress of silver lame. A strand of the beads also ties the silver lame cape at the throat.

Janet Gaynor says: "Leading artists of the screen prefer Luckies"

"I live at the beach most of the year and there is hardly a weekend that a number of friends don't drop in. Naturally, I keep several brands of cigarettes on hand for guests, but the Luckies are always the first to disappear. I suppose it's just natural that Luckies would be the favorite brand because most of my friends in pictures have discovered that the long hours of rehearsing and shooting at the studio place a severe tax on the throat. Leading artists of the screen prefer Luckies because they are a light smoke that sympathizes with tender throats."

FEMINE STAR OF DAVID O. SELZNICK'S TECHNICOLOR PRODUCTION OF "A STAR IS BORN"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Gaynor verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
