AUTO WORKERS PREPARE TO GO BACK TO JOBS

Agreement Between Chrysler and UAW Signed Last Night

LABOR PICTURE MUCH BRIGHTER

Governor Frank Murphy Summons Reo and Hudson Executives In Conference

(By Associated Press) Labor's brightest picture in many weeks was painted today as 85,000 workers, directly and indirectly affected by the month-old Chrysler corporation strike stood ready to march back to their jobs.

An agreement between Chrysler and the U. A. W. A. was signed at Lansing, Mich., last night. Homer Martin, international president of the union, indicated in a statement sit-down strikes in Michigan's automotive plants was at an end.

The agreement provided the U. A. W. A. would call no more sit-down strikes in Chrysler plants and the corporation would recognize union bargaining rights for its employees who are members of the U. A. W. A.

Further negotiations on issues not settled in the pact were planned. Meanwhile Gov. Frank Murphy summoned executives of the Reo Motor Car company and the Hudson Motor car company to a meeting today to iron out strike troubles in their plants, affecting about 12,000 workers.

At East Peoria, Ill., a strike at the Caterpillar Tractor plant, one of the largest of its kind in the nation, kept more than 11,000 men away from their jobs.

At Toledo, Ohio, one man was slugged and three taxi cabs were overturned when two of the three major companies tried to resume operations after settlement of a driver's strike failed. The drivers walked out March 25 to enforce wage increase demands.

Five hundred coal miners went back to the pits near Springfield, Ill., today after a one-day strike.

SETTLEMENT REACHED IN REO MOTOR CAR STRIKE Lansing, Mich., April 7.—(AP)—Gov. Frank Murphy announced today the 28-day-old strike affecting 2,200 employees of the Reo Motor Co. here, was settled by agreement substantially following the Chrysler strike truce, and that sit-downers would evacuate the plant immediately.

HERSHEY FIRM STRIKERS FORCED EVACUATE PLANT Hershey, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—Irate farmers and workers opposed to the union, went into the plant of the Hershey Chocolate Association today and drove sit-downers from the building. (Continued on page six)

Concern Again Felt For Flying Colonel London, April 7.—(AP)—Officials of Lympne airbase, where Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh usually check the customs when they are flying here from the continent said today they had no word from the couple, unreported for 30 hours.

Aviation authorities in a dozen countries kept on the watch for the Lindberghs, last heard from when they took off from Zagreb, Yugoslavia, yesterday at 11:32 a. m. (5:32 a. m. est.)

Slayer Of Sweetheart Gets 30 Year Term Goldsboro, April 7.—(AP)—Judge W. C. Harris sentenced Herbert Lewis, 24, to 30 years in State prison today for the shot gun slaying of Bessie Allen, his 18-year-old sweetheart.

Lewis pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge yesterday and the plea was accepted by the Solicitor and the Judge after psychiatrists reported Lewis was not mentally normal.

E. R. Conway Returns From Scout Course E. R. Conway returned yesterday from Mendham, N. J., where he attended the Schick reservation Boy Scouts of America training school for Scout executives.

While at the training school he took courses in cubbing leadership, Cub Scouts are boys between nine and 12 years, too young to become members of the parent organization.

Missing Transport Plane Believed Wrecked

Flying searchers who sighted a wrecked airplane in the rough mountains of eastern Arizona believe it is the missing Douglas transport plane which vanished with eight persons aboard en route from Los Angeles to New York. It was being flown eastward for delivery to its purchaser, the Royal Dutch Air Line. The great ship is shown on exhibition in Los Angeles shortly before the flight was started. PITT FARMERS GET PAYMENTS

First Batch of 1936 Benefit Checks At Agent's Office

The first batch of checks for benefit payments under the 1936 Soil Conservation program has been received at the offices of County Agent R. R. Bennett and farmers are being notified to come for them. Agent Bennett declared that all farmers for whom checks have been received will be notified by mail and added that it was useless for anyone to come for his check unless he had been notified. He said farmers coming to the office for checks which have not arrived will retard the distribution of payments.

About one third of total payments due Pitt county farmers has been received. The amount of the first shipment was $116,766, made out to 1,254 individuals. It is necessary for both the landlord and tenant to appear in person for the checks. All persons are required to bring their card informing them their check has been received as the check number is printed on the card and this will enable officials to put their hands on the payment at once.

Mr. Bennett declared that he felt receiving payments at this time would induce farmers to participate to a greater extent in the 1937 program. He urged that all farmers who have not made out work sheets for participation in the 1937 program do so at once.

Where changes have occurred in ownership since the 1936 work sheets were made out it is necessary that farmers go to the agent's office and record such changes. All land owned, operated or controlled by any one person must be covered by a work sheet for 1937 if the individual is to reap benefits on any farm which may be covered. If an owner or tenant is interested in more than one tract, he must have all covered in order to participate in any.

Exonerate Driver In Fatal Accident

A coroner's jury rendered a verdict this morning that Mrs. Mamie Padgett, 49, wife of C. F. Padgett, Pitt county farmer, declaring that she came to her death by her own negligence.

Mrs. Padgett died in the local hospital about 11 o'clock yesterday morning after having been struck by an automobile driven by Charlie Whiteford, Greenville, automobile salesman. She lived only an hour after the fatal accident, which occurred directly in front of her home about three miles this side of Bethel.

Officials who investigated the wreck, declared that Whiteford did all in his power to avoid striking the woman. The coroner's verdict declared that she came to her death, by her own negligence by entering the highway and not looking in front of an approaching car driven by Charlie Whiteford. We find no charges against him.

The jury was composed of Roy Craft, Larry Powell, W. C. Whitehurst, Frank Whitehurst, L. M. James and E. W. Griffin.

Climbers Begin Efforts To Find Wrecked Plane

McNary, Ariz., April 7.—(AP)—A posse of 25 picked mountain climbers plunged at daybreak today into the Eastern Arizona "badlands" in search of a wrecked airliner and its eight occupants, virtually given up for dead.

Their goal was the rugged Western slope of 16,500 foot Baldy Peak, where air searchers yesterday spotted the tangled ruins of the once proud 21-passenger Douglas ship which lost its way while being "ferried" from Los Angeles to New York for sale to a Holland firm.

Seven miles of pathless wilds lie between the searchers and the wreckage, almost hidden in a grove of quaking aspen on the mountain side. Snow is from four to six feet deep on level stretches and fills Box Canyon to a depth of up to 20 feet.

Advising Farmers On Best Methods To Secure Benefits

Statements Prepared for Individual Farmers and Meetings Called To Be Held in County

The county farm agent's office has prepared a statement for every farmer in the county showing the soil depleting bases for each farm and the acreage of crops which can be grown if the largest payment under the 1937 Soil Conservation program is to be obtained.

The prepared figures are based upon existing provisions of the 1937 program and are subject to change or correction if necessary. The statements are for the information of the farmers and place no obligation upon the individual. The statement is mailed to the farmer, with an invitation to attend a meeting at which farm office officials will discuss the statements with the farmers.

The first meeting was held at Ayden last night. The time and place of other meetings follow: Beaver Dam, Belharth School, Wednesday, April 7, 2:00 p. m. Winterville, High School, Wednesday, April 7, 4 p. m.

A $7 Bull's Eye Pittsburgh, Kas. (AP)—It cost Wilbur H. Jones about $7 to show he was a crack shot with an air rifle.

Watching a neighbor lad with the gun, Jones took it, drew a bead on a crack in a garage wall and let fire. "Bull's eye," he shouted—then he found the shot had broken the windshield of a car in the garage.

