UAWA Plans Unionization Drive in Ford Motor Co., Plants

BITTER STRUGGLE IS ANTICIPATED

General Strike Called at Plants of General Motors of Canada in Oshawa, Ont.

(By Associated Press) Dark strike clouds roiled over the industrial horizon again today. While the U. A. W. A. pushed plans for unionization of 150,000 Ford Motor Company workers, a general strike was called at plants of General Motors of Canada, limited, in Oshawa, Ont., and employees went out of the buildings in response to the call.

"Orderly" picketing was reported established at Ways, Ga. Henry Ford, staunch champion of the open shop, said: "We'll never recognize the United Automobile Workers union or any other union."

John Lewis, C. I. O. head, meanwhile asserted at Detroit: "I have no doubt, however, that Mr. Ford will change his mind."

Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania, issued a statement criticizing the sheriff of Dauphin county for not enlisting the aid of state police to prevent bloodshed at the Hershey Chocolate corporation plant.

Many persons were treated for injuries suffered yesterday when angry dairy farmers and "loyal" employees ejected between 600 and 1,000 sit-down strikers. The farmers protested the strike cut off an important milk market.

Evacuation of the Covington plant of the Industrial Rayon corporation by "sit-in" strikers was a source of "gratification" today to Governor Perry of Virginia, who expressed the hope it would lead to an early settlement.

Shippers Of State To Save Good Sum If Cut is Sustained

Savings of at Least $500,000 a Year Would Be Realized if Commission Slices Rates

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 8.—Shippers of the state will be saved at least $500,000 a year on intrastate freight charges if the State Utilities Commission finds in favor of its own position and puts into effect within the state the same interstate rates which have been in effect over the country as a whole since November, 1936.

The prevailing belief here is that the commission will decide against the railroads, who were heard here this week in opposition to the order which would make the lower rates effective, although utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne has given the attorneys for carriers 30 days in which to file briefs in opposition to the proposed order.

Until 1930, the State Corporation Commission had complete jurisdiction over rates within the state and had an "intra-state" rate schedule considerably lower than the interstate freight rate schedule. As a result, the Virginia commission brought a case before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, charging that the North Carolina intra-state rates were discriminatory and asking that the North Carolina rates be made to conform with the interstate rates.

The ICC held in favor of the Virginia commission and the North Carolina commission was accordingly forced to put into effect the same freight rate schedule within the state as the ICC had set up for interstate business.

In 1933, however, the North Carolina Utilities Commission brought its famous rate discrimination case, known as Docket No. 21665, before the ICC, charging rank discrimination against North Carolina by all the railroads operating in the southeastern states. This case was finally decided in favor of North Carolina by the ICC in November, 1936, and was accompanied by a order which made decided reductions in the interstate rates.

The hearing held here this week was on the order of the state commission for the railroads to show cause why the 1936 interstate rates should not become the intrastate rates as well, and thus bring about a saving of at least $500,000 a year to the shippers of the state. The commission is expected to put the new lower rates into effect.

CRACK TROOPS PARADE FOR CHIEF ON ARMY DAY

Down Washington's Constitution Avenue on Army Day marched crack troops of the nation to be reviewed by their commander-in-chief, President Roosevelt. ANOTHER CITY RACE ASSURED

R. E. Sellers Out For Aldermanic Seat Third Ward

A second aldermanic race was assured today when R. E. Sellers publicly announced that he would seek the position from the Third Ward, which will be vacated by H. H. Duncan, who is running for Mayor.

Mr. Sellers will be opposed by J. D. Simpson, who announced his candidacy several days ago. The election will be held May 3.

The other aldermanic race is between Jack Spain and J. Hicks Cooney from the Second Ward, which will be vacated by Alderman Vernon Parrish, who has announced that he would retire from politics.

The incumbent, M. K. Blount is running for the office of Mayor, being opposed by Alderman Duncan. These three races are the only ones that have developed so far, no opposition having announced to the other three aldermen whose terms expire this year. The three are A. C. Tadlock, L. B. Fleming and A. E. Hobgood.

Mr. Sellers is a local manufacturer of brick. He has previously served on the Board of Alderman, having held the office from the same ward for three two-year terms, 1921-1927.

Miller Sentenced To Sixteen Years

Charlottesville, Va., April 8.—(AP)—Judge Lemuel Smith of Albemarle Circuit Court today sentenced Dr. Richard G. Miller, middle aged dentist, to 16 years in prison on his plea of second degree murder in the chloroform death of pretty Cleo Sprouse, 18-year-old High school girl.

There was no demonstration in the courtroom as sentence was pronounced. Judge Smith asserted, in fixing sentence at 16 years, he took into consideration the age of the defendant, 53, and his education.

Dr. Miller, head bowed, went silently as sentence was pronounced. His daughter, Lucy, sat beside him, while a short distance away his wife listened to the sentence with her eyes closed.

Seek Big Attendance at Public Forum Here

Sponsors are anxious for a large attendance at the Public Forum to be conducted at the High School library here tonight at 8 o'clock.

Joseph S. Kornfeld, former United States minister to Persia, will be the speaker and will discuss the topic "When We Are Educated." Mr. Kornfeld has made an intensive study of literature, education and international relations and his views on these topics are highly regarded. At various times he has held important offices, other than that of minister to Persia.

SEEK PREVENT TUBERCULOSIS

Clinic Promised For Pitt County During Week of April 26

Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, Pitt County Health Officer, announced today that Dr. P. P. McCain, Superintendent of the State Sanatorium, has promised an adult tuberculosis clinic for Pitt County.

The clinic will begin in the Health Department offices, April 26th and will last for one week.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be given to Greenville; Thursday will be given to Ayden and Friday will be given to Farmville. The hours for all clinics are from 9 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m. and it is desirable that appointments be made early. These clinics are for both white and colored patients.

The Health Department urged that all persons who have symptoms of tuberculosis or who have lived in a house with a case of tuberculosis come to the clinic for examination.

It is desirable that, where practical, the patient bring a reference slip from his own physician.

The early symptoms of tuberculosis are: too easily fatigued, loss of appetite, loss of weight, cough, and at times even blood spitting is an early symptom, though, as a rule, blood spitting occurs later in the disease.

All examinations are free. If an X-ray is necessary, this is free to those unable to pay. Such X-rays are paid for out of the Christmas Tuberculosis Seal Sale fund.

The Health Officer called attention to the following facts. The State clinic is held but once a year. The patient now in the early stages may be in the advanced stages next year. The vast majority of early cases can be cured while the vast majority of advanced cases cannot be cured. Early discovery means early recovery.

TORNADO HITS MILL VILLAGE

At Least One Person, Possibly More, Dead in Alabama Town

Troy, Ala., April 8.—(AP)—A tornado killed at least one person, injured numerous others, and leveled houses in a lumber mill village at Brundridge, Ala., today.

Highway Patrolman Will Tatum, who sped to the storm scene, reported four bodies had been found.

Chief Walter McAdory of the Alabama highway patrol, received the report at Montgomery, Ala.

"Tatum told me they knew four were dead," McAdory said, "but didn't know how many more. Telephone lines are down to Brundridge and he had to go back to Bank to call me. I've sent twenty patrolmen to Brundridge."

Fred Crowley, 12, was known to be dead.

With all communication facilities crippled, the highway patrolman's report of four fatalities could not be re-checked.

Pitt Medical Society To Hold Meet Tonight

The regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society will be held at Farmville tonight at 7 o'clock, at which time Drs. W. M. Willis and Paul Jones will be hosts.

Welfare Board Prepares To Administer Pensions

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 8.—The State Board of Charities and Public Welfare is already busy making preparations for putting the new old age pensions and children's aid law into effect, despite the fact that the new law does not become operative until July 1 and that no applications for pensions or aid for dependant children will be received until after that date, Mrs. W. T. Best, Commissioner of Public Welfare, said today.

