LOYAL TROOPS VICTORIOUS IN WEST MADRID

Insurgents Forced To Retreat Along Important Highway

REBEL GENERAL NEARING BILBAO

Battle Raging on Madrid Front for More Than 14 Hours One of War's Fiercest

Long-bearded Spanish government troops swept from their trenches on the Western Madrid front today and pushed back Insurgents along the Coruna highway.

The maneuver paralleled insurgent successes in the drive toward Bilbao, Basque headquarters. The forces of General Mola were reported near Durango, key to the last line defenses of Bilbao.

On the Cordoba front South of Madrid government troops believed they were close to bottling-up 15,000 Insurgents, confronting them with mass slaughter or disorganized flight into the mountains.

The Madrid front battle, raging for more than 14 hours, was one of the fiercest of the five-months' siege.

With the Insurgents retreating South of Madrid, government supporters looked to the new Western offensive to relieve pressure exerted on the capital on that front for five months and lead to evacuation by the Insurgents of their long-held positions in the suburbs of Madrid.

On the Bilbao front Insurgent headquarters said the most advanced units of General Mola's army were only 10 miles southeast of Bilbao.

Moore Talked For Position As Head Of Liquor Board

Lumberman Man Regarded to Have Inside Track in Field of More Than Thirty Applicants

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 9.—Cutlar Moore of Lumberton is regarded by a good many here as being more likely to be named chairman of the new state Alcoholic Beverages Control Board than any of the other 30 or more applicants or "indorsees" for the post.

It has been known here that Moore was in a receptive attitude for the chairmanship of the commission, rather than F. Webb Williams of Pasquotank county or W. D. McMullan of Wilmington, who is chairman of the New Hanover county ABC board. It is also known that T. J. Murphy of Greensboro has been very strongly indorsed and is receiving serious consideration either for chairman of the board or for one of the part-time memberships.

A few here still are inclined to the belief that the chairman of the liquor board is going to be a "dark horse" whose name has not yet been mentioned. But more and more of the political prognosticators are coming around to the belief that Moore will be named chairman of the board and that F. Webb Williams and T. J. Murphy are the nearest in line for the two part-time members of the board. The chairman of the board will get a salary of $6,000 a year, the two members will get pay of $25 a day and traveling expenses while the board is in session.

Mrs. Jane Overberry, 103-year-old farm woman living near Grapleaf, Kas., attributes her unusual age to the fact that she "worked day and night" in her earlier years.

Light Found Dead In Wrecked Air Liner

Eight persons were found dead in this wreckage of the gigantic Douglas transport plane which crashed into Mount Baldy near Holbrook, Ariz., en route from Los Angeles to New York. The demolished plane, built for the Royal Dutch Air Lines, was spotted from the air and finally reached by a ground crew. (Associated Press Photo)

MILD TORNADO HITS AT MIAMI

Two Persons Injured and Extensive Property Damage Felt

Miami, Fla., April 9.—(AP)—A miniature tornado struck in Miami's Southwest residential section today, injuring at least two persons and unroofing several houses.

Sam Scowins suffered serious head injuries and Lillian Brewer, 40, was cut and bruised when a frame house collapsed after being blown from its foundation.

Some 50 policemen were sent to the area to direct traffic. The twister, cutting a swath about two blocks wide, travelled in a zig-zag course for almost two miles.

About a half dozen houses were unroofed. Windows were broken in others and awnings blown off. Limbs of trees and other debris were scattered throughout streets. Power lines were disrupted.

The tornado, accompanying an electrical storm, roused hundreds from their beds in the early morning. Sightseers hurrying to the scene added to the confusion.

In one place a bed was blown to the yard. Eleven-year-old Charles Morgan said he had slept in it, but became nervous during the night and moved to another bed before the storm broke.

College To Entertain High School Students

Nearly half of the counties in the Eastern section of the state will send their high school graduates to Greenville to participate in E. C. T. C. High school on next Thursday, judging from the responses received by the College so far. A number of teachers and parents is included in the lists from the various schools.

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 9.—Captain John A. Nelson of Morehead City, chief of the commercial fisheries division of the Department of Conservation and Development and commander of the fleet of patrol boats which help him enforce the state's fishing laws and regulations, will go to Washington and Baltimore next week to start his search for a new sea-going patrol boat.

Officers Prevent Robbery of Bank

High Point, April 9.—(AP)—Police, tipped several days ago that an attempt would be made to hold up the payroll messenger of the Picket cotton mill, secreted themselves about a bank entrance here today and arrested three men as the messenger left the bank unmolested.

Chief W. G. Friddle said he docketed the men as Lonnie Macemore, 23, of High Point; G. W. Pattillo, 28, of Atlanta, and W. G. Maddox, 24, of Atlanta and said Georgia authorities had advised him Pattillo and Maddox were escaped convicts from that state.

Friddle said all of the men were armed when apprehended.

FRANCE IN BID FOR TOURISTS

Treasury Decides To Allow a Sharp Decline in Franc

Paris, April 9.—(AP)—France allowed the franc to sag today to attract tourists this summer. The treasury has decided upon a cheaper franc, financial circles reported, with the possibility the rate may go to the low of 22.96 francs to the dollar agreed upon in the tri-partite monetary agreement.

At noon the rate was 4.484 cents per franc, a decline of almost two and one half per cent from the 4.593 rate before the drop started yesterday. During early trading today the rate was allowed to sag from 4.539 cent to the 4.484 figure, equivalent, respectively, to 22.03 and 22.30 to the dollar.

(A rate of 22.96 to the United States dollar is the equivalent of 4.277 cents to the franc.)

Capt. Nelson To Search For New State Navy Ship

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 9.—Captain John A. Nelson of Morehead City, chief of the commercial fisheries division of the Department of Conservation and Development and commander of the fleet of patrol boats which help him enforce the state's fishing laws and regulations, will go to Washington and Baltimore next week to start his search for a new sea-going patrol boat.

SEN. FLANAGAN DECLINES RUN

Asks That Name Not Be Considered For Highway Job

Senator E. G. Flanagan issued a statement today in which he expressed his appreciation for the move started to have him named as State Highway Commissioner for this district, but declared that he could not accept the post, even if appointed.

The movement was started here several days ago by friends of the State senator without his knowledge and a delegation had planned to confer with Governor Hoey on Monday morning.

Senator Flanagan's statement follows: "Without my knowledge, there appeared an article in the Daily Reflector on Wednesday, which stated that an engagement had been made with Governor Hoey for a large delegation of Pitt county citizens to appear before him on Monday to recommend to him my appointment as a member of the Highway Commission.

"I wish to publicly express my sincere appreciation for the confidence imposed in me by this movement. Also to the Board of County Commissioners, civic organizations and other friends, who have written to Governor Hoey requesting him to appoint me as a member of this board.

"Since my candidacy was suggested to me for this appointment, I have given some serious and thoughtful consideration, and have come to the decided conclusion that, even if Governor Hoey should appoint me, it would be impossible for me to shoulder this responsibility on account of my physical condition; also, the time it would require from my business to perform the duties of this office."

Only Small Damages From Fire Yesterday

Damage estimated at $25 resulted from a fire yesterday at the home of W. M. Jones on Colanache street which started in a closet from an undetermined origin.

Most of the damage from the fire, a silent alarm, resulted in the loss of clothes in the closet. Smoke and water resulted in some damage to the room.

CHARGES ITALY IS ENGAGING IN WAR ON SPAIN

Senator Nye (R.-ND) Makes Assertion on Senate Floor

SEEKS CHECK ON NEUTRALITY LAW

Wants to Know if Act Provides Embargo on Nations Engaging in Civil Conflict

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—Senator Nye (R. N. D.) urged the Senate today to find out whether present neutrality laws would provide an embargo against foreign nations having armed forces fighting in Spain.