CALENDAR SET FOR BIG COURT

Criminal Session Next Week To Be Followed By Civil Term

A week's session of Pitt Superior court for trying criminal cases will get underway here Monday morning with Judge E. H. Cranney scheduled to preside.

The term will be followed by a week devoted to civil cases. The criminal calendar is one of the smallest in some time, many old cases having been disposed of at recent sessions. No case of county-wide interest is docketed.

The calendar, as announced today by Solicitor D. M. Clark, follows:

- Monday, April 12 Arthur Tyson, Larz, Charlie Lewis, Liquor, gambling, etc. W. L. Tyson, Removing Crop, Luther Hunter, Liquor, Oscar Hawkins, Liquor, Asher McLawhorn (Capias issued), Worthless check, Cleon Vanderford, Illegitimate child, J. L. No Appointments Slated To Be Made During Week

Raleigh, April 7.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is not now expected to announce any of his major appointments this week, not even the chairman and members of the new Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, whose appointments have been expected almost any day now for the past few days.

For Governor Hoey, told newsmen last week that he hoped to announce these appointments this week. Indications now are, however, that Governor Hoey is not planning to make public his decision with regard to these or any other of the more important appointments until next week.

The reason for this change in plans is believed to be the fact that Governor Hoey is to go to Charlotte Thursday to address a State Federation of Women's Clubs which will be in session there, and that he also expects to spend Friday and Saturday in Charlotte conferring with delegations from the Piedmont and western portions of the state on various matters—many of these "matters" presumably being some of the pending appointments. Sunday Governor Hoey will spend at his

Robinson Proposes Condemnation Of Company Unions

VOTE IN SENATE EXPECTED SOON

Resolution Also Describes Industrial Spy System As Against Public Interest

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—Senator Majority Leader Robinson (D. Ark.) proposed today congressional condemnation of company unions and "any other unfair labor practices"—along with sit-down strikes.

He predicted quick Senate action on a resolution which he called a "statement of policy" denouncing certain practices of both industry and labor.

Sit-down tactics were described in the resolution as illegal and contrary to sound public policy.

The resolution also described industrial spy systems and practices contrary to national labor relations act as against public interest.

The measure, if adopted by the Senate, would call for similar action but would not require President Roosevelt's signature.

Other developments of the day in Washington: The American textile industry sought to quiet British industry fears of disastrous effects from the 40-hour work week. O. Max Gardner, American industry delegate to the world's textile conference, said the 40-hour schedule was instituted under NRA without curtailment of profits.

The Senate Judiciary Committee received a resolution opposing the President's court bill signed by all lawyers on the faculty of Fordham university at New York. Simultaneously there were signs the committee's hearing might be brought to a close in the next few weeks.

House members considering viewpoints toward Federal anti-lynching legislation took up a measure proposed by the only Negro in Congress, Rep. Mitchell (D. Ill.), to punish state officers who permit a prisoner to be taken from custody and lynched.

Only One Case Tried In City Police Court

Only one case was tried in this morning's session of Police court, two Negroes having been bound over to County court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

The two, J. D. Moore and Walter Bartlett, were ordered held under $200 bond each on the charge, which is said to have grown out of a fight.

Commissioner?

Sen. E. G. Flanagan is being supported by a large number of Pitt citizens for commissioner from this district on the Highway commission, which will be revamped shortly. A conference has been arranged with the Governor for 11 o'clock Monday morning.

CITIZENS BACK SEN. FLANAGAN

Local Man Being Supported For Highway Post

A move has been started here to have Senator E. G. Flanagan appointed on the North Carolina Highway commission as a representative from this district and a delegation will appear before Governor Hoey in support of the local man.

Col. Flanagan has not stated whether or not he would accept the position, but those sponsoring the movement in his behalf have expressed the opinion he would serve the district in this manner.

A delegation of Pitt county citizens have an appointment to appear before the Governor at 11:00 o'clock next Monday morning and residents from all parts of the county are urged to join the group and lend their efforts in behalf of the campaign being waged for the local man.

Several other counties in the district already have advanced candidates of their own, but efforts will be made to secure support of Sen. Flanagan from outside Pitt.

With other counties actively sponsoring their own candidates, sponsors pointed out the necessity (Continued on page six)

Men Selected For Pitt Revaluation Ready For Task

Survey of Various Townships to Be Made With Idea of Discovering Any Inequalities

Appraisers selected by the Board of County commissioners to make a revaluation of real estate in Pitt county received final instructions at a meeting yesterday afternoon and today were ready to begin their task.

It was decided that the appraisers should make a survey of the townships as a whole, comparing the present valuations of the various sections with an idea of removing any inequalities existing among the townships.

The appraisers then will meet back here and discuss their findings and then go out for the individual revaluations.

After the revaluation is completed, the county commissioners will sit as a Board of Equalization and hear any complaints and make any changes it deems equitable. During the process of revaluation, however, the appraisers will have full authority.

It is estimated that it will take well over the specified 30 days in which to complete the task.

List takers, officially named by the commissioners this week, also received final instructions yesterday and this morning were ready to begin their work.

Search For Suspect Turns To West Coast

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Search for Robert Irwin sculptor, named by police as the slayer of "Ronnie" Gedeon and her mother in the triple murders Easter morning, spread east to Boston today, and as far west as the Pacific coast.

Failing to find a trace in New York of the 29-year-old former divinity student from St. Lawrence university, police here turned for aid to the west coast.

SEVERAL PITT CASES DECIDED

State Supreme Court Finds No Error In Appeal of Evans

Raleigh, April 7.—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today granted Mrs. Sims Pope Godwin, of Harnett county, convicted of second degree murder, and Brantley Thornton of Johnston county, convicted of manslaughter, each a new trial.

The case involved different crimes but Associate Justice George Connor wrote both opinions and found error in each case in the instructions of the trial judge, E. H. Cranmer.

Each new trial was ordered because of the failure of Judge Cranmer to instruct the jury as made mandatory by statute on certain phases relating to killing in self-defense.

The court decided 30 cases. Included in the opinions were: Rowland vs. Loan Association, Beaufort, affirmed.

Brantley vs. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, Edgecombe, new trial. State vs. Thornton, Johnston, new trial.

State vs. Godwin, Harnett, new trial. State vs. Evans, Pitt, no error. State vs. Ormond, Pitt, no error. State vs. Boykin, Pitt, no error. Sutton vs. Bank, Pitt, affirmed. Sutton vs. Sutton, Pitt, affirmed. Allen vs. Insurance Co., Pitt, affirmed.

Seek To Protect Friend Of Irwin

New York, April 7.—(AP)—The object of squint-eyed Robert Irwin's affections fled from her Long Island home to seek sanctuary from the chance of another sudden and devastating rage today on the part of the man accused of the triple murders of Beekman Hill.

As New York's 19,000 policemen searched faces on broad avenues and narrow cross streets in an effort to apprehend the suspect in the killing of Veronica Gedeon, artist model, and two other persons, Mrs. Ethel Kudner left her Astoria residence for an unnamed destination.

Several detectives were detailed to guard her and others were assigned to her home.

Assistant Chief Inspector John Lyons said it was the sculptor's infatuation for the then Miss Ethel Gedeon dating from 1932, when he was a roomer in the Gedeon home, that led Irwin to take the lives of "Ronnie," her mother, Mary, and a waiter, Frank Byrnes, at Easter time.

Kiwanians Plan Meet Winterville Thursday

Roy T. Cox, prominent leader in county and civic affairs and one of the outstanding farm leaders of this section, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club to be held in the Winterville High School gymnasium, tomorrow night at seven o'clock.