The administration of both of these new laws will be under the general supervision of the Board of Charities and Public Welfare and under the immediate supervision of the Director of Public Assistance, yet to be appointed by Governor Clyde R. Hoey. It is also expected that Governor Hoey will appoint a new chairman of the state board between now and July 1, since the new law provides that hereafter the chairman shall be appointed by the Governor instead of being elected by the board members. The law also provides that the chairman of the board, together with the Direc-

Insurgents Press Attack to Within 18 Miles of Bilbao

DEFENSE ACTIVE SOUTHERN AREAS

Tension is Eased Following Statement by Insurgents on Attack of British Ships

(By Associated Press) Fighting behind a wall of fire, Spanish Insurgent troops pressed their attack to within 18 miles of the Basque capital of Bilbao in Northern Spain today.

Far to the South, on the Cordoba front, government militiamen hammered at Insurgent entrenchments in Villaharta, trying to "bottle up" 15,000 troops of General Francisco Franco.

International tension over repeated attacks by Insurgent ships on British war and merchant vessels apparently eased somewhat as Insurgent authorities admitted they had made an "unfortunate mistake."

The admission came from Insurgent officials at the island of Mallorca. The British destroyer Gallant and the cruiser, Southampton backed up Britain's demand there for a quick and satisfactory explanation of two aerial attacks Tuesday on the destroyer Gallant.

Accusations by the controlled Italian press of violation of the non-intervention agreement by France and Russia by dispatch of men and arms to Spain excited little interest in Paris.

Insurgent troops opened the way to Bilbao by driving the last government defenders from a pass near Durango. They forced Basque troops to withdraw to the second range of hills on one of the main highways between Victoria and Bilbao.

Insurgent set afire pine forests to drive back the defenders.

To Take Deposition In Suit Against City

Judge A. J. Dunn, representing the plaintiff and F. C. Harding the City of Greenville, went to Baltimore today to take a deposition of Mrs. Hattie Shuff, plaintiff, in a suit against the town for $15,000.

Mrs. Shuff alleges she was injured because of negligence on the part of the city on February 5, 1935, when she stepped into a hole and broke her ankle.

PLAN TO MOVE EIGHT VICTIMS

Biers Fashioned For Charred Bodies In Crash Tragedy

McNary, Ariz., April 8.—(AP)—Biers of aspen balsa were fashioned today for eight charred bodies by shivering men who stood guard all night on the mountain side where a luxurious 21-passenger sky-liner crashed into the snow and burned.

Undertakers began the task of loading the victims, two women and six men on sleds and bringing them out—a tortuous seven mile journey over steep hills, down snow-clogged ravines and across roaring streams which caused half of a searching party of 40 to drop, exhausted.

C. C. Cole, an official of the Douglas Aircraft corporation which built the plane, said removal could not be completed before nightfall and may require two days.

The sight of twisted metal and death which greeted the searchers and the ordeals they underwent on the way were described by Jack Deffer, a member of the party.

Schools To Meet In Music Contest

The annual District Music Contest will be held in the high school auditorium, Saturday morning beginning at 9:30. Chairman J. H. Rose announced today.

This district is composed of the following counties: Washington, Terrell, Dare, Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Beaufort, Hyde. This contest is held for the purpose of picking pupils from this district who will attend the state music contest in Greensboro on April 21, 22, and 23. The old Greenville district has been divided up into three districts with elimination centers now in New Bern and Elizabeth City. The Greenville schools will enter contestants in the following events:

Mixed chorus, boys' glee club, girls' glee club, mixed quartette, boys' quartette, girls' trio, soprano solo, alto, tenor, baritone, bass, piano, junior piano, boys' voice, trumpet, trombone, tuba, band.

The eliminations will begin at nine thirty and will be completed by one o'clock. The general public is invited to attend. Mrs. Eugenia Thomas Davenport will be the judge. Greenville High School entries this year are said to be the best in the history of the school.

Miss Ona Shindler and H. A. McDoug's will present the best balance pensions and for aid to dependant children; numerous different application blanks and forms must be prepared, submitted to the Social Security Board in Washington for approval, probably be revised and then printed so they will be ready for use July 1, and many other similar tasks and details attended to, Mrs. Best pointed out.

One of the most immediate tasks before the board is the organization of the new welfare boards in every county and the selection of a full-time welfare officer in each.

PLAN TO MOVE TAR HEEL HELD

Commission Plans Program Spending Of Some $500,000

State Highway and Public Works Group Probably in Last Session Before New Regime

Raleigh, April 8.—(Reflector Bureau)—The State Highway and Public Works Commission, in session here today and tomorrow in what is probably the next to the last meeting of the present commission—the new "reorganized" commission will take office May 1—is going to program the spending of some $500,000 for emergency work on the county roads, Chairman C. M. Wayne said today.

This amount was saved back from the last year's surplus made from the highway fund by the commission by former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, in the event more severe road damage would be done this winter by the weather.

"This $500,000 is hardly a drop in the bucket and will take care of only a very small amount of the work that needs to be done on the county roads," Wayne said. "But it will help repair some of the worst places in many of the roads used as bus routes—provided it stops raining long enough for us to do this work. But it would take at least $5,000,000 instead of only $500,000 if we were to do the work that really needs to be done on these secondary roads."

Chairman Wayne pointed out that last summer and fall the highway commission spent $3,600,000 allotted to it by Governor Ehringhaus on only 8,000 miles of county roads, out of a total of 46,000 miles of county or secondary roads.

All of the district engineers are here also today to meet with the members of the commission and to assist them in deciding where the worst stretches of road are located and which sections will be improved with this money now available.

The surface treated roads have come through the winter with very little damage, Wayne said, so that very little expense will be incurred in repairing these roads. For in spite of the heavy rains this winter, most of these roads have stood up unusually well, thus justifying the time and money expended on them last summer to get them in good condition, Wayne said.

Study New Angles In Triple Murder

New York, April 8.—(AP)—To the extravagant details of an Easter morning triple murder in a Beekman Hill apartment police added today a weird and ghoulish possibility the killer of Veronica Gedeon paused long enough to press plaster on her features for a death mask.

As the Pennsylvania authorities checked, the chance the sculptor suspect, Robert Irwin, had been hitch hiking near Stroudsburg, Alexandria, Etl, art supply dealer, and Irwin's former employer, said indications pointed to such a mask having been made.

Etl explained the making of the mask is routine work of apprentice art students. Police scheduled another conference with him today in an effort to get additional clues to the identity of the man who slew "Ronnie," her mother, Mary, and Frank Byrnes, a roomer.

LOWER BRANCH REFUSES CALL INVESTIGATION

Defeats Resolution to Probe Un-American Activities

PLAN ACCEPTED TO HELP FARMER

Sen. Robinson Predicts Relief Funds for Next Year Will Be Curtailed

Washington, April 8.—(AP)—The House refused today to order a Congressional investigation of un-American activities and propaganda.

With the so-called liberal bloc as the spearhead of the opposition, the House on a voice vote agreed overwhelmingly to sidetrack an investigation resolution.

Senators studying civil liberties violations said they would begin an inquiry next Wednesday into bloody labor disputes in Kentucky's Harlan county coal field.

This announcement by the civil liberties committees was made a short time before the House undertook consideration of requests for starting various new investigations.

Chief of these would be an inquiry into six down strikes, proposed by Rep. Dies (D. Tex.) First on the House docket, however, was a resolution by Rep. Dickstein (D. N. Y.) providing for a study of whether foreign nations were using spies and propaganda to undermine the American government.

Senator Majority Leader Robinson predicted relief funds for next year might be curtailed to provide for other government activities without additional tax.

He said reports in an interview today he hoped to avoid new taxes at this session.

Before the House took up the Dickstein proposal, Rep. Dies urged the immigration committee to improve mandatory deportation of criminal aliens and those advocating violent overthrow of the government.

The House Agriculture Committee agreed on a five year $685,000,000 program to help low income farm classes.