Nye accused Italy of "waging undeclared war on Spain" but added that the request applied equally to "Portugal, Italy, Germany, Russia and others."

Under the request the Senate would ask the state department for a report on the breadth and application of the neutrality laws.

"I don't think it is dangerous for us to acknowledge the fact—that there are foreign troops and munitions engaged in Spain," Nye declared, "and they are there by the active consent of the government."

Meanwhile President Roosevelt, studying the future of federal relief, planned to meet today four governors who recently protested any cut in relief rolls.

The four were Lehman of New York; LaFollette of Wisconsin; Benson of Minnesota and Quinn of Rhode Island. Two others, Hurley of Massachusetts and Horner of Illinois, who have also opposed any reduction were scheduled to have representatives at the conference.

Simultaneous with disclosure of plans for the meeting, the President said at his press conference that an estimate on relief costs for the next fiscal year would not be made until a short time before he sends a brief relief message to congress next week.

Incidental to the discussion of relief, the Chief Executive said he looked for a fairly extended session of Congress, although he did not.

Council Sponsors Meeting On Peace

Tomorrow at one o'clock at the Episcopal Parish House will be held the luncheon-meeting sponsored by the Greenville Council for Peace Action, at which time the Rev. H. Conrad Blackwell, an area director of the Emergency Peace Campaign, will address a representative body of some 75 citizens from Greenville and surrounding communities.

The luncheon is to be served by a circle of the Episcopal Guild, with Mrs. Troy Rouse in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Wm. A. Ryan, president of the local council, will preside. Introduction of the speaker will be made by Mayor M. K. Blount.

Peace Reigns Over Automotive Front

Agreements Reached Between Union And Four Automobile Producers; Eyes Now Turn on Developments at Ford Plants

(By Associated Press)

Peace reigned over the American automotive front today for the first time in five months. Sixty mounted officers were ordered in from Ottawa.

Negotiations on the issue of union recognition in the Oshawa General Motors plants collapsed yesterday, leaving 3,700 workers idle. In announcing settlement of the Hudson Motor company strike last night, Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan said, "our serious trouble in the motor industry is ended."

Meanwhile automobile builders eyed John Lewis's prediction Henry Ford would deal with the U. A. W. A. "in time" and Ford's declaration union recognition would never be granted.

Settlement of the Hudson strike sent 11,000 workers, idle since March 8, back to their jobs at East Peoria, Ill. 11,300 employees returned to work in the Caterpillar Tractor plant, which closed Tuesday.

SAYS DOUBT OF IRWIN'S GUILT

Superintendent of Insane Hospital Defends Suspect

New York, April 9.—(AP)—Dr. Russell Blaisdell, superintendent of the Rockland County Hospital for the Insane, where Robert Irwin underwent treatment for three years, said today he was "inclined to believe the sculptor suspect in the triple murders of Beekman Hill had committed suicides."

"That is the only way I can reconcile with the records of his case here his disappearance since the police started search for him," Dr. Blaisdell said.

The doctor, one of New York's leading psychiatrists, said he was still far from convinced Irwin had anything to do with the murders. While at the hospital Irwin in whom he took a great interest, displayed no homicidal tendencies, Dr. Blaisdell said.

Dr. Blaisdell said he believed Irwin was responsible for the strangling of the 20-year-old artist's model, "Ronnie" Gedeon, her mother, Mary, and the stabbing of Frank Byrnes, a roofer, it was the result of shock following his being requested to leave divinity school at St. Lawrence university March 18 because of "instability."

Meantime, the search for Irwin led police on a round of cheap rooming houses in the hopes of picking up his trail.

Delegation Opposes Curtailment of CCC

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—A group of Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina representatives agreed today to oppose any move to reduce the personnel of the civilian conservation corps.

Those attending the meeting agreed to enlist the support of their colleagues.

SCORE DEAD IN DISPUTE OVER TRADE UNIONS

Puebla, Mexico City Suburb, Scene Fatal Disturbance

LONG HAS BEEN A TROUBLE AREA

Workers Apparently Finally Unite Common Cause Against Troops at Plant

Puebla, Mex. April 9.—(AP)—Riotous workmen were reported today holding their barricades within a textile factory at nearby San Martin Texmelucan, surrounded by soldiers after a 45 minute bloody battle among themselves over trade union rivalry in which an estimated score of workers were slain.

The workers, after deadly fighting among themselves within the hastily fortified textile factory, apparently have joined together in common cause against the troops which rushed to the scene of battle late yesterday afternoon.

Eight of the workers who fled the factory after being wounded in the outbreak of fire reported they saw at least 29 of their comrades fall fatally wounded.

Puebla state has long been one of the bloodiest battlegrounds in the fight of confederation of workers of Mexico and its older rival the Regional Confederation of Mexican workers.

Olive Slated For One Of Judgeships Of State Courts

Governor Expected to Name Two Special Superior Jurists Soon; D. M. Williford, Talked

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 9.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is expected to name at least two more special judges, although he has authority to appoint three more special judges if and when they may be needed. But for the time being, he is not expected to name more than two of these, which will be in addition to the new Superior Court Judge and solicitor he must appoint in the new Twenty-first Judicial District, just created by the 1937 general assembly.

He will also have to appoint a new solicitor in the Eleventh Judicial District, since the present solicitor there will after July 1 be a resident of the new Twenty-first district.

There are at least 14 known candidates for these two appointments as special judges. One of the foremost of these is regarded as being Hubert Oliver of Lexington, who was Governor Hoey's campaign manager last spring. It is generally conceded that if Olive would like to have one of these special judgeships, it is almost his for the asking.

Most observers here believe Olive is much more likely to be appointed a special judge than as an associate justice on the state Supreme court, for which he is also being mentioned.

Others being mentioned as receptive candidates for these appointments as special judges are: B. Lane Brown, Altamare; E. M. Johnson, Lumberton; Marion Ross, Charlotte; John H. Bingham, Sugar Grove; J. W. Ruark, Southport; E. R. Tyler, Roxobel; J. N. Moody, Murphy; C. E. Thompson, Elizabeth City; David M. Williford, Greenville; W. H. S. Burgwyn, Woodland, at present solicitor in the Third Judicial District; David P. Delling, Cherryville and Gastonia; Edwin H. Malone, Louisburg and F. H. Brooks, Smithfield.

Governor Hoey has as yet given no indication as to when he may appoint any additional judges, but the appointments are expected by July 1, at the latest.

Inquest Called Into Fatal Auto Accident

Fayetteville, April 9.—(AP)—Inquest into the motor crash deaths of Misses Florine Isaacson and Cecilia Anderson of Jamestown, N. Y., was to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock before Coroner W. C. Davis of Cumberland county.

Clyde Gaster, Irwin driver, who was operating the machine which collided with one driven by the women Monday night was taken from a local hospital and lodged in jail yesterday, but later was taken back to the hospital on advice of physicians. He was expected to be in shape to attend the inquest.

No charges had been preferred against him, but he is being denied bail until after the inquest.

The Pitt-Beaufort group Women's Missionary Union will hold an all-day meeting at First Baptist church, Washington, on Wednesday, April 14. All the women who can do so are urged to attend. Those expecting to attend will please notify Mrs. A. W. Hodnett.

Father Sponsor at College
Father Sponsor, Missionary of the Catholic church from Maryland spoke at the assembly of the College this morning. Communism was the subject of his talk. He traced the causes and showed that rebellion both in the home and in society was the primary cause of the evil. From the home it passes out into the school, the church and finally the government. He gave as the object of communism to overthrow all system and order in government enumerated various tendencies of the age that he feels contributing factors in the communistic movement.