In addition to the talk by Mr. Cox, other interesting features are being arranged by the special committee in charge of this program. The committee is headed by Past President J. Frank Harrington, a former resident of Winterville. Claude D. Ward, principal of the Winterville High school, and William S. Stafford, Greenville automobile dealer, who is living in Winterville at the present time.

A number of citizens of the Winterville community have been extended special invitations to this meeting. This will be the first time in several years that the club has held its regular program outside of Greenville.

Watch Lost Months Keeps Correct Time

S. I. Dudley, Pitt county farmer and former sheriff, feels that he has a right to brag about his watch. Eleven months ago he lost his 17-jewel Hamilton watch in a field and a tenant on his farm found it yesterday while ploughing. The watch was returned to Mr. Dudley who found it up and to his astonishment it started working and is keeping as good time as ever.

Increase In County Of Cotton Ginnings

M. V. Horton, special agent for the Bureau of Census of the United States Department of Commerce located at Farmville, reported today 11,500 bales of cotton were ginned in the county from the 1936 crop.

This figure compares with 9,400 bales ginned from the 1935 crop. The report shows that 2,092 more bales were ginned from last year's crop than from that of the previous year.

Returning Carolinian To Lead Discussion

Dr. Charles C. Josey, a native of Scotland Neck, N. C. and now head of the department of philosophy and psychology at the University of South Dakota, will lead a public forum discussion at Pactious Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Josey is appearing under the auspices of The Seven County Public Forum to speak on "Vocational Guidance." This meeting should be of especial interest to young men and women who are trying to select a vocation. The public is invited to attend.

Local Peace Council Sponsoring Luncheon

As one of its local activities, the Greenville Council for Peace Action is sponsoring a luncheon to be held Saturday at one o'clock in the Episcopal Parish House, to which the public is cordially invited.

Reservations may be made through noon tomorrow by interested individuals calling Miss Frances Fields, Director of Religious Education of the local Presbyterian church, at the church office—a small fee will be charged for the lunch.

As speaker for the occasion, the local council has procured the services of the Rev. H. Conrad Blackwell of Richmond, Virginia. Favorable editorial comment was published in the Richmond, Va., Times Dispatch recently when Rev. Mr. Blackwell made his headquarters in that city.

Golf Tournament Country Club. The Tarboro golf team and the Greenville golf team, playing in the Eastern Carolina golf tournament, will play a match game at the Greenville Country Club tomorrow. Lunch will be served in the club house. All golf players are urged to be present.

Science Carnival at College. A carnival sponsored by the Science Club to be held in the Robert H. Wright building on Friday night, with a parade in the afternoon, holds the spotlight on the College campus this week. The parade, led by a float bearing the enthroned beauty queen and her attendants is scheduled to start from the Science building at 3 o'clock and going on Fifth street and Evans to the court house, then turning on Fourth and coming back by the high school. There will be a number of interesting features in the parade, of decorated cars, horse and buggy and floats. Monkeys, clowns and other carnival features will be in evidence. The prize will be awarded the owners of the three best decorated or most interesting cars or floats.

The election of the beauty queen will be the climax of a contest among the classes. The candidates from the classes are as follows: Miss Marion Wood, Senior class; Miss Grace Freeman, Junior class; Miss Marjorie Watson, Sophomore class; and Miss Christine Harris, Freshman class. A stage show of dances and songs and a cake-walk will be among the features of the evening's entertainment. Hot dog stands, bingo tables, and side shows, such as fortune-telling, drawing of constancies, etc. will be additional attractions.

Presbyterian Prayer Service. The regular mid-week service will be held tonight at the Presbyterian church at 7:30. Mr. Grady will give the introduction to the study, "Christ's Way and the World's—in Church, State and Society." The public is cordially invited. This subject is one of interest to members of all churches since the forthcoming summer conference at Oxford, England, at which representatives of all the larger Protestant churches of the world will be present, has been especially called for the purpose of studying these issues involved for the church, state and society.

Announcement Party

Mrs. N. H. Whitehurst was hostess at a beautifully appointed bridge luncheon today at her home on East Fifth street, announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Pattie Whitehurst to James Russell Britt, of Tarboro.

Snadragons, azaleas, tulips, and a variety of other colorful spring flowers were used in artistic arrangement in the rooms where tables were placed for the game. A bridal motif of green and white was used in the room where Miss Whitehurst played.

Following the game a tempting luncheon was served. Mrs. Whitehurst was assisted in serving by Mrs. Jack Lewis, Mrs. James White and Mrs. T. M. Watson.

On the dessert plate guests found cards bearing the announcement, "Pat and Jimmie, April 19th", thus announcing the engagement of this popular couple.

The prize for high score, a pretty potted plant, was won by Mrs. R. M. Taylor. Low score prize, a bouquiere, went to Miss Neta Lee Townsend. Miss Whitehurst was given lingerie.

Joining other guests for luncheon were Mrs. C. A. White and Miss Eva Hodges.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Henry M. Britt, Mrs. George Britt, Mrs. Lee Britt, Mrs. Martha Britt, Miss Elizabeth Liles, Tarboro; Mrs. B. F. Shelton, Speed; Mrs. R. M. Taylor, Rocky Mount; Miss Neta Lee Townsend and Miss Bertha Joyner Lang, of Farnville.

Baptist Training Union
Because of the Baptist Training Union study course, in progress at Memorial Baptist church this week, there will be no regular mid-week prayer service tonight. Members of the church, however, are invited and urged to meet with the young people at the church at seven o'clock this evening. Speakers on this evening's program will be Miss Martha Lee Cowell and Robert Sugg Fleming.

Athenium Club

With Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Mrs. W. A. Darden and Mrs. J. B. Cummings as hostesses, the Athenium club met at the home of Mrs. Edwards on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. D. M. Clark, presiding.

After the reading of the minutes and roll call by the secretary, Mrs. K. B. Pace, the meeting was turned over to a committee composed of Mrs. S. M. Crisp, Mrs. C. H. Edwards and Mrs. J. J. White, who submitted names for our newly organized club. "Athenium" was decided on by the club members, this name having been suggested by Mrs. Crisp.

Mrs. J. B. Cummings, in charge of the program, introduced Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer, who used as her subject, Paul Lawrence Dunbar's Negro poems. She told how she overcame adverse circumstances, race prejudice being his greatest. Dunbar climbed from an elevator boy to the first American Negro showing distinction in literature. His works have much literary value. He was a pure-bred Negro, born in Ohio of parents who were both slaves.

His most distinct contribution to the literary world was poems in dialect. He spoke of these as "Jingles in Broken Tongue." Dunbar's works are in three divisions: Classical English, dialect and stories. In all of his writings he interprets the soul and heart of Negro life.

After relating these interesting facts of Dunbar's life and works, Mrs. Picklesimer, in a most pleasing manner, read a number of his poems, both in dialect and English verse, closing with his masterpiece, "When Malindy Sings."

At the close of a most enjoyable social hour the meeting adjourned to meet on April 20th with Mrs. W. W. Lee, Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. H. L. Ormond.—Reported.

Bethel Music Club

Bethel, April 7.—The first meeting of the Bethel Music Club was held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Garretton on March 26, 1937.

The meeting opened with plans for organization, etc., led by Mrs. Henry Simons and Mrs. Connell Garretton.