Chairman Jones (D. Tex.) said the committee would approve the (Continued on page eight)

Miss White Complimented.
Miss Helen White whose marriage to Dr. James Beebe Hawes of Charleston, West Virginia, will take place on April 28th, was honor guest last evening when Miss Frances Morton was hostess at an attractive appointed bridge party at the Country Club.

The club rooms were elaborately decorated in masses of pink, yellow and white tulips. The mantels were banded with tulips and fern, with tiers of candles at either end. Log fires at either end of the room cast a mellow glow over the entire scene.

On arrival guests were greeted by Miss Morton, her mother, Mrs. W. Z. Morton, Miss White and her mother, Mrs. S. T. White.

Miss White, Miss Maria Garrett, bride-elect of May, and Mrs. C. W. Bynum, a recent bride, were given shoulderettes of sweet peas.

Bridge was played at twelve tables. Following the game, cards were removed and a delicious ice course in a bridal motif of white and green was served. The tables were centered with small cornucopias of sweet peas.

The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Morton.

As a surprise to the honor guest, Miss Morton presented her with a ruffled parasol. On opening the parasol Miss White was showered with beautiful handkerchiefs from the guests.

An attractive vase was presented Mrs. M. L. Wright for high score, and for low score Mrs. Charles A. White was given a powder jar. Miss White's gift was a complete dinner set for one in her elected china pattern. As reminders of the occasion Miss Maria Garrett was given silver in her chosen pattern, and Mrs. C. W. Bynum a lemon dish and fork.

Miss Pat Holderness and Miss Carrie Wiggins of Tarboro, were out of town guests.

The End of the Century Club.
The End of the Century Club was given a rare treat at its last meeting when Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Mrs. Ralph Garrett, and Mrs. J. S. Ficklen were hostesses, at the home of Mrs. J. S. Ficklen.

Mrs. Fleming who presided in the absence of the president, dispensed with the business. The club accepted the invitation of the A. A. W. to hear Miss Harriet Elliott on Tuesday, April 13th. Mrs. Fleming then introduced Mrs. Bayard Wooten who showed slides of famous southern gardens, including Wormsloe, near Savannah; Magnolia and Middleton, near Charleston; Belle Isle, near Georgetown; the Garden of Statues given by Mr. Huntington to the State of South Carolina; and Orton, near Wilmington.

Mrs. Wooten's slides showed artistic skill and painstaking effort. They portrayed faithfully the colors, sizes, and shapes of the azaleas and camellias. There were also several lovely scenes showing the beautiful old homes at Middleton and Orton. The stately old live oaks, the Ashley river, and the spacious terraces add much to the beauty of the Middleton Gardens. The "Magnolia Gardens," created by the Rev. Ernest Mr. John Grimke Drayton, probably contains the greatest variety of camellias and azaleas to be found anywhere in the world. The slides gave a splendid idea of the distinctive features of the Cypress Gardens showing the forest of cypress trees, the reflection of the azaleas in the waters, and the multitudes of white narcissi and lilies.

The picture with which she was most pleased was that of a wide open camellia on which she had caught the dewdrops glistening in the early morning sun.

There were a number of guests present.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served a delicious ice course.—Reported.

Attend Art Association
Miss Kate W. Lewis and Dorothy Snyder left this morning to attend a three-day meeting of the Southeastern Art Association which is holding its sixth annual meeting in Raleigh, beginning today and lasting through Saturday. The headquarters are at the Sir Walter Hotel.

There will be program meetings, panel discussions, luncheons, a banquet, a ball, and sight-seeing trips to Chapel Hill and Duke University. Delegates will be there from all the Southern states East of the Mississippi.

Mrs. Belle McIntosh Davis, of Birmingham, is the president. The theme running through all programs is "Art in Democratic Living."

Arthur Young of the Fine Arts Department of Teachers College, Columbia University, will talk on "The Graphic Experience of Children and Its Relation to Environment and Ideology." Several other people of note will speak on different phases of art as the teaching of art. The panel discussion will be on "Arts in the new curriculum."

Avon Players Coming.
It was announced today by V. M. Mulholland that the Greenville High School has engaged the Avon Players, one of the best remaining professional theatrical companies touring America, to present Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" in the high school auditorium on Wednesday night, April 14th, 8:00 o'clock.

The Avon Players are headed by Joseph Selman, a dean of the American stage. Mr. Selman's background includes a long association with such renowned stars of the stage as the late Mrs. Plakes, with whom he repeatedly toured America, and in leading Broadway roles in such modern plays as "The Bat," "Three Faces East" and in several productions of the inimitable Geo. M. Cohan.

Through his long association with the modern speaking stage, Mr. Selman has long realized that Shakespeare runs the gamut of all drama, and therefore if an actor can play Shakespeare he will, in the end, be more adept in modern plays.

In bringing "The Merchant of Venice" to Greenville Mr. Selman has injected into the play the technique of the theatre of today, thus adding to the cultural and educational influences of the work of the immortal Bard, a highly entertaining and gripping interest, appealing even to those who are entirely unfamiliar with Shakespeare.

In the company which is replete with lovely costumes, scenery and lighting effects, are an aggregation of young and talented players of the legitimate stage.

Through the sponsorship of the engagement of Mr. Selman and his company of Avon Players in Greenville Mr. Mulholland stated that the Greenville high school will be enabled to offer a special student rate for all students who desire to see "The Merchant of Venice."

EVE'S ORCHARD

MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: When Eve Mansfield learns that her beloved Denny Carter is to wed another girl, she is shattered. Resuming her aunt's baking business, she finds contentment in her old house and orchard in Connecticut. Old Uncle Henry, who helps her run the place, and serious little Judge Featherstone, whose parents have left him with Eve, adore her. She forgets Denny. But not until George Cleveland, her steady, dependable neighbor, leaves abruptly, does Eve realize she keenly misses George, who has been friend and helper to her through the summer.

Chapter 37

It's Love!

EVE did miss George—intensely, achingly. She might not be in love with him as she had been with Denny. No, not as she had been with Denny—that was what had betrayed her. She missed George as if some part of herself was gone. A lack as enormous and unbearable as starvation, as deprivation of breath and light.

She laughed aloud, with the incredible delight of it. She loved George. More than that, she was a part of him, of everything he was and said and did, as he was of her. That was why the Kay girl had thought they were married. In a thousand ways they were married, as much as they ever could be. In this summer they had spent together, wedged by their pleasures and duties, by their mutual interest and care for the child and the old man, they had grown as close as most people do in their married years. And they would go on all their lives as close as this, children, their work and play, building a goodness more and more effortless and complete.

She leaned there, dazed and breathless against the laden boughs, understanding. This was why she had so swiftly forgotten Denny! Why—she had not really loved Denny. She saw now. The hurt of his desertion, wounded pride, had been a great part of her grief. If love was needing a man, as you needed sun and air and food and water and sleep, she had never loved Denny; it had been thrill, excitement, kisses and laughter. There would be all these with George—but how much more!

"How much more!" she said aloud, sobered and reverent, pacing down the orchard trail. And then she smiled a little, planning now she would tell him when he came back. . . . And what a stupid idiot she had been! Why, no wonder he had been angry with her! He had asked her again to marry him in those few hesitating words last night by the hissing fireplace. And she must have seemed to ignore, to evade. . . . Well, she'd make it up to him!

She had never once said to him, or to anyone, anything about Denny. But she thought they must know. Two months had gone by now without her seeing Denny or hearing from him; Uncle Henry had a countryman's watchfulness about small happenings, and she knew talked most things over with George. They discussed her welfare affectionately. She knew that from Judge. Besides, with George's mother at a Southampton hotel, and Milti Powe, in a house there, it wasn't likely he didn't know. None of which mattered at all.

She planned the words in which she would tell George—a dozen ways, as lovers will, as she walked singing down the path.

With Dreaming Eyes

SHE went on with her work blithely. She swam and played tennis with the Gardiners and their friends, using George's place, as they always did, whether he was there or not. She walked with burning cheeks and dreaming eyes and quick laughter, waiting till George came home. She was chateleine for George, as she had so often been before, but how more proudly.