Queen of the Carnival
Miss Christine Harris, a freshman from Thomasville, Tenn., was elected beauty queen for the East Carolina Teachers College carnival, which is to be held tonight in the Robert H. Wright Building, opening at eight o'clock. The parade had to be canceled because of the weather. The stage show and cake-walk will be held in the auditorium of the Robert H. Wright Building and the booths for side-shows and games and the hot dog stands will be placed in the lobby and rooms on the first floor.

The contest for the beauty queen has been the chief excitement on the campus all the week, but two days ago the chart recording the votes showed that two were in the lead, so it narrowed down to Miss Harris and Miss Grace Freeman who at six o'clock last night was a little ahead, but who came out second in the final count.

Monkey Fur Border.
Paris (AP)—Brown monkey fur borders the jacket of an afternoon suit of brown wool designed by Lanvin. A soft note of contrast is introduced in the blouse of shell-pink satin worn underneath.

Schoolmaster Fast on Feet
San Francisco (AP)—Norman Bright, the Sunnyvale schoolmaster and distance runner, has a new record. He has broken the mark set in 1914 in the annual cross city run from the bay ferries to the ocean beach, covering the 7 1/2 miles in 39 minutes, 52 seconds. Even the electric trolleys don't always equal that time.

Talks To Parents

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
(AP Feature Service Writer)
New York — Children would not need so much help in dressing and eating, says Mrs. Raymond Burrows, if their parents did not hurry them along.

Mrs. Burrows sees that what she preaches is practiced at a cooperative kindergarten she heads near the Columbia campus. As a result the 16 children there get in and out of play suits unaided.

"There is no anxious mother on hand to exhort them to hurry," she explains. "The bustle of an ordinary household disconcerts a youngster and slows up fingers which are awkward enough anyway."

Conversation Curtailed
Children at the Community Cooperative association, as the kindergarten is known, also manipulate forks and spoons without assistance at lunch time.

"Conversation is curtailed," says Mrs. Burrows. "If parents would realize that children loiter at meals because they are trying to follow the adult chatter, they would seat the youngsters at a separate table where there are no distractions."

Kindergarten children with faulty table manners are quietly corrected and when they see the others doing the proper thing, follow suit.

Each child should have his own table equipment, says Mrs. Burrows, and she is emphatic in her belief that meals in the home should be served at regular, unchanged hours.

Supervision even in play is reduced to a minimum at the kindergarten which was formerly the Hilltop school.

Administered By Parents
Mrs. Burrows says that for the most part the children play in small groups unattended.

Still in its infancy, the kindergarten, outgrowth of a discontinued ERA nursery school, is administered entirely by parents of children attending.

The youngsters constitute a cross-section of the city's population. The majority are American-born white children but there are some of Japanese and Filipino extraction and a few colored.) Their parents vary from day laborers to professional men but all are on an equal footing so far as the school is concerned.

No Hum, Dressing Again
Get On There, Shoe
Will I ever Get This Tied?
Parents can help children get dressed by themselves by simply refraining from hurrying them, says a New York kindergarten head.

CONTEST NARROWING DOWN FOR SUPREME COURT POST

But none of these latter, not even Hubert Olive of Lexington, who was Governor Hovey's campaign manager in the Democratic primaries last spring, are expected to have much of a chance at getting either appointment. There was talk at one time that Attorney General Seawell might be given the eastern appointment, and that Olive would then be appointed Attorney General. But those close to the Governor are not now taking their suggestion seriously, largely due to the fact that Seawell is 73 years old. Almost every one here conceded that the western appointment will go to J. Wallace Winborne, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee for about five years now and for years a wheel horse of the party in the western part of the state, unless he declines it or indicates he does not want the appointment. In this latter event, it is expected to be offered to Judge Felix Alley of Waynesville.

The situation in the east is much more complex, however, it is generally conceded, with Judges Barnhill and Cowper and Barnhill running neck and neck among the bench candidates and with MacLean and Dawson running equally as close from among the bar applicants. It is known that all four of these have very strong, very fine and very numerous endorsements. Incidentally Judge Cowper and John Dawson have many endorsements from the same people, urging the appointment of Cowper if the new judge is to come from the bench and of Dawson if he is to come from the

PROFESSOR SHOWS COP HOW TO MAKE ARREST

Chicago (AP)—F. M. Kreml smirks knowingly as Traffic Officer Emmett S. Elliott "arrests" him—for the officer is doing everything wrong. He is leaning against the car (thus endangering himself if the driver should start off suddenly) and he is getting tough. Kreml is director of the Northwestern University Traffic Safety Institute, where officers from all over are learning how to do their jobs properly. Elliott is from Atlanta, Ga.

Confidential reports are that Dawson, for many years chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has a very imposing array of endorsements.

Both Judge Barnhill and A. D. MacLean are also known to have very strong support from all sections of the state and observers agree that both have excellent backgrounds. Some are wondering if MacLean, who resigned as U. S. Solicitor General to join the firm of Pou and Pou here and who is reputed to be making at least $50,000 a year here in private practice, should be interested in an $8,000 a year job on the Supreme court and doubt if he would accept the appointment if offered. Judge Barnhill is regarded as one of the ablest Superior Court Judges in the state and as being entirely capable of a Supreme court post.

LIVE'S ORCHARD

MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield manages to forget gay Danny when she learns he is to wed healthy Mitz. Resuming her usual bookish business, she finds contentment in her old house and orchard in Connecticut. "Uncle Henry" and serious little Judge Featherstone, whose parents have left him with Eve, help her run the place. They adore Eve. So does George Cleveland, her steady, dependable neighbor. Too late, Eve realizes she has come to love George, for he returns from a house party engaged to actress Ellen Walton, Eve's close friend.

Chapter 38 An Old Love Story

Eve sat on the bottom step of the old portico, staring off to the low hills across the meadow beyond the orchard. She was thinner and paler than she had been a week ago when Ellen had first told her the news. Ellen had just gone back to her stock company in Shiroa. Judge had gone on a long-promised camping trip the day before George and Ellen returned engaged. Eve rather wished he could stay away longer; she did not feel as if she could stand another set of inevitable exclamations and questions. He would be back shortly, in time for supper, certainly. Well, there was this short moment of peace, here in the sunset. Not too long.

If she stayed where she was, inevitably she would see, tiny and clear against the colored sky, George's athletic figure crossing his lawn as he came down from his work. She smiled a little and wanted wildly to run to the ends of the earth. And she couldn't. She mustn't.

"Well, daughter, what you thinking about?" Uncle Henry asked gently, coming up to her in his shapeless sweater and faded overalls. He was carrying a basket of pumpkins, golden and big as Cinderella's coach.

She looked up at him, not troubling to hide anything.

"I was wondering," she told him wearily, "why I don't bolt, like the Featherstones."

He said matter-of-factly, "Because it isn't in you. Some horses bolt and some don't; same with humans." He set down his basket, and sat himself beside her, staring, too, at the bright turning hills.

"You weren't more than seventeen when Evelina died, and at that age— I don't know but a long time after—old folks don't seem human beings to young folks. I don't suppose you ever knew there was a time when she and I were going to marry."

"No!" Eve was startled. "I never did."

"She had more education than I did, and your folks were always considered higher, but I was a handsome young fellow those days, with a lot of the Old Nick in me. She was full of spirit and pride, too—no much, both of us. Well, we had one quarrel too many; how could we know it would be the last one? You don't," said the old man meditatively, staring at the scarlet-streaked hills. "No, you don't."