An interesting paper on Grieg and his Norwegian music, was read by Mrs. Connell Garretton, at the conclusion of which she played "To Spring." Mrs. Henry Simons then sang "Solvjg's Song" and told the story of the "Peer Gynt Suite." The "Peer Gynt Suite" consisting of "Morning Mood," "Ase's Death," "Anitra's Dance" and "In the Hall of the Mountain King" was then played in duet form by Mrs. Henry Simons and Mrs. Connell Garretton.

In conclusion, Mrs. Connell Garretton played "To the Rising Sun" by Trygve Torjussen.

Sumrell-Briley

Simpson, April 7.—Miss Mary Briley and Dalton Carson Sumrell were married on Friday evening, March 26, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents at Simpson.

Prior to the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Elizabeth Edwards. During that time Miss Mattie Lou Cotten of Scotland Neck, and Mr. James Smith entered together and lighted the candles.

To the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin the bride and bridegroom entered the living room together where the vows were spoken before an improvised altar, which was formed before the mantel. Tall cathedral candles were set against ivy and fern, interspersed with Easter lilies and white hyacinths. Rev. Mr. Dawson, of Ayden, pastor of the Free Will Baptist church, read the vows.

The bride wore a suit of navy blue crepe with fox trimmings, with accessories of navy blue. Her flowers were a shoulderette of tiny pink rosebuds with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Sumrell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Briley of Simpson. She was educated in the city schools and East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville. For the past three years she has been a member of the Chicod School faculty.

Mr. Sumrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sumrell of Ayden. He now holds a position with Turnage Fertilizer Co., in Ayden, and is also a successful young farmer.

Chicod Junior-Senior Banquet

Chicod, April 6.—Saturday night, April 3, at the Woman's club, the Juniors of Chicod High School entertained the Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior banquet. The color scheme of yellow and purple was carried out very attractively.

After a three-course dinner, several members of the Junior class sang "The One Rose," "Kentucky Babe," "In the Gloaming," "San Francisco" and "Auld Lang Syne." They were accompanied by Miss Alma Winslow at the piano.

Following this, the entire party attended the Pitt theatre.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Newman Lewis, W. H. Causey, Jr., Misses Elizabeth Musselwhite, Maude Peelle Hedspeh, Alma Winslow, Linelle Clark, and the following members of the Junior and Senior classes: Alice Lou Bailey, Noah Warren Carroll, Myrtle Ruth Cox, Pauline Dixon, Vivian Edwards, Ernestine Hardee, Margaret Hardee, Eugene Mills, Ada Mae Paramore, Gladys Mills, Doris Porter, Iva Reel, Ruebelle Smith, Ruth Stocks, Myrtle Mae Tyndall, Dalton Vainwright, Robert Lee Evans, Marie Jones, Eula Mae Williams, Mary Lee Edwards, Burney Warren Baker, Roberta Coward, Louise Cox, Margie Cox, Claude Fornes, Louise Fornes, Linwood Hardee, Bernice Harper, Mavis McGowan, Frances Mills, Inettie Mills, William Mills, Kenneth Moore, Adelle Oakley, Rodney Purser, Elizabeth Stanell, Norman Stanley, Charles Stokes, Sarah Tripp, Louise Vainwright, Jennie Whitford, Etta Wrenn, Arley Vesta Edwards, Virginia Smith and Ivy Smith.

And ruby falls widens out into stiff godets. The white gams, too, and expression in snowy laces and glistening satins. Heavy white crapes drape softly while white organdies and muslins flare starchy. White also flourishes in grosgrain coats, shantung suits and linen frocks.

The entire range of jewel colors is spattered over white or black godets — in flowered prints or dotted and striped patterns.

Reds and blues divide honors in flowers on hats, join in leathers for belts and shoes and combine in braids which make curlycoques for coats and jackets.

PARIS COPIES CROWN JEWEL COLOR TONES

By ALICE MAXWELL
Paris (AP)—Stealing colors from crown jewels is the latest development in Paris style piracy. The glowing tones of emeralds, rubies and sapphires are being "lifted" to color evening fabrics and highlight day prints.

Crinkly taffeta the shade of pale yellow diamonds makes tight-skirted evening gowns with bustle-draped backs. Emerald tulle spreads out into pigeon fan-tails pleats for flared dance frocks. Sapphire chiffon folds under in harmen hems.

EARTH, LADEN WITH SELENIUM, BRINGS DISEASE

Washington (AP)—Selenium will get you if you don't watch out! That's what chemists Maurice I. Smith, K. W. Franke and B. B.

Westfall of the United States Public Health Service have discovered in recent experiments.

Human beings get selenium from plants and animals raised on soil containing that heavy metal. In three northwestern states it was found that 92 per cent of the persons in 111 families on selenium-bearing soil had traces of it in their bodies.

Also in the group was a high percentage with diseased finger nails, intestinal disorders, diseased skin and several cases of arthritis, the chemists reported.

Findings Alaska Honest

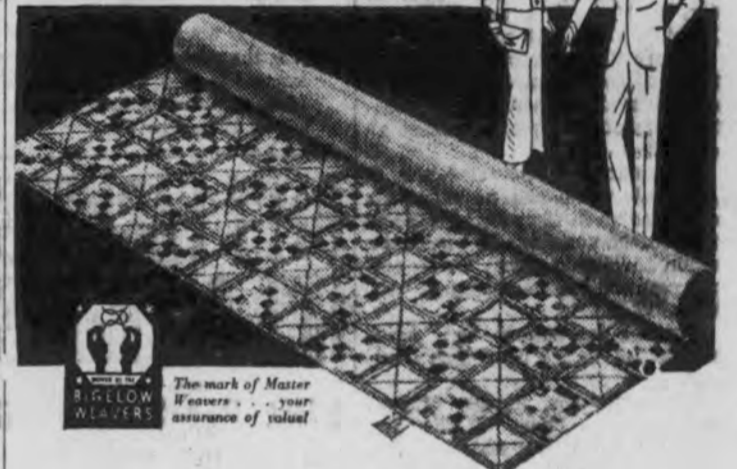

San Francisco (AP)—John Palm, 70, who has carried mail in Alaska since the turn of the century, came to San Francisco on his first journey out of the north in sixteen years. As he read the crime news, he recalled that he had carried more than $2,000,000 in gold, dust by dog sledge, sleigh and sleds and never had been held up or molested.

California has 70 state parks totaling 293,129 acres.

NO APPOINTMENTS SEATED TO BE MADE DURING WEEK
just about made up his mind with regard to the new highway body, also that he is anxious to get it out of the way and get out from under the terrific pressure to which he has been subjected as a result of the pending highway appointments.

Letters, telegrams, telephone calls and delegations have been pouring in upon Governor Hoey by the hundreds, if not thousands, for the past two weeks and virtually all of his time recently has been taken up in hearing delegations, replying to letters and telegrams urging different ones for appointment to the liquor control board or to the new highway commission—chiefly the latter. So the belief now is that Governor Hoey will make up his mind very soon after his return here next week.

There is as much if not more doubt than ever as to whom he will name as chairman of the new ABC board and the rumors to the effect that a 'dark horse' candidate whose name has not been mentioned or very little mentioned, is more likely to get it than those making an open contest for it, is being given increased credence. Two weeks ago most observers felt sure the chairmanship would go to F. Webb Williams of Elizabeth City.

But now opinion has shifted so that Williams is not expected to get anything more than one of the two part-time memberships on the board. Most of the 30 or more others who are known to be either active or passive applicants either for the chairmanship or the two memberships, are expected to fall by the wayside.