The Gardiners wanted to know if some of the current crop of weekend guests could dress in George's house instead of coming and going in bathing suits, as most of them did. Eve went in to tell Mattie, asking the nominal permission she was accustomed to give.

"Mr. George is coming back Monday instead of Tuesday," Mattie informed her as Eve stood in the doorway of the long parlor. "He's bringing some people with him, but the connection was bad, and I couldn't make out what it was or just one person. What would you do about ordering if you was me?"

Eve was used to solving Mattie's problems for her.

"Get two chickens," she said promptly. "If you roast them, you can save one coin for lunches and picnic, and so on if there isn't a party, and it will be enough if there is. Adriano can pick enough beans and greens after they come, one way or the other."

Mattie said, relieved, "Yes, and wouldn't you make an apricot mousse? It would mellow the second day even if it wasn't used."

"Fine!" said Eve.

She lingered a moment, looking down the room where she stood into the back room George used for a study and laboratory. There was her own lacquer cabinet, George still used it for his records, and for seeds,

She went over and pulled open a drawer. It was full of sheets covered with notes in George's small upright hand. She looked down at it, dreaming. The papers would eventually go into a filing cabinet, she knew; but the cabinet would never go to Mrs. Cleveland now. Some day children would use it again for storehouse and playhouse.

Anne Gardiner rapped on a pane, and she ran out to her. Presently she was lying with the group in the late afternoon sun. They were her guests now as much as George's.

Eve, I've Done It!

THEY went on talking and playing. She lived on in her mist of excitement and anticipation. George would be back tomorrow night. Maybe tomorrow afternoon. Some day children would use it again for storehouse and playhouse.

Anne Gardiner rapped on a pane, and she ran out to her. Presently she was lying with the group in the late afternoon sun. They were her guests now as much as George's.

"Eve, Eve, I've done it—I've done it! I saw George in the audience Saturday night. I couldn't stand it any longer. I sent him a note to wait, and I told him, out in the car, after the show. I told him I couldn't stand living without him any longer. I told him that I didn't care whether he loved me or not. I loved him so. And we're going to be married. Oh, Eve, aren't you glad? Eve, isn't it wonderful?"

Eve made herself kiss Ellen with stiff lips, and heard herself saying brightly, affectionately: "Yes, it is wonderful, Ellen dear. I'm glad."

Advertising Firms Hound Conservation Department

Raleigh, April 7.—Although the Department of Conservation and Development will not be able to spend any of the $250,000 appropriated by the recent general assembly which to advertise North Carolina until after July 1, advertising agencies, representatives of advertising men, representatives of "experts" and promoters of all sorts all "most falling over each other" to get into the offices of Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the conservation department, or of Paul Kelly, assistant director.

Telephone calls are being received almost daily from New York and other large eastern advertising agencies, asking for appointments for their representatives. Many advertising firms have already submitted sample lay-outs and have prepared elaborate plans for the prospective advertising campaign.

But Director Etheridge and Assistant Director Kelly, who have at last seen their dreams of a good sized state appropriation for "selling the world" about North Carolina come true, are not the sort to be "high pressured" into anything without first giving it careful thought and consideration. They are given courteous hearings to all those who want to be heard, but are not making any commitments to any one.

"We are not going to decide upon anything definite until we have given the entire program thorough study," Director Etheridge said today. "We are also giving thorough study to similar programs carried on by other states and the methods employed, in an effort to profit by the experience of others."

EXPLOSION 'G-MAN' PUTS FUTURE BLASTS ON SPOT

EXPLOSION—ACCIDENTAL. This rare photo of a natural explosion gave Dr. David J. Price, Uncle Sam's "explosion detective," a clue to the discovery that water would ignite aluminum dust.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY (Associated Press Service Writer)

Washington — When David J. Price picks up a headline screaming "explosion," he packs his bag for a quick plane ride to the scene.

This chief of the agriculture department's bureau of chemical research is recognized as the world's outstanding "explosion detective" when it comes to tracking down the source of a blast.

With his staff, he follows up "clues" to past explosions to arrest future ones.

The quick-eyed specialist is not interested one whit in plain dynamite or nitro-glycerine. But any natural explosion of dust or gas makes his brown eyes sparkle. He pores over photographs of the scenes carried in newspapers, and calls it "finding the fundamentals." Studying such fundamentals back in 1917 brought the discovery with colleagues in the bureau of mines that coal dust is as great an enemy of the miner as coal gas.

Discovers Dust Danger

Price also was an early discoverer of the mounting danger of dust explosions in the industrial age. As a result he has helped design buildings that vent the dust and avoid ignition.

Once a great industrialist chanced upon an article described Price's work, and recalled he had a new plant with a possible dust hazard opening within 24 hours. He sent for Price.

"You'll have a dust explosion within a day after you open this plant," Price told the man.

"How can we prevent it?"

"You can't do that immediately, but you can remove a serious danger to your workmen."

Engineers recommended opening the plant, believing that Price was throwing off a lot of empty theory. But they did take his advice to vent the plant by replacing a big section

EXPLOSION—DELIBERATE. Dr. Price deliberately produced this blast in his Arlington, Va., "explosive gallery" to prove that dust explosions gather force as they go. This explosion was started under the shed in center but did not attain its full force until it reached the tower at right.

ETIQUETTE

By JOAN DURHAM AP Feature Service Writer

Any head waiter can spot well-tired customers the moment they enter a dining-room.

For there are a few fine points in restaurant dining that are easily discernible to his practiced eye.

He watches, for instance, the manner in which a woman comes into the dining-room. He knows that if she's accustomed to restaurant dining she will follow him to a table, letting her dinner partner come behind her. And she won't stop to hold long conversation at tables she passes—leaving behind her a group of disgusted men who have been obliged to stand as long as she talks and innumerable plates of cold food abandoned for the sake of good manners.

It is the woman's privilege to sit where she wishes. She should always have the choice seat—facing the garden, the river, the window or the dance floor. If there's a party of four, the two women should face each other—with their dinner partners to the right of them. (The last isn't a hard and fast rule by any means. But it's something to tie to when there's any hesitation.)

Two types of menus are in use in restaurants today: (1) table d'hote and (2) a la carte.

Meals ordered from an a la carte menu cost the sum total of the individual dishes. Meals ordered from a table d'hote menu cost one set price. (There may be several prices for the table d'hote meal. But they depend upon the main course—the "entree." The meal may cost more, for instance, if the main course consists of frogs' legs than if it is fillet of sole. But the type of dessert and appetizer doesn't affect the price of the meal.)

Ordinarily the woman should give her order to the man with whom she's dining—and let him relay it to the waiter; the waiter will ask her exactly what she wants. Then she may give her order to him.

When the woman is to foot the bill she'll save double embarrassment if she arranges to pay in advance. (She may see the head waiter a day or so ahead and make arrangements with him.) She should even try to avoid having to sign the check in the presence of her masculine friend—who won't feel obliged, then, to leave a tip.

Otherwise the man should call for the check when the meal is over, leaving a tip that amounts to about 10 per cent of the total bill—or as high as 20 per cent in the more expensive restaurants.

George Washington's home at Mount Vernon, Va., is said to be the most popular point of interest in the United States among paying sight-seers.

KIRK SIMPSON IN WASHINGTON

Washington—What group, other than the general public, is most interested in Presidential press conferences? Off hand, it would appear to be brokers and other market traders.

Why? Because of the effect of Presidential announcements on the market situation. That is an easy answer. Uneasy, however, are some business men and economists who see deep significance in it. They predict a steady increase of business interest in Presidential administrative doings in general. The reason is the steadily larger hand played by government in business. The larger the hand, the greater the interest.

It seems obvious that the more government is involved in business, the greater will be the reaction of business to any government move. In turn, as the government recognizes this, it will seek a larger control in business to prevent such reactions setting up harmful fiscal and employment fluctuations.