"Well, Evelina founced off somewhere—your cousins in Detroit, the Dentons. And Essie came to visit some folks of hers, here. Little and lacy and delicate and sort of clinging she was, sort of a change from Evelina's always being so proud and capable. And new in town, with all the other fellows wild about her. So I besued her around. . . . And first I knew I'd said something or other, and poor little thing, she took it we were engaged, and the town took it so too. . . . She hadn't any people but the cousins she was visiting, that were tired of her, she said. . . . And the upset of it was we were married before Evelina got back. And Evelina and I only needed to look at each other to know I'd made a mistake nothing could put right."

"You'll Say That, Daughter?"

"Oh, Uncle Henry!" Eve thought of fretful, draggled, selfish Aunt Essie, wrapped in her slovenly gaiters at the window of the old farmhouse sitting-room; and of her own Aunt Evelina, proud and fastidious to the end of her days as Uncle Henry himself.

"It's a long time gone, daughter. But your Aunt Evelina didn't run off. Not even when the old folks died, nor when your father and mother died. She reared you and took pride in the upkeep of this place, and helped run town doings, and earned her living. . . . And when she came to die she said to me, 'Henry, it's been a good life. I've liked living, nearly straight through.' He paused a moment, and added huskily: "And you're a Mannersfield too. You'll say that, daughter."

Eve found herself, suddenly, crying for that old love story as she had not cried for her own. The old man had said it to her to help, to show her that she, too, could find life good, could find living near the man she loved, because of courage for work, and responsibility and little pleasures. She reached blindly for Uncle Henry's hand long ago hand.

"I will, Uncle Henry."

She stood up to go inside. Judge would be getting back soon now, with a hungry boy's appetite. A man's step sounded at the corner of the house, and she stiffened. . . . No, not George. She would not have to greet George with pleasant indifference again today.

"Well, son, what you doing so far from home this near supper?" Uncle Henry was saying, as shambling Lance Seymour came up to them, gnawing a big yellow apple. It was windy, but Lance had no sweater over his ragged blue shirt, and a bare knobby knee showed through his overalls.

"Not far from home," Lance mumbled sullenly.

"Hungry, boy? Guess we could find a sandwich and a glass of milk, eh, Eve?"

"Don't want any. Had a lot of apples, good Seymour apples. And I roasted some taters."

"Look here, Lance, you mustn't do like that. That's stealing. Your dad sold the house to George Cleveland, and that makes the potatoes his. You don't want to be put in the lockup again, do you?"

Lancelot's half-open foolish mouth snapped shut, over his blackened teeth. His lantern-jawed face changed from its usual blank expression to one of vicious fury.

"That's the Seymour house," he opened his mouth again to say. "It was built by Lancelot Seymour, and I'm Lancelot Seymour, and them Clevelands ain't no right there. They done a lot of things to it they ain't no right to do. Swellin' round there, and that Mattie Webb warnin' me off for diggin' up pinies to put on Granther Seymour's gravel Pinies a man named Evans or something sent him from England hundreds of years back! They got to get out! I'm goin' to make 'em get out!"

His whole gaunt body shook with weak hysterical anger.

"Well, son, now, I wouldn't do that. You go home now and talk it over with your dad. He'll tell you how he sold it to the Clevelands, lock, stock and barrel, and it isn't yours any more."

"Dad isn't home. Down to the cabin in Westport."

But Lance, suddenly terrified at his own anger, shambled quickly away.

Eve lingered on the steps. "You don't think he'll really do anything, do you?"

"Gosh, no, child! What could he do? He's just talking the way half-wits always do talk. Run in now, the wind's rising."

Judge Brings Some Trout

HE went slowly in. Judge, clattering in from the front door, where he had been dropped by his friends, laden with bags and tin cans and a string of fish, wild with excitement at finding someone to whom he could relate the story of his exciting week, met her in the kitchen. "And I learned how to fix apples to bake, lemme show you!"

It was peaceful and quiet there in the old bright kitchen. Judge, brown and strong and bright-eyed, still smelling rather fishy, chattered on and on about the real trout, all cleaned, they would fry for breakfast, his prowess in jumping, his longing to go to a real boy's camp. Uncle Henry, raking outside, whistled on at his invariable work-tune:

Plaisir d'amour, we dure qu'un moment . . . Chagrin d'amour dure toute la vie!

Some French emigré must have brought it to Connecticut long ago; Uncle Henry whistled it because his father had done so before him. Eve had heard it sung at concerts in New York. A stiff little bright tinkling tune; he whistled it over and over, and Eve hummed the words.

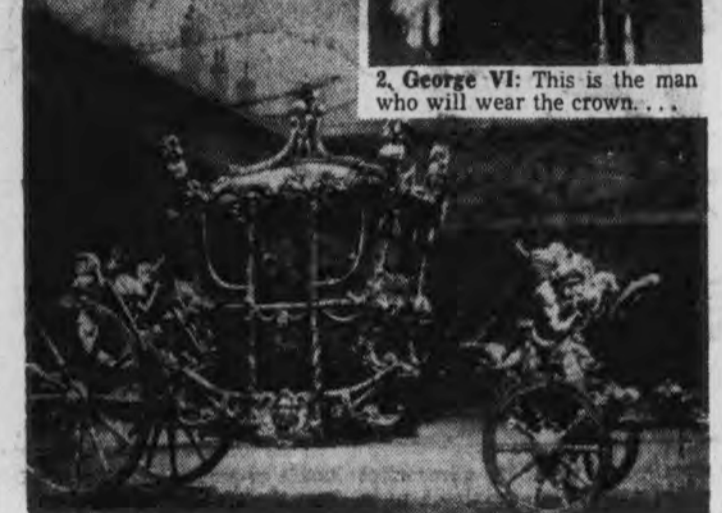

And all in a moment, in the warm kind old kitchen, while the contented child chattered and the old man whistled cheerfully outside, Eve was suddenly, horribly frightened; frightened because George Cleveland had been threatened by a helpless half-starved hawk. She knew it was crazy. George, strong, wise, capable—it was nonsense. . . . Except that when you love anybody, the way she did George, it seems that your heart stands always on guard, anguished, watchful, afraid. . . . They had been so long together; he had been Ellen's so short a while, that as she stood at the table, her clever hands pouring hot milk on fluffy flour, stirring, adding with mechanical perfection, her heart forgot; she slipped into a day-dream about him.

If she were doing this for George. . . . George with his normal fondness for good food, long evenings by firelight, long walks; all the home things that were so dear shared! She was deep in a daydream of the sort girls in love have; a silly, loving picture of George, coming in fresh with the autumn wind, kissing her and laughing and telling her to hurry up, he was hungry; George leaning across the dinner table, praising the little, dough-brown rolls, her singing at the Grange the night before, proud of a wife who did so many things so well.

Spirit And Posture

"Buck up," says the average person to his good friend, bent by worry or discouragement. And to emphasize his counsel, he'll slap him on the back.

Thus, Mr. Average Man reveals a full appreciation of the relation of spirits to posture. Low spirits mean physical dejection, bad posture; good spirits, the reverse. But also, as spirit affects posture, so posture can have its effect on the spirit.

William James believed, and many share his conviction that "erect posture keeps up the spirits and tends to banish fear, despondency and depressing thoughts; that bodily pictures definitely influence the emotions."

Indeed, James together with Lange formulated the psychologic "law" named after them, the substance of which is that our bodily behavior determines our emotions rather than the reverse, as is commonly believed.

Accordingly, then, we are sorry because we cry, and are afraid because we run. Slouch, and we are dejected in spirit; buck up, and the spirits mount.

This thesis must, however, not be pressed too far. The point to be made pertains especially to children among whom bad posture is widespread. And the point is that bad posture may be due to some emotional disaffection to which the child is subject. Such a child then may not be persuaded or trained to improve its posture promptly and thoroughly by the ordinary means of rest and corrective exercise.