The situation with regard to the chairmanship of the new highway commission is regarded as being a little more definite, however, in that nine out of ten of the political forecasters here are becoming more and more confident that Capus M. Waynick will be reappointed chairman, although they are predicting almost a clean sweep among the present commissioners and many changes in the engineering personnel.

But the developments of the last week seem to indicate that most of the other candidates for the chairmanship, including George W. Coan Jr., have virtually eliminated themselves and that for the present Waynick is in the best position he has yet been in.

It is known here that one of the leading anti-Waynick agitators here has admitted that since the collapse of the Coan candidacy the remaining of Waynick looks almost certain unless a new, last-minute candidate can be found for the job. But so far this candidate does not seem to have materialized in spite of strong efforts to bring out such a candidate.

PRISON MAKES GOOD PROFITS

Division Nets $21,152 Raising Cattle On Penal Farms

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 2.—The prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission made a profit of $21,152 on the feeding and fattening of 622 beef cattle which it purchased last summer and recently sold after feeding them through the winter. Oscar T. Pitts, acting director of the division said today.

In addition, the farm obtained at least 20,000 loads of manure from these cattle, at an estimated value of $1 a load and reduced the farm's fertilizer bill by this amount. So in reality, these 622 cattle brought a return of at least $40,000 to the prison farm at Calendonita, Pitts pointed out.

"We purchased these 622 cattle in western North Carolina last summer and fall for $38,857, including freight and all delivery charges," Pitts said. "We sold 620 a few weeks ago—two of the cattle died—for $60,152, giving us a cash profit of $21,152 in addition to the 20,000 loads of manure. All we were out was the feed, which we raised on Calendonita farm and which could otherwise not have been utilized. We even exchanged cotton seed for cotton seed meal, so that we did not put out a single dollar for feed of any kind."

A total of 413 hogs were recently sold from this same farm at a profit of $12,956, in addition to about 400 which have been slaughtered for meat for the prisoners. Pitts said. All but 16 of these 413 hogs sold were one year old or less. There are still some 750 hogs and pigs left on the farm, of which more than 100 are brood sows.

The prison would have used a much larger number of these hogs this winter but for the fact that the weather has been too mild to do much butchering, according to Charles Creech, in charge of farming operations at Calendonita and the other prison camps. As a result, the prison is having to sell a larger number than usual, since it has no cold storage facilities. Plans are being made to sell two more car loads of hogs in the next few days.

Dopesters Kept Guessing As To Hoey Appointments

Raleigh, April 2.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is keeping the political dopesters more up in the air these days than has any other Governor in years, due to the fact that he seems to be better able to keep his own counsel than have previous Governors with regard to the appointments he expects to make. As a result, no one here has anything but pure speculation with regard to those Governor Hoey is going to appoint on the liquor control commission, the highway commission and the many other boards and commissions he must soon name. For so far Governor Hoey has kept silent in seven languages with regard to these appointments and has not told any one anything, in spite of repeated attempts by hundreds of persons to draw him out and get him to commit himself.

So while there is the usual amount of speculation with regard to who he will name chairman of the new liquor control board and its two members, also with regard to the personnel of the new highway commission and its chairman, it is generally agreed that no one really knows anything definite concerning who he is going to appoint to these jobs. For Governor Hoey has apparently not told any one of his intentions yet.

"Most Governors usually have one or two or even three friends they consult with and talk to freely about their forthcoming appointments, with the result that one of these friends usually talks too freely to some one else—and then some newspaper man gets hold of it and the public knows in advance what the Governor is going to do," an observer remarked here today.

"But Governor Hoey seems to be the exception, in that he apparently has not even indicated to one person what he plans to do. The result is that all the boys who in the past have always prided themselves on knowing what was going on before any one else, are all up in the air and don't know where to land. They will just have to wait like every one else."

Protests Cutting Trees
 What protection has a citizen in Greenville?
 I have enjoyed that privilege for 40 years and during those years I have felt that I was protected and safe. In front of my property, in line with the other trees on the side-walk—the street being a wide one—I planted a water-oak thirty-seven years ago. I have watched this tree grow until it became one of the most beautiful trees in the town of Greenville. In fact, its beauty would rival any tree in Eastern Carolina. As I enjoyed the privilege of paying taxes on both sides of the street, I felt that at least this tree was safe from the axe.

Another citizen secured the permit to move a dilapidated shack of a house up this street. He called me at my home and asked to cut the limbs from this tree so that they would not interfere with this shack he was moving. I said, "I most positively will not give you that permission to cut or deface that tree, but I will Greenville to rival all other cities and towns in beauty and this is done by preserving our trees."

I went to our Mayor. He referred to the chairman of the street committee. I stated my case to him and he gave me to understand that he was in full accord and sympathy with me. I then went to the Chief of Police. He told me that the gentlemen who wished to move that house, and wanted to cut the limbs from my tree, had just seen him and that he told him that there was a law in Greenville that no tree could be cut or limb cut from it without the consent of the Woman's club, and as I was opposed he would not give his permission to the cutting of limbs from this tree.

On April 5th at eleven o'clock, I was standing on my property looking at this tree when the gentleman who desired to cut the limbs from this tree drove up with the entire street committee. I again stated my case and my objection to the tree being cut. The chairman of the committee said, "We are going to protect you. No tree in Greenville can be cut or limb cut from it without referring the matter to the Woman's club. One of them spoke up and said, 'Who dug that up?' He replied, 'Chief of Police.'"

I came home, secure in my protection only to awake the next morning to find that the axe had pruned the tree. The afternoon of the day that the spokesman of the committee told me they would protect me and the beautiful tree, they met in a lawyer's office without my knowledge, or being represented to state my case; papers were drawn; and the beautiful tree demolished the next day.

Work Completed; Senate And House Doors Are Locked

Enrolling Office Finally Ends Task of Catching Up With Work Left by General Assembly

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, April 6.—The massive doors to senate and house chambers are closed and locked today and the halls and corridors no longer echoed to the tap-tap-tap of typewriters for the first time since January 5.

For the enrolling office and the offices of the house and senate clerks, which have been open since the close of the general assembly finishing up the work left by it, were closed at noon Saturday. They will not reopen again until January, 1939, unless Governor Clyde R. Hoey sees fit to call a special session of the general assembly — and that now appears to be very unlikely.

Weed Farmers Learn How To Save Timber

Raleigh, April 5.—Tobacco farmers in demonstration areas of the Soil Conservation Service are finding that the process of improving their woodland by removing undesirable trees can also be made to provide them with fine wood for their tobacco.

Proper woodland management for development of a timber crop, requires the removal from time to time of crooked, poorly formed and fire-scarred trees and those that have been attacked by insects and disease. Fine wood can be obtained as needed from these cuttings and from thinning and pruning operations.

In the past, many farmers have followed the practice of cutting the most convenient trees, frequently removing valuable young timber. Under the Soil Conservation Service program of developing the forest for erosion control, this practice is rapidly disappearing.

Hat Made Of Loops
 Paris (AP) — The Baroness Eugenie de Rothschild, recent hostess to the Duke of Windsor at her castle in Enneshild, has ordered an unusual hat from Robert. It is a small toque made of grosgrain ribbon loops in three different colors. The loops stand up from a base of tulle which fits close to the head like a cap.

THE NEW RING CODE

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — It takes 10 secretaries, a dozen secret service men and a navy crew to backstop the President in catching a fish but his continued good health undoubtedly justifies it.

His April trip to the gulf will carry him to New Orleans by train and by boat into shallow water some distance off shore where he will try for tarpon, a big marlinized fish whose capture means work for everybody.

He will be off shore for a week, out of contact with everything but essential business that can be radioed between ship and shore.