New Factors

A sample of the quick business reaction was the abrupt additional slump in government bonds when Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury commented on the limited support which public agencies could lend to the bond market. Another is the slump in metal and durable goods shares when President Roosevelt announced withdrawal of public works buying in that field.

That may be the effect on a day-to-day basis. But every four years there is a presidential election and it is the effect of this period of uncertainty which is wrinkling business brows. Every four years in times past, business has gone into a period of hesitancy during the election campaign.

In the past it was largely the tariff issue that caused hesitancy. While that has been greatly reduced as a political issue, there have arisen new factors of government control in banking, security, marketing, labor legislation and crop control.

Theories

What likely will be the effect in political campaigns of this increased government interest in business and correspondingly increased business interest in government? One school of thought expects this sort of cycle to run:

Government increases its interest in business. This prolongs the period of uncertainty among business men over the election outcome. This prolonged uncertainty discourages new ventures, tends to increase unemployment and to bring on recessions. Unemployment and recessions increase the demand for government interference in business. And so on.

There is no limit to the extent to which the cycle can be carried out in theory, even to the point where government interest in business amounts to outright control.

But another side of the picture is painted by those who, while recognizing the trend toward greater government participation in business, doubt that the cycle will run especially fast, even if it runs consistently in the direction of greater government control.

county, Mrs. Bost said. Under the law, the new welfare officers must be elected on the first Monday in June, which means that welfare boards must be completed for all of the 100 counties before that date. Each county welfare board must be composed of three persons, one to be appointed by the state Board of Welfare, one by the board of county commissioners, while these two will select that third member. If the two appointive members are unable to agree on the third member, this member will then be selected by the resident of Superior Court Judge in the district in which the county is located. Each county welfare board in turn must elect the full-time county welfare officer.

The state welfare board is already making a study of the various candidates for posts on county boards in the 100 counties and has tentatively selected its members in a number of counties, Mrs. Bost said. In several counties the boards of county commissioners have al-

This month is tax listing time. Instead of waiting until the last minute to list their taxes, our tax payers can save themselves a lot of worry and waiting by listing early. Those persons who delay until the latter days of the listing period usually find large numbers at the listing places and sometimes it is necessary to wait for hours. The persons who list early find the matter a much easier task.

A week's tuberculosis clinic is scheduled for this county to begin April 26. The examinations are free and as many persons as possible should take advantage of the opportunity to learn whether or not they are infected. Tuberculosis is a disease that can be cured if treatment is started during the early stages and every person in a run-down condition should be examined. Make your appointments for examination through the county health office immediately.

With the league baseball season scheduled to get under way here May 6, the sponsors of the local team are beginning a drive for funds to aid in supporting the club for the coming season. This year we are playing organized ball, which offers many advantages over the semi-pro or outlaw ball played here in the past. The rules and restrictions of organized ball will do away with squabbling over petty matters that may arise and will make the season more satisfactory for all the towns concerned. Another great advantage in connection with organized ball is that our city will be listed officially in the sport columns throughout the country, thereby getting some good publicity. It is to be hoped that our citizens will not only donate to help get the club started for the season but will make up their minds to attend every game possible and give support to the team throughout the season.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York. — A musical comedy star who owns part interest in a music publishing house reports that one of his impromptu gags cost him temporarily at least—the good will and esteem of his partners.

The associate was boarding a train for Los Angeles on a business trip, and the comedian accompanied him to the station. Drawing the porter aside, he thrust a $10 note at him and imparted these hurried instructions:

"My pal," he whispered, "is suffering from a nervous condition and requires a refreshment every hour, on the hour. After he goes to bed this evening, you bring him a glass of orange juice—a tall glass. No matter what he says, see that he drinks it, and no matter how he raves, bring him a glass every hour all night. He positively must have this, by doctor's orders, but I must warn you that he will become irritated and may use harsh language after a while. Pay no attention to his oaths—just humor him, but be back every hour with that orange juice."

"Boss, he'll sho git de orange juice," promised the ebony attendant with alacrity.

Wherefore every hour on the hour the traveler felt a sympathetic hand on his shoulder and roused to see a glass of frosted juice staring him in the face. At first he seemed grateful for this attention, but as hour after hour wore on he began to curse such unfeeling service. No amount of persuasion could lure the relentless porter from his task, and by daybreak the publisher was reduced to a citrus maniac.

Not until he returned to town did he learn that this service was a practical joke, engineered by his fun-loving pal. They're still in business, but at the moment their relations are as frosty as one of those glasses the porter thrust upon him with such harrowing regularity.

Nightlife, borrowing from pugilism, has introduced prizefights at one of the more sumptuous supper rendezvous. This is the hotel New

FWA ENGINEERS HARNESS SEWAGE GAS

Washington (AP)—Engineers of the Public Works Administration have succeeded in converting sewage gas into motive power for generating plants.

Three such projects, located at Coney Island, N. Y., Peoria, Ill., and Du'lam, N. C., are in operation.

FWA consulting engineers estimate at least $25,000 annually will be saved at the Peoria project. The sewage gas there had been burned as waste.

The Montana bureau of mines and geology estimates the state has produced $2,685,339,737 in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc since 1882.

Coastal Plain League To Open On Thursday, May 6th

GREENIES OPEN WITH AYDEN

Representatives Of Eight Teams in Loop in Meet At Ayden Last Night: Hundred Game Schedule Is Adopted; Locals To Announce Line-Up in Few Days.

Greenville's entry in the Coastal Plain baseball league will open the 1937 season with Ayden in that place on Thursday, May 6, according to plans adopted at a meeting of representatives of the eight teams in Ayden last night.

Ayden and Greenville have been paired for opening and all holiday games this year.

Two proposed schedules were offered at the meeting last night, but because of the change in the opening date, a revised schedule will have to be prepared.

The schedule will be submitted to the various clubs in the league within a day or so and each entry will have five days in which to offer any protests. No protests will be considered, however on the opening date, that having been definitely settled last night.

The league adopted a 100-game schedule, which calls for the closing of the season on August 27. J. B. Eure of Ayden, president of the circuit, reported that the services of five umpires, well-qualified for the position, have been secured.

The league will operate this season as a professional circuit, Class D, and a fast brand of ball is assured. The local club already has lined up most of its players and the roster will be announced within a few days. Practice is expected to get underway shortly, with the possibility of a number of exhibition games to be played before the season opening. Rules, however, prevent any of the entries in the league engaging in exhibition games with other members.

Although there had been some talk of whether Ayden and Tarboro would qualify for entry, these teams were expelled before the meeting opened when each assured directors a team would be ready.

The circuit will be made up this year of the same teams as the semi-pro league of last year—Ayden, Greenville, Tarboro, Kinston, New Bern, Snow Hill, Williamston and Goldsboro.

The Shagnessy system of post-season play-off was decided on. The top four clubs at the end of the season will contest in the semifinals. The two winners will then square off for the championship.

The meeting last night was attended by President G. V. Smith and Secretary D. C. Moore, Jr., of the local club. Each reported the meeting to be harmonious in every way, with very little wrangling.

Name Miss M'Gregor 4-H Club Assistant

Raleigh, April 8.—Miss Frances M'Gregor, former Cleveland County home demonstration agent, has been named assistant 4-H club leader at State College, it was announced today.

She will work with 4-H club girls over the State under the direction of L. R. Harrill, state 4-H club leader for the State College extension service.

As home agent in Cleveland County, Miss M'Gregor showed an aptitude for working with young people, in whom she is particularly interested, said Miss Ruth Current, state home agent.

Miss M'Gregor has been succeeded in Cleveland County by Miss Hilda Suttan, a former Iredell County home agent who has been in Fayette for a year.

"Miss Suttan is an exceptionally good agent," Miss Current declared, "and we feel fortunate in being able to have her services again."