Such a child needs also good mental hygiene. The point is significant for this reason. If we neglect the emotional phase of bad posture, and stress the physical aspects, far from helping the child, we may intensify its suffering. A common cause of bad posture is fatigue. Fatigue in turn is influenced by the individual's emotional state. A child troubled by fears and worries, a child nagged about its round shoulders and slouching posture, a child disapproved of, just doesn't feel like "standing up." Encourage it, dissipate its fears, approve of it, and good posture, if not assumed promptly, becomes an interesting and desirable objective.

FACTS ABOUT THE NEW DEAL

In an editorial in this week's State Magazine, Carl Goerch issues a timely warning against letting outside issues, being tacked to the original New Deal policies, lead this country into severe trouble.

The State says:

Probably never before in the history of our country have there been so many changes recommended in connection with the political, industrial and social welfare of the nation as is now the case.

Broadly speaking, all of these changes may be classified as coming under the heading of the "New Deal."

Fundamentally, many of the provisions contained in the New Deal are sound. If carried out according to the recommendations of the President, they unquestionably would react to the best interests of everyone concerned.

The trouble with the whole proposition is that after the President had outlined some of his policies, other interests proceeded to tack on a number of provisions of a radical nature which, according to present prospects, tend to do more harm than good.

It is almost as though the President had put together a large snow-ball on top of a hill and had started rolling it down the grade. As it moved along, the ball continued to accumulate additional snow and to become so large as to make it actually dangerous.

The President sought to improve economic conditions and his plan in many respects was wise. But others proceeded to attach themselves to his plan and they, in turn, made recommendations which were not at all wise. As a result, there is a feeling of unrest which appears to be spreading rapidly.

We are having labor troubles on an almost unprecedented scale. A feeling of class prejudice has been engendered and developed. We are liable to have disputes over racial issues. All these matters were far from the thoughts of the President when he and his advisers first engineered the policies of the New Deal. As we said above, the "snow-ball" which they started has been added to by outside influences, largely of a selfish nature, until today it has grown all out of proportions. What the outcome will be is an uncertainty until after the ball shall have stopped rolling.

Chapel Hill, April 9.—Carolina's varsity baseball team will conclude a three day invasion of Virginia tomorrow afternoon (Saturday) vs. V. M. I. at Lexington, Va. The Tar Heels met V. P. I. Thursday and Washington and Lee Friday.

Before returning to Chapel Hill Tuesday Coach Bunn Hearn's charges will stop over at Davidson Monday afternoon for an engagement with the Wildcats. This contest will be Carolina's first in Big Five competition this season.

The Tar Heels will oppose Wake Forest's Big Five champions in the Deacon ball next Wednesday afternoon.

NEW ENGINES SPEED UP NAVY SHIPS

Washington, (AP)—Newly developed Diesel engines are expected by naval officials to enable supply and auxiliary ships to keep up with the speedy dreadnaughts now under construction.

The engines, under construction for the past year, will be ready for tests by June 1.

Many officers also emphasize the importance of Diesel engines in speeding up the merchant marine, a valuable ally in war time.

Cox Declares Fellowship Prevails In Pitt County

Greenville Kiwanians Hold Meeting In Winterville

A spirit of fellowship prevailed in the Winterville school gymnasium last night when the Greenville Kiwanians held its regular bi-weekly meeting with prominent Winterville residents present as guests.

Roy T. Cox, feature speaker of the evening, probably sounded the sentiment of all present when he declared that the women of the Philaeba class of the Baptist church had prepared such an enjoyable meal no one cared much whether the speaker had anything to say or not.

Mr. Cox spoke of the friendly relations existing between the two towns and said that one of his objectives since he had been on the Board of County Commissioners was to bring the residents of the various sections closer together and eliminate all petty jealousies.

He admitted, however, he had to do a little bragging on his own community. He reminded that Winterville furnished Clerk of Court J. P. Harrington, County School Superintendent, John Carroll and kept Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst for two years before turning him over to the county for public office. He mentioned only those present at the meeting.

Continuing his brief talk along a good-natured vein, he declared "we took Claude Ward when no one else would have him and now it seems that every school in the state is trying to take him away from us." He also mentioned the community's banker, J. L. Rollins, relating how his bank stood like a rock while others were falling in the throes of the depression.

Mr. Cox said that the first time he knew he was to make the feature talk of the evening was when he read it in the newspaper, but his remarks were in keeping with the spirit of the meeting—fellowship—and were roundly applauded at the conclusion.

He did turn to the serious side, however, in saying that there existed in this county a spirit of cooperation not to be found any where else in the state. "Our civic clubs, the Kiwanis and Rotary and others, are responsible for this situation," he added. "I would not trade the fellowship that I enjoy in our county for all the paved streets and tall buildings to be found in the largest cities," he said.

Miss Sara Brown Braxton, Winterville music teacher, had charge of the musical part of the program and presented Misses Gay and Mammie McLawhorn, sisters, and Daphne and Patsy McLawhorn, sisters, in several tap dance numbers. All of the girls are cousins. Hinton and Mitchell Avery, brothers, rendered several numbers on guitars, one of which was electric.

George Reiner, of the Colonial Oil company here, was taken into the club as a new member. He was welcomed by Dink James.

President Berry Bostic and Vice President D. H. Conley were chosen as delegates to the 21st annual international convention to be held in Indianapolis June 20-24. Rev. W. A. Ryan and H. H. Duncan were chosen as alternates.

The Greenville Kiwanians were welcomed by John Carroll and Guy Smith responded. Claude Ward introduced Judge Harrington, who presented Mr. Cox.

Despite the fact that the day of the meeting was changed from Friday to Thursday and a number of Kiwanians had previous engagements, a large crowd was in attendance.

Just before the meeting was adjourned, the women responsible for the dinner were asked to come into the dining room and were given a rising vote of thanks for a hearty meal.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE TO PROTECT DUCK HAWK

Washington, (AP)—The peregrine falcon, described by wildlife specialists as "the most spectacular representative of American wildlife," is threatened with an extinction akin to that of the dodo bird.

So the National Park service is planning to prevent its disappearance from the American scene. The service will preserve breeding and feeding ranges in national parks and in recreational areas.

The falcons, also known as duck hawks, are said to have flying speeds up to 70 miles an hour. Their territory includes most of the United States except the South and the lower section of the Middle Atlantic states.

CARDUI

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—One of the misconceptions commonly accepted in the big town is that successful authors are always being lionized. True it is that successful writers are the recipients of tons of invitations to luncheons of a uniformly dull nature, commonly known as "teas," but seldom is such an invitation accepted unless the writer is first lassoed and dragged protesting all the way.

There is, of course, an item of commercialism to these functions, and where it is possible the publishers like to have their young sensations' hands on autograph books and make themselves agreeable to the ladies.

Newcomers, those neophytes who have a "first" book on the stands, are usually the lambs led to slaughter. In the first place, they don't know any better, and in the second place, they never feel any one there except personal guests of the publishers and a few book reviewers. Of course, there are always dozens of party crashers, who economize on groceries by partaking of the cookies and punch served up by the host, but these people are nobodies and can do the writer no possible good.

When a man has written a couple of pretty good tomes and appears to have something on the ball, his publishers occasionally chloroform him and haul him off to some important book store. He comes to, without realizing where he is, autographing copies of his book that are sold on the floor and making pleasant remarks to stupid people who get a kick out of speaking to authors and having books in which the writers have scribbled such remarks as, "Yours Very Truly," or, more often, simply their names.

There was such an affair recently at an astonishingly expensive Sutton Place menage. One of those celebrity-chasing matrons had invited a fantastically odd assembly of guests.