He came back from Warm Springs rested and jaded; but newsmen with the party will follow on shore, since the President wants no audience.

But the secret service will not be kept at arms length in any such manner. Whether the President goes, they go also. They will be on the Potomac, the President's yacht. They work in shifts, just as in Washington. At least one is on duty throughout the night, oft-times in a small power boat in which he patrols the waves around the yacht while the President sleeps. His job is to herd off sight seers and others.

The Potomac, once called the Electra, was intended as a prohibition boat, for the coast guard. It was completed in 1933 but never chased a rum runner as it was commandeered for the White House almost at once and remodeled along the lines of a yacht.

chaser lines make it no seaman's dream for comfort. It was built of shallow draft so it could pursue runners into shallow water. But its 8-foot draft lets it roll and a less seaworthy President might find no relaxation in it at all.

It is ideal, however, for the sort of fishing Roosevelt plans.

Some phases of this job of being President are not so bad.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: When Eve Manserfield learns that her beloved Denny Carter, who left her in anger on the verge of their marriage, is to be married to a girl named Mitzie, she is shattered. Resuming her aunt's baking business, she finds contentment in her 200-year-old Connecticut house and orchard. She is kind to old Uncle Henry who helps her run the place, and to serious little Judge Featherstone whose parents have left him with Eve. They both adore her. George Cleveland, Eve's steady, dependable neighbor, has quietly waited for her love all summer.

Chapter 36

'I Miss Him Horribly'
 "WERE talking as idiotically as if we were Seymour's," said Eve. "Are they really idiotic?" George asked then with mild curiosity. "The only one I ever see is Lance, the poor kid who's always skulking round here under the impression that he still somehow has rights to the place, the one who tried to steal his ancestor's portrait from mother last spring—remember? If they're all like him they're pretty far gone."

She interrupted him. "Is Lance around still? Do be careful of him, George, he has an ugly temper."
 "As a matter of fact, he was having a run-in with Mattie this very day about some peonies he wanted to dig up. They were a special rare variety, one of the plants I bought the place for. He was making a clean sweep."

They were interrupted by a honk, heralding the young Gardiner brother and sister, driving in with rackets and bathing suits on the back seat; an attractive pair of slim young dark things, enough alike in their shirts and shorts to be twins. Anne's hair was curled tightly over her head and Wallace's sleeked smooth, that was about the only difference.

"Hello, you lazy loafers!" Wallace yelled. "The Warrens are practically on top of us with a carful of guests. Get up and let's cap the best court before they do."
 Anne glanced a little, thrusting a thin brown arm through George's. "I grab George for a partner," she said. "You and he play together so much it's a racket, Eve."

"Racket! Gosh, woman, people are shot for less than that," said her brother. Whereat Anne laughed and went on dancing restlessly, still holding on to George. Eve smiled at her. She felt a million years older than carefree, 19-year-old Anne. George glanced at her over the tight-curled head as if they understood each other, partner or no partner.

"We saw that peony, Seymour boy down by the gate," Anne said. "He was muttering to himself the funny way nuts do. Wonder why there are so many crazy people out in the country."
 "Well, the Gardiners would come—George began teasingly.
 "Make him stop, Eve."

Eve laughed and shook her head as the four ran across the turf. It was all warm and pleasant. She liked life. She hoped she wouldn't see Denny, and have all the pain of him brought back. She had September weather and George's kindly brotherliness; she had a good game of tennis ahead of her and a swim after that. It was all easy and happy.

Perhaps she was a shallow sort of girl to be so easily contented. But, if she couldn't grieve over Denny all the time like somebody in a book, wasn't it better for her? And, after all, she had—she knew now—the life she loved, if not the man. She knew now that she had never really loved the life that was a part of Denny's happiness. . . . And then the Warrens, Jim and his new wife May, and four stranger guests, caught up with her and there was an end to meditation.

A Natural Mistake

THEY played till everyone was hot and drenched; they swam on top of that, which should have killed them but didn't. When the twilight came, bringing the cool wind of a Connecticut September evening, George and Uncle Henry built the fire in the outdoor fireplace. Eve made salad and Anne Gardiner ran to and fro from the Cleveland house bringing things inevitably forgotten; Eve's chocolate cake, left in the hall; the salt, extra paper napkins. They sat on the grass in the sweaters that were welcome now, eating more than seemed possible.

George, moving round the circle with the immense gray coffee-pot, said: "All gone. Wanted another cup, didn't you, Warren? Mattie has more in the house. I'm up, I might as well go."
 "Oh, George, bring my coat, will you?" Eve called after him. "In the hall." But George was out of hearing. "Judge, dear, run after him."

One of the stranger girls, mixed on the very sketchy wholesale introductions, said hastily, "Oh, ask your little boy to get mine too, Mrs. Cleveland, in the car."
 "Judge—get all the coats—"
 Then Eve took time to explain elaborately that she was not married to George and Judge was not their son; turning scarlet in the darkness, as she told herself petulantly, like a grammar-school girl.

As Eve realizes she loves George, tomorrow, Ellen becomes his fiancée.

"Well, anybody would have thought so," said the little girl with the Warrens, unperturbed.

"What Kay means is that if you and George aren't married, you ought to be," said young Wallace Gardiner. "All very proper, Kay. Eve's keeping Judge while his parents do something thrilling in Hollywood. Nobody's any relation to anybody—"

"Here's the coffee," George's voice said placidly above them in the dusk. "Here's your coat, Eve." He dropped it over her shoulders as he passed, and threw Judge his sweater with, "Put your sweater on, son. Right away!"

"I leave it to anybody!" complained Kay. In the laughter and confusion of teasing and explanation Eve sat very still. George, so far as one could see by starlight, was quite unembarrassed. Well, it was a natural mistake; George and she serenely intimate, with the fatherly old man and devoted small boy belonging to them all.

Later still, when everyone, even Judge and Uncle Henry, had gone, leaving Eve and George to clear up the last things and wet the embers, George spoke slowly, out of the dimness.

"I thought it was—a nice mistake, Eve. How did you feel about it?"

She did not answer. She was scarcely paying attention to what he said. She was staring up at the stars, dreamily happy in the September night.

"Eve?"
 She came out of her dream, and answered at random. "You're an angel, George; you pulled us out of the Kay girl's blunderings without the quiver of an eyelash!"

"All right," George said shortly. "But I'm damn tired of the role of angel. Good night, Eve."
 He strode off to the house.

Eve laughed to herself as she went her own way. George was no angel, certainly—but there was something fussy and endearing to her always about his flashes of up-and-over temper. She wondered why he had suddenly turned cross, and decided that he had been working too hard lately.

"Bless his heart," she said as she ran into her own house. "I'll scold him tomorrow."
 George Leaves Abruptly
 BUT the morning brought a hurricane of sudden orders. And before she had a moment to use the telephone on her own account, Judge, teetering on the doorkill as he waited for the basket of morning deliveries, said:

"Oh, say, George drove off to a house party in Sharon last night after we all went home! Adriano says he's staying till Tuesday, he thinks."
 She felt a little dashed. . . . But after all, George was showing his usual good sense. He had been looking tired and strained lately.

"What do you think of that?" she said to Uncle Henry who was coming in with a basket of eggs. "Our George off and away! I'm glad, aren't you?"
 "He's so homey we forget he has a life besides the one he lives here," said Uncle Henry. "Yes, a break will do him good."