HANDBALL BEST FOOTBALL TEST, SAYS GRID COACH

Atlanta, Kas. (AP)—Handball is an important cog in Coach Lawrence Mullins' program of testing foot ball talent.

Mullins, who is leaving St. Benedict's to become Lyon's university grid coach, wants his players vigorous and studious. If the candidates measure up to these qualifications, the coach has one final test—a game of handball.

In his opinion it is a quick way to size up the muscular coordination of a football candidate. If the candidate satisfies Mullins on the court he gets the coach's O. K.

"We had a big fellow come in to look over St. Benedict's several years ago," said Mullins to prove a point. "He was a giant physically and had good grades. We tried to get the prospect into a game of handball. He passed it up. We passed him up."

"I saw him again last fall on a rival football team. Much smaller. St. Benedict players, who have perfect coordination, almost ran him into the ground."

The Sportsman

By Larry Bauer

Opening day on trout water is some show! Persons seeking the peace and rest usually associated with fishing are due for a rude awakening. The atmosphere is reminiscent of that of outstanding fights, crucial games and first nights.

Hundreds of men, sometimes thousands, and many women mill about. Those who get there first form a close skirmish line, elbow to elbow, at the water's edge, and await the starter's gun. Camp fires gleam in the cold, grey dawn, for the temperature in this case is 22 degrees. Most of the anglers' temperatures, however, are above the hundred mark.

There's some commotion when an overly enthusiastic fisherman mistakes a photographer's flash for the warden's pistol. (Oh, yes, press and cameramen are present. This is big tuff, folks.) Everyone is pretty tense. Bang! They're off in a flurry of doughballs, beef and liver. That bait for trout? Well, there is a stretch of the stream roped off for the purist who cares to flip a fly, but the water is murky.

All this is a composite picture of scenes at Roaring River and Bennett Springs when anglers from the nine states joined their brethren in Missouri for a bout with the artificially propagated rainbow in the cold waters of the Ozark highlands.

The prize catch on opening day, a 6-pounder, was crested by A. D. Cochran of Canton, O. The limit is 10 pounds a day.

The game and fish department estimated 3,000 persons at Bennett Springs. About 1,000 tried Roaring River. Last year 6,800 turned out on opening day. Lesser numbers gathered in Montauk Park. With such crowds present, lines are snarled and leaders broken, but ones neighbor is good natured and a holiday spirit prevails.

Missouri's trout waters provide good fly fishing when clear, which is most of the time.

Sporting comment from the gallery on opening day ran something like this: "Phooey, such a business." "Mike dropped the bottle." "You can't get through that line." "Where's the governor?" "Say, that gal's a little honey." "Gotcher license buddy?"

TEACHERS WIN 7-3 VICTORY

Locals Come From Behind in Fourth to Sew Up Game

The East Carolina Teachers College baseball team came from behind in the fourth inning yesterday to defeat Atlantic Christian college of Wilson seven to three.

The visitors got off to a lead in the first when they scored two runs. The locals retaliated with one in the second and added three more in the fourth to gain the lead and remain cut in front during the rest of the game.

The local teachers will return the game Saturday.

Hits by Ange and Soufas figured in the Wilson team's scoring of a pair of runs in the opening inning. They made only one other hit off Kelly Martin, who hurled five stanzas, but he issued eight walks and frequently was in trouble. Ed Wells took over the pitching job in the sixth and gave up a run in that verse on an error, two walks, and an infield out. He allowed one hit in the four innings he worked.

Gibson's sing's scored Stowe in the second with the Teachers' first run. The locals tallied three times in the fourth and seventh. Two walks and doubles by Floyd Hinton and Ferebee accounted for the fourth-inning tally. Singles by Stowe and Hinton, Smith's double, and an error rought the three counters in the seventh.

Elbert Moye went the route for the visitors. He worked seven and fanned six.

Soufas, second sacker for the Wildcats, hit a triple and a single to account for half of his team's hits. Hinton, Ferebee and Smith led the Teachers—each made a double and a single.

Score: R H E. A. C. C. 200 01 000—3 4 3. E. C. T. C. 019 303 30x—7 9 3. Moye and Johnson; K. Martin, Wells and Ferebee.

A keen follower of the turf in many countries, he described this year's Santa Anita handicaps as "the grandest race I've ever seen." Although his money was on Seabiscuit, Tennison praised Rosemont's winning race and declared, "It was a pleasure to lose."

HIGHS DEFEAT KINSTON, 3 TO 2

Contest Forced Into Extra Inning With Score in Eighth

Editor's Note: The following story was written by Carl Pierce, member of the High School team unable to appear in the line-up because of recent illness.

By CARL PIERCE
The Greensies nosed out a well rounded Kinston high school team, 3-2, yesterday in a ten-inning affair to win their first home game of the season. Forrest Minges' double to right field in the tenth inning scoring Harold Forbes who had reached first on a walk to decide the game.

Waylan Tucker pitched the entire route for the locals and allowed and allowed ten well scattered hits while fanning five. Haskins, the Kinston hurler also went the route and struck out ten men while allowing but six hits.

Kinston scored in the fourth when Bourdas tripled to right-center and came home on Evans long fly to left field. Greenville tied it up in their half of the same inning. Minges, first up, walked but was thrown out when he attempted to steal second. Taylor followed with a single but he also was thrown out at second. Williams reached first on an error by the second baseman, McGowan walked and then Tucker singled to score Williams.

Kinston took the lead again in the seventh by way of an unearned run; but Greenville again knotted the count in their half of the eighth on an error, a fielder's choice, two bases on balls and a squeeze play.

Neither team scored in the ninth but in the tenth Forrest Minges decided that ten innings was enough for a high school game so he doubled to right-center scoring Harold Forbes who had reached first on a free pass.

Connie Mack counts heavily on Harry Kelley, the big right-hander who came up with the 1936 A's as a 30-year-old rookie and won 15 games for the tail-end Philadelphia team before appendicitis cut him down in August.

Kelley was a long time getting a thorough test in the big show, but he was one of last season's sensations. When no other big league club wanted to take a chance on Kelley, because of his age, Connie Mack picked up a prize.

Washington tried Kelley in 1925 and 1926, decided he was not ready. The Giants bought him from Memphis two years later but, after spring training turned him back. Perhaps the fact that Washington and McGraw had passed him up caused other managers and scouts to ignore him. At any rate, Kelley was buried in the Southern league and it was not until 1935 when the Giants, badly in need of twirling talent at the rag end of the pennant race, made a bid for the burly pitcher.

Atlanta also needed him, set such a high figure that New York lost interest.

Kelley Has Everything.

Mack remarked, during the early part of last year's campaign, that he did not understand why Kelley had not been sold or drafted earlier in his career.

"Kelley has everything a big league pitcher needs," said the dean of managers. "He may not have the fastest ball or the best curve on the New York Giants' spring training without leaving home. Jack helps Carl Hubbell run his basket ball team during the winter. The pitcher, in return, keeps Jack posted on things down in the Grapefruit league."

A Flood Hero.
His appendicitis robbed Kelly of a grand opportunity to win 20 games in his first full season as a major leaguer. That was well within sight. But Harry is used to bad breaks. A ball-player with less courage would have given up hope of ever making the majors as the years rolled by.

Kelley has more than one man's share of courage. He proved that in many a torrid baseball campaign. Recently, when flood waters caused such havoc, he was one of the heroes of the flooded St. Francis river section. His two speed boats chugged out on the high waters rescuing the stranded. He continued on his errands of mercy as long as the crisis existed. Loss of sleep and badly blistered hands were nothing as long as there was need to carry on rescue work.

Hubbell, Special Correspondent

Shawnee, Okla. (AP)—Jack Spencer, Shawnee sports scribe, gets inside dope on the New York Giants' spring training without leaving home. Jack helps Carl Hubbell run his basket ball team during the winter. The pitcher, in return, keeps Jack posted on things down in the Grapefruit league.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas in my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

—Mrs. Jas. Filler.
Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowels only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. E. L. Shank, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colic bacilli." Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation.