Brooding in a corner was a young novelist whose second book had suddenly leaped into the limelight. But to me he seemed the epitome of despair.

"This is ghastly," he confided, looking about with the harried expression of one who wishes to escape but knows that, for him, all escape is shut off.

"My publisher is here and he has been a great friend to me at a time when I needed him. I can't walk out on him. But, I'll tell you frankly, before I'd agree to mingle with these people again I'd snub writing, and go to work in a chain gang."

Guthrie McClintock has finally decided to produce "Blind Man's Bluff." This play has been knocking at managers' doors for the last three years.

Tom Watkins, retired Government Gauger, who spent over 40 years supervising American distilleries, says:

"Nowhere did I find more rigid standards of scientific accuracy than at Glenmore"

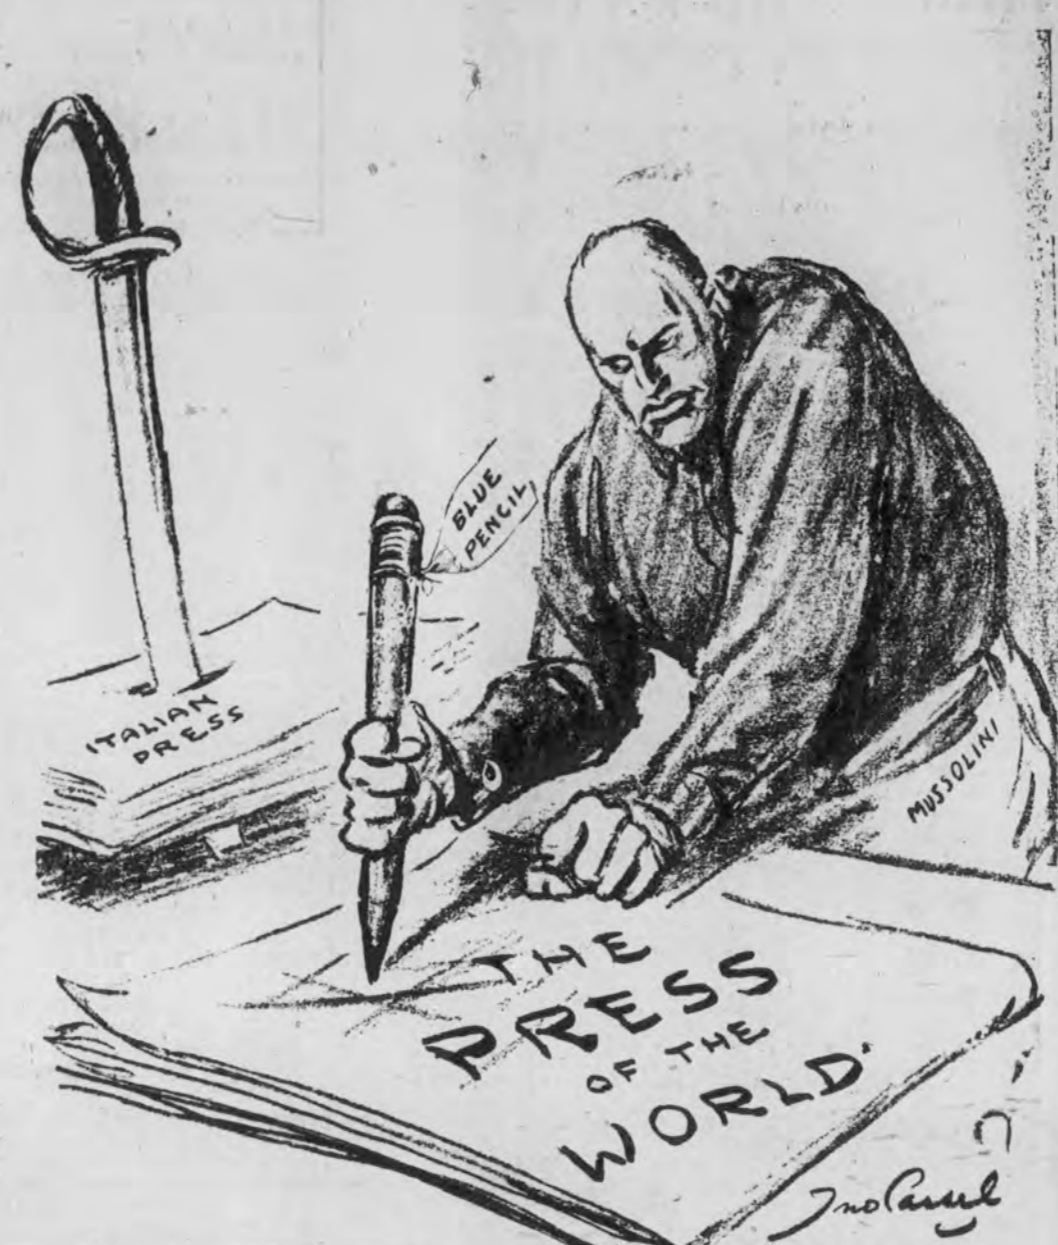

"I've been assigned to a good many distilleries at one time or another. What I remember best is Glenmore. I like their way of making their popular priced Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey—Mint Springs. They use the same grains, same processes, same experienced men—as in making their most costly whiskeys."

Tom Watkins' judgment is sound—Glenmore was one of only seven distilleries permitted by the Government to make medicinal whiskey throughout Prohibition.

THE SUPER-EDITOR!

Washington Daybook

By Preston Croover

Washington—Once more it has become Joseph P. Kennedy's lot to act as contact man between purity in government and the corrupt outside world.

Ever since 1929 when the rough sliding took the pants off many persons, including members of congress, there has been in certain congressional circles an abiding distrust of business men, both individually and in the mass.

These congressional minds were deeply pained when they discovered that the ocean-mail subsidy had not built as many merchant vessels as they looked for and instead had gone in part at least into comforting profits. They were zealous to see that no such thing should happen again.

So they wrote into the new direct ship subsidy act a provision that no person who had been connected with the marine business within three years should be permitted to sit on the maritime commission, whose job was to deal out the subsidy.

Who should President Roosevelt nominate as the first permanent chairman of the commission but Kennedy.

Now Kennedy is one of that limited number of government officials who can honestly say they are losing money every day they stay in office. Kennedy can prove it. His recognizing and managerial ability are sufficiently in demand that in the brief few months after his retirement from the Securities and Exchange Commission he made more money than his government salary would have amounted to in several years.

Kennedy has always been looked upon as sort of special in the New Deal set up. He came not from Columbia or sequestered Harvard, but from the sordidness of Wall street to administer the securities act.

Suggests Way to Better Quality of Flue-Cured Tobacco

Durham, April 9.—Tobacco experiments at Duke University show that over-limed soils may produce a heavy but that the plants lack quality and, hence, dependability.

"Extensive chemical investigations carried on in our laboratories over a period of ten years," declared Dr. Paul Gross, head of the Chemistry Department, "have shown that it is possible to evaluate quality in flue cured tobacco from the standpoint of chemical constituents in the cured leaf."

Dr. Gross and many of his associates will attend the 93rd meeting of the American Chemical Society to be held at the University of North Carolina April 12-15.

Determination of the chemical make-up of various types and grades of tobacco would, therefore, it seems, enable more successful experiments in combating diseases of tobacco, some of which have long puzzled research workers in colleges and agricultural departments in North Carolina and other tobacco producing states.

"The possession of such a yardstick for determining quality makes it possible to evaluate new disease resisting varieties."

Here is where chemistry has come to the aid of the tobacco farmer in a big way.