They smiled together, pleased that their George was having a rest and change. Eve went on with her work, cutting out ginger cookies deftly, row after row on the enameled table, and singing lightly the old song Uncle Henry whistled so much:

*Pleins d'amour ne dure qu'un moment.
 Chagrin d'amour dure toute la vie!*

She worked hard that day, feeling a queer lack. It was so strange to have no George, sunburnt and smiling, leaning on her sill, resting as he talked and waited for his glass of milk or square of gingerbread, telling her some scrap of village gossip he had heard, or passing on a piece of scientific information, or delightfully boasting how right he had guessed about which suckers to keep. . . . Noon came. She fixed the usual snack for her men-folk. She thought she would go for a swim; they were in for a spell of hot weather apparently.

It proved to be a stupid swim. No George swimming alongside, teasing her with splashed water, racing her out for a game of tennis, or lying on the cement parapet, a little sad because his too-white skin never would tan evenly or stay tanned long; playing about with her as if they were a couple of children, there on the grass and in the water.

"It's awful dull without Mr. George," Mattie said when Eve came into her pantry for last night's cake plate.
 "Isn't it?" Eve said with fervor. "I miss him horribly already—"
 Something stopped her. Perhaps it was Mattie's little watchful gray eyes, fixed on her with a meaning interest. She said another idle word or two and went off through the sunshine with her plate, the wind blowing her rose-colored linen that George liked and lifting her hair. Suddenly her heart stood still and started racing again. She stopped, there on the path through the orchards, gasping, staring ahead. The words she had said were true.

Wrecking Records

HIS RECENT RECORD BREAKING SPREE ERASED JOHNNY WEISSMULLER'S 10-YEAR-OLD MARKS FOR 200 AND 500 YARDS

Sport Slants

By PAP

Lloyd Milewski, a busman's holiday on his duties as swimming instructor at the Miami Beach Roney Plaza pool, sat with stop-watch in hand watching Ralph Flanagan.

"Ralph is certain to clip Johnny Weissmuller's 10-year-old mark for 500 yards," Milewski commented after a glance at his watch (Weissmuller holds the mark for a 20-yard course: 5:28.4.)

I seized the opportunity to ask the explanation for the wholesale record-wrecking that invariably attends an important swimming meet.

"One answer is that there are so many records for each distance, depending on the length of the pool," Milewski explained. "The other answer is improvement in swimming form."

"Just watch Flanagan's arm action for a moment. Notice that his hand enters the water before the arm is fully extended. His hand goes forward and downward in the same motion—giving a sculling effect which helps propel the swimmer."

Clips Three Seconds
 "The old style was to extend the arm forward to its full length before placing the hand in the water for the downward thrust. This meant wasted effort and lost motion. There was no propelling power until the hand was well under the surface."

"The reason Flanagan was able to clip almost three seconds off the great Weissmuller's record just now lies in his improved style. Physically, Ralph would be no match for the Weissmuller of 10 years ago. The improvement is in technique."

"I have noticed many improvements in swimming form in recent years, particularly in the last six or seven," he went on. "It keeps one on his toes to follow all the chances. That's one of the reasons I find teaching swimming so interesting."

There are many youngsters who learn to swim under Milewski's guidance who are doing well in competition today. But they are not the ones who give the instructor his big thrills. He likes to hear of their successes, naturally, but he gets most satisfaction out of teaching grown-ups who have had a fear of the water all their lives. He feels he has given them something worthwhile when he has taught them to take care of themselves in the water.

MODERN COEDS SMOKED AT TEN. SURVEY SHOWS
 Urbana, Ill. (AP) — When the University of Illinois probed into the characteristics and private lives of freshmen, this is what was revealed:

Forty per cent of the men and 36 per cent of the women have blue eyes and brown hair. Brown eyes rank second. Only six per cent of the co-eds are blonde.

Sixty-four women smoked their first cigarette between the ages of 10 and 15 years; eight men smoked theirs before they were 10.

More men than women said they slept at least ten consecutive hours a night.

SEEK NATURALIZATION AFTER LIFETIME IN U. S.
 Brownsville, Tex. (AP) — After a combined residence of 127 years in Texas, two former citizens of Mexico have applied for final naturalization papers here.

They are Eusebio Gomez, 76, of San Benito, who has lived in the state 75 years, coming from Mier, Mexico, in 1862, and Enrique Trevino, born in Matamoros in 1875, and a resident of Brownsville 52 years.

REA PROVIDES NEW PROBLEM

Highway Beautification Being Made More Difficult

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 7.—The rural electrification of North Carolina, resulting in the building of more than 5,000 miles of rural electric lines in less than two years, is doing wonder in bringing convenience and many new utilities to the farms of the state, but it is creating a tremendous new highway problem. In that it is making the task of highway beautification more difficult, it was pointed out here today by Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

In complete agreement with Waynick is Chairman Dudley Bagley of the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority.

As a result, Chairman Waynick and Bagley are now getting their heads together and trying to work out plans whereby rural electric lines can continue to be built, but without becoming such eye-sores and without making necessary the slaughtering of so many beautiful shade trees.

For Bagley and Waynick both agree that in the building of rural electric lines, beautiful, symmetrical trees which have taken Mother Nature 200 years or more to grow have been cut down or horribly mutilated in a few hours by electric line construction crews.

"We realize, of course, that where electric lines are located along a highway and the branches of trees interfere, such branches or trees must be trimmed so that they will not short circuit the power wires," Chairman Waynick said. "We believe, however, that some program can be worked out that will locate the power lines off the right-of-way far enough so that the trees will not interfere, or preferably, that some type of underground cable can be worked out that will be no more costly than overhead construction."

Chairman Bagley said today that he and his chief engineer, J. M. Grainger, are holding conferences with F. H. Brandt, landscape engineer of the highway commission, in an effort to work out a plan for presentation to the power companies and cooperatives that will permit the building of rural electric lines without destroying the beauty of the rural highways. He is confident that a practical, workable program will be developed.

Island Residents Get Prepared For Summer Business

Manteo and Roanoke Island Citizens Expect Thousands of Visitors For Celebration

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 7.—The people living in Manteo and on Roanoke Island are already painting up their houses, buying new furniture—getting ready for the thousands of visitors expected to come to Roanoke Island this summer for the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Walter Raleigh's famed "Lost Colony" at old Fort Raleigh on the northern end of the island, according to D. B. Fearing, president of the Roanoke Island chamber of commerce and one of the prime movers in the celebration which is expected to make the island one of the best known in the world this summer.

It was at old Fort Raleigh, recently restored as it is supposed to have looked when founded by Sir Walter's colonists 350 years ago, that Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, first came upon the scene.

Beginning July 4 and extending through the summer, a colorful pageant, written by Paul Green, North Carolina's famed dramatist, will be produced in the new stadium now nearing completion on the shores of the island overlooking the sound where the original ships anchored. The pageant will be produced several times each week and possibly every day, if the number of visitors warrants it, Fearing said.

One of the biggest problems in connection with the celebration being planned for this summer was that of housing the thousands of tourists expected from every state in the union and from England and other European countries. For there are only two relatively small hotels on the island which until recently have more than sufficient to take care of the visitors which have come there.

So in order to provide added facilities, almost every family on the island is preparing one or more rooms to rent to visitors this summer, while some are building additions to their homes to provide additional space.

For those who do not want to stay on the island at night, fast bus service will be provided between Manteo, Fort Raleigh and Elizabeth City and Norfolk hotels, Fearing said.

Streamlining of railway trains, to increase speed is generally regarded as a recent development, but in 1909 a streamlined Adams Windsor train on the Baltimore and Ohio attained a speed of 85 miles an hour in tests.