No Party Plan Seen As Snag To Unicameral

John N. Norton Sees Experiment Unharmful

Raleigh, April 8.—(AP)—Opinion remains divided on the one-house legislature, Nebraska's new experiment in government, as it nears the end of its first session.

Principal criticism of the unicameral organization is its non-partisan feature.

A bitter, four weeks' dispute over Gov. R. L. Cochran's gasoline tax bill brought the party issue to the fore. Critics contended the controversy could have been settled quickly had the governor been able to exercise the customary party ties.

An ancient bit of party strategy was used as it was to settle the problem finally. The members gathered around a table, in secret, to caucus and compare their differences. From the caucus came a compromise bill which won the necessary support.

John N. Norton, former congressman who returned from Washington to take his place in the new legislature says he has no fear the issue will harm the experiment.

"Differences of opinion make for good legislation," he comments. "Think what would happen in the old buck passing days of the house and senate."

The new plan is contrasted favorably to the old in these ways:

The unicameral session only costs about $800 a legislative day compared to approximately $1,750 for the bicameral; 62 bills have been passed in 55 legislative days compared to 33 in 55 during the 1935 session.

There are only 17 committees compared to 35 in one house of the bicameral. Furthermore each unicameral member serves on only one committee each day which meets in the afternoon after legislative sessions held in the morning. Under the bicameral, members served on as many as four committees meeting at the same time. Legislative sessions lasted all day and the committees sat in the afternoon or at night.

Under the unicameral plan time for deliberation is provided by rules which force a delay between the committee of the whole, select file and third reading. Bills could be introduced and passed the same day during bicameral sessions.

Among the minor defects which observers say have cropped up in the unicameral are:

Failure to give the important enrollment and review committee a definite meeting time. This has caused long delay between commit-

FARMERS NEED PROTECT SOIL

Planting Shows The Necessity of Erosion Control

Raleigh, April 8.—Spring planting and the development of vegetative growth are making erosion control methods stand out in bold relief at this season on farms of co-operators in the Soil Conservation Service demonstration areas in North Carolina, according to J. H. Stallings, state coordinator.

Now is an excellent time for farmers or farm groups to visit the nearest demonstration area to see what is being done to protect the soil. State College Extension Service specialists point out.

These demonstration areas, have been set up not only to control erosion within the specified areas, but also to serve as demonstrations of the best known methods of erosion control in operation under actual farming conditions.

Strip cropping, with bands of grain growing between clean cultivated areas, shows up especially well at this season. It is easy to see at this time how strip cropping fits in with the rotations.

Waterways, constructed to carry off excess water from terraced fields with the least possible damage to the soil, are clearly outlined in the fields, by the green, close-growing crops seeded to protect the waterways and slow up run-off water.

Terraces, which have stood up under the heavy rains of winter, properly plowed and maintained and draining into these and other treated waterways may be seen on farms of co-operators.

The officials urge that every farmer visit one or more of the project areas this spring and again in the summer when crops may be seen growing on protected fields.

The present committee set up has piled too much work on too few men and needs some revision.

FIND BEETLES IN PLANT BEDS

Heavy Infestations Reported in Two Belts of State

Raleigh, April 8.—Heavy infestations of flea beetles are attacking tobacco plant beds in Eastern North Carolina, according to reports received at State College.

Growers in both the border belt and the new belt say the beetles are becoming a serious menace to the crop.

Dr. B. B. Fulton, entomologist at the college, said that applications of rotenone have been found effective in controlling the beetles.

When a growing tobacco bed is covered from cube or derris plants, either of which contains rotenone, should be blown through the canvas covers at the rate of 1-2 pound to 100 square yards of bed.

The dust from cube and derris plants are diluted with dry clay so the rotenone content will be one percent when prepared for use on tobacco plant beds.

If the grower wishes to use regular bean beetle dust, which is diluted to contain only three-fourths of one per cent of rotenone, he can get good results on his tobacco beds by increasing the amount to 2-3 of a pound for each 100 square yards, Dr. Fulton stated.

After tobacco plants are set out in the field, they should be dusted the following day and every fourth day thereafter during favorable weather until the beetles are controlled. If plants are rained on the

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crocker

Washington — Gold braid still gets attention, even in ultra-democratic Washington.

Take Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, while on his "good neighbor" visit to Washington. His high office and many ceremonial functions required him to gold braid about the city, gold braid at receptions, and gold braid in Arlington cemetery. He didn't like that much, but it was part of his job.

The net result was an appearance of stupendous importance to his visit. Actually there likely was far less weight attached to his official conferences than to those of many less gold-braided officials coming directly from London.

As far as actual international importance goes, if they shot off 21 guns for Lord Tweedsmuir, by comparison they might well have shot off the capitol dome for Walter Runciman, president of the British board of trade, who visited here recently with far less ostentation.

But underneath all the gold braid there undoubtedly is real meat in the governor general's visit.

Most important were intimations which, when studied closely, pointed to talk of concerted actions beginning same day they are dusted, the application should be repeated.

If rotenone dust cannot be obtained, a dust made up of one pound of Paris Green to five pounds of lead arsenate can be used, but it is more dangerous to the plants, and should be applied evenly and only when the plants are dry, he warned.

tween the United States and Canada in event of a foreign war which both might feel was of no especial American concern.

On the day after Lord Tweedsmuir's arrival here, J. L. Hiskey, minister of national revenue, introduced in the Canadian parliament a bill to give the government rigid control over manufacture, importation and exportation of arms and other munitions of war.

Under its terms, as outlined in news dispatches, it could bring Canada into alignment with the United States arms embargo.

On the same day Senator William Duff laid before the parliament in Ottawa a proposal to strengthen Canada's naval defense, commenting at the time that Canada should look to the United States, not Great Britain, for help in the event of trouble.

Without knowing Senator Duff's relationship to Canadian administrative forces, it is evident that neither the United States nor Canada can take any important international position without concern of the other.

Certainly Lord Tweedsmuir did not overlook the opportunity for an informal "fireside chat" with President Roosevelt that might help to clarify this relationship.

MAY SEEK AID FOR BUILDING

Possibility of Getting PWA Funds For State Structure

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, April 8.—The possibility of securing a grant from the Public Works Commission towards the erection of the new state office building, for which the 1937 general assembly appropriated some $600,000, will be investigated this week, the commission decided following its first meeting here Wednesday.

At this meeting Judge Walter D. Siler of Siler City, who introduced the first bill calling for the erection of the new building, was elected chairman and State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson was elected secretary.

After organizing, the commission asked Assistant Director of the Budget Frank L. Dunlap, who is a member of the commission, to confer with Public Works Administration officials in Chapel Hill who will be here this week to meet with the Advisory Budget Commission, to see if there is any possibility of securing a PWA grant towards the erection of the new state office building. If Dunlap finds there is a possibility of securing PWA aid and so reports, the commission authorized the chairman and secretary to file an application with the PWA at once. The commission will convene again in the office of State Treasurer Johnson at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, April 13.

Budgeteer Dunlap and A. S. Browers of Durham, former director of the Division of Purchase and Contract, were appointed as a committee to draft rules and regulations regarding competition for architects, and were asked to have these rules and regulations ready to submit to the next meeting of the commission Tuesday of next week.

If the commission is able to get a grant from the PWA towards the new building, it may decide to put up a larger building than had been planned, or to spend less money.

Eastern Farmers At Wenona Meet Today

Wenona, April 8.—A good number of Eastern North Carolina farmers gathered here today to see the results of livestock feeding and management policies conducted by the blackland branch experiment station. Workers at the station explained the reasons for the type of feeding, breeding, and management being practiced, and gave the farmers opportunity to inspect cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses raised. Particular interest was directed to a car load to fine yearling and two-year-old steers ready for shipment, said L. I. Case, State College extension specialist in Animal husbandry.