As breeding experiments require years for their completion, Dr. Gross pointed out, it is of great importance to be able to evaluate the quality of the new type being produced in the early stages of the program and to avoid the waste and lost effort that may result from the production of a resistant variety which, while it may prove able to withstand disease, may be poor in quality and, so, of little use to the farmer.

"Such a knowledge of the chemical factors involved in growing and curing tobacco has been of great value in connection with the other problems," Dr. Gross said.

"The practice of indiscriminately adding lime to many soils in this region has been shown to be injurious in many cases. While the yield from such limed soils is better, the tobacco produced have not the quality of those grown on soils that have not been so over-limed."

"The tobaccos from the heavily-limed soils have a flashy yellow appearance which is, however, superficially deceptive, as these do not age well and result in tobacco of poor quality."

Chemical analysis reveals that the constituents which are necessary for the development of good quality are not present in the proper proportions, he said.

Home Nursing

Women have always been the nurses of the world, and so long as the human body is susceptible to disease and injury there will be work for nurses. And it is not only the trained nurse who is called upon for this kind of service. Practically every woman at some time in her life is faced with the problem of tending the sick.

Time was when mothers handed the care of the sick-room down to their daughters. But when the professional nurse arose, cliner and hospital's multiplied and doctors became available for most of the world, the necessity for such instruction lessened. Moreover, modern home school of medicine and nursing became out-dated. The young generation laughed at "old wives' cur's" and, in its eagerness for the most modern theories, threw veridical that it might have learned from the school of experience.

If girls will not or cannot learn from their mothers, some other means of teaching the rudiments of nursing and caring for the sick should be found. The first aid which the Scouts teach is not enough, nor does it reach a large enough number of people.

It is not always possible to put the sick person in a hospital. There often come times when nurses are not available, and most family budgets do not stretch to such a luxury.

Sewing and cooking are still taught at school, and so is hygiene. Nursing requires a more elaborate equipment, but some means should be found for including so essential a course in every girl's training. Even if she never marries or has a family to rear, she will find the ability to be of use in the sick-room or at the scene of an accident an invaluable asset.

Tadlock Mutual Firm Moves Headquarters

Formal announcement was made today of the removal of Tadlock Mutual Insurance agency from its old stand to the new quarters at 226 Evans street, the same building occupied by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The insurance firm represents several mutual companies. Its officers are A. C. Tadlock, Mr. P. Fox and Jake Hadley.

The public is invited to call by and inspect the new headquarters.

Cleaning, Pressing Plant to Open Here

M. A. Gaskins, experienced in the cleaning and pressing business, will open the Hollywood cleaners here Monday morning at 910 Dickinson avenue.

Mr. Gaskins comes here from Enfield, he operated a cleaning and pressing establishment, but he formerly conducted a business in Raleigh.

He is installing a modern up-to-date plant. In addition to doing cleaning pressing work he is prepared to mend rips and do other repair work.

Helps For Housewives

Beet greens afford variety in spring vegetable serving. Select greens to which beets about one inch in diameter are attached. Wash well. Cook both beets and greens for about 20 minutes — or until the beets are tender when tested with a fork. Drain and serve with butter and seasonings.

To remove chocolate or cocoa stains, cover the stained area with cold water. Then sprinkle a thin layer of powder borax over the stain. After about 10 minutes, rinse well in boiling water. Keep a tray or table near the mechanical refrigerator. Doing so cuts down the time necessary for transferring foods to and from its shelves.

Diced cooked parsnips covered with a thick creamy sauce make a practical and somewhat different dish for spring and summer serving.

A teaspoon of salt added to each quart of water used in cleaning spinach, watercress and other small-leaved greens will help to draw out small insects which may be in them.

Always keep a pair of scissors in the kitchen. They may be put to a variety of uses including: cutting string and paper, shredding lettuce and other salad greens, mincing parsley and other seasonings, cutting nuts, citron and various cake and cookie ingredients, trimming off edges of meat, cutting and raisins, cutting waxed papers into to fit cake and bread pans and trimming off the surplus fat from chops, roasts and steaks either before or after cooking.

SEES SMALLER CROP OF YAMS

Better Prices Expected to Be Realized, However

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 9.—North Carolina growers will reduce their 1937 sweet potato crop four per cent, although a substantial increase in price is expected for the new crop. C. W. Sheffield, associate marketing specialist of the State Department of Agriculture, announced today.

The intentions - to plant report indicates that 81,000 acres will be planted to sweet potatoes this year, or 3,000 acres less than in 1936 "despite the increased price received for the current crop," he said.

"In view that a two percent reduction in sweet potato acreage is reported for the nation as a whole, North Carolina farmers can expect a 1937 price in keeping with prices now being paid for the 1936 crop. "Farmers in this state can safely plant a little larger acreage to sweet potatoes without seriously in-

Like a school girl worried by her first love affair, Mrs. Nan Macy Brill, two-week New York heiress, is shown "consulting" a daisy at Los Angeles in efforts to learn whether she's loved by her husband, William Brill, jr., wealthy youth who abandoned her the day after the wedding. Meanwhile, he filed suit for annulment of their marriage. (Associated Press Photo)

DEVELOP PROTECTIVE WAX FOR NAVY PLANES

Washington (AP)—The war secreted by a South American palm tree to keep its moisture in is used on navy airplanes to keep moisture out.

Tests made at the National Bureau of Standards for the navy's bureau of aeronautics show that an extremely thin film of carnauba wax spread over a coat of paint on an airplane will prevent almost entirely the penetration of water through the paint to the fabric or metal.

The wax is obtained from the Brazilian palm tree. It serves as a coating on the leaves and fruit to cut down moisture losses.

GAME REFUGE WORK STARTED

Resettlement Administration Project Attracts Attention

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 9.—The widespread attention of sportsmen and conservationists is being attracted to the large-scale development of the Resettlement Administration for the preservation and propagation of native wildlife in Bladen county, which is now nearing completion, according to a report from the Regional Resettlement Office.

The preserve, said to be one of the best planned and executed projects of its type in North Carolina, includes four sanctuaries and covers about 7,000 acres of the 30,000-acre Jones and Saiters Lake land project. The four sanctuaries are on the north side of the Cape Fear river. In these game reserves there is an abundance of native game animals and birds, such as quail, turkey, deer, bear, squirrels, coon, opossum and other birds and animals. Due to the large variety and quantity of the native wild game there will be no importation of foreign game into the sanctuary.

If birds and animals are to live and propagate normally they must have an abundance of food. In order to meet this demand of the game through the lean months, approximately 100 food and cover plots have been planted and more are to be planted soon. These plots are planted in vetch, beggarweed, oats, lespedeza, chufas, benna, soy beans and cow peas, with dogwood and mimosa adjacent to each plot. These sanctuaries are being fenced, not for the purpose of keeping the game in, but for the purpose of keeping the trespassers off. The animals will soon realize that when they are in the sanctuary they are safer than when out. By having the area thoroughly patrolled as it now is, the game will seek the safety of the area inside of the fences during mating season and when in danger.

SCHOLARSHIP HOLDERS CAN COMPETE

Lawrence, Kas. (AP)—Bobbie Allen, son of Basketball Coach Forrest C. Allen of the University of Kansas, was one of a number of notable high school basketball players to take examinations for Summerfield scholarships at the university.

The question was raised whether the scholars could participate in athletics. The answer was "yes," for Big Six rules only declare ineligible "those who receive any scholarship, grant, etc., because of athletic ability." The Summerfield scholarships are based entirely upon the competitive examinations; the amount of stipend depends entirely upon the students' needs. Scholarships have been awarded carrying no stipends at all.

TVA reports that 258,106 persons have visited the war-time Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala. since it took the dam over more than three years ago.