Young Bride's Killer Quickly Caught By Detectives Facing New Mystery

KILLER
It was the look in his eyes that set cops on the trail of Major Green, 33-year-old porter, convicted of slaying Mrs. Mary Case.

VICTIM
The beaten and strangled body of Mrs. Case, bride of a year, was found in her Jackson Heights bathtub on Jan. 11, 1937.

SLEUTH
It only took three days for Inspector Ryan and a picked homicide squad to amass a pile of damning evidence that solved the crime.

GUILTY LOOK AND BIT OF SKIN BETRAYED MURDERER

By CHARLES NORMAN (AP Feature Service Writer)
(LAST IN A SERIES)

New York.—Inspector Ryan's cold blue eyes returned again and again to the brown placidity of Major Green's face.

The half-pint size negro porter was undergoing routine questioning about the slaying. It had been a brutal murder, the victim a pretty bride. To any but police officials it would have been amazing to see how many everyday persons—shopkeepers, delivery boys, laundries, tailors—had fallen under the scrutiny of detectives. Green was one of these. He was not suspected—just yet—but there was something in his eyes.

"I asked myself a thousand times what it was," the veteran cop admitted afterward.

From that moment, in the subway, on the street, at his task, at his home, even in his sleep, Major Green was under surveillance.

Three Sleepless Nights.
The body of Mrs. Mary Harriet Case was discovered at 6:35 p. m. Monday, January 11. On Thursday, January 14, the grand jury indicted Green for first degree murder. He was sent to the Sing Sing death house. And Ryan and his men turned to another mystery—that of the triple Gedeon murder. For three days and nights when the Case murder broke neither Inspector Ryan nor any man his picked squad of detectives slept a wink.

"My men rejected a relay suggestion," he says. "They were anxious to stick with the job until it was finished. Be sure to mention that I don't want the glory. Without them I'd be nowhere."

At 3 a. m. Wednesday morning Green was being questioned again in the Case apartment.

Fingerprint Tallies.
Pools and smears of blood coagulated on the floor. Green's shirt and shoes were taken from him. The shirt bore the markings "PWC", Mr. Case's initials. Asked where he had gotten the shirt, he said it had been given to him by another resident in the apartment house. A few minutes later Ryan was shaking that man out of a sound sleep and taking him along.

This was mere by-play. The shirt was not his, and Ryan knew it. But it was necessary to confront Green with the alleged owner, who denied ever having seen the shirt.

The evidence against Green reached impressive totals, but still the wily little porter denied all. One damning link to the crime was a bloody fingerprint found on the jamb of the bathroom door. It tallied with Green's.

Alexander Clarke, of the bureau of criminal identification, had gone around powdering the apartment to bring up the tell-tale marks. When the fingerprint appeared on a door-jamb, it failed to photograph clearly. That part of the door was sawed out and sent to the bureau.

"If the landlord objects, we'll buy him a new door," said Ryan. The next day another fingerprint was found; the bureau reported it was not Green's.

"Now," says Ryan, whose fingerprint do you suppose it turned out to be? The fingerprint expert's! All in Day's Work.

In the end, Green incriminated himself by admitting he was in the apartment when the woman was struck down. And the case was clinched by a piece of his skin—scraped from the victim's fingernail.

Speaking of "breaks", Ryan says: "I guess it's experience more than anything else. You can almost tell by talking to a fellow—except in a few cases—whether he's mixed up."

At 60, John J. Ryan's voice can whisper or boom. His men don't like that—particularly the booming part. There are times, too, when he does neither. He just looks. And the icy pools of his eyes become searchlights under which detectives spurt into action and suspects cringe and wilt. But brusque or genial, his men are his to command. He knows this. It makes him proud.

Cheerful off duty, he doesn't worry on the job. He takes a homicide as part of the day's work. "What do you do for relaxation?" he was asked. "Read detective stories?"

He looked up quickly, then lowered his eyes. "I read them, yes," he replied, with a voice that intimated he perhaps oughtn't to admit it.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Led by steels, motors and coppers, stock market leaders today were rated for losses of one or five or more points.
At the height of the selling wave in the morning the ticker tape was three minutes in arrears. Activity slowed appreciably later and near the fourth hour extreme declines were shaded a bit.
Grain futures did better after an early backslide but copper, cotton rubber, lead, tin and others suffered one of the worst set backs since the start of the advance.

AUTO WORKERS PREPARE TREK BACK TO JOBS

The farmers, whose markets for some 800,000 pounds of milk daily has been paralyzed since the strike broke out last Friday, took matters into their own hands after the sit-down strikers rescinded an agreement to come out by 1 p. m., which was the final deadline set by the milk producers and "loyal" workers.

STRIKE DECLARED AT END IN COVINGTON, VA. MILL

Covington, Va., April 7.—(AP)—Robert Gaffney, U. T. W. organizer, announced this afternoon the evacuation of strikers of the Industrial Rayon corporation plants here, and end of the "sit-in" phase of the strike in effect since March 29, would begin in a few hours.
Gaffney said there would be extensive picketing of the plants on the outside.

COMING TO END RUPTURE TROUBLES

Representatives of Wm. S. Rice, Inc., Adams, N. Y., originator of the Rice Method for the self treatment of rupture at home, will be at the Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. C., Friday, Apr. 9 to give a personal and free trial of his method to all sufferers who want to end rupture trouble and truss wearing.
No matter how bad the rupture, how long you have had it, or how hard to hold; no matter how many kinds of trusses you have worn, let nothing prevent you from getting this FREE TRIAL. Whether you are tall and thin, short and stout, have a large abdomen, whether you think you are past help or have a rupture as large as your fists, this marvelous Method will so control and keep it up inside as to surprise you. It will so restore the parts where the rupture comes through that soon you will be as free to work at any occupation as though you had never been ruptured.
The trial will be absolutely complete and thorough without a penny of cost.
You owe it to your own personal comfort and safety not to miss the opportunity to learn how you may be done with chafing trusses and the danger, suffering and trouble your rupture has caused.
The hours are 10 to 12 a. m. 2 to 5 p. m. and evenings 7 to 9. Remember the dates and places, Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. C.

NO NECESSITY INCREASE TAX

Large Amount Of Personal Property Not on List Books

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 7.—There should be no need to increase property taxes in any county, city or town in the state this year if the tax listing and tax collecting officials will only go after the personal property and intangibles not now on the tax books, State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, who is also Director of Local Government in North Carolina, said today. He also pointed out that where an additional yield may be needed, this can be easily obtained by a readjustment in valuations, rather than through a higher tax rate.

"There has been a good deal of talk to the effect that many counties, cities and towns are going to have to increase their tax rates for next year in order to meet their budgets and take care of the additional expense they will have as a result of social security, old age pensions and other things," Johnson said.

"But if the tax listers will insist upon a more full and complete listing of personal property at its real value, and also get more intangibles on the tax books, they will get all the additional revenue they can possibly need. Every one knows there are millions and millions of dollars worth of personal property and intangibles which never get on the tax books and which the tax listers and assessors never try to get on the tax books. I know of a case a few years ago of a man who was known to have at least $25,000 in cash on hand at all times, yet who year after year was permitted to list his cash on hand at only $50. There are still plenty of cases like this."

Another way in which local subdivisions can get all the additional revenue they need without increasing the tax rate is to readjust valuations, Johnson said. He pointed out that during the past six years the valuations in most counties, cities and towns have been sharply reduced, also that property of all kinds is now yielding more than in several years. He thinks most valuations could be upped 10 per cent or even more without hurting any one.