It has been expected that the commission would call for specification on an office building to contain approximately 700,000 square feet of office space, although some members of the commission think more space than this is needed. PEACE LEADER TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. H. C. Blackwell One of Directors For Movement

The Rev. H. Conrad Blackwell of Richmond, Virginia, who will address a luncheon - meeting of interested citizens Saturday of this week at the Episcopal Parish House and who is being brought here by the Greenville Council for Peace Action in connection with the local Council's cooperation with the Emergency Peace Campaign is one of twenty area directors for the Emergency Peace Campaign throughout the nation.

North Carolina and Virginia comprise the area under his supervision. Mr. Blackwell, who has established headquarters in the Richmond Y. M. C. A., spends much of his time throughout his state and North Carolina in organizing peace committees and in other ways furthering the work of arousing active peace sentiment. He comes to Greenville from Rocky Mount, where tomorrow evening he will address an audience relative to the formation of a peace council, as was organized here last year.

Mr. Blackwell announces that he hopes to bring distinguished British and American advocates of peace to this area in the coming months, among them being the outspoken, former Marine commander, General Smedley D. Butler, who is said to have improved upon General Sherman's famous phrase to the extent that "War is hell, so to hell with it!"

The Emergency Peace Campaign, which was inaugurated a year ago, is now in its fourth cycle of nationwide meetings and conferences, the "No - Foreign - War - Crusade" cycle, headed by Admiral Richard E. Byrd. The third cycle, on "Neutrality" was headed by Charles P. Taft, II, son of former President Taft. In November of this year will be launched the fifth cycle, to stress "World Cooperation to Ease Economic Tensions."

Names familiar to North Carolinians, among the sponsors of the EPC, include Frank P. Graham, President U. N. C., Dean Harriet Elliott, Woman's College, U. N. C., E. McNeill Potek, Raleigh and Bishop Paul B. Kern, M. E. Church, South.

Representatives At Contractors' Meeting

R. S. McClure and P. C. Kemp of the Quality Electric company attended a district meeting in Rocky Mount last night of the North Carolina Association of Electrical Contractors.

The organization is active in efforts to improve the trade and during the recent legislature sponsored an act which makes it mandatory that electrical contractors in this state be licensed. The organization also is waging a campaign against faulty wiring and other such practices.

The law enacted by the General Assembly provides for the setting up of a state board of examiners of contractors and the board will be responsible to the state. The expressed purpose of the board is protection of the public against "bootleg" electrician who in many instances is not a qualified, competent and responsible person.

Last night's program included addresses by Frank E. Harris, president of the organization, on "What fair competitive and non-competitive trade practices should be adhered to by the members of the Association of Electrical Contractors;" O. A. Houston, assistant secretary, on "The association of electrical contractors and its relationship to the electrical contractors;" C. S. Boger, executive secretary, on "Why local electrical industry groups should organize now for cooperative promotion of sales programs;" and a general discussion led by the executive secretary on "An explanation of the electrical contractors licensing law as enacted by the 1937 General Assembly of North Carolina."

COMING TO END RUPTURE TROUBLES

Representatives of Wm. S. Rice Inc., Adams, N. Y., originator of the Rice Method for the self treatment of rupture at home, will be at the Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. C., Friday, Apr. 9 to give a personal and free trial of his method to all sufferers who want to end rupture trouble and truss wearing.

No matter how bad the rupture, how long you have had it, or how hard to hold; no matter how many kinds of trusses you have worn, let nothing prevent you from getting this FREE TRIAL. Whether you are tall and thin, short and stout, have a large abdomen, whether you think you are past help or have a rupture as large as your fists, this marvelous Method will so control and keep it up inside as to surprise you. It will so restore the parts where the rupture comes through that soon you will be as free to work at any occupation as though you had never been ruptured.

The trial will be absolutely complete and thorough without a penny of cost. You owe it to your own personal comfort and safety not to miss the opportunity to learn how you may be done with chafing trusses and the danger, suffering and trouble your rupture has caused.

The hours are 10 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. and evenings 7 to 9. Remember the dates and place, Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. C.

EAGLE SCOUT

Billy Combs, who received his training in Scouting in this city, recently received his Eagle Scout badge at the age of 13 and probably is the youngest "Eagle" in the state. The Scout now lives with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Combs in Hendersonville.

YOUTHFUL BOY IS EAGLE SCOUT

Billy Combs, Formerly of This City, Wins Top Ranking

A report from Hendersonville today stated that Billy Combs, 13-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Combs, the former pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here up until the time he was transferred to the Western Carolina resort city, had been made an Eagle Scout.

Dr. Combs was active in Scouting activities during his stay here and for two years before leaving was chairman of the Greenville district. Billy, who received his Eagle Scout investiture at the Hendersonville District Court of Honor on April 5th, is doubtless one of the youngest Eagle Scouts in the state. He is just thirteen and a half years of age and has therefore been a Scout for only eighteen months. The Eagle award is the highest rank in scouting.

Billy received most of his Scout training in the Greenville District, East Carolina Council. He transferred to the Hendersonville District, Daniel Boone Council, in November. Billy has already registered for the National Jamboree which is to be held in Washington, at the invitation of President Roosevelt, in June and July of this year.

Mayor A. V. Edwards of Hendersonville made the investiture of this "young Eagle" at the Court of Honor held at the City Hall on Monday evening.

Supreme Test Of One's Tact Is A Funeral

By JOAN DURHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

Friends of a bereaved family have three opportunities to be of service—before, during and after the funeral.

There are dozens of little kindnesses which may be shown before the funeral takes place. The most obvious thing to do, of course, is to send flowers. And for those not extremely close to the family flowers alone are a very suitable medium of expressing sympathy.

A woman who is a close friend may offer to help assemble the mourning wardrobe for the family. She can go through their apparel and, having checked with each member, make the necessary extra purchases.

Send Simple Food.

She may also send in food, since it is almost impossible for the women of the household either to prepare meals or to take them out. It's best to send food that is simple and easy to serve. Bereaved families are often overwhelmed with rich pastries and desserts, when simple dishes would be much more welcome.

Arranging and listing the flowers also is helpful. Lists are especially important—in order that thank-you notes may be written later.

Whoever volunteers to assist in receiving friends who call to pay their respects should be emotionally stable enough to cope with any situation which might arise. For there is nothing worse for the bereaved family to have around than someone who is constantly fussing about—or even weeping. Be On Time. Friends who attend the funeral service should be careful about three things. The first is to be on time. The second is to sit where the usher or friend of the family indicates—without any discussion with the usher, unless he asks preferences. The third is to see to it that the family has an opportunity to be more or less alone. Many people who are emotionally upset are not able to carry on any sort of a conversation. And a bereaved family in most cases will be much more grateful for expressions of sympathy that are not verbal. If they wish to have people about it is their privilege to request friends to stay near them.

The General Motors strike in Canada, affecting 3,700 workers, was called after the company refused to sign the "Detroit" agreement.

Company officials expressed willingness to bargain on hours of work and wage scales, but not on the issue of union recognition.

The walkout followed the biggest pay day in the history of the firm. A mass meeting of union members in New York cheered Lewis' mention of the U. A. W. A. compact with Chrysler corporation, whose 65,000 idle workers were being recalled to their jobs gradually.

Governor Frank Murphy at Lansing was still engaged in conferences to settle the Hudson Motor car company strike which had kept 11,000 men idle for a month.

The program followed general recommendations of President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace and a special Presidential committee on farm tenancy.

Senator Robinson and other leaders forecast hearings on the Roosevelt court bill would be concluded next week and the measure would be reported to the Senate soon after.

While opponents of the President's court recommendation earlier had indicated they might agree to end the hearings within two weeks, presentation of the case continued in the testimony of J. S. Manly, Raleigh, N. C. lawyer and former N. C. Supreme Court Justice.

Announcement!

I hereby announce my candidacy for Alderman, Third Ward, subject to the Primary Election May 3. Having previously served on the Board and having been in touch with town affairs, I feel qualified to serve the people. Your support will be appreciated.