Fewer large cigars were taxed in 1936 than in the previous year. The government reported 46,335,755 taxed, compared with 60,033,659 in 1935.

Grimes Predicts Giants' Downfall

Clearwater, Fla., April 9.—(AP)—Burling Grimes, new manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers who are the New York Giants' "best hated" rivals, concurs with the training camp majority in doubting the Giants can repeat as National League champions.

"Without Bill Terry in there at first, the Giants will lose a lot of hitting power," opines Grimes. "They'll be needing Bill."

"Third base is doubtful, too, with Lou Chiozza taking Travis Jackson's place. I don't believe Johnny McCarthy can do as well as Terry at first base, but they McCarthy is a great fielder."

"And Carl Hubbell isn't likely to have the big year that he had last season when he won 26 and lost 6."

Sport Slants

By PAP

It's difficult to take the Brooklyn ball club seriously even though Business Manager John Gorman insists the Dodgers are at least 20 per cent better than last year and Manager Burling Grimes thinks they'll win five more games than the seventh-placers did in 1936.

But to the analysts of baseball, there is considerable individual merit strung out along the Brooklyn front.

It is doubtful that there is a more effective pitcher in baseball than Van Lingle Mungo, the ex-bad boy who is certain top profit (or else!) by the experience and disciplinary measures Grimes is passing out. The rumor is that Brooklyn wouldn't swap Mungo for the Cardinals' Dizzy Dean—even Stephen. If I owned Mungo, I wouldn't give him up for the greater Dean either, because of Van Lingle's comparative youth and his all around ability.

Receiving the highest Brooklyn salary—$15,000—since the Dodger's paid Vance $16,500 toward the end of the Dazler's career, Mungo is a satisfied young man who promises to win 23 games this season. He won 18 last year and figures the "amateurs" around the keystone bag cost him at least five games.

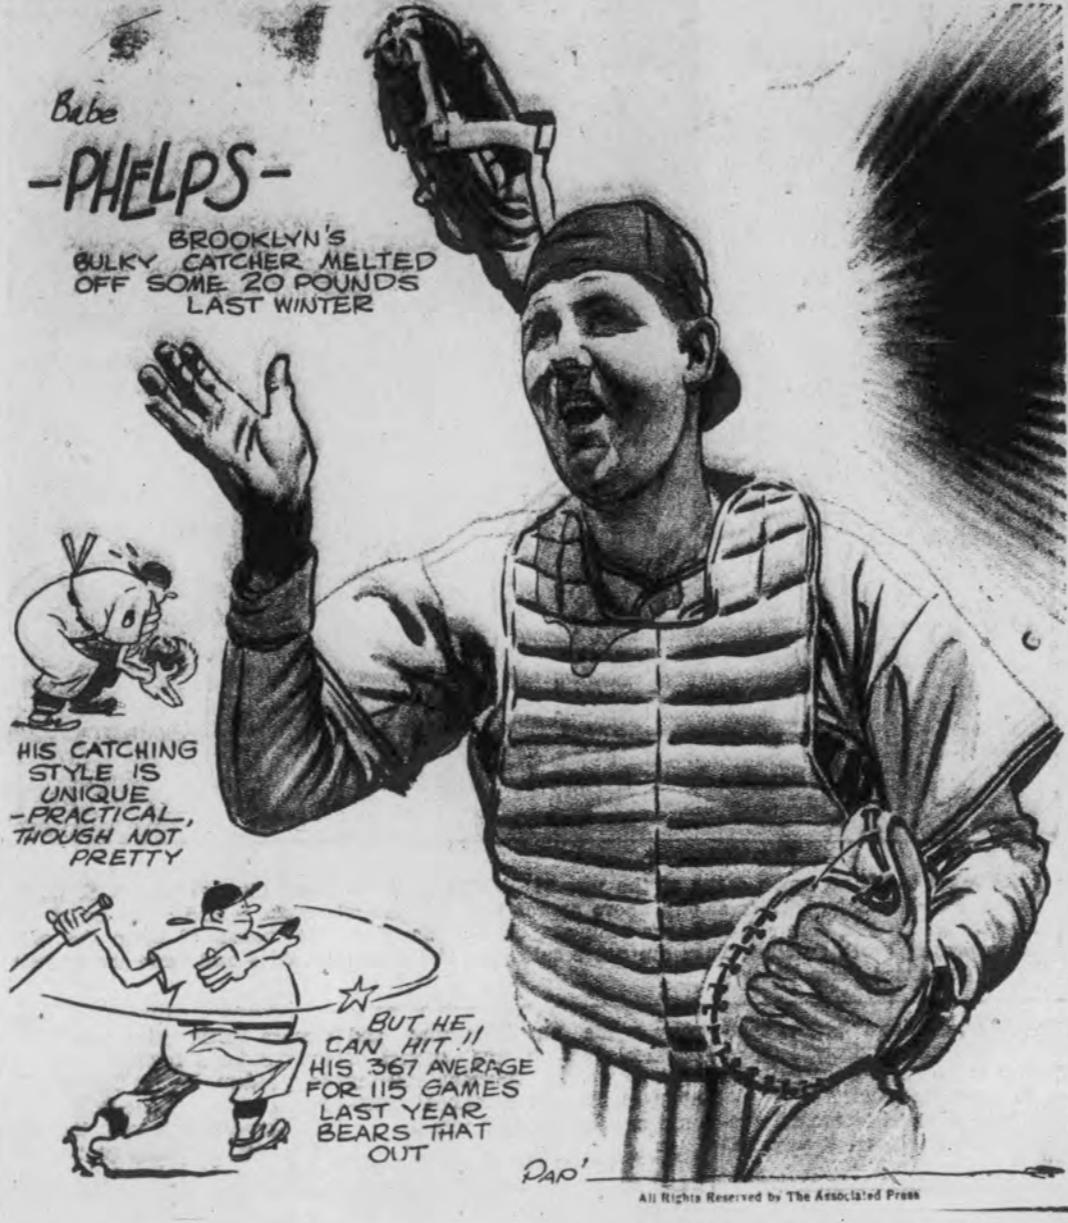

The Brooklyn's have one of those rare, overstuffing clouting catchers—Ernest Gordon (Babe) Phelps who pounded the apple to the tune of 367 in 115 games last season. Grimes is downright enthusiastic over the Babe's backstopping, which has improved with advice from Burling.

Phelps reported to the Brooks Clearwater, Fla., training camp with 20 pounds melted off his huge frame, scaling in at 216. Naturally with all this heft, the Babe has a distinctly individual style of backstopping, but he doesn't mop up as much dust as does Cincinnati's Ernie Lombardi, for instance.

The Brooklyn's have Eddie Wilson back in shape, showing no ill effects suffered from the skull fracture he suffered when struck by Pitcher Mace Brown in Pittsburgh last August. Wilson, called in from Allentown last mid-season, was a sensation at bat in the National League until Brown laid him low. Eddie batted at a .304 clip in 54 games for Allentown and .347 in 52 games for Brooklyn against National league pitching.

Wilson is either extremely hard-shelled or he is one of the gamest guys in baseball. Two years ago in the N. Y. Penn League he was kayoed at the plate by Joe Shoffner. Next time Wilson faced Shoffner he got a triple. That's Burling Grimes' kind of ball-players.

HERE IS HOW TO GET HURT IN YOUR BATH

DENVER (AP)—Firmly convinced that the bathtub is one of man's most treacherous enemies, a group of Denver doctors is taking steps to inform the public of the dangers of bathing. "That's what I always tell ma," says little Johnny. However, if you still insist on getting hurt in your bath here are three easy ways to do it:

- 1. Put your towel out of reach... 2. Grasp the slippery side of the tub in getting out... 3. Be sure there's soap under your foot as you step out.
